Brown meets with Duggan

Faculty votes on chair

by Tim Sullivan
Staff Reporter

Speech and Drama Department faculty voted unanimously yesterday morning to require candidate for the Welch chair to submit their perception of the department’s future and a general review of the department, to faculty administrators, and interested students. The Welch chair is an endowed professorship in the discipline of speech communications.

In addition, Candice B. Brown, an instructor in the department, is yesterday with Saint Mary’s President Dr. John Duggan about the various controversies surrounding the selection of the chair position, and about the role of Saint Mary’s in the selection process.

Brown cited the main controversy a “lack of input” into the Welch chair selection. “Not one person who has an academic background has had any input into the selection process,” Brown said. “The possibility that one of the candidates selected by the search committee has no background in speech communications has created serious concern. Many communications departments believe that the discipline may cease to exist if the right person is not selected.”

The search committee consists of the following: Frank Zink and Brown—have contacts that expire at the end of the semester. A half-time communications, half-time film position was proposed to help alleviate this situation but has recently been revived as a full-time film position.

The idea to have the candidates review the discipline is Professor (Reginald) Bain’s.”

Brown explained, “This will give present and prospective students, faculty and administration an open exchange of ideas about the department and the discipline of speech communications. It will give the candidates an opportunity to interview students and faculty, and to visit classes when they visit.”

Candidates are required to give a public performance and lecure on a topic relevant to their position when they visit for interviewing.

The faculty also requested that Brown and Zink compile a paper defining speech communications in terms of the department and the general field, to be sent to prospective candidates. “This will give proper perspective to the speech communications discipline,” Brown explained.

Brown later discussed the various controversies surrounding the chair appointment with Dr. Duggan. “He is a fine, open person who did not feel threatened by anything I had to say,” Brown complimented. “We discussed how some people felt threatened by student reaction to the situation, but he seemed glad to have that kind of concern. He indicated that it was alright for people to be concerned with their discipline.”

We also discussed the way the present job description for the chair has changed from the first narrow specifications submitted by Mr. Welch to the broader position that the traditional communications discipline only.

The chair search committee is composed of Mitchell Lifton, chairman of the department, Elizabeth Noti, of the English department, and Donald Stiegowski, assistant dean of the College of Arts and Letters. All three of the members have degrees in English.

Egypt ready to accept terms

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) - Presidential candidate Menachem Begin said an agreement would be signed this month if the cabinet and parliament approve the draft.

Egypt’s Minister of State for Foreign Affairs Butrus Ghali was asked if he agreed with Begin. “I can answer positively,” he told The Associated Press. “I hope the peace treaty will be concluded in this month.”

Begin said “it would be the duty of the government to respond” if the parliament, the Knesset, rejected the American compromise proposals.

The prime minister said the three leaders would sign the accord in Washington. Begin and Sadat would sign the Hebrew version in Jerusalem and the Arabic text in that of. The breakthrough came in the last hours of the peace gamble Carter began when he left home last Wednesday.

I am convinced that now we have defined all of the main ingredients of a comprehensive peace settlement for the Middle East,” the president said before leaving Cairo.

Begin flew to Cairo, Carter held a final breakfast session with Begin in Israel.

You have succeeded, ” the prime minister said just before Carter left. “We made real progress in the peace-making progress. Now, of course, it is the time of Egypt of peace.”

Sadat’s reply was positive. He agreed to U.S. formulas for resolving differences on three issues: Israeli access to assured supplies of oil, the timing of moves toward autonomy for the Israeli-occupied Gaza Strip and a timetable for an exchange of ambassadors between Egypt and Israel.

Begin said he informed Begin by telephone of Sadat’s approval.

A nationwide radio interview, Begin said parliamentary debate could begin as soon as next week. A vote could come two days later.

If there is a majority vote will sign the peace treaty a very substantial agreement. The breakthrough occurred during an 11th hour meeting [continued on page 11]
Army general urges return to draft

WASHINGTON (AP).-The Army's top general urged yesterday an immediate return to the military draft, and the heads of the Air Force, Navy and Marines said conscription is likely if not inevitable. Gen. Bernard W. Rogers, chief of staff of the Army, called for an annual draft of 75,000 to 100,000 draftees for six years of service in the individual ready reserve - a manpower pool that would be used in wartime to replace battlefield casualties. The four military leaders - all members of the joint chiefs of staff - recommended, as a minimum, resumption of military registration. There was some difference among the officials on whether women should be required to sign up for possible service.

Bayh backs direct election of presidents

WASHINGTON (AP).-A constitutional amendment calling for direct election of presidents will face favorable opposition in the Senate, its chief sponsor and an opponent agreed yesterday. Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., said backers of the measure have the 60 votes to block a threatened filibuster and believe they can muster the two-thirds majority needed to pass the measure. Sen. Orrin G. Hatch, R-Utah, said opponents are expected to move to send the proposal to the Senate Judiciary Committee. "If that doesn't happen, it will be lucky to be nominated," Mr. Hatch said. If the measure passes the Senate, it is expected to be referred to a relatively little noticed House, which passed a similar proposal by a better than 4:1 margin in 1976.

Senate stands firm on decision

The Administration has decided not to change its position on mandatory retirement at age 65, according to a letter from Provost Timothy O'Neill read at the Faculty Senate meeting last night.

