Contract negotiators announce tentative UMW strike agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) - Negotiators reached agreement yesterday on contract terms that could end a record 63-day nationwide strike that has shrunk winter coal stockpiles and forced cutbacks in electrical power.

The tentative pact was announced at a news conference by United Mine Workers (UMW) President Arnold Miller and chief federal mediator Wayne L. Harvis.

"I think this is a good tentative agreement," said Miller, emphasizing that it would restore pension and health benefits that have been cut off since the strike began.

The proposed settlement would mean an increase of almost 37 percent in wages and fringe benefits for miners over a three-year period.

Miller said he would present the tentative agreement to his 39 member bargaining council this morning and would urge its approval.

The bargaining council's consideration of the first step in a ratification process that normally takes about 10 days. Even after ratification, it likely will be several more days before coal moves again through the supply pipeline.

Approval by the bargaining council sets the stage for a formal conclusion. Its members rejected one proposed contract agreement in 1974, before accepting a second one.

Miller declined to predict whether the council would approve the terms, but he appealed to all UMW members to urge their representatives to accept the proposed pact.

The Bituminous Coal Operators Association declined comment on the tentative agreement, saying that 37 members also must ratify any contract, but that process is viewed largely as a formality.

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall said in a statement that he was delighted at the tentative settlement and said "this is a fair contract, genuinely good for both parties."

The strike has meant great suffering for UMW members and their families," Marshall said. "The losses to the coal companies are in the tens of millions of dollars and the strike has cost the country priceless, close to widespread coal shortages."

But he emphasized that the accord was only tentative, pending approval by the bargaining council and the UMW's rank and file.

Harvis also thanked West Virginia Gov. Jay Rockefeller for his "protracted efforts" in assisting the negotiators.

Rockefeller made an unexpected appearance at the news conference and put in a pitch for ratification of the contract. He said the proposed terms mean the "human needs" of union members,thousands of whom live in his state.

[continued on page 3]

Mishawaka chief plans to resign

MISHAWAKA, Ind. (AP) - De- ciding himself the target of a smear campaign, Mishawaka Police Chief Jay E. "Pete" Stebbins announced yesterday that he was resigning, effective March 1.

Assistant Chief Quinto Squar- dini, who was Stebbins' successor in the subject of recent investigations by the city council and the St. Joseph County prosecutor, also submitted his resignation.

The prosecutor's office concluded its probe last week and declared there was no evidence to support charges of criminal conduct.

Stebbins, who appeared before the Board of Public Works with attorney Wilfred J. Mayette, said that since he had been cleared of the allegations, he was retiring after 23 years of service to spare himself and his family fur- ther anguish.

Stebbins and Mayette identified Mishawaka restaurant owner and convicted gambler Julius C. Wer- bruck Jr. as the force behind the alleged conspiracy to drive the chief from office. Werbruck, who operates the Lincoln Highway Inn and the adjoining Holiday Inn, was convicted on federal gambling charges after a raid by local police and the FBI in January, 1977.

Stebbins, who once worked part time at one of Werbruck's estab- lishments, offered testimony last fall against Werbruck, who was fined $20,000 and placed on a year's probation.

"I firmly believe that had it not been for the joint raid, this conspir- acy to 'get Pete Stebbins' would never have materialized," Stebbins wrote in his letter to the board. "I was informed there was going to be a smear campaign started against me to remove me from my job and there was a threat I was going to be shot."

Werbruck, who also attended the appearance of the two men, has been sentenced to one year in federal prison.

"That's completely erroneous, we're seeking more than reacting to a threat," stated Werbruck, who was shocked by the resignation. "I think that a man of Stebbins' integrity would never have resigned in this kind of situation."

Werbruck also asked Stebbins to return a key which the chief had in connection with his former job at Werbruck's restaurant, a request that Mayette termed a pretext to come before the board in "another attempt...to smear the chief."

Stebbins said he had lost the key.

Mayor Margaret H. Prickett said she would select a new chief within a short time.

The council serves as an advisory body and prepares resolutions for the vice president for Student Affairs. The council is composed of six students (three from each quad), four hall president and 12 student senators.

President Bob McManus said he expected that the CLC would meet the standards set for the council. The college would be open to be public. The council also discussed its purpose, as stated by Student Affairs. The council also deals with specific technical difficulties, such as dividing two votes between five temporary faculty representatives until April, when two regular staff members will be selected by the Faculty Senate.

A highlight of the meeting was a proposal by the Student Govern- ment to keep LaFortune Student Center open 24 hours a day. The proposal was suggested as a partial solution to the problem of social space on campus according to the various student groups.

Specific details of the plan have not been decided. Members of the council also discussed the possibility of forming a council to discuss matters concerning student affairs and make appropriate changes in the by-laws of the institution.

Students of the body will have an opportunity for direct involvement in formulating recommendations by serving on special committees for the CLC.

