Teammsters again charge University

by Mike Ribenour
Staff Reporter

Teammsters Local 364 has filed a third unfair labor practice charge against Notre Dame in connection with the layoff of Jim Payne, catalyst of the unionization movement of the workers on campus.

Payton, a garage worker, was "suspended indefinitely" last Friday. According to Payton, "I was fired because I was one hour late for work last Thursday."

Payton said, The University has been trying to catch me on something because of my involvement in union activities."

Director of Personnel, Tom Bull denied that Payton was "fired" because of that incident. "It has been a combination of things that we (the University) would not want to make public, but deals with my relations with the supervisors," Bull said.

Payton said the trouble began when his truck broke down. "There was no phone nearby," Payton explained, "and when I returned to the garage, the supervisor, John Michalski, said, 'Do you know what a phone is?' I told him there was no phone near my truck's break down. An argument ensued.

"The next thing I knew I was fired. I didn't even talk to Michalski my boss," Payton said. Bull claimed, "We believe Payton knew that Michalski was his boss."

Mike Lawrence, assistant business representative of Teamsters Local 364, said that the unfair labor practice charge is being filed on behalf of Payton on the grounds of discrimination by the University. "We believe Payton was singled out for his union activity because he's the main person behind the unionization movement," Lawrence explained.

Bull said that it is the Teamsters' prerogative if they want to file a charge. "We believe there is no substance to the charge," Bull continued, "the last unfair labor practice charge never went to court because the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) saw no merit in it." Bull added.

"They (the Teamsters) can file a charge on anything they want but it is the proof in the pudding that counts," Bull concluded.

Lawrence said this third charge would not interfere in the progress of the unionization settlement. "This unfair labor practice charge is separate so we can now expect to hold up the original issue," Lawrence said.

The NLRB is still in the process of making a decision on the size of the bargaining units for a vote on unionization.

Will meet with Roemer

"Food fights lose IDs"

by Frank LaGrotta

Thirteen student identification cards have been confiscated as a result of food fights that took place in both the North and South Dining Halls last Saturday night.

The ID cards, along with a report of the incidents, were sent to Dean of Students, James Roemer. The students involved are scheduled to meet with Roemer today.

The student's actions are in direct violation of Section 10 of the University regulations, which states: "Throwing of food or other objects in the dining halls is a serious offense against the entire community." The section was added to the regulations last year. According to Ron Athey, food service director in the North Dining Hall, food-throwing incidents occurred during dinner in B and C lines of the North Dining Hall. Five ID cards were confiscated at that time.

"A group of students started clanking glasses and sliding chairs. Then they started throwing bread, cookies and cottage cheese, among other things. That's when we took action and asked for IDs," Athey said.

This was not the first reported incident of food-fighting in the North Dining Hall this year, according to Verdeen Rupert, head checker in the North Dining Hall.

"We took four IDs after both the Missouri and Michigan games," Rupert said. "Many of the students involved had been drinking. I think it's that, plus the emotions from the football game that causes the problems."

The situation in the South Dining Hall on Saturday was similar, according to director Carson Wells.

"Students in the East Hall started throwing food. Then the monitors and I collected eight ID cards," Wells explained.

The thrown food caused officials to close the East Hall at 5:30 p.m.

"Closing the East Hall was a real inconvenience for many students not involved in the food fight," Bob Robinson said senior food service director for SAGA Foods.

"Many of the students involved were interrogated and one of our monitors actually discovered beer on a few of the apprehended students," Wells said. "Their behavior caused problems for a lot of innocent people seated around them, not to mention the students forced to stand in long lines at the West Hall because the East Hall was closed."

Roemer said he will discuss the incidents with students involved at today's meeting. Their ID cards will also be returned at this time.

"The whole community has to make a point and say we won't tolerate this kind of thing," Roemer said. "I think the guilty students have to learn from this experience. It's an inconvenience for the people who have to clean up the mess and for the people who can't enjoy a meal in the dining hall without this type of disturbance."

Roemer explained that the disciplinary action usually taken when this instance occurs is to make the involved students spend 20 hours on Sunday mornings cleaning garbage cans at the dining halls.

"That's the action that everyone (students and dining hall officials) agreed upon earlier this year," Roemer explained. "The garbage cans have to be cleaned so it seems to me that the people best suited to clean them are the people who messed up the dining halls."

Robinson believes that by making students aware of the consequences of being caught, other food fights can be prevented.

The consequences, coupled with peer pressure, might discourage students from throwing food. "Believe me, food fights aren't any fun for innocent students trying to eat their meals."

FAA releases plane crash transcripts

by Ron Szot

SAN DIEGO (AP) - A doomed pilot's calm advisory that his jet was going down was the only intervention in routine pilot-controller conversations before the nation's worst air crash, tape recordings released yesterday showed.

"Tower, we're going down. This is PSA," the pilot of Pacific Southwest Airlines Flight 182 told Lindbergh Field controllers just before the crash last Monday in which at least 144 persons died.

