Chinese troops prepare to deal final blow of SE Asian border conflict

BANGKOK, Thailand [AP] - Tens of thousands of Vietnamese and Chinese troops backed by heavy artillery were on the move toward the Vietnamese town of Lang Son and what could be the showdown battle of the five-day-old border war, intelligence sources in Bangkok reported.

The sources said Chinese strategists apparently intended to deal a final bloody blow to the Vietnamese military and then to withdraw most of their forces from Vietnam within three or four days.

Japan’s Kyodo news service quoted a government official in Tokyo as saying China hopes to end the conflict within a few days, but the undersecretary official warned that it might be prolonged if Vietnam throws its regular army troops into the fighting.

That appeared to be just what Hanoi was doing yesterday as columns of regular army reinforcements were reported rolling north toward Vietnamese-held Lang Son, a strategically situated town that for centuries has guarded the approaches to the north.

The troops apparently were relieving battered militia units that bore the defensive burden for the first three days of fighting.

The Soviet news agency Tass, meanwhile, said in a report from Hanoi that Chinese troops, committed atrocities against Vietnamese civilians in areas they captured. Tass, quoting Vietnamese news reports, charged that the Chinese burned down villages and shot men, women and children.

A reporter for the Soviet newspaper Pravda, in a dispatch [continued on page 10]

Under US pressure Iranian releases marine

TEHRAN, Iran [AP] - Under strong pressure from the United States, Iran’s new revolutionary government yesterday released a young American Marine accused of firing on Iranians who invaded the U.S. Embassy.

Capt. Ken Kraus, 22, of Lansdale, Pa., whose family had maintained that none of the embassy’s guards “fired a shot,” was driven through the gates of the embassy compound yesterday evening after one week as a “prisoner of the revolution.” He showed no sign of ill treatment.

White House spokesman Jody Powell said Carter and Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance “had made it their No. 1 priority” to free Kraus.

His mother, Jane Kraus of Lansdale, Pa., learned of her son’s release from President Carter. She said, “I told Kenneth is free on American soil in the American Embassy, and they will try to get him home as soon as possible.”

Kraus’ arrest coincided with a demand from Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini’s revolutionary committee for the extradition from the United States of Gen. Gholam Ali Ovessi, former mar­shal law governor of Tehran.

Ovessi’s riot troops forcibly suppressed anti-shah demonstra­tions following last September’s imposition of martial law. He flew to the United States early last month, ostensibly for medi­cal treatment.

His successor, Gen. Mehoj Rahbi, has among eight of the ousted Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi’s generals executed by Islamic fighting squads.

The Iranian foreign and justice ministries were said to have informed Khomeini that there was no extradition agreement with the United States. Prior to [continued on page 12]
Jazz Festival judging panel features prominent musicians

by Neal Patterson

Bands from M.I.T., Sam Houston State University, and Texas State University will be among those performing at the 21st annual Collegiate Jazz Festival, scheduled for April 6-7 in the Student Union ballrooms. "This is the oldest and largest college jazz festival in the world," festival coordinator Joe Carey explained.

The festival will open on Friday evening, with afternoon and evening performances. Carey emphasizes that Friday night's show will be "a preview of what's coming since it will conclude with a jam session by the judges."

Past festivals have had a number of prominent figures as judges, and this year's festival is no exception. The judges were selected from all eras and many different areas of jazz, he added.

For this year's festival are Stanley Turrentine, Buddy DeFranco, Toshiko Akiyoshi, Philly Joe Jones and Richard Davis.

Stanley Turrentine is a tenor saxophonist who Carey describes as "practically all jazz." Turrentine began his career in the 1950s and has played with many greats, including George Benson. Buddy DeFranco, who plays clarinet, began his career during the Swing Era and was associated with Tommy Dorsey. In the most recent poll in Downbeat, a jazz magazine, he is rated as the third best clarinetist in the country.

Toshiko Akiyoshi is the first female ever to judge the festival. Born in Manchuria, she added a great deal of "Eastern influence" to the festival, according to Carey. In addition to being a pianist and composer, she is an arranger. In Downbeat magazine's latest poll, she is ranked as the best Overseas Jazz Composer and Arranger in the nation.

Jim Jones is a drummer who has been described by jazz critics as the "driving force" behind several notable jazz groups in the 1950s and 1960s. In Jones' length career, he has played with many distinguished jazz artists, including Charlie Parker.

According to music critic Don Magnusdottir, Richard Davis is a "compelling musician." A bass player, Davis is famous for his harmony, having played with such notables as Igor Stravinsky and Lena Horne. Davis also teaches music at the University of Wisconsin.

In addition to the performances in Strepian, a jazz colloquium is scheduled for Friday afternoon in the Student Union.

Education in Justice nominates new members

The University Committee on Education in Justice is in the process of nominating members of 1979-80. Any student (under-graduate or graduate) or faculty member interested in working with the committee is encouraged to apply.

The committee, now in its second year, added 16 members last year, has as its goal to raise the issue of justice and to facilitate education on its dimensions in all units of research and learning at Notre Dame.

It is divided into five main subcommittees:

1) Justice Education, now preparing for the second annual Justice Teach-in, scheduled for yesterday and today;

2) Administrative Liaison, facilitating scheduling and research field-based learning in the various colleges and seeking to initiate further programs;

3) Administrative Liaison, maintaining relationships with the University and encouraging the naming of an endowed chair in justice;

4) Communications and Resources, submitting a newsletter and the Observer column, "Justice," and compiling literary resource listings;

5) Justice at Notre Dame, gathering local justice-related issues and facilitating community interaction on these.

Those interested in serving on the committee next year or in nominating others are asked to submit the names, along with any particular subcommittee interest, to the Center for Experiential Learning, attention Maureen O'Brien, Room 1110 Memorial Library (extension 2788). Nominating committee materials are available in this office. The deadline for nominations is March 1.

ND prof speaks on Renaissance

Prof. Astrid L. Gabriel, director emeritus of the Notre Dame Medieval Institute and president of the International Congress of Medieval Studies, will present one of the major talks at an annual University conference Feb. 25-26. His topic for the conference, sponsored by the Center for Medieval and Renaissance Studies, will be "Iconography of Medieval and Renaissance University Art." Other speakers include institute directors or professors at nearby Loyola University, the University of Texas at Austin, California University of Pennsylvania and Northwestern University.

Gabriel is director of Notre Dame's Ambrosiana Collection and one of three sisters in charge of the Ambrosiana. The three sisters are the sole repository of the 1570-year history of The Ambrosiana, Europe's first public library. He was cited for making the manuscript collection of the famed library available to American scholars.

The Observer (USPS 569 500) is a publication of The Observer, Inc., a student-owned newspaper, serving the Notre Dame community. Periodical postage paid at South Bend, Indiana.

The Observer is a student publication. All reproduction rights are reserved.

REGINA HALL PRESENTS:

The first annual Regina Hall Talent Show

Friday, Feb. 23rd 8:00pm Admission: .50

Moreau Little Theater, SMC

proceeds to benefit the school charity

BULLAHED

5:15 mass and supper

this friday and every Friday.
Coaches select final Bowl roster tonight

by Ellen Buddy
Saint Mary’s Editor

Final competition to select the starters for Saint Mary’s College Bowl team will begin tonight at 8 p.m. in Regina Auditorium according to Mary Laverty, College Bowl coordinator.

The original field of twelve women was reduced to nine earlier this month to form the All-Star team. Last weekend, another round of competition cut the number of participants to six: Katie Joyce, Cathy Cowhey, Louise Enyedy, Lisa Fulk, Cathy Luchesi and Kerry Field. They will compete tonight for the four starting positions on the College Bowl team representing Saint Mary’s at the Regionals in March. Fr. John also alternate also will be selected.

