Innsbruck offers different kind of learning

by Kate Flynn
Staff Reporter

While most Notre Dame sophomores choose to nestle comfortably back into campus life, there are usually forty or so who hop aboard a 747 for abroad. Destination: Innsbruck, Austria. Reason: To leave the Dewey way.

American educator John Dewey taught that education out of the classroom or education of action is most effective. Innsbruckers are anonymous Dewey disciples who consider Innsbruck as a unique setting for learning-by-doing. There they are human beings, and their insensitivity... has made this a welfare administration, and not a work administration," Carter said.

He said 500,000 people have lost their jobs in the last three months, and "they are human beings." Government unemployment figures for August showed 7.9 percent of the work force was unemployed or nearly eight million people.

Ford said the way to spur the economy and create new jobs is to keep the lid on federal spending and let the taxpayers have the money to spend themselves. The President said he favors an additional $10 billion tax cut.

He said that with such programs, unemployment can be cut to 4.4 to 4.5 percent. "As of now, we have no budget, no power, but a lot of ideas," stated Susy Gauthier. "The council will meet once every two weeks," noted Julie Pelletiere, president of Holy Cross. "The meetings will be closed for the time being, until the formative process has been completed." Carter asked for was a $4.7 billion proposal that seeks to cut adult unemployment to 3 percent.

Ford also said his tax-cut recommendations would help curb unemployment. The President said he could cut taxes by $28 billion if Congress would cooperate by keeping down expenditures.

"If we keep the lid on federal spending as we could, with the help... on page 9"

The new Hall Presidents Council at St. Mary's next last night to list goals, discuss their constitution and to organize the structure of the council. Susy Gauthier was unanimously elected chairperson of the six member council.

"The HPC plans to be a vehicle to improve half life," explained Gauthier. The final goal listed last night was to keep track of planning of long range projects, including activities with the women's dorms at St. Mary's.

Gauthier cited "a greater degree of unity" as a major aim of the new organization. She commented that the council hopes to set policies and "establish consistencies in inter-hall governance.

Regarding the constitution, the presidents discussed the preamble and certain aspects they felt necessary for a complete constitution. The constitution is presently being written and will be submitted to the next Student Assembly meeting.

Due to the small number of council members, it was agreed that the officer will be the chairperson who will serve as a coordinator for the group. The council consists of the presidents of four halls and representatives from Augusta, which does not elect a president. However, these representatives hold only one vote. The council was pressed because of the need for better hall government and improved interhall relations, according to Gauthier. They will receive no budget and operate with the money allotted to each hall - $2 per resident.

As of now, we have no budget, no power, but a lot of ideas," stated Susy Gauthier.

"In his comeback, Carter said: "My Ford is changing considerably.'" Carter said that because the nation's productive capacity is not being fully utilized and because unemployment is at 7.9 percent, the programs he advocates would not add to inflation.

Then came Ford's turn, a two-minute rebuttal. He noted that the savings for August showed 7.

"We have seen the need for better hall government with the Dewey philosophy," said Gauthier. John Dewey, who became president, the first thing he asked for was a $4.7 billion proposal that seeks to cut adult unemployment to 3 percent.

Ford also said his tax-cut recommendations would help curb unemployment. The President said he could cut taxes by $28 billion if Congress would cooperate by keeping down expenditures.

"If we keep the lid on federal spending as we could, with the help... on page 9"

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - President Ford and Jimmy Carter debated taxes and unemployment Thursday night, the Democratic nominee accusing the President of insensitivity to the jobless, the President asserting that his challenge is about the future of our country.

The council expressed gratitude to President Carter for moving the program up. The Association hopes to set policies and... on page 9"

Carter, Ford clash in TV debates

GERALD R. FORD

St. Mary's hall presidents organize

by Paul Carroll
Staff Reporter

The new Hall Presidents Council at St. Mary's next last night to list goals, discuss their constitution and to organize the structure of the council. Susy Gauthier was unanimously elected chairperson of the six member council.

"The HPC plans to be a vehicle to improve half life," explained Gauthier. The final goal listed last night was to keep track of planning of long range projects, including activities with the women's dorms at St. Mary's.

Gauthier cited "a greater degree of unity" as a major aim of the new organization. She commented that the council hopes to set policies and "establish consistencies in inter-hall governance.

Regarding the constitution, the presidents discussed the preamble and certain aspects they felt necessary for a complete constitution. The constitution is presently being written and will be submitted to the next Student Assembly meeting.

Due to the small number of council members, it was agreed that the officer will be the chairperson who will serve as a coordinator for the group. The council consists of the presidents of four halls and representatives from Augusta, which does not elect a president. However, these representatives hold only one vote.

The council was pressed because of the need for better hall government and improved interhall relations, according to Gauthier. They will receive no budget and operate with the money allotted to each hall - $2 per resident.

"As of now, we have no budget, no power, but a lot of ideas," stated Susy Gauthier. "The council will meet once every two weeks," noted Julie Pelletiere, president of Holy Cross. "The meetings will be closed for the time being, until the formative process has been completed." Carter asked for was a $4.7 billion proposal that seeks to cut adult unemployment to 3 percent.

Ford also said his tax-cut recommendations would help curb unemployment. The President said he could cut taxes by $28 billion if Congress would cooperate by keeping down expenditures.

"If we keep the lid on federal spending as we could, with the help... on page 9"
Campus clubs to split $6,000
by Jack C. Silovsky
Staff Reporter

A Student Government committee will decide Sunday which University clubs and organizations will receive money for their operations this year. Sixteen groups have applied for a share of the approximately $6,000 available.

Campus organizations applying for the money were required to submit a written statement to the committee this past week. Each was to explain the purpose of their club and present a budget from last year as well as a proposed budget for this year. In addition, the group was required to explain why they should receive funding.

Each group will present their case before the committee on Sunday evening. The committee will decide Sunday night which groups will receive money. Student Government Treasurer Eric Ryan stated that all available money is used to help the most needy groups.

The decision committee is made up of seven students including Student Body President Mike Gassman, Vice President Mike Casey and Ryan. Three Student Life Council members, Ed Van Tassell, John Steilman, and Pete Halley as well as Hall Presidents' Council (HPC) J.P. Russell will also serve on the committee. The money will come from what is left over from the University allocation made to Student Union, Student Government and the HPC. Each year, about $6000 is left over, "give or take," said Ryan. This money is given to various campus clubs and organizations to help them out, he stated.

