Discusses policies:

CLC holds first meeting

by Dave Rombach
Senior Staff Reporter

The Campus Life Council, heir-apparent to the defeated Student Life Council (SLC) as the major forum between Notre Dame residents and administrators, established a press policy, elected a permanent chairman and discussed its future last night in its first meeting of the year.

Discussion at the meeting was restricted to "business" matters as a number of substantive issues, among them students' rights and "in loco parentis," were considered only as agenda items for the coming year.

Student Body President Andy McKenna was unopposed in the Council's election of a permanent chairman after discussion among several members concerning the practicality of making the student body president the chairmanship.

"Having the president head the CLC strikes me as too much of a symbiotic union. The CLC would lose much of its efficacy if it were to become an arm of the student government," Fr. Thomas Tallard, rector of Zahm stated.

HPC representative Bill Vita supported McKenna stating "we have to look at the person and not just the position I think Andy is the only student qualified."

In other business the Council adopted the press policy of the disbanded SLC in which, while all regular press representatives were to be "open," members of the Council reserve the right to strike any of their statements from the record.

All CLC members have the right to call for an "executive session" at the beginning of the meeting during which attendance will be limited to Council members. Fr. Eugene Gortki, rector of Howard Hall supported the policy stating that it would "encourage the free flow of communication."

The policy drew criticism from Observer Editor Tony Pace. "It is my understanding that the CLC is an open meeting and in anything said is a matter of public record," Pace stated, adding, "If they want to make those meetings closed they should but I think the community would suffer."

The CLC constitution states "All meetings of the Council shall be open to any member of the University community and to representatives of the campus media, except when otherwise determined by the Council." The current press policy was adopted without a vote.

The Council also unanimously accepted an amendment to its bylaws concerning the attendance of ex-officio members, Dean of Students James Roemer and Vice-President for Student Affairs Fr. Van Wolvlear. According to the original constitution these two members were to attend every other meeting. The amendment changes their attendance to every other meeting and to those "they have been invited to by the president."

In discussion of the agenda of issues for the coming year, Fr. Richard Coneyers proposed that the Council consider taking steps to give the CLC legislative powers. "A major loss was sustained when the SLC was disbanded. The students lost the only legislative body they had. Conyers added, "I think one of our primary goals should be the attainment of legislative power through this body."

Conyers statement was countered by Roemer who asserted that the SLC never actually had legislative powers and the problem was merely one of semantics. "The SLC never was legislative in any real sense. Letting them (SLC members) think they were, created difficulties."

One student member who had been a member of the SLC said that while the CLC may not differ from the SLC in terms of legislative power, it did lack a direct line of communication with the University President enjoyed by the former body.

"SLC proposals had to go through Andy. Just to the top whether he agreed with them or not. Now the CLC is strictly an advisory council to the office for student affairs," he stated.

Later in the meeting a remark made by Wolvlear prompted discussion concerning the amount of student representation on the Council. The Council approved the formation of an ad hoc committee by Chairman McKenna to seek ways to increase student input without changing the Council's make-up.

At Camp David

Summit produces breakthrough

CAMP DAVID, Md. [AP] -Egypt and Israel, in a major breakthrough in their 30-year conflict, committed themselves at the Camp David summit to a peace treaty, Israeli withdrawal and self-determination for Palestinians in Israeli occupied territories after five years, administration officials said last night.

As the summit drew to a close, President Carter joined Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin in a jet helicopter and flew from Carter's forested Camp David retreat 65 miles southeast to the White House in Washington for a 10:30 p.m. joint signing of two documents that mark the agreements.

The three smiled and waved as they hoarded the aircraft at Camp David. Carter climbed in first. Begin deferred to Sadat and urged the Egyptian leader to board second. The three men and the helicopter were fit by a glare of floodlights.

When the helicopter touched down on the White House lawns, the three leaders were greeted by some 50 dignitaries and members of the White House staff. Each of the three got a kiss from the president's wife, Rosalynn.

Carter acknowledged that at times the talks faltered. But Carter said the results exceeded all expectations.

Sadat, speaking next at a ceremony in the White House East Room, thanked Carter for fulfilling his promise. Carter asked that the results exceed all expectations.

