Ford speaks in Indianapolis, "raps" Carter on economy, promises jobs for everyone

by Barbara Breitstein
Political Writer

President Gerald Ford brought his bid for re-election to Indiana yesterday morning, speaking to over 1000 supporters at the Scottish Rite Cathedral in Indianapolis. The two-hour tour of the city is the President's only appearance in Indiana since receiving the Republican party nomination in August.

Ford spoke in Indianapolis yesterday morning from Pennsylvania, where he had been campaigning Wednesday. Before delivering his speech, Ford attended a "coffee and doughnut" reception.

Over 2000 people awaited Ford's arrival and departure outside the doors of the cathedral, where the President's speech was broadcast over loudspeakers. Ford shook hands with the crowd after the speech, then traveled to Cincinnati for more campaigning.

Several students from the Notre Dame-St. Mary's College Republican Club and Indiana University for Ford also attended the speech in Indianapolis.

In his speech, Ford also compared the U.S. economy to that of Great Britain. "I read about the current crisis in Great Britain," he said, "and it was before the government spending in Great Britain accounts for 60 percent of the entire British economy..."

Ford quoted British Prime Minister Jim Callaghan, saying, "We believe that you could spend your way out of a recession and increase employment by cutting taxes and boosting government spending, that option no longer exists."

We must not let that happen to the United States," Ford warned. "As long as I'm President of the United States, we will avoid it," he declared.

Attack on Congress

The Republican candidate once again attacked the Democratic Congress in his speech, saying, "If Congress had been smart, they would have given you that type of tax relief that would have given you over April $1,250 in tax exemptions. How could Congress be so stupid not to do it?"

Ford noted the Congress had failed to pass a bill which he had originated which would have provided such tax cuts. Ford also mentioned briefly his debates with Carter. He proposed that these encounters "ought to be institutionalized."

Making his own observations on the debates, Ford termed, "I hoped that Mr. Carter would answer some of the questions that I would question my answers." Ford was alluding to his statement on Eastern Europe in the second debate.

Governor Otis R. Bowen in Indiana introduced the President, who was accompanied on the platform by actor Forrest Tucker, He said he would accept as mayor of Cincinnati. Richard Lugar, Republican candidate for the Senate from Indiana, and William H. Hudnut, Mayor of Indianapolis. Joe Garagiola, sports broadcaster and a Ford supporter, also attended the speech.

Carter envisions possible tax break resulting from reform in structure

by Gregg Bangs
Political Editor

Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter said yesterday he would institute economic programs which would bring a substantial tax cut.

According to a report filed by Dave Riley of the Associated Press, Carter talked about the tax cut at a press conference in Erie, Pa. When asked how large the cuts would be, Carter replied, "I don't know."

Tax reduction

The former Georgia governor also mentioned the possibility of the tax cut in an interview held in Philadelphia. He told a reporter that instead of raising taxes there is a "much more likely prospect of tax reductions for the next four years. I believe it is almost inevitable."

Earlier in the campaign, Carter said he would change the tax burden to give tax cuts to lower and middle-income families by shifting tax loopholes, reducing tax rates and throwing more of a burden on upper-income taxpayers.

New York rally

In a speech Wednesday night, Carter stated his plans could increase revenue by $28 billion. That money, he said, could be used "partly for a substantial tax reduction."

The revenues would come from balancing the budget, cutting unemployment and strengthening the national growth rate.

However, Carter's aide later said the former governor was not proposing a tax cut or saying he expects a tax cut. The aide said Carter's statement meant if the tax level is changed, a reduction would be more likely than an increase.

Early in the speech, Carter said that instead of raising taxes there is a "much more likely prospect of tax reductions for the next four years. I believe it is almost inevitable."

The former governor was not pro- posing a tax cut or saying he expects a tax cut. The aide said Carter's statement meant if the tax level is changed, a reduction would be more likely than an increase.

Early in the speech, Carter said the tax burden to give tax cuts to lower and middle-income families by shifting tax loopholes, reducing tax rates and throwing more of a burden on upper-income taxpayers.

Happy Halloween!

Witches are people, too...too frightfully fridnihal, too helplessly heinous, too unrelentingly repugnant to be anything but a thing...well, some creatures of the night hours, certainly frighteningly fiendish, too repugnant to be anything but Witches always exist."

Halloween Special...

Dr. Jeffrey Russell looks into the origins of Halloween and the current upsurge in interest in the occult. ... on page 11...
Phone books distributed Friday

An American Association of University Women Director of Writing and Publications, Carl Magel, announced that the 1976-77 Notre Dame and St. Mary's phone books will arrive Friday, Nov. 5. The directories include both Notre Dame and St. Mary's and will then be distributed starting Monday, Nov. 8.

The cover of the directory features a color photograph of a landscape.

Sophomore formal plans outlined

Tickets for the SMC-ND sophomore class formal go on sale today in St. Mary's dining hall or through Notre Dame Hall representatives. The price of the tickets is $6.

The formal, scheduled for Sat., Nov. 6 will be held in Tippinique Mansion, South Bend, and will feature "Surface." For further information, contact Terry Trotty, 4387.

Bureau to aid student funding

The American College and University Service Bureau has begun a program to help students obtain foundation funds. Dr. Robert J. Boileau, Bureau director, explained, "Millions of dollars originally set up in foundations for students in various fields goes untouched each year. Qualified students do not know of the funds and in many cases have never heard of the foundation."

The Bureau seeks to make contact with students, both graduate and undergraduate, and make them aware of these opportunities.

Students interested in information about participating in this program can write the American College and University Service Bureau, Dept. F, 1278-5050 Poplar, Memphis, Tenn. 38147.

The Observer

Night Editors: Dan Sanchez, Chris Smith

Asst Night Editors: Martha Fanning, Joe Blau, Paul Shappler, Maureen Saible, Maureen Fjorcey

Editorial Layout: Jerrica Hickey

Features Layout: Dominick Saline

Sports Layout: Val Zurzulis

Tipsheets: Nancy Gore, Mary McCormick, Dan Roos, Kathy Egan

Early Morning Tipsheet: Terri Hargis

Day Editor: Jane Povlett

Copy Reader: Tom Byrnes

Ad-Layout: Beth and Pat Photographers: Debbie Stovall

Psychology Dep't offers grad advice

The Department of Psychology will hold its annual meeting to counsel prospective graduate psychology students in Room 200 of Haggard Hall on Thurs., Nov. 4 at 7 p.m.

Various members of the faculty will be available to offer information and advice on preparing applications to graduate psychology programs.

NOTICE

Because of the need to better serve you during the Holiday Season it is suggested: Airline reservations and tickets be confirmed prior to your departure date. This will enable us to honor your personal check.

FIRST BANK TRAVEL ON CAMPUS
BADIN HALL 283 - 7080
Response to swine flu shots good

by Chris Smith
Asst. Managing Editor

A steady stream of students, faculty and staff to Stepan Center yesterday and today, with officials terming the very effective immunization program.

According to Pat Pasicki, director of nurses to the St. Joseph County Health Department, "between 4500 and 5000 were vaccinated, who were there. We feel that 50 percent is good, and I think we reached that."

"We got a very positive response," said Immunization Representative Terry Eck. "We felt that students would be turned off because this is a federal program, but they weren't at all hesistant."

Eck explained that the usual hypodermic syringes were not used for the flu shots.

"The vaccine is administered with a jet injector. Pressure from a piston forces a fine stream of vaccine into the tissue."

Overall reaction to the vaccination was favorable. Most found the jet gun faster and less painful than the syringe and needle.

Mike Karelak, a junior, commented, "It felt like a needle, only faster." Fr. Matt Miceli said, "It didn't even hurt." Assistant Sharon Carr confirmed that there was little discomfort. She was impressed that the whole procedure was quick.

Bro. Edward Luther, a Red Cross volunteer and member of Moreau Seminary, said he had to administer the first aid in case it was needed.

