From Gulf Oil

Dole accused of accepting funds

by Barbara Breitenstein
Senior Staff Reporter

Senator Robert Dole, Republican vice-presidential candidate, is reported to have accepted an illegal corporate contribution in 1973, according to a story in the New York Times dated Sept. 5. The acceptance, according to the report, was for the Gulf Oil Corporation while testifying before a Federal grand jury.

According to the report, Claude Wild, Jr., Gulf's former chief lobbyist, testified under a grant of immunity before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last January that he passed $5,000 to $6,000 in illegal corporate funds for Dole's 1973 Senate campaign. According to the report, Dole and the senator's staff have refuted the charges.

Dole acknowledged that he had testified before a Federal grand jury on the charge March 8, but that he had volunteered to do so. "They were concerned about whether I had received any money from Gulf Oil, and the answer was no," Dole said.

President Ford "was aware of the allegations concerning possible illegal contributions from Gulf to Senator Dole." before Dole was chosen as his running mate, a White House spokesman said. According to the Times, "White House aides reviewed that report and found it." The White House aides were satisfied that Senator Dole had no knowledge of any such contribution. "Indeed they did exist," he stated.

Ford takes on Carter, South

While running mate Dole denied accepting funds from Gulf Oil, White House aides were said to have added $100 million to federal spending. The statement was made in an interview with U.S. News and World Report and was reported by the Associated Press on Sept. 4.

In the interview, Ford said that he had offered "no advice to Senator Carter," and that Carter is "he wants more; I want less." Ford gave no figures on how much money he used, but offered as an example that some of the money was in a consumer protection agency, which

by John Moran
Staff Reporter

Aiming at greater awareness and concern throughout the Notre Dame and St. Mary's communities for the hunger and the poor of the world will be one of the objectives of the Notre Dame World Hunger Coalition.

Co-ordinated this fall by Mike McErlain, head of the Daily Lechse, the Coalition will continue its fund-raising activities, most notably the Blanket and Daily Colitricia outside the dining halls. Held Included again among the organization's recipients are the Catholic Relief Services, CARE, Church World Services and UNICEF. Coalition recipients are chosen on the basis of how efficiently their funds are utilized.

By making himself one of the most well-known persons about the campus, Sondej was able to create a nationwide awareness of world hunger situations.

The World Hunger Coalition began in November of 1974. Since then it has conducted extensive hunger awareness drives. The coalition has supplied films, lecture programs, and literature to schools, parishes, and organizations throughout the South Bend area. It also sponsored Food Day activities last April and a letter drive in support of "Right to Food" legislation.

This year's activities, according to co-coordinator Mike Sondej, will begin with the Wednesday evening fast for the hungry. Meal the University will contribute 75 cents to the coalition. Last year some 13,000 meals were offered by Notre Dame students, and through their efforts $4,900 was raised for the world's hungry. Pledge forms for the fast will be available in various locations across the campus.

Fencing coach Michael De Cicco was among several coaches who spoke last night at St. Mary's sports night. The evening included a short presentation by the coaches of the varsity "On the road that will be initiated this year.

Free garbage removal cancelled by dining hall

By Karen Blanks

Student dining hall employees returned this semester to find an old friend missing. After ten years, George Brown, a Michigan pig farmer, no longer makes his daily visit to the dining halls.

At no cost to the University, Brown relieved the dining halls of non-consumable food to feed his pigs. The refusals was mixed with.custom and fed to the hogs.

The University is now in a position where the garbage must be picked up by a professional trash removal service and then disposed of. Many dining hall employees see the removal of Brown's services as a mistake.

"George was saving the University money," commented one dining hall employee. "George's method of disposal is both ecological and economical because the waste is recycled through the animals," he added.

"We miss the daily pick-ups," said another employee on the job. "The garbage disposals are broken, but they don't seem to be able to handle it all and the University is now paying a trash removal service."

Edmund Price, director of food services informed Brown he could no longer make his daily visits to the campus due to "people problems" in the best interest of the University.

"It is a matter of professionalism," said Price.

Brown has refused to let sunset pick up dining hall garbage in the past. He said, "I stopped him due to "people problems' in the best interest of the University. It is a matter of professionalism." Price commented.

Garbage hall employees find the situation ironic. The food service is concerned with waste. They encourage students to "Take what you can eat and eat what you take."