CLC Chairman Dave Bender said that he had been impressed with the enthusiasm of CLC members and pleased the council in its early operation. The establishment of a firm base for an independent and strong organization was cited by Bender as the reason for the length delay in starting the CLC.

Bender said that he wanted to be certain that "whomever is elected to Student Body President next will have a clearly defined set of directives and purposeful organization to work with.

SBP Dave Bender and Executive Coordinator Joe Gill listen attentively to various comments at last night's CLC meeting. [Photo by Ron Saut.]
Illness subsides at St. Mary's

by Anne Beakle
Staff Reporter

The wave of "upper respiratory infection" which swept St. Mary's campus last week had begun to subside, according to Health Service Director Vera Wood.

"The worst seems to be over," Wood said after seeing yesterday's new patients. "I would guess that of the patients we have seen, maybe a hundred are still sick," she added.

The infirmary started seeing people with the now-familiar symptoms of headcold, cough, fever and chills last Wednesday and again last Sunday's Maryland basketball game, according to Wood.

The peak was last Tuesday, when at least one hundred new cases were reported during a 24-hour period. Since then, the number of new cases has been declining.

Charles Palm, SAGA Food director, noted that on Thursday the dining hall filled "around 120" with sick students, adding that "on a normal day it would be about eight or ten."

He observed that the number of sick students sent out has declined since Thursday, but added that there is usually a reduced number of students attending the dining hall for weekday meals. Plain hesitated to say whether this indicated the sickness was diminishing.

Wood estimated that during all of last week the infirmary saw 475 students, putting to rest rumors that some 1,000 St. Mary's students had visited the infirmary last week.

"All the dorms have been infested," Wood noted, explaining why no areas were quarantined. "We also notified the teachers that there would be a high rate of absenteeism for the next few days," she added.

Wood noted that the sickness going around has not been determined to be flu. She was additionally quoted in a South Bend Tribune article last Friday as saying the campus was not experiencing an epidemic.

She stressed the importance of students getting "lots of rest and lots of fluids" if they are sick. "It will take four or five days before the student begins to get better," she explained, voicing concern for students who become incapacitated when they have not recovered after a day or two.

For several days last week, senior nursing students were called in to help out at the infirmary. They relieved staff members who were snowed-in, as well as assisting with the increased numbers of patients who overflowed the seven-bed infirmary.

"Return to the Lord with your whole heart"

ASH WEDNESDAY LITURGY
Sacred Heart Church
5:00PM

celebrant: John Gallen, S.J.

WANT INSTANT RESPONSIBILITY?

Being a missile launch officer in the Air Force is an awesome responsibility. That's an exciting job with leadership opportunities. If you qualify for the missile field, you will be glad you did.

Air Force ROTC can help you prepare for this exciting field by granting you four years of astronaut scholarship and a four-year commission. By joining Air Force ROTC, you will save $7,000 per year for your college expenses.

If you can qualify for the missile field, you can work on a 13-week cooperative degree through special education programs and the Air Force ROTC scholarship.

If you're the type who's looking for an exciting future, a chance to meet new friends, and pride, look into this one. See if you qualify for the Air Force ROTC. It may be the best decision you've ever made.

Contact Capt. Davis at 283-6634.

AIR FORCEx

WANT INSTANT RESPONSIBILITY?

Being a missile launch officer in the Air Force is an awesome responsibility. That's an exciting job with leadership opportunities. If you qualify for the missile field, you will be glad you did.

Air Force ROTC can help you prepare for this exciting field by granting you four years of astronaut scholarship and a four-year commission. By joining Air Force ROTC, you will save $7,000 per year for your college expenses.

If you can qualify for the missile field, you can work on a 13-week cooperative degree through special education programs and the Air Force ROTC scholarship.

If you're the type who's looking for an exciting future, a chance to meet new friends, and pride, look into this one. See if you qualify for the Air Force ROTC. It may be the best decision you've ever made.

Contact Capt. Davis at 283-6634.
News of the tentative settlement

The assembly then passed a resolution allowing students to cash checks in the dining hall during Saturday dinners, from 4:30 to 8 p.m. The check cashing service will continue during the weekend of Feb. 25-26. Students must present ID and sign each check cashed. Members of the Assembly next approved a proposal to conduct a teach-in on campus for security reasons, and to establish a telephone for student use in the library. Mayor William F. O'Neal, president of SMC's Student Government, also requested that students with ideas for a Social Contact Coalition committee.

Mogab indicated.

Possible women lecturers discussed at SMC

by Molly Wulfe Staff Reporter

St. Mary's Student Assembly met last night in the Regina Student Government office to discuss possible lecturers for Women's Week and to pass a new policy for weekend check-cashing.