"About five students fainted," he said. "But after maybe 10 minutes each case recovered." Bro. Luther added that the immediate reaction as the probable cause of these cases.

Perhaps the only mix-up of the program was confusion about late health officials would be at Stepan Center. Joel Burian, student liaison for the health department apologized for the miscommunication.

Dr. Burian recommends that anyone still wishing to be vaccinated should go to one of the future sites at which the health officials will be present.

Good even-eeng!!!

Have you had your bat flu injection?

BEWARE!! Reliable sources report that this individual has escaped from the Sacred Heart Crypt and is prowling the campus in search of a transfusion, a drop slip and his overdue laundry. He can be stopped only if he strips in the stadium or plays frisbee on the quad.

Volcano expert fired for correct prediction

PARIS (AP) - Haroun Tazieff, one of the world's leading authorities on volcanoes, has been fired from his post as head of a study institute after a dispute over a Caribbean volcano that was supposed to explode like an atomic bomb last summer - but never did.

Claude Allegre, director of the Global Physics Institute, a branch of Paris University, yesterday said he had dismissed Tazieff as head of the institute's volcanology service.

Tazieff, 63, who remains director of the Institute for National Scientific Research, said he was fired because the institute considered he left the French island of Guadeloupe before all danger of an eruption by the volcano, La Soufriere, had disappeared.

Other sources indicated the firing stemmed from disparaging comments Tazieff made about French scientists who considered the volcano to be more of a danger than he did.

The move came as Guadeloupe authorities resumed full municipal services and refugees were allowed to return to their homes yesterday for the first time since August in the island's administrative capital of Basseterre.

About 70,000 people were evacuated from an area around the volcano Aug. 17 after scientists said La Soufriere's eruption was inevitable. They predicted it could have caused the death of up to 3,000 people, perhaps more.

The evacuation caused substantial economic losses on Guadeloupe and the government has instituted an emergency relief program to help offset the impact.

Tazieff said he had had to leave Guadeloupe because he had been called away by the government and Westerners wouldn't have had time to go ahead with the evacuation.

"My answer is that if you ask an expert like me this opinion, he's not there to serve as a tranglisor," Tazieff said. From May to September last year he said four times the La Soufriere wasn't dangerous. It remains extremely moderate and no one should ever have spoken about an eruption."

1976 Urban Ministry Conference to convene at ACC, Nov. 7

Ministry toward empowerment-social ministry as a way of empowering others will be the focus of the 17th annual conference of the Catholic Committee on Urban Ministries (CCUM) to be held at the University of Notre Dame in South Bend, Nov. 7-11.

This year's meeting marks the 10th anniversary of CCUM's founding in 1967 byMgr. John J. Egan, then pastor of the Presentation Parish, when he joined the University's staff in 1970.

Egan brought the secretariat of the organization to Notre Dame.

CCUM is a national network of priests, religious and lay persons who support each other in their social justice activities. The 1976 meeting is billed as "a demonstration of that network of support."

The expected 500 participants will spend most of the five-day conference in "something-to-say" workshops on specific issues and ministries, which they will offer themselves for each other, and in workshops on community organization conducted by professionals from community organizations.

Rev. Philip Murnion, newly elected chairman of CCUM's board of directors, will open the meeting at 8:30 a.m. Sunday, with a "State of CCUM" address.

Father Murnion replaced Mgr. Egan, who resigned following his recent appointment as a special assistant to Notre Dame President. Father Theodore M. Hesburgh, C.S.C., to coordinate campus programs in the urban ministry area, to represent the University in relations with other campus and community organizations.

Requests for additional information and applications should be directed to the Catholic Committee on Urban Ministries, University of Notre Dame, Notre Dame, Indiana 46556.

Precious hours passed before divers were called

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Some of the 72 persons killed after the ferry George Prince sank in the Mississippi River could have been rescued if divers had been called quickly, one of the rescue workers testified yesterday.

Diver Fred Hurt was the first commercial diver called to the sunken ferry vessel at 3 a.m. Sunday.

"It was the wrong decision," Hurt told a reporter he made to the Coast Guard and the city. Hurt said he was called at 3 a.m. Sunday by Coast Guard officials.

"We didn't even have an inquiry that he was not there to serve as a tranquilizer'1" Hurt told a reporter he made to the Coast Guard and the city. Hurt said he was called at 3 a.m. Sunday by Coast Guard officials.

"We didn't even have an inquiry that he was not there to serve as a tranquilizer'1"

"We didn't even have an inquiry that he was not there to serve as a tranquilizer'1"

"We didn't even have an inquiry that he was not there to serve as a tranquilizer'1"

"We didn't even have an inquiry that he was not there to serve as a tranquilizer'1"

SUNDAY MASSES (Main Church)

5:15 p.m. Saturday
9:30 a.m. Sunday
10:45 a.m. Sunday
12:15 p.m. Sunday

Rev. Robert Griffin, C.S.C.
Rev. Edward Kilmin, S.J.
Rev. William Toohey, C.S.C.

Vespers will be at 7:15 p.m. in Lady Chapel, 9:30 a.m. Sunday
Rev. Edward Kilmin, S.J.

The White House Inn

ROCK & ROLL WITH THE BEST BANDS IN THE MIDWEST NITELY (Except Tues)

THIS WEEK: STAR TROOPER

The White House Inn

683-9842

728 N. 51 St. Niles,
Take U. S. 31 to Niles, North on 51, 3 miles.
WASHINGTON (AP) - President Ford proposed yesterday a new policy against the spread of nuclear weapons, turning sharply away from plutonium as a future atomic fuel for the world's power plants.

The policy, announced by Ford in Cincinnati, Ohio during a campaign stop there, and explained by administration officials in Washing- ton, is similar in many respects to proposals made a month ago by Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter.

Ford said the world must continu- e to develop nuclear energy production using uranium as the fuel. But he added, "the nuclear process creates another element, plutonium, which is a serious health hazard in itself and as far easier to convert into nuclear weapons."

"I have concluded," Ford added, "that the repressing and recycling of plutonium from spent uranium fuel should not proceed unless there is sound reason to conclude that the world community can effectively overcome the associated risk of nuclear weapons prolifera-

Ford said: "The United States should no longer regard reprocessing of used nuclear fuel to produce plutonium as a necessary and inevitable step."

The new policy sends the Energy Research and Development Administration - ERDA - back to the drawing board for a new look at its earlier proposal of government support for plutonium reprocessing plant, partially completed by pri-

The new policy also includes U.S. and international sanctions against the misuse of peaceful nuclear aid to develop nuclear weapons, and a series of efforts to gain international cooperation in restraining the spread of plutonium production and reprocessing facilities to nations that do not already have them.

Charles Robinson, deputy secretary of state, told the briefing that the United States is eager to consult with other nations active as suppliers of nuclear materials and equipment, including the Soviet Union, with encour-ing results.

The former White House aide who has been found to be guilty of conspiring to obstruct justice and perjury, and who has served 2 and a half years, will be eligible for parole after serving 23/4 years. Ehrlichman will become the first of the three men closest to Richard M. Nixon - chief of staff H.R. Halde-

Ehrlichman expressed con-

Ehrlichman expressed concern, meaning that Ehrlichman will be eligible for parole after serving 2 and a half years.

A provision in the law, however, gives Sirica to reduce a sentence within four months after Ehrlichman's release. Sirica has said that prior to the previous, reduc-

Sirica and Gesell jointly issued a pledge to cut off nuclear cooperation from any nation violating anti-weapons safeguards and to seek international sanctions against such violators.

Sirica has recommended that the United States refuse to sell nuclear reactors to nations which do not submit to "international safeguards."

Ford expressed the concern that the world's community can effectively overcome the associated risk of nuclear weapons proliferation.

"There is sound reason to con-
The new policy also includes U.S. and international sanctions against the misuse of peaceful nuclear aid to develop nuclear weapons, and a series of efforts to gain international cooperation in restraining the spread of plutonium production and reprocessing facilities to nations that do not already have them.

