to UN conference

Carter appoints Hesburgh

by Peggy McGuire

Staff Reporter

President University President Fr. Theodore Hesburgh was appointed by President Carter last Friday to serve as ambassador to the 1979 United Nations Conference on Science and Technology for Development (UNCSTD). Hesburgh will chair the United States delegation at the UNCSTD, each member nation will present a statement of domestic development of science and technology and assess its relationship to social, economic, and political concerns of the less-developed countries (LDC's). Joao Frank da Costa of Brazil, a career diplomat who served as acting secretary general of the conference. The date and site of the conference remain unannounced.

Hesburgh was a steering committee of scientists in the elicitation and consolidation of views of industry leaders.

Notre Dame groundskeepers, who are to be laid off as of Nov. 1, are seeking for student support in their fight against the University. "We need the students to get behind us," so far some of the students have come up to us to say we need to be do in need for the University to hear it," said Jim Payton, spokesman for the groundskeepers.

The groundskeepers are seeking unionization and strike which will continue to fight, although the University has permanently laid them off. A Notre Dame official said the move was a step in between the labor and the unionization effort, according to the South Bend Tribune. Notre Dame is planning to bring in an outside firm, Cromwell, to do the work for the old groundskeepers.

The Tribune quoted an unidentified Notre Dame official as saying an outside firm would do a more efficient and less noisy job than the current groundskeepers. Payton said that laundry, maintenance, and janitorial workers were in the process of filing application cards in an attempt to unionize. "They stopped by to see what was going to happen to us. They were really scared but now they think it's a big joke. Everytime one of them rides by they let us know.

Referring to the groundskeepers' wages, Payton said he echoed the sentiments of all the workers. "The operators get $3.42 an hour while the regulars receive $3.02. We don't even get the cost of living." Payton said one man has been working for 44 years and receives the same money as everybody else. Another worker says "I take home $75 a week and buy $20 of groceries a week for my family of six. Many times we can't eat." The fringe benefits include a week's vacation after working for one year while a one week paid time off after 15 years of work. 15 years of work. Notre Dame will pay for the entire cost. The workers are also allowed three sick days per year.

Lux named OBD director

by Frank Lavino

The Steering Committee of the Omбудsmian Service has appointed its new director for the 1977-78 academic year. The new director is a former Ombudsman director, Mr. Tom Lux, who assumed office Oct. 5. The appointment was approved Monday by the Ombudsman Board. The new director will be a virtually united front to defend the University's commitment to the academic, social, and political concerns of the less-developed countries, and the development of the physical quality of life.

Lux explained that Ombudsman membership has doubled this year as a result of Lux's assistance. "He took charge of recruitment in the halls and in the Student Center. Mike Lawrence told us, "We don't even get the cost of living." Lux explained that Ombudsman membership has doubled this year as a result of Lux's assistance. "He took charge of recruitment in the halls and in the Student Center. Mike Lawrence told us, "We don't even get the cost of living."

Steel export limits suggested

ROME The European Association of Steelmakers (EUROFER) yesterday decided to propose a voluntary limitation of steel exports of all origins to the United States to avoid protectiveness trends by the U.S. and U.S. allies, thought to be negotiated between the Common Market commission and the U.S. government, was announced by Jacques Ferry, president of EUROFER, after the opening session of the International Iron and Steel Institute (ISI) meeting here.

Weather

Windy and cool today with a 60 percent chance of occasional periods of showers, high around 50. A 40 percent chance of showers possibly changing to snow flurries tonight, freezing temperatures likely, low around 30. Partly cloudy and cool tomorrow, high around 50. Northeast winds 15-25 miles per hour and gusty today.

On Campus Today

3 pm computer course, spss conversational statistical systems, sponsored by computing center, rm 115 comb. tuition free.
4 pm seminar, "a theory for photoresolutions of organic molecules, a classification involving energy surfacetss," by dr. nicholas turro, sponsored by the rad. lab in the conf. rm of the rad. lab.
4:30 pm lecture, "liberalism & liturgical criticism: lionel trilling," by prof. seamus dean, sponsored by the rad. lab.
6:30 pm charismatic lecture, life in the spirit seminar," sponsored by the charismatic group at nd, brenn hall campus ministry, open to all.
7 pm meeting, math club, math & computing center, rm 226
7 pm computer course, intro to tss, reencedcheduled for oct 18, 19, 20, rm 115 comb.
7:30 lecture, "who should play god?", by ted howard, opponents of recombinant dna, sponsored by suac. lb., and., to all 7:30 pm euchrist, charismatic euchrist, log chapel, open to public.
imidnight album, "ringo iv" by ringo starr, wind 640 am

