Move your cars!

South Bend Mayor Peter J. Nemeth has invoked emergency powers and ordered a massive towing of parked cars for the next four days. Due to the recent bad weather, a situation has arisen in which many side streets and residential streets have become restricted to the point that emergency vehicles have been denied passage. In order to relieve or correct this situation, Nemeth has ordered that the following towing restrictions be placed in effect:

1. On Tuesday, Feb. 8, there will be no parking allowed on all north and south streets located west of U.S. 31 (Michigan Street). This order shall be in effect from 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m.
2. On Wednesday, Feb. 9, there will be no parking allowed on any east and west streets located west of U.S. 31, from 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m.
3. On Thursday, Feb. 10, there will be no parking allowed on the north and south streets east of U.S. 31 (Michigan Street) from 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m.
4. On Friday, Feb. 11, no parking on east and west streets located east of U.S. 31 from 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m.

All cars parked on these streets during these periods will be towed by the city of South Bend. Such action will result in a $20 charge for towing plus a $2.50 ticket. Prior to this action, which will begin tomorrow morning, the police department has been ordered to tow all abandoned vehicles found on residential streets.

Parking on snow routes, which have already been cleared, will be allowed and is encouraged during this period. Once a particular residential street has been plowed and cleaned under this program, parking will be allowed.

While administration officials wait to confer on a statement of policy for WSND radio, the chair­man of the Faculty Senate says that station manager Don Fanuele is "not favorably disposed" to his emergency request to broadcast hockey games on the station.

In a letter to Vice-President of Student Affairs Bro. Jack Pacescy, Fanuele outlined the conditions under which hockey was and should continue to be broadcast by WSND. Fanuele then requested Pacescy and members of the administration to suggest a policy statement for the radio station.

The letter, which was also sent to Fr. Edmund Joyce, University executive vice-president, Bro. John Beneh, director of Student Activ­ities and Prof. James Daniell, Faculty Senate chairman, drew differing reactions from Daniell and members of the administra­tion.

Both Joyce and Beneh would not comment on the letter until a meeting between those involved in the question had been arraigned. However, Daniell issued a brief statement to Fanuele praising WSND and expressing favor for hockey broadcasts.

"I can see no reason whatsoever why WSND should not also cover hockey," Daniell commented, "especially in view of the demand and the carefully circumscribed conditions outlined in (Fanuele's) letter." According to Daniell, the letter outlines four conditions under which hockey broadcasts are permissible on the FM station. These include the requirements of community interest, underwriting (financing) of the broadcasts and consistency of the goals and purposes of the station.

The latter (latter) condition is the only contentious one," Daniell explained. "Bro. Just Pacescy contends it is inconsistent with fine arts. But the fact that the station has been broadcasting hockey since 1970 and its license was renewed by the FCC in August, 1976, is evidence that the hockey broad­casting is consistent with the purposes of the station." I think Fanuele is absolutely right," he said. "I hope the report is favorably acted on by Bro. Just," Daniell commented.

Daniell stated the letter will be turned over to Prof. Irwin Press chairman of the Senate Faculty Affairs Committee, which has a "continuing interest" in the student media.

According to Pacescy, the administration officials will "work out some kind of statement" this week. "One will meet with Bro. Beneh and the staff of Student Activities to put together a suggested policy statement for relations with WSND-AM and FM," he said. Pacescy said it was "difficult" to make a statement on "the letter itself," saying "basic agreement is worked out."

We are not trying to use censorship here," Pacescy emphasized, "and we have no intention of operating the radio station in spite of what the implica­tions are. The students have been doing that well for years. But I believe it was necessary to do what we did."

The controversy began in October when Pacescy requested that WSND be "discontinue the prac­tice" of broadcasting hockey on the FM station. According to Pacescy, the coverage of hockey games is prohibited because the station is licensed as a fine arts station.

"I believe in the principle of fine arts," Pacescy said, "and I think the programming should be such." Pacescy said Fanuele's letter made "some tentative suggestions. They are asking me to do what I had hoped to do—suggest a statement of policy. I had expected (the station officials) to do that in this report," he said.

Pacescy said the intruders ignored black nuns and staff members at the mission. John Potter, police superinten­dent for the area, contended the attackers were members of the outlawed Zimbabwe African Na­tional Union, a black nationalist movement under the alleged con­trol of Robert Mugabe.

