WASHINGTON AP - A former Chilean diplomat killed Wednesday when a bomb ripped through their car as they drove past the embassy where he once worked.

Killed by the blast were Orlando Letelier, 44, an ambassador from Chile during the regime of the late Marxist President Salvador Allende, and Doris, his wife in Santiago. Both were in Washington's Embassy Row. Both were in Washington's Embassy Row.

Letelier and the Moffitts worked for two years at the Institute for Research Organization Institute for Studies. Letelier also had been teaching at American University in Washington.

The explosion occurred immediately after a diplomatic conference. One of Letelier's co-workers at the conference was on the Council on Hemispheric Affairs, an organization that advocates suspension of U.S. economic and military aid to Latin American nations that violate human rights.

Richard Barnett, co-director of the institute, said there was "enough evidence" to suspect that Letelier was killed by Chilean intelligence agencies. The council alleged, saying, "It is that secret that a group of agents inspired by the idea of the repression that can be committed by the government of the Valle...

Barnett had been a frequent critic of the military group that now rules Chile. Opponents of that government immediately claimed the killing was political terrorism.

The blast ripped the through the car window and the wall and toilets were broken. Body parts were scattered as far as 50 feet. Parts were scattered as far as 50 feet.

The explosion occurred just as the end of the Chilean Embassy that Letelier commanded for two years. Letelier served as ambassador to Chile from 1971 to 1973. He spent a year in prison in Chile after the revolution.

Letelier came back to the United States after Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and the Treasury Department also came from officials at George Washington University.

‘A noble task’

KINSHASA, Zaire — Henry A. Kissinger, reported trying the word to black African leaders that Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith has accepted the principle of black majority rule, was welcomed here last night as a man with “a noble task.” The secretary of State flew here from Dar es Salaam, where Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere declared himself no longer “glumly” about the prospects—speech Kissinger as saying Smith has accepted the principle of a power transfer to Rhodesia’s black majority within 18 months to two years.

No objections

BOSTON — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., says he has no objection to re-opening the investigation into the assassination of his brother, the late President John F. Kennedy. President Gerald R. Ford, however, said he’s not convinced another probe is needed.

Chicago Archdiocese sued

CHICAGO — The Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Chicago has been allegedly pirating hymns. F.E.L. Publications of Los Angeles filed suit against the church in federal court, charging that John Cardinal Cody, archbishop of Chicago, and five of his churches with copyright infringement, seeking $100,000 in damages.

Appeal on abortion ruling

INDIANAPOLIS — Atty. Gen. Theodore L. Shambaugh of Indiana has been told by the U.S. Supreme Court a federal court ruling that upheld a state law against abortion is unconstitutional. Shambaugh said the part of the law requiring women to be in a hospital or other licensed health care facility should not have been struck down.

SBP Gassman speaks to HPC

WASHINGTON (AP) — With missionary zeal, but without success, Jimmy Carter has been trying to convince antiabortion demonstrators that their views and his are all that different.

Like his critics on the issue, the Democratic presidential nominee is a declared foe of abortion. He promises to do everything he can, short of changing the U.S. Constitution, to minimize the practice.

But the placards and the chants continue because Carter will endorse a constitutional amendment to forbid abortion in the 51 states to do so.

President Ford now favors an amendment that would give the states the constitutional right to pass laws of their own to control abortion.

The abortion issue is a nagging one for Carter, who has no room for maneuver on the subject. Carter says he’ll just have to weather it.

“I wish that I could agree with you on everything, but I don’t think it is right for me to change my position just because of the election year,” Carter said last week.

Often, he speaks directly to the demonstrators, telling them he sympathizes with their position against abortion, if not with their proposed constitutional remedy.

“I see that you’re concerned for the unborn and that you see an antiabortion picket in Cleveland. ‘You’re absolutely right. I’d do everything I can as President to hold down the need for abortion and I’ll work with you on it.’”

Entering his Phoenix hotel, Carter went out of his way to shake hands with a small cluster of supporters, and walked into a predictable argument about abortion.

A bright red sign that said “Abortion Is Murder” advertised the presence of his critics.

“You have a lot of people to vote for you if you’d change your mind,” a woman said.

“Well, I’m not pro-abortion,” Carter said.

