A student-run escort service for the Notre Dame campus will begin tonight. Anne Thompson, student government co-education commissioner has announced. The purpose of the new service, Thompson explained will be to supplement the Notre Dame security escort service.

Thompson explained that if a girl wants an escort, all she has to do is call the Ombudsman (6282) and tell them her name, where she is, her coat color and the time she wants to leave. She should also leave the phone number of the place where she is calling from.

"The Ombudsman," Thompson continued, "will have escorts available that night and give the girl her escort's name, her coat color and the time and place to meet her.

A return call to the girl by the Ombudsman completes the procedure, Thompson said. "They give her the escort's name, her coat color and the time to expect him." If no escorts are available, the girl requesting the escort will be referred to Notre Dame security, Thompson said.

More than 50 males have signed up as escorts for the service, Thompson said, "and we're expecting more." She explained that the escort service has not been reviewed by both student government and the office of the Dean of Students, "but the screning process" of the potential escorts.

The escort service is available Sunday through Thursday from 9 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. On Friday and Saturday nights the service is available from 9 p.m. to 2:30 a.m. The service is available on the Notre Dame campus.

Anyone interested in volunteering for the service or for answering the telephones at the Ombudsman can contact Anne Thompson at the student government offices for more information.

Finances end dream of SMC senior bar

by Son Ballmann

Due to a lack of finances, a senior bar on the St. Mary's campus will not become a reality this year, according to Any Moog, senior class president.

As an alternative to a senior bar, approximately one half of the snack shop located below the dining hall will be converted into a social area to give students a place to meet and relax. A wall will be built in the snack shop to separate the social area from the snack bar.

The College is providing a $1000 donation and a $1000 loan for the construction of the wall, by which will be added a $1000 donation from the student government.

Tentatively, the proposed social area will be open at all times to students, except on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights, when it may be rented by students for small parties. There will probably be a nominal charge in order to pay for the upkeep and to help with the repayment of the loan to the College.

Moog expects the room to be carpeted and furnished with comfortable chairs and booths as well as numerous card tables and a television. Games such as chess, backgammon, and pool will be available.

Any architecture and art students interested in working on the design for the proposed social area should contact Nancy Moog at 5127.

Students participate in business conference

by Maureen Kyres

Three Notre Dame seniors participated in a popular modified fast weight control conference titled "Tomorrow IV" held at Washington, D.C., Nov. 8. The conference was sponsored by the Student Union Foundation for Student Community and University Life of Princeton University.

The three students were Carl Kujawa, a senior from both economics majors, and Maureen Kyres, an American Studies major. A total of 150 students and 50 faculty members participated in the conference across the country, as well as 150 business executives.

The purpose of "Business Tomorrow IV," according to its organizer, Foundation President, David Corbin, is to bring students and business leaders together to anoint "a place in the Future Growth?" and the "Role of the Multinational in the World Economy."

Speakers included Professor Robert Heilbroner, of the New School; William Rusher, editor of National Review; C.H. Hardess, vice-chairman of Continental Oil; and Dr. Elliott Janeaway, presidential economic advisor.

Heilbroner, whose two main fields of interest are classical political economy and contemporary capitalism, opened the conference by speaking on the state of society, which is being increasingly influenced by technology. His basic attitude was that "things are getting worse."

Heilbroner said, "The beliefs are decreasing while our ambitions are increasing and technology is running uncontrolled." He added, "But if we stop technology, the thrust of the capitalist system would die."

Heilbroner concluded his speech by offering a plan for a new system, which he called the "sustainable system," which would control economic and technological growth.

"This and other controversial subjects provided material for debate within the small groups," Flannery stated.

Frank Ingram, a representative of McDonald's Corp., commented, "I was surprised at the conservative standpoint of most of the students. I came to the conference prepared to defend the businessman's position," Ingram added. "Most of the students and executives seemed to see eye to eye."

Kensahul criticized the businessmen's attitude, stating, "Although the businessmen were interesting and willing to discuss a large variety of issues concerning the economy, I found I still could not agree with their optimism and simplified faith in the workings of the American capitalist system."

The Foundation for Student Community is a completely student-operated, non-profit, educational organization located at Princeton University. The foundation regularly publishes the 'Business Today' magazine, which is the nation's largest student publication, distributed to over 200,000 students nationwide.

Business Tomorrow IV was the fourth conference of its kind. The idea of the National Conference," Corbin explained. "It is to bring about a personal focus on the questions raised in the magazine and to create an opportunity for individual discussion."

"We encourage one-day regional follow-up conferences to bring a local focus to business-student interaction," Corbin added.

 Students were selected on the basis of an application and the recommendation of the Deans of their respective colleges. The Foundation assumed all expenses through donations from participating businesses and corporations.

Logan needs football tickets

Students have been asked to donate their football tickets for Saturday's Air Force game to the ND-SMC Council for the Retarded. The student tickets will be collected Tuesday through Friday during dinner in both North and South Dining Halls. Off-campus students may leave their tickets at the Student Activities Office in the Student Center.

Art Koebl, co-director of the Council, said that between 150 and 200 tickets are needed. The tickets will be distributed to students who attend a football game while "the kids get to maybe one in a lifetime."

Student assaulted earlier this month

by Martha Fanning

Managing Editor

A female Notre Dame student was assaulted on Thursday, Nov. 3, between 8:30 p.m. and 9 p.m., according to the evidence. She was assaulted as the student was crossing the field near the Aquatic and Convocation Center, traveling toward By Road.