Missionaries shot in guerrilla attack

SALISBURY, Rhodesia AP - Seven white Roman Catholic missionar­ies, including four nuns, were lined up and shot in a guerrilla attack that stunned Christian church groups in Rhodesia and brought an expression of "profound grief" from Pope Paul VI.

Officials said it was the worst group killing of whites in four years of war as black guerrillas against the Rhodesia's white government.

The executive vice-president, Bro. John Pacescy, said three German Dominican nuns, an English Dominican nun, two Jesuit missionaries from German­y and a lay brother from Ireland were executed outside the compound of their mission school north of Salisbury on Sunday night by guerrillas who argued about who should pull the trigger.

"They did not say one word about why they were doing this to us," said Father Diogenes Myerscough, an English Jesuit who said he threw himself to the ground when the guerrillas opened fire. "When one of the sisters asked what they wanted, one of them said, 'We want our country.'" Rhodesian police said they collected 111 empty cartridges from Soviet-made machine guns at the shooting scene, the Catholic Missions' mission in the hilly country 36 miles northeast of the Rhodesian capital.

A telegram sent by the Vatican to black Archbishop Patrick Musi­cha of Salisbury said Pope Paul "prays for peace and justice to be re­established in all regions afflicted by these atrocious crimes."

Archbishop Chakaka called the guerrilla attack an "evil act" which made "hockey of whatever good ideals they claim to serve.

Father Myerscough said 12 guerrillas gathered him and the seven others on a sandy road running through the mission com­ound. They seemed to argue then about who should kill them.

"One came forward and then withdrew. Then another did the same. Eventually three came forward and the others ran off. They raised their guns and opened fire."

Another white nun, 74, had been over­come by shock and vision but fell when a guerrilla pushed her through the door. She said he left her behind after she told him he had arthritis and could not move. Later I heard the shoot­ing," she said.

Father Myers rubbish said the intruders ignored black nuns and staff members at the mission.

John Potter, police superinten­dent for the area, contended the attackers were members of the outlawed Zimbabwe African Na­tional Union, a black nationalist movement under the alleged con­trol of Robert Mugabe.

Army Corps assaults snow

by Bill Floriano

Early Monday morning, the Army Corps of Engineers began a major assault on the snow that has plagued St. Joseph County for the past several weeks.

The latest effort to combat the abundance of snow forced the closing of many area schools yesterday to allow heavy equipment to clear streets normally crowded with school vehicles. St. Joseph County Engineer William J. Richardson said hecholsadvived the larger school systems to reopen today.

Richardson and his crew are now working non-stop with Richard Markwell, coordinator of the Army Corps, in response to a state of emergency declared for St. Joseph County by President Carter.

As was quoted in the South Bend Tribune, a White House spokesman stated that the federal aid will be used primarily to “reopen vital supply routes to agricultural, educational, governmental, commercial and industrial establishments and such other emergency assistance as may be required to save lives and public property, public health and safety.”

With the assistance of the Army Corps, Richardson estimated that removal operations on the “highest and secondary priority roads” would be completed by Tuesday.

He added that a majority of the roads surrounding the Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s campuses were considered “highest priority.”

If St. Joseph County is granted status as a disaster area, Richardson said, “a large proportion of the cost of previous operations will be paid by the federal government. If not, the county will have to tighten its belt.”

As of last Monday, over $55,000 had been spent for snow removal, which is well over the amount allotted in the county budget. In addition, $9,000 was spent each day from Monday to Friday before the state of emergency and federal funds became a reality.

Of major concern now is the possibility of flooding in low lying areas. Richardson stated however, that Notre Dame students should not expect another announced “vacation for any reason.”

USAF flying opportunities

On Tuesday, Feb. 8, at 11:35 p.m. in Hagger Hall, lst Lieutenant Mary K. Higgins will be talking about flying opportunities for females in the United States Air Force.

Higgins, presently stationed at Grissom AFB, Peru, Indiana, will be leaving to attend a nine-month navigator training course at Mather AFB, Sacramento, California. She is one of the first six women selected by the Air Force to attend this school.

Higgins has a private pilot’s license and currently works in the Communications Office. Higgins, an AFROTC graduate, will be leaving to pursue career opportunities for women in the Air Force.

Proposed drinking age raised to 19

by Mark Lambert

The age provision included in the current bill to lower the drinking age in Indiana has been raised from 18 to 19. Bill SB 372 was amended before the Senate Public Policy Committee last week by sponsor Sen. Patrick Carroll, Democrat from Bloomington.

