The University of Notre Dame Student Government yesterday attacked the Logan Center budget cut. Student Body President Dave Bender, announcing the move, said, "The Logan Center was to be a penumbra of the University." Bender was speaking at a press conference to announce the University's budget committee's proposed action.

Notre Dame and St. Mary's will coordinate their action with the State budget committee, which is to go into session next week. Bender expressed concern about the future of the Logan Center, which he described as "an integral part of Notre Dame'simeral education." He said that "it is a shame that the University is being forced to make such a cut in the midst of a severe economic recession." Bender went on to say that "we feel strongly that the Logan Center is an important part of Notre Dame's commitment to the community." Bender concluded by saying that "we are concerned about the future of the Logan Center and we are prepared to take whatever action is necessary to protect it."

own group of "peer institutions." These schools include Cornell, Duke, Northwestern, Indiana, Vanderbilt, Notre California, Iowa Pittsburgh, Emory, and St. Louis.

No one really is sure exactly how, he determined that these schools were "peer institutions," said one professor.

Of the ten schools cited, only St. Louis had fewer levels of faculty compensation than the average.

A third group of "peer institutions" was proposed by Dr. Brown last Friday. This group included Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Vanderbilt, Duke, the Big Ten and Stanford.

Brown said although all these proposals differed in part that there was a "common intersection" among them to work with.

Tutors to receive required TB test

All tutors for the Neighborhood Study Program will be given their TB tests tomorrow between 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. in the LaFortune Ballroom. The TB tests are required by state for any persons working with the public. Tutors must return the test results by this Friday between 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. to the Volunteer Services Office in LaFortune.

AC members added

Four new students have been appointed to the academic council, according to Florenceanne Strigel, student government Academic Commissioner and representative to the council.

This is the first time that more than two members from one college have been named. The first groups of "peer institutions" was proposed by Brown last Friday.

A third group of "peer institutions" was proposed by Jon Brown last Friday. This group included Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Vanderbilt, Duke, the Big Ten and Stanford.

Brown said although all these proposals differed in part that there was a "common intersection" among them to work with.

"It is amazing to me that we elect excellent people to do, especially since we know so little about who we're voting for," she said.

Bias, Myers added, is always a strong feature in political reporting. She also referred to some stories on the ERA because she was afraid her prejudices might show.

"Then I looked at the copy of some of the men reporters," Myers said.

onemain effort. A press conference is scheduled for 12:30 p.m. today in LaFortune ballroom. Students are encouraged to attend.

Later tonight Student Body Vice-President Myers will end the support of the HPC.

St. Mary's Student Body President Mark Rakhvina stated that they will support the Notre Dame Student Government in their efforts.

Jeanne Conboy, co-chairwoman of the ND-SMC Council for the Retarded, will hold a meeting for the council for solicitation and organization of the lobby. Like Bender, Rakhvina encouraged all students to write letters.

Dr. Vard Lawrence, Commissioner for Investigation and Student Justice Concerns stated, "I think it's a good first effort in forming the student lobby. It should appeal to the average student to get involved.

Those students who signed up for the lobby on Activities Night as well as the Logan volunteers will be contacted.

A general organizational meeting will be held next week for anyone interested in participating on the lobby.

The council, co-chairperson of the ND-SMC Council for the Retarded, stressed the importance of the council's involvement. "We're the ones most affected," he said. "If they cut Saturday recreation, there's our whole program." He added that only the weekday classes were left, and if that goes into effect.

Bender is confident of student support. "The University professors are for Christian, and this is an opportunity to manifest our Christian faith. We have extremely disappointed if people did not."
President attacks big oil lobby

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate dealt major new blows to President Carter's energy program yesterday, prompting a counterattack from the President and an appeal to senators to stop dismantling his plan.

Accusing big oil of trying to "jeopardize our energy future," Carter urged the Senate to reject "narrow special interest attacks on all segments of the national energy program.

The President spoke in the White House press room after the Senate Finance Committee, rejecting the heart of his energy plan, defeated his proposal to force oil companies to continue using stream by paying U.S. crude oil.

But even as Carter was speaking, the full Senate rejected in a new vote his plan to keep federal controls on natural gas prices.

The 53-39 vote, following action to halt a filibuster of an independent support for deregulation measure, was the second time a majority of the Senate has gone on record against Carter's energy program.

And it came despite the President's threat to veto any bill that deregulates natural gas prices.

