Bender announces review committee

Student Body President Dave Bender announced yesterday the formation of a committee to review proposals regarding the planned removal of students from the University judicial process. The six-member committee, chaired by Bender, is composed of two administrators, two faculty members, and two students. The committee will meet today to begin reviewing the proposals, and meetings will be held as long as necessary to work on a conclusion on the plan. Then a report will be submitted to the Student Life Council (SLC) and afterwards to the Board of Trustees.

Bender said that one advantage of the committee review is that Student Government will have the means of gauging the reception of the trustees and administration to new proposals before the actual presentation to the Board of Trustees. In this manner, the SGB can decide before the presentation whether or not to take “further action.”

Roemer acted to the selection of the committee in a letter sent to Bender as well as in an interview. “I would have liked to see Dave appoint the committee through the SLC, which is the proper body to consider changes in the discipline.”

Burtchaell’s resignation forced?

by Dave Rambuch Staff Reporter

Sources quoted by the South Bend Tribune and by Fr. James Burtchaell’s sudden resignation from his position as University Provost were not available for comment. However, it is known that Burtchaell’s resignation was not voluntary but that the board had sought that resignation.

The Board of Trustees announced the succession to the presidency by Burtchaell, a promotion built into the succession to the presidency. Obviously he lost the confidence of the Board of Trustees and the Holy Cross community. Edmund A. Stephen, chairman of the Notre Dame Board of Trustees, would not deny that Burtchaell’s resignation was not voluntary but that the board had sought that resignation.

The Board of Trustees announced the promotion of Burtchaell within the position of provost, according to one Tribune source.

In his resignation a sign he won’t be it, the position was created as a testing ground for the president, a testing ground for the position.

The same source stated that the suddenness of Burtchaell’s resignation was the result of the ex-provost’s “style” and bore no other significance, the Tribune reported.

Stephan, while refusing to comment on the Board of Trustee’s alleged involvement in Burtchaell’s resignation, praised the former provost describing his tenure in the position as “brilliant.”

Key faculty members also praised Burtchaell for his commitment to academic excellence and his frequent support of faculty interests.

Dr. Isabel Charles, dean of the College of Arts and Letters, commented Burtchaell for his efforts to bring the college’s Catholic commitments and for establishing the Center for the Study of Catholic Theology. Charles stated that Burtchaell benefited the College of Arts and Letters by endowing a number of chairs and that his successor would benefit both students and teachers.

Professor Paul Connolly, chairman of the Faculty Senate, stated that Burtchaell “went all out for the faculty when they were in agreement,” adding, however, that he did not always use “eye to eye.”

Burtchaell is currently teaching a course in “Biblical Ethics” and is planning to expand his teaching activities next semester.

One raped, two accosted

by Michael Bensou

Three women students were reportedly attacked in separate incidents during the first week of the fall semester. One of the reported attacks took place in the residential area south of the campus, while the other two occurred on campus.

A graduate student was accosted and raped five blocks from the Library Tavern about 2:00 a.m. Sunday. She was walking to an off-campus residence after leaving the Library Tavern, when the assailant dragged her to a dark area behind a building. She was admitted to Memorial Hospital for treatment, where she was unable to give the police an accurate description of the assailant.

The two campus attacks were assault and battery cases. According to James Roemer, the dean of students, the attacks “were unusual,” in that one happened in daylight while the other occurred at night in front of a hall in a lighted area.

A Saint Mary’s student was accosted and groaned about 3:00 while walking near the Holy Cross community. She said one of them blocked her path and pressed his hands on her clothing but left when she threatened to have them arrested.

The third incident occurred last Saturday about 10:30 p.m. in front of Alumni Hall. An unidentified male was making a grunting sound while laying in the grass and when the woman investigated, she was attacked. Coming outside of Dilleon for “a breath of fresh air,” she was able to escape injury after being thrown by her ground by her assailant. Security was unable to find the suspect after searching the area.

Roemer said this was the first time this year that a student had been attacked in front of a hall or in broad daylight in such a well-lighted area. She warns women students to “be prudent and careful, and try to use a conveyance if at all possible by bus or car between the two colleges and other places around South Bend.”

He also suggests “teaming up with friends on campus, especially at night. Security can help, but that’s not going to make it 100 percent safe,” Roemer added.

Commenting on the seriousness of the attacks on campus the past week, Roemer said that many campus incidents were misunderstandings and it wouldn’t have been all that helpful to call in the police. Yet after three attacks in the first week, it’s an alarming situation and in the future the police will be called if another such incident occurs.