Tonight’s first two games will be played against the coaches who helped the teams during intramural competition earlier this year. Laverty said. The last game will be open to any faculty members who are present and wish to participate.

After tonight’s games, the coaches will vote on the final competition concerning starters and the alternate. “The decision will be tough because all three women are very good, and the coaching staff is impressed,” Laverty noted.

The vote is based on tally sheets the coaches have kept on each participant throughout the competition, according to Laverty. The coaches tally the number of times the women have answered, their correct responses and the subject area to which they respond most frequently. “The coaches will attempt to formulate a balanced team that works well, together,” Laverty explained.

Once the final decision is made, the team members will continue to prepare for the Regionals, scheduled for March 8 and 9 at Saint Mary’s. Participating schools will include Indiana State, Terre Haute, Southern Illinois, Carbondale, Franklin College, Purdue, Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s.

Refereendum postponed; more information needed

by Brian McFeeters

Thirty members of the Farmworkers Support Committee decided in a meeting last night to postpone until early April the planned campus referendum in support of the nationwide Nestle’s boycott. The referendum, originally scheduled for March 3rd, was rescheduled for March 10 due to a dispute with the student senate over whether or not that day was a “working day.”

According to Professor Velasquez, the letter that disapproved of the referendum was “not based on any disagreement with what you are doing,” but that more information is needed to allow a fair decision by students.

The letter also contended guidelines for all future referendums of this type, stating that the supporting organization must be at least a major student group, “extensive and exhaustive” information on both sides of the issue and must publicize the information to all students.

Members of the Farmworkers Committee plan to circulate a new petition during late March and early April to obtain the 800 signatures required for a referendum.

Information on the corporations and migrant workers affected by the boycott was being gathered according to guidelines specified by Van Wolvlear. Pro and con fact sheets will be published in the future, and representatives of both positions have been invited to speak at Notre Dame.

President of the Farm Labor Organizing Committee of Valdemar Velasquez explained the farmworker’s position to the committee Tuesday night, saying, “Our immediate goal is to get the campaigners to listen, but they haven’t even recognized us.”

Velasquez urged student support of the boycott, saying he hoped that Notre Dame could become “part of a national effort.” Commenting on the campus push for a referendum on the issue, Velasquez found it strange that a vote was needed. “It seems to me that that’s like voting on whether it is all right to exploit a people or not,” he said.

World Hunger Coalition petitions for Nestle referendum

by Don Schmid

The World Hunger Coalition (WHC) has collected more than 1200 student signatures for a referendum proposing that all Nestle’s products be removed from all food service locations.

The referendum will be placed on Tuesday’s student government election ballot for final student approval, according to John Dunbar, a WHC member.

The referendum reads: “Because of Nestle’s role in the infant formula controversy, I support the removal of all Nestle’s food products from Notre Dame food service and from Notre Dame vending machines.”

If the referendum is passed by a majority of the students voting on Tuesday, the Administration will “implement the referendum and remove all Nestle’s products and Nestle subsidiaries such as Libby’s and StoUFFER’s products from all University food service locations” according to a letter addressed to the WHC by Fr. John Van Wolvlear, vice-president for Student Affairs.

The WHC has already met with the process of fulfilling six conditions before the Administrator will officially accept the referendum. The conditions are:

1) Extensive research covering both sides of the issue must be done.
2) Objective articles treating the issue must be published in The Observer.
3) A pro and con information sheet must be distributed to students.
4) A list of authorities favoring the boycott must be published, as well as a list of companies which are subsidiaries of Nestle, and which are not subsidiaries of Nestle.
5) The organization filing the referendum must be affiliated with student activities for at least one academic year.
6) The WHC has already met with the Administration and has spent about $130 directly on it accord-

[continued on page 11]

Is There Life After Notre Dame?

Alumnae Weekend
Alumnae talk about careers, marriage & life after graduation

Saturday Seminar
March 3rd
1:00 3:00
Library Auditorium

Informal reception follows

Thursday, February 22, 1979 - page 3
Heart attack causes death of police captain in New Orleans

Committee allocates Mardi Gras funds to service organizations

by Jim McConnell

The majority of the monies collected during Mardi Gras week are used to provide assistance to some very worthy charities, according to John Reid, director of Student Activities.

According to Reid, considerations are given with respect to two following priorities. First, all organizations must provide what Reid termed "A direct people service," i.e., which precipitates an immediately tangible and beneficial effect. Also, on campus groups, such as CILA and the Center for Experiential Learning, receive priority over off-campus groups, as do local organizations over non-local or out-of-state groups.

New Orleans police captain died of a heart attack yesterday after 20 hours on duty. New Orleans police showed signs of weariness from a police strike that has dulled the Carnival and Mardi Gras spirit.

The strike has led to cancellations of all remaining Carnival and Mardi Gras parades in the city, and hotels were reporting tourist cancellations as well.

Meanwhile, federal mediator Ansel Garrett met with representatives of the mayor and the Police Benevolent Association of Louisiana for new talks on non-economic strike issues.

The Civil Service Commission was also reported meeting. It alone can consider police wage and benefits demands. It was not known if the police were involved in the meeting.

At a trial in Civil District Court, Judge Richard Garvey ruled the strike illegal and issued a permanent back-to-work order. A temporary order had been ignored by nearly 1,200 of the city's 1,500 policemen.

A 500-man National Guard force was flown in yesterday for Bogalusa. The new substitute police, who relieved guardsmen on duty since Friday, were given arrest powers, but now were assigned to guard city facilities.

Capt. Thomas Albert Sr., 49, head of the 8th District, collapsed and died after suffering a heart attack. Officials said he had been working for 20 hours without relief.

"Like many others, he had been working long hours under considerable stress," said Superintendent James Parson.

Some vandalism was reported. Seven police cars had tires slashed at the district stations, and civilian workers at police headquarters found flat tires and broken windshields.

There were reports of shoplifting and other crimes in the French Quarter, where transients were reportedly throwing bedrolls on the floors of businesses and refusing to leave.

The captains of Carnival organizations decided on Tuesday to cancel all remaining Mardi Gras parades in the city.

New, Orleans (AP) - A police captain died of a heart attack yesterday after 20 hours on duty as New Orleans showed signs of weariness from a police strike that has dulled the Carnival and Mardi Gras spirit.

The strike has led to cancellations of all remaining Carnival and Mardi Gras parades in the city, and hotels were reporting tourist cancellations as well.

Meanwhile, federal mediator Ansel Garrett met with representatives of the mayor and the Police Benevolent Association of Louisiana for new talks on non-economic strike issues.

The Civil Service Commission was also reported meeting. It alone can consider police wage and benefits demands. It was not known if the police were involved in the meeting.

At a trial in Civil District Court, Judge Richard Garvey ruled the strike illegal and issued a permanent back-to-work order. A temporary order had been ignored by nearly 1,200 of the city's 1,500 policemen.

A 500-man National Guard force was flown in yesterday for Bogalusa. The new substitute police, who relieved guardsmen on duty since Friday, were given arrest powers, but now were assigned to guard city facilities.

Capt. Thomas Albert Sr., 49, head of the 8th District, collapsed and died after suffering a heart attack. Officials said he had been working for 20 hours without relief.

"Like many others, he had been working long hours under considerable stress," said Superintendent James Parson.

Some vandalism was reported. Seven police cars had tires slashed at the district stations, and civilian workers at police headquarters found flat tires and broken windshields.

There were reports of shoplifting and other crimes in the French Quarter, where transients were reportedly throwing bedrolls on the floors of businesses and refusing to leave.

The captains of Carnival organizations decided on Tuesday to cancel all remaining Mardi Gras parades in the city.

New, Orleans (AP) - A police captain died of a heart attack yesterday after 20 hours on duty as New Orleans showed signs of weariness from a police strike that has dulled the Carnival and Mardi Gras spirit.