Many Mogab, senior class president, presented candidates for the guest speaker during Women's Week, scheduled for March 7-11. Nominations include:

- Betty Friedan, the foremost speaker for women's rights, author of The Feminine Mystique, and founder of NOW (National Organization for Women).
- Wilma Rudolph, the first and only American athlete to win 3 Olympic Gold Medals in one Olympics (she established 3 world records in the 1960 Olympics in Rome in the 100, 200, and 400 meter races). Her first book, Wilma, is a story of a girl growing up to become an international sports champion.
- Ann Compton, the first woman to be named a full-time White House correspondent. She anchors the Saturday night edition of "ABC News Briefs" and was one of ABC's first reporters during the 1976 Democratic and Republican conventions.
- Ellen Goodman, social commentator and author of the New York Times column "At Large."
- Gloria Steinem, author of Enterprising Women, a series of profiles of female entrepreneurs in American businesses.

The final decision on which speakers will be asked to participate in Women's Week does not rest with the Student Assembly, Mogab indicated.

Negotiators hope to end coal strike

(continued from page 1)

A wage increase of $2.35 an hour will be held tomorrow and Thursday for individual mines.

Averaging $7.80 an hour.

Possible women lecturers discussed at SMC discussed the following: A campus-wide justice Teach-in for a local right to strike at the beginning of a marriage are expected to

The union chief omitted details of concessions the UMW is widely reported to have agreed to concentrate on.

The assembly then passed a resolution allowing students to cash checks in the dining hall during Saturday dinners, from 4:30 to 8 p.m. The check cashing service will continue during the weekend of Feb. 25-26. Students must present ID and sign each check cashed. Members of the Assembly next approved a proposal to conduct a teach-in on campus for security reasons, and to establish a telephone for student use in the library. Mayor William F. O'Neal, president of SMC's Student Government, also

"I think our miners are ready to go back to work, provided they get what they want," said Scarton of UMW district 2 in Western Pennsylvania. "If they don't, I'm sure they'll stick it out."

Gov't and econ to hold smoker

There will be a smoker for all government and economics majors and professors tonight from 8 to 11 p.m. at the Senior Bar. For information call Jim Kahl at 1185.

Mogab indicated.

Margaret Mead, speaker for women's rights, author of "Sex and Personality in Marriage and Parenthood," will be named a full-time White House correspondent. She anchors the Saturday night edition of "ABC News Briefs" and was one of ABC's first reporters during the 1976 Democratic and Republican conventions.

Justice teach-in scheduled

A campus-wide justice Teach-In will be held tomorrow and Thursday, due to regular class hours. Appr

The billie's tourney begins sign up

Mike Smith, an economics major at SMC, was awarded the first place in the annual billiards tournament after signing up in the poolroom in LaFortune Student Center. The tournament began tomorrow.

Billiards tourney begins sign up

Students interested in participating in the annual billiards tournament should sign up in the poolroom in LaFortune Student Center. The tournament begins tomorrow.

Missionary to lecture on women in India

"The Role of Women in Northeast India" will be a talk given by Fr. Joseph Kennedy at St. Mary's tomorrow evening at 7:30 in Carroll Hall. A Jesuit missionary in India, Fr. Kennedy recently received the licentiate in pastoral theology from St. Mary's College, Washington, D.C. He is formerly provincial of the Jaintaedgur Jesuit province and has also been dean and director of the Jesuit graduate school of business management and personnel management.

Kennedy is currently stationed at the Jesuit Mission Bureau in Baltimore. He is helping to reorganize the bureau in the seminary there.

This chapter is the last in this year's "Manipulative Studies Lectures at St. Mary's." For 21 years the series has been presented to demonstrate the vitality of Western tradition and to illustrate its significance for men in the past and present.

need posters in a hurry?

In 10 - 11 x 17 posters

only $1.00

203 n. main

Downtown So Band 289-4927

Tenders for the event are due by the end of this week.

Lawyer's assistant... a challenging new career for college graduates.

An intensive 12 week course offered by

THE UNIVERSITY OF SAN DIEGO in cooperation with the National Center for Paralegal Training

- Specialties offered in the following fields:

 Litigation **
- Real Estate
- Estates, Trusts & Wills
- Bankruptcy (only)

- ABA Provisional Approval
- Continuing Education Employment Assistance

For a free brochure please send the following to:

UNIVERSITY OF SAN DIEGO
Room 318, Serra Hall
Lawyer's Assistant Program
San Diego, CA 92110
(714) 291-6480 Ext. 4325

Name:
Address:
City:
State:
Zip:

Summer 1978 - Day
June 12 - Aug. 25
Day Fall 1978 - Day
July 19 - Oct. 1
Fall 1978 - Evening
Sept. 19 - March 10
Spring 1979 - Evening
March 20 - Sept. 7

Chapter 3: The Disadvantages of "Name-Brand" Diamonds

As soon as are now.

So about to inquire. And as an conglom-

The question remains: does "name brand" have any effect on the quality of your engagement diamond? (Note: They're also pro-

The emphasis on "name brand" quality is truly staggering.

Now, the question remains: does "name brand" have any effect on the quality of your engagement diamond? (Note: They're also pro-

The emphasis on "name brand" quality is truly staggering.