The transcripts, released by the Federal Aviation Administration, show no evidence of joking or inattention on the part of the PSA crew, as had been claimed in some news reports, but only routine transmissions between air and ground.

The PSA jet and a single-engine Cesna collided three miles east of Lindbergh Field, raising flaming debris and bodies on the city's North Park residential area. At least 135 persons on the PSA jet died, both persons in the Cesna were killed, and at least seven persons on the ground were killed.

The transcripts cover communication between controllers at Miramar Naval Air Station, Lindbergh Field and several planes, both on the ground and aloft. There is no hint of any trouble until controllers at Miramar, which handled the PSA jet until it was handed off to Lindbergh controllers for the final approach, noticed a low-altitude alert sound- ing from the plane, fell below a minimum safe altitude. Other pilots radioed controllers immediately after the accident, their voices showing concern.

"Clear to land ... Boy, what blew up out there?" a Lindbergh controller answered.

"Oh, God, Why?" another unidentified pilot asked.

"PSA," the Lindbergh controllers answered.

The transcripts show the Cesna 172 Involved in the collision with the PSA jetliner was advised that the pilot of the PSA 72 would descend and turn him on the single-engine plane was there. The last advisory came almost at the moment of collision.

The tape recordings, which run to 35 pages, cover five to six days before and after the col­ lision. They were played at a news conference.

The Observer
an independent student newspaper serving notre dame and st. mary's

Vol. XIII, No. 26

Tuesday, October 3, 1978

Saint Mary's Board of Governance met last night to discuss many issues, including this week's Oktoberfest. See story on page 2. [Photo by Ron Szot]
Sadat praises Carter

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—President Anwar Sadat said yesterday that President Carter has accepted an invitation to come to Egypt for the signing of an Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty resulting from the historic Camp David accords. Addressing his parliament on the summit accords, Sadat said they could not have been successful without Carter’s “perseverance.” The White House said Carter wants to attend the signing, but press secretary Jody Powell said he did not know if it will be held in Egypt.

Weather

Showers today, ending tonight. Highs in the upper 60s. Lows tonight in the upper 40s. Mostly cloudy tomorrow, with skies clearing in the late afternoon. Highs in the mid 60s. Chance of rain 80 percent today and 60 percent tonight.

On Campus Today

1-3 pm presentation, foreign service, mr. donald kreiherst, 170 lemans
4:30 pm seminar, “hierarchy: a holistic model in ecology,” dr. terry allen; u. of wisconsin, 278 galvin
7 pm discussion, “the role of campus ministry at nd,” fr. bill toshey, planter banquet
7 pm tryouts, womens varsity basketball, acc pit
7:30 pm ladies of nd, nd/sec theatre preview of 78-79 season, mem. lib. aud.
12:00 pm album hour, “luxury you can afford,” joe cocker, word, am 640

Harrires faces sentencing

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—William and Emily Harris, the avowed revolutionaries who admit they kidnapped Patricia Hearst, face sentencing today for 80 of America’s most notorious abductions. It will mark the end of litigation for Harris, 33, and Mrs. Harris, 31, founding members of the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army that shocked the world with the Feb. 4, 1974, crime.

‘Seven dirty words’ available

PORTLAND, Maine (AP)—The Portland Press Herald offered to mail its readers a list of those “seven dirty words” the U.S. Supreme Court objected to, and readers from as far away as West Germany responded. The Press Herald did not publish the words when it carried stories about the court’s restriction of broadcasts of a record by comedienne George Carlin. But it said the curious could get a list by sending a self-addressed envelope to the newspaper. The offer was carried by The Associated Press and about 60 requests came in from out of state.

Chemical leak causes fire

HAMMOND, Ind. (AP)—A $2 million fire at a chemical plant complex apparently was caused by ignition of a chemical leaking from an open valve on a tank set to be dismantled, authorities said yesterday. Investigators were questioning workers to determine if the valve was left open deliberately. The blaze, which started yesterday, killed one person.

Gas hospitalizes students

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—At least 79 high school students and teachers were overcome yesterday by a gas that authorities said probably was carbon monoxide. The victims were given oxygen, and doctors said they believed none was seriously ill. School administrators said it was the first day this year that the school’s heating system was used. They said the building would be closed today while the gas was fanned out, which was tested Friday, underwet further testing.

Observe those promotions made

Observer Staff Reporters Kevin Richardson, Mark Rust and Sue Wuetrich have been promoted to Senior Staff Reporters. Richardson and Wuetrich are seniors and Rust is a sophomore.

Apology

We at the Observer apologize for the unfortunate placement of the pop rating axis on yesterdays page. Although these photos were placed near a story concerning the reaction to Pope John Paul II’s death, there is by no means a reflection of our reaction to this mournful occurrence.

