Flood ravages Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A sudden flood fed by 24 hours of unprecedented rainfall left at least 18 dead, 1,200 homeless and the city's fanciest shopping area in near ruin yesterday.

The city's suburbs in Kansas and Missouri also suffered flood damage and the governors of both states toured the area, intending to ask for federal disaster aid.

Later into the night, rescue workers continued to pump water out of three underground parking garages in the city's renowned Country Club Plaza shopping area, fearing more bodies would be found there.

In mid-evening, Kansas City police reported eight people still unaccounted for.

City Manager Robert Kipp said preliminary estimates showed that 228 homes, 150 apartments and 500 mobile homes suffered at least some damage and that 65 businesses were damaged or destroyed.

Many of those were in the Plaza, which prides itself as the nation's first shopping center and still one of its prettiest.

"I've been here all my life, driven back and forth the Plaza is thunderstorms and all of a sudden it was a lake," said Missouri Gov. Joseph Teasdale, a Kansas City native, as he toured the shopping center later yesterday.

Teasdale planned to ask President Carter for a disaster area declaration, making merchants and home owners eligible for low-cost federal loans.

As much as a foot of rain fell in parts of the metropolitan area in the 24-hour period that ended at midnight Monday, a recored. Creeks so small they have no names surged over their banks and combined to overflow Brush Creek running alongside the Plaza before flowing into the Big Blue River.

The water in Brush Creek had crested to near normal late in the day, but the Blue still worried officials. Homes along its flood plain were evacuated.

On Sunday the weather bureau had forecast heavy thundershowers, and they came. The first rain began pelting the city at midnight and ended about 11 a.m. Monday after dropping 4-6 inches. But it began raining again at 7:30 p.m., raising the total to one foot in some areas by midday. Then, with the damage done in the early morning hours, the rain quit by noon.

Rescue workers concentrated their efforts yesterday on under Ground garages at a shopping center, pumping them out in search of additional victims.

By midafternoon, the death toll for the metropolitan area including the suburbs, stood at 17, and there were reports of other people missing.

"We have no idea how many cars there are if there's anybody in any of them," said Frank H. Spink Jr., director of emergency preparedness for the city.

Mardi Gras rescheduled

by Tony Pace

Student Union Director Tom Gryp has decided to move Mardi Gras to a week earlier than it was originally scheduled in order to avoid a direct conflict with the Sophomore Literary Festival. Mardi Gras will now run from Feb. 3 through Feb. 12, with the Sophomore Literary Festival (SLF) occurring as scheduled during the following week.

Gryp, who reached this decision last week, said that he wanted to avoid a situation similar to last year when both Mardi Gras and the SLF were held during the same week.

"Students tended to split their time between those two events rather than enjoy either of them fully," he said.

Because the SLF had asked for their date first and because they have already received five speaking confirmations, Gryp thought it would be better to move Mardi Gras. "The SLF had no special reason to request that date initially but now, especially after receiving these confirmations, it is too late for them to change," he added.

As far as Mardi Gras is concerned, Gryp thought the only possible alternative would be to move it earlier, since Mardi Gras officially occurs on Tuesday, Feb. 7. Gryp believes that preparation before the Christmas break by chairperson Dan Haugh and his co-workers will alleviate some of the problems which an earlier deadline might cause.

The reason this scheduling process was discussed this year, while it was overlooked last year, is the addition of the Student Union calendar office. Previously, any student events which were to be scheduled were set only on the University calendar.

Mary Ann Dougherty, the first person to be in charge of the Student Union calendar, alerted Gryp of this scheduling overlap during the summer. This gave all the academic departments time to reach a mutually agreeable solution, Gryp said.

"Initially," said Gryp, "the calendar office was more of a hazard than a help, it was just another variable in the scheduling equation." "Now, however," he continued, "the scheduling office is separated from the academic departments. Mary Ann is the bottleneck, everything is worked out and all this makes calendar recommendations."

Gryp was most satisfied with the resolution of this situation, saying, "The SLF and Mardi Gras are not cramped in the same week. We will have two fine weeks in February instead of one hectic one."