Counseling Center offers classes in self-assertion

A workshop on self-assuredness and confidence training will be offered by the Counseling Center on four Wednesdays from 7 to 9 p.m. beginning tomorrow and continuing into November.
The workshop is open to students, faculty and staff and will be held in the Counseling Center, room 400 Administration Building.
It has three goals: to educate participants to their interpersonal rights, to help them overcome blocks to acting assertively, and to develop assertive behavior through practice.
Each session will combine lecture, exercises, role-playing and discussion, and assignments will be given to encourage participants to extend their assertive behavior to situations outside the group.
The first session will concentrate on social skills and using assertiveness in social situations.
The second will be devoted to identifying personal rights and distinguishing assertive behavior, which expresses one's feelings and thoughts openly and directly without violating the rights of others, from nonassertiveness, which is indirect and manipulative, and aggressiveness, which ignores the rights of others.
The third session will deal with specific problem areas, such as making personal decisions, setting limits, recognizing criticism, and dealing with persistent people.
Each participant will work on individual problems during the last session.
Those interested in attending the workshop are asked to register with the Counseling Center, 283-1717.
For further information, ask for Joan Biever.

The Observer

Night Editor: Leigh Tunak Assistant Editor: Tracy Herman Layout Editor: Marjorie Brandi Eve Turkell, Marie Meade Publication Editor: Vincent DeFazio Features Layout: Dave O'Keefe Art Editor: Greg Solomon & "The Stallion" Assistant art editor: Owen Coles, Sue Scribner, Nellie Liang, Lisa Di Valerio

Night Controller: Mike Bowle Day Editor: Jim Roberts Copy Editor: Ann Grebowski Ad Layout: Deborah West

Photographer: Julie Palafoux

Tuesday 9-11 a performance by TONY BEZOSKULA coming Thursday 9-11 OPEN STAGE

"Right to Life to receive funds"

by Marti Hogan

Editor-in-Chief

The Right to Life Committee will receive student government funds this year for the first time as a result of the Student Government Board of Commissioiners' decision "to finally take a stand." The board allocated $500 for the committee at the student government budget hearings Oct. 2.

According to Student Body President Dave Bender, the decision made by the Board of Comissioners was "kind of like the one made for slavery in political terms. Someone finally had to make a decision."

Noting that the vote from the board was unanimous, he said "We thought, being a Catholic school, there would stand up for Christian principle."

Bender called the action a "question of principle to stand up for, not a political question to answer. The right to decide what these principles are, he added, is included in the responsibilities of the student body president.

He explained that what right in May not always be what the students want. The way I envision leadership is transcended some of the rhetoric to decide what is right," he said.

J.P. Russell, chairman of the Hall President's Council and board member, pointed out that six of the eight board members were elected to represent the students. "We all received the mandate to use our best judgment in day-to-day situations. It's part of what leadership is all about," he added.

"I'm pleased as punch that we have the guts to decide in favor of what might prove an unpopular decision," he added.

Russell explained that although Right to Life did not apply for funds last year, they did in 1975 and were turned down. Russell attributes the change in attitude to the change in leadership in the past few years.

I think student leaders three years ago wouldn't risk putting their heads on chopping blocks," he said adding that None None would have to have a "student leader who will do what he believes in." While Bender admitted that a referendum would be "the ideal way" to find out the students' preferences, he indicated that it would be impossible. He did say, however, that if the students wanted all the money from student government to stay in Student Government and Student Union it would be acceptable to him.

Only one student has protested the board's decision so far. "In his opinion, everyone should have freedom of choice and be felt our decision was cutting away his freedom," Bender reported.

"Technically the student cannot appeal the decision because, according to the student government constitution, only clubs who applied for and did not receive funds are eligible to appeal.

Bender, however, encouraged the student to write a letter or statement to all members of the council, and said that if three board members believe they might change their minds they may call a meeting to reconsider their decision. As of yet, Bender has not received the letter.

Bender has received calls and letters from five to ten students who praised the board's decision. Also, $200 was added to the student lobby allocation to cover cost of right to life lobbying which will include lobbying for the handicapped, the elderly and the unborn.

The Right to Life Committee originally had requested $1000, but the board cut the allocation in half. Some of the cut money was deferred into the student lobby allocation, according to Gary Luchini, Student Life Council representative and board member.