Earthquake hits Iran

TEHRAN, Iran--A devastating earthquake that struck a farming region of northeastern Iran Saturday killed more than 11,000 persons and destroyed entire cities and villages, the official Fars news agency reported yesterday. The quake, which U.S. seismologists measured at 7.7 on the Richter scale was the most powerful in recent Iranian history. Officials said they feared the reported death toll would go much higher as word comes in from outlying villages.

Church blasts censorship

WARSAW, Poland--The leaders of Poland's powerful Roman Catholic Church, in one of their sharpest challenges yet to the government, called yesterday for the abolition of censorship in this Communist nation, saying it is a "weapon of totalitarian regimes." A pastoral letter signed by all Polish bishops and read from church pulpits throughout the country was urging the government to allow the broadcasting of religious programs and exhorted the faithful to listen to Vatican Radio. The letter was the strongest denunciation of censorship made by the church in years.

Dole to run? (AP) Sen. Bob Dole says he will not run for the Republican presidential nomination in 1980 if former President Gerald Ford runs, but he might enter the race if Ronald Reagan chooses to run. "It would be the height of ingratitude to say, 'I tried it. I liked it. I'm going to run now.' After all, he Ford picked me out of obscurity" to be his 1976 running mate, Dole said Saturday.

Cities hit by fire

(AP) - A fire in downtown Muncie yesterday gutted a seven-story office building and another blaze on the north side of Terre Haute damaged four apartments, fire officials said. The Muncie fire, which was discovered about 9 a.m., was out by late Sunday afternoon. In Terre Haute, four fire units brought the four apartment blaze under control in about an hour and a half, officials reported.

Meades talks produce agreement (continued from page 1) his commitment to serve as a "full partner" in the talks. Sadat expressed gratitude to Carter for his "spirit and dedication" and concluded with a prayer that the "spirit of Camp David" would mark a new chapter in Middle East history. Begin, in a tribute to Carter, said "we worked harder than our forefathers did in building the pyramids of Egypt." But before there is peace, Begin noted, Israel and Egypt have three months of negotiations ahead to conclude a peace treaty.

Turning to Sadat, the Israeli prime minister said there was no point in recounting the "saga" of their differences during the negotiations.

Asst. Provost Jones names council as ultimate body

by John McDermott

"The Academic Council is the ultimate academic body," according to Assistant Provost Sr. John Michael O'Connor.

As stated in Article IV of the Faculty Handbook. "The principal functions of the Council are to determine general academic policies and regulations of the University; to consider the recommendations of the Graduate Council; to approve major changes in the requirements for admission to and graduation from the Colleges and Schools and in the programs of study offered by Colleges, Schools, and Departments; to authorize the establishment, modification, or discontinuance of any academic organization of the University; and to provide for review, amendment, and final interpretation of the Academic Manual. The decisions of the Council are reached by majority vote and are subject to the approval of the President.

The Council is made up of administrators, faculty, and students from each of the four colleges. A member of the Council represents each of the four colleges. The other three undergraduate representatives are the Student Government Academic Affairs Committee representatives from the Graduate School, and a student from the other programs of advanced studies. The Council meets regularly at least once a month, or when the President feels a meeting needs to be called. Meetings are held at the Center for Continuing Education and last approximately three hours.

Jones stated that the students on the Council are on an equal footing with the other members and are taken seriously. Although students were only brought into the Council in 1970, Jones felt that the students have made some excellent contributions. "We have really been blessed with some great students," Jones said.

Jones sees the students' involvement in the Council as a "two way" street. "We really benefit from the students. They present an aspect of campus life that we need to be reminded of. At the same time the students benefit by observing the ongoings of the University first hand. It's a great experience," Jones also described the students' involvement as both "growth-producing, challenging, and fun."

Calling the Council the "preserver of academic policies," Jones said that the Council "inherits the integrity of the academic enterprise."

A member of the Council for the last two years, Jones encouraged all students to submit an application for membership on the Council. Interested students may submit their names and brief statement of application to the Faculty Senate Committee, in care of their respective Department's Office, in b-fac on September 20, 1978. The names of the students chosen will be announced on Sept. 27.
Residents speak

Dear Editor:

We, the inhabitants of the study lounges of Flanner Hall, would like to express our opinion on the present housing situation. This is something that affects us directly, yet we have had no say in the matter, save through our resident director, Mr. Peter Malmey.