In a report to ND security, the student stated she passed a man with the terrorist designation. As she continued toward the dormitory, the man came up behind her and placed his hand over her mouth. The student "bit down on his hand and screaming." The man then proceeded to the home of a friend, who escorted her back to the dormitory.

The female then proceeded to the home of a friend, who escorted her home. She called ND security on the phone and told them she had been assaulted. The incident was asked to come in the next day.

Chapter 3: The Disadvantages of "Name-Brand" Diamonds

As soon as you become a new bride, you probably have anticipated the "initial purchase" expenses you need to worry about. A "name brand" diamond is expensive, particularly if you're going about it without assistance. But if you pick a "name brand" diamond, you're sure to be able to find just the right sort of accommodations to suit your individual tastes. Whether you prefer the classic "name brand" setup or the more contemporary setting, mixing gold or platinum, a diamond or an emerald, you will have the opportunity to find the ring that suits your personality.

Pears admitted that most campus security officers have had no previous experience in such a situation, such as South Bend police officers received, due to the very nature of the presenters. In an interview that Pears granted to The Observer last year, he stated that Notre Dame security guards need not even take a minimum eight hour course required by law for security guards.

Pears defended his comments, however, that the University's security force is efficient in handling problems in the area.

Pears and his colleagues have been encouraged by the success of the three-session workshop in anxiety management. For example, in a recent workshop, participants learned techniques for relaxing their muscles and controlling their breathing.

One complaint I've often heard from women who are not "old" jewelry buyers is the lack of "name brand" diamonds. In fact, one young lady even mentioned to me that she felt like she was looking at "junk" in a catalog, and each ring style had all "the characteristics of a fast-food restaurant." At Diamond Import Company, I have no "brand name" diamonds. Every engagement diamond you select from us has been individually appraised for you in precise gemological language, and can be selected in loose form. Then you and your beloved can select from our wide range of available settings, or even have a setting custom designed for you.

At the same time, you can be sure that your ring is a beautiful reflection of your individual tastes. One final thought: an engagement ring does not necessarily have to feature a diamond. How about an emerald or sapphire? Are you looking for something truly unusual? Or are you just another unqualified No. 14, 1977.

For those with a flair for the scientific, a look inside literally) your diamond. And that, ladies and gentlemen, is your final thought: an "engagement" diamond. If you're interested in exploring the many possibilities available in your ring style, please feel free to contact me at Diamond Import Company, 227-1427. The Lobby of the St. Joseph Bank Building in South Bend and our telephone number is 227-1427.

Next week, for those with a flair for the scientific, a look inside literally) your diamond. This is an advertisement

Michelle Quinn, co-chairman for the event, commented, "Although the National Shakespeare Company's repertoire this season also includes a modern version of A, You Like It and Othello, we choose The Winter's Tale because it is beautiful and very entertaining play which has traditionally received little exposure."

According to Quinn, the drama, with its 'aggregation ofoidal kings, enchanted statues and a banished princess,' lies somewhere between the realms of mythology and folklore.

The main action of the play involves the jealous Leontes, King of Sicilia, who suspects an affair between his wife Hermione and his best friend, the King of Bohemia. Driven by jealousy, Leontes plots the murder of his friend and imprisons his wife. While in jail, Hermione gives birth to a baby girl who is rejected by her father and sent away to the fields of Bohemia to be reared by a poor shepherd.

Sixteen years later, a series of coincidences brings the two princesses to cross paths, and the play, with its happy ending. Under the direction of Philip Morten, the National Shakespeare Company claims to be one of America's oldest and most respected classical theatre companies. Celebrating its 15th anniversary this year, NSC is a non-profit organization that has performed for audiences of 250,000 each season in colleges, universities and high schools throughout the United States and Canada.

The Winter's Tale includes several productions of university theatre programs and ranges from veteran to new, and military and secondary students, whose experiences span roles in film, television, stock and off-Broadway productions.

The Irish tamed Clemson's Tigers, 21-17

The sign proudly displayed and overwhelmingly noticeable near the end of the scene had given Irish hockey fans their first chance to smile all weekend. It read, "You'd think that in an environment of this size, they'd be able to sweep away from home."

It was obvious from the outset that the Badgers had no services of injured Kevin "The Bash" Suter. What they had was seven minutes of as much for Notre Dame fans may have been talking Wisconsin fans were talking lackadaisical penalties and questionable plays were also, and they skated away from the ACC with 9-1 and 12-0. The victory cemented their third place in the WCHA. Kevin Nugent should shoulder to skate. He, too, would not fall victim to the backfield.

As the second period got under way, Geoff Collier scored what was our first goal of the game. Jay Cline also added to the score and connected with Haines for a 24 yard advance. Ferguson and Heaven's then alternated running touches towards the Clemson Tigers. In the next play, Ferguson cracked off left for a 40 yard gain. However, this play was backfired again due to a illegal procedure call against the Irish two plays later. Ferguson was brought back for another 11 yards, but this play was also backfaced, this time for a clipping infraction. Then, Irish quarterback Scott Lacy hit Brenda Peterson, "I feel as though we had a good chance of doing well this year. We just have to sharpen up mentally.

The next night, the Irish didn't have the same kind of evening. Eaves was concentrating on scoring goals, and be shot for the hat trick and took another shot on goal. Both teams had glorious opportunities to score, but neither could cash in. Ron Griffin hit the pipe, and Greg Meredith, from the other shoulder to face off against the Badger goalie Julian Baretta just 14 seconds later took the steam out of the Tigers. Ferguson smashed off right tackle for four yards, then freshman Mike Courey took a Montana pitch as if he could get a good shot on goal.