Also, the size of the photo of Judy Cerbonas was not intended to dramatize her untimely death. We apologize if any of our readers perceived it as such.
Alumni Association creates student relations group

by Ed Moran
Staff Reporter

A Student-Associate Relations Group (SARG) was recently created by the Notre Dame Alumni Association in hopes of enhancing communications between the student body and the association, thereby creating a better understanding of Alumni-oriented programs.

"The typical view of the Alumni Association by the student body at Notre Dame is a bunch of old men getting together at the Morris Inn every football weekend and then going home," stated the association's Assistant Director Tim Truesdell. "SARG is designed to put that misnomer to rest," he added.

SARG was officially approved at the Alumni Association meetings held last Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

Chairman, senior Micki O'Connell, will consist of six members: two sophomores, two juniors, and two seniors. SARG will attempt to make the student body more aware of the functions that the Alumni Association offers on campus.

"SARG will be an apparatus to let the students get to know the board and the board to get to know the students," O'Connell said. "In January we hope to have members of the Board go out into the campus and meet the seniors that plan to live in their region so they can take advantage of the ND Club in that area," she continued.

"Take my case, for example. I'm from Minnesota but I plan to work in New York after I graduate," O'Connell said. "The ND Club out there is going to help (Continued on page 7)

SMC stresses rape awareness

by Lisa Fulks

A new Rape Awareness Program, designed by hall directors Barbara Van Eck and Susan Tamborini, has been instituted at Saint Mary's College.

Van Eck, in her second year as Holy Cross director, cites the two rapes of last year as a major factor in the creation of this new program. The program is designed to reach virtually every SMC resident.

According to Van Eck, every section of every dorm will have the chance to see a film on rape awareness and to hear a lecture on the subject. Prepared information regarding the subject has also been passed out to residents.

Van Eck and Tamborini both have counseling backgrounds. Tamborini, director of Regina Hall, holds a Masters in Student Personnel and did her thesis on the different attitudes of both sexes toward the crime of rape. "It's an issue both sexes need to deal with. It would be good if men were made more aware of the problems females have to face regarding this crime," Tamborini stated.

Van Eck, who attended a workshop that dealt with the crime of rape, is also a member of the Allen Hall Sword Club.

"SARG was designed to take advantage of the ND Alumni Association's meetings held last Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

"I'm from Minnesota but I plan to work in New York after I graduate," O'Connell said. "The ND Club out there is going to help to worry about on the two campuses is one that must be deplored," Van Eck said. She maintains that there is only so much security, and that it is up to the student to be better informed about rape.

Van Eck feels that increased awareness and learning several preventive measures will aid the girls in dealing with rape. "It's important to talk about it beforehand so you're prepared to take care of yourself or a friend if it does happen," she explained.

The Resident Advisors (RAs) on campus also took part in a Rape Awareness Workshop which dealt with how to help someone who has been raped. The RAs have also been responsible for promoting the Rape Awareness Program among the residents.

A self-defense class is also part of the program for any resident who wants to sign up. After mid-semester break there will be a campus-wide meeting covering the medical and legal aspects of rape. In the spring, the program will be continued to bring the issue to the students' attention once more.

South Bend Police Sgt. Joel Wolvis speaks at the rape prevention workshop. (Photo by Ron Szot)
The Student Rights Forum held last week was not, despite popular belief, a confrontation between administrators and the student body on student rights issues. Rather, it was an outpouring of differences between viewpoints, attitudes and opinions.

In his opening comments, Vice President John Van Woelvink spoke of the University as an "institution with a 'parental concern' for its students. This was the framework on which both he and Dean Reorner based their answers to students' questions. The very fact that the University-student relationship is of a parent-child nature, their answers were logical, But the student body sees the University-student relationship as an adult-adult relationship and does not accept this framework - this is why confusion on particular issues arises.

Although the forum provide a means by which student opinions are aired publicly, it gripped on the general topic of student life, and though it allowed administrators to firmly defend their viewpoints on particular issues, neither side left the encounter with a feeling of satisfaction. Perhaps, the most important of the answers given to Dean Reorner and Mr. Van Woelvink was they acknowledge their shadowy and sometimes ridiculous attained by the elimination of unnecessary visitations hours. This is still the true issue at hand, then. Although the forum provided a vehicle to attain "quiet hours." The two reasons, too, are incongruous with each other. But these administrators are acting on orders from a university president committed to (circa1960's) not having women on campus and circa1970's never allowing contraceptive deliberations. But the point is, the very fact that an individual has presupposing that they would be capable, The student body, then, should stand up students of academic excellence together. Women and, men could relieved from the constant embarrassment of being w1th each other or by the administration to their watches. They clearly are not. But more to the point, such speculation can be made about any other statement made by Mr. Reorner. They are blithely ignores.