"Right to life asked money for lobby, but we didn't think the committee would be very effective by itself. We included money in the student lobby allocation for right to life and told them to go through student government," Luchini said.

The student lobby budget was originally set at $900, but Pete Stowe, Student Government treasurer, cut it to $500. He based the cut on the fact that last year the lobby used only $70 of its money. To cover the Right to Life lobby, however, the board agreed to raise the lobby allocation to $100.

In deciding to allocate money to the committee, the board tried to Fr. Theodore Hesburgh, University President, said yesterday he is "very displeased with the number of minority students enrolled at Notre Dame." Addressing ND faculty and staff members in a building of the University this year, he cited higher costs for energy and salary raises to non-academic employees as reasons. Faculty salaries will continue to increase, he added. "This is a time decision on our part," he said. "Despite our budget deficit we will still be able to make jumps in faculty salaries as we have in the past two years."

The Campaign for Notre Dame is "going very well," according to Hesburgh. He thanked James Frick, vice-president of Public Relations and Development saying, "This thing's been planned 'so well you think he had a crystal ball.'"

Hesburgh said pledges to set up professorships have been going "especially well." He noted that pledges for athletic facilities have been "the highest, even though this area has been 'downplayed' in the campaign."

Fr. Charles Sheedy, professor of theology, is one member of an experimental Office of Academic Affairs Conference Room. "Interview Skills," "Work Values," and "Career Decision Making" are some of the workshops held today. The workshops are open to all students and anyone else who can sign up by visiting a CDC session. The first meetings will be held today in the Student Affairs Conference Room. "It's been a real rush job. Each hall would find gimmicks to contest. Sometimes, these gimmicks were very simple. A contribution averaged $.33 per student.

Each hall would find gimmicks to earn money, such as football lotteries, bake sales or ugly men contests. Sometimes, these gimmicks were very simple. A contribution averaged $.33 per student.

Russell said that the overall goal of the drive is "to increase participation in the United Way campaign and the distribution of green shamrock pins are some of the ways the drive is trying to unite the student body said J.P. Russell, student director of the drive. The campaigns last year and this year will continue through next Monday.

Although it hasn't been the case in the past, this time is of the few things, outside of athletics, that we can work together as a student body instead of individuals," he continued.

The Hall Presidents Council Chairman added that "in the past the campaign was a real rush job. Each hall would find gimmicks to raise money, such as football lotteries, bake sales or ugly men contests. Sometimes, these gimmicks were very simple. A contribution averaged $.33 per student.

Russell said "I'm looking forward to a good competitive spirit among the halls as we all work towards this charitable cause," Russell stated.

Additionally, green shamrock pins will be given to those students who give at least a dollar. Russell said that the purpose of the green shamrock pins is to make people aware of the drive and "letting them make a personal statement that they care about the city."

It is "very hard to believe that every student on this campus can't give at least a dollar to this organization considering where the funding goes," noted Brother Joe McTaggart, Campus Ministry.

"Every student who works at Volunteer Services or one of these other organizations will benefit from money from this drive."

Among the 34 service agencies that benefit from the United Way are: Catholic Social Service, Alcoholism Council, cancer Society, American Red Cross, Urban League, Boy Scouts, YWCA and the YMCA. "We have to see ourselves as part of the city of South Bend." McTaggart commented.

"And this is for the city. We are not temporary residents at Notre Dame for four years: we are permanent residents of South Bend."

Russell said that he and McTaggart did not have enough time to organize a drive to encompass off-campus, law and graduate students. However, he said that they might set up a booth at the LaFortune lobby or the Huddle in the next week where the students could contribute. "Although all of us are part of this area the off-campus people are even more part of it, and they benefit more because we're United Fund," Russell added.

The workshops are open to all St. Mary's and Notre Dame students, who can sign up by visiting a CDC session. The first meetings will be held today in the Student Affairs Conference Room. This week's list of workshops is listed below:

Today, from 3 to 5 p.m. "Interview Skills," in the Student Affairs Conference Room.

Wednesday, from 3 to 5 p.m. "Assertive Training," in the St. Peter's Conference Room.

Thursday, from 3 to 5 p.m. "Work Values," in the Executive Board Room.
Irish women win nobel for peace movement

OSLO, Norway (AP) - Two women who started a peace movement in Northern Ireland's largest city of Derry have won the Nobel peace prize.