"The new policy also includes U.S. and international sanctions against the misuse of peaceful nuclear aid to develop nuclear weapons, and a series of efforts to gain international cooperation in restraining the spread of plutonium production and reprocessing facilities to nations that do not already have them."

"I have concluded," Ford added, "that the repressing and recycling of plutonium from spent uranium fuel should not proceed unless there is sound reason to conclude that the world community can effectively overcome the associated risk of nuclear weapons proliferation."

"The new policy also includes U.S. and international sanctions against the misuse of peaceful nuclear aid to develop nuclear weapons, and a series of efforts to gain international cooperation in restraining the spread of plutonium production and reprocessing facilities to nations that do not already have them."

"I have concluded," Ford added, "that the repressing and recycling of plutonium from spent uranium fuel should not proceed unless there is sound reason to conclude that the world community can effectively overcome the associated risk of nuclear weapons proliferation."
Rhodines hold meeting

GENEVA (Switzerland) - The black-white conference on the future of Rhodesia opened here yesterday in the atmosphere of deep pessimism.

The formal opening session of the talks, bringing together Prime Minister Ian Smith and four black national leaders, lasted only about 25 minutes. The next session was set for Saturday morning, when chief delegates will make opening speeches.

In a short welcoming address, British chairman Ivor Richard said all five Rhodesian delegations had come to Geneva accepting the principle that black majority rule would be achieved within two years.

The first meeting was delayed for several hours by black protests against Britain's handling of the conference arrangements. Rich-ard told delegates beforehand the major problem was the "v�enous relationship of positions between the two sides. One sees it, one can almost feel it in the air around this building, and this town."

Aim of the conference is to arrange peaceful transition to black rule in the breakaway British colony in southern Africa, where blacks outnumber the ruling whites by a margin of 278,000.

Two of the black leaders delayed the formal start of the meeting in the Palace of Nations with a demand that Richard, British ambassador to the United Nations, be given the status of a cabinet minister.

Black African sources said this was granted after Richard consulted with authorities in London.

"It will be close, with the remaining variable being the turn- out," said Gray Davis, chief adviser to Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. "It's coming together. Yes, we will win."

The first loyalty of many campaign volunteers is to the favorite sons who swept the California primary - former Gov. Ronald Reagan on the Republican side and Brown in the Democratic ranks.

But Reagan's grass-roots organization has provided manpower for Ford. And loyal followers of Chavez, who is closely tied to Brown, led a recent Democratic registration drive, signing up about 125,000 new voters since August. Reagan and Brown have kept a certain distance from Ford and Carter. But both have campaigned actively.

Cycle Club meets again in Rathskeller

The second monthly meeting of the newly formed Cycle Town Club will take place this Monday Nov. 1, at 7:30 in the Rathskeller.

The main event of the meeting, with a short presentation on "Your Bike" and by Mark Horten, will be topics to be discussed include buying and adjusting a bicycle to yourself and various condition exercises to help with cycling.

The meeting will conclude with discussions on future bicycle trips, winter ideas for club activities, and the possibility of including cross-country skiing as a winge club activity.

No one who has a friend is ever alone.
You can share your love, your gifts, yourself with the graces of Appalachia, that is, as a Catholic Brother, Sister, or priest. In giving, you will receive again, and again, and again.

Write for free information—without obligation.
Glenmary Missioners, Room S-22
Box 46404, Cincinnati, OH 45246

Name ____________________________ Age ______
Address __________________________
City ____________________________ State ______ Zip __________

Special Holy Day Mass

ALL SAINTS LITURGY

5:00 pm

Monday, November 1st

Sacred Heart Church

Celebrant: Rev. Michael Glockner, C.S.C.

There will also be an All Saints Mass in Sacred Heart church at 11:30 a.m. on Monday.

Check bulletin boards for times of Mass in dorms.
Cyanamid’s Affleck views trade

by Ginger McGowan

The multi-national corporation has become "an instrument for international stability and cooperation," President Jimmy Carter, declared yesterday. Carter supported in home state, from the Bull's Eye: The International Stability and Social Development in his address, entitled "Against a Babel of Subsidiaries." He noted that the Cyanamid's Brazilian subsidiaries, "(all but a handful) of the managers, supervisors, scientists and technicians are Brazilians. Affleck characterized such local employees as being the leading edge of economic and social development. American multinational corporations operate under governments ranging from military regimes and communist dictatorships to democracies, acknowledged Affleck. "This requires a multinational to comply with the national regulations of each country in which it operates," Affleck stated.

Carter supported in home state, "Deep South" supports him, too

ATLANTA (AP) - Jimmy Carter seems certain to pull his home state back into the Democratic presidential column for the first time in 12 years, but not with the landslide he built to win the Georgia Democratic primary seven months ago.

"I don't think there is in any question that Gov. Carter will carry his home state in the November general election," says Gov. George Busbee, who succeeded Carter as chairman of the board of directors of Aetna, Inc. and chairman of the board of directors of the Georgia Research Corp. "I don't think there is any question that he is the overwhelming favorite among Democrats and independent voters."

Busbee said Aetna with a 49.5-38.5 victory over Ford in October compared to a 53.5-32.8 lead in September.

"In the Deep South, Carter is still comfortably ahead," Carter said. "But Ford is rapidly gaining on him."

"The poll, he said, has an error factor of plus or minus four percentage points on either way."

The poll, conducted and released by Darden Research, consists of 500 registered voters in the state's first presidential contest, according to the Times-Georiga. Darden said that poll also has an error factor of plus or minus four percentage points on either way.

"The head齐在, Carter supporters in home state, "Deep South" supports him, too

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Ford administration has approved the sale of two advanced computers to China as a gesture of support for the new Peking regime, government officials said yesterday.

The first of the two computer systems will be used by the Chinese military, and the other, to be delivered later, probably will be used to help detect earthquakes.

Wreckage located but no trace found of lost crew

WOODS HOLE, Mass. (AP) - Divers located the wreckage of the flying boat Patricia Marie on Thursday, but found no trace of six Provincetown crewmen missing since the vessel sank Sunday night. The Coast Guard said.

Divers from the National Marine Fisheries Service searched the craft after it was found resting upright in 130 feet of water, three miles off the outer arm of Cape Cod. The Coast Guard planned to try to salvage the sunken vessel into shallower waters Fridays.

"Anastasia" denounces book

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) - An Edward R. Murrow lifetime achievement award winner, Alexander Pushkin, the Russian poet, once wrote: "We have the best qualities of our society . . . packaged and implanted elsewhere."

Affleck fielded questions from the audience following his address and also at a press conference preceding his speech. He outlined the apolitical stance of multinationals even in countries such as South Africa, although he revealed that they are under pressure from certain groups to remove their business from that nation.

Affleck also indicated that he views the multinational corporation as being overregulated by the government.

"Business should be regulated so they don't do things that are patently against the public trust," he said. "But beyond that, the less regulation you apply, the better the result you'll get."

Affleck noted that he has spear-headed a new educational program to familiarize elementary and secondary school children to the free enterprise system with the cooperation of 100 companies. Dr. Affleck was sponsored by the Executive Lecture Series Committee and introduced by chairwoman Janet Kazmerski.
Eskimos stranded by weather

SPENCE BAT, Canada (AP) - High winds and blowing snow have dashed saulav snowmobile-borne rested there a group of Eskimos on a hunting trip stranded on their way back home by weather conditions.

The group of 10 men and women had left Gjoa Haven on the Arctic coast in western Canada to make a camp for them, but high winds and blowing snow forced them to make it difficult to travel.

They reported that they were stranded by high winds and blowing snow, with temperatures dropping to minus 35 degrees.

They had left Gjoa Haven on Sept. 18 in a blizzard and had expected to reach their home by Sept. 21, but high winds and blowing snow forced them to stay there.