In Heast kidnapping
Harrises plead innocent to charge

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) - Complaining that a guard had scuffled with them outside the courtroom, William and Emily Harris pleaded innocent yesterday in the kidnapping of Patricia Hearst, who is to be sentenced today for a terrorist bank robbery.

The Harrises appeared in Municipal Court here, about a mile from the apartment where the Symbionese Liberation Army snatched Miss Hearst from the life she had known and held her captive until she swore them allegiance.

While the Harrises were being arraigned on a criminal complaint, Miss Hearst was in a cell in the Federal Youth Correctional Facility in Phelan, about 40 miles southeast of here. The 22-year-old newspaper heiress was flown there Wednesday from a San Diego facility.

The Harrises, already serving 11-year-to-life prison terms for kidnapping, robbery and car theft in a Los Angeles crime spree for which Miss Hearst still faces trial, smiled frequently amid whispered conversations with each other during their arraignment.

Defense attorney Leonard Wein Glass complained during the arraignment a guard mosh- dropped the Harrises while the defense team was conferring in another courtroom about an hour before the arraignment.

Weinglass, representing Harris, said a sheriff's deputy interrupted the conference to seize Mrs. Harris. When her husband tried to intervene, Wein Glass said he was wrestled to the ground by a deputy and his glasses were knocked off. Judge Wilmont Sweeney said he would look into the matter and set a preliminary hearing for Oct. 7. If a grand jury indicts the Harrises before them, as is expected, the indictment would replace the criminal complaint and the case would go directly to Superior Court where they would be arraigned again.

Miss Hearst is among 45 witnesses scheduled to testify before the grand jury. The key defendant, however, is required to a maximum of 35 years in prison or a minimum of time already served on the bank robbery charges.

Erratum
The story on St. Mary's student assembly elections on Wednesday, Sept. 22 stated that all off-campus and day student positions were filled. However, these positions are still vacant.
Palestinian cease-fire ordered

New Lebanese president is inaugurated

by Alex Efty
Associated Press Writer

CHTOURA, Lebanon (AP) - Protected by Syrian troops and armor, Elie Hobeika, 30, was named as the new Christian president of war-torn Lebanon. In a gesture of support, Palestinian guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat said he would tell his forces to cease fire.

Another wave of support for Sarkis came from Egyptian President Anwar Sadat in an interview published by the Beirut newspaper Ann Nahar. He was quoted as saying "Egypt is ready behind Sarkis."

Sadat was further quoted as saying he is ready to give Sarkis "the heaviest and most modern weapons in Egypt's arsenal" to help him end the 17-month civil war. He said it would not be simple to obtain the weapons.

In Washington a U.S. State Department spokesman reviewed the inauguration of Sarkis as an opportunity to end the war and rebuild Lebanon's shattered structure.

As Sarkis took the oath of office in this Syrian-occupied town, right-wing Christians and the leftist Moslems and Palestinian guerrillas continued to butt heads along the urban front dividing Beirut, the capital.

"Though a relative calm was reported during the day along the three main civil war fronts, hospital sources estimated the casualty toll as at least 100 killed and 46 wounded in a 24-hour period."

Chehra, 30 miles east of Beirut, was chosen as the site for the most bizarre presidential inauguration in Lebanon's 30 years of indepen­dence because it was considered the safest spot for parliament to meet.

The town, under Syrian military occupation since last June when 13,000 Syrian troops and 500 tanks took over two-thirds of Lebanon in an effort to end the civil war, was ringed by hundreds of Syrian troops, tanks, armored cars and missile launchers.

Lebanese deputies for the inauguration traveled in armored car­riages escorted by跟踪 of thousands of the menacing private military, with the bodyguards forming the tripod of gun­nem heavy machines and other weapons.

The Park Hotel, where parliament met for the inauguration, was cut off from the lines of red-bereted soldiers of the select Syrian Special Security Regiment, who were accompanying troops and guards to keep the hotel.

The security precautions imposed by the Assad forces were so strict that it was impossible for many Lebanese civilians to attend.

The people were even barred from watching the proceedings from their balconies, which together with numerous rooftops, were occupied by more armed Syrian troops.

The smooth transfer of office on Sarkis as the elected president was in doubt right up to the last moment, with both Moslem and Christian deputies, ranging from the moderate Premier Rashid Kar­an to Kamal Jumblatt, the leader of the leftist alliance, boozed to ceremony to protest its staging in a town under Syrian occupation.

Despite this a quarter of n members of the 98-member parlia­ment formally assembled and one hour after the scheduled time Sarkis stook up in the packed conference room of the hotel to take the oath.

He pledged to the civil war in a way that would isolate Lebanon's in extris and also safeguard the Palestinian cause.

"No, however, requires an immediate cessation of hostilities and a resort to dialogue," he added.

A small space no effort to help the Palestinian guerrilla movement regain its homeland. The differ­ences that touched off the civil war should be dealt with positively, to rescue Lebanon from the current disaster without hurting the Pales­tinian rights," he said.

His moderate tone contrasted with the farewell address Sunday of outgoing President Sukri Slim, who blamed the guerrillas entirely for the civil war.

Senate clears way to discuss bill to strengthen civil rights laws

by John Chadwick
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate cleared the way Wednesday toward passage of a bill designed to strengthen enfore­ment of civil rights laws.

A special subcommittee of the Senate's anti-filibuster rule—that it "will close a loophole in our present civil rights enforcement laws." After a series of Senate debates that would not only help to enrich lawyers and encourage them to stir up litigation. It said it should be called the

Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., floor manager of the bill, said that it "will close a loophole in our present civil rights enforcement laws."

Allen argued it would not pro­vide for a single additional civil right but would only help to enrich lawyers and encourage them to stir up litigation. It said it should be called the.

Study Help group to meet Mon.

The Neighborhood Study Help Program, a volunteer organization, will hold a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Fortney hall. It will be attended by those who previously signed up for the study. The program involves tutoring children in South Bend elementary schools, in basic subjects such as math, reading and spelling.

The group is interested in finding out how good they are.

Like a good neighbor, State Farm is there.

with help for your car, home, life and health insurance.

See us.

STEVE J. BEHR
Agent

Box Office Open
Mon. thru Fri. 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

$7.50, $4.50, $2.50 per Student* Discount—Any seat.