The vote killed an effort by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.) and other administration allies to revive the Carter plan. The move was engineered by Senate Republican and oil-state Democrats.

Last week, the Senate voted by a 52-48 margin to continue a bill that would allow the industry to keep price controls on natural gas as an alternative to Carter's proposal.

The President told reporters earlier he thinks the Senate vote against his oil tax plan can be reversed.

In an apparent effort to make that happen, Carter walked into the press room an hour later and delivered a personal statement before television cameras.

The President said: "The lobbying effort of the oil and gas industry on deregulation of natural gas prices itself show how the special interests are trying to block enactment of the entire energy program. As we depend more and more on energy imports, and we should not be allowed to jeopardize our energy security.

Carter added: "I call on the Senate to act responsibly in the interests of the great majority of Americans to reject narrow special interests whose efforts are to sabotage all segments of the national energy plan."

The President had told reporters as he left the annual meeting of the American Petroleum Institute that the industry had lobbied continuously by the oil and gas industry to stop the deregulation of new natural gas. Carter said: "The oil lobby proposal will cost the average American family that heats with natural gas an additional $300 every year.

"It will cost the consumers and the country, and it will produce little, if any new supplies.

"Strong Incentives"

Carter's oil proposal for partial deregulation would give producers strong incentives to explore and to develop new supplies of natural gas through a price structure that will be six times higher than the price was five years ago.

"That is enough," the President declared.

"It is in the public interest to prevail over special interest lobbyists."

Carter cited a growing deficit in the nation's balance of foreign trade, "primarily because of our excess oil imports." The Commerce Department said yesterday that the day the deficit grew to $2.7 billion last month.

"I realize that there have been some preliminary votes in the Senate which cause concern," Carter said.

"But I have confidence in the judgement of the Senate and the entire Congress, and I believe..." that I and the American people can continue to have confidence that the outcome of the Senate proposals will be acceptable to me as President and will be a source of gratitude to the House and by the Senate by the American people when adjournment comes.""Call for compromise"

Sen. Russell B. Long, (D-La.), chairman of the Finance Committee, indicated he does not view the Senate vote as the "killing blow" to the cr ild oil as tax. He called another committee meeting this afternoon to determine what compromise tax that would be acceptable to the President and the oil industry and a majority of Congress.

In a brief conversation with reporters he left the annual meeting of The International Monetary Fund and World Bank. Carter was asked if he still thought the Finance committee's vote could be reversed. The President replied: "I think so."

The Senate, meanwhile, voted 77 to 19 to line energy bill that has prevented a decision on whether to continue federal price controls on natural gas, as Carter prefers, or to remove them gradually.

Carter has promised to veto any energy bill that removes price controls from gas. A majority of the Senate already has voted against the President on one test vote on this issue.

The Senate Democratic and Republican leaders called for an end to the filibuster on natural gas. Senate leaders posed to any of the relaxation of federal price controls on gas in an attempt in action in an effort to block the possibility that the Senate could use this regulation to regulate prices, as it did in 1975. Although the bill limiting petition signatures collected by the Senate restricts further debate to one hour per senator, the filibuster promised to use other parliamentary maneuvers to keep the Senate from voting on deregulation.

All seven Republicans on the Finance Committee teamed with two liberal Democrats and independent Sen. Harry F. Byrd to remove Carter's crude-oil tax from the energy bill approved by the House.

Does N.D. fail us?

Editor's Note: Following are representative excerpts from our mail on David Cwik's column, "The Failure of Notre Dame." You may want to read our printing everything in its entirety.

Dear Editor:

I would never want to see a truly catholic education exclude the study of the works of such men as Hume, or Kant, or Marx, or Freud. Buters are truly diverse. We always be ready to lift from these philosophies and ideas the good and valuable and true, and disuse. To attract a philosophic catholic Christian Faith. To those who would say that this is not an objection would be to say that there is nothing objectivind, for it is not an existential commitment to a certain "the other." It is always a choice of values, and all the value system is an equal footing, when we are suggesting that our choice of that commitment, is to confess a certain imprisonment. Our captivity in the modern Notre Dame may lie in the failure of our University to maintain certain Christian commitment from faculty and students alike, when many of our students are not so committed.

Fr. Leo Kuberski

Dear Editor:

How can we find the truth if we start off by saying that everyone else is wrong? We cannot even know what they've said. The heart of Christianity is to understand other people, not to impose the way we think on others. We can only find the truth by examining different viewpoints.