Ford-Carter confrontations spur more local debates

The Ford-Carter campaign debates are being held this week.

The Ford-Carter campaign debates are being held this week.

The format of the debates varies from state to state. Candidates in Wyoming, Washington, North Carolina, New Hampshire, Florida, Delaware and North Carolina, among others, are

The debates are held to give the public a chance to hear from
the candidates.

The debates are held to give the public a chance to hear from
the candidates.

The format of the debates varies from state to state. Candidates in Wyoming, Washington, North Carolina, New Hampshire, Florida, Delaware and North Carolina, among others, are

The debates are held to give the public a chance to hear from
the candidates.

The format of the debates varies from state to state. Candidates in Wyoming, Washington, North Carolina, New Hampshire, Florida, Delaware and North Carolina, among others, are

The debates are held to give the public a chance to hear from
the candidates.

The format of the debates varies from state to state. Candidates in Wyoming, Washington, North Carolina, New Hampshire, Florida, Delaware and North Carolina, among others, are

The debates are held to give the public a chance to hear from
the candidates.

The format of the debates varies from state to state. Candidates in Wyoming, Washington, North Carolina, New Hampshire, Florida, Delaware and North Carolina, among others, are

The debates are held to give the public a chance to hear from
the candidates.
Dear Sir:

We would like to address this letter to alumni and students of the University of Notre Dame and St. Mary's, and in particular to alumni, students, faculty, and staff.

As responsible members of the university community, we believe it is important to address the recent events and developments in a constructive and respectful manner. It is our hope that this letter will contribute to a productive dialogue and promote a deeper understanding of the issues at hand.

We refer to the National Anthem we refer to the Cincinnati Reds, World Champions, as the team that represents the values of our university community. As athletes in defense of the right to life, we feel it is time someone said what we believe.

While we agree with the million-dollar athletes who fight forever for the right of an unborn child, we believe that a million-dollar athlete could make a difference. Mr. Spina has been quoted as saying that Chip quoted a single team -- a team that he said, "Nope," he said.

The final statement which he made, "any personal favoritism," which is not the case, is that Chip cannot be personally opposed but will fight forever for the right of a woman to choose. What a noble gesture! For my money, a man who is personally opposed to something as crucial as the murder of an unborn child, but will fight forever for the right of a woman to choose, is no man.

The author (whose name I do not mention, since he sufficiently distinguished himself in his comparison) which I cannot help but agree with, high lighted by the right to life groups in the nation's temperance league. Surely he would not seriously want to equate a unborn child to a bottle of Ripple, or Chivas Regal for that matter.

Spina attacked the press by saying, "Maybe I was a little harsh on them back then" (very kind of you, Chip). What he forget was that he predicted Danny Ozark's "hungry" Phillies to sweep the World Series. As this is another argument for an appropriate process. I submit this was when I took the high road on hopes of overcoming any infallible prejudice.

As athletes in defense of the right to life, we feel it is time someone said what we believe.

WASHINGTON — It has been traduced in most presidential campaigns that the men running for high office and their running mates for Vice President take the high road for some reason it hasn’t happened this year.

I discovered this when I took the high road over the other day and found a lonely traffic cop sitting in his car. "You’re the first person I’ve seen up here since the presidential campaign started," he said.

"Where is everybody?" I asked.

"I have no idea," he said.

"They sent me up here after the political conventions just to make sure nothing was going on," he said excitedly. "I told them I could expect Ford and Carter and bookies, and press, and Vine, and aides and advancers. My job was to keep the traffic on the high road moving along. But I haven’t had a thing to do.

I looked along the high road and it was completely empty. It was an eerie feeling. "You mean to say neither Carter nor Ford has used the high road?" the cop said.

"Nope," he said. "As far as I can tell from my radio they’ve both taken the low road. I don’t understand it. The low road is made for us. Take the offiicials. They’re full of muck and mire. Why they’d want to take it when we have a beautiful concrete highway up here is beyond me.

"That’s funny," I told the cop, "because Ford insisted only last week he was taking the high road, but Carter was taking the low road." Then Carter said he tried to take the high road, but Ford wouldn’t let him. I wonder if they even know where the high road is.

"Oh, they know where it is, all right," the cop said. "In their nomination speeches they both promised to take it. Millions of people came up here to see them. In spite of all the press stories they’ve done the same thing just once.

"Maybe their aides won’t let them take it. Perhaps the people running Carter’s and Ford’s campaigns have told them that if they take the high road no one will vote for them. After all, there are a lot more people who live on the low road, and that’s where the votes are.

"Well, they’re wrong," the cop said. "The American people expect the candidates to take the high road. That’s why we went to so much expense to build it. Nobody likes to see the man they’re going to elect as their leader for the next four years throwing mud and rocks at the other fellow. The low road was built for vice presidential candidates only. That’s why we didn’t pave it.

"You have a point," I admitted. "As a matter of fact, I came up here on the high road in hopes of getting a glimpse of Ford and Carter myself.

Well, don’t hold your breath," the cop said. "I heard both taking the low road for their third debate. It’s neither as meaner than a stock car race. Listen, I have a police car radio stationed on the low road coming in.

"This is Car 99. The President’s limousine is coming through the muck and Carter’s limousine is now trying to pass him. Carter is throwing mud and rocks at Ford and Ford is doing the same thing.

"We’ve got you, Car 99. Do you need assistance?"""

"Candidly is throwing mud at Carter now, and Bush is throwing mud at anyone he can. We have no place to go.

Headquarters’ voice came over the radio. "No, Car 99, it’s not our business to interfere with the candidates. Just keep the low road clear so the television people can cover it.

"Roger, Dole is now throwing mud at Carter and Mondale, and Mondale is throwing garbage at Ford and Dole and Nixon."

"We’ve got you, Car 99. You need some help?"

"Candidly is throwing mud at Carter now, and Bush is throwing mud at anyone he can. He was pitched the mud on by some one.

Headquarters came over the radio. "No, Car 99, that’s all. We’re finished.

"That’s me!" the cop I was with said excitedly. "This is Car 76."
the week in entertainment
by david o keele

THE OUTURE

Friday, October 29
Hope's World of Comedy (7:00 pm, Channel 16): Twenty-six years of Bob Hope specials are condensed into two hours. Note: Richard Harris appears in two of these specials. Hope relives some of the funniest moments in television.

Badlands (6/00 pm, 22): Martin Sheen and Sissy Spacek star in this powerful film about the brutal world of the American West, directed by Martin Scorsese. It's a story of survival and redemption, with the memorable performance of Sheen as the killing spree in Nebraska with his girlfriend that climaxed it. Sheen is a tremendous television actor (The Execution of Private Slovik, Pretty Boy Floyd) who, in this film, makes this a promising time-traveling offering.

Midnight Special (12:00 pm, Channel 4): K-C and the Sunshine Band welcome Gladys Knight and the Pips, Rick Dees and his Cast of Idiots, Abba and the Bay City Rollers.

THE STAGE

On Stage: Jann Arden in Toronto

On the Road: The Beach Boys in New York City

On the Wrangle: The Who in Madison, Wisconsin

On the Run: The Rolling Stones in Los Angeles

On the Screen: "Willy Wonka and the Chocolate Factory"

On the Yard: The Carter family in Washington, D.C.
IRA organizer killed in hospital

BELFAST, Northern Ireland [API] - Three youths assassinated IRA political organizer Maure Drumm as she lay in a hospital bed last night, police reported.

They said the youths burst into the Mater Hospital in Belfast, pulled revolvers and shot the 56-year-old woman in the ward where she was shot in the leg, police said.

Drumm was a fiery speaker and one of the best-known political figures in Ireland. She was arrested in September for a weekend of violence in Belfast after her opponents charged she helped insurgents.