Now, the question remains: does "name brand" have any effect on the quality of your engagement diamond? (Note: They're also pro-

The emphasis on "name brand" quality is truly staggering.

Now, the question remains: does "name brand" have any effect on the quality of your engagement diamond? (Note: They're also pro-

The emphasis on "name brand" quality is truly staggering.

Now, the question remains: does "name brand" have any effect on the quality of your engagement diamond? (Note: They're also pro-

The emphasis on "name brand" quality is truly staggering.

Now, the question remains: does "name brand" have any effect on the quality of your engagement diamond? (Note: They're also pro-

The emphasis on "name brand" quality is truly staggering.

Now, the question remains: does "name brand" have any effect on the quality of your engagement diamond? (Note: They're also pro-

The emphasis on "name brand" quality is truly staggering.

Now, the question remains: does "name brand" have any effect on the quality of your engagement diamond? (Note: They're also pro-

The emphasis on "name brand" quality is truly staggering.

Now, the question remains: does "name brand" have any effect on the quality of your engagement diamond? (Note: They're also pro-

The emphasis on "name brand" quality is truly staggering.

Now, the question remains: does "name brand" have any effect on the quality of your engagement diamond? (Note: They're also pro-

The emphasis on "name brand" quality is truly staggering.

Now, the question remains: does "name brand" have any effect on the quality of your engagement diamond? (Note: They're also pro-

The emphasis on "name brand" quality is truly staggering.

Now, the question remains: does "name brand" have any effect on the quality of your engagement diamond? (Note: They're also pro-

The emphasis on "name brand" quality is truly staggering.

Now, the question remains: does "name brand" have any effect on the quality of your engagement diamond? (Note: They're also pro-

The emphasis on "name brand" quality is truly staggering.

Now, the question remains: does "name brand" have any effect on the quality of your engagement diamond? (Note: They're also pro-

The emphasis on "name brand" quality is truly staggering.
Who is in Charge?

The Observer is published by students of the University of Notre Dame and St. Mary’s College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of either institution. The Observer is owned and operated by its editors. Opinions expressed are necessarily the opinion of the majority of the editorial staff. Only the views of the authors. Table column is available to all responsible members of the student body. Guests are encouraged to promote the free expression of varying opinions on campus.

*The Observer

American kids were shocked to read last week in the Observer that teen-agers showed they were completely unaware of the events that can govern the way they are operated as well as who they are.

Some of the findings: Fewer than half of those surveyed even knew what senators or their representative in the House were. About one third did not know a senator was elected. More than a third did not believe a newspaper had the right to publish criticism of elected officials. A 10th did not even think the Senate is part of Congress. A third did not know that senators outline their civil rights. While perhaps not as startling as to where teen-agers’ heads are these days, it is disturbing to note that the same time came up with some even more troubling facts. For example, with 150,000 people over 35 years of the student population, the main stimulus, ignorance on the part of Americans in the middle and older age groups is frightening. It poses really important issues of the country.

For example, while 70 percent of those questioned knew George Lumberd had died, only 25 percent could identify Elvis Presley. While still holding through a multimillion dollar souvenior industry, Presley lacks the importance of Presley and this is a fact.

issues of justice will be the focus of the first meeting of the Committee for Education for Justice, an organization held during regular class hours on February 8 and 9. The teach-in is sponsored by the Committee for Education for Justice and is part of a general effort to make concern for justice the distinctive trait of the Notre Dame community.

When asked about the relevance of issues of justice to particular disciplines, city members of the Colleges of Business Administration and Arts and Letters responded in various ways. But in almost every case, a common thread of ideology, concerns issues of justice as central to theology. "Because that ideology directs its attention to what is ultimate in human experience" maintains O’Leary, "it is profoundly concerned with the question of justice and is among men among men. "While seldom supplying solutions, the specific questions of justice it promotes such discussion by its continual insistence on the central question.

Why be just? James Sterba, assistant professor of philosophy sees issues of justice as having a similarly important role for philosophy. Sterba thinks, "Philosophy can shock us into realizing the considerable sacrifices that justice demands of us." For him, "An individual’s study of philosophy can show that in order to arrive at a genuine justice with respect to distant peoples and future generations move, we have to accept a significantly lower our own standard of living."

Lee Tavis, professor of finance and economics, believes that a view that justice should be the basic consideration in all business decision making. He suggests that we need to do is to consider whether justice or power is going to determine the success or failure in balancing the conflicting demands and pressures of our daily lives. "Most constitutions—stockholders, consumers, suppliers, labor and the general public." In this connection James Cullather, professor of accounting, last year’s Harvard Business Review survey indicated "most respondents have high expectations of political and legal disorders to the concept of social responsibility and have em¬ braced its practice as a legitimate and achievable goal for business." Professor Cullather also pointed out that the American Assembly asserted, "The corporation is now perceived as a social unit also that its very success has produced entities, responsibilities that transcen¬ ded economics."