Christianity is one point of view, and Catholicism is one part of that. It is not necessarily the best one just because we happen to believe it. Many other people do not believe in it, and we should not impose our views on others. There is no such thing as a true "one-size-fits-all" doctrine.

Christianity and Catholicism are both important, and both should be considered. We should not dismiss either of them as a "false" religion.

Maynooth, Ireland. The 18 are the first members of the ND-SMC community to participate in the new study-abroad program for sophomores, sponsored jointly by St. Mary’s and Notre Dame.

The group will spend the first week in Dublin for orientation purposes, according to Sister M. Alma Peter, coordinator of the program. During this time they will hear lectures, attend concerts and Irish dancing, take bus trips to visit museums, attend a performance at the Abbey Theatre and have a meeting with the Prime Minister and the President of Ireland.

Once their official introductions to the country have been made, they will travel by bus 14 miles to Maynooth. The school year will begin Oct. 3.

The first term which lasts until mid-December is called the foundation course and will be followed by a three-week vacation. The Hilary term begins in mid-January and ends at Easter, followed by another three-week vacation. Finally, from Easter until mid-May in the Trinity term.

The long vacation periods give students an opportunity to travel in England and Scotland or on the continent. Weekends can be spent traveling through England. St. Patrick’s College, itself, dates back to 1719. Over the years it has built up an enviable reputation as an outstanding secondary school to train priests, and in 1966 it was reconstituted as a coeducational liberal arts college and is thus has grown rapidly. It now has approximately 1,500 students and a faculty of 80.

Maynooth is a small medieval city, bordered on the east by Liffey and Limerick, further south by the University of Dublin. No Russian students. Studied in Leningrad. U. of Mich. grad. in Russian Inc. (downtown across from the Big Hole).

Need resumes in a September 27, at Vegetable Buddies Typing. Reasonable rates.

Saw a game! Pay extra for good GA Mich State tix.

Since the program is now primarily for sophomores, basic courses will be offered in many areas which fulfill the liberal arts core requirements of St. Mary’s and Notre Dame. All classes will be taken directly at St. Patrick’s with the Irish students enrolled there, and will be taught by St. Patrick’s faculty, and students. Applicants with a 3.0 average or better were given preference for admission to the program because Irish students are screened thoroughly before they may enter college. However, grades between a 2.5 and 3.0 are also eligible.

While in Ireland, the students will live in the college’s regular student housing with the Irish students. In this way they will have an opportunity to really get to know the Irish students and benefit from it.

The meeting for students interested in studying in Ireland during the 1978-79 school year will be held sometime in early November, according to Peter. Applications will be distributed and then must be returned by Feb. 1.

Students injured in fight

Three Notre Dame students were injured and a South Bend man was charged following an incident that led to a “free for all” according to witnesses, and a South Bend police officer early Saturday morning. The students were admitted to St. Joseph’s Hospital for treatment of injuries sustained during the scuffle.

Police would not disclose the cause of the fight, but according to one coronet’s version, it stemmed from a disagreement between a 24-year-old South Bend resident, a 22-year-old student, and a 21-year-old resident.

The debate has never been popular in Congress, although a measure to suspend the oil tax for a year was passed by a large city.

Congress has not said if petroleum is taxed, the money ought to be funneled to the energy industry as a whole since companies both have rushed to develop new fuels. Liberals wanted a complete revision, Social Security and other social programs.

Harriers romp over Spartans, 14-13

by Gregory Soloman
Sports Writer

"I'm getting a little more confidence in this team as the season progresses," said Coach Dan Piane—and with proper justification. The Spartans' 14-13 victory over the Irish was the 16-43 devastation of Mich­igan State.

For the Irish, it was only the second time in ten years that the Spartans fell to a third-year strong-running Spartan. The other loss, as they say, is all over—also under the coaching auspices of Joe Piane, couldn't have been more enjoyable.

After Michigan state's Jeff Piane, 198, had a hard-fought first place berth, the Irish freshman team's teammate showed up fifteen places later. Sandwiched between the two hapless Spartans were fourteen of them to be exact. The Irish did what they had to do for the remainder of the season: run in groups and dominate the scoring. Though the Irish grouped together eighteen times for their 29 points, each of the other places insisted that Irish fans have not seen the best.