The administrators on the committee for the review of proposals for the removal of students from the University judicial process, made public the intention of abolishing the University Judicial Board, of which two of the members are students, at a meeting held two weeks ago with representatives of the student government and campus media.

The program is linked to the Hunter case brought against the University this summer. It is intended to put the University in a better legal position in the area of disciplinary proceedings.

"There are problems and inconsistencies in the University proposition." Bender stated, explaining that the review committee will iron out the proposal and that it can be introduced without snags at the Oct. 21 meeting of the Board of Trustees.

"We are obvious choices," Bender said, "because that they are the persons in the administration most closely connected to the issue. Additionally Paczesny is a University trustee.

Fr. Dave Burrell, chairman of the Theology Department, is one of the faculty members on the committee. Explaining his choice, Burrell described Burrell as a "realistic, fair guy," who is known to have an open mind. "If he can get a good proposi-

v, I'll accept that (that the proposal is a bad one). If he says it's gone as far as it can go in the work we've done" and add credence to the plan, Bender added.

The other "faculty" member is Jeanne Swarts, a criminal defense lawyer who lives in South Bend. Swarts, 38, is a 1975 Notre Dame Law School graduate and is married to Notre Dame economics professor Thomas Swarts.

A member of the 1971 search committee for the vice president for Student Affairs, she presently works in the Public Defender's Office of South Bend and is Counsel for the Retarded. Swarts also is a member of a South Bend law firm.

Bender justified the selection, saying he wanted a woman's point of view on the committee, as well as an outside view. He stressed the necessity of the presence of a neutral lawyer, on the committee because legal questions and technicalities will be dealt with.

Bender himself is one of the student members of the committee. The second is Tom Byrne, a former mayor and former Campus Editor of the Observer.

In looking for another student to serve on the committee, Bender said he looked for a student "who understood the procedure inside and out," as well as someone outside of student government. Speaking of Byrne, Bender commented, "He has credibility, is open-minded, and I doubt if there's another student who knows as much about the process in question." Byrne resigned from his position of Campus Editor earlier this week. The action was not connected with his appointment to the committee.

The committee will meet at the end of next week and will consider all proposals on the matter, whether drafted by the trustees, by a student, or by student government, according to Bender. Meetings will be held as long as necessary to work on a conclusion on the plan. Then a report will be submitted to the Student Life Council (SLC) and afterwards to the Board of Trustees.

Disciplinary procedures against students

by Bob Varetto

The University, with its proposed change in disciplinary procedure, is trying to "make the deck" against students, according to J.P. Russell, chairman of the Presidents Council (HPC).

Russell said in this opinion last night in Alumni Hall at the first meeting of this year's HPC. He outlined the new disciplinary situation for the HPC when Dave Bender, student body president, failed to make a scheduled appearance to discuss matters.

Russell said that under the new set-up students will no longer take part in disciplinary procedures. Instead, members voted to attend a meeting of the student representative organizations at the University Judicial Board and the Appeals Board. The latter added that the student handbook which details University regulations, will be included in fall in the semester.

Other topics discussed by the

The HPC included a plan for tutoring programs on campus such as the Health Sciences Reading, Student Government academic commission-er, said that Sarrin Hall's program, where students volunteer to tutor in a dormitory, will serve as a model.

With Dean Hofman's tutoring program, freshmen are taken care of well," Strangline said. "It would be nice if we can do something for upperclassmen.

Strangline said she felt sorry for the student enrolled in "some course like Zoology 100" who finds no one to turn to for help. She added that this new program will be underway within two weeks.

Marianne Moore, SU calendar coordinator, attended the formation of a Student Union service which checks for conflicts of dates involving campus social events. Moore hoped this new service might prevent half as many, for example, to be scheduled on Tuesday for the same night as a concert.

Russell introduced John Rooney, the new An Tostal chairman, to the HPC last night. He also introduced Tom Soma, Student body vice president and Tom Gryst, Student Union director, who will report at future HPC meetings.

Dave Haugh, representing the Mardi Gras committee, announced that Mardi Gras this year will run from February 3 to 11. Since this is earlier than in recent years, Haugh noted that construction of floats will have to start on January 21. The first day of the second semester. If some unfinished business from last semester, Russell an-nounced St. Edward's Hall as the winner of the April Rockne Trophy. Alumni and Fisher halls were runners-up.