According to a recent Indiana Students Association (ISA) news release, "Based on meetings with legislative leaders and responses to ISA's legislative survey conducted over the past three years, we believe the bill stands a better chance of passage if it is amended to 19.

The ISA news release stated "if going to 19 will improve the chances for lowering on SB 372 and possibly passage of the bill it is time to move now."

This amendment comes after recent legislation in other states regarding the legal drinking age for alcoholic beverages. Legislators are concerned about the increase in alcohol abuse by high school students under the current 18 year age limit.

Minnesota and Rhode Island have already raised the drinking age from 18 to 19 because of this issue. Minnesota has noticed a decrease in automobile accidents among high school students as well as more students with medical problems, attributed to the higher age.

A bill to raise the drinking age from 18 to 19 is pending in Michigan. State high school principals polled were generally in favor of raising the drinking age to 19 to take the problem out of the high schools. There has been an increase in auto accidents and some states have increased the legal drinking age to 19.

A study by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration found that raising the drinking age to 21 would likely reduce the number of deaths from accidents caused by drunk driving by 10%.

In addition, raising the drinking age to 19 could have a positive impact on college campuses. According to a study by the National College Health Association, students who drink alcohol are more likely to smoke, use marijuana, and engage in risky sexual behaviors.

While Collegiate Seminar is required for all liberal arts and science students, the sections led by Professor James Lee were sought after by many students because of the high workload. Those in the class on "Sexuality and Love," for example, required students to write three brief pieces of fiction after each class. The course requires the present of briefing papers based on the attendance of three symphony concerts. Among the particular sections, students have in the past displayed a preference for "Social Problems," "Advanced Social Psychology," and "Changing Sex Roles." The "Family" does not require substantial work, but reportedly high grades are difficult to achieve.

Professor Leo Despres, chairman of the department of sociology and anthropology, attributed the popularity of sociology courses partly to the "relevance of subject matter." He acknowledges, however, the aversion of some professors to give grades lower than C.

"We have a couple of people in the department that I think have presented a problem in that respect," said Despres. He added that despite this tendency, the average grade in sociology was at the same level as that in any arts and letters department.

Efforts by the College of Science to attract students from other disciplines to the study of science has proven effective. Students have resulted in courses such as "Plants and Human Affairs," and "Environmental Chemistry." Unlike the standard science course, courses such as these are intentionally made less difficult to provide students with a basic knowledge of the subject matter, resulting in high grades in most instances.

Several courses offered by the College of Science, such as those in the fields of sociology and anthropology, could be considered "jock" in the usual sense, as they are often required on some type of project. However, "Travel Management," taught by Mississauga Professor Edward A. Lambert, is regarded as "jock" by many marketing majors.

Despite the willingness of many students interviewed to joke about courses they consider "jock," no one advocated their replacement.
The Law School completed on Sunday a symposium on the treatment of the terminally ill in the Catholic clinic. Simultaneously, we have seen a minor furor over charges—seen to be groundless—that dangerous genetic experiments are underway at ND. These two events share the common theme and wrong approach to what is becoming a serious problem: the use of new breakthroughs in biology.

The Quinlan case dramatically presented the question of how to use new medical breakthroughs that can keep a person "alive" long after any hope of recovery is gone. But this question and the broader one concerning what we should do about "recombinant DNA," "ecological DNA," "combinatorial DNA" experiments, such as were allegedly occurring at Notre Dame, remains in the laboratory. Eminent biologists have predicted that it will someday be possible to manipulate human genes and to create clones—genetic duplicates of human individuals.

The someday is likely to be within the lifetimes of students now at Notre Dame. It will be our generation that will have to decide the complex legal, moral, philosophical and theological dilemmas arising from this new knowledge. How should we go about deciding? The two incidents of this past week provide an instructive contrast.

On one hand we heard groundless and ignorant countercharges against Prof. Erickson's research. The accusing group, the Peoples Business Commission, made no attempt to check the facts. Instead, they resorted to wild charges and scare tactics that only obscure the real questions about the direction and use of scientific research.

On the other hand we had a symposium bringing together experts in medicine, law, philosophy, theology, and other disciplines to discuss the issues calmly. They did not solve the problems—solutions, if possible, are decades away. But they helped prepare a rational approach to solutions.

The new discoveries have as much potential for good or evil as the discovery of nuclear power did. When it is our generation's turn to deal with that potential, we had better be prepared to decide reasonably and knowledgeably—not from fear and ignorance.

Jock Courses: Friend or Foe?