The strike has led to cancellations of all remaining Carnival and Mardi Gras parades in the city, and hotels were reporting tourist cancellations as well.

Meanwhile, federal mediator Ansel Garrett met with representatives of the mayor and the Police Benevolent Association of Louisiana for new talks on non-economic strike issues.

The Civil Service Commission was also reported meeting. It alone can consider police wage and benefits demands. It was not known if the police were involved in the meeting.

At a trial in Civil District Court, Judge Richard Garvey ruled the strike illegal and issued a permanent back-to-work order. A temporary order had been ignored by nearly 1,200 of the city's 1,500 policemen.

A 500-man National Guard force was flown in yesterday for Bogalusa. The new substitute police, who relieved guardsmen on duty since Friday, were given arrest powers, but now were assigned to guard city facilities.

Capt. Thomas Albert Sr., 49, head of the 8th District, collapsed and died after suffering a heart attack. Officials said he had been working for 20 hours without relief.

"Like many others, he had been working long hours under considerable stress," said Superintendent James Parson.

Some vandalism was reported. Seven police cars had tires slashed at the district stations, and civilian workers at police headquarters found flat tires and broken windshields.

There were reports of shoplifting and other crimes in the French Quarter, where transients were reportedly throwing bedrolls on the floors of businesses and refusing to leave.

The captains of Carnival organizations decided on Tuesday to cancel all remaining Mardi Gras parades in the city.

New, Orleans (AP) - A police captain died of a heart attack yesterday after 20 hours on duty as New Orleans showed signs of weariness from a police strike that has dulled the Carnival and Mardi Gras spirit.

The strike has led to cancellations of all remaining Carnival and Mardi Gras parades in the city, and hotels were reporting tourist cancellations as well.

Meanwhile, federal mediator Ansel Garrett met with representatives of the mayor and the Police Benevolent Association of Louisiana for new talks on non-economic strike issues.

The Civil Service Commission was also reported meeting. It alone can consider police wage and benefits demands. It was not known if the police were involved in the meeting.

At a trial in Civil District Court, Judge Richard Garvey ruled the strike illegal and issued a permanent back-to-work order. A temporary order had been ignored by nearly 1,200 of the city's 1,500 policemen.

A 500-man National Guard force was flown in yesterday for Bogalusa. The new substitute police, who relieved guardsmen on duty since Friday, were given arrest powers, but now were assigned to guard city facilities.

Capt. Thomas Albert Sr., 49, head of the 8th District, collapsed and died after suffering a heart attack. Officials said he had been working for 20 hours without relief.

"Like many others, he had been working long hours under considerable stress," said Superintendent James Parson.

Some vandalism was reported. Seven police cars had tires slashed at the district stations, and civilian workers at police headquarters found flat tires and broken windshields.

There were reports of shoplifting and other crimes in the French Quarter, where transients were reportedly throwing bedrolls on the floors of businesses and refusing to leave.

The captains of Carnival organizations decided on Tuesday to cancel all remaining Mardi Gras parades in the city.
Expanding financial aid program eases rising college costs

Editor’s Note: This is the first of a three-part series on financial aid. Today’s article examines the current state of financial aid and outlook, and availability. Tomorrow’s will discuss the process of obtaining the various forms of aid.

By Pat Mangem
Staff/Reporter

For the past six years, costs of four-year colleges have risen at an annual average of six percent, according to the U.S. Department of Education. The cost at Saint Mary’s college increased from $3,500 to $8,000.

In 1973, a student attending Notre Dame could expect to pay a bit more than $4,000 in total costs. This year the figure is up to $6,160, and according to Joe Russo, the new director of Financial Aid at Notre Dame, costs will probably rise again next year.

Recently, the American Council on Education compiled the costs of attending private universities and found that the average would be $6,900 for the 1978-1979 school year. Frost noted that officials at Notre Dame family has four children, rather than an average of four college.

Last year over 460,000 students received a total of $270 million through the SEOG program. In addition, an SEOG grant can be as high as $1,500 a year.

Russo noted that the drivers’ aides have been rescheduled, alleviating the problem.

While the week night break times remain the same, the bus drivers have been able to have days off. Russo, however, noted that the bus drivers are not always aware of the schedule.

According to Russo, the federal work-study program will be paid approximately $400 million next year.

This year, the BEOG program will allow students to borrow up to $2,500 a year, or a total of $7,500 as an undergraduate.

The other major aid program available to students in College Work-Study. In 1978, this federally funded program reached approximately 980,000 students.

Notre Dame has a number of aid programs, including the Basic Educational Opportunity Grants (BEOG), the Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants (SEOG), National Direct Student Loans (NDSL), Guaranteed Student Loans (GSL), and College Work-Study.

The Middle-Income Student Assistance Act (MSA) is significant as it opens up federal grants such as BEOG and SEOG to students from families whose incomes are as high as $25,000 a year.

Russo noted that the drivers’ aides have been rescheduled, alleviating the problem.

With the passage of the “Handicapped Student Assistance Act” by Congress last fall, however, more students will be eligible for aid this year, commented Russo.

According to the U.S. Department of Education’s Student Information Center, there are five major college aid programs: the Basic Educational Opportunity Grants (BEOG), the Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants (SEOG), National Direct Student Loans (NDSL), Guaranteed Student Loans (GSL), and College Work-Study.

The Middle-Income Student Assistance Act (MSA), is significant as it opens up federal grants such as BEOG and SEOG to students from families whose incomes are as high as $25,000 a year.

Russo noted that the drivers’ aides have been rescheduled, alleviating the problem.

The middle-income group is the key to this program, according to Russo, because it provides aid to students from families whose incomes are as high as $25,000 per year.

Russo also noted that the middle-income group is the key to this program, according to Russo, because it provides aid to students from families whose incomes are as high as $25,000 a year.

This year, the BEOG program will allow students to borrow up to $2,500 a year, or a total of $7,500 as an undergraduate.

The other major aid program available to students in College Work-Study. In 1978, this federally funded program reached approximately 980,000 students.

Notre Dame has a number of aid programs, including the Basic Educational Opportunity Grants (BEOG), the Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants (SEOG), National Direct Student Loans (NDSL), Guaranteed Student Loans (GSL), and College Work-Study.

The Middle-Income Student Assistance Act (MSA) is significant as it opens up federal grants such as BEOG and SEOG to students from families whose incomes are as high as $25,000 a year.

Russo noted that the drivers’ aides have been rescheduled, alleviating the problem.

With the passage of the “Handicapped Student Assistance Act” by Congress last fall, however, more students will be eligible for aid this year, commented Russo.

According to the U.S. Department of Education’s Student Information Center, there are five major college aid programs: the Basic Educational Opportunity Grants (BEOG), the Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants (SEOG), National Direct Student Loans (NDSL), Guaranteed Student Loans (GSL), and College Work-Study.

The Middle-Income Student Assistance Act (MSA), is significant as it opens up federal grants such as BEOG and SEOG to students from families whose incomes are as high as $25,000 a year.

Russo noted that the drivers’ aides have been rescheduled, alleviating the problem.

The middle-income group is the key to this program, according to Russo, because it provides aid to students from families whose incomes are as high as $25,000 per year.

Russo also noted that the middle-income group is the key to this program, according to Russo, because it provides aid to students from families whose incomes are as high as $25,000 a year.

This year, the BEOG program will allow students to borrow up to $2,500 a year, or a total of $7,500 as an undergraduate.

The other major aid program available to students in College Work-Study. In 1978, this federally funded program reached approximately 980,000 students.

Notre Dame has a number of aid programs, including the Basic Educational Opportunity Grants (BEOG), the Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants (SEOG), National Direct Student Loans (NDSL), Guaranteed Student Loans (GSL), and College Work-Study.