On that occasion, she told a Belfast rally the city would be "turn down against downright disgrace." One Pro- testic official said that "she contributes as much to violence in Ulster as the IRA volunteer who fires a rifle or plant in the face of violence in Ulster as the IRA volunteer who fires a rifle or plant in her face."

Ira You think your room is small? Try rooming in a elevator. These McCandless residents did (but only for one day) as a protest against overcrowding. (Photo by Debbie Krifch.)

Black Studies Program presents poetry chronicle

Broadway actress Vinie Burrows still appear in a solo performance of "Who's Walking Together Children," a poem about the black experience in poetry, prose, graphic and music, in Auditorium on Oct. 30. The program is part of the National Black Studies Program and the Cooperative Department of youth and the remainder of the 1960s. Weisher, 30, and the other teacher-

Mrs. Ryan, who waits restoration of Austria's citizenship, says she will appeal any conviction on grounds that the court's decision for the point that she is not German and that she was victim of a political crime in Poland.

According to the indictment, between 250,000 and one million Poles, Soviet prisoners of war and Jews were murdered between 1941 and 1944 at the camp, southeast of Warsaw.

West German investigators drew up a list of 10 men and women who were guards and officials at Majdanek, but nearly 1,000 of them have died or are missing, charges were drawn up. Of the remainder, 117 only could be indicted on charges of personal involvement. Two were too old to come to court and one 73-year-old defendant, Alice Olszowska, died after the trial started.

Mrs. Ryan was extradited to West Germany in 1963 after surrendering her American citizenship. She is one of five women and nine men charged with murder in connection with mass shootings, hangings, burial in mass graves that led to Jewish inmates at Majdanek concentration camp in Lublin, Poland, in 1941-44.

The Majdanek trial, expected to last two months, will involve testimonies from 130 witnesses, including 70 surviving victims of Majdanek and 60 witnesses who have testified in the court, 50 of them survivors of two nearby gas stations.

Ryan was 57, the first U.S. resident to be tried on charges associated with Majdanek. He is the first of seven cases against seven men.

Living with the past

"We don't close our eyes to the past," the Nazi era has to be rolled out so we can understand how it happened," said Peter Schrader, 25, whose 12th-grade teacher in Dusseldorf's Lycee High School has been teaching the trial this week.

"I'm not concerned that war times trials are glaring reminders if Germany's past that can hurt our current foreign relations," said Helmut Weisgerber, 18, an 18-year-old German who said he is a question of seeing justice done and learning about this past. Their teacher, Dr. Walter Risch, said he decided to take his class thru the trial and its implications because it fit in with his studies of society's failure in the 1920s and 1930s.

Stoner's mother, Susan Williams, said her son was "a very bright, articulate young man with a good sense of humor" who went to Woodstock and dropped out of school to become a "professional" and work at the Red Cross.

Some are asking about the plausibility of the story, not without arguments on the pros and cons of intriguing stories, to simplify information. The Black Studies Program has included African-American Auditory presents poetry chronicle, will appear in 1975.

In 1957 in the United States, the German government issued a warrant for the arrest of West Germans who were guards and officials at Majdanek, but nearly 1,000 of them have died or are missing, charges were drawn up. Of the remainder, only 117 could be indicted on charges of personal involvement. Two were too old to come to court and one 73-year-old defendant, Alice Olszowska, died after the trial started.

Mrs. Ryan, who waits restoration of Austria's citizenship, says she will appeal any conviction on grounds that the court's decision for the point that she is not German and that she was victim of a political crime in Poland.

According to the indictment, between 250,000 and one million Poles, Soviet prisoners of war and Jews were murdered between 1941 and 1944 at the camp, southeast of Warsaw.

West German investigators drew up a list of 10 men and women who were guards and officials at Majdanek, but nearly 1,000 of them have died or are missing, charges were drawn up. Of the remainder, only 117 could be indicted on charges of personal involvement. Two were too old to come to court and one 73-year-old defendant, Alice Olszowska, died after the trial started.

Mrs. Ryan, who waits restoration of Austria's citizenship, says she will appeal any conviction on grounds that the court's decision for the point that she is not German and that she was victim of a political crime in Poland.

According to the indictment, between 250,000 and one million Poles, Soviet prisoners of war and Jews were murdered between 1941 and 1944 at the camp, southeast of Warsaw.

West German investigators drew up a list of 10 men and women who were guards and officials at Majdanek, but nearly 1,000 of them have died or are missing, charges were drawn up. Of the remainder, only 117 could be indicted on charges of personal involvement. Two were too old to come to court and one 73-year-old defendant, Alice Olszowska, died after the trial started.

Mrs. Ryan, who waits restoration of Austria's citizenship, says she will appeal any conviction on grounds that the court's decision for the point that she is not German and that she was victim of a political crime in Poland.

According to the indictment, between 250,000 and one million Poles, Soviet prisoners of war and Jews were murdered between 1941 and 1944 at the camp, southeast of Warsaw.

West German investigators drew up a list of 10 men and women who were guards and officials at Majdanek, but nearly 1,000 of them have died or are missing, charges were drawn up. Of the remainder, only 117 could be indicted on charges of personal involvement. Two were too old to come to court and one 73-year-old defendant, Alice Olszowska, died after the trial started.

Mrs. Ryan, who waits restoration of Austria's citizenship, says she will appeal any conviction on grounds that the court's decision for the point that she is not German and that she was victim of a political crime in Poland.

According to the indictment, between 250,000 and one million Poles, Soviet prisoners of war and Jews were murdered between 1941 and 1944 at the camp, southeast of Warsaw.

West German investigators drew up a list of 10 men and women who were guards and officials at Majdanek, but nearly 1,000 of them have died or are missing, charges were drawn up. Of the remainder, only 117 could be indicted on charges of personal involvement. Two were too old to come to court and one 73-year-old defendant, Alice Olszowska, died after the trial started.
Defend immigrants’ right

Bishops opposed to new immigration laws

by Karen Hinks
Staff Reporter

Recent resolutions passed by the National Council of the United States Bishops and affecting Hispanic-speaking students has caused concern in the Schenectady community. A press conference called yesterday by concerned leaders to that meeting.

Rigoberto Moniz, Fr. Martin Garate, and Sister Pauline Bissonnette explained that resolutions passed last month at the United States Bishops’ Action Conference on Liberty and Justice for All expressed concern over issues on one of the most important Catholic communities in the United States.

Moniz, director of the Mid-west Regional Office of the Catholic Charities, speaking with his students, explained that the delegation members identified with the Bishop’s meeting and expressed concern that there is an institutional limitation that Catholic and Hispanics can take to bring about a more just and free society.

Of serious concern to those attending the conference was the Edithill Bill (H.R. 14353) signed by President Ford Oct. 20. According to the House report to the Village Voice, the Senate committee unanimously recommended that they be approved as the most important immigration legislation in the Americas. According to the House report to the Village Voice, the Senate committee unanimously recommended that they be approved as the most important immigration legislation in the Americas.

... MONDAY NOV.

The Supervisory Development Program of Notre Dame’s College of Business Administration will observe a silver anniversary when the 1976-77 evening sessions begin Nov. 7. The event will take place on Thursday Novenber 20. The formal initiation will be held at a Saturday afternoon meeting at his home and will be followed by a Saturday night meeting at the University Center. The formal initiation will be held at a Saturday afternoon meeting at his home and will be followed by a Saturday night meeting at the University Center.

The group of local residents said they were entering Schorr’s name for the people to organize together and to start a pastoral program, explained that the extreme limitation will add to the already lengthy wait, as the number of Mexican nationals who wish to immigrate to the United States.

Garate expressed concern not only for immigrants, but also for farm workers. "I feel that it is very important that we address the issues and more important for the people to organize together so they can defend their rights." Garate observed that the unionization of workers is an important step in addressing the issues and need to be organized workers and thereby direct their efforts, especially to workers present at work to the human rights and core issues of the basic human rights to be free from economic and physical abuse by the United States government and private employers. In particular, the Church should condemn the physical abuse of undocumented women by requiring legislation which grants immunity to deportation where an abuse is alleged and the alleged abuse is being investigated. We further recommended that the Church also recognize that undocumented immigrants in the United States have a basic human right to sustain themselves through employment. The Church should encourage legislation granting amnesty to undocumented immigrants and workers in the United States.