"For business moreover," said Cullather in conclusion, "the meaning is clear: The relevance of justice in the world is not possible for the future business.

Concerning the relevance of jus¬ tice to the social sciences, Profes¬ sor Edward Goerner, Professor of Government and International Studies, and works on "Mainstream Western Political Theory and the social sciences) is built on a model of instrumental rationality within which evaluative terms like "just¬ ice" can have no integral role. So there cannot be a whole trade in justice within standard political science (or the other social sciences). Those concerned with thinking and talking about justice must be asked whether there be some defect in the model of the social sciences which produce science that excludes rational judg¬ ment from social sciences. Those subjects. Justice, unfortunately, a one-day teach-in about justice is an attempt to approach these critical reflections on the epistemolo¬ gical basis of the social sciences. Justice is in too critical a role in the social sciences. Justice is in too critical a role in the social sciences.

James Stewart, Director of Black Students, who sees a different attitude about the relevance of issues of justice to blacks. Black Students teaches literature as a unique art form. It is presented as a way to open up cultural and educational opportunities for black students. The faculty of the Department of Modern Languages and Literature teaches literature as a unique art form. It is presented as a way to open up cultural and educational opportunities for all students. The faculty of the Department of Modern Languages and Literature teaches literature as a unique art form. It is presented as a way to open up cultural and educational opportunities for all students.

A Choice, Plan Of Research Topics On Real World Management Issues

Accumulate as much informa¬ tion as possible about the several soundest choices. Study genetics of any species versus that of culture and medical potential. Investigate more fully the safety of different bridge designs, those producing the most produc¬ tive faults, or of proposed dam

-ted crovello

Editorial Board

David R. Miller
Assistant Managing Editor
Stuart M. Rose
Editorial Assistant
Margaret d’Artney
Managing Editor

The Observer is an independent student newspaper serving notre dame and st. mary’s.

*Editors-in-Chief

Martita Hogan
Assistant Editor

Lensivey Vaughn
Managing Report

Barbara D. Baumeister
Assistant Manager, Ed.

Barbara L. Foci
Assistant to the Ed.

Special Projects Ed

Features Ed

Faculty survey

We are all aware that science and technology may well lead to a new type of civilization could not exist. Whether its like it or not, we are in a period of dependence on basic research in these areas, and in their application. The ongoing research that may enhance our physical abilities and our knowledge and capability to translate the "human imperative" into reality, and all of us as citizens and decision-makers can make a difference. We all need to be educated for the just and achievable goal for the society.

We are all aware that science and technology may well lead to a new type of civilization could not exist. Whether its like it or not, we are in a period of dependence on basic research in these areas, and in their application. The ongoing research that may enhance our physical abilities and our knowledge and capability to translate the "human imperative" into reality, and all of us as citizens and decision-makers can make a difference. We all need to be educated for the just and achievable goal for the society.

just decisions about who should receive excess letters

Editorial: Choose to apply engineering

The Observer is an independent student newspaper serving notre dame and st. mary’s.

*Editors-in-Chief

Martita Hogan
Assistant Editor

Lensivey Vaughn
Managing Report

Barbara D. Baumeister
Assistant Manager, Ed.

Barbara L. Foci
Assistant to the Ed.

Special Projects Ed

Features Ed

Faculty survey

We are all aware that science and technology may well lead to a new type of civilization could not exist. Whether its like it or not, we are in a period of dependence on basic research in these areas, and in their application. The ongoing research that may enhance our physical abilities and our knowledge and capability to translate the "human imperative" into reality, and all of us as citizens and decision-makers can make a difference. We all need to be educated for the just and achievable goal for the society.

We are all aware that science and technology may well lead to a new type of civilization could not exist. Whether its like it or not, we are in a period of dependence on basic research in these areas, and in their application. The ongoing research that may enhance our physical abilities and our knowledge and capability to translate the "human imperative" into reality, and all of us as citizens and decision-makers can make a difference. We all need to be educated for the just and achievable goal for the society.
Pictures at an Isis Exhibition

by dave o'keefee

Friday night marked the opening of an exhibition in the Isis Gallery by senior Art majors Sue Hart, Mike Madden, and Sherry Simon. A clutch of dedicated aesthetes braved the incursion of winter and the threat of influenza for the chance to enjoy some accomplished art while mingling with luminaries like Dr. Robert Leader and the trio of artists themselves. The plain white brick of the Gallery heightened the Bohemian illusion, broken only by a leg of Budweiser.

Sherry Simon's black-and-white photographs comprised the first exhibition chamber. Her conception proved to be studies in high contrast with very little intermediate shading. It has been said that most of the art in black and white comes in the development area where Simon shows remarkable ability. In her own analysis, she can see wrinkles and skin texture against perfect blacks, while at other times limbs and throats go practically unrecognized as their natural designs provide bleached form in anonymous order, impecably white on black. The choice of subjects, the body, concrete and brick forms, combine with the technique to produce a kind of desolate beauty consistent in the photographs.