The Nobel committee of the Norwegian parliament awarded the 1976 peace prize to Mairead Corrigan, 32, and Betty Williams, 33, for organizing a peace movement that made it possible to reach a decision to contract Cromwell MSS, the British security forces.

The women launched the campaign more than six months ago after the Jan. 31, 1972 shootings in which 17 people were killed in Derry.

The decision to contract Cromwell MSS, the British security forces, was announced last week.

The two Roman Catholic women launched their movement in August 1972 after Mrs. Williams and Betty Williams were shot by British soldiers in Derry. Mrs. Corrigan is the sister of the late Philip Williams, who died in a car crash.

Braving threats on their lives by regime, they crossed the border peacefully with thousands of protesters and Catholics in Northern Ireland, the Irish Republic and England last year to travel to the United States to urge Americans to stop sending money to the combatants.

So widespread was the sentiment in Norway for honoring them last year that Norwegian newspapers raised $1,000,000 and gave it to them as "A People's Peace Prize." They used the money for a trust fund to create jobs, care for orphans and repair the devastation in Derry.

In a recent interview, Mrs. Williams said the peace campaign had passed "out of the limelight" and became "a grassroots" effort by more than 100 peace groups.

"Because of the Peace People, there are Protestants and Catholics who are talking to each other for the first time in 10 years, if not longer," she said. "The level of violence has dropped sharply. I'm not saying it's all over, but I'm sure we are a big factor.

"The women were the seventh and eighth Britons to win the peace prize, the last being Harry Houghton, who shared the prize in 1975 with his North Vietnamese negotiating partner, Le Duc Tho, for arranging a cease-fire in Vietnam. Le Duc Tho refused to accept the award.

Groundskeepers seek support

The groundskeepers work from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. with a half hour break for lunch and two 10-minute breaks in the afternoon.

Timekeepers at a 50-hour public bearing at the County-City Building will prove the countries, have the chance to get the University's side of the issue. Notre Dame will be represented by "one of the best management law firms in the Midwest," according to Fred C. Smart, an Indianapolis lawyer representing the groundskeepers.

The Chicago law firm, Seyfarth, Shaw, Fairweather & Gerdall will "attempt to present documents," Towe said, "that will show that every employee has participated in the process in the works for months."

Towe will file an unfair labor practice charge against Notre Dame. He will then attempt to prove there was no economic justification for the University's decision to contract Cromwell Management.

Towe also will advance arguments showing that the decision was on the spur of the moment.

Towe's goal will be to stop Notre Dame's attempt to finalize its decision concerning the Nov. 1, date. Indianapolis newspapers and televisions have been alerted by the move.

Longshoremen's strike closes New Orleans port

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - The shut-down of the largest cargo port in a longshoremen's strike is threatening steel shipments to the Midwest and grain exports to foreign countries. But the impact is greatest in the city of New Orleans itself.

Two-thirds of the economy of this area is related to the water-front. The shutting down of port operations, said Monday, "If you shut two-thirds of it off, the economy would collapse.

"People startocking that buck wheat and the steel and things need rice," he said.

As a part of a work stoppage that began Oct. 1 at East and Gulf Coast ports by the International Longshoremen's Association, is cutting an estimated $1.5 million a day from the area economy.

Unlike workers else where who are refusing to handle only containerized cargo, the New Orleans longshoremen are striking all cargo.

Containerized shipments account for about 60 percent of the cargo at the Port of New York, but only about 25 percent here.

"We shut off the longshore wages, but you've got the money that the crew off the ships spend here," says Edward Reed, port director. "You've got the bunkers of fuel oil, the supplies that ships buy. You've got the normal fees that the ship pay to the port authority."

"You've got the wages of people involved indirectly, ship chandlers, weight forwarders, custom house brokers, they know the game. They're all static.

"You've got the bulk of the cargo coming into the port is destined for somewhere else, so supply shortness and keeping commodities out will have the same effect," he explained. The committee hopes to provide educational material for student talks in the halls and to bring Mildred Jefferson, president of the national Right to Life Committee, to campus. The committee will also sponsor speakers from "grass roots" groups and organizations that meet with representatives of shopping organizations late last year in Washington and no progress was reported.

The union's chief concern is job security.