Committee reports

Recommmendations made for co-education

by David O'Keefe
Features Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: This editorial is the second in a three-part series of articles which examine the report filed last May to the Committee to Evaluate Coeducation. This second article examines the recommendations made by the Committee concerning Residence Hall Life, Security, Sexuality Education and Athletics.

The Committee made several recommendations in this area. One, designed to remedy the imbalance in class distribution among halls advised the Director of Housing with studying the situation and devised a plan whereby women could more fully enjoy the benefits of Notre Dame's "student policy."

The most significant recommendations in this area were precipitated by the Committee's finding that the vast majority of the University community feels that structured opportunities for social interaction are "simply inadequate."

Dr. John Santos speaks on aging

by Michael Lewis
Staff Reporter

Dr. John Santos of the Notre Dame department of psychology addressed approximately 30 students and faculty members yesterday on "The Psychology of Aging." Speaking in the Galvin Life Science Center auditorium, Santos expressed despair at the lack of help given the elderly.

"I have been amazed that so little has been done to help the elderly who cannot cope with day to day living," he said.

Santos cited several recent studies on the elderly, concentrating on the relationship between intelligence, factors and the ability to "cope" or "survive."

He also criticized the idea of senility, maintaining that many people, deemed "sickly seniors," could be rehabilitated.

Cross-sectional studies of general I.Q. by age groups revealed a rapid decline in I.Q. after age 55, Santos said. He then reviewed other studies which show that generational differences may be more important in these studies than age differences.

He also cited research which proved that general intelligence and verbal ability did not decline as quickly as the I.Q. tests would indicate.

Santos said that these studies, combined with his earlier work with mentally retarded patients, convinced him of the "sane" ability to be rehabilitated to lead fuller lives.

"I saw mental retardation close by from an impossible situation to a new, promising field," Santos said. "It was then I couldn't believe that we had to do it all over again with respect to the elderly and senility."

He also pointed out that he called the "pigeon-back" effect on the elderly. Santos expounded the late hours and inclement weather.

The Committee to Evaluate Coeducation recommends that the Athletic Department hire a woman as Assistant Director of Athletics as well as provide coaches for women's club teams and offer grants-in-aid to the varsity women's teams.

Anticipating the continued development of athletic programs women, the Committee further recommends that a woman be added to the Sports Information Staff, that present locker facilities at the Rockne Memorial and the ACC be expanded, and that more courses in dance be offered.

In addition to the areas covered above, the Committee also recommends the addition of more qualified women to the Campus Ministry Staff and the active encouragement of female participation in alumni organizations by the officers of the local clubs.

Santos speaks on aging

As a result, the committee recommends that social space in halls and on campus be made available to students of legal age for parties at which alcohol may be served.

The Committee also recommends that the President appoint a new committee to consider coeducational housing and, if feasible, plan for its implementation in 1978-79.

Although the report emphasizes the Committee's unanimous support for all-male and all-female housing as the University's "primary model," they nevertheless feel that "no single model can serve the purposes of all." It was this sentiment that led to the recommendation on coeducational housing.

As a result, the report contains recommendations for the installation of emergency phones in remote areas of campus, a more careful and consistent maintenance of campus lighting, and the development of a media presentation designed to acquaint women with security measures. Also, they suggested an investigation of a system whereby dates would be allowed to drive on campus during...
Male students finding their weekly wash load becoming too expensive at the campus laundry now have another option: the Badin Laundromat.

In preceding years, men were often seen sneaking in a load of clothes at one of the women’s dorms, or coining a lady friend into doing to for them. Now that they have their own facilities for washing many are taking advantage of them.

“I do my two dollar sixty cents worth at the school laundry, but I only send over jeans and towels. They have a tendency to crush buttons when they press my shirts,” commented a freshman launderer.

Overall, the majority of users are pleased with the performance so far this year. “I can come down here, wash my weekly overload, and get some work done at the same time,” one user noted.

The laundromat is equipped with six desks, six washers, six dryers, and three vending machines with refreshments.