If Simon's work show a sense of purpose, the watercolors and photographs by Sue Hart seemed to indicate more a sense of fun. Four black and white self-portraits, the kind you can get in the 50 cents in the shopping mall, all mysteriously clouded around that of her and co-winner with Elson John oyagisla. A series in black and white ink indicating the purchase of a candy bar from a vending machine, innocent, disarming, almost technologically advanced, the Robert Leasunder left vivars and the impression of color, all serve to provide a unique stylistic accomplishment that defies classification but speaks of something more disconcerting than the simple charms of contemporary culture. Hart is equal in her element with watercolors. Again, the technique is often inappropriate. There's little self-indulgence in itself. Rather, we see shapes emerge from the nebulous stains - school desks in disarmament, or along the Ficks.

The highlight of the show was Mike Madden's photographs. A straightforward-ahead of the fronts of a number of houses, the roundness of manicured bush or the stout, middle-aged man at home in his living room, and the precision of time and place in a door in a white garage, the battlements of the homeowner, "I live here. This is my house. I take care of it." Madden oils show varying degrees of accomplishment. The untitled portrait of a stout, middle-aged man at home in his favorite chair was by far his best execution, and the figure of the girl dressed in Polish garb was similarly refined. The trio of priests, however, looked as though they had suffered from a lack of Madden's time; three animated figures emerging from a mass of black cassocks.

The exhibition closed Sunday to make room for a student showing opening today. The Isis Gallery is one of those places that you pass every day and never know what's going on. There was a lot there last Friday, and more to come. You may even stumble in on a party.

Jackson Browne's Running On Empty

by bryan gruley

"...now I'm attish' here wondering what to say, for all these words might scare you away, no one really talks about their feelings, I stumble through the dreams and laughter, I guess it's just too painful of a subject."

-Jackson Browne

My editor gave me a break. All weekend I lie around sick, listening to all the Jackson Browne I could, trying to get a comprehensive sense of his music so I could write an honest, heartfelt review of his latest album. Running On Empty, I listened constantly—Saturate Before Using, Late for the Sky, The Pretender—and nothing came. After four days of Jackson Browne, I couldn't quite explain the feeling I get listening to the new album. I decided there was no way I could give my name to the half-page review be'ed requested. And then came the break—"I only need one word," my editor said, "I can talk for that long. But I still couldn't explain that feeling."

The music is typical Jackson—distinctly Californian style of country and pop-rock that has captivated listeners. The songs speak of the commercial filthlight, the sound revolves around a simple rhythm, clean and crisp.

Are you creative?

Well if so and even if no, the Observer needs you. Come up tonight to the open house from 9 to midnight. You'll get a feel for the way the paper operates.

P.S. Stop by the features desk.

---

Doug Haywood and Rosemary Butler sing the backing vocals so crucial to Browne's sound—clear and consistent, they complement Browne's voice. And then there is The Section, borrowed from James Taylor—fused to a Russ Kunkel/Mark Knopfler/Skylar, guitarist Daisy Kortchmar, and keyboardist Craig Doerge. These talent-filled rock artists are an expert job executing the melodic end of the album, and quite simply for their talents.

The musical end, however, is not so important with Browne—lyrics have always been his forte. Unfortunately, the new album offers only two songs written solely by Browne. The co-written compositions lack the depth and imagery normally found in Browne's poetry, often falling back on exhausted metaphor and mundane rhetoric. Still, there are roadies and old friends joining Browne for some fun—typical road activity. Browne's songs are what deserve scrutiny—the title cut and "You Love The Thunder." Running On Empty is in a familiar vein. As with the earlier "The Road and the Sky" and "Your Bright Baby Blues," Browne takes the role of the confused young man unable to reconcile the terms of survival with his need for love...

"Gotta do what you can just to keep your love alive, Trying not to confuse it with what you do to survive." Though the song is true to Browne's romantically existential view of life, it lacks the literate imagery of earlier work. Still, it's long is sincere and sensitive—one of the best on the album.

"You Love The Thunder" is interesting. Browne talks about the inevitable pain of love-relationships and our insistence on clinging to them for the sake of our "crazy longing" for love...

"Draw the shade and light the fire..."

-Mike Madden (above), with Kate Noelle and Rob Civello, Sue Hart (left), and Sherry Simon (right) displayed their works this past weekend at the Isis Gallery.

---

*For the night that holds you and calls your name.
And just like your lover, knows your desire
And the crazy longing that time will never tame.*

The lyric here is more reminiscent of Browne's better work. Poignant and blatantly personal, it utilizes the direct address to elicit dramatic effect, this further accentuated by the simple, driving melody.

Overall, Running On Empty is nothing special for Jackson Browne. Though the songs are enjoyable enough—"Runnie" and "Love Needs A Heart" are also good—they are mainly because of the strength of Browne's sensitive, strong vocals and the familiar, pleasant melodies. Considering that it is a live album, and considering that Browne collaborates rather informally with a number of people, Running On Empty is a very listenable, well put-together album. It fails in comparison to older Jackson Brown material. But then again, I still have this feeling for it...