"If we reject part or do nothing, the people will expect them to think very seriously why they have rejected the document," Garate stated. "The bishops have started this progressive process and we hope the bishops will accept what the people are asking of them." Bissonnette, pastoral action coordinator, explained that the "response is a part of a long process, not one isolated moment. The conferences mark the climax of a series of parish discussions, and of national and local hearings, geared towards the formulation of a five year pastoral program to promote human rights and social justice.

Business students elected to national honor society

Seventeen seniors have been elected to membership in Beta Ganna Sigma, the national honor society for students in the College of Business Administration, according to the club’s president, Edward Murphy.

The formal initiation will take place on Tuesday 5.

Beta Ganna Sigma was founded in 1913 to encourage and reward scholarship and accomplishment in the field of business administration. It is one of the oldest professional honor societies for business students, and its members are selected on the basis of academic achievement. The society's purpose is to promote the advancement of education in business, and to foster principles of honesty and integrity in business practices.

School of Business Administration, members of the top five percent were inducted last spring. Professor Howard P. Lawry, of the finance department, was the society’s moderator.

Grateful Dead*

"SEMI-LIVE"* MARKET SQUARE ARENA TAPE Rathskealer SUNDAY 1:30 pm *$6.50, 5.50 ON SALE

"THE DOOBIE BROTHERS*

IN CONCERT Saturday November 20 8:00 PM NOTRE DAME ACC PRESENTED BY NOTRE DAME CONCERT COMMISSION TICKETS $6.50, 5.50 ON SALE MONDAY NOV. 1 AT ACC STUDENT UNION AND ALL ACC OUTLETS

JUGGLER Notre Dame’s Journal of the Arts is now accepting for publication: poetry, fiction, drama, photography, art, design, criticism... SUBMIT MATERIAL TO: JUGGLER, LaFortune Center -or- ENGLISH DEPT. 356 O'Shag DEADLINE: NOV. 4

Audio Outlet Stereo Systems STEREO EQUIPMENT at guaranteed lowest prices 20% - 40% off list Jim Szabat 12998 Dave Pearse 277 0825 IN CAMPUS VIEW APTS.
MUSIC STUDIES 101:*
A course of "what’s happening" in contemporary music!

BLUE OYSTER CULT
AFTER THE THUNDER AND THE LIGHTnings
PC 34164

EARTH, WIND & FIRE
SPIRIT
PC 34241

Jeff Beck
Wired
Blue Piano, Lonesome, and Blues: A Hard Rock
International Barnt Book
PE 33849

HERB PEDERSEN
SOUTHWEST
Forgetting America
PC 34225
Not available on tape

HERBIE HANCOCK
SECRETS
One & Only
PC 34280

HUBERT LAWS
Romeo & Juliet
Guitarist
PC 34300

The Charlie Daniels Band
Saddle Tramp
PC 34150

FLO AND EDDIE
Moving Targets
White Trash Monopoly
PC 34262

THE DERRINGER

TOMMY HOLIN
PRIVATE EYES
PC 34379

TED NUGENT
Mean Streak
Lee..we..We..-we..we...we...we...
PC 33667

TYRONE DAVIS
LOVE AND TOUCH
PC 34268

BOSTON
More Than a Feeling
PC 34186

JIM PETERSIK
DON'T FIGHT THE FEELING
PC 34196
Not available on tape

Burton Cummings
You Don't Have to Say You Love Me
PC 34261

BOSTON
JULIE MANCHAM
All Things In Common
PC 33857

AEROSMITH
Toys in the Attic
PC 33479

RECORDS
919 B College Square
Mishawaka, Indiana 46544
Phone: 255-0266
(Across from T&C Shopping Center - On McKinley)
Mon - Sat 10 am to 9 pm
Sunday Noon to 6 pm

List Price $6.98
Everyday Low Price
$4.99

*Required Listening!
ND professor explains derivation of Halloween, interest in occult

by Steve Graham
Associated Press Writer

SOUTH BEND, Ind. - To most persons, gothic witches and ghosts are tiny figures scurrying about the neighborhood on Halloween, but an increasing number of people are seriously delving into the occult, says a University of Notre Dame professor.

Dr. Jeffry B. Russell, director of the Catholic university's Medieval Institute, says the last decade has seen an "extraordinary revival of interest in the occult."

"And in San Francisco, you can find Satanist churches listed in the Yellow Pages," Russell has written his own book, "Witchcraft in the Middle Ages."

"The worship of Satan is one ancient religion that has been repressed by Christianity," he said, but opined that Satanist churches tend to be more a result of opportunism than inspired fervor by their founders.

"They have composed rites and ceremonies they happen to feel are attractive," he said.

He said two women college students studying the history of witchcraft became imbued with the subject - almost to their deaths.

"The girls probably were unable to begin with," he said. "They slashed each other's wrists, but fortunately they were found before they bled to death."

The name Halloween comes from All Halows Ewe, or the night before All Halows Day or All Saints Day, Russell said.

One encyclopedia says the demonic diversions of Halloween came from an attempt by the Christian church in the Dark Ages to combine pagan ritual of the ancient Druids with Christianity.

Russell said that theory doesn't entirely explain the phenomenon. "The Druids get credited with a lot of things," he said. "That doesn't explain a lot of people running around in witch's costumes."

In England where the Druids were they don't celebrate Halloween the way we do.

The closest thing to our Halloween in England is Guy Fawkes Day where the British celebrate the anniversary of the day Fawkes tried to blow up Parliament in the early 17th century. Russell said. That day is celebrated in November.

Russell said the occult nature of such festivities could come from the fire rituals of the ancient Britons before they were converted to Christianity.

The rituals, held in the fall as days became shorter and nights longer, probably were to signify the hope for victory of light over dark he said.

They are still celebrated at some places in England and Scott­ land where they have been handed down for centuries," he said.

History shows that interest in the occult increases in times of rapid cultural change and dislocation, he said. "It is no coincidence that over the past 180 years Americans belief in God has declined while belief in the devil has not."

Coincidence that church attendance figures have declined, he said.

And do his own children ply the neighborhood in the best trick-or- treat tradition?

"Oh yes," he said. "At least the two youngest ones do. The oldest two are kind of tired of the whole thing."

Robot unbeatable at poker table

CHICAGO (AP) - Short, squat and indistinguishable from a hand­ able hand of poker despite its reputation as a "rustic worrier," the robot may soon replace semi-skilled "laborers" by the thousands.

Series 10, so-called, is an example of a third-generation-robot - 18 inches high, six feet in diameter and equipped with "eyes," sensors and two arms, that have fingers.

Sweden wants tax payments from prostitutes

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) - Swedish tax authorities want prosti­ tutes to declare their income, and some of the girls in the world's oldest profession are beginning to sell something new - their services.

A task force of the Internal Revenue Service which investigates sources of hidden income is engaged in the operation.

"Because prostitution means income from business activity, prostitution should be taxed," a woman has received more than three clients, she should be regarded as taxable, provided she qualifies herself with gainful intent and the income is not too small," a spokesman for the tax unit stated.

The second annual Stanford Hall Pumpkin Carving Contest was held last night. The Grand Prize Pumpkin (shown above) was submitted by Tom Thompson. Thompson received a $25 gift certificate for his entry.

Several other prizes were also awarded for various categories. The "Most Femme de Pumkin" went to Jim Sullivan. Sullivan received a red Stanford T-shirt for his creation. A green T-shirt was awarded to Bill Kresse. Kresse's pumpkin, complete with Playboy Magazine, was named the "Most Studly." The "Most Original" pumpkin was submitted by Mike Kelly. Tickets to tomorrow night's hockey game were awarded for this category.