Jock courses are disgraceful to any university which prides itself on being a representative of the human condition. They are useful as far as they are, they are nonetheless commonplace everywhere at every university, including Notre Dame. They are sometimes even necessary.

Academic pressures are bountiful here. Competition often forces among students who sometimes employ "cutthroat" tactics to get the few high grades given out by some professors. Because these grades are crucial to students who later become candidates for medical, law or graduate school, the cutthroat competition can be easily rationalized. In this context, the need for jock courses can be better understood.

Jock courses provide a comfortable refuge from otherwise competitive class situations. Students are often simpletons, A's and W's without cutthroat tactics, providing a truly Christian atmosphere. Jock courses thus exemplify the academic aspirations of a Catholic university. Unfortunately, the professors of these courses are often administrators, who, chastised for being lenient with grades.

Moreover, the case made by any university administration that it is easier to weed out these courses is usually a good one. Grade inflation is one of the most disquieting signs of student performance. If teachers insist on giving exceptionally high marks, poor performance by a student can hardly be recorded and dismissed. When a case against cutthroat competition brought up by compassionately jock-course teachers, however, is also a case of one. Any attempt to resolve the conflict usually results in an impasse.

Despite administration efforts at many universities to abolish jock courses or to remove the professors teaching them, jock courses continue to exist at Notre Dame. The point that should be made, however, is that no course should be educationally wasteful. The professors of these courses, regardless of their opinions on grades, should constantly work to upgrade the quality of their courses.

Educators believe jock courses can at best be tolerated by university administrators and can have a student from cutting back or being too "A". Further, they can provide the stimulating experience of being able to pursue knowledge without pursuing a grade.
Change in rules enhances odds of having a profitable Mardi Gras

by Kevin M. Walsh
Staff Reporter

Amid a year of changes in the structure and rules of Mardi Gras, raffle ticket sales are being sold at a record-setting pace.

"There has been an amazing response this year," said Clair Roach, co-chairperson of the raffle committee. The record sale for Mardi Gras tickets is $16,500, but with a total of $16,030 so far this year.

Boast is sure the record will be broken.

This year's Mardi Gras will feature several changes. In order to broaden the scope of Mardi Gras, blackjack games, any two-card combination of 21 is now an instant blackjack. Previously the rules required that an ace appear with a face card for blackjack. Double down and split bets are still allowed, but five-card Charlie (a hand in which five cards total less than 21 wins) are not permitted.

Incentives for larger bets have been also been increased by raising the odds in below games from two to one to three to one, while in poker games, the house enhanced odds in hi-low games from two to one to five to one, while in poker games, the house enhanced odds in hi-low games from two to one to five to one.

Tickets for the events will be mailed to parents on Thursday Feb. 10. Further requests for tickets can be made until Thursday, Feb. 10, to Dennis Crowley at 8461 or Kathy Millsteel at 6772.

Dennis Crowley, chairperson of the Dinner and Breakfast Committee, expressed enthusiasm about the weekend. "The response of the parents has been very good. People are coming from as far as Florida, Texas and New Mexico. We have about 1600 guests at the Presidential Dinner." Crowley commented, "We tried to honor all seating requests, but it became more difficult as the last requests arrived."

NBC outlines finances for Moscow Olympics

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Broadcasting Co., labeling the 1980 Moscow Olympics potentially "the biggest event in television history," disclosed plans Monday for 150 hours of coverage of the Games at a cost of $100 million.

"This is probably the most ambitious television project ever undertaken," said NBC President Herb Schlosser. "It will involve the most massive array of people, technicians and equipment ever assembled for one event."'

NBC paid $85 million for rights to the Games, a figure which includes $35 million for the rights themselves and $50 million for technical facilities. And it will probably spend at least another $15 million in assorted other expenses. ABC paid $25 million for rights to the Montreal Games but NBC officials said ABC probably spent an additional $15 million or more in other expenses.

The network refused to say how much of the $85 million will be paid in advance. Sources have said the network paid $20 million in 1977 and $30 million in 1978, but NBC declined to confirm or deny those figures.

Asked how NBC would protect its investment if the Russians made new demands after the network had already paid millions of dollars up front, Schlosser admitted there was a gamble involved.

"You take risks all the time in broadcasting," he said. "Bob Howard, president of NBC television and chief of the network's negotiating team reported to us his feeling that the Russians want this event to come off well."

Schlosser said that, despite the high cost, NBC was projecting a profit. "We expect it to work out as a venture where this company will make money," he said.