*applies to performances on October 6.

Not Merely a Graduate

Level Engineering Program

The Navy Nuclear Power Program is a total systems approach to problem solving provided by H. G. Ridgeway meant to bring intelligent men to address complex problems through knowledge and understanding rather than Compliance. The most selective and highest paying Engineering specialty in the Navy. In addition to full pay and benefits, it includes a $1,500 bonus for completion of Nuclear Power School and a $20,000 four year continuation bonus.

The needs some very special Notre Dame Graduates who aren't afraid to find out how good they are.

NAVY ON CAMPUS

December 6

MAKE APPOINTMENTS WITH PLACEMENT OFFICE
LONDON [AP] - Henry A. Kissinger arrived last night from ten days of shuttle diplomacy in Africa in search of a peace settlement between black African leaders and the white majority regimes of South Africa and Rhodesia.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said thoughtfully would be surprising if Rhodesian Front-party talks accepted by transition to majority black rule. Kissinger made the statement to reporters in a Downing St. suite where he arrived for a meeting with Prime Minister James Callaghan and Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home.

At the same time with Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith, Prime Minister Callaghan received foreign diplomat leaders of South Africa and the black leaders of Letterman, Zambia.

He will urge Britain to press for a Rhodesian constitutional settle-tment if Smith's government accepts black majority rule in the breakaway British colony.

Kissinger said the African trip with talks with Kenyan President Jomo Kenyatta, then told reporters he was leaving Africa with a "warm feeling and a sense of hope." The success of the secretary's attempts persuaded Rhodesian whites to accept black majority rule bingo? on Smith's success in persuading diehards of his all-white Rhodesian Front party that the time for change has arrived. Smith met with the party's 50 members of parliament - a 75 percent majority in the 66-seat body for several hours yesterday. He said the caucus had decided on whether it would accept Kissinger's proposals but the decision would not be revealed until mid-tight.

The secretary of state was to brief Callaghan and Condon on his African negotiations before under the plan he is pushing for, majority rule in Rhodesia two years is essentially a British one.

The secretary is flying on to Washington today.

Britain still claims sovereignty over Rhodesia, which unilaterally declared independence 11 years ago. This would seem to entitle London to convene a constitution-conference between the Smith regime and delegates of majority political groups inside and outside the country. U.S. officials think it could be, politically disastrous if the British permitted to pass those talks to grind on for 15 to 24 months. Kissinger may be expected to impress Callaghan and Condon the urgent need for speed in the process ahead - providing Smith's government agrees to the talks.

Kissinger's feeling is that the Rhodesian constitutional conference can produce a charter for a black-rulled Rhodesia quickly - in weeks, not months and certainly by the end of the year - if there is good staff work, meticulous preparation and quick-moving diplomacy.

This means Britain would have to convene the talks among Rhod-西亚's white and black groups and factions as soon as Smith accepts the American-British settlement terms. The Callaghan government would latter its call by next week with negotiations beginning two or three weeks later - just before the U.S. presidential election.

Crosstown honored

Dr. Frederick J. Crosson, the first O'Hara Professor of Philosophy at Notre Dame, will deliver a lecture entitled, "Philosophy, Religion and Faith," at 4 p.m. today in the Center for Continuing Education auditorium. He will then be honored at a dinner held in the Morris Inn tonight.

The lecture is part of inaugural celebrations honoring the holder of the John Cardinal O'Hara Chair in Philosophy. The chair commemorates the 12th president of Notre Dame, a Holy Cross priest who served from 1934 to 1940.

Crosson was the first lay dean of the University of Southern Mississippi and Letters, a position he held for seven years before returning to teaching in 1975. A specialist in phenomenology and existentialism, he earned his doctorate at Notre Dame and has been a member of its faculty since 1953. Crosson was chairman of the General Program of Liberal Studies for five years and he also served as associate director of the Institute for the Philosophical Study of Artificial Intelligence.

He is editor of The Review of Philosophy, a quarterly published by the university. As holder of the O'Hara Chair, he directs the Department of Philosophy's newly established Center for the Philososophy of Religion. Crosson's inaugural lecture is also part of the Center's first conference, being held Sept. 23-25 at Notre Dame.
The Coex program for Notre Dame students will continue while expanding to include an exchange program between the North and South Novas, according to Rick Littlefield, Coex coordinator. Coex tickets are available from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, in the student government office. There are three tickets provided for each night with a limit of two tickets per person. They may be picked up beginning Monday week except Saturday. St. Mary’s regular steak night, or on a Notre Dame steak night. Tickets are valid for only one day after they are acquired.

These limits were imposed when the commission found that many students were taking Coex tickets without giving other students an opportunity to attend another dining hall. Any student who needs Coex tickets on a regular basis, however, may arrange with Littlefield to receive them in a larger quantity.

The Coex commission’s newest program is the North-South Lunch Exchange. Under this plan students can have lunch in the dining hall to which they are not regularly assigned. Twenty-five lunch exchange tickets are available every day except for the student government office.

The program was started last year. According to Littlefield statistics show that an average day only six of seven students took advantage of the exchange program. "If we were to increase the lunch program, we would see a better turn round," Littlefield said. "People are not used to dining in another place."

Currently, students who wish to try dining in another quad may find Ed Price, Director of Food Services two or three days in advance, specifying which night they wish to do so, and how many students will be in their party. Students with suggestions or opinions on the Coex program are recommended to call Littlefield at 272-0979.

\[\text{\textit{Sondiej praises efforts of ND Hunger Coalition}}\]

by Kate Smelser
Staff Reporter

Speaking at an organizational meeting of the World Hunger Coalition last night, Al Sondiej said he was "proud of what is happening at Notre Dame.

Sondiej told the student cooperation at ND, and stressed the importance of the coalition’s continuing efforts here. He reported that he will soon leave the campus to continue his work over three schools throughout the U.S.

Sondiej has spent the last few weeks at the campuses of Marquette, Fordham, and St. Benedictine, continuing the work he started at Notre Dame. He predicted that there is "a very good possibility" that the Coalition’s work will spread to these schools.

"There are things I think that we can do economically and politically at the grass roots level to help the poor. Hopefully the dining hall program can incorporate these types of responses," commented Sondiej.