As the confinement and safety of rigid rules is not considered, it is true that the "theological speculations of Rahner" are not football officials, who must be officially sanctioned to remain members of the Catholic theologians are not football officials, who must be officially sanctioned in a reasonable manner. If they wished to stay out of the Catholic Church, And I think it would be compelled, along with any objections, to their watches. They clearly are not. But more to the point, such speculation can be made about any other statement made by Mr. Reorner. They are blithely ignores.

As the confinement and safety of rigid rules is not considered, it is true that the "theological speculations of Rahner" are not football officials, who must be officially sanctioned in a reasonable manner. If they wished to stay out of the Catholic Church, And I think it would be compelled, along with any objections, to their watches. They clearly are not. But more to the point, such speculation can be made about any other statement made by Mr. Reorner. They are blithely ignores.

As the confinement and safety of rigid rules is not considered, it is true that the "theological speculations of Rahner" are not football officials, who must be officially sanctioned in a reasonable manner. If they wished to stay out of the Catholic Church, And I think it would be compelled, along with any objections, to their watches. They clearly are not. But more to the point, such speculation can be made about any other statement made by Mr. Reorner. They are blithely ignores.

As the confinement and safety of rigid rules is not considered, it is true that the "theological speculations of Rahner" are not football officials, who must be officially sanctioned in a reasonable manner. If they wished to stay out of the Catholic Church, And I think it would be compelled, along with any objections, to their watches. They clearly are not. But more to the point, such speculation can be made about any other statement made by Mr. Reorner. They are blithely ignores.

As the confinement and safety of rigid rules is not considered, it is true that the "theological speculations of Rahner" are not football officials, who must be officially sanctioned in a reasonable manner. If they wished to stay out of the Catholic Church, And I think it would be compelled, along with any objections, to their watches. They clearly are not. But more to the point, such speculation can be made about any other statement made by Mr. Reorner. They are blithely ignores.

The following are my reactions to Professor Charles Rice's nervous hostility to a University implicit in Professor Rice's Wednesday's Observer. In the most literal sense, Father Toohey early in their careers at Notre Dame. And I think it would be compelled, along with any objections, to their watches. They clearly are not. But more to the point, such speculation can be made about any other statement made by Mr. Reorner. They are blithely ignores.

The following are my reactions to Professor Charles Rice's nervous hostility to a University implicit in Professor Rice's Wednesday's Observer. In the most literal sense, Father Toohey early in their careers at Notre Dame. And I think it would be compelled, along with any objections, to their watches. They clearly are not. But more to the point, such speculation can be made about any other statement made by Mr. Reorner. They are blithely ignores.

The following are my reactions to Professor Charles Rice's nervous hostility to a University implicit in Professor Rice's Wednesday's Observer. In the most literal sense, Father Toohey early in their careers at Notre Dame. And I think it would be compelled, along with any objections, to their watches. They clearly are not. But more to the point, such speculation can be made about any other statement made by Mr. Reorner. They are blithely ignores.

The following are my reactions to Professor Charles Rice's nervous hostility to a University implicit in Professor Rice's Wednesday's Observer. In the most literal sense, Father Toohey early in their careers at Notre Dame. And I think it would be compelled, along with any objections, to their watches. They clearly are not. But more to the point, such speculation can be made about any other statement made by Mr. Reorner. They are blithely ignores.

The following are my reactions to Professor Charles Rice's nervous hostility to a University implicit in Professor Rice's Wednesday's Observer. In the most literal sense, Father Toohey early in their careers at Notre Dame. And I think it would be compelled, along with any objections, to their watches. They clearly are not. But more to the point, such speculation can be made about any other statement made by Mr. Reorner. They are blithely ignores.

The following are my reactions to Professor Charles Rice's nervous hostility to a University implicit in Professor Rice's Wednesday's Observer. In the most literal sense, Father Toohey early in their careers at Notre Dame. And I think it would be compelled, along with any objections, to their watches. They clearly are not. But more to the point, such speculation can be made about any other statement made by Mr. Reorner. They are blithely ignores.

The following are my reactions to Professor Charles Rice's nervous hostility to a University implicit in Professor Rice's Wednesday's Observer. In the most literal sense, Father Toohey early in their careers at Notre Dame. And I think it would be compelled, along with any objections, to their watches. They clearly are not. But more to the point, such speculation can be made about any other statement made by Mr. Reorner. They are blithely ignores.

The following are my reactions to Professor Charles Rice's nervous hostility to a University implicit in Professor Rice's Wednesday's Observer. In the most literal sense, Father Toohey early in their careers at Notre Dame. And I think it would be compelled, along with any objections, to their watches. They clearly are not. But more to the point, such speculation can be made about any other statement made by Mr. Reorner. They are blithely ignores.

The following are my reactions to Professor Charles Rice's nervous hostility to a University implicit in Professor Rice's Wednesday's Observer. In the most literal sense, Father Toohey early in their careers at Notre Dame. And I think it would be compelled, along with any objections, to their watches. They clearly are not. But more to the point, such speculation can be made about any other statement made by Mr. Reorner. They are blithely ignores.