“You are pro-abortion,” she snapped back.

“No, I’m not. Ma’am,” Carter replied.

In Phoenix, Bismarck, and at other stops along Carter’s route, antiabortion protesters have held their own rallies and news conferences in advance of his arrival, to draw attention to their protest and to turn out their speakers.

“I see the demonstrators over there and I sympathize with your right to let your views be known,” he said at one stop. “I think abortions are wrong. I think...” (continued to page 6)

The initial meeting of the Student Life Council (SLC) opened yesterday with a discussion of the recently created committee on coeductional life and it’s relation to the SLC Campus Life Committee.

The committee last year conducted various studies in this area, and a few members felt the particular concentration of the SLC was overlooked by the formation of the new committee.

Mike Casey, newly-elected SLC chairman, said he was “unhappy that the SLC wasn’t recognized in this area. Hopefully, they’ll work with us on our concerns.”

Student Body President Mike Gassman said that he “personally felt it was a slight toward the SLC, especially since the students on his committee (Burkhallett’s) are not out of the SLC.”

“F. J. Burkhallett’s committee was set up separately,” Gassman said, and “it should have been set up through the Council.”

Dean of Students James Roemer felt “optimistic that their committee and our committee could be very productive,” and commented that the different back-grounds of the members of both committees would be effective together.

North Quad Representative Ed Van Tassel suggested contacting F. J. Burkhallett and finding out how his committee will be working, and Casey indicated his agreement.

In other developments, Roemer proposed that the first ten minutes of each meeting be designated as an “executive session,” in which only members of the SLC (including the SBC) would attend. The rest of the meeting would then be open to the public and the media. The motion was voted on and passed.

The four Standing Committees of the SLC will be continued this year, consisting of Courses, Planning and Policy, Rules and Regulations, and Off-Campus and Community Relations. Casey said the groundwork is being laid and discussed in the individual committees and will be brought before the Council at the next meeting.

Van Tassel was elected Vice Chairman and Brother Just Pacczynski was elected Parliamentarian.
McCandless residents disturbed
Construction annoys students

The Saint Mary's student body will eventually reap the benefits of the college's new recreational facility, which is now under construction. However, many of the alumni feel that they have been neglected.

Navy needs some very special Notre Dame Graduates who aren't afraid to work and pay and benefits, it is understood. The bonus for completing the program in 1976, Cackley said.

Because of first-year budget constraints, the program's attractiveness consisted only of pamphlets and a $2,500 support from the ND Alumni. There will be more promotional work done next year, Cackley stated, with an increase in brochures and literature mailed directly to the new 57,000 registrars. All registration procedures are conducted through the ND Alumni Office to free residence halls from this responsibility.

The first Notre Dame Alumni summer hotel term was deemed a success by Alumni Director John Cackley, and plans for expansion of services in 1977 are underway.

The project originated as a means of providing a service to alumni and students in dormitory buildings. Last February plans were announced by the ND Alumni Office which afforded former students the opportunity to return to campus for a visit at a time other than class reunions or a major athletic event. Lewis Hall, a four-story undergraduate women's residence hall, was selected for use.

Noting that the operation "definitely did not show a deficit," the alumni director said he expects an increase in the number of hotel occupants next summer because of the positive feedback he has received. Approximately 5000 alumni and their families took advantage of the opportunity to stay in Lewis Hall between June 14 and July 31, 1976, Cackley said.

A profile of the summer visitors shows good cross-representation of alumni from all classes. The economic rates offered attracted many recent alumni and their children, Cackley added.

An alumni and spouse shared a double room for $50 per night. Two children were placed in another double room for an additional $3, resulting in a fee of $53 per night for a family of four. Many families have asked to have a phone in their room, but to date this has not been possible.

The Alumni Association first discussed this type of program two years ago, but it was only last summer that the project support from the Alumni Office staff, Cackley said.

The Navy needs some very special Notre Dame Graduates who aren't afraid to find out how good they are.

NAVY ON CAMPUS

Navy Nuclear Power Program is a total systems approach to problem solving. Naval Architect H. G. Richards implemented the program as an intelligent man to address complex problems through knowledge and understanding rather than rote compliance to set procedures. This is the Navy's way. It is also the Navy's way to manage the Navy's Nuclear Power Program, Cackley explained. Neither seminar was held because of the poor response from alumni guests, he said.