Referees, books highlight Student Union activities

by John Simari
Staff Reporter

The refrigerator rentals and the student book exchange highlighted Student Union Services Commission's work this semester.

For the first time, the commission bought their own refrigerators to rent to students according to Service Commissioner, Genny Burke, the response was overwhelming and all 300 units were soon leased. Students stated that they hope to have more refrigerators to handle the increased response next year. Anyone with problems concerning a rented refrigerator should contact the Student Union.

The Services Commission also sponsored the student book exchange. According to Burke, the response was "getting bigger every year." A student who has received money to pick up may do so at the Student Union Service Center. Burke said the studentbook exchange has been a success and the commission hopes to have more refrigerators to handle the increased response next year. Anyone with problems concerning a rented refrigerator should contact the Student Union.

Bomb explosion calls for FBI investigation

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) - The FBI has entered the investigation of a predawn bombing at a high school here. Despite the bombing and sporadic nighttime disruptions by antibusing protesters, school officials said classes would resume on schedule Tuesday morning.

The bomb that went off early Monday morning at Male High School in downtown Louisville had been placed beside a radiator in the lobby of a gymnasium, police said.

The bomb blew the radiator from the wall and blasted a hole about 2 feet in diameter in the floor. However, a police bomb squad officer said it did no structural damage to the building.

The bomb went off about 10 miles from the area in southwest Jefferson County where police used tear gas Sunday night to disperse about 800 antibusing demonstrators who threw bottles and light bulbs at police. Eighteen persons were arrested.

It was the third night of unruly protests since the opening of schools in Louisville and surrounding Jefferson County. The unified county-city school district is operating for the second year under a federal-court ordered desegregation plan.

But the protests have all been in the evening, well after school hours. Classes have been conducted without disruption since opening day and the school buses have moved through the streets without interference.

The bomb squad officer said he had talked to district school officials who said classes would be held on schedule Tuesday after the Labor Day holiday.

FBI officials and bomb squad members on Monday swept up broken glass and other debris around Male High School and sent it to an FBI laboratory in Washington.

"They will check for various chemicals and try to determine what type of fusion was used," the officer said. "Preliminary evidence is that the explosive tennisrwy appears to have been dynamite."

SMC Law Society expands

by Marty Hogan
St. Mary's Editor

Interest in law has grown enormously in the past few years according to Cindy Raccuglia, president of St. Mary's Law Society. "The Law Society has been here for five years but it's growing now because today women in law are more prevalent than they ever were," she said.

St. Mary's doesn't have a pre-law program per se, so Raccuglia stresses the importance of an organization that can help a student in her decision to pursue a career in law. "St. Mary's Law Society can do just that," she explained.

Some of the aspects the Law Society covers are the women's role as a lawyer in society, pre-law education, law school admission requirements, paralegal professions and choosing a law school. To supply some of this information, the Law Society last year invited noted speakers from the area who are involved in law.

"Most of them were women who have been successful in their legal careers," Raccuglia noted.

"We also had a chance to participate in some legal matters," Raccuglia said, referring to the Law Society's involvement last year with the Equal Rights Amendment. "We went to different meetings and discussions concerning ERA with an ERA committee who later went to the legislators," she explained. "Because of this valuable experience," the Law Society is planning a program on women's equal rights next semester.

The Law Society has many activities planned for this year including visits to court, a speech by a Notre Dame law student and a Specialty Seminar. "For this seminar, we would like to get attorneys, preferably women, in different aspects of the law to hold a panel discussion and a question and answer period," Raccuglia stated.

St. Mary's Career Development Center is aiding the Law Society this year with the development of a law school admission section on law. "There students may get information on LSAT's, law school admission, financial aid and other pertinent information," Raccuglia said.

"Two students from the society will keep the section up to date," Raccuglia said. "Karen O'Neil, St. Mary's Career Development Center head, has been a great help to the society in this task."

They will also be distributing a booklet this semester to students describing the society and what students need to know concerning law. "Deans from various law schools will be here interviewing perspective law students during the course of the year also," Raccuglia stated.

Raccuglia works in conjunction with Dr. Deanna Sokolowski, faculty advisor for the Law Society; Donna Berndt, vice-president; Telena Stokes, secretary; Rosemary Bruckner, treasurer and Mary Pat Butler, publicity chairman.