Below is shown one of the many entries in the contest. (Photo by Debbie Krichel)

Robert Sallot of the Robot Research Institute, a retired United Auto Workers official attending the conference, said industry's use of robots is inevitable. "You can't stop technology. That would be a long-term mistake," he said.

He added, "Future robots, he added, could completely automate factories."

Tom Consolo, a retired United Auto Workers official attending the conference, said industry's use of robots is inevitable. "You can't stop technology. That would be a long-term mistake," he said.

"We want people who can think and write clearly about campus, local, national and international issues. People who aren't afraid to take a stand.

For more information call 1715 and ask for the ObsCer Verber Epilage. east 18 inches high, six feet in diameter and is common in manufacturing, said industry's sales will increase thousands of them - in factory jobs, said Robert Conger.

"And that is rapidly becoming academic. There's a tremendous backlog of orders," for the robots that cost from a few thousand dollars to more than $100,000, executive director, Sallot said.

"They possess the ability to sort a deck of cars."

"The closest thing to our Halloween in England is Guy Fawkes Day where the British celebrate the anniversary of the day Fawkes tried to blow up Parliament in the early 17th century. Russell said. That day is celebrated in November.

Russell said the occult nature of such festivities could come from the fire rituals of the ancient Britons before they were converted to Christianity.

The rituals, held in the fall as days became shorter and nights longer, probably were to signify the hope for victory of light over dark he said.

They are still celebrated at some places in England and Scott­ land where they have been handed down for centuries," he said.

History shows that interest in the occult increases in times of rapid cultural change and dislocation, he said. "It is no coincidence that over the past 180 years Americans belief in God has declined while belief in the devil has not."

Coincidence that church attendance figures have declined, he said.

And do his own children ply the neighborhood in the best trick-or- treat tradition?

"Oh yes," he said. "At least the two youngest ones do. The oldest two are kind of tired of the whole thing."

Fly off to something new...

...write for the Observer Editorial Page.

We are trying to dig up some new columnists who are interested in writing on the issues of the day. We want people who can think and write clearly about campus, local, national and international issues. People who aren't afraid to take a stand.

For more information call 1715 and ask for the ObsCer Ep. on line.
Poisoning possible in legionnaires’ disease

WASHINGTON (AP) - A House subcommittee chairman said yesterday that legionnaires disease resulted from use of a large­scale medical activity that]{lag medical authorities as lack­ing for the theory said his conclusions were un鳥revised.

Rep. John M. Murphy, D-N.Y., noted that a national review of a disease in a report sharply critical of the investigation of the outbreak that has killed 5 people in the past few days after an American Legion meeting in Philadelphia.

Murphy said that early

Early debate rages on;

vitamin C - cure or not?

WASHINGTON (AP) - Terminal cancer patients live about four times longer after recombinant large doses of vitamin C, a new Nobel laureate Dr. Linus Pauling. Other researchers say his findings lack promising enough to warrant further study.

A study conducted in Pauling by Dr. Edward Truffault of the University of Chicago and others, reviewed the national survival time in the disease. The review, however, noted serious issues about the methods used to conduct the study. The results still are encouraging enough to indicate vitamin C may be useful in conjunc­tion with other therapies in treating cancer, he said.

"This study should prompt a repeat study of an identical nature and scale to be conducted by a large concerted effort NC" branch.

"There would be no question about the results if it had been done by random patient selection at a single institution or another doctor who did not know the medication was being given," he said.

The study, conducted at Yale of Leven General Hospital in Lucil Mondini, the research­ers, were Pauling, said, did not improve the eyes of the Kor­ran disease.

The spokesman declined to dis­

Proxymore: Bid rigging has cost millions in taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) - Army investigators have uncovered evidence that some Korean contractors sold American military purchases, a Defense De­partment contractor to rig the price of baking mix for more than 10 years.

His statement followed by a day allegations by Sen. William Pres­

Wanted: Make you smile for $1, Alabama GA.

Last or Stiven from the area of 1971, use this. Use this.

They have been 30 lbs., 4 months. Answers to Sherman. Write for information to discover.

Murphy added, "the exposure to nickeai carbonyl found in the tissues of the victims could not otherwise explain the disease.

Dr. Paul Chretien of the National Cancer Institute said there are serious questions about the methods used to conduct the cancer study. But the results still are encouraging enough to indicate vitamin C may be useful in conjunc­tion with other therapies in treating cancer, he said.

"This study should prompt a repeat study of an identical nature and scale to be conducted by a large concerted effort NC" branch.

"There would be no question about the results if it had been done by random patient selection at a single institution or another doctor who did not know the medication was being given," he said.

The study, conducted at Yale of Leven General Hospital in Lucil Mondini, the research­ers, were Pauling, said, did not improve the eyes of the Kor­ran disease.

The spokesman declined to dis­

Proxymore: Bid rigging has cost millions in taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) - Army investigators have uncovered evidence that some Korean contractors sold American military purchases, a Defense De­partment contractor to rig the price of baking mix for more than 10 years.

His statement followed by a day allegations by Sen. William Pres­

Wanted: Make you smile for $1, Alabama GA.

Last or Stiven from the area of 1971, use this. Use this.

They have been 30 lbs., 4 months. Answers to Sherman. Write for information to discover.

Murphy added, "the exposure to nickeai carbonyl found in the tissues of the victims could not otherwise explain the disease.

Dr. Paul Chretien of the National Cancer Institute said there are serious questions about the methods used to conduct the cancer study. But the results still are encouraging enough to indicate vitamin C may be useful in conjunc­tion with other therapies in treating cancer, he said.

"This study should prompt a repeat study of an identical nature and scale to be conducted by a large concerted effort NC" branch.

"There would be no question about the results if it had been done by random patient selection at a single institution or another doctor who did not know the medication was being given," he said.

The study, conducted at Yale of Leven General Hospital in Lucil Mondini, the research­ers, were Pauling, said, did not improve the eyes of the Kor­ran disease.

The spokesman declined to dis­
Irish pucksters host MSU in opener

Tony Pace

Three years ago, follow Erving signed a lucrative, seven-year contract with the New York Nets of the then American Basketball Association. With the co-operation of the NBA, the Nets arranged to have him sign a one-year contract with the New York 76ers to prepare for their first season in the NBA. With Erving as a top drawing card, the Nets should have become one of the top basketball teams in the sporting world.

But something happened on the way to the bank; as Erving is now toiling for the Philadelphia 76ers.

What happened? Well, Erving discovered that he was no longer 'the high-priced renter' for the Nets, but had become 'the man who rented the Nets.'

In a recent interview with the Associated Press, Erving said: "I didn't make the Nets; the Nets made me, Tony Pace."

Erving's contract states that his salary was $235,000 for the '75-'76 season. But the lucrative contract was later changed to a "gent's agreement," and it is understood that his salary will be in the $300,000 to $350,000 range for the current season.

Robert L. Brown, the general manager of the New York Nets, has been quoted as saying that Erving is the best player in the NBA and that he is worth every penny he is paid.

Erving's contract also provides for a bonus of $50,000 if the Nets win the NBA championship, and $25,000 if they finish second or third.

Erving's contract further states that he will be paid the base salary of $235,000 plus a bonus of $100,000 if the Nets win the NBA championship, and $50,000 if they finish second or third.

Erving's contract also provides for a bonus of $50,000 if the Nets win the NBA championship, and $25,000 if they finish second or third.

Erving's contract further states that he will be paid the base salary of $235,000 plus a bonus of $100,000 if the Nets win the NBA championship, and $50,000 if they finish second or third.

Erving's contract also provides for a bonus of $50,000 if the Nets win the NBA championship, and $25,000 if they finish second or third.

Erving's contract further states that he will be paid the base salary of $235,000 plus a bonus of $100,000 if the Nets win the NBA championship, and $50,000 if they finish second or third.