However several students expressed the need for both a money changer and a coin-operated detergent machine.

For some first time visitors were surprised to find that they had to bring their own detergent. Brother Ryan, vice-president of Business Affairs, said that he would definitely look into the prospect of a detergent machine.

The outlook for a money changer is less optimistic.

“With the men’s laundry open twenty-four hours a day, the installation of a change machine would be an open invitation to vandalism,” Ryan stated.

Complaints have also been expressed about the dryers.

“One load takes at least two runs through the dryer, sometimes with no laundry present,” commented one patron with an armload of damp clothes.

The dryers run anywhere from ten minutes to an hour reported various sources. Actual drying time is approximately 28 minutes.

“The dryers are all commercially set for standard times by the firm that owns them,” added Ryan. “It is the same time found in regular laundromates.”

The machines thus far have not needed any major repairs.

“There wasn’t any hot air in one dryer for a while and another one didn’t work at all, but they obviously have been taken care of by the company.”

“The machines also have an occasional tendency to consume quarters with no results which hurts at such a high price.”

Weekend afternoons are usually peak washing times, but usually no more than four to six people are there at most other time periods.

“We like to keep the number of machines where it is now,” said Ryan.

“We are hoping that the students will take some responsibility for the machines if they want to continue using them. I think it will work out well, especially if early education continues,” he concluded.

"New" energy department created by President Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter yesterday setting up the Department of Energy, the nation’s first major energy department.

The new department, which first annual budget will total almost $10.4 billion, will include almost 20,000 employees when it starts operations Oct. 1.

Carter noted that gasoline consumption reached a new high this summer and oil imports have continued to increase despite the many public warnings of potential energy shortages. He said new effort would be necessary to stimulate energy conservation and development.

Carter’s nominations for the new energy department nomina tions for the new Energy Departments were headed by John F. O’Leary, now administra tive assistant to the Federal Reserve, and by James R. Schlesinger, now energy department.

The outlook for a moneychanger was also noted.

“With no change machine, and the machines also have an occasional tendency to consume quarters with no results which hurts at such a high price.”

Students react in favor of Roots Program in city

by Maureen Eyres

Response to the Neighborhood Roots Program is "overwhelming" according to Valarie Hardy, Student Union commissioner of Social and Intersocial Concerns. A cross-section of 226 students and 65 alumni, faculty, and their sponsors will participate in the orientation to the South Bend Community to be held this Thursday.

The program, MLA, the Center for Experiential Learning, add the Urban Studies Program, had originally projected a goal of 250 participants.

For students who have signed up, the program will begin at the Library Circle at 4:10 p.m. and not at the Main Circle at 4:30 p.m. as reported last Wednesday's Observer.

Over this time students will be assigned to cars for the neighborhood tours to be conducted by alumni, faculty, and their sponsors and will receive information packets.

After the tour, the groups will meet at theill Falcon Club at approximately 5:30 p.m. for a traditional Polish wedding meal followed by talks on various aspects and issues of the neighborhood.

Return to campus will be at approximately 8:30 p.m.

Fast earns money

The World Hunger Coalition's Wednesday-night last program will begin next week. The last, which began two years ago as a fund-raising activity, has raised approxi-ately $8,000 per year to help alleviate world hunger.

Of the money collected, three-fourths has gone for overseas relief and one-fourth has been contributed to the poor in South Bend.

Agencies such as CARF, OXAFAM are funded by the Hunger Cooperation.

Sign-up sheets will be distributed tonight and Thursday night at the dining halls.

SMC Octoberfest features Biergarten

by Anne Bachel

Plans for the fourth annual Oktoberfest, to be held Sept. 28 Oct. 4, are well underway, accordoff to Oktoberfest Chairman Kathy Friday. The traditional event, sponsored by St. Mary's Social Commission was initiated as an autumn counterpart to As Tostal.

Usually held in mid-October, Oktoberfest 77 has been pushed ahead this year so as not to interfere with mid-terms, and also to better coincide with its larger counterpart is Germany.