This year the Law Society plans to hold monthly meetings. An orientation meeting is planned for Sunday, Sept. 12, 6:30 p.m. in room 161 LeMans. "All students interested in law as a career or otherwise are encouraged to come," Raccuglia stressed.

"We're excited about this year because we have many activities planned and we've seen a great show of interest. The benefits from St. Mary's Law Society for students desiring a career in law will be great," she concluded.

Standing in line is what college is all about.

The on-campus student must wait in line three times a day to eat, and sometimes in the dorms just to use the shower or the toilet. The off-campus student shares tickets and so on. Otherwise, the on-campus student must line just to get into the Bookstore was so long that it extended, frustrating lines of college life, making it hard to get books by helping out the bookstore staff. Their charitable effort was well-appreciated, but little could be done to alleviate the problem. Nice try.

Ironically, it seems, are a part of the Catholic mentality. As Catholic university students, we are in line to receive Communion. Prostitutes, in general, remain seated in the pew and are served also. It seems to be part of our Perpetual Parents. At St. Mary's freshmen wait in long lines to try to sign in at their halls.

Not having to stand in line, University or College officials may overlook the ordeal of the individual student. University or College officials should carefully review the purpose of each line, then try to discover ways that student frustration can be minimized. But I doubt if they will be lining up to do so.

WASHINGTON—One of the most important legal decisions of the last 50 years was made in Washington, D.C. last week. U.S. Dist. Judge Charles Richey ruled that employees who continued on submission to the sexual advances of their supervisors may sue their bosses for sex discrimination.

Judge Richey, in his opinion, said that, while the case before him involved a female subordinate employee and male boss, the situation could be reversed—and a finding of discrimination could be made where a female supervisor made sexual advances to the male employees in her office.

However, Judge Richey ruled, sexual discrimination probably could not be raised as an issue if the supervisor was bisexual and made demands on employees of each sex. The reason the ruling has such far-reaching implications is that it sets new guidelines for how bosses can behave during and after office hours all over the country. This is probably how things will go now.

Miss Roseberry, That's a beautiful sweater you're wearing today.

You, Mr. Novak.

Mr. Novak.

Would you mind staying late tonight and helping me with my report, Miss Roseberry?

I'll guess so, Mr. Novak.

You too, Callihan.

That night.

Well, that seems to do it, Miss Roseberry. We got the report finished. What say we go out for a nice dinner?

I don't know, Mr. Novak. I think I'd better go home.

Oh, let's relax. You know I've got my eye on you, and there is a promotion coming up in the department and I think I know someone who might be getting it. Heh, heh, heh.

Well, all right, as long as we make it an early evening. Automotive

You coming, Callihan?

Gee, Mr. Novak, I've got a date.

Well, break it if you want to stay in this job.

Yes, sir.

A small French restaurant.

You know, Miss Roseberry, my wife doesn't understand me. You're the only one who knows the pressure I'm under.

I do, too, Mr. Novak.

When I want your opinion I'll ask for it, Callihan. Just eat your soup and shut up.

Yes, sir.

People think being a supervisor is all power and status. But under this tough exterior, Miss Roseberry, beats the heart of a man with all the same desires and needs for love and affection as anyone else.

If you hold my hand, Mr. Novak, I can't eat my soup.

Sorry about that, Mr. Callihan.

Two hours later.

Well, Miss Roseberry, here we are at your apartment. Can I come in for a drink?

Oh, go to it, late, Mr. Novak.

Remember what I said about your marriage, Miss Roseberry.

All right, but just one drink.

Good night, Mr. Novak.

Get in here, Callihan. You don't leave until I leave.

Well, that seems to do it, Mr. Novak. And I have to review all these applications.

Who isn't tired? You think it's fun having to worry about being sued every time I take someone from the office out for dinner? You can take Miss Roseberry anywhere you want to. But if I take her out I have to take you, too. I don't make that kind of money, Callihan.

I guess it does take the fun out of being a boss, Mr. Novak.

Oh, forget it. Why don't you get into something more comfortable, Mr. Novak? ... You too, Callihan.

Mr. Novak?

Because, dammit, it's the law!