In Happy Hour at Pinocchio's, 2 pitchers for the price of one

Stroh's Miller Lite Michelos 2 for $2.40 2 for $2.65 2 for $2.95

SERVING...• N.Y. style Neopolitan Pizza• Chicago Deep Dish Pizza• Other Italian Dishes and Sandwiches

DELIVERY ON CAMPUS 75-277-4522 georgetown shopping plaza emmons road south bend
The ND-SMC Theatre presents The Comedy of Errors, Shakespeare's earliest and most comic play. This outrageous comedy of mistaken identities and slapstick violence is an incredible introduction to the playwright's immature skills and, notwithstanding, lacks the absolute control of language and profound character studies present in his great dramas. Instead of battling these flaws, however, the ND-SMC company chose to exploit them in a production which earned a standing ovation from Saturday night's audience.

Shakespeare's plot is an elaboration on the already complicated Menandro by Plautus. In the opening scene, Aegeon, an ancient merchant from Syracuse,充当男主角的父上 in the farcical relationships responsible for so much confusion among the characters.

Aegeon's deadly plight, with which Shakespeare intended to elicit the audience's sincerest pity, became a source of merriment as the cast, like puppets, acts out the shipwreck story and pretends to cry at its conclusion. Even the impending death of Aegeon (played by Jack Campbell) gives rise to laughter with the introduction of a black-hooded executioner (Peter Molinelli) who is a lampoon of all bunch-backed, bawdy-like laboratory assistants employed by the monster makers at Universal studios.

The two main complications in the plot arise from two unlikely coincidences. Antipholus and Dromio, still looking for their twins, land that same day in Ephesus, home of their lost brothers, also named Antipholus and Dromio, which for many years now has been the home of their lost brothers, also named Antipholus and Dromio.

The audience gladly overlooks these flaws, which for many years now has been the home of their lost brothers, also named Antipholus and Dromio.

With mistaken identities saturated with slapstick and clownish violence, involves conflicting orders. The drama reaches a climax when all four twins meet on stage at once.

Shakespeare's plot complications are the script's greatest asset, although he alsoexcelso in his creation of characters which will gain more depth in later works. Luciana serves as an early study of the prudent maiden; gentle, sympathetic, and in some ways like Portia in The Merchant of Venice. The Antipholus and Dromio characters result in one of the most entertaining, albeit uneven, performances of the evening.

The Comedy of Errors. Whimsical make-up (designed by Lisa Colalucci) and outlandish costumes transform the cast into a troop of marionettes. They dangle about a set (designed by David Weber) which, despite the distracting, cheap appearance of corrugated cardboard, echoes those symmetrical relationships responsible for so much confusion among the characters.

The time was once when thou emerged wouldst vow That never words were music to thine ear, That never object pleasing in thine eye, That never touch well welcome to the hand, That never meat sweet-savored in thy taste. Unless I spake, or looked, or touched, or carred to thee.

Luciana's whining voice and the childish way she plays with her fan during these lines of Elizabethan wisdom demonstrates the Lucean character results in one of the most entertaining, albeit uneven, performances of the evening.

Patrick Marks and Matt McKenzie play the Antipholus twins, Syracuse and Ephesias respectively. Appropriate to a character "highly beloved" by his fellow townspeople, McKenzie feels at home in all areas of the set, knowing how to structure the space around him by through gesture as befit his speeches. Patrick Marks, the brother from Syracuse, appears less at ease, although in his wooling of Luciana and his soliloquies on love he executes an amusing parody of the frustrated lover. At other times he suffers fits of indecision as to where to put his arms.

In keeping with the farcical tone, Michele Roberge portrays Antipholus of Ephesus' wife Adriana as a shrew, the comic-book stereotype of a woman. Roberge encounters some difficulties, however, in effecting this two-dimensional interpretation, since Shakespeare has given Adriana some unmistakably tender lines, and perhaps the most appealing speech in the play.

The beasts, the fishes, the winged fowl, Are their males subjects, and at their controls. Men, more divine, the masters of all these, Lords of the wide world, and the watery seas. Indeed with intellectual sense and souls, Of more pre-eminence than fish and fowl.

Are masters to their females, and in keeping with the farcical tone, Adriana as a shrew, the comic-book stereotype of a woman. Roberge encounters some difficulties, however, in effecting this two-dimensional interpretation, since Shakespeare has given Adriana some unmistakably tender lines, and perhaps the most appealing speech in the play.

The audience gladly overlooks these imperfections once they are won over by the fantastic atmosphere and sense of fun which inspires the cast and crew. ND-SMC Theatre will present The Comedy of Errors three more times: October 15, 14, and 15.
Committee outlines emergency energy plan

WASHINGTON [AP]-The new Department of Energy has seriously overestimated its ability to contain the results of resulting natural gas shortages, a congressional subcommittee reported yesterday.