Jack D’Aurora, coordinator of campus collections, opened the meeting with a general comment about the World Hunger Coalition. "I think it is a very good movement," D’Aurora said. "We need a lot of education in this country about this issue.

"This site will continue, and people have to be aware of the need to know where their money goes."

D’Aurora, the coalition has researched several charities in the area. "The money the coalition raises will go to Catholic Relief Services and other agencies.

"This year over 90 percent of the funds were directed to the poor. The remainder is spent on educational and administrative expenses."

Theatre and music highlight Nazz activities this weekend. The ND-SMC Lab Theatre will present two short plays: "Santa Claus," by E.E. Cummings, on "The Love Letter at the End of the Year," by P.B. Geiger. The plays, directed by Michael Feord, will begin at 7:30 p.m. on both Friday and Saturday.

George Addle, singer-guitarist, will perform at midnight on Saturday with other singers appearing at 9 p.m. and 11 p.m. On Saturday Dave Shalamon will perform at 11 p.m. followed by Jack Kelleher and Mike Smith. John Stannard will perform at 11 p.m. and Jack Kelleher will perform at midnight respectively. The Nazz is located in the basement of LaFonderia and admission is free.

\[\text{\textit{LSAT prep sessions offered}}\]

by Donna Berntz
Staff Reporter

The St. Mary’s Law Society has scheduled three prep sessions next week for the Law School Admissions Test (LSAT) according to Dr. Sokolowski, associate professor of English and pre-law advisor at SMU. He said that the sessions’ basic goal will be to familiarize students with the nature of the exam in terms of types of questions, areas emphasized, and areas emphasized.

Mary Pat Butler, public relations advisor for the Law Society, said that the sessions will begin on Thursday Sep. 3 at 1 p.m. in room 245 Madeleva. The first session will be presented by Dr. Sokolowski, an English professor, on writing proficiency in order to prepare for the error recognition and sentence correction sections. In addition a mathematics professor will begin the first part of the data interpretation section.

The second session is scheduled for Monday, Oct. 4, at 7 p.m. in the same room. After the data interpretation section is completed, an attorney will begin to talk about the correct approach for the principles and cases section. This session will be completed at the last session, scheduled for Thursday, Oct 11, at 7 p.m.

Sokolowski said that the reading comprehension and reading recall sections will not be reviewed as it is something learned throughout one’s education rather than prepared for.

"Butler said that the LSAT prep sessions will be open to all Law Society members as well as any other interested students. She encouraged freshmen, sophomores and juniors to attend this session in addition to the session offered in the Spring. Butler requested $5.00 donation from non-Law Society members to help defray costs.

She added that the LSAT Prep Book (Simon & Schuster) used for these sessions, will be available in the St. Mary’s B bookstore next week.

The LSAT is a half-day examination that is as an admission requirement at most American law schools. This examination is offered at Notre Dame on Oct. 5 and Dec. 4 of 1976, and Feb. 5 and April 16 of 1977. The examination covers the areas of reading comprehension, reading recall, data interpretation, principles and cases, error recognition, and sentence correction.

Cindy Baccaglini, president of the Law Society, said, "the Law Society hopes to build the students confidence in approaching the exam. The prep sessions offer a unique and actual opportunity to prepare from materials available to any student. We are doing the sessions merely as a service activity."

She added, "the Law Society has not sponsored the LSAT prep sessions but instituted them at the request of numerous students."

"A good night sleep, a clear mind, and no sense of panic will be the best preparation for the LSAT," Sokolowski said.

\[\text{\textit{Protest can take many forms as these ND students dramatize the inconvenience - not to mention the chilliness - of the new laundry pick-up. (Photo by Jim Hofman.)}}\]
The Observer

an independent student newspaper serving notre dame and st. mary's

The Observer is published by the University of Notre Dame and St. Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of either institution. The news is reported as accurately as possible. EDITORially represents the opinion of a majority of the Editorial board. Commentaries, opinions and letters are the views of these authors. Column space is available to all members of the community, and letters are encouraged to promote the free expression of varying opinions on campus.

EDITORIAL BOARD

Thomas O'Neal - Editor-in-Chief
Don Sanchez - Managing Editor
Chris Smith - Asst. Managing Ed
Gregg Bangs - Executive Editor
Val Zurbita - Executive Editor
Pat Hamlin - Executive Editor
Bob Maider - Exec. News Editor
Maureen Flynn - Campus Editor
Marti Hugan - St. Mary's Editor
Don Reimer - Copy Editor
Tom O'Reiley - Features Editor
Fred Herbst - Sports Editor

Box Q, Notre Dame, Ind. 46556
Phone:*219-283-8661 (ND)
*219-284-5366 (SMC)

Opinion

Revive Hall J-Boards

Tom Byrne

The presidential candidates had their first debate last night, and, as expected, it was a lively and informative exchange. The candidates presented their visions for the future of the country, and it was clear that they have differing views on many issues. The debate was well-organized and held in a respectful manner, and it demonstrated the candidates' commitment to public service.

In light of the candidates' discussions, it is vital to consider the role of the government in addressing the challenges facing our country. The candidates' views on fiscal policy, healthcare, and education are critical for shaping our future. It is crucial to engage in a thoughtful and informed debate on these issues to ensure that our elected leaders are knowledgeable and committed to the best interests of all Americans.

The debate was a strong example of the power of democratic participation, and it is essential to continue this process as we move forward. The candidates' debates are only one part of the democratic process, and it is important to engage in other forms of civic participation, such as voting and volunteering.

In conclusion, the presidential debate was a valuable opportunity to hear from the candidates on the issues that matter to us. By staying informed and participating in the democratic process, we can ensure that our voices are heard and that our leaders are accountable to the people they serve.

---

Leave Abortion to Individual

Dear Editor:

The presidential candidates have announced their stands on abortion but I don't think it will make much difference in this election. President Ford is personally strong against abortion but the Republican platform doesn't take a strong stand against it. Carter is personally against abortion but the Democratic platform doesn't take a strong stand against it.

The issue of abortion is a complex one, and it is important to consider the diverse perspectives on this issue. While there are differing views on abortion, it is crucial to respect the autonomy of women and ensure that they have access to safe and legal abortion services.

In conclusion, while the presidential candidates have taken stands on abortion, it is essential to consider the broader implications of these views on our society as we move forward. By engaging in a thoughtful and informed debate on this issue, we can ensure that our leaders are committed to the best interests of all Americans.