The HPC will not hold a regular business meeting next week. Instead, members voted to attend a meeting of the day-of-the-year dinner" that will be scheduled on Tuesday for the first meeting next week.

Royemer reacts to appointees

Roemer expressed a wish that all of the committee members would have been chosen from within the Notre Dame community, noting the Swartz is a South Bend lawyer and not directly connected with the University. He suggested that a David Link, dean of the law school, might have been chosen instead.

Roemer proceeded to add that Roemer did not consult him before making any of the choices.

Roemer recommended that the number of the committee members be dropped from six to three, the three being Roemer himself, Bender and a faculty member. "If we have any more on this committee, it will be too difficult to achieve a consensus on the choice of words as well as the choice of candidates," Roemer added. "The tumult and shouting of a larger group is not helpful. In fact, it slows and often destroys the progress." He added, citing his past experience in labor negotia-tions.

The Student Government pro-posal is not yet finished, according to Bender, but should be completed by the end of the week. "We're trying to build a consistent model of justice," he said, indicating that the student government proposal will touch all levels of University disciplinary procedures in an effort to standardize regulations.

The committee drafting the pro-posal consists of Bender, Joe Gill, executive coordinator, Steve Dan and John Talbott, judicial coordina-tors, and Perry Dondurow, Alum­ni representative. In addition, numerous faculty members and students' opinions have been ask-ed. Bender said that the SLG repre-sentatives had been consulted on Sunday night.

Student Government's plans in connection with the drafting of the proposal include a series of talks to other campus groups. Bender said that Talbott in particular is working toward having the students under the disciplinary system as it presently stands. The same would be done after the changes be determined have been approved by the trustees.

Bender also intends to take the Student Government proposal into the halls, once it is completed, to explain it to the students, and to feel out campus reaction to it. Another part of the Student Government Student Rights Man-date will be presented in the halls. The manual will rely in part on research done by Dane at Georgetown, VA in the matter of student rights.

The drafting committee wel­comes student input. Bender said, and students with ideas should call the Student Government office. Or, a separate proposal can be written up and submitted to the reviewing committee itself.

The original waiting list for campus housing numbered over 90 women and 180 men. However, this list includes a few students who decided not to attend Notre Dame, and others who have found housing off-campus. As rooms become available, the office refers to the waiting list to determine who still wants on-campus housing.

To help reduce the overcrowd­ing, Carroll hall now houses under-graduates, and has been put into use as a permanent dormitory. Freshmen, Eileen Tarpey lived in the Farley hotel for a week before a room became available.

"I thought I would have a room, but when I received a letter from Notre Dame, my room assignment was marked off," she said.

She also said that the housing office said that a room would soon be open, and to stay in the hotel for a few days. Tarpey lived with five other freshmen in the hotel.

"It wasn't bad living there, but we couldn't unpack our suitcases. All we went down there for was to sleep and change clothes," she added.

"We had beds and our suitcases, and that was about it."
Hunter's Case
Again

Dear Editor:
I find the actions of the Notre Dame administration so offensive. In the Al Hunter case and in the planned elimination of the student judicial board, our students are being denied their rights. These actions have no place in what is supposed to be a Christian community.

In the Al Hunter case, the University followed their rules when they suited them, and the administration broke the rules when they did not. They did not let Hunter confront opposing witnesses as the rules stated that he was entitled to, and they flagrantly violated the established deadline for an appeal. Why have rules if they can be broken at will? How can students' rights be protected when these rules are violated at will?

Since they ran into legal difficulties on the Hunter case, the University has decided to take no further chances. They will be able to control the judicial process without any students trying to defy them when they break their own rules. From now on, Dean Roemer will be both prosecutor and judge while keeping a facade of fairness.

I feel the actions of the University very phony and hypocritical. Notre Dame will stand as a Christian community while its administration betrays its own value systems. Instead, we are left to control the judicial process not responsible enough to make our own decisions and form our own value systems. Instead, we are to follow their example of deceit and hypocrisy.

Pat Toomey, Jr.

Justice

Dear Editor:
I believe that the removal of students from the university judicial system is a lamentable miscarriage of justice. The sanctimonious remarks made by the Dean of Students and university trustees is referring to students as the "problem" in the judicial system betrays an underlying distrust in the integrity of the Notre Dame students. Unfortunately, the handful of people who learned the real shortcomings of the system through participation in its most recent use are bound by confidentiality. We students have much to lose in this decision and I believe a further investigation into the matter is warranted.