The Middle-Income Student Assistance Act (MSA) is significant as it opens up federal grants such as BEOG and SEOG to students from families whose incomes are as high as $25,000 a year.

Russo noted that the drivers’ aides have been rescheduled, alleviating the problem.

With the passage of the “Handicapped Student Assistance Act” by Congress last fall, however, more students will be eligible for aid this year, commented Russo.

According to the U.S. Department of Education’s Student Information Center, there are five major college aid programs: the Basic Educational Opportunity Grants (BEOG), the Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants (SEOG), National Direct Student Loans (NDSL), Guaranteed Student Loans (GSL), and College Work-Study.

The Middle-Income Student Assistance Act (MSA), is significant as it opens up federal grants such as BEOG and SEOG to students from families whose incomes are as high as $25,000 a year.

Russo noted that the drivers’ aides have been rescheduled, alleviating the problem.

The middle-income group is the key to this program, according to Russo, because it provides aid to students from families whose incomes are as high as $25,000 per year.

Russo also noted that the middle-income group is the key to this program, according to Russo, because it provides aid to students from families whose incomes are as high as $25,000 a year.

This year, the BEOG program will allow students to borrow up to $2,500 a year, or a total of $7,500 as an undergraduate.

The other major aid program available to students in College Work-Study. In 1978, this federally funded program reached approximately 980,000 students.

Notre Dame has a number of aid programs, including the Basic Educational Opportunity Grants (BEOG), the Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants (SEOG), National Direct Student Loans (NDSL), Guaranteed Student Loans (GSL), and College Work-Study.

The Middle-Income Student Assistance Act (MSA) is significant as it opens up federal grants such as BEOG and SEOG to students from families whose incomes are as high as $25,000 a year.

Russo noted that the drivers’ aides have been rescheduled, alleviating the problem.

With the passage of the “Handicapped Student Assistance Act” by Congress last fall, however, more students will be eligible for aid this year, commented Russo.

According to the U.S. Department of Education’s Student Information Center, there are five major college aid programs: the Basic Educational Opportunity Grants (BEOG), the Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants (SEOG), National Direct Student Loans (NDSL), Guaranteed Student Loans (GSL), and College Work-Study.

The Middle-Income Student Assistance Act (MSA), is significant as it opens up federal grants such as BEOG and SEOG to students from families whose incomes are as high as $25,000 a year.
Houle clarifies "Scholastic" criticism

Dear Editor:

This letter is in reference to an article by Theresa Rebeck in the February issue of the Scholastic. The article dealt with students' responsibility in the Speech and Drama department. Having read my name misspelled by Mr. Rebeck, there are some clarifications I would like to make. First of all, I was mentioned several times in the article in reference to my work as a designer for ALL OVER and several other productions. I found this rather unusual since Mr. Rebeck, in his research for information on me, did not bother to contact me for information nor even informed me that he was using my name. Further, I was not careful to give personal, rapi­dly written quotes to the other persons featured in the article, but found most of the errors to be minor. Our names had been mention­ed on two occasions, in oversight.

Secondly, as a result of her carelessness, Mr. Rebeck mistakenly stated that I went to Notre Dame in 1969. This was an unusual statement since the set did not even cost $3000.00; in fact, the total cost of the show went over $25,000.00. It was, in my opinion, a fairly respectable figure for a one-weekend performance. In an article that was to deal with students taking responsibility, this mis­stated fact is especially embar­rassing.

Thirdly, the general lack of care with which the article was written seems to me to be quite typical of the editorial staff. It is in position of responsibility and mine to point out to the managing editor of and frequent contribu­tor to the Scholastic. Yet the only reason I could find for her not mentioning me about this article was her complaint "Jim Houle doesn't like me" and her subse­quent feeling, "I don't like Jim Houle." It's no wonder that students are not gaining as much respect and responsibility as they would like and that the Scholastic can be called off for a day at this university, and dozens of others, to permit the community to realize what the Viet Nam War became so apparent that. was happening in the world and what should be done.

I think Prof. Joe UVic, Amor, Ibi Amor, Amor, Ibi Amor, ought to chance the issue of justice or simply to de­lude the community where our immedtate future is at stake.

The Sense of Justice

The response lies, I think, in the fact that we can and do make a difference. I have been involved in the civil rights movement the past several years and there were the famous lunch counter "Sixts.

When the term 'justice' comes into public discourse, it inevitably expresses outrage of some person's not getting his due or in one fashion or another, as the "in-history" indicates. Perhaps this second justice teach-in at ND sets the stage for a new era. That this mysterious power is a concrete reality of our lived-world is undeniable and, indeed, one evidence that the "world is a good place," after all. The "sense of justice" taught by Nietzsche can be joyfully grateful that, beyond our differences, there is a "third party," the existence of which we usually take for granted. This is one possible reason why we are capable of making progress in practical disputes, however varied the approach.

Love of Justice

Festivals are not always cheerful, the earliest being that the festival is, before anything else, a money-making venture. Here, while passing through the teach-ins to ask ourselves, "Am I helping or hurting?" the experience may not be very comfortable. Moreover, the time spent is as the expense of some other valued activity. Nietzsche can help us: "The trick is not to arrange a festival, but to find people who can enjoy it." Those most likely to think of the teach-ins as festivals are those who, beyond having a "sense of justice," are "lovers of justice." In the ND community I think we would not be surprised at the large number who have asked themselves, "Why should I be here?" and have offered answers that only the heart knows. I think Prof. Joe EVANS'S Valentine's Day greeting "Ibi Amor, Ibi Gokul should be complemented by Chrysostom's "Ubi casus gaudia, ubi est festivitas: Where love re­joices, there is festivity.

Bazl O'Leary

Professor, Program in Non Violent

Editorials

THE OBSERVER
Box Q, Notre Dame, IN 46556

The Observer is an independent newspaper published by students of the University of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration of either institution. The news is reported as accurately and objectively as possible, but is the opinion of a majority of the Editorial Board.

Editor-in-Chief: Tony Pace
Editorial Executive: John Calcutt
Executive Editor: Karl Longmire
Editorial Editor: Rosemary Malis
Copy Editor: Sue Carden
Editor, Program in Non Violence: Bazl O'Leary

EDITORIAL BOARD

Tony Pace
John Calcutt
Karl Longmire
Rosemary Malis
Sue Carden
James Teague

News Editorial: Diane Wilson
Dame Wilson
Ray O'Brien
Ray O'Brien
Chris Stewart
Diane Wilson
Doug Christiansen

Production Manager: Maril N. Melander
Advertising Manager: Bob Rady

Copyright 1979 The Observer
U.S. Foreign Policy: ‘No policy’ leading to crisis

It was Otto von Bismarck who said, "Peace is not an end, but a beginning." Unfortunately for Karol Llewellyn, it was also true of democracy.

Karol Llewellyn was a giant of American law. An associate of Professor Carl Einstein, and later Dean of the University of Chicago law school (the real "Brass Button," in the movie "Paper Chase"), he was a true giant of the law. Karl Llewellyn was elevated into legal philosophy by his students and his contemporaries.

Or so the Austrians saw it.

Karl Llewellyn, a giant in the movie "Paper Chase" grilling a student (played by Robert Redford) with a question that seemed to be more of a statement. "What is at stake?" Llewellyn said, "Southeast Asia (the Balkans of our time). Who are the major participants? The United States (as Austria-Hungary) and the Soviet Union (as Serbia), and Germany. Who is the mischievous ally?" While the student was thinking about his reply, Llewellyn gave him a hint. "Have you read your history?" The student added, "I have, but I don't see how it relates to modern problems." Llewellyn replied, "Well, you are right. But the same thing happened in 1914. Germany, with its policy of \"no-policy\" contributed to a chain reaction of misunderstandings that led to World War I. In 1914, Germany's \"no-policy\" was the real root of the whole problem.