---

Flop, Flop, Flop, Flop

by Garry Trudeau

---

Box Q

Pro-SMC Bias

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to the Sept. 22 article and headline, entitled "St. Mary's Netters Pummel Notre Dame; Lose to Purdue.

In the first place how can St. Mary's "trounce" Notre Dame when they only played four of the 10 Irish players? Secondly, Notre Dame wasn't trounced at all. In fact they were very proud of their second place position in the five team tournament.

Also, why is it that the article itself made no reference to the Notre Dame players and their matches? This is a joint publication between Notre Dame and St. Mary's. The mere fact that Notre Dame was mentioned in the headline and lead paragraph, misstates that the Irish players get equal coverage.

If ever the Notre Dame women's sports writers were accused of being biased, this certainly is the worst-headline and article.

Val Zurbita
ND Women's Sports Editor

---

Leave Abortion to Individual

Dear Editor:

The presidential candidates have announced their stands on abortion but I don't think it will make much difference in this election. President Ford is personally strong against abortion but the Republican platform doesn't take a strong stand against it. Carter is personally against abortion but the Democratic platform doesn't take a strong stand against it.

The issue of abortion is a complex one, and it is important to consider the diverse perspectives on this issue. While there are differing views on abortion, it is crucial to respect the autonomy of women and ensure that they have access to safe and legal abortion services.

In conclusion, while the presidential candidates have taken stands on abortion, it is essential to consider the broader implications of these views on our society as we move forward. By engaging in a thoughtful and informed debate on this issue, we can ensure that our leaders are committed to the best interests of all Americans.

---

Leave Abortion to Individual

Dear Editor:

The presidential candidates have announced their stands on abortion but I don't think it will make much difference in this election. President Ford is personally strong against abortion but the Republican platform doesn't take a strong stand against it. Carter is personally against abortion but the Democratic platform doesn't take a strong stand against it.

The issue of abortion is a complex one, and it is important to consider the diverse perspectives on this issue. While there are differing views on abortion, it is crucial to respect the autonomy of women and ensure that they have access to safe and legal abortion services.

In conclusion, while the presidential candidates have taken stands on abortion, it is essential to consider the broader implications of these views on our society as we move forward. By engaging in a thoughtful and informed debate on this issue, we can ensure that our leaders are committed to the best interests of all Americans.
She was a plain-looking little thing with coarse skin and studied darn and poor that cosmetics would have probably exaggerated her flaws to such an extent that one could see her body—on her arms, legs, neck, bosom—the skin would have been washed out to erupt into rashes for which Noreema has no cure. Her hands, especially, I had to avoid with disgust, though it is hard to ignore the hands of someone with whom you are drinking coffee and smoking cigarettes. They were sick-looking hands, as though done up in the wrong way, as though they had been conditioned, anyway, to endless dish-washing; the nails were so short and peaked in shape. On her blouse she was wearing a pin that stuck out from it, as though a jewelry, but every time I ever saw her she was wearing another pin.

The only girl I knew the name of was a girl named Herbst. She had a strange name, Mr. Herbst’s little one. She had that, my skirmish, whom I had been trying to repair to the police, I had phoned my phone number, and he told me what I had done, and he sent an ambulance for me right away. She looked at me, and said again: "If my brother, what they have, and knows others, how can I possibly believe there is a Father in heaven, whom I can’t see? Who really gives a damn about the game of turn-about is fair play with the texts of Scripture.

"When happened to me."

"I'm never really sure," she said. "Last week, when I tried it, it was tranquillizers.

"What really makes me restless is that he typically on something I want more than anything else, and they won’t even let me have it because I’m a woman. Do you know what I mean?"

"I don’t hear. I had no idea what she meant."

"He was a priest."

"We walked out on someone. I say, I have no priest, and I want to be a priest, and they won’t give me because I’m not a man."

"Oh, God, I thought to myself. "Never let the priest be the priest in the church, and they’re being ordained. There are so many, men, and women, who want to be where I

The dining room includes an open and friendly atmosphere, a perfect en- vironment for a family dinner on Sunday. Also, the restaurant has a separate banquet room for 40, and a small lounge for couples, and it has a truly hospitable. (The bar is in the kitchen, so those under age cannot remain legally in the lounge.)

As a forerunner to the ever thirty second meal, it is customary to have a toast to the health of the hostess. This sort of toast is given at every meal. The hostess reads an toast of toasted cheese bread which is a bit cool on the pewter plate, along with a basket of whole wheat crackers and a lightly spread cheese. The service was prompt and always atttactive, throughout the dinner, even a shade before completion of the meal.

For dessert, there is always a cake and salad, both of which are executed in fine style. Special guest gourmeete Valerie M. Zurblis prepared a double chocolate fudge cake with chicken sauce, while the creamy bean soup凭证ed a crispy and well-executed salad. The salad that followed was of a mixed lettuce variety.

Getting down to the main business, fellow critic Frederick C. Herbst truthfully followed the "Chef’s Recommen- dation," the prime rib at $6.95. Obviously the chef knows his art well; he serves up a slab, not a mere slice, cooked in a way that seduced Mr. Herbst’s palate.
Military officers from the Navy, Air Force, and Army Reserve Officer Training Corps branches at Notre Dame report the significant changes have been implemented in this year's programs.

In the Navy R.O.T.C. program, according to Major David Garner, principal change has been the reorganization of the orientation program for new students. In previous years, the Navy's orientation activities were a hodgepodge of formalities, but this year's orientation will be a series of small group meetings conducted by officers who will get to know each student personally.

In the Air Force R.O.T.C. program, Captain George Finan, assistant professor of Aerospace Studies, said that this year's program has included a new orientation for freshmen. The program includes a series of small group meetings with officers who will get to know each student personally.

In the Army R.O.T.C. program, according to Colonel Norman Muller, this year's program has included a new orientation for freshmen. The program includes a series of small group meetings with officers who will get to know each student personally.

The awarding of scholarships has been a major area of renovation in the Air Force R.O.T.C. program. Captain George Finan, assistant professor of Aerospace Studies, said that this year's program has included a new orientation for freshmen. The program includes a series of small group meetings with officers who will get to know each student personally.

There has also been a surge in interest in the Arnold Air Society, a social organization which performs services for the local community, and in the rejuvenation of the Angel Flight Program, an organization of female cadets similar to the Arnold Air Society.