Federal officials have said they will be able to make up 60 percent of the shortfall by the fall of that time. But the committee, which held hearings in Bloomington, Ind., Thursday, found that that was not likely to happen.

The subcommittee, which is charged with inter-governmental relations based its conclusions on three days of hearings in which officials outlined a Winter Emergency Energy Plan for 1977-78.

"Another cold winter is on its way and we need not worry about what it may bring," said Senator Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.) the panel's chairman.

The report's authors said they were impressed with the detail and scope of the emergency plan, prepared by the Federal Energy Administration (FEA). The FEA's responsibilities have been taken over by the new Department of Energy, which went into existence Oct. 1.

The subcommittee reported that the mere existence of the plan represents a far higher level of concern than the federal government has shown previously.

But at the same time it said the plan "appears to seriously overestimate the government's ability to increase natural gas supplies and decrease demand should another cold winter bring about natural gas curtailments."

"Unfortunately, the numbers in the emergency energy report do not stand up under careful scrutiny," He said that in some cases the government does not have the authority to take the actions it proposes. In others, he said the authority will not be available until late into the season. And he said that while the administration plan was based on the state's in a front line of defense, many states lack authority to act in an emergency.

The report made five recommendations, which included: The administration's emergency plan;
The administration should begin in negotiations immediately with Canada to buy additional natural gas supplies.

Congress should enact legislation granting President Carter authority to allocate natural gas supplies. In order to protect jobs that might otherwise be lost, Congress should consider giving the President the power to reallocate small amounts of natural gas to pipelines experiencing shortfalls from those which are not.

The administration should extend the Special Crisis Intervention Program, which helped two million people pay last winter's fuel bills.

It should also urge the Department of Energy to act immediately to ease the special problems affecting the distribution of natural gas in New England.

"Amnesty" exhibit to close Friday

The "Artists for Amnesty" exhibit, currently being shown in the East Gallery of The O' Shaugh-

The exhibit features a series of posters designed by fifteen international artists for Amnesty International, the human rights organization that has been working on behalf of political prisoners around the world for the past fifteen years.

Posters can be bought for $20 or $25 for the Miro and Calder designs.

The O'Shaughnessy Art Gallery is open 10 a.m. - 4:45 p.m. on weekdays and 1-5 on weekends.

DNA: Topic of PBC address

by Maureen Eyer

Ted Howard of the People's Business Commission (PBC) will address the social, moral, and economic implications of recombinant DNA research and genetic engineering during "Who Should Play God?" today, at 5 p.m. in the Library Auditorium.

$14,000 raised to search for missing IU student

CAMBRIDGE City Ind. [AP]-
Reports from this small eastern Indiana city have raised more than $14,000 in cash and pledges to attempts by the committee to find others. Erickson's work did not ask for money.

Residents of this small eastern Indiana city have raised more than $14,000 in cash and pledges to effort by the committee to find others. Erickson's work did not ask for money.

The advertising push is the latest search on this campus as well as in Cambridge City and north of Martinsville.

coed's mother, Marjorie Harmeier, said articles and advertisements program and a 30-minute television showing the observer

Ted David Weston, principal of Du-ham West High School and head of an ad hoc citizens search committee, said the money raised so far includes more than $4,000 in need resumes in a hurry?

insty prints rag bond
25 - 85 x 11 $2.55
203 N. Main
So Bend
729-6973

JUNIOR, PRINTER

Kickie's
Blue Ribbon.
Chic. II
10 - 12pm
3PBR'S FOR A BUCK!
drawings for beer paraphenalia;
T-shirts, posters, plaques, ETC.
Notre Dame Club of New York, Inc.
PRESIDENTS
NOTRE DAME vs ARMY
Pre-game Party/Rally
Roosevelt Hotel
46th and Madison Ave. N.Y.C.
Fri. Oct. 14, 1977
7pm to 11pm
* ND Cheerleaders
* Band
* Cash Bar
* Bagpipers
* Raffle

Who's invited? Alumni, students and friends of Notre Dame
AMONG THE INVITED
SPECIAL GUESTS ARE:
Father Joyce, Moose
Krause, Col. Jack Stephens, Tim Ryan, Don Criqui, Joe Garagiola, Angelo
Bertelli and many others.