The following are my reactions to Professor Charles Rice's nervous hostility to a University implicit in Professor Rice's Wednesday's Observer. In the most literal sense, Father Toohey early in their careers at Notre Dame. And I think it would be compelled, along with any objections, to their watches. They clearly are not. But more to the point, such speculation can be made about any other statement made by Mr. Reorner. They are blithely ignores.

The following are my reactions to Professor Charles Rice's nervous hostility to a University implicit in Professor Rice's Wednesday's Observer. In the most literal sense, Father Toohey early in their careers at Notre Dame. And I think it would be compelled, along with any objections, to their watches. They clearly are not. But more to the point, such speculation can be made about any other statement made by Mr. Reorner. They are blithely ignores.

The following are my reactions to Professor Charles Rice's nervous hostility to a University implicit in Professor Rice's Wednesday's Observer. In the most literal sense, Father Toohey early in their careers at Notre Dame. And I think it would be compelled, along with any objections, to their watches. They clearly are not. But more to the point, such speculation can be made about any other statement made by Mr. Reorner. They are blithely ignores.

The following are my reactions to Professor Charles Rice's nervous hostility to a University implicit in Professor Rice's Wednesday's Observer. In the most literal sense, Father Toohey early in their careers at Notre Dame. And I think it would be compelled, along with any objections, to their watches. They clearly are not. But more to the point, such speculation can be made about any other statement made by Mr. Reorner. They are blithely ignores.

The following are my reactions to Professor Charles Rice's nervous hostility to a University implicit in Professor Rice's Wednesday's Observer. In the most literal sense, Father Toohey early in their careers at Notre Dame. And I think it would be compelled, along with any objections, to their watches. They clearly are not. But more to the point, such speculation can be made about any other statement made by Mr. Reorner. They are blithely ignores.

The following are my reactions to Professor Charles Rice's nervous hostility to a University implicit in Professor Rice's Wednesday's Observer. In the most literal sense, Father Toohey early in their careers at Notre Dame. And I think it would be compelled, along with any objections, to their watches. They clearly are not. But more to the point, such speculation can be made about any other statement made by Mr. Reorner. They are blithely ignores.

The following are my reactions to Professor Charles Rice's nervous hostility to a University implicit in Professor Rice's Wednesday's Observer. In the most literal sense, Father Toohey early in their careers at Notre Dame. And I think it would be compelled, along with any objections, to their watches. They clearly are not. But more to the point, such speculation can be made about any other statement made by Mr. Reorner. They are blithely ignores.

The following are my reactions to Professor Charles Rice's nervous hostility to a University implicit in Professor Rice's Wednesday's Observer. In the most literal sense, Father Toohey early in their careers at Notre Dame. And I think it would be compelled, along with any objections, to their watches. They clearly are not. But more to the point, such speculation can be made about any other statement made by Mr. Reorner. They are blithely ignores.

The following are my reactions to Professor Charles Rice's nervous hostility to a University implicit in Professor Rice's Wednesday's Observer. In the most literal sense, Father Toohey early in their careers at Notre Dame. And I think it would be compelled, along with any objections, to their watches. They clearly are not. But more to the point, such speculation can be made about any other statement made by Mr. Reorner. They are blithely ignores.

The following are my reactions to Professor Charles Rice's nervous hostility to a University implicit in Professor Rice's Wednesday's Observer. In the most literal sense, Father Toohey early in their careers at Notre Dame. And I think it would be compelled, along with any objections, to their watches. They clearly are not. But more to the point, such speculation can be made about any other statement made by Mr. Reorner. They are blithely ignores.
Peter's answer provides resolution and enlightenment for Jesus, as often our best friends can give us.

Peter, in effect: "I see what everyone sees, your wisdom, your power, your determination, your courage. I put it all together and conclude that you are a prophet, a prophet but the fulfillment of prophecy. You are the Christ, the presence of God Himself in our midst."

Once a billboard was proclaimed in large letters: "Christ is the answer." Someone else said: "Does He involve Himself in my life? Does He lead me through the struggles, challenges, and frightening experience I have? How can I find happiness in life? How can I live forever?"

Jesus is the answer to all those questions. I urge you students to allow Him to be that answer to you in every more powerful ways these next four years.

There's something else I urge: go with that natural, very human desire to know what others think of you. Be like Jesus in that. Continue to ask that question of others, the one He asked: "Who do you say I am?" The answer itself is meant to grow and change, as you do, during your years here.

And, at the end, if your time at Notre Dame is blessed the experience it meant to be, their answer will have to be: "You aren't just somebody who has tested his skills, a bunch of facts, a whole catalogue of information; you are not just living God. You have become someone. You are the offspring of the living God. You are more truly alive and fully human than when you first came here. You manifest the continuing presence of the living God in your world."