The Faculty Senate has proposed that the retirement age be hiked immediately or 70 in order to protect the approx- mate 29 faculty members retiring between 1979-1982. The present policy holds that the retirement age will be hike after 1982.

The Senate concluded last night that the issue should be discussed further by the Com- mittee of Faculty Affairs.

In a report from the Committee of Faculty Affairs, it was suggested that many faculty members be disturbed by an Administration policy which re- quires faculty to hold office in the chemistry, engineering department, 269 CHEM ENGR BUILDING.

Senator Diase stills firm on decision

The Senate concluded last night that the issue should be discussed further by the Commit- tee of Faculty Affairs. In a report from the Committee of Faculty Affairs, it was suggested that many faculty members be disturbed by an Administration policy which re- quires faculty to hold office in the chemistry, engineering department, 269 CHEM ENGR BUILDING.

Issues still unresolved include the possibility of night classes and whether final exams should count for more than one-third of a course grade.

of the Tenth law, outlining all the areas where schools must provide equal funds for both men's and women's sports programs in financial assis- tance, recruiting, and 'other financially measurable benefits and opportunities.'

Also included are areas that were not 'financially measurable,' including the opportuni- ty to compete and practice, coaching tutoring, athletic facil- ities, and housing and dining services and facilities.

One statement contained in the policy interpretation was believed to be the saving grace for many athletic departments. The government stated that differences in spending could be justified 'if the institution can demonstrate that the differ- ences result from non-dis- criminary factors such as the nature or level of competi- tion of a particular sport.'

Included would be equip- ment, supply, travel, living expenses while on the road, more extensive publicity, 'or the cost of other activities that may vary in accordance with the requirements of local, regional, or national competition.'

At some time the government said that they would 'take account of the size and capacity of football by measuring present compliance in terms of actual, rather than potential, participa- tion rates; by recognizing the fact that the costs of some sports are greater than others, and where appropriate, by taking account of the scope of competition.'

Many athletic departments interpretered this language to mean that football would be exempted from the federal reg- ulations. But earlier this month Caliifano clarified the situation saying, 'It was clear that the intention of Congress was to include all revenue-producing sports.'

The exemption of football and other revenue-producing sports has been the main source of discussion prior to the insur- ance of the guidelines, and has been debated extensively in the last few months, which Caliifano

New Approach to Religion

PITTSBURGH (AP) - Among the sin fins and flesh pots along Liberty Avenue, a place called the Store House of Love would not at first seem out of character.

After all, it shares the street with a dozen skin flick houses, massage parlors, sex device emporiums and bookstores. All cost a quarter to enter.

Overwhelmed by the possibility of Students Union record store at Van Wolvlear had been adamant in his rejection.

According to Curt Hench, record sales manager, "The distribution problems were due to the tremendous volume of records being handled. "We only got about 3,500 of 4,000 records which had been ordered," said Hench, "that was the biggest order in their history.

Over 1,100 students participated in this year's record sale, buying nearly $22,000 worth of records. The Students Union sold all records at distributor's cost, and also absorbed advertising and shipping fees.

Managers who did not receive all of their records can have them back-ordered, or can opt for refunds. "Refunds will be available today, tomorrow, and the week after break," said co-manager Jim Clayton, adding, "back-ordered records will also be in the week after break."

Any defective records, save cut-outs, will be replaced free of charge if brought in the week after break.

Bill Roche, Student Union director, said he was very impressed with the size of the sale, and also absorbed advertising and shipping fees.

Roche did not indicate whether he would resubmit his original proposal for the store, but said that as far as he was concerned, "the issue is not dead until it is taken care of properly."

"I would prefer a permanent store, but we may be able to work something else out."

Van Wolvlear, Vice-President of Student Affairs, said he was "dumbfounded" by the volume of sales, but added, "the success of this sale convinces me that this is the way to go. Roche had a good idea."

When asked if he would reconsider a record store in light of the great response to the sale, Van Wolvlear refused to budge from his earlier position against such a proposal.

"I object to student government getting involved in a daily business-type operation," Van Wolvlear said, "I think they can be more responsive to other needs of the students."

Van Wolvlear feels the solution rests with the students. "We have abrogated the contract basis to American, European and Japanese companies April 1. Recently, oil has been sold on a spot basis to the highest bidder. Spot prices range in the range of $10 a barrel compared to the OPEC price of $13.5."

The new defense minister, Gen. Ahmad Madani, told a news conference here that Iran no longer was willing "to act as policeman of the Persian Gulf and Indian Ocean."

Madani accused the Shah of squandering money on the military and bringing in thousands of "spies disguised as foreign experts."

"Except the Shah, his relatives and their agents who should be court martialed, members of the armed forces should be issued with a general pardon for any wrongdoing except those responsible for shooting anti-Shah demonstrators," he said.

The Cabinet is planning to ask the leader of the revolution, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, to grant such an amnesty, he said.

He also said a naval air base being built with American assistance at the port of Chah Barak was not for "old reasons." "The original concept of producing 5 million barrels a day, but then the cost was hiked to $4 billion and then to $6.5 billion. We have abrogated this contract now.

Also yesterday, a rally at Tehran University drew 40,000 young Iranians, who condemned Mideast peace efforts.

Saint Mary’