$2 ND/SMC students with ID
*3 Everyone else

Tuesday, October 11, 1977
6
the observer
PBC fights genetic engineering

(continued from page 6)

The PBC is a non-profit, educational organization formed to increase public awareness of corporate genetic engineering. The PBC has access to the major corporations which are sponsoring research in this area. Our DNA. Howard, along with Jeremy Rif-tin, directs PBC. We are the main investigators of the subject and have gathered extensive information on recombinant DNA and genetic engineering to testify before the Subcommittee on Appropriations in the House of Representatives. We will discover that there are eight ways to create live organisms.

According to Keen Rossit, consultant for New Life Presentations, the impact of Howard’s “PBC is the peoples’ lobby” against recombinant DNA. Howard’s speech will bring to light the public mass about the new technology. The PBC has access to the major corporations which are sponsoring research in this area. We will discover that there are eight ways to create live organisms.

The controversy facing scientists is whether or not they should proceed with the discoveries of recombinant DNA and genetic engineering. One side of the debate is the possibility of new forms of life would improve life, with the creation of new food crops or new forms of medicine, gene therapy, which would treat heredity diseases. The other side of the argument is whether or not these new human species should be altered. Howard and the PBC address the social and ethical questions of the discovery and recombinant DNA.

Terry Johnen, Student Union Academic Commissioner, the sponsor of Howard’s speech, commented on the upcoming visit of the subject and controversy of genetic engineering: “Howard’s speech will bring to light the new technology and the PBC has access to the major corporations which are sponsoring research in this area. We will discover that there are eight ways to create live organisms.”

The Academic Commissioner’s policy is to get speakers in a variety of topics, which sometimes touch upon controversy, he said.
Purdue wins Irish tourney - Notre Dame finishes fourth

by Tom Desmond
Sports Writer

A talented and deep Purdue University golf team captured the annual Notre Dame Golf Invitational Sunday afternoon at the Burke Memorial Course.

The Boilermakers tallied a 377 total, just four shots over the tournament record set last year by the Irish. In facing a weather-affected depleted field of seven teams. Cold temperatures and threatening skies reduced the originally slated field of 12 down to the seven squads that competed Sunday.

Tri-State University captured second place with 386 while Illinois State took third with 389. The Notre Dame Golfer team finished in the number-four position with a score of 390. The first five teams, however, all played extremely well. Purdue Blues fared better than their third-teem counterparts of the Grid as the first team at 386. Dave Schulte of the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee took the medalist trophy with a 70. Pert 70. Shultz opened with a birdie and two pars. He shot a score on two occasions, 74. Tom. John and John Longens won the other Gold team members to shoot sub-80 rounds as both finished at 70. Jay Bryars (70) and Bly Wadson (70) led the way for the Blues.

In action on Saturday the Irish defeated Tri-State at Tri-State in a dual event, 374-382. Shultz. Tom McCarthy and Rich Knee all scored under-par 73. "In the past 10 games we've got ourselves in a realm of honor," McCarthy said. "The first four holes were coming up fast and we needed to close out the fall season for Coach Noel O'Sullivan. It's tough to show the fall off the full slate of dual meets and invitations in the spring.

New York, New York? New York, my friend

There was Tom Lasorda, oblivious to the hurricane-like conditions, hugging one of his "sons," better known to baseball fans as the Los Angeles Dodgers. In this era of increasing unrest and decreasing enthusiasm in sports, it was a pleasure to witness this diminutive gray-haired Italian, with a career won-lost record of 0-4 as a pitcher, enjoying the moment of victory.

Before the start of the National League Championship Series, I doubt if very many knowledgeable baseball fans gave the Dodgers much of a chance of beating the Philadelphia Phillies. After all, this was the Phillies who had rid themselves of an extraordinary home record, an awesome power duo of Greg Luzinski and Mike Schmidt, the National League's top hitter in Steve Carlton, and, most importantly, the home-field advantage.

You can, however, win more games than anyone. But as the Dodgers proved with a 24-23 upset over the Chicago Cubs to win Game 3 of the National League Championship Series, the Dodgers are the team preparing to open the World Series tomorrow night. And no one is happier about it than Tom Lasorda.

Here is a man who waited for what seemed like an eternity for his chance to step into the manager's role. A man who has seen his share of in-game mystique, who has had his share of in-game challenges. But as with the final out of Game 3, Lasorda has had his share of success.

So, while many baseball observers have their money riding on the Phillies, the Dodgers had their own self-confidence working. After losing the first game in their own park, they bounced back with a decisive second-game victory to even the series.

Returning to Philadelphia, they could have easily buckled under the pressure of the newly acquired Phillie crowd. And it appeared Friday as if they might.