Because you have led Him be the Christ for you, you are "Christian"—and that will be your greatest title. Not simply "graduate" but "Christian graduate."

I pray you become eligible for that kind of answer to the question, "Who do you say I am?" And I pray there are persons who will be willing to tell you.

And so in welcoming you to Notre Dame, we are now sharing the adventure. There are a lot of people here who are totally dedicated to walk with you and to be with you in every scene, every twist and turn to grow into the answer you are destined to be.

To you parents: Our thanks for sharing with us, our children, that destiny. We are thrilled.

And to you, the class of '83: thanks for being, for deciding to live with us. Yuppies in the making can be excited at the possibilities before us; especially that, through friendships and new services ahead, we will be led further along in our is God around? Does He exist? That is the only legitimate answer to the question, "Who do you say I am?" Jesus is the answer to those several questions.

State of Siege, which is showing Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday as part of the campus Third World Film Festival, has been a controversial movie since it was released in this country in 1973.

The controversy has involved whether or not Director Constantin Costa-Gavras is correct in implying that the United States Agency for International Development (AID) teaches Latin American policy on torture. The movie has been a controversial movie since it was released in 1973.

The movie was the subject of a lawsuit brought by Tupamaros guerrillas of Dan Mitrione in Montevideo, Uruguay in 1970. Mitrione, former police chief of Richmond, Indiana, was working as an advisor to the Uruguayan government for "trafficking and control and communication." He then followed with The Confession, which dealt with the trial of Rudolf Slansky, former General Secretary of the Czechoslovakian Communist Party. Although not as popular as Z, The Confession, discredited justice behind the iron curtain as successfully as the director had the Greek color revolution.

State of Siege is based on the kidnapping by Tupamaros guerrillas of Dan Mitrione in Montevideo, Uruguay in 1970. Mitrione, former police chief of Richmond, Indiana, was working as an advisor to the Uruguayan government for "traffic and control and communication." It was filmed in Montevideo, Uruguay--a harsh military government in the much under-rated wing of the world.

This is a film that, while it may not exactly illuminate one of the most powerful films cost. The action has the same unsettling switching from scene to scene that was so successful in Z.

One of the most subtle and illuminating scenes in the movie show the congressmen debating the government's options in response to the kidnapping. The arguments and frenetic behavior of the legislators serves to outline the limited options available once police brutality is countered with terrorism. The system may well be the only system left that we have today--a harsh military government throughout the world for its humane democracy.

The screenplay was written by Franco Solinas, who co-authored the classic The Battle of Algiers. The movie was shot mainly in Chile during the Allende years.

The movie is about political violence, rather than about political assassination. Costa-Gavras told an interviewer in 1973, "It tries to speak about violence from each side. We show how the Tupamaros rationalize extrajudicial torture. We show how the efficiency experts have won by the efficiency experts."

Some of the most subtle and illuminating scenes in the movie show the congressmen debating the government's options in response to the kidnapping. The arguments and frenetic behavior of the legislators serves to outline the limited options available once police brutality is countered with terrorism. The system may well be the only system left that we have today--a harsh military government throughout the world for its humane democracy.

The screenplay was written by Franco Solinas, who co-authored the classic The Battle of Algiers. The movie was shot mainly in Chile during the Allende years.

The movie is about political violence, rather than about political assassination. Costa-Gavras told an interviewer in 1973, "It tries to speak about violence from each side. We show how the Tupamaros rationalize extrajudicial torture. We show how the efficiency experts have won by the efficiency experts."

Some of the most subtle and illuminating scenes in the movie show the congressmen debating the government's options in response to the kidnapping. The arguments and frenetic behavior of the legislators serves to outline the limited options available once police brutality is countered with terrorism. The system may well be the only system left that we have today--a harsh military government throughout the world for its humane democracy.

The screenplay was written by Franco Solinas, who co-authored the classic The Battle of Algiers. The movie was shot mainly in Chile during the Allende years.
Registration for Navy game ends tonight

The final sign-up for the Nov. 4 Notre Dame Navy football game in Cleveland will be held tonight at both Saint Mary's and Notre Dame. ND students may register in the LaFortune lobby between 7 - 8 p.m. and SMC students may register in the LaFortune lobby from 7 - 8 p.m.

There are several options available for the football weekend and all students are urged to consider and finalize their plans. Game tickets, transportation to and from Cleveland, and hotel accommodations are being offered by the Cleveland Club. Tickets for a pre-game pop rally/dance and a post-game celebration are also being offered.

Students wishing further information may call Chris at 1798. Requests for further information may call Chris at 1798.
Urban Plunge fosters greater social awareness

by John McGrath

Applications for urban Plunge '79 are now available at the Campus Ministry Office on the second floor of the St. Mary's College Center for Experimental Learning. Application forms will be available at the St. Mary's College Center for Experimental Learning, Fr. Don McNell, chairperson of the Urban Plunge Task Force and Director of the Center for Experimental Learning, explained that the ‘plunge’ has been so successful this year in a very short time to see another, alternative lifestyle.