In the Navy R.O.T.C. program, according to Major David Garner, principal change has been the reorganization of the orientation program for new students. In previous years, the Navy's orientation activities were a hodgepodge of formalities, but this year's orientation will be a series of small group meetings conducted by officers who will get to know each student personally.
GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Admitting he is exceeding his jurisdiction, a federal judge said Thursday he'll have the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) rehear suspensions imposed upon two Michigan State University football players.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Noel Fox said he sought the rehearing Wednesday for two Michigan State football players, 20-year-old and 20-year-old.

The trigger for the judge's call was an order last week that former Arkansas football coach visited his Providence, R.I., home Tuesday night.

Coaches still have a "lot of questions" about the way the NCAA reviews suspensions, said the university's acting athletic director, former "any players have been signed. The Leis finished last season with 1-7 and 4-7 in conference.

The next one's on me.

The Georgetown squad arrived Wednesday for an international baseball tour. The 1975 total through games of Thursday had reached 310,197, passing the record of 310,926 which was set in 1972.

Last year's total was 29,789,916, the only one in the last four years when baseball attendance has missed the 30 million mark.

The American's and the Taiwanese fought to a 38-38 tie in the first half.

Top scorers for Georgetown were Steve Martin with 19 points and Larry a 23-point output.

The Georgetown squad arrived Wednesday for an eight-game series.

TAPIER (AP) — Dave Crucher picked a three-hit and a Mark Nearing drove in five runs Thursday to lead the United States to a 7-0 triumph over Nicaragua in an international baseball tournament.

In other second-round games Thursday, Japan overwhelmed the Philippines 18-2 in seven innings and South Korea stopped Nationalist China 8-0.

OPELKA, Ala. (AP) — Mike Hanley, a running back on Auburn University's football team, has been indicted by a grand jury on two counts of selling drugs.

The Lee County grand jury returned the indictment Wednesday. Hanley was arrested Saturday on $2,500 bond on each count. His trial has been set for Oct. 11.

Hanley, a senior from Oxford, Ala., has been one of Auburn's outstanding running backs. But Doug Barfield was unavailable for comment, but a spokesman in the sports information office said no decision has been made on whether Hanley will remain on the squad.

New York (AP) — Major league baseball has established an all-time attendance record, it was announced Thursday.

The 1975 total through games of Thursday had reached 310,197, passing the record of 310,926 which was set in 1972.

Last year's total was 29,789,916, the only one in the last four years when baseball attendance has missed the 30 million mark.

The rider of the Bravest

Nord Mem

Sports Writer

The Notre Dame field hockey team dropped its second game of the season today, 6-2, to Georgia College. Despite the 2-0 loss, team manager said the team had "a lot of good attacks" and "a lot more shots on goal" than they had last week against Illinois Tuesday.

Bancroft scored goals for the first time in the first half, and Doreen Bieber scored in the second half for a 2-0 win.

The Irish will participate in a three-way rodeo-deb with DePaul and Marquette on Eastier Field. The ND-PiDePaul game is set for 4 p.m. today.

Nord, a senior from Mayne, Mich., is a member of the Notre Dame, mayonnae, will do one for the Mayne.

The Senior Class announces that tickets to the Mayne (or the Bravest) will be sold after the game.

Nord, who was hospitalized Wednesday with a bleeding ulcer, was reported much improved Thursday, a school spokesman said.

McGuire, 60, became ill while making a speech to a civic club.

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Frank McGuire, basketball coach at South Carolina University, who was hospitalized Wednesday night, is improving. McGuire was admitted to the hospital after a basketball game against a Spartan fan's credit card to buy clothing. Four of the students present to review the

...two transaudio speakers, two $175.

$22.50.

...two transaudio speakers, two $175.

$22.50.

For very personal, personal. A

---

Call Gregg

287-7693.

---

Call Gregg

287-7693.

---

Call Gregg

287-7693.

---

Call Gregg

287-7693.

---

Call Gregg

287-7693.

---

Call Gregg

287-7693.

---

Call Gregg

287-7693.

---

Call Gregg

287-7693.

---

Call Gregg

287-7693.
Bird publishes Cultures in Conflict

Cultures in Conflict: An Essay in the Social Sciences has been published by The New Press. The book is an examination of the social sciences and their role in the modern world. It is considered a seminal work in the field, and it has been translated into several languages. Dr. Bettye Colburn, professor of sociology at the University of Michigan, has written a review of the book in the New York Times. She describes it as a "sensitive and insightful analysis of the role of the social sciences in the modern world."
Carter, Ford clash in televised debates

(Continued from page 1) of the Congress, we could fully justify a $25 billion tax reduction," Ford said.

As for the tax bill recently passed by Congress, Ford said he was "not entirely happy" with the proposals, but would have preferred another $10 billion in cuts.

The two candidates also debated Ford's recent assertion that President saying he has saved the taxpayers $9 billion by himself. The two candidates also debated Ford's recent assertion that President saying he has saved the taxpayers $9 billion by himself. For example, Ford's administration had reduced spending on social programs, but Carter said that this was due to successful economic policies. Ford countered by saying that the tax cuts he had signed into law had been necessary to stimulate the economy.

Carter said he was not entirely happy with the tax cuts, but added that they had helped to stimulate the economy and create jobs. Ford agreed that the tax cuts had helped, but said that the money should have been used to reduce the deficit.

Carter also complained about the deficit that this administration had and yet to condemn the service they had provided. Carter said, "...now he can't have it both ways.

But Carter said the record shows that unemployment has been in decline and that inflation has been under control. He said that the administration's claim of record "just doesn't go." Carter added that he had heard from a "great many" other groups about their problems, and that the administration had not responded to them.

Carter also claimed that he had increased the budget of the Census Bureau, which he had been critical of in the past. He said that he had increased the budget by $1 billion, and that the bureau was now able to do important work.

But Ford said that he had asked the staff members of the Census Bureau to resign, and that they had not responded to him. He said that the bureau was now in better shape.

Ford was asked, in light of his casting blame on Congress, whether he thought that a Democratic Congress was necessary. Ford replied that he would have preferred a Republican Congress, but that he was willing to work with either one.

But Ford said he thought the Republicans had a good chance of winning a majority in House seats and of making gains in the Senate. "And as a consequence, we will have a program with that kind of Congress," he said.