Cackley stated that there is a proposal under consideration by the Alumni Association which would expand the summer program. Continuing education programs may be directed by the CCE, staff, and improvements in daytime activities for children are expected.

Volunteers for CANCO, the central organization for child abuse in St. Joseph County, will work in one of four programs to help abused and neglected children and abusive parents.

To prepare volunteers for these programs, CANCO is sponsoring two training sessions within the next week. The first session, which will discuss what child abuse is and what factors lead to it, will be held at 7 p.m. at the Family and Children's Center at 41 Lincoln-Westay in Mishawaka. The second session, on Wednesday, Sept. 29, will examine the different stages and aspects of child development.

The largest of the four programs sponsored by CANCO is a "crisis center," an emergency service to families in which children are about to be abused.

"We try to encourage parents to come in with placing any social stigma on them," Sopko explained. "We have had a few walk-ins, but most have been referred to us from the police or welfare departments. We would like them to call us on their own, but most people don't even know we exist.

In the Crisis Center program, parents are urged to bring their children to the Family and Childen's Center before possibly abusing them. At the center, volunteers play with the children in a semi-structured atmosphere, while parents either talk or sit quietly. Counseling helps parents deal with their own needs, so they will be better able to deal with the children.

"The center has only been open since April,1976," Sopko noted, "and we have had 77 children in groups of a minimum of two to three.

"Travel to the dangerous area, but does not seem too far," Sopko commented. "Especially at the Crisis Center. This program is especially suited for college students because volunteers only work in two-hour shifts and only during the daytime hours."

CANCO also includes a "Diagnostic and Consultation Team" made up of area doctors, lawyers and social workers, who offer confidential advice on every case encountered by the organization. Other programs include a speaker's bureau, an educational program which offers lectures on child abuse to various organizations, a "Parent Surrogate" program in which volunteers work for an extended period, usually one year, on a one-to-one basis with abusive families and a program to distribute a "Welcome Baby" brochure to new mothers in the hospital.

This year, CANCO is sponsoring four internships for college credit to sociology students from seven years of intensive research to one program, which offers lectures on self-defense for women in the night.

Wolvos commented that he could not tell people in one lecture how to defend themselves, but he could only make them aware of the fact that they do need to know something about self-defense.

Wolvos gave the usual advice, "Travel in groups of a minimum of two times faster, concentrate better and read 4-5 times faster. Just by attending 1 evening per week for 4 short weeks you canread 7 to 10 times faster, concentrate better and comprehend more.

If you have always wanted to be a speed reader but found the cost prohibitive, or the time too consuming - now you can. Just by attending 1 evening per week for 4 short weeks you canread 7 to 10 times faster, concentrate better and comprehend more.

Wolvos stated, "A girl is no safer in a bar, than she is when she is with her boyfriend. In the latter case, the assailant, not necessarily, but possibly being the boyfriend, or someone who breaks into the car. As for self-defense, for 10 times faster, concentrate better and comprehend more.

When a South Bend child was beaten to death. Several welfare agencies were aware of abuse to the child before his death, according to Sopko, but none did anything about it. CANCO was established because "we thought we had an obligation to do something about these abuses," according to Mr. Jacki Goldrick, program coordinator, at 256-0037.

"We urge all those who might be interested in volunteering for one of the programs to come to the training sessions and find out what the organization is all about," Sopko said.

UNITED STATES READING LAB OFFERS SPEED READING COURSE AT NOTRE DAME

United States Reading Lab will offer a four week course in speed reading to a limited number of qualified people at Notre Dame.

This recently developed method of instruction is the most innovative and ef­ tective program available in the United States.

Not only does this famous course reduce your time in the classroom to just one class per week for 4 short weeks but it also includes an advanced speed reading course on cassette tape so that you can continue to improve for the rest of your life. In just 4 weeks the average student should be reading 4-5 times faster.

In a few months some students are reading 20-30 times faster. Training speeds in approach 6000 words per minute. In rare instances speeds of up to 13,000 wpm have been documented.

Our average graduate should read 7-10 times faster upon completion of the course with marked improvement in comprehension and concentration.