Brian Diamond

Ticket Injustice

Dear Editor:
A grave injustice has been rendered upon those of the Notre Dame community who have been deprived of basketball tickets through no personal fault. The method of allocation through the postal system during the summer months did not give every student a fair chance to obtain a ticket and removed the opportunity of choosing a seat location. Many spend at least part of their summers away, and occasionally a letter is lost in the mail. Obviously a victim of this system would have had no opportunity to apply for a ticket, and they are sold out. The only recourse open to us is to pay $30.00 to be put on a waiting list for a padded seat. And if perhaps we are granted a ticket, who will be sitting next to us? The enjoyment of basketball games is derived partly from the company of friends. Is the use of new drawbacks to the system, it is apparent that the sale of tickets has been successful. Congratulations to the ticket manager for another misguided service/capital executed!

Center Odor

Dear Editor:
In the Wednesday paper's report on the new laundromat for men, it was stated that Lafortune was unacceptable because of the "problem of unpleasant odors." This fine students shouldn't have to suffer unsavory smells while washing.

But this is the case, how can it be that off-campus students are expected to eat lunch with the odors, that formal dances take place there, that the entire student body is expected to take its leisure amidst the stench? (And don't let me short change the cockroaches and sparsely-furnished areas.) How is it that the people in the administrative offices can continue to be so inconsequential? Awaken, Administration of Notre Dame! The sun is shining and LaFortune stinks.

The Observer
an independent student newspaper serving Notre dame and st. mary's
Washington [AP] - A federal grand jury has listed 17 present and former members of Congress who allegedly assisted or received money from South Korean businessman Tongsun Park, accused of buying favors on Capitol Hill with the support of his government.

The indictment of Park on 36 charges was unsealed Tuesday as the Carter administration stepped up the pressure for Park's return to the United States from Seoul. Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell asked President Carter to contact South Korean President Chung Hee "to have Tongsun Park returned to the United States." Tongsun Park "is now a fugitive from American justice and we would hope he would appear for trial," Bell told a news conference. "We're ready to go to trial immediately."

Bell declined to comment on the possibility of future indictments against members of Congress.

Former Rep. Richard T. Hanna, a California Democrat, was named an unindicted co-conspirator in the Park indictment and was pictured in Park's right-hand man in the alleged effort to buy friendly congressional treatment of South Korean interests with lavish parties and cash contributions.

"We're in the season and we'll have to see what the harvest will bring," Bell said. The indictment also named an unsuccessful congressional candidate as having received money from Park.

The indictment of Park, a lion on the Washington social scene until he fled the country, was returned Aug. 20 but was kept sealed until Tuesday. The existence of the indictment was reported last week, but details of the charges have not been available until now.

Park was accused of conspiring from about 1967 to Dec. 31, 1975, to bribe members of Congress with thousands of dollars "for the purpose of inducing them to take official actions and make decisions favorable to the Republic of Korea and the regime of President Park Chung-hee."

Hanna received more than $100,000 from Park, advised Park on which of his congressional colleagues should be bribed and helped distribute the money, the indictment said.

Two former directors of Korean Central Intelligence Agency, Kim Hyung Wook, who held the job between 1963 and 1969 and Lee Hu Rak, who followed him in the job between 1970 and 1973, were part of the alleged conspiracy, the government said.

Scheidler gives scholarships to ND students

Notre Dame students who live in Indiana will benefit from a new scholarship fund established by a bequest from Benno M. Scheidler, an Indiana businessman and farmer.

Fr. Theodore M. Hesburgh, university president, announced that the Cecil E. Scheidler and Benno M. Scheidler scholarships have been made possible by an initial $200,000 distribution of Mr. Scheidler's bequest to Notre Dame.

Hesburgh expressed the University's gratitude, noting the 64 per cent of Notre Dame's students require some form of financial aid to enroll and remain at the University.

Mrs. June McCauslin, director of financial aid, said that invested income from the Scheidler fund will enable scholarships to be awarded beginning in the 1978-79 academic year. Recipients will be chosen, she said, from among Indiana students who have been accepted for admissions to Notre Dame and who have a certified financial need.

Mr. Scheidler operated a Coca-Cola bottling franchise in Attica and was in the ice business. He also was engaged in farming and had considerable holdings as a landowner. Mr. Scheidler died on September 22, 1976.