But in the event a Democratic Congress is elected, Ford said the program that would increase the deficit would be increased, as in the past.

Ford had said, however, that a "question of leadership" and said Presidents Eisenhower and Nixon had worked with Democratic con­gresses. He accused Ford of "pub­lic relations stunt" and never attempting to get what he wanted from Congress by working with the Congress. "This is government by stale­mate," Carter said.

Ford said there is considerable anti-Washington feeling outside the government, "but I think the feeling is misplaced. Any anti- Washington feeling should be focused on Congress," he said. "But where the problem is and I hope there will be some corrective action taken," he said.

Near the conclusion of the 90-minute question answer and retu­bution session, the Great Debate became a silent debate. The tele­vision networks lost their sound for 27 minutes, and the candidates stood silent.

The candidates wrapped it up in overtime, with summations that were, in essence, reviews of their standard campaign speeches.

But they had not had leadership in this administration," Carter said. "We've had a government of stalemates." It is a theme he has been the highest platform and one he raised at intervals during the last debate, he noted. Carter said the students would be useful.

Parnell sees no drastic change in the Innsbruck format. "We wouldn't want to destroy the vitality of the group, but we don't want a ghetto either. We want a single group which seeks to open itself to the exterior."

Perhaps former Innsbrucker Scott Appleby summed up the experience for the student leaders. "It's the most freedom we've ever had in our life and probably the most freedom we'll ever have again. What better conditions to learn about others and yourself?"

Carter said he had a majority campaign issue is trust. "A President should not be all things to all people," he said. "A President should be the same thing to all people." He had already accused Carter of impression and wavering on eco­nomic issues including taxes.

Furthermore, Ford said in his summation, Carter had endorsed a Democratic platform that advocates more programs, more spending, and would mean higher taxes and bigger deficits. He said Carter embraces the record of the Demo­cratic Congress, and "it calls for more of the same."

In an earlier exchange, Carter had said that he was to be defeated with all acts of a Congress in which he never served. Ford should be identified with the administration of Richard M. Nixon, in which he did serve.

"I think the real issue in this campaign and that which you must decide on now is whether you should set for his promises or my performance in two years in the White House," Ford said.
Irish invade Wildcat lair for finale

by Ray O'Brien
Sports Writer

A rejuvenated Notre Dame team hits the road this Saturday with their destination Evanston, Ill., home of the Northwestern Wildcats. This annual confrontation between the Irish and the Wildcats that began in 1926 is the oldest in the last ten contests. This week comes at an opportune time for the Irish. Last week’s 23-0 drubbing of Purdue, encouraging the team still had a lot to prove and improvement in several areas is necessary. The offensive line was well coordinated which allowed the defense to execute more efficiently. Each game should show marked improvement in this area. Northwestern’s defensive line has been inconsistent in the first two games and should prove to be a good test for the Irish.

The offensive backfield is healthy and beginning to roll. Halfback Al Hunter and fullback Jerome Heaven look to form and should provide a good yardage against Northwestern’s rubber back defense. The team could use a little favor with the fans. A good game for the Irish was the performance of the team a big lift and initiate some momentum for the defense.

Notre Dame’s defense has been outstanding against Northwestern in the past five games. They have allowed the Wildcats only two touchdowns and a total of 17 points in this five span while the Irish have compiled a phenomenal 211 points in these confrontations. Last year’s defensive standout was captain Willie Fyke who blocked a Wildcat punt which set up an Irish touchdown.

Quarterback Rick Slager will need the help of an improving offense line if he is to move the ball down the field against Northwestern. (Photo by Joe Burns.)

Fred Herbst

Football Picks

The Irish Eye

As usual, the college football season has produced its share of upsets and surprise teams. After a rash of upsets in the opening week, most of the favorites managed to win last week, with Missouri being the notable exception. Ranked the top team in the nation by the Sporting News last week, winning over USC, the Tigers were humbled by Illinois, 17-13.

Illinois has to be one of the surprise teams in the nation thus far. The Illini are undefeated to date, including last week’s impressive win over Missouri in the team’s most recent game. The Gamecocks upset the Illini at their site to 3-0 last week, beating Duke. Fans will find out tomorrow how good the Fighting Illini are when they meet the Wildcats.

Perhaps the biggest surprise of the year is the second week of the season. Both teams are on the way up. and it looks like Notre Dame is one of the teams to beat this year.

The Tennessee Vols are going to face the Kansas State Wildcats in this weekend’s game. The Vols have won their first two games, but the Wildcats have had a tough time winning.

On Tuesday, Sept. 28; sophomores on Wednesday, Sept. 29; and juniors on Thursday, Sept. 30. Tickets are available only through the student ticket window located at 1301 University Ave. Students must present their ID card along with their student ID card to present with their ID. Students desiring a ticket to the game must fill out an application will be included in a student's season ticket. Tickets will be sold at the student ticket window located at 1301 University Ave.

A rejuvenated Notre Dame team will play against Northwestern this Saturday. The Wildcats are expected to be a tough challenge for the Irish.

As the college football season progresses, there will be several upsets and surprise teams. It will be interesting to see which teams will come out on top.

California at Arizona State: California is a fine team that has had the misfortune of opening on the road against Georgia and Oklahoma. They’re a much better club than their 0-2 record indicates. Arizona State is 0-1 following their season opener loss to UCLA. They’ve had two weeks to think about that one, and they know that another loss would mean that Coach Fred Fink will kill them one-by-one. Arizona State by 3: ASU by 10.

Vanderbilt at Alabama: Vandy has a decent little team, but Alabama has an awesome one. After losing their opener, Bear’s boys made up their mind to play football and led SMU by a mere 3 points. They should do more of the same this week. Barna by 17. O’Brien: The Tide 14.

San Diego State at Bowling Green: Both teams are on the way up, and it should be an interesting game. Bowling Green has the edge since they’re at home, but San Diego State is definitely stronger. The Aztecs will upset their site to 3-0 last week, beating Duke. Fans will find out tomorrow how good the Fighting Aztecs are when they meet the Fighting Irish.

Miami, Ohio at Cincinnati: This has to be one of the most bitter rivalries in the nation. Located only about 40 miles from each other, their confrontations rears more than games. The RedHawks are in defeat. The Bearcats are in victory. The Bearcats have won their site to 3-0 last week, beating Duke. Fans will find out tomorrow how good the Bearcats are when they meet the RedHawks.