At the time of this writing, there are fourteen freshmen being housed in the study lounges of Flanner. We are comfortable in our present environment and do not wish to leave it. We have become well acquainted with our roommates, as well as many other people living in Flanner. These friendships have become valuable to us as we have been able to help each other and have received help and information from the upperclassmen we know in the hall. To move us out would force us to lessen and possibly break these friendships and force us to make new ones, a difficult and time-consuming task for someone settling into the college program for the first time.

In our opinion, we have been treated poorly by the Department of Student Housing. We have been told at one time we will be moving in a week, the next time we are told we'll be staying for the semester. It is a very perplexing situation in this time of limbo. Plans are made (decorating the room, buying refrigerators, etc.) then they are scrapped because of new information coming out of the Department of Student Housing.

We enjoy living in Flanner Hall and at Notre Dame, but it is very tiring on a freshman when the housing situation is unclear and no opinions are asked. We would appreciate a meeting with the Director of Student Housing at which time we could express our opinions and discuss the situation with those involved in making the decision. The goal of a good education and a well-rounded individual is difficult to achieve when the individual is left in the back-ground.

Demands doomed

Dear Editor:

Now I believe I've seen it all. The top stories in Friday's Observer concerned new demands for student rights. An ad hoc committee which includes hall presidents, the SBY, the Student Union Director and the Observer Editor-in-Chief has been formed to obtain facilitative and veto powers for the CLC in matters relating to student affairs. If one browses through back issues of the Observer from the late May, it is not likely that a legislative committee was formed to address student matters. This committee was named the Student Life Council (SLC), and was composed of eight Administrators, might faculty members and eight students.

In its early years, the SLC's meetings were open to the public, were well-attended. As the upper-year forums for student legislation, the SLC was largely responsible for the changes in student life that came about at that time.

During the past, due to apathy and self-imposed constraints, there was a period of trying to define its administration to him, despite the time, often as little as two hours spent in a single meeting, despite the respect by which the body.

Thus, when SBP Dave Bender retired the SLC last year, it went out with a whimper. He replaced it with his CLC, a body cut from the same cloth, but lacking any legislative power. Whereas the SLC had such power in its purview, but simply hadn't used it for several years, the CLC has no power.

This year's student government might have been able to break into the rusty SLC, but they will never be permitted by the Administration to hire them in place of the SLC once had. Thus, due to a lack of respect for the student government, the demands we have reported that the Observer are doomed from the start.

President Samoza claims:

Venezuela supports insurgents

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) - President Anastasio Somoza's government, claiming near-victory against rebels in the north, said yesterday that Venezuela had thrown its military support behind the insurgents, sending warplanes to back a rebel attack in the south. The Information Ministry Statement said Venezuelan planes based in Costa Rica had provided support for a rebel attack on the key Nicaraguan post of Penas Blancas, on the Costa Rican border.

Costa Rica quickly denied the Nicaraguan claim. There was no immediate comment reported from Venezuela.

National guard headquarters in Managua, meanwhile, said its forces had completely retaken the northern city of Leon, the country's second-largest. 'The communist faction which had taken the city' had been overpowered, a guard statement said.

The guard said government troops also were fighting rebels in Chinandaga and Esteli. The rebels, led by guerrillas of the left-leaning Sandinista National Liberation Front, launched a general uprising last weekend in an effort to drive the authoritarian Somoza from power.

Associated Press correspondent Lew Wheaton reported from Leon that entire blocks of the city of 100,000 people lay in ruins after the battle.

'Somoza must go' a stunned Leon woman said. 'Only a madman would do something like this. We are not Communists here. Just Common people.'

Adding to this Central American nation's troubles was Hurricane Celia, which moved into the north-east Nicaragua-eastern Honduras region Sunday and threatened to wreak widespread damage.

The government statement said the attack on the southern town of Penas Blancas by left-leaning guerrillas occurred at 4 a.m. The small town straddles the Pan American Highway, the only paved road connecting Managua and Costa Rica.

Sources in Managua said the outpost was overrun by rebels and a large supply of heavy caliber automatic weapons and ammunition captured.

Carlos Gutierrez, an anti-Somoza opposition leader here, said the Sandinistas threw up a Pan American Highway bridge over a small river near the border. He said the Sandinistas would hold the border 'free territory' and ask for international recognition of a provisional government.

If Costa Rica recognizes the provisional government, diplomats in Central America speculated, anti-Somoza forces could easily be reinforced in a fight northward along the Pan American Highway to Managua.

The Venezuelan government has been sharply critical of Somoza and has called for international mediation to end the conflict here.