Participants of last spring's Sophomore Limo trip to Notre Dame got a knife in the back when they heard about the commotion of the college students, once they was safely back home after their three-month lecture tour of U.S. campuses. Borges was clearly a big hit at Notre Dame. But this summer he is anaconda. Everyone is commenting on the newsmaker. It is uninteresting or ordinarily ignorant? Yankee students. Said he: "They read only what they must to pass, or what the professors chose. Otherwise they are totally dedicated to television, to bad movies to football.

Kissinger's negotiations with Africa fruitful

by Kenneth J. Freed
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said yesterday his talks with South Africa's foreign minister were very "fruitful," with possible move toward negotiations with black Africa.

The Associated Press reported on the first day of a three-day visit to Zurich, in which the secretary said he "believe progress was made toward negotiations in the area, particularly in the area of black Africa." The AP said Kissinger was "easier talking to leaders of black Africa compared to the leaders of black Africa understand the procedural manner in which the negotiations would take place." He did not elaborate, saying it was inappropriate to comment before his negotiations start with the black Africans.

Three main objectives of the U.S. efforts were identified by the secretary as independence, majority rule while protecting minority rights, and finally economic progress for all elements involved.

Kissinger said these goals are "attainable with patience, goodwill and dedication." The process planned by Kissinger resembles his strategy for the Middle East. A senior U.S. official told newsmen on the flight to London that the secretary will try first to solve the easier problem. Namibia, where fewer parties are involved, and the conflicts are not as violent. Since there is movement in that area, Kissinger hopes that the momentum will carry over to black Africa, a considerably more complex problem.

Kissinger intends to review the situation with key black leaders in black Africa next week. Assuming they reach some understanding, the secretary would then fly to South Africa.

Then he is likely to move back and forth between South Africa and black Africa until some specific agreement is reached.

Talks with Prime Minister

Kissinger's negotiations with Africa fruitful

by Kenneth J. Freed
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said yesterday his talks with South Africa's foreign minister were very "fruitful," with possible move toward negotiations with black Africa.

The secretary, who later flew from Zurich to London for further consultation with British officials, said, "We are moving toward a position where we will be able to point out to the leaders of black Africa the ways by which these weaknesses can be prevented.

He said he did not all details have been worked out but he expected the process to move even faster now. The next step will be a Kissinger trip to black Africa, probably early next week.

First he intends to return to Washington after consultations Monday and Tuesday with British, French and German leaders.

Kissinger said he would send his assessments immediately to the black leaders currently holding a meeting in Dar-es-Salaam, Tanzania.

Kissinger said there was progress in the two main areas of the Vorster talks— Rhodesia and Namibia.

The Namib issue concerns negotiation of the independence of that territory from South Africa. Rhodesia involves the transfer of power from the existing white minority government to the country's six million blacks.

Kissinger said he had not talked with Vorster resulted in progress on the substantive issues as well as the secretary's comments before his negotiations start with the black Africans.

Three main objectives of the U.S. efforts were identified by the secretary as independence, majority rule while protecting minority rights, and finally economic progress for all elements involved.

Kissinger said these goals are "attainable with patience, goodwill and dedication." The process planned by Kissinger resembles his strategy for the Middle East. A senior U.S. official told newsmen on the flight to London that the secretary will try first to solve the easier problem. Namibia, where fewer parties are involved, and the conflicts are not as violent. Since there is movement in that area, Kissinger hopes that the momentum will carry over to black Africa, a considerably more complex problem.

Kissinger intends to review the situation with key black leaders in black Africa next week. Assuming they reach some understanding, the secretary would then fly to South Africa.

Then he is likely to move back and forth between South Africa and black Africa until some specific agreement is reached.
The tri-level facility will house the athletic offices, one basketball court, two tennis courts (which can also be used as volleyball courts), and two racquetball courts. A 120’ addition which will house facilities for men’s and women’s basketball and dancing has been added to the original plans. This multi-purpose area will be located on the first level with the remaining athletic facilities on the second and third levels.

Many new innovations, such as synthetic flooring have been incorporated into the facility. “We have looked at many schools throughout the Midwest trying to find the most suitable flooring,” said Steve Wernig, Assistant to the Dean of Student Affairs. Cheerleaders ready for season

by Chuck Dressman

In addition to an explosive football matchup, this Saturday’s Notre Dame-Pittsburgh game features the debut of one of America’s most highly rated cheerleading squads. This year’s version of the (1976-1977) Fighting Irish squad has been practicing between 15-20 hours a week in preparation for improving last year’s season.