Nazz initiates '77 season on Saturday night

by Chuck Kaufman

The Nazz, Notre Dame's music nightclub, will open its doors to the students on Saturday night at 9 p.m. Located in the basement of LaFortune, the Nazz offers relaxed and friendly atmosphere while listening to live music and entertainment throughout Saturday night. The Nazz will be open Monday through Saturday until midnight, and will offer beverages to those 21 years old and over. Students interested or interested in performing should contact Lulli at 1479 or Flaherty at 1575.

The Nazz offers a place to gather with friends, while listening to live music and entertainment provided by Notre Dame students. The Nazz will be open Monday through Saturday from 9 p.m. until midnight, and will offer beverages and various fooftucks for sale. According to Enrique Lulli, director of the Nazz, the conference is intended to be an alternative form of nighttime entertainment for students. It is a place, he noted, "where you can have a pizza and listen to good music," while enjoying the conversation and camaraderie of friends.

A distinguishing feature of the Nazz remains its encouragement and almost exclusive use of live student entertainment. John Flaherty, who is in charge of entertainment for the establishment, stated that anyone is welcome to perform on stage, either by signing up with him ahead of time, or by simply coming up from the audience to do a spontaneous number. Flaherty encourages individuals and groups in all fields, not only in music, to share their talents with others at the Nazz. Anyone interested in performing may contact Lulli at 1479 or Flaherty at 1575.

The Nazz will open this Saturday night with an impromptu jazz jam, featuring members of the Notre Dame jazz combos. The jam is open to the public and Flaherty welcomes interested musicians to come and join in.

The program itself will consist of an hour tour of South Bend, scheduled to leave the south circle on Thursday at 4:30 p.m. The tour will stop at the ZF Fossil Hall, where members will partake in a traditional Polish wedding meal, consisting of chicken and Polish sausage. During dinner, several speakers will represent the ethnic neighborhoods of South Bend, which include the Polish, Black and Mexican-American communities. Following the meal, John Ross, associate professor of government, will present slides of neighborhood decay. At approximately 7:15, Swartz will give a brief analysis of the process of neighborhood decay. Then Prof. Thomas Broden will report on the justice issues in relation to Central City downtown spiral, suburban encroachment, the Institute for Urban Studies Strategy and the potential for student involvement. Following Broden Fr. Donald McNeill will explain "Urban Plunge!" and the role of the Center for Experimental Learning. Finally, students Hardy and Barbara Prey will inform members of other opportunities for community involvement. The participants will return to campus at approximately 9:30 p.m.

McNeill, the Director of the Center for Experimental Living, hopes that through Neighborhood Roots, students might be able to have more of a social background to complement their academic studies. "We have an outstanding staff institute of urban studies," McNeill explained, "and this program is an excellent opportunity for students to appreciate the diversity of the community nearby. We must let April to arrive with Neighborhood Roots, and I hope for more of this involvement in the future." McNeill also stressed that registration is open to all.

Anyone interested in Neighborhood Roots may register at the dining halls on Sept. 7, 8, and 9. Registration fee is one dollar, and enrollment is limited to 250. If there is an excess, a similar program will soon be constructed.

Amin orders 12 public executions for treason

Nairobi, Kenya (AP) - President Idi Amin has ordered the public execution of 12 government and military officials convicted of plotting to overthrow him, Radio Uganda said yesterday.

Broadcasts monitored in Nairobi said the executions by firing squad would be scheduled for 5 p.m. Friday (9 a.m. EST) on a public street near the outskirts of Kampala, Uganda's capital.

The radio said official government photographers have been assigned to cover the executions and that any officers who attempt to disrupt the ceremony will lose their own lives.

Among the 12 doomed men are Lt. Ben Ongoma, a former intelligence officer; Y. T. Okok, J. Mbabu, A. S. Okolinukya, Abdalla Anyono, a former chairman of the Uganda Public Services Commission and Ben Ongoma, a former leading businessman in Kampala.

They were convicted of treason by a military tribunal on Monday and sentenced to death. Amin signed the execution orders early yesterday, Radio Uganda said.

Two other defendants were also found guilty of plotting against Amin and had been given 15-year prison terms.

Two more were acquitted and freed shortly after the trial got under way in Kampala City Hall on Aug. 22.

The accusation had all pleaded guilty to planning the coup which, according to Uganda radio, allegedly was timed for last Jan. 25. That was the 20th anniversary of Amin’s accession to power when he toppled former President Milton Obote. Obote was out of the country at the time of the coup.