In 1914, imperial Germany's foreign policy had fallen into a pattern that was essentially similar to that of Germany in 1979. The policy itself is not important in this context, because it is not the policy of \"no-policy\" served to serve the function of \"co-policy\", which in turn was served by substantial gains via the Vienna Agreement, for example, Ethiopia, Afghanistan, and, of course, the destruction of the United States in 1914, its most important additional factor, is the policy of \"no-policy\" in China.

The similarities of Chinese punitive actions against Vietnam

DOONESBURY

by Garry Trudeau

"One of my greatest frustrations at this law conference is that there is no way to think about one's counsel of legal education. The moment itself is usually more subtle than it was in the evidence class; Redmount and I were not doing the job of clearing the sidewalks efficiently. What sense does that make? At some places on campus, the difference is about three inches from the sidewalk level to the top of snowplows. It's a wonder nobody has been trampled or broken his ankles. There hasn't been all that much snowfall in South Bend in the last few days. What have the plows been doing? I haven't seen one down south. But in the garage getting steel blades installed on their plows. I hope our plow doesn't have to do any more work."

[Continued from page 6]
The Tony Award winning troupe, the National Theatre of the Deaf, will visit Notre Dame’s Washington Hall on Monday, February 26, bringing with an 11-year history of singular entertainment. The 14-member company of 4 speaking actors, 10 non-speaking actors, will perform Ben Jonson’s Volpone and Dylan Thomas’ Quite Early One Morning, and adaptations of selected poems and lyrics.

The troupe’s credits are unique and impressive: eleven national tours, two Broadway runs, six tours of Europe and Asia, three films and numerous national television appearances. Acclaimed performances all over the world have evidenced the group’s mastery in visual communication, mime, sign language, music and improvisation.

The speaking actors narrate the drama, while the language of the stage—signs and motions, music and dance—brings vibrancy to the performance. The entire project, sponsored by the Eugene O’Neill Theatre Center and subsidized by the Office of Education, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, seeks to bridge the gap between the world of the hearing and the world of the deaf. On the stage, where insight and emotion play a primary role, the bridge is carefully constructed by a group of talented actors and their dedicated staff of producers.

The company last visited Notre Dame in 1973, when they performed Optimism, or the Misadventures of Candide. Their upcoming performance begins at 8:00 p.m. in Washington Hall next Monday evening; admission is $1.00.

Features

National Theatre of the Deaf

Kathy Ryan

“Eight actors cut across the stage. One is black, another is decidedly overweight, another is close to fifty and wears a toupee. There is a skinny little actor with a drooping mustache, a redhead in leotards, and a voluptuous barefoot blonde. They move with elegance and total authority. A disciplined concentration radiates from the tips of their toes and stretches along the muscles of their reaching arms.”

Saturday Review

“Original, gay, dauntless, fantastic and totally absorbing, nothing clinical about the National Theatre of the Deaf performance this season has been better directed or beautifully costumed and set.”

Brooks/F

New York

“Fully fledged theatre at its most stimulating... theatre at its best. The stage was marvellous, the costumes of great variety, authenticity and richness, all the actors alive and the directions superb.”

The Jerusalem Post

Edited by Chris Stewart

Layout by Cindy McKiel
The strongest asset of the troupe is its alertness; its members seem twice as alive as most other actors. Relying heavily on sight has made them intensely observant. They have to be. On stage they depend on visual cues, so their eyes are always open, their attention sharp. They are acutely "with it." In their daily life they have to extend themselves out of themselves, establish bridges to each other and the rest of the world. All this effort, transferred to the stage, pays off.

"The Theatre Whose Voice Must Be Seen" Tom Prudente

"The NTG generates a respect for the excellence of artistic achievement that extends to become a dimension of love."

The Los Angeles Times

"You've got to remember, that deaf people are born actors. Their lives are a constant struggle to communicate."

David Hayes
NTG Producer
Freshman Year of Studies ‘spotlights’ college programs

by John O'Donnell

The Freshman Year of Studies, under the direction of Dean Emil Hofman, is offering a ‘spotlights’ program to freshmen. This program provides information about the four colleges, to aid freshmen in deciding upon which college to enroll. The programs from each college will consist of three phases. In the first phase, each dean will outline the structure and curriculum of the college and its departments. The second phase consists of college information from the Freshman Learning Resource Center, including printed material and videotapes. The third phase consists of visits to various colleges and departments.

The program has completed the first two phases for the College of Engineering and the College of Science. The program for the College of Arts and Letters is scheduled to begin on Tuesday, Feb. 27, at 7:30 p.m. Isabel Charles, Dean of the College of Arts and Letters, will conduct a discussion period for interested freshmen in the Engineering Auditorium. During the week of February 27, literature and video tapes from this college will be available in the Freshman Learning Resource Center. Vincent Raymond, Associate Dean of the College of Business Administration, will offer a discussion period on Monday, March 5, at 7:30 p.m. in Room 122 of the Hayes-Healy Center. Literature pertaining to this college will be provided during the week of March 5 at the Freshman Learning Resource Center. The third phase of the program—visits to various colleges and departments for open houses, class visits and personal consultations—is scheduled for the week of March 12.

...Shuttle

[continued from page 1] then the student's responsibility to find their own off campus housing, according to Housing Director Edmund Price, and the $50 deposit is forfeited. However, Price noted, room and board money in refund at a prorated amount. One student who was evicted this year complained, "I think the system should be changed. The decision that I should move off campus was made by three men (rectors) that know me only. I would ask the girls to wait and be over as soon as possible. "If it's nice weather and there are 15 of them they'd be safe walking in such a large group, but even with that many during this cold weather they can be picked up by security."

"It has been my policy for the past five years to escort the girls back from Notre Dame if they need it," Kovatch said. "I wouldn't want any of the girls walking back by themselves that late at night."

Hunger Coalition

Benefit Nite at the Nazz
Music: Jim Speir & Co.
Steve Podry & Lu Ann Band
Poetry Reading
8:30—12:30
friday at the Nazz
$1.00 admission

St. Ed's Hall presents the play

"One flew over the Cuckoo's Nest"

Washington hall 8pm

Thursday and Friday February 23 & 24
Admission $1.00
tickets available in student activities office

JPW schedule of events

Junior Parents Weekend is scheduled to begin tomorrow night with a Kickoff Party in the main concourse of the ACC. The following is a list of the weekend's events.

FRIDAY
2:00 p.m. Registration -- LaFortune Student Center till 8:00 p.m.
9:30 p.m. Cocktails Dance -- Monogram Room & Main Concourse of A.C.C. -- registration cont.

SATURDAY
9:00 a.m. Registration -- LaFortune Student Center till 9:30 a.m.
Collegiate Workshops till 11:30 a.m. in individual college buildings.
Coffee and donuts-- no luncheons.
5:15 p.m. Mass -- Sacred Heart, Fr. Griffin.
6:30 p.m. Junior Class Mass -- Sacred Heart, Fr. Egan.
8:00 p.m. Presidential Dinner -- Stepan Center.

SUNDAY
9:30 a.m. Closing Breakfast -- Stepan Center, featuring guest speaker Dean Emil Hofman.

All tickets should be picked up at registration.

...Roemer

Gabe Kaplan's
Having a Ball!

COLUMBIA PICTURES

STEPHEN FRIEDMAN / KINGS ROAD PRODUCTION

GABRIEL KAPLAN / FAST BREAK

A KINGS ROAD PRODUCTION

JACK GROSSBERG / GERALD FRANKEL

SANDOR STEIN / MARC KAPLAN

PRODUCED BY

DAVID SHIRE and JAMES DI PASQUALE

STORY BY

MICHAEL KAPLAN

MUSIC BY

DAVID SHIRE and JAMES DI PASQUALE

.... China

[continued from page 1] from Lan Son, also described alleged Chinese atrocities, saying that in one incident troops stepped on a pedestrian road and executed all its passengers.