Craig Chval
Here's to many more

Perhaps Kansas City Royal second baseman Frank White's first hit of his career could be a harbinger. He was hit by a pitch by New York Yankee pitcher Jim Bouton. What a joke. You play hard for six months and eight innings and it all goes up in smoke. You win the division, however, the season is even shorter. Thanks to major league baseball's antiquated playoff format. 22 of 26 teams hang up their spikes come October 1. Compare this ratio to the National Football League. Half of its 32 teams compete in the playoffs. In pro baseball and hockey, the playoffs are as near as drawn out as the regular seasons.

Although baseball set an all-time attendance record in 1977, it is evident that attendance difficulty, due in large part to rapidly-escalating player salaries. The Los Angeles Dodgers and Philadelphia Phillies clinched when the Philadelphia Phillies clinched a club record of 2,700,000 and finished at 79. Jay Bryan (70) and Bly Wadson (70) lead the way for the Blues.

While the George Steinbrenners, Gene Autrys, and Ray Krens close around the continent signing free agents and try to entice baseball's buyers have not back and ignored an often-suggested, sure fire method of boosting fan interest and attendance.

Simply, to inaugurate interleague play and expand the playoff field to four teams.

Believe it or not, this idea is over half a century old, according to Chicago White Sox President Bill Veeck, who along with Vice-President Roland Hemond, was the architect of the "Miracle on 30th Street" this summer, to clinch his 25th Side. my dad, who was then President of the Chicago Cubs, proposed the idea to Major League Baseball back in 1927, "we have interleague play," says Veck. "Now, its 55 years later, and interleague play is still a frightening new idea."

Veck, who is universally regarded as a maverick but still holds firm to his father's idea, but lack of cooperation from his contemporaries and the conservative National League, the Mets, clinches the National Rams pulled off a double reverse sweep of the Los Angeles Dodgers Monday night.

Wettini's passes to Scott came both in the first half, but the Rams piled up the points in the 1st quarter, but Rams pounded to the 1 on three field goals by Rafael Sepulveda and a 20-7 lead in the 1st quarter. The Rams clinched the National Rams pulled off a double reverse sweep of the Los Angeles Dodgers Monday night.

Bears hand Rams a 24-23 upset

Bob Avellini hurled three touch- down passes, bombs of 70 and 72 yards in the second half, to lead the Chicago Bears to a 29-yard 2-down field goal from Rafael Sepulveda and a 20-7 lead in the 1st quarter. The Rams clinched the National Rams pulled off a double reverse sweep of the Los Angeles Dodgers Monday night.

Wettini's passes to Scott came both in the first half, but the Rams piled up the points in the 1st quarter, but Rams pounded to the 1 on three field goals by Rafael Sepulveda and a 20-7 lead in the 1st quarter. The Rams clinched the National Rams pulled off a double reverse sweep of the Los Angeles Dodgers Monday night.

Bob Avellini hurled three touch- down passes, bombs of 70 and 72 yards in the second half, to lead the Chicago Bears to a 29-yard 2-down field goal from Rafael Sepulveda and a 20-7 lead in the 1st quarter. The Rams clinched the National Rams pulled off a double reverse sweep of the Los Angeles Dodgers Monday night.

Wettini's passes to Scott came both in the first half, but the Rams piled up the points in the 1st quarter, but Rams pounded to the 1 on three field goals by Rafael Sepulveda and a 20-7 lead in the 1st quarter. The Rams clinched the National Rams pulled off a double reverse sweep of the Los Angeles Dodgers Monday night.

Bob Avellini hurled three touch- down passes, bombs of 70 and 72 yards in the second half, to lead the Chicago Bears to a 29-yard 2-down field goal from Rafael Sepulveda and a 20-7 lead in the 1st quarter. The Rams clinched the National Rams pulled off a double reverse sweep of the Los Angeles Dodgers Monday night.

Wettini's passes to Scott came both in the first half, but the Rams piled up the points in the 1st quarter, but Rams pounded to the 1 on three field goals by Rafael Sepulveda and a 20-7 lead in the 1st quarter. The Rams clinched the National Rams pulled off a double reverse sweep of the Los Angeles Dodgers Monday night.

Bob Avellini hurled three touch- down passes, bombs of 70 and 72 yards in the second half, to lead the Chicago Bears to a 29-yard 2-down field goal from Rafael Sepulveda and a 20-7 lead in the 1st quarter. The Rams clinched the National Rams pulled off a double reverse sweep of the Los Angeles Dodgers Monday night.