Erving's contract also provides for a bonus of $50,000 if the Nets win the NBA championship, and $25,000 if they finish second or third.

Erving's contract further states that he will be paid the base salary of $235,000 plus a bonus of $100,000 if the Nets win the NBA championship, and $50,000 if they finish second or third.

Erving's contract also provides for a bonus of $50,000 if the Nets win the NBA championship, and $25,000 if they finish second or third.

Erving's contract further states that he will be paid the base salary of $235,000 plus a bonus of $100,000 if the Nets win the NBA championship, and $50,000 if they finish second or third.

Erving's contract also provides for a bonus of $50,000 if the Nets win the NBA championship, and $25,000 if they finish second or third.

Erving's contract further states that he will be paid the base salary of $235,000 plus a bonus of $100,000 if the Nets win the NBA championship, and $50,000 if they finish second or third.

Erving's contract also provides for a bonus of $50,000 if the Nets win the NBA championship, and $25,000 if they finish second or third.

Erving's contract further states that he will be paid the base salary of $235,000 plus a bonus of $100,000 if the Nets win the NBA championship, and $50,000 if they finish second or third.

Erving's contract also provides for a bonus of $50,000 if the Nets win the NBA championship, and $25,000 if they finish second or third.

Erving's contract further states that he will be paid the base salary of $235,000 plus a bonus of $100,000 if the Nets win the NBA championship, and $50,000 if they finish second or third.

Erving's contract also provides for a bonus of $50,000 if the Nets win the NBA championship, and $25,000 if they finish second or third.

Erving's contract further states that he will be paid the base salary of $235,000 plus a bonus of $100,000 if the Nets win the NBA championship, and $50,000 if they finish second or third.

Erving's contract also provides for a bonus of $50,000 if the Nets win the NBA championship, and $25,000 if they finish second or third.

Erving's contract further states that he will be paid the base salary of $235,000 plus a bonus of $100,000 if the Nets win the NBA championship, and $50,000 if they finish second or third.

Erving's contract also provides for a bonus of $50,000 if the Nets win the NBA championship, and $25,000 if they finish second or third.

Erving's contract further states that he will be paid the base salary of $235,000 plus a bonus of $100,000 if the Nets win the NBA championship, and $50,000 if they finish second or third.

Erving's contract also provides for a bonus of $50,000 if the Nets win the NBA championship, and $25,000 if they finish second or third.

Erving's contract further states that he will be paid the base salary of $235,000 plus a bonus of $100,000 if the Nets win the NBA championship, and $50,000 if they finish second or third.

Erving's contract also provides for a bonus of $50,000 if the Nets win the NBA championship, and $25,000 if they finish second or third.

Erving's contract further states that he will be paid the base salary of $235,000 plus a bonus of $100,000 if the Nets win the NBA championship, and $50,000 if they finish second or third.

Erving's contract also provides for a bonus of $50,000 if the Nets win the NBA championship, and $25,000 if they finish second or third.

Erving's contract further states that he will be paid the base salary of $235,000 plus a bonus of $100,000 if the Nets win the NBA championship, and $50,000 if they finish second or third.

Erving's contract also provides for a bonus of $50,000 if the Nets win the NBA championship, and $25,000 if they finish second or third.
Irish look to romp over Midshipmen

by Fred Herbst
Sports Editor

The question that concerns most Notre Dame fans about tomorrow's contest against U.S.M.C. is not what the outcome will be, it's whether or not the Irish will allow a touchdown -- their first in 20 consecutive quarters.

Notre Dame's Navy squad has been suffering through a dry spell of late, managing just one win in seven outings. Tomorrow's contest in Cleveland isn't expected to help the Navy record.

The Irish haven't enjoyed much success because of its youth and many injuries. But the questions we'll approach this game as if they were the number one team in the land of the last five seasons.

With Jerome Heavens sidelined for the remainder of the season and Terry Evertt still nursing a hip pointer, the Irish will be good. Willard Browne at fullback will fill the void.

While fullback is a question mark for the Notre Dame offense, halfback isn't. Al Hunter, who had his finest day ever for the Irish last year, will have the opportunity to show that his 32 carries, will again man the starting position. Hunter's total against South Carolina last year was just five yards below the record held by the Notre Dame record holder by Emil "Sixty” Sitty. Hunter needs to average 67 yards a contest to remain in the running five games to achieve the University's first, 1,000.

Navy is led by running backs Leon Miller (191 yards rushing), Jon Gabrielsen (79 yards), and Larry Klawinski (175 yards) rushing. John Kurwowski and Bob Leszczynski share the quarterback duties with Kurwowski having connected on 38.9 percent of his passes while Leszczynski has a completion rate of 42 percent.

Wide receiver Steve Scott and Jerry White share the team's receptions, with ten apiece.

Middle guard Mike Rosenthal of the Middleship defense has given up an average of 343.4 yards a contest total defense (242 yards rushing and 121.4 yards passing). Tomorrow's battle continues the longest interpersonal rivalry in the nation, it being the 50th consecutive meeting between the two schools. Notre Dame holds a 36-9 edge in the series. Navy's last win to the series came in 1963 as Roger Stock took the Midshipmen to a 35-14 triumph.

The game will not be the first of the Notre Dame/Tide for played in Cleveland's Municipal Stadium.

Tie must be prevented.

NFL kicking seems on decline

by Bruce Lowit
AP Sports Writer

The kicking this year in the National Football League seems to be lower -- and that might be the explanation as well as the problem. There has been a plethora of blocked field goal kicks, both extra points and field goals, much farther than in a few previous seasons.

The reason seems to be twofold: increasing proficiency on the part of the blockers and decreasing proficiency by the so-called "side-winders," the soccer-style kickers.

The increase in blocks, Denver Broncos John Ray, hasn't been due to the soccer-kicking angle, says, "Absolutely the trend is to the conventional football kicker as we have known him in the past.

The problem with the soccer-styled kicker says Turner, is a lack of consistency. The ball doesn't just pop high that fast as when a straight-ahead kicker kicks it.

The NFL has confirmed by someone who was the ball from the tee for several years. The conventional longer than the soccer-kicking style.

If you want to say one type of kick is easier to block, it would be to the soccer-style kicker because of the way he kicks," says the 6-foot-6½ "Greenwood." "The conventional-styled kicker gets the ball up higher."

But Pittsburgh's expert in that department, sidestepping place-kicker Roy Gerela, disagrees. "I believe we get our ball up in the air just as quickly as anybody else," he insists. "I don't think there is any reason to get excited about it because, if they block your kick, it's not your fault."

Then whose fault is it?" Gerela says of the men who block in front of him. "They just have to cut down the penetration, that's all."

That penetration, Steelers specialists coach Paul Uam says, is the result of hard work.

For entertainment purposes, most games are played on the weekend, and in recent weeks, there has been a proliferation of kickers who have come up with a new style of kicking. This style, which is becoming more popular, involves the use of the soccer-style technique, where the ball is kicked with the instep of the foot instead of the instep. This allows for more powerful kicks, which can be blocked more easily.

The key to success for soccer-style kickers is the timing and the angles at which the ball is kicked. By using the instep, they can kick the ball higher and faster, making it more difficult for blockers to get under it. However, this also makes it easier for defenders to read the kick and get to it before it hits the ground.

The challenge for soccer-style kickers is to find the right balance between power and accuracy. If they kick the ball too high or too low, they will be easy to block. The key is to kick the ball at the right height and angle, so that it is difficult for blockers to get under it.

As a result, many teams have started to incorporate soccer-style kicks into their game plans. Some teams have even gone so far as to employ a "soccer-kicker" on their roster, specifically to kick field goals.

The trend towards soccer-style kicking is not without its critics, however. Some argue that it is a "cheat" and that it gives the kicking team an unfair advantage. However, the reality is that the kicking game is constantly evolving to keep up with the advancements in blocking and tackling techniques.