The invasion force that struck across the border last Saturday is reported to have penetrated as far as twelve miles into Vietnamese territory along the 450-mile border. The Vietnamese claim to have killed 5,000 to 8,000 Chinese soldiers.
Leader discusses pyramids

by Carol Buzzard

Prof. Robert Leader of the Art Department gave an illustrated lecture entitled "American Pyramids and Human Sacrifice" last night in Howard Hall. Leader compared the great pyramids of Egypt with those of Latin America, emphasizing the use of those pyramids as sites of human sacrifice.

In an hour-long speech, Leader said that the greatest difference between the two structures was that the Egyptian monuments were royal tombs while the American pyramids were altars for human sacrifice.

According to Leader, the Egyptian pyramids were part of a "Necropolis, or city of the dead," whereas the American pyramids were a place where human sacrifices were offered to Indian gods, often the sun. Leader called the pyramids the "ceremonial center of a complex society." He described the Egyptian pyramids as "distinct things, a security system to perpetuate the mummy's life in another world." These pyramids proved insecure, however, and were constantly looted and destroyed. In Mexico, however, the Aztec's and Mayan's built their pyramids to glorify their religious rituals.

Speaking about these religious rituals, Leader told how the priests would stand on the elevated platform plunge a stone knife into the victim and cut out the beating heart to offer to their sun god. The sacrifice would then be thrown down the steep stairway.

Leader said that, according to legend, in order to prevent the destruction of the world, the sun must be fed blood. The Indians believed that the world was renewed in 104 years. Midway between this cycle, every 52 years, they would build a new pyramid upon the old one.

The original structures of the Egyptian pyramids were mathematically precise and covered with a smooth and glossy surface which no one could climb. The Indian pyramids, however, had 365 high narrow steps which forced someone to ascend in a zig-zag fashion, like a serpent.

Leader said that authorities differ on the amount of Indian sacrifices. The numbers range from 200-250 thousand sacrifices per year, including hundreds of victims who were sacrificed each day during major festivals.

Leader concluded by alluding to the fact that today's Mexicans are fervently proud of their Indian heritage. He added that they should not condemn the handful of "frightened" Spaniards who destroyed the Aztec Empire. Their brutality was merely a natural reaction to the Indian's revolting and simplistic acts according to Leader.

Although the temperature climbs above the freezing point, the snow cover remains. [Photo by Dave Rambach]
Large audience hears Lucas lecture on memorization

Tom Hay

Pro basketball player turned memory expert, Jerry Lucas, delivered an entertaining, enlightening, and often bizarre lecture on memorization techniques to a standing-room only crowd at the Library Auditorium last night.

Lucas recounted some experiences from his basketball career, then proceeded to demonstrate how "memory can be fun and easy." While he did not have enough time to present the method in its entirety, Lucas described the basics of his system and illustrated some vivid examples to the audience.

Lucas bases his "substitute word system" on the ability to see, store, and re-create images in the mind. Put simply, this means changing words, symbols, and ideas into mental pictures which are easier for the mind to store and recall. In particular, Lucas recommends making associations with totally ridiculous pictures, because they are easier to remember than ordinary images. He demonstrated his principle by helping the audience memorize a numbered list of ten items, converting each item and its corresponding into a bizarre mental picture.

For example, number nine on the list was the word pig, so Lucas rhymed vine with nine, and, conjured up a picture of vines that grew pigs instead of leaves. "Could you imagine walking around campus listening to all the pigs squealing on the vines?"

Other images included a salami on a diving board, a hen BAking a basketball, and television sets running a foot race. With pictures such as those, the audience passed Lucas' subsequent examination without error--except for number 4, which he forgot to mention. Lucas stated that all memory is based on observation and association. "To improve our memories," Lucas said, "we must improve our observation. Observation is not just seeing, because many things we see, don't register in our minds."

According to Lucas, the best way to help one's observation is through picture association. "They may be dumb, silly pictures, but they work," Lucas claims this method can be applied to "anything at all."

At present, Lucas teaches how to memorize the New Testament in just 15 weeks, adding "the Bible is just a picture."

During his basketball career, Lucas recalled he "knew every play of every team in the NBA, and that helped us a lot." He has also memorized the names and faces of as many as 250 people at a time.

The biggest memorization problem for most people concerns numericals, foreign numbers, formulas, or foreign languages. Lucas contends that anything and everything can be made tangible and picturable in the mind. "The mind is like a television studio," Lucas said, "one of the easiest things to do," claim Lucas, adding "you can make the Morse Code as tangible as an elephant."

Lucas will return to South Bend on April 21 to hold a day-long seminar that will explicate his system, more fully. He encouraged students to bring any memorization problems or chal- lenges to him at that time. The seminar will be held at the Gospel Center Church, 950 S. 5th St. SB. The cost will be $25, including about $17 worth of materials.

...Coalition

We want men and women with engineering or other technical degrees
...for careers in steel operations, shipbuilding, engineering, sales, mining, and research.

Large audience hears Lucas lecture on memorization

Tom Hay

Pro basketball player turned memory expert, Jerry Lucas, delivered an entertaining, enlightening, and often bizarre lecture on memorization techniques to a standing-room only crowd at the Library Auditorium last night.

Lucas recounted some experiences from his basketball career, then proceeded to demonstrate how "memory can be fun and easy." While he did not have enough time to present the method in its entirety, Lucas described the basics of his system and illustrated some vivid examples to the audience.

Lucas bases his "substitute word system" on the ability to see, store, and re-create images in the mind. Put simply, this means changing words, symbols, and ideas into mental pictures which are easier for the mind to store and recall. In particular, Lucas recommends making associations with totally ridiculous pictures, because they are easier to remember than ordinary images. He demonstrated his principle by helping the audience memorize a numbered list of ten items, converting each item and its corresponding into a bizarre mental picture.

For example, number nine on the list was the word pig, so Lucas rhymed vine with nine, and, conjured up a picture of vines that grew pigs instead of leaves. "Could you imagine walking around campus listening to all the pigs squealing on the vines?"

Other images included a salami on a diving board, a hen baking a basketball, and television sets running a foot race. With pictures such as those, the audience passed Lucas' subsequent examination without error--except for number 4, which he forgot to mention. Lucas stated that all memory is based on observation and association. "To improve our memories," Lucas said, "we must improve our observation. Observation is not just seeing, because many things we see, don't register in our minds."

According to Lucas, the best way to help one's observation is through picture association. "They may be dumb, silly pictures, but they work," Lucas claims this method can be applied to "anything at all."

At present, Lucas teaches how to memorize the New Testament in just 15 weeks, adding "the Bible is just a picture."

During his basketball career, Lucas recalled he "knew every play of every team in the NBA, and that helped us a lot." He has also memorized the names and faces of as many as 250 people at a time.

The biggest memorization problem for most people concerns numericals, foreign numbers, formulas, or foreign languages. Lucas contends that anything and everything can be made tangible and picturable in the mind. "The mind is like a television studio," Lucas said, "one of the easiest things to do," claim Lucas, adding "you can make the Morse Code as tangible as an elephant."

Lucas will return to South Bend on April 21 to hold a day-long seminar that will explicate his system, more fully. He encouraged students to bring any memorization problems or challenges to him at that time. The seminar will be held at the Gospel Center Church, 950 S. 5th St. SB. The cost will be $25, including about $17 worth of materials.

...Coalition

We want men and women with engineering or other technical degrees
...for careers in steel operations, shipbuilding, engineering, sales, mining, and research.

Our Loop Course recruiters will be here on March 1, 2

Let's talk about it.