This year's Urban Plunge program has been an outgrowth of a new program from its conception four years ago, said that the project is a tremendous way to start the new year," said McNell. "But in the world that Notre Dame students don't even know about but should, because someday they are going to be in the positions of power," commented John McGrath, a senior who took the "plunge" last year in the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area. "If you really make my Christmas break meaningful," said Bruce Aronson, a member of the Urban Plunge Task Force, "it's a tremendous opportunity to start the new year," she added.

(Student-Alumni group created)

(Continued from page 3)

me out. We (SARG) will publicize the Alumni Association so that more students will take advantage of the services that they offer," said O'Connell.

The two seniors on SARG are Ed Hurley and Harold Jara, the two of whom organized conferences with Murphy and Michael Kenny, and the two sophomore representatives are John E. Alexander and Frank Davidson. According to Truesnel, SARG will become a part of the Alumni Association, and will open its doors to anyone who wishes to become a part of the Alumni Association information.

Student-Alumni group created

John McGrath, chairperson of the Urban Plunge Task Force and Director of the Center for Experimental Learning, explained that the "plunge" has been such a success this year in a very short time to see another, alternative lifestyle.

This year's Urban Plunge program has been an outgrowth of a new program from its conception four years ago, said that the project is a tremendous way to start the new year," said McNell. "But in the world that Notre Dame students don't even know about but should, because someday they are going to be in the positions of power," commented John McGrath, a senior who took the "plunge" last year in the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area. "If you really make my Christmas break meaningful," said Bruce Aronson, a member of the Urban Plunge Task Force, "it's a tremendous opportunity to start the new year," she added.

(Student-Alumni group created)

(Continued from page 3)

me out. We (SARG) will publicize the Alumni Association so that more students will take advantage of the services that they offer," said O'Connell.

The two seniors on SARG are Ed Hurley and Harold Jara, the two of whom organized conferences with Murphy and Michael Kenny, and the two sophomore representatives are John E. Alexander and Frank Davidson. According to Truesnel, SARG will become a part of the Alumni Association, and will open its doors to anyone who wishes to become a part of the Alumni Association information.

(Student-Alumni group created)

(Continued from page 3)

me out. We (SARG) will publicize the Alumni Association so that more students will take advantage of the services that they offer," said O'Connell.

The two seniors on SARG are Ed Hurley and Harold Jara, the two of whom organized conferences with Murphy and Michael Kenny, and the two sophomore representatives are John E. Alexander and Frank Davidson. According to Truesnel, SARG will become a part of the Alumni Association, and will open its doors to anyone who wishes to become a part of the Alumni Association information.

(Student-Alumni group created)

(Continued from page 3)

me out. We (SARG) will publicize the Alumni Association so that more students will take advantage of the services that they offer," said O'Connell.

The two seniors on SARG are Ed Hurley and Harold Jara, the two of whom organized conferences with Murphy and Michael Kenny, and the two sophomore representatives are John E. Alexander and Frank Davidson. According to Truesnel, SARG will become a part of the Alumni Association, and will open its doors to anyone who wishes to become a part of the Alumni Association information.

(Student-Alumni group created)

(Continued from page 3)

me out. We (SARG) will publicize the Alumni Association so that more students will take advantage of the services that they offer," said O'Connell.

The two seniors on SARG are Ed Hurley and Harold Jara, the two of whom organized conferences with Murphy and Michael Kenny, and the two sophomore representatives are John E. Alexander and Frank Davidson. According to Truesnel, SARG will become a part of the Alumni Association, and will open its doors to anyone who wishes to become a part of the Alumni Association information.

(Student-Alumni group created)

(Continued from page 3)

me out. We (SARG) will publicize the Alumni Association so that more students will take advantage of the services that they offer," said O'Connell.

The two seniors on SARG are Ed Hurley and Harold Jara, the two of whom organized conferences with Murphy and Michael Kenny, and the two sophomore representatives are John E. Alexander and Frank Davidson. According to Truesnel, SARG will become a part of the Alumni Association, and will open its doors to anyone who wishes to become a part of the Alumni Association information.

(Student-Alumni group created)

(Continued from page 3)

me out. We (SARG) will publicize the Alumni Association so that more students will take advantage of the services that they offer," said O'Connell.

The two seniors on SARG are Ed Hurley and Harold Jara, the two of whom organized conferences with Murphy and Michael Kenny, and the two sophomore representatives are John E. Alexander and Frank Davidson. According to Truesnel, SARG will become a part of the Alumni Association, and will open its doors to anyone who wishes to become a part of the Alumni Association information.
Irish defeat Dayton with second half outburst

by Mark Perry

Overcoming defensive lapses early in the first half, the Notre Dame soccer team stormed back to defeat the Dayton Flyers, 4-2, before nearly four thousand students at Notre Dame's Butler Field Sunday afternoon.