Ford: Should have met with Solzhenitsyn

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Former President Ford conceded in a lecture yesterday he should have met with Washington in August with exiled Soviet author Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn.

"I think in retrospect it would have been wise for me to have met with him in the Oval Office," Ford said a packed lecture at Yale University.

After controversy arose over Ford's refusal to meet the dissident Soviet author who was deported from Washington, Ford extended a belated invitation but it was never accepted.

Solzhenitsyn is now living in France.

Ford opened a two-day lecture series there is a logistic problem and it was never adequately explained by the administration."

Ford said his trip, which didn't have time for the meeting, should have been changed.

Solzhenitsyn is now living in France.

Ford opened a two-day lecture series at the Ivy League university today with a lecture at a history class. The Yale open Wednesday New York-based media but closed to the general public.

Echoing the theme of his State of the Union address last month, the former president said, "The United States must have affirmative action "in that regard would be a mistake."

Ford, a Yale Law School graduate, urged the Carter administration also to continue the effort to reestablish human rights throughout the world when the major powers in Russia, Yugoslavia, in August to reexamine the 1975 Helsinki agreements.

"I hope and trust that the administration will be forceful in pushing the issue because that was an important, integral part of the Helsinki agreement."

Flu shots to resume?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A panel of experts concluded yesterday that because of an outbreak of A-Victoria flu in Florida told the secretary of health, education and welfare yesterday the nationwide moratorium on flu shots should be lifted.

The group of 20 medical experts and scientists did not immediately tell Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. what kind of vaccination program they would recommend. But there was a consensus that some program should resume despite an increased threat of Guillain-Barré syndrome, a rare but occasionally fatal paralysis of the Ower.

The national flu immunization program was suspended in December when an apparent statistical link was discovered between flu vaccinations and the rare paralytic illness.

The flu program concentrated on immunizing people against A-New Jersey influenza, more commonly known as swine flu, but the elderly and those suffering from chronic diseases were given shots that contained both swine and A-Victoria antigens.

Both swine and A-Victoria strains are among the most severe forms of flu. A-Victoria was blamed for an epidemic in an epidemic last year. There has been no outbreak of swine flu this year in contrast to two outbreaks last year.
Business students offer income tax assistance

It's time for filing income taxes again. Business students at Notre Dame are offering their professional expertise without charge to all heads of families with incomes of $12,000 or less. From 4 to 6 p.m. advanced accounting students with knowledge of latest changes in the law are establishing weekly busy hours at eight area centers through the April 15 deadline date. The assistance program, organized in 1972, has helped several hundred extra families each year and has resulted in returns totaling more than $100,000 that might otherwise not be claimed by the taxpayers. Drs. Kenneth W. Milani and James L. Wittenberg of the Accounting Department in the College of Business Administration supervise the program with the assurance of certified public accountants in the South Bend area. Student volunteers, with basic and advanced tax experience are selected from a group of more than 150 business majors who offer their assistance to the project each year. No return is done more than is prepared to date has been questioned by the Internal Revenue Service.

The assistance centers and hours of operation are as follows:

Carter nomi nates Admiral Turner to head CIA

WASHINGTON (AP) -Adm. Stansfield Turner, a naval officer and former Army chief-of-staff who holds a Ph.D. in history from Harvard, is President Carter's choice for the post he turned down last February to run the Central Intelligence Agency, the White House announced yesterday. Turner, 53, is commander-in-chief of U.S. forces in southern Europe.

Asked why Carter chose Turner, White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said: "The major reason is Carter's feeling that this is a person who has his complete trust."

Theodore Sorensen, Carter's first choice for the job, was sent home with his resignation in the wake of Sen. John Tower's opposition. Carter informed the Cabinet about his selection Monday moring, saying he never knew Turner was interested in the job.

"I have never known a man," Powell said. "I think you'll all be pleased with Stan Turner. I have never known a better military man.

Granum said Carter described Turner as "an intelligent, reasonable. Call

OAT-ANT.

Carter and Turner were members of the class of 1947 at Annapolis graduating in 1948 because of the accelerated academic program that was begun in World War II.

Turner finished first academically in the class. Carter ranked 59th.

Powell said Turner's background in law and academic and military affairs was a factor in Carter's decision. Powell added, however, there was no inclination to look for a military man or to look for a man with legal experience.

Powell said Carter was convinced Turner would be able to divorce his naval orientation. The press secretary said he did not know whether a concern for the rank and file naval building by the Soviet Union was a factor in the choice.