As part of $400,000 renovation: LaFortune receives furniture

by Tom Jackson

Butcherblock tables and chairs were installed last week in the first floor lounge of LaFortune Student Center, completing a highly visible facet of the $400,000 LaFortune renovation project. The question of whether or not this will help bring about increased use of the Student Center is as yet unanswered.

Student Body President Andy McKenna said yesterday that he feels it’s “definitely a good change, and the atmosphere has changed considerably. If people want to relax, they can go upstairs to the lounge (where the old sofas are not located).” The furniture change was made “to make it a bit more of a social area,” McKenna said, adding that the new tables would provide a “better food facility.”

Mike Roohan, student body vice­president, also approved of the changes. “The ‘Airport Lounge’ (a nickname for the previous lounge) was too spread out. The new furniture adds more close Affairs and the overseer of the nickname for the previous set-up) said, adding that the new tables changed considerably. If people would provide a “better food facility” would make it a bit more of a social area,” McKenna said.

However, Roohan said he feels that more than just renovation is needed. “Basically, we need a new building. Student centers on a lot of campuses offer a lot of things, and do this one, but theirs were designed for that purpose. This was designed as a science building,” Roohan said. He added that next year the student government hopes to sponsor a LaFortune Night, with movies and activities taking place all over the building, as a means of arousing interest in the building. Moves to increase usage of LaFortune began last year as students claimed that no one used the building, and that the library was a better place to socialize than the student center.

The management of LaFortune, however, released a statement over the summer which said, “Even though some say the LaFortune Student Center is not used much, we would like to have some people know the facts recorded during the 1977-78 school year.” The statement pointed out that the building was in use for 134 one-half hour to four hour periods, and the amph­itheatre for 107 periods.

The lounge change was one of the final projects of the renovation, which will be completed by the Huddle renovation and the installation of an elevator. All money for the project was donated by the LaFortune family.

The Huddle will close one week before the Christmas break to undergo complete renovation over the holidays. McKenna said that the fast-food restaurant will be “more like a McDonald’s-type place, with a ‘Country Store’ on the side serving various meats and cheeses.”

Since the Huddle will be closed during the week of final exams, arrangements are being made to keep the pay cafeteria open until midnight during the period. Use of the lounge seems to have increased noticeably during the mid­afternoon periods, but few people were in the lounge after dinner. Most people expressed indifference to the changes, though one said “I don’t feel like it looks like Kubia’s.” One person studying after dinner noted, “It seems more like a library than a lounge. I kind of liked those old sofas.”

to perform

The Notre Dame Concert Series will present Notre Dame music faculty Deborah Davis, cello, and William Cerny, piano, in the complete cycle of the Beethoven piano sonatas, to be performed in two segments 8:30 p.m. Monday and 8:15 p.m. Wednesday.

Both recitals, which are open to the public without charge, are to be held in the Library Auditorium. Davis, who holds a Master of Music degree from Indiana University at Bloomington, is instructor of music at the LaFortune and principal cellist of the South Bend Symphony. Cerny, a graduate of Yale, is chairman of the Notre Dame music department. Davis and Cerny, with the addition of Assistant Professor Adrian Bystrom, form the Notre Dame Piano Trio.

Monday’s program will comprise three sonatas from Beethoven’s early and middle periods.

Wednesday’s program concludes the cycle with a performance of the opus 82 sonatas, written at the beginning of Beethoven’s final period.

Counseling center opens for area and campus use

by Kate Kilkunse

A new counseling center available to the residents of the South Bend-Notre Dame-St. Mary’s community opened on Labor Day located at theFaith/bright House across from St. Mary’s College, the St. Joseph Valley Pastoral Counseling Center is now open to people of all faiths, races, and non­religious groups.

John A. Struzzo, Ph.D., has recently accepted the appointment as director of the Center. “The Pastoral Counseling Center is not trying to impose religious beliefs on others. It joins religious values with the physical, psychological, and emotional aspects of the individual in his treatment.” Struzzo says, “this counseling we are helping people to realize their full potential.” Struzzo said.

LaFortune, a Holy Cross priest, believes that though with every illness, no matter what its origin, is health. It is the aim of the counselor to reinforce the idea to the individual. The present program of the Center offers help for any individual, marital, or group problem. Struzzo added that a counseling program for clergy and professionals in pastoral counseling skills will be established in the near future.