It was the first public trial held in Uganda. The radio reported scores of Ugandans packed the city hall daily to listen to defendants outline their roles in the move to oust "Life President Amin."

Amin announced the plot last Feb. 13, to rally in Kampala. Three of the alleged plotters confessed and one of them implicated Anglican Archbishop Janani Luwum.

Radio Uganda announced the next day that Luwum and two of Amin’s aides were arrested and some were killed in an automobile accident. Others sources said they were decapitated.

During the past few seasons, the Notre Dame Golden Dome clack has become one of the premier battles of intercollegiate football. In fact, some fear that this year's 31-10 threshing of the Irish by Pitt was the Panthers' most important victory in their national championship search.

In an exclusive telephone interview, Johnny Majors, former head coach at Pitt and now the top man at Tennessee, commented on the Notre Dame-Pitt rivalry and the upcoming season. Looking back, Majors noted, "As important as the rest of the season was, I felt Notre Dame was the most important because it was the first game. They had a national ranking, tradition and prestige in national football. I thought if we could win, it would give us confidence and a chance for a great year."

"As we prepared for the game," Majors continued, "our biggest concern was how they (Notre Dame) might play from the year before. I also knew that it would not be easy to beat Notre Dame at home. You gotta have poise for the occasion."

An interesting feature of both the Notre Dame and Pitt seasons is that they have and will receive national attention. In 1977, as in 1976, ABC will open its college football schedule with this matchup. Majors believes his defense is the asset to the game. He said, "Last year we were prepared because it was on television."

Majors believes his defense in this contest will live up to all of its advance notices. "We have good size and experience. Notre Dame's pre-season ranking could be realistic. Their defense is good and they have an improved offense."

This year's game is in Pittsburgh Saturday. In home turf advantage could be decisive. "Of course," Majors said, "everyone would like to play at the ticket office of the ACC. Notre Dame has certain subway alumni the day Notre Dame will have home will not hurt Pitt."

The man looking to fill Majors' shoes at Pitt is by no means an outsider. Though Jackie Sherrill spent last season as head coach at Tennessee State University, he previously had been one of Majors' top assistants at both Iowa and Pittsburgh. Speaking of Sherrill, Majors said, "He worked with me for eight years. He is one of the finest assistant coaches I've worked with. I certainly hope he gets a chance. He has a lot to work with. He doesn't have the experience but he has a lot of young coaches and a lot of young players. He can do. Also, he played a part in the building of that program."

"This is not a must game for us," said Sherrill, who replaced Johnny Majors at Pitt, "It is a must game for Notre Dame. They have been there. They're No. 1 in preseason polls. And there's no way they'll be national champions without beating Pitt."

Devine, speaking by telephone to reporters gathered at the Pitt noon Tuesday, said: "Pittsburgh could be the No. 1 team in the nation. And they could have three first team All-Americans. It's going to be a good game for us."

Devine says he is guardedly optimistic about his team, which was not as good last year as it was the year before. "I don't know if I can help him," Devine said. "If he has a great team, I don't know if I can help him."

Johnnie Majors looks forward to his first season at Tennessee.

Devine won't miss Dorsett, but he will miss Darrell Johnson, who was chosen by the Heisman Trophy winner, who ran over Notre Dame for 754 yards in four years at Tennessee. Darrell nearly averaged 200 yards as a junior and 209 as a freshman.

Towle's rags

Let me repeat this one more time. The University of Nevada-Las Vegas has been slapped with two years of NCAA probation because of its violation of the basketball program. I bring this up because it has surprised me to no end that there are not more voices being raised against the NCAA, as Notre Dame didn't even know it. Yes, indeed, Jerry Tarkanian's basketball team will be absent from the television screen and the NCAA playoffs for the next two years.

Well Jerry, it's about time that the NCAA finally nailed you. After all, every college basketball fan in the United States has been waiting for several years now. The papers told us that and it was only a matter of time and now the NCAA has done it. Jerry Tarkanian was a convicted man when he left Long Beach State after the NCAA had penalized that school for similar reasons.

He said he gave in. How else could he have steered the most exciting and explosive basketball team of the 1970's? Never mind the theories that Tarkanian was looking for trouble when he came to the gambling capital of the country. I only hope that the NCAA will be able to aggressice in its policies of all other schools in the United States . From Los Angeles to Miami, from Norman to Wichita. State your promise to keep your minds open.