The Loop's the way

Bethlehem

An equal opportunity, employe
The Observer

Thursday, February 22, 1979 - page 13

The Budweiser Ski Sweater

[Top drawer all the way!]

Presenting the official, red Budweiser Ski Sweater. A warm, soft, washable 100% Orlon acrylic creation that looks and feels like a million bucks. But it's just $30.00 postpaid!

I want to buy a Budweiser Ski Sweater. Enclosed is $30.00 (check or money order) for each Bud® Ski Sweater indicated below.

Mock turtle neck only style available.

(Texas and Florida residents add applicable sales tax.)

S (36-38) M (40-42) L (44) XL (46)

NAME _____________________________________________
ADDRESS ___________________________________________
CITY/STATE ________________________________________
ZIP _______________________________________________

(Allow 4 weeks for delivery. Void where prohibited by law.)
The Observer - Sports
Thursday, February 22, 1979 - page 14

... Notre Dame

The Almighty dollar dictates that the game will begin at 8:00 pm in full view of a national audience watching on the Notre Dame network.

FREE THROWS... There was considerable discussion about the selection of Lambeir as player of the game. While he played his best game of the season, it was primarily the heroics of Woodridge that enabled the Irish to build their huge first half lead...

The twenty one points by the Maryland native was his career high...Tr Dept should be in top form for Saturday's contest against the Malverns...Okla.- homa City's second replacement for Indiana on Notre Dame's schedule...The Irish will visit the Chiefs in the near future.

Duke Boxscore

Notre Dame (14)

Duke (21)

The twenty one points by the Maryland native was his career high...

Duke falls to Clemson

CLEMSON, S.C. [AP] - Billy Williams scored a career-high 21 points to lead Clemson to a 70-49 upset of sixth-ranked Duke Wednesday night.

The victory assured the Tigers of at least a fifth-place finish in the Atlantic Coast Conference. The loss dropped Duke to 15-5 in the ACC and knocked the Blue Devils out of second-place tie with North Carolina.

The 21-point defeat was the worst this season for Duke, which had lost five previous games by a total of only 39 points. Clemson is now 17-8 overall and 7-7 in the ACC.

Williams, tipping his previous career high of 20 points per game, scored 12 of his points on driving layups.

Other scores

Boston College 86, St. John's 76. Thursday, February 22.

Wake Forest 76, Maryland 65. Thursday, February 22.

Rutgers 81, Penn State 67. Thursday, February 22.

South Carolina 87, Miami (Fla.) 79. Thursday, February 22.

Georgia Tech 96, Duke 68. Thursday, February 22.

Virginia 80, North Carolina 65. Thursday, February 22.

The next test for the cagers is this Saturday against LaSalle and the talented Michael Brooks.

Molarity

Hey Brenda...darry is outside asking you to go to las vegas to marry him again.

All come on brenda he's a gus guy...look at him in the doorknob.

Can someone please tell me how to get to new york.

ON WHAT HAS A HIGH SELF IMAGE.

Michael Molinelli

Best drinking and deifying pigeon.""
ATTENTION SENIORS: The Senior Arts Festival is a week away, and you've got a week of planning ahead. Don't forget to get your party in gear, because the festivities will begin February 20th at 9:00 p.m. and continue through Sunday, February 21st. So, get your party on, because it's time to celebrate![Image 0x0]

Lost & Found

Lost: My Green Rugby jersey at St. Mary's last Saturday, please give it to the Green Rugby if you find it. I need it for the Ireland game Tuesday. T.H. 1-14-82.

Lost: Gold chain at 825 Notre Dame Avenue. Will pay $25.00 for it. "S.D." 1-17-82.

Lost: At St. Augustine's, Sat., night 1, a pink and white nock-it back neck scarf. Also a white and pink starlong with a white and pink dot. Owner is a male. A.M. 1-29-82.

Lost: Black gopher blanket (happy face). Found laundry. In the vicinity of Sherwood and Grinnell. Call Carol, 225-7215. 1-17-82.

Lost: Lunch box out of the Library in the vicinity of 10th and Grant. If you see this lunch box, give Alice Malo, 1-14-82.

Lost: Five sweaters taken accidentally by Lib. Staff. Return to East Building. Susan Johnson at 1-17-1 if you have any information. 1-29-82.

Found: Gold high school class ring with blue enamel and blue Aztec on it. Call 276-6312 to identify.

For Rent

For a Room

A cheap apartment, available to rent a school year $200.00. Will rent June 1st and move in for $100.00. 922-9408.

Wanted

Need ride to N.I.U. (DeKalb), 1st, 6th, and 11th. Or any time really. Donna and Ken, 923-4204.

Want to surf at N.A. N.O.S. for LaSalle. Call Donna at 294-8402.

Classifieds

Notices

Guy students of Notre Dame/Tulane Men's Glory Information Box 205. Call Fri, February 23-10 pm - 11:30 pm Sat., Feb. 24 at midnight on box at 290-5026.

ATTENTION SENIORS: The Senior Arts Festival is a week away, and you've got a week of planning ahead. Don't forget to get your party in gear, because the festivities will begin February 20th at 9:00 p.m. and continue through Sunday, February 21st. So, get your party on, because it's time to celebrate!

SLAVAK JOS at 26th & Al. Ave., We may never see that ghost in Need again. You're the only one who can see me. Kidnapped was a free ride.

P.S., You're really ought to see someone about your vision. You're seeing double.

THAT IS SHE DREW HER FATE BUT REALIZED TOO LATE HER FATHER WAS J.W. DAVIS WHO ARE BOTH GREAT...GREATER...

NOCTURNE NIGHTMARE JIM 0 THE GREEN FEATURES LARRY CORTELY PHILLIP CAMPUS "CHAIRMAN." 6-12-81.

LOST-

Found:

Lost: My Green Rugby jersey at St. Mary's last Saturday, please give it to the Green Rugby if you find it. I need it for the Ireland game Tuesday. T.H. 1-14-82.

Lost: Gold chain at 825 Notre Dame Avenue. Will pay $25.00 for it. "S.D." 1-17-82.

Lost: At St. Augustine's, Sat., night 1, a pink and white nock-it back neck scarf. Also a white and pink starlong with a white and pink dot. Owner is a male. A.M. 1-29-82.

Lost: Black gopher blanket (happy face). Found laundry. In the vicinity of Sherwood and Grinnell. Call Carol, 225-7215. 1-17-82.

Lost: Lunch box out of the Library in the vicinity of 10th and Grant. If you see this lunch box, give Alice Malo, 1-14-82.

Lost: Five sweaters taken accidentally by Lib. Staff. Return to East Building. Susan Johnson at 1-17-1 if you have any information. 1-29-82.

Found: Gold high school class ring with blue enamel and blue Aztec on it. Call 276-6312 to identify.

For Rent

For a Room

A cheap apartment, available to rent a school year $200.00. Will rent June 1st and move in for $100.00. 922-9408.

Wanted

Need ride to N.I.U. (DeKalb), 1st, 6th, and 11th. Or any time really. Donna and Ken, 923-4204.

Want ride to N.I.U. (DeKalb), 1st, 6th, and 11th. Or any time really. Donna and Ken, 923-4204.

Want ride to N.I.U. (DeKalb), 1st, 6th, and 11th. Or any time really. Donna and Ken, 923-4204.

Want ride to N.I.U. (DeKalb), 1st, 6th, and 11th. Or any time really. Donna and Ken, 923-4204.

Want ride to N.I.U. (DeKalb), 1st, 6th, and 11th. Or any time really. Donna and Ken, 923-4204.

Want ride to N.I.U. (DeKalb), 1st, 6th, and 11th. Or any time really. Donna and Ken, 923-4204.
Swimmers shatter records despite dual meet loss

A wise man once said that records were made to be broken... and how right he was. This season the Irish swimmers have destroyed the Notre Dame record book and rebuilt it with a touch of youth.