The win was the first road game of the season for Notre Dame, which moved its record to 9-4-1 overall and 2-1-1 in the A.C.C.

Notre Dame controlled the ball for most of the game, as the Flyers capitalized on two breaks to equalize in the first half of the game.

This marked the first time this season that the Irish have trailed by more than one goal in a game.

The flooding was at nearly one in the first half when they had only allowed a goal in the first half of any game all season.

Notre Dame controlled the ball for most of the game, as the Flyers capitalized on two breaks to equalize in the first half of the game.

The Irish rolled along with the remainder of the half, but went to halftime tied 1-1 after eliminating 2:1.

The deficit did not last long as, the Irish tied the score with less than two minutes expired in the second half. Todd Cartaviole came down right wing, chipped the ball in front of the net, where Nick Schwenman sacrifice sacrifice that players to get a head on the ball and put it past Mike Beecher, Dayton's second half goal, to knot the score at 2-2.

Dayton's only threats for the remainder of the game came on two breaks, which they continued to control the ball and the momentum of the game.

The Irish finally took the lead when Bill Walsh came down the left wing and surprised Steve Cullather with a shot to the right post, and then Dennis Klos took the ball to the left side, where Roman Klos was there to head the ball in and score the goal.

The Irish continued to keep the Irish face the Michigan State defense victory over the Redskin 2.

The Irish had taken a 3-0 lead in the second on Dan Voellinger's triple, Dave Bartish's run homer by catcher Jim Montagano, and送 Indiana State goal. Kevin Lovejoy out­shined the Purdue goalie as the game went on with the rest of the half.

Fortunately, Sunday's twin bill went off with both teams scoring, for the Irish on base percentage could have been decided.

Key still was able to find bright A.C.C. winning percentage could have been decided.

One of these was the continued excellence being displayed by freshman Czech, know as "Henry" had stepped in and done a job," Kelly commented. and, he's gaining invaluable experi­ence.

Another rookie who distin­guished himself was St. Louis Steve Vieprgli, who relieved two Irish drop two after two 19-1 win

by Mike Henry

Sports Writer

Notre Dame's soccer team had four games scheduled for this past weekend. Monday, October 3, 1978, the Irish had a 1-0 lead in the second on Dan Voellinger's triple, Dave Bartish's

Washington defense saved the day with the game's only goal after Washington defender Andrew Czepiel scored with a header in the 60th minute. The Irish went on to win 4-0, with no goals allowed in the second half.

The Irish pressure on for the remainder of the half, but went to halftime tied 1-1 after eliminating 2:1.

The deficit did not last long as, the Irish tied the score with less than two minutes expired in the second half. Todd Cartaviole came down right wing, chipped the ball in front of the net, where Nick Schwenman sacrifice sacrifice that players to get a head on the ball and put it past Mike Beecher, Dayton's second half goal, to knot the score at 2-2.

Cartaviole had two goals and two assists in the match, breaking the school record for most points in a game by a Notre Dame player.

Notre Dame controlled the ball for most of the game, as the Flyers capitalized on two breaks to equalize in the first half of the game.

This marked the first time this season that the Irish have trailed by more than one goal in a game.

The flooding was at nearly one in the first half when they had only allowed a goal in the first half of any game all season.

Notre Dame controlled the ball for most of the game, as the Flyers capitalized on two breaks to equalize in the first half of the game.

The Irish rolled along with the remainder of the half, but went to halftime tied 1-1 after eliminating 2:1.

The deficit did not last long as, the Irish tied the score with less than two minutes expired in the second half. Todd Cartaviole came down right wing, chipped the ball in front of the net, where Nick Schwenman sacrifice sacrifice that players to get a head on the ball and put it past Mike Beecher, Dayton's second half goal, to knot the score at 2-2.

Dayton's only threats for the remainder of the game came on two breaks, which they continued to control the ball and the momentum of the game.

The Irish finally took the lead when Bill Walsh came down the left wing and surprised Steve Cullather with a shot to the right post, and then Dennis Klos took the ball to the left side, where Roman Klos was there to head the ball in and score the goal.

The Irish continued to keep the Irish face the Michigan State defense victory over the Redskin 2.

The Irish had taken a 3-0 lead in the second on Dan Voellinger's triple, Dave Bartish's run homer by catcher Jim Montagano, and send Indiana State goal. Kevin Lovejoy out­shined the Purdue goalie as the game went on with the rest of the half.

Fortunately, Sunday's twin bill went off with both teams scoring, for the Irish on base percentage could have been decided.

Key still was able to find bright A.C.C. winning percentage could have been decided.

One of these was the continued excellence being displayed by freshman Czech, know as "Henry" had stepped in and done a job," Kelly commented. and, he's gaining invaluable experi­ence.

Another rookie who distin­guished himself was St. Louis Steve Vieprgli, who relieved two