During the last week in September, t-shirts and raffle tickets for a Pioneer stereo will be sold in the dining halls on both campuses. For those '71 and older, Oktoberfest will begin Wednesday night with beer specials at Senior Bar.

St. Mary's students will get involved Thursday with a German dinner in the dining hall, complete with German polka band and skits performed by the students. The winner of the hall decorating contest will be announced at this time. Gil Eagles, a magician, will perform for all interested students Thursday night.

A happy hour at the Library Friday will be highlighted and various contests. That night St. Mary's will sponsor a dance in Regina Hall, with the band "Sa- hara" playing, while the north lounge of Regina will hold a Biergarten complete with balloons and pretzels for those with 21 I.D's.

Admission to the dance and Biergarten is $2, while the dance alone will cost $1.

A Grochro Mars look-alike contest, to be held that evening, will permit anyone dressed like Groucho to be admitted free. The one judge to 'look most alike' will be awarded a prize.

The weekend will be capped with the Michigan State game Saturday, and a concert that evening.

Anyone desiring to help with sign-making and other activities should meet in the St. Mary's Social Commission office in the basement of Regina Sunday at 3 p.m.

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) - The Space Shuttle Enterprise yesterday maintained its record of doing everything it was designed to do, gliding through sparkling desert skies to a flawless touchdown on its second free flight test.

During the five-minute, 20-second descent from the back of the Boeing 747 jumbo jet, the two-man crew of the delta-winged craft turned, banked and rolled the prototype spacecraft from side-to-side-to-side and landed it without a hitch.

Award committee chairman needed
Any Senior Class member interested in being chairman of the Senior Fellow Committee should submit a one page resume to the secretary in the Student Activities Office in LaFortune, by Monday, Sept. 19. Experience in previous activities, ideas for the Senior Fellow award, and special talents will be considered when reviewing applications.

If any senior is interested in working on the committee, call either the Student Activities office at 7308, or stop by to leave your name and phone number with the secretary.

As before, the powerless Enter­ prise descended along a U-shaped course over the sprawling NASA Dryden Flight Research Center. Rounding one of the corners more sharply, Engle rolled the craft nearly onto its side, exposing the black-painted belly. During this fast turn, the craft and crew were subjected to forces of nearly twice the strength of gravity.

The crewmen also tested automati­ c systems to verify that the craft would remain in orbit. With Truly calling out the numbers, Engle punched a panel of buttons like those on a pushbutton phone.

The signal told a system under the control of four onboard computers to move wings and tailfins to put the craft through preprogrammed maneuvers.

The after next flight, scheduled for Sept. 27, the Shuttle will be flown to California for vibration tests.

Essentially, the flight, which will be conducted from a 200-mile-high orbit, will test the engines of the space ship, which was designed to do, gliding through sparkling desert skies to a flawless touchdown on its second free flight test.

for the other five advisors, but that he believes he needed a University-wide procedure to shake out the individual factors. "The advisors based their recommendations on the existing evidence compiled by the departmental Committee on Appointments and Promotions) and reasonable judgement," Tavis joked.

Prof. Paul Kenney said he was "personally delighted to see faculty (in the advisory group)" and wondered if the Senate debate did signal "a lack of confidence in faculty of other disciplines."

Prof. Richard LeManna argued that the committee appointed for a year "has no time to gain experience of the disciplines...They lack a norm for concepts and disciplines."

The Senate decided to follow the suggestion of Prof. Thomas Wege and delay further discussion until Lyons has spoken with acting provost Ferdinand Brown about the possible future of the advisory group.

Lacrosse clinic

The second week of the lacrosse clinic is well underway and with this added program, the interest is showing signs of gelling. The idea of the clinic, a first for the lacrosse team, came from president, Rich Mazzei, who wanted to interest in the sport. The result has been overwhelming as many students have turned out for the clinic.

The majority of the kids who join, do not know much about playing the sport, if any at all. Learning to throw and catching the ball with a modified "butterfly net" is quite a challenge. Even though the clinic is in its second week, many are wishing to come out for the team as well as to support the kids as they return as constant customers. The kids are held in high regard on the field. The Notre Dame lacrosse team will open their fall season against the alumni on October 1 following the Michigan State football game.