New Hampshire at Dartmouth: New Hampshire is the fourth-ranked Division II school in the country so they’re going to be tough for Greg Robinson and the rest of the Green and White. Still, Dartmouth is probably the favorite. They should take it. Dartmouth 3: New Hampshire by 4.

Baylor at Illinois: Are the Illini real? It’s hard to say, so far they’ve only played lowly Iowa and vastly over-rated Missouri. Baylor’s nothing to be afraid about, but the Illini shouldn’t have any trouble. Illinois by 7.

Lehigh at Penn: This is the first of five games against Division I schools for the Engineers this year, and they have something to prove. Lehigh, defending Lambert Cup Champion and 2-0 for the season, wasn’t ranked in this week’s Division II poll and they’re a bit of a surprise. Look for Big John Hargis to take out his rage on the Quakers. Lehigh by 3: O’Brien: The Engineers by 10.\n
Maryland at Syracuse: The Orange are making progress. Slow and painful but sure, but all the same, progress. Maryland is already where they were last year. The Orange are one of the teams to beat this year.

Missouri at Ohio State: This is an interesting battle. Everyone knows how good the Buckeyes are, but what about the Tigers? Missouri made shambles of Southern Cal only to be routed the next week by Illinois. The Tigers that played in Los Angeles could beat Woody, but the Tigers that played last week can’t. Will the real Missouri please stand up? Ohio State by 14. O’Brien: Bucks by 10.

Texas Christian at Nebraska: TCU has been known for their great looking crowds and their football, or lack of football as the case may be. On the other hand, Nebraska is one of the best teams in the nation, despite an opening season tie. Huskers by 17. O’Brien: Nebraska by 23.

Texas Tech at New Mexico: The Red Raiders have been on the verge of a great season for the last ten years and have yet to have one. Irish eye 2-5. The Sooners are coming off a solid performance last in their opener against the Bears. Dean’s favorite target is flanker Dean Fry who blocked a deep threat who has been the Fighting Irish’s best player. Fry who blocked a deep threat who has been the Fighting Irish’s best player.

Lehug at Penn: This is the first of five games against Division I schools for the Engineers this year, and they have something to prove. Lehigh, defending Lambert Cup Champion and 2-0 for the season, wasn’t ranked in this week’s Division II poll and they’re a bit of a surprise. Look for Big John Hargis to take out his rage on the Quakers. Lehigh by 3: O’Brien: The Engineers by 10.\n
Maryland at Syracuse: The Orange are making progress. Slow and painful but sure, but all the same, progress. Maryland is already where they were last year. The Orange are one of the teams to beat this year.

Missouri at Ohio State: This is an interesting battle. Everyone knows how good the Buckeyes are, but what about the Tigers? Missouri made shambles of Southern Cal only to be routed the next week by Illinois. The Tigers that played in Los Angeles could beat Woody, but the Tigers that played last week can’t. Will the real Missouri please stand up? Ohio State by 14. O’Brien: Bucks by 10.

Texas Christian at Nebraska: TCU has been known for their great looking crowds and their football, or lack of football as the case may be. On the other hand, Nebraska is one of the best teams in the nation, despite an opening season tie. Huskers by 17. O’Brien: Nebraska by 23.

Texas Tech at New Mexico: The Red Raiders have been on the verge of a great season for the last ten years and have yet to have one. Irish eye 2-5. The Sooners are coming off a solid performance last in their opener against the Bears. Dean’s favorite target is flanker Dean Fry who blocked a deep threat who has been the Fighting Irish’s best player.

As the college football season progresses, there will be several upsets and surprise teams. It will be interesting to see which teams will come out on top.

Florida State at Oklahoma: Florida State doesn’t play bad football, but there’s no way on earth they can match them Sooners. Oklahoma is a power squad and unhuskkable the strong before their showdown with Nebraska. And who says crime doesn’t pay? Oklahoma by 10. O’Brien: Sooners by 14.

Southern Cal at Purdue: The Trojan team that rolled over Oregon (53-0) last week is expected to make a game of it. A rejuvenated Notre Dame team that played there last week is pitiful at best. Still, Purdue is better than they looked against the Irish and could make a game of it. Just don’t bet on it. USC by 21. O’Brien: USC by 7.

UPSET of the WEEK

South Carolina at Georgia: The Bulldogs are a good football team, as is evidenced by their convincing win over California. The Gamecocks are not rated and have a solid club. Carolina is off to their best start in many years, winning their first three games. As Notre Dame will find out, South Carolina is a good football team. Gamecocks by 3: O’Brien: Georgia by 7.

LAST WEEK: 105,67, 57,; Guest Picker Gregg Bings: 12, 80, 80.

The two teams are neck and neck in the record books. Both teams have won several championships and have produced many all-time greats. The Irish have had more recent success, winning the national championship last year. But the real star on North- western’s team is tailback Greg Robinson. Blyth, who drafted to return to play out his red shirt year to 1957, is a candidate because the Wildcat’s 30-10 record this season has earned him 280 yards. In the two games this year he has totaled 158 yards. The Irish must stop Robinson if they want to win.

Northwestern’s defense remains a question mark. The secondary is fairly good, but there isn’t much depth. Pete Shaw who is also a dangerous punt returner is one of the keys. His defensive line has been very weak the past two years. The secondary is not included in a student's season ticket. Tickets will be played on the first day of mid-season break semester, Oct. 16.

Seniors may pick up their tickets on Monday, Sept. 27. Juniors, graduate and law students on Tuesday, Sept. 28; sophomores on Wednesday, Sept. 29; and freshmen on Thursday, Sept. 30. Tickets are available only through the student ticket window located at 1301 University Ave. Students must present their ID card to receive their tickets. There will be no charge for Notre Dame undergraduates. However, St. Mary’s students will be charged $6 for their ticket while Notre Dame in this last battle of the century. The Wildcats that played in Los Angeles could beat Woody, but the Tigers that played last week can’t. Will the real Missouri please stand up? Ohio State by 14. O’Brien: Bucks by 10.

Baylor at Illinois: Are the Illini real? It’s hard to say, so far they’ve only played lowly Iowa and vastly over-rated Missouri. Baylor’s nothing to be afraid about, but the Illini shouldn’t have any trouble. Illinois by 7.