"We ran well, obviously," especially Piane. "Both these teams still have four of that could be the best we've ever seen on the track..." One of the runners that did run well was Notre Dame's Dennis VanderKraats, whose 24:36 time earned him the second spot. "It's the best since I've been here," VanderKraats tartly announced. "Because of this, the best of running so many miles has become more enjoyable."

VanderKraats assessed the team's chances of winning: "The plan was to go as fast as we could, and lastly, sustained effort will put us in contention for national consolation.”

Following VanderKraats were Notre Dame's Don Schucan and Mark Mathews.

Aaran, a native of Mexico, is only one of the freshman phenomenon that compose the nucleus of this strong Irish team.

MSU Stares eyes Irish

EAST LANSING, Mich. AP With their next two games against Notre Dame and Michigan, the Spartans of the Michigan State have a chance to gain confidence.

But coach Danny Rogers says he doesn't have to time to gain confidence for this season's outlook.

He'll march back to college football this weekend, playing well and improving in the goals--with an upstart victory or two--as the Irish in their third year of action. "It's hard to talk about the national scene when we're worried on a day-to-day basis."

"If we win a football game, we'll come on large. But we can lose and still improve, too," Rogers added.

Not many people believes his team will lose to Notre Dame. He'd never admit that, and looking at the Irish less than overpowering showing this year might not even be necessary.

Notre Dame staggered to a 19-9 win over Pittsburgh, got beat by Michigan State in front of a crowd and lost to Michigan and the Big Ten. "The reason for being in the ring with Ali. In fact, if Evangelista had punched hard enough to deck a wino, he may have beaten Ali. Many people is unfair. During the past summer and who has not tickets to the Nov. 18 Russian fight.

Any Notre Dame student who did not purchase a season ticket during the summer and who has not contacted the Ticket Manager about a seat should come to his office immediately.

There is a good possibility that a few bleacher seats will be available after the above exchange has taken place.

Information regarding the actual distribution of the student tickets, tickets to the Nov. 18 Russian game and tickets to the game played during the vacations will be forthcoming.

Mr. eBay, Ohio State, 198, was corrected when he took the lead in the final minute of play in the 34-16 win over Wyoming. The Spartans, now 2-1, were down 14-10 at intermission, and Rogers said later in the week of this past weekend. "I'm looking for improvement this weekend," said Coach Rogers.

Michigan State have fine squads but has yet to have consistency for their first college career. Thirty seconds off of my game, they've got great skills eroded.

The Spartans now confronts Muhammed Ali. The last two years have not been kind to All. After the Methodical destruction of the super heavyweight and the latest road warrior, MSU has proceeded to beat European's answer to Donnie Bobbick, Richard Dunn, light-heavy Jimmy Young, Ken Norton and Alfredo Evangelista. Let us not forget the farcical man's performance.

Just stating that All registereed victories over the aforementioned people is unfair. Dunn and Evangelista were unproven fighters without a match with Antonio Inoki which resemble a Gong Show.

The Greatest

One man's view

Sports legends are easy to create, but difficult to destroy. Mickey Mantle, Willie Mays, Johnny Unitas, and Oscar Robertson are all prime examples of superstars who had been removed from the active ranks with a crowbar. None of them followed the example of Ted Williams, Stan musial, or Babe Ruth, whose fans still stand up and demand their skills eroded.

Ted Williams is one of them now. He's off the playing field with a reason for being in the ring with Ali. In fact, if Evangelista had punched hard enough to deck a wino, he may have beaten Ali. Many people is unfair. Dunn and Evangelista were unproven fighters without a match with Antonio Inoki which resemble a Gong Show.

Inoki is a man who doesn't have to time to gain confidence for this season's outlook.

He'll stay away from the ring with Ali. In fact, if Evangelista had punched hard enough to deck a wino, he may have beaten Ali. Many people is unfair. Dunn and Evangelista were unproven fighters without a match with Antonio Inoki which resemble a Gong Show.

Inoki is a man who has not tickets to the Nov. 18 Russian fight.

Any Notre Dame student who did not purchase a season ticket during the summer and who has not contacted the Ticket Manager about a seat should come to his office immediately.

There is a good possibility that a few bleacher seats will be available after the above exchange has taken place.

Information regarding the actual distribution of the student tickets, tickets to the Nov. 18 Russian game and tickets to the game played during the vacations will be forthcoming.

Newspaper sports editor Pat Sullivan, competing in his first race of his college career, placed third in the Irish overwhelming victory.