For those who would like additional information, a series of free, one hour orientation lectures have been scheduled. At these free lectures the course will be explained in complete detail, including classroom procedures, instruction meth­ods, class schedule and a special 1 time only introductory tuition that is less than one-half the cost of similar courses.

You must attend any of the free meetings for information about Notre Dame classes.

These orientations are open to the public, above age 18 (persons under 18 should be accompanied by a parent if possible).
Republican senatorial nominee, Richard Lugar, called for a cam­paign that "speaks to the highest ideals of Indiana citizens" at a fund-raising dinner in Indianapolis last week.

In his speech at the "Dick Lugar Victory Dinner," the major fund­raiser for his Senate bid, Lugar said, "Certainly, given the raw material we have to work with, the temptation presents itself to devote much of our time to exposing and condemning one breach of integrity after another. Junkets, triple-digit pay of expenses, illegal contributions and refusal of airline tickets might seem more than exciting speech topics than full employ­ment care for the elderly, quality education, or protection of the environment."

But, I sense the voters I am meeting each day seek and expect better things from us," he continued. "They seek a positive and constructive view of the national politics of the past. We offer one. They seek constructive proposals for rejuvenating the private economic sector, and creating lasting jobs. We are suggesting such proposals. They seek persons with the vision to look forward to new energy sources, unquestionable national defense preparedness, and a more humane and effective federal gov­ernment, which re-emphasizes personal liberty. We are demonstrat­ing both that vision and the dedicated energy needed to reach higher ground."

Lugar's appeal for ethical politics and constructive, forward-looking action comes at the end of a month-long conflict between the two senatorial candidates. Accus­ations have been flying thick and fast from all sides.

Columnist Jack Anderson reported that Sen. Vance Hartke's daughter, Sandra, has held jobs ranging from little in the way of a regular work schedule with firms that benefited from his votes.

The American Conservative Uni­on recently labeled Hartke, "Mr. Special Interest."

James C. Roberts, executive director of the Common Cause Union, called on Hartke to return at least 30 per cent of the more than $300,000 he has raised thus far for his re-election campaign, according to a report in the Fort Wayne News Sentinel. Hartke said he solicited and accepted money from the railroad industry while serving as chair­man of the subcommittee for surface transportation dealing in rail jobs. He also received money from a local telephone interests while introducing legislation favoring those interests.

The controversy arose over Lu­gar's statistics claiming that he brought Indianapolis 5,000 new jobs annually during his eight-year term as mayor. Hartke supporters provided U.S. Department of Labor sta­tistics to disprove these figures. They cited the fact that unemploy­ment figures more than doubled during this time, in an effort to discredit Lugar's claim to have boosted employment.

"To avoid the possibility of further dispute, the language will be amended to say 'thousands of new jobs per year'-an irreparable claim," said Mitch Daniels, the Lugar campaign staff.

Lugar said the advertisement's claim of 8,000 new jobs was based on figures showing an average of 442 job-holders in 1967 and an average of 497,000 in 1974, a story in the South Bend Tribune on Sept. 13 reported. However, the average 1975 employment only rose by 4,000 jobs, dropping the eight-year average gain to 7,325 rather than 8,000, Lugar noted.

"nearly," although Community Services is part of the campus-wide Volunteer Services, he explained that it was "primarily an organizational service within the hall," not through Volunteer Services.

"I think it offers you an opportunity to do something outside the hall," noted McGaughey. He added that the United Way drive, for which a separate chairman in each hall has been named, should have been handled by Community Services.

Laundry problem discussed

The HPC also turned to the campus laundry problem. As Farley President Tracy Key announced that a $5 fine would be imposed on any male who uses the washers in her hall. She noted that the problem had been particularly acute since the beginning of the year, and that the laundry manager has been tardy in its deliveries. Her concern was echoed by presidents if other women's halls, but none as if yet have established a fine.

"We girls have laundry problems," Kee remarked, "but these are our machines." She added that the fine did not apply to residents washing articles for men.

Student Body Vice-President Mike Casey, on hand for the meeting, noted that student government was investigating the laundry situation.