The St. Joseph Valley Pastoral Counseling Center is affiliated with the Institute of Religion and Health in New York City. It is a non-profit organization, requiring the financial support of the community. A fee is charged in accordance with the ability of the individual to pay.

Anyone wishing further information should contact Struzzo at 288-6360.

Bender interprets Monod's book

by Laura Lartmore

Dr. Harvey Bender, professor of genetics, addressed students in the freshman biology program with his interpretation of Jacques Monod's book, Chance and Necessity, in an Auditorsium.

Bender gave his critique of Monod's ideas on the foundation of life from both biological and historical viewpoints.

As background information, Bender shorted a discussion of biological principles as they related to the book. He showed how DNA functions in biological organisms, treating the subject through the various biological structures and their systems of communication.

After a treatment of genetics on a chromosomal level, Bender explained the molecular basis of the gene and its DNA components. In this discussion, he talked of Monod's award-winning research on genetic regulation, relating it to the time-control nature of genetic control.

After this introduction, Bender gave his critique of Monod's ideas. "No other science but biology has so shaken modern thought," Bender stated in regards to theories of evolution. He said biological evolution is more like the creativity process than Russian roulette, pointing out the problems involved in genetic mutations.

In these views with those of Monod, Bender seemed in agreement with each individual in viewing chance, then always follows an action of necessity.

Irish, Belles host tourney

by Anne Davey

On a beautiful Saturday, perfectly suited for tennis, the St. Mary's and Notre Dame women's tennis teams hosted the second annual "Notre Dame-St. Mary's Tennis Tournament." This tournament was a single elimination, regional tournament. The eight participating teams included Valparaiso finishing first with 20 points, Ball State second with 15, Notre Dame placing third, and St. Mary's rounding out the top four. The second four teams were Dayton, Elmhurst, St. Francis, and Taylor College. Kathy Cordes, athletic director at St. Mary's, reported that the tournament was "running like clockwork.

The individual results for the day follow: in three sets, Patty Giannis of Valparaiso defeated Mary Shukis of St. Mary's, 6-7, 6-1, 6-2. In doubles play, the number one team from St. Francis, composed of Barb Watters and Jane Karges defeated Notre Dame's team of Peggy Walsh and Mary Legray in the finals, 6-3, 6-4. The St. Mary's team of Terry Bracken and Lindsey Riebel were defeated by St. Francis in the semifinals by the same scores. Coach Sehor was pleased with the play of Bracken and Riebel, saying that they were "a very strong team together," and should continue to improve as the season progresses.

The final event, the number two doubles, saw the Valparaiso team of Laura Sanders and Mary Harring defeat the Ball State team of Cathy Lowe and Anne Lear in one of the few three set matches of the day, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3. The Notre Dame Fighting Irish soccer team easily defeated Indiana University-Purdue University at Fort Wayne, 4-1, Friday night before a close to sellout crowd at Carier Field. The Irish dominated play throughout the game, taking 18 shots at goal compared to IU/PU's eight. Notre Dame goalie Bob Bigger made five saves while shutting out IU/PU for all but the last 45 seconds of play. The goal came at 89:15 after a controversial free kick. Bigger made the save but IU/PU forward Joe Benettus caught the rebound and knocked the ball into the net.

The Irish offense had a workout as they controlled the ball for most of the game. The first Notre Dame goal came at 9:13 when Joe Coni scored after assists by Mike Mai and Kevin Lovejoy. The game remained 1-0 until the 1st half of the Irish offense controlled the ball. In just five minutes into the second half the Irish offense exploded, scoring three goals within six minutes. The first goal of the half came at 20:19 when Kevin Lovejoy scored from an assist by Mike Mai. Burtly barely three minutes later, 22:17, Tom Finnegan scored after a pass from Bill Witterer. Witterer again was credited with an assist when he passed to Bill Ralph who scored at 61:05. At this time, the Irish coaches began to substitute freely, and gave the first team a rest. The second team controlled the ball for the rest of the game. IU/PU was not able to mount any form of offense to make the game closer. IU/PU had been undecided coming into the game at 5-0. Irish raised their record to 3-4.

The victory extends the Irish winning streak to 19 games. The Irish will meet the University of Puerto Rico at St. Joseph's College. Head Coach Rich Hunter also emphasized that the Irish "are a tough team to beat." He also stressed the need for the team to "play together and continue to improve."