Tuesday afternoon's double defeat at the hands of Cleveland State and Bowling Green wasn't a total loss. Three new varsity records were set in the double dual meet bringing this season's total of new marks to 53.

Although the Irish lost to Bowling Green, 79-34 and to Cleveland State, 59-54, coach Dennis Stark was pleased with his team's performance. "We swam well," said Stark. "We had 15 individual best times in the meet, and we just couldn't get the points together."

Sophomore Pat LaFlauney led the record breakers, setting new school marks in both the 100 and 200-yard backstroke and was the only first place finisher for the Irish. His winning time of 2:00.3 in the 200, beat Mark Chiles' year-old time of 2:00.4. Swimming in the backstroke leg of the 400-yard medley, LaFlauney clocked a time of 56.1, beating Chiles' two-year mark of 56.3 in the 100.

"That was a really fast pool," said the modest LaFlauney. "The deeper water there was a big help." Bowling Green's Samuel Cooper Pool is really something special. It is located in their brand new $3.5 million recreation building on campus.

The other record by former Irish swimmer Mike Hilger. This amazing rookie shattered his own record of 10:18.1 in the 1000-yard freestyle. Hilger bested his own mark by 3/4 seconds with his time of 10:14.8. The varsity record in the 1500-yard freestyle also belongs to Hilger. His time of 17:17.1 earlier this season surpassed Brian Allen's two-year-old record of 17:32.4. "Mike is a quiet, hard-working, young man," said coach Stark. "It seems that the farther he swims, the faster he gets."

The list of record holders on this year's squad seems almost endless. In addition to Hilger's and LaFlauney's two records each, five other team members are held by current Irish tankers. Sophomore John Koncsota, last season's Most Valuable Swimmer, holds four of the records, all set last year. His excellent times in the 440 and the 500-yard freestyle and in the 200 and 400-yard individual medley, earned the South Bend native a number of spots in the Notre Dame record book.

Freshman sensation Don Casey owns a varsity record as well, but his story is rather unique. This amazing young man took on the record in the 200-yard butterfly, broke it, re-broke it, and broke it again. His three record breaking performances have shaved off a total of 7 seconds off of Bob Reilly's three-year-old mark of 2:03.4. Casey's best time, 2:01.4, came two weeks ago against Marshall.

The Irish will attempt to salvage a respectable record this Saturday at the Rock when they close out their regular season against Illinois State. Notre Dame, currently 4-6 on the season, will travel to Illinois State the following weekend for the Midwest Invitational Swim Meet.

In team effort

Notre Dame out-classes Chiefs

Notre Dame's third-ranked basketball team put on a clinic that Dr. Naimish would have marveled at, purpling undermanned and outcoached Oklahoma City, 88-60, last evening at the ACC.

Every Irish player fulfilled his role to near-perfection. Orlando Woolridge, with his awe-inspiring "in-your-face" slams, Bill Lamberth and Bruce Flowers, with yeoman duty under both baskets, Rich Branning with his floor game and Bill Hahn holding twenty-seven points per game scorer, Ernie Hill, to 2 of 11 shooting in the first twenty minutes, and Tracy Jackson with a workman-like sixteen points in a relief role.

The contest was never in doubt as Notre Dame spurred to a 7-0 advantage and applied relentless defensive heat in raising their seasonal log to 20-3.

Oklahoma City entered the fray with a 16-9 record fashioned mainly by the fine play of their guards, Hill, a junior, and diminutive Calvin Montgomery. The Chiefs were hurt, however, by the loss of Munice native Allen Leavell, who broke two fingers in a practice session two weeks ago and had six pins put in his hand to speed the healing process.

With Woolridge providing the outside shooting and our press becomes non-existent," City coach Paul Hamlenger lamented. "And, since we couldn't match Notre Dame's strength under the boards, we were forced to play a perimeter game. Our guards went one-on-one too much and it showed in their shooting (Hill and Montgomery combined to go 20-for-55 from the floor) and in the final score." After a basket by Hill cut the Irish lead to 10-8, Notre Dame scored back to score eleven uncorrected points, and never let the Chiefs back into single figures again. A three point play by the Irish reserve, Joe Donlon, and Tracy Jackson added two buckets during the spurt. A twenty-footer by Montgomery, who led all scorers with 34 points, opened the floodgates to 24-12, but then Woolridge and guard Mike Mitchell set the tone for the remainder of the half with consecutive three-pointers. By half-time it was 45-25 and there was no looking back for the Irish.

"The key to the game was getting off to an early lead and displaying early defensive intensity," mentor Digger Phelps noted. "I was pleased with the confidence the squad showed in each other when Kelly Tripucka sprinted his aide slightly and had to leave the game. Also, we played with the consistency we're going to need once the NCAA tourney begins.

Golic prepares to wrestle; NCAA tournament nears

"My knee feels really good right now," explained Bob Golic, parting after a tough wrestling workout last night. "In fact, I really forgotten that it was ever injured because it doesn't bother me at all now. There's no next week. I will definitely be wrestling this week-end."

After setting out the regular season because of football and then an injured knee, Notre Dame's overweight All-American is prepared to defend his Regional wrestling crown in the Western Regionals to be held at Notre Dame on Saturday and Sunday.

"After injuring my knee in the Southern Cal game and then re-injuring it in the CottonBowl, I had two doctors tell me my knee was over really well," explained the Willowick, Ohio native who is Notre Dame's first, two-time All-American since "Moose" Krause.

...but both doctors told me that it was only sprained and that no permanent damage was done," he added, slapping his left knee confidently.

But the 240-pounder has quite a reputation resting on that knee. His overall wrestling record at Notre Dame is 54-4-1, all four of those losses coming to NCAA tournament competition. The National Catholic champion for three years running until he was forced to sit out this year's tournament, Golic finished third in last year's NCAA Finals at Madison Square Garden and is the tournament champion Jimmy Jackson of Oklahoma State in the semi-finals.

The year before, Golic finished fourth in the NCAA championships at Oklahoma.

"I came down here to the wrestling room a few weeks ago and rolled around for awhile, and the knee just didn't feel right," conceded Golic cautiously as he took another gulp of water.

"I really haven't had that much time to practice. Right now I'm working on getting my timing down and getting the kinks out. I really feel more confident since I've started working with Rob Deurer."

Deurer, who advanced to the Nationals with Golic and Dave Olsbola last year as a senior, is now an assistant coach for the Irish. A 17-pounder last year, Deurer has been working mostly with Golic for the last week in an effort to prepare him for this weekend.

Golic has also worked out with Notre Dame's freshman heavyweight Jeff Morris and Tom Zupancik, a 320-pound Indy-car racing immortal on whose body he's wrestled in a tournament before.

"Rob has helped me a lot with my timing and quickness, and Tom has given me some experience against heavier weights and extra strength."

The key to the game was getting the Irish past this weekend. "I really haven't had that much time to practice. Right now I'm working on getting my timing down and getting the kinks out. I really feel more confident since I've started working with Rob Deurer."

"I really haven't had that much time to practice. Right now I'm working on getting my timing down and getting the kinks out. I really feel more confident since I've started working with Rob Deurer."

"And, since we couldn't match Notre Dame's strength under the boards, we were forced to play a perimeter game. Our guards went one-on-one too much and it showed in their shooting (Hill and Montgomery combined to go 20-for-55 from the floor) and in the final score."

After a basket by Hill cut the Irish lead to 10-8, Notre Dame scored back to score eleven uncorrected points, and never let the Chiefs back into single figures again. A three point play by the Irish reserve, Joe Donlon, and Tracy Jackson added two buckets during the spurt. A twenty-footer by Montgomery, who led all scorers with 34 points, opened the floodgates to 24-12, but then Woolridge and guard Mike Mitchell set the tone..."