Brecken-Philips President Nancy Siegel also proposed that a facility similar to the Farley motel be established for male visitors. Other women's halls confirmed the need, and Holy Cross was discussed as a possible site, since it was the only hall with space available.

Informal improvements sought

The HPC also appointed an Information Advisory Board, to attempt to make the infirmary more responsive to student needs.

Gassman reported that a similar group last year "tried to get the whole clinic situation changed," and had limited success. Members of the board include Anne Thompson, Lewis, Tracy Key, Farley; John O'Leary, Holy Cross; Jeanne Sculati, Badin; Rush Kiley, Alumni; and Molly McGuire of Lyons.

Russell presented to the council the new procedure for the selection of the Rockne Trophy, a monthly award given to the most active hall. A panel of three former hall presidents will choose the winner each month, based on activities sheets submitted by the hall presidents. While the most active hall will generally earn the trophy, the new procedure will allow halls showing consistency to be recognized later in the year.

Russell in addition endorsed the concept of round table meetings, established last year to bring section leaders from the halls together to discuss common problems.

The HPC also heard John Rooney present a plan for recyclable paper collected by the halls. The project would donate all proceeds to either the Hunger Coalition or Logan Center, but is most still meet with fire regulations before implementation.

Law, graduate schools requirements high
by Marias Uenot

Editor's Note: This is the first of a two-part series discussing the requirements for applying to Law and graduate schools. This article will discuss the requirements and procedure for applying to medical schools.

The general requirements for acceptance into graduate and law schools vary widely across different institutions.

The first step in preparing for admission to a specific graduate school is to purchase the Graduate Record Exam (GRE) and practice tests available at the engineering auditorium on the dates of Oct. 16, 17, 30, and Nov. 11 and June 15. According to Dr. John Fitzgerald, assistant vice-president for advanced studies, students' GRE scores are a primary source used by graduate departments to assess a student's aptitude (mathematical) skills.

The undergraduate grade point average (GPA) varies across different graduate schools. The average GPA required for acceptance into graduate schools in the United States is 3.8. Dr. John Fitzgerald stresses that the GPA is an excellent indicator of a student's aptitude for graduate study.

The necessary GPA also varies depending on the school. According to John Moorman, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, "The necessary GPA also varies with the applicant." Fitzgerald stressed that the GPA is an excellent indicator of a student's aptitude for graduate study.

Fullback Jerome Heavens: a young man on the run

by Patrick Cole

With only 13 games under his belt at Notre Dame, Jerome Heavens has already put himself in the freshman spotlight.

Last season, Heavens alternated at fullback with Jim Browner who is now starting at strong safety. Heavens admitted he wanted to be the starter at fullback at the point he wanted to play, "I really didn't want to play fullback at the point I wanted to play," he stated. "Any athlete wants to play and make the first team." Yet Heavens felt that by splitting time at the position, the coaches could get both backs the experience and help the team by using the skills that Browner and he had to offer.

Being able to play in his first game was a most memorable experience, Heavens remembered. Yet he felt more relaxed about this season. "The first game against Boston College opened on national television--I really didn't feel as nervous as I did when I was out there with the Pittsburgh game, I felt more comfortable about playing. Heavens indicated.

Despite his outstanding freshman season, he was occasionally haunted with fumbles. "The first year in the spread, my career college, I fumbled," he stated. "I didn't think the problem was nervousness as much as it was a lack of concentration on my part. So then I have to just have the mental picture to hold on to the ball." But there were also times things you wanted to be concerned about when you run with the ball, "I'm learning more about playing, he became better at hanging on to the ball, he said.

Heavens, an economics major, also spoke of his abilities to his high school coach and his relatives. He is available to teach them some of the things he learned during his junior year in high school, he concentrated more on running the ball instead of blocking.

So in the latter part of my senior year, my coach stressed blocking," he stated. "Yet I had a lot of relatives who were in sports. From them, I picked up a lot of things naturally.

And Heavens' name became a household word for athletic recognition at Assumption High School in East St. Louis. He won a total of eight letters in football, basketball, track, tennis, and baseball while captaining the football and basketball teams in his junior and senior years. In football he received all-state and all-state honors in his junior year.

He is a consensus All-American choice as a senior.

And with the brilliant season that Jerome Heavens had last season as a freshman, who could argue with him?