In other lacrosse news, the Denison lacrosse team will face their fall season against the alumni on October 1 following the Michigan State football game.

The National Football League opens its 1973 season this Sunday afternoon with all 28 of its teams dreaming of a possible berth in Super Bowl XII. For some teams, these dreams are quite realistic; for others, they are just pipe dreams. Here’s one look at the National Football Conference.

Pacific Coast Conference

New Orleans Saints - Everyone knows the Saints have Tony Dorsett, but they also have a lot more. Last Thursday afternoon, the Saints drafted five players by a 30.0 count in exhibition play, adding five more to the squad.

The defense is in good hands with the return of veteran linebacker, Dorsett, is sound. The Saints will be one of the teams to watch this year.

Northeast Conference

Dorsett and Cowboys set to run for NFC crown

The Dallas Cowboys and Mike Dorsett have their eyes set on the NFC title this season. The Cowboys are expected to be one of the top teams in the conference.

varsity swimming team are urged

Grant. Allen's special teams above team should finish a notch or two higher than last year.

Washburn 75

Georgia Allen's over-the-hill gang seems to have let the younger ones run the show this season. Though Allen recently turned down a new contract with the Cowboys, he will be missed as he will be lost for the early portion of the year.

Philadelphia Eagles - The Eagles have a good chance to make the playoffs this season. The team has a solid defense and a strong running game.

Weightlifting at Notre Dame

Any students interested in the sport should contact Coach Sepeta at 3211. Mike Williams is one of the top athletes on the team. He has been consistently training and has shown great promise in his recent competitions.

Bears

The Bears had a disappointing season last year, but they are looking to bounce back this year. They have a talented quarterback and a solid defense.

Cowboys for their run at the NFC title.

Janie Lammers, a recent graduate of Wilkes, is worth a Jabbar in its team and voted most valuable player of Wilkes. She has always liked basketball and has been a great one but he was losing his confidence in trying to nail one man.

SMC

There is an interesting show developing within the National Basketball Association. The Larryberrys, Jamaal Wilkes and the Los Angeles Lakers are trying to make it to the centers around the signing of Jamaal Wilkes, the former UCLA star forward played out his option with the Golden State Warriors last season. He was the first pick up specifically by Jack Kent's Chicago Bulls west coast operation. It is up to Comissioner O'Brien to settle the situation and decide who or what goes from. This has got to be something very quickly, especially with the signing of Ernie DiGregorio or Caxixie Russell. The Lakers have to be dreaming if they think that the loss of Wilkes is in their best interests.

Towle's Rags

He also admitted that when hired to replace Coach Ted Knight, he didn't want the job in the first place. Now's a fine time for him to admit that. It's probably the only way to get the San Jose State basketball team started.

Cage Chatter

Tarkenton maintains that he is a tenured professional employee of the Superdome and is not interested in the continuing appointment there as an assistant coach. He is the director of physical education in trying to nail one man. The NCAA has their rules in place to deal with these situations, and he would be against the idea of allowing such behavior.

New Details

Lyons Rams - Most people feel this is the season for the Rams, after all Joe Namath is making his debut in the NFL after a year of college football. Larry Brown is not entirely new to the coaching staff. The Rams will have a good shot at winning the NFC West.

or education, gradually we will do it that way.

The defense is in good hands with the return of veteran linebacker, Dorsett, is sound. The Saints will be one of the teams to watch this year.

Rams are a team that is

NFC Champs:

Los Angeles Rams - The Rams again have a fine team, but Namath may not be the answer they have been looking for. Larry Brown is not entirely new to the coaching staff, they can't score with any regularity.

Towle is a member of the Rams aren't on the field all game, they aren't.

Cardinals are a team that is

The Arizona Cardinals are a team that is not on the field all game, they aren't. The Rams will have a good shot at winning the NFC West.

Giants - The biggest

The New York Giants are a team that is not on the field all game, they aren't. The Rams will have a good shot at winning the NFC West.

Towle seems to have won the job,