The members of this year’s Irish roosters are: Becky Bracken, Candy O’Connor, Patty Kulik, Chela Nas­hart, Michelle Gilson, Sue Olin, Joya Deese, Hank Carrico, Pat Bergin, Doug Stevens, Jim Ingram, Jim Clouse, Dave Schlafer and Jeffrey VanCorder.

While the cheerleaders may deserve every bit of their national acclaim, senior Becky Bracken, captain of this year’s squad, cautions the crowd not to expect anything overly fancy this Saturday.

“We do plan to introduce new novelty stunts and mounts which are more spontaneous and hopeful­ly will generate greater crowd excitement. But we’ve only been practicing for two weeks,” she added.

“They will be mainly the basics for Pitt.”

There can be no denying that a cheerleader is in a glamarous position at Notre Dame. Bracken was quick, however, to play down this aspect of her job. “I really don’t think about the national expos­ure,” she commented. “If you dwindle down on that too much, you’ll either have a big head or get scared to death. Our only job being down on the field is to get the crowd involved and get interest in the game.”

But she also noted some disadvantages, the foremost of these being the stereotype that most people place on cheerleaders. “It’s very difficult to shake that precon­ceived image that many people have about us,” Bracken stated. “To me, the purpose of cheer­leading is merely to lead the crowd in cheers not to flaunt yourself or to be in the limelight. Ideally I would like to see this image changed, yet realistically, I don’t believe such a radical change could occur in one year.”

In conjunction with cheerleading, an attempt will be made to form a Pep Club this year. For all those interested there will be a meeting at LaFortune this Wednesday evening at 8:00.

Sailing club wins

The sailing club got off to a brisk start this season with a first place finish in the 470 Regatta held in Madison. Wiscon­sin. The first placed crew was Paul Makulski who took first place in the A-division and John Goodall who took second in the B-division. The series of 14 races was held in excellent sailing weather with the wind blowing at various angles. "Our team really did their best in the field of seven."

Icer meeting to be held today

Physically are to be taken on Wednesday, September 8 at 8:00 p.m. in the ACC.

“They will be mainly the basics for Pitt.”

There can be no denying that a cheerleader is in a glamarous position at Notre Dame. Bracken was quick, however, to play down this aspect of her job. “I really don’t think about the national expos­ure,” she commented. “If you dwindle down on that too much, you’ll either have a big head or get scared to death. Our only job being down on the field is to get the crowd involved and get interest in the game.”

But she also noted some disadvantages, the foremost of these being the stereotype that most people place on cheerleaders. “It’s very difficult to shake that precon­ceived image that many people have about us,” Bracken stated. “To me, the purpose of cheer­leading is merely to lead the crowd in cheers not to flaunt yourself or to be in the limelight. Ideally I would like to see this image changed, yet realistically, I don’t believe such a radical change could occur in one year.”

In conjunction with cheerleading, an attempt will be made to form a Pep Club this year. For all those interested there will be a meeting at LaFortune this Wednesday evening at 8:00.

Sailing club wins

The sailing club got off to a brisk start this season with a first place finish in the 470 Regatta held in Madison. Wiscon­sin. The first placed crew was Paul Makulski who took first place in the A-division and John Goodall who took second in the B-division. The series of 14 races was held in excellent sailing weather with the wind blowing at various angles. "Our team really did their best in the field of seven."

Boring Baseball

A casual fan of the national pastime despairing recent baseball season, has a touch of the World Series. This struck another between Jack Patera, “I didn’t think there would be any beating, when the Dallas cowboy; receiver Jack Snow, who gained 6.02 yards in 11 years, was waived by the Los Angeles Rams; the Chicago Bears dropped wide receiver Bob Gattis, the San Diego Chargers picked up linebacker Trini Fitch but then wide receiver Dwight McNair and safety Maurice Tyler. Among the Minnesota Vikings cut was veteran running back Dave Osborn, who had gained more than 4,000 yards in 11 years with the Vertical Manager.” State University. According to

The building is scheduled to be completed by next March.