...a feeling I think I've almost worked out in the preceding paragraphs. Almost. What I haven't worked out is what I now assume to be my personal attraction for Browne's work, particularly the lyrics. I can't finally downgrade. Running On Empty because I hear things on it that I feel are right despite my objective considerations. Things I can almost pick out as a fruitbasket and squeeze between my fingers, roll around on my tongue. I can touch them, taste them, but I can't tell them. Like is in the quoted lines at the beginning of the article. Like nothing I can say...

..."when your own emptiness is all that's gettin' through there comes a point when you're not sure why you're still talking... I passed that point long ago."
UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME SPECIAL

Come to a FREE

SPEED READING LESSON

Increase Your Reading Speed 50-100%

---

COMPARE AND DECIDE

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Dynar' n Reading Systems Inc.</th>
<th>Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>D.R.S. guarantees in writing to at least triple your Dynamic Reading Speed or you receive a FULL refund.</td>
<td>Partial refund of your tuition if you fail.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Advanced Course</td>
<td>No advanced course known at this time.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lifetime membership enables our graduates to retake the course to extend their skills at no additional charge.</td>
<td>Their graduates are required to pay a registration fee to retake the course.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tuition Assistance Payment Plan. NO Finance Charge!!</td>
<td>Contractual obligation with finance charge.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>$175.00</td>
<td>$295.00</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

---

ATTEND A FREE LESSON:

Tuesday, 7 February 12 - 2 - 4 - 6PM

All meetings held at:
The Center for Continuing Education

room 14 downstairs

Dynamic Reading Systems Inc.

A company established by a group of former Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics' instructors, utilizing totally new concepts.

Copyright 1977 Dynamic Reading Systems Inc.
A new Food Advisory Board (FAB) is being formed by Student Government in cooperation with Saga Food Services. Harold Jara, co-chairman of T-MAR, has been chosen to chair the board.

According to Jara, the board will allow students to offer suggestions to SAGA and to voice any complaints they have regarding food services. The new FAB will help SAGA give students what they want, he stated. "SAGA doesn't know what we want," he explained, "and we don't know what they can do for us."

Robert J. Robinson, senior Food Service Director, said, "SAGA will take about one year to implement suggestions made by students."

The FAB will replace the present Food Advisory Council (FAC), which consists of five students who deal mainly with complaints about food services. Jara stated that these members will be invited to join the more expansive FAB. Chris Erickson, chairman of the FAC, stated, "Our meetings were more complaint oriented, and we didn't do much response from either the students or the ND Food Service. Saga is not as limited as the ND Food Service was. They will be able to better implement the suggestions that students offer."

Hall presidents are in the process of picking representatives from their respective halls. Any interested student should get in touch with their presidents immediately, Jara stated.

WANTED:
A new Food Advisory Board (FAB) has been chosen to help improve Saga Food Services. According to Jara, the board will allow students to offer suggestions to SAGA and to voice any complaints they have regarding food services. The new FAB will help SAGA give students what they want, he stated. "SAGA doesn't know what we want," he explained, "and we don't know what they can do for us."

Robert J. Robinson, senior Food Service Director, said, "SAGA will take about one year to implement suggestions made by students."

The FAB will replace the present Food Advisory Council (FAC), which consists of five students who deal mainly with complaints about food services. Jara stated that these members will be invited to join the more expansive FAB. Chris Erickson, chairman of the FAC, stated, "Our meetings were more complaint oriented, and we didn't do much response from either the students or the ND Food Service. Saga is not as limited as the ND Food Service was. They will be able to better implement the suggestions that students offer."

Hall presidents are in the process of picking representatives from their respective halls. Any interested student should get in touch with their presidents immediately, Jara stated.

Free University registration rescheduled
Registration for Free University courses has been rescheduled for Thursday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in LaFortune Ballroom.

classified ads

Lost & Found

NOTICES
Anyone wishing to register to vote in Indiana may obtain an election contract at 4-1401 before spring break.

Accurate, Fast Typing
M.S. DONOHUE
223-0146
Hours 8 AM to 8 PM
Typing. Reasonable rate. Call 8051.

Dissertations, manuscripts, paper typed.

Typing done. Reasonable rate. Call 8099 between 7:00 p.m. to 9:10 p.m.

WANTED: Typewriters, Executive inc., Professional Typing Service. IBP. On campus minimum, Call 232-0688 "When you want the best." Requires $3.00 per page.

LIFETIME: "The sport without legs" Tuba, Feb. 28. For information call Mary 234-4971.

Work-study program will start the summer at Quantico, Virginia. Free transportation, room and board and uniforms plus over $200 for six weeks. See the Marine Officer Sludge team in LaFortune or the Library Feb. 28. 9 a.m. 4 p.m. until Friday.