Granum said Carter wants to interview the Senate about his selection. He will review the CIA's job and "the services it has to offer for members of the Cabinet."

"The CIA has a legitimate responsibility not to deal just in war but to provide information that can result in peace," Granum quoted Carter as telling the Cabinet.

USW unites to select successor to Abel

One of the most bitterly contested labor election campaigns in years ends today when the 1.4 million-member United Steelworkers chooses a successor to retiring President I.W. Abel. Reading the administration - backed slate is Lloyd McBride, 60 a conservative union veteran pledged to the USW's moderate policies.

He faces 38-year-old Edward Sadlowski, a militant who says the union has grown soft and well to accommodate corporation bosses.

The election's outcome will affect not only the direction of the union but may also have major implications for the nation's economy.

The USW is the largest unit of the AFL-CIO and often sets the pattern for the larger union's labor effort to bring about labor union and management.

The officials result of the election will not become known for three to four weeks. But unless they are extremely close, the winner should be apparent by Thursday. Each candidate's headquarters will keep an unofficial tally of votes in the union's 5,500 locals.

The U.S. Department of Labor will provide technical assistance in conducting the election, failure to guartain vote fraud.

Barton also blocked two shots as he played one of his better games of the season. "Now that we’ve got a bit more and start the fast break. It would help if I could score a little bit more too. "Barton, who has been our leader, says that he had bad things appear to be healthy once more. Why? The win brought Notre Dame’s record to 13-5 and was their fifth in a row. Xavier fell to 6-12 on the season.

Holy Cross will invade the ACC Wednesday night as the Crusaders enter the contest with an 18-2 slate. Phelps is trumpeting that his team doesn’t take Holy Cross lightly and he hopes that the Notre Dame stocky body won’t be guilty of the same crime. "I want to make sure that the students know what we’re up against," he stressed. "Holy Cross is 18-2 and we need the students juiced up."

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - Steve Cross drilled a baseline jumper to snap an 80-80 tie with one minute, 23 seconds left and then made a key steal in the final minute to give fifth-ranked Michigan an 86-80 Big Ten road victory over 16th-ranked Minnesota Monday night.

Phil Hubbard led Michigan with 23 points, John Robinson added 20, Rick Green had 14 and Tom Staton and Grote scored 10 apiece.

The Irish, currently riding a three-game winning streak, cut the Musketeers’ hold on the boards, he is indis­pen­sable. I was also looking for a school with a good engineering program and one reasonably close to home. I chose Notre Dame after seeing me play. Notre Dame fit my style of basketball. On a personal level, Coach Phelps is one of the nicest men I’ve ever met. He has great personality and he relates to young people very well. ”

Hanzlik notices major differences between high school and college basketball. One area where this is especially evident is the way he handles practice. ”Practices at Notre Dame are very organized and strictly controlled. We have a certain amount of time set aside for every aspect of our game," Hanzlik explains. "We begin every prac­tice by doing some conditioned exercises prepared by our trainer Arno Zoke. I think this is very important, as it helps cut down on muscle pulls and sprains. After that, we do some full-court work to loosen up our legs and then we spend a certain amount of time on offensive strategy and defensive play."

"Two days before a game we will begin to prepare for the specific teams that we will face," he continued. "Every team that we play is thoroughly scouted by our staff, and since reports are very important in our game preparation. At the end of practice we go through a certain set of drills that Arno sets up which includes sprinting and the arena stairs. Steps. After practice I’ll stay behind and work on shooting for about 15 minutes. I really enjoy practice. I look forward to it," said Hanzlik.

"After dinner, Hanzlik finds himself in the gym working on his shot. "I try to shoot a lot and really work on my shot. If I get a good look at the basket I try to make the shot," said Hanzlik.

"I don’t think there is a perfect shot, but by practicing hard I have learned quite a bit about basketball," he added.

"We are in a very good position right now, but we must keep working hard," said Hanzlik.

"We’ve got a great coaching staff, especially Coach Phelps and Coach Kuchen. We’ve got a great team up. We’ve got a great cheering section, very well-conditioned athlete with great mobility and he handles the ball very well. I was also looking for a school where the people were really nice. What can a team do when they’re behind by 30 points in a game? "Just play out there, there’s not much more you can do," according to Notre Dame guard Mike Hanzlik. "We just try to do the best we can and hope for the best." Hanzlik had the opportunity to do just that last night as he crushed the Musketeers of Xavier in the ACC’s 94-62.

The issue was never in doubt as the Irish improved to 13-5 on the opening tipoff.