Oregon student football to be distributed next week

Notre Dame and St. Mary's storyboards were displayed on the Oregon football game for their personal use may obtain them at the #1 and #2 Ticket Windows on the second floor of the ACC beginning next Monday, Sept. 26.

A ticket to the Oregon game is not limited to student football ticket, since it will be played on the first day of midemester break, Oct. 16.

Seniors may pick up their ticket on Wednesday, the 26th, the graduate and law students on Tuesday, the 25th, and all freshmen on Monday, the 24th at the Ticket Office.

Ticket windows will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., including the noon hour, each of the four days. When reporting to the ticket window, students must present their ID card along with the 4-game season ticket that they were issued earlier in September. At that time students will fill out an application to present with their ID to the Notre Dame student body.

There will be no charge for Notre Dame undergraduates. However, St. Mary's students must pay $6 for their ticket while Notre Dame graduate and law students will be charged $3 as will the spouse of a Notre Dame student.

No Oregon student tickets will be accepted.

Ticket Manager Mike Busck has also announced that season hockey tickets for students will be available "sometime in the next couple of weeks." The exact date and time of purchase will be announced.

Overall, Heavens is satisfied about his role this season. "Thinking back on last season, he praised the freshman rule allowing them to compete on the varsity level, which it is in its fourth year.

"If you're good enough as a freshman, why should you be held back," he stated. "If you're ready to play, then you should play!"

St. Mary's netters trounce Notre Dame; lose to Purdue

by patdly Doyle

At a five team invitational last weekend in St. Louis, the Charmers edged Notre Dame to take first place. SMC racked up a total of 28 team points out of a possible 35. Placing second in team points was Notre Dame with a total of 16. Ball State trailed behind ND finishing up with 13 points. Valpo earned 11 points and DePauw concluded their performance with a total of 9 points.

Barb Timm, of SMC, captured number one singles, defeating her opponent from DePauw in finals with a score of 6-3, 6-1. Peru's Debbie Brown, SMC, overwhelmed her opponent from ND Jane Lamers, 6-1, 6-1. In doubles competition Timm, also of SMC, ousted Bracken of Notre Dame 6-3, 7-5. SMC's newest singles player Ann Daniels of SMC finished up at number two to defeat Kymath Mollin from ND. In doubles competition SMC's Griffin and deckage defeated their opponents from Ball State 6-4, 6-0. SMC dropped their number two and three doubles teams of Midick, Mckay and Griffin, Swanson to a fourth and third place finish, respectively.

In their first loss of the season, St. Mary's was defeated by the University of Purdue Monday night. The Purdue team was the defending state champion last year, St. Mary's was defeated by the University of Purdue Monday night.

The Purdue team was the defending state champion last year, winning the Indiana State Women's College Tennis Tournament and SMC expected tough competition.

Timm fell 6-2, 6-2 to her opponent and Purdue's competition scored a victory of 6-1, 6-2 in number two singles. Bracken lost her match 6-1, 6-1 and Daniels Phis beat Cards

Sophomore Tim Saurs captured the final singles spot in the tournament with a six-over-par 72 while the remaining four members of the team did not receive as much attention.

Sours captured his opponent Scott Red?-firing four consecutive 74's.

Sours, recently named the Nor- thwestern Illinois Women's Golf Association's "Golfer of the Year" for his age group (17-19), took the lead at the 30th hole with a sub-par 70 and was never headed after that.

Four players tied at 79 for third place. Varsity team captain Rich Kee, senior Bob Belmonte and freshmen Jay Bryan and John Lengrul played Monday evening for the third place tie.

It was a par four on their third sudden death hole that gave Northwestern Junior Amateur champ ion John Lengrul sole possession of third place. All four players parred the first two holes but it was Lengrul's putt on the third green that claimed the playoff.

The Notre Dame golf team will open its fall season this Friday afternoon at 2:30 with a dual meet against Western Michigan. Coach Noel O'Sullivan will field three squads, a total of fifteen players, against the Broncos on Notre Dame's own Burrfake Memorial Course.

The Irish will then travel downtown for a match against UIC on Sunday to prepare for the Indiana Intercollegiate Golf Tournament Monday and Tuesday of next week.