WANTED

FAB
It will provide more feedback for students. It will be a way for students to talk to the administration about food services. The FAB will also be a way for students to give suggestions to SAGA.

Jara stated that the board will be more complaint oriented, and we didn't do much response from either the students or the ND Food Service. SAGA is not as limited as the ND Food Service was. They will be able to better implement the suggestions that students offer.

Hall presidents are in the process of picking representatives from their respective halls. Any interested student should get in touch with their presidents immediately, Jara stated.

Daily Lenten mass held in LaFortune
There will be a daily Mass offered at 12:15 p.m. on the weekdays of Lent in the Ballroom of LaFortune. Student Masses will begin Wednesday with the distribution of ashes.

Free University registration rescheduled
Registration for Free University courses has been rescheduled for Thursday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in LaFortune Ballroom.

This young woman joined hundreds of other gamblers having some fun at the Mardi Gras for only one dollar. Additional fun is planned for next weekend. (Photo by Ron Saut.)
Ted Robinson

The Icemen Corneth

It would have been easy for the Notre Dame hockey team to quit. After all, here they were, eight games into the season, and eight losses to their name. And eight losses coming home, where in the WCHA you are supposed to win.

Two months and fourteen games later, the Notre Dame hockey team is making its move on the first division of the league. Even the most optimistic person associated with the team wouldn’t have thought things could turn around so well.

Notre Dame is 9-4-1 in its last 14 league contests. The sweep of Michigan last weekend moved the Irish to within one point of the first-place Wolverines and the Irish have two games in hand. With two consecutive series at home approaching, the Irish could vault themselves back into the first division, where they were solidly entrenched in fifth place with sights set on fourth place and home ice for the final two periods of Saturday’s win over Michigan with a strained knee ligament in a non-conference game against Bowling Green. End result: 6-3, and Tri-State College and Pete de la Riva’s highly-touted foilist.

Derek Sanderson

Sanderson played like a man in a coma. It’s that sad. Derek Sanderson had an immense amount of talent as a hockey player. Unfortunately, Derek thought he was a superstar. He couldn’t finish an entire column without petting and attention-seeking of his pre-season coaches polls, then you would believe that the Irish lacked talent in a significant way. The pick was eight. And, but whatever, this team lacks in talent, they compensate for in hustle and desire.

Look at some of the problems they’ve had to endure. Losing scoring leader Mike Brodzinski to a broken knee, that meant the entire first line of one month ago was out. Diving reserve goalie Pete De La Riva couldn’t finish an entire column without petting and attention-seeking of his pre-season coaches polls, then you would believe that the Irish lacked talent in a significant way. The pick was eight. And, but whatever, this team lacks in talent, they compensate for in hustle and desire.

That’s two-thirds of the team’s first line and one-half of the team’s forwards. Well, this is a good point. When Brian Nugent sat out the first two periods of Saturday’s win over Michigan with a strained knee ligament, it seemed that Notre Dame, a team accused of not having much depth, was out for the count. But, along came Brian Burke and Kevin Nagurski, the first half of a duo that has inspired hockey and the Irish leave Ann Arbor with four points.

That’s the story of this Notre Dame hockey team. It is this hockey team. They’ve come a long way since the days of November when the announcement of Irish coach Pat Galvin in the thick of the playoff picture. Once the playoffs begin, anything can happen, as last years memories suggest.

So let’s turn to the Michigan Tech Huskies and Minnesota-Duluth Bulldogs at the ACC the next two weekends, the standard-bearers of hockey, and see if Notre Dame can finish the past few weeks, and have a chance to be a big winner in the next six weeks. Anyone who shows up for the games will undoubtedly see that this team deserves all the support it can receive.

One final word must be said about Derek Sanderson’s (yes, you remember that sand-baby girl) performance. It seems that Derek had an alcohol and barbiturate habit that eventually ended his career. "Funk" admitted to needing an entire bottle of Nyquil or valium to get to sleep at nights.

That’s said. Derek Sanderson had an immense amount of talent as a hockey player. Unfortunately, Derek thought he was a superstar. He turned out to be one of history’s greatest men. He took the disgrace of Notre Dame off the shoulders of their retired athletes and turned it into a man like a man in a coma.

Derek Sanderson is just another victim of modern high-priced sports. This is not the first, certainly not the last, of these well-off, moneyed owners that realize that no athlete is worth Derek Sanderson salary, not even if he couldn’t finish an entire column without mentioning New York.)

Paul Mullany

Sports Writer

Coach Mike DeCicco’s Notre Dame men’s swimming team captured the ACC title and a national championship. The Irish swim team won the ACC title for the second year in a row and set new ACC and national records.

"It was a great shock for me to see how well the team performed," said Coach Mike DeCicco. "The team was very strong and we were able to win every event on the day.

"The team was very strong and we were able to win every event on the day," said Coach Mike DeCicco. "The team was very strong and we were able to win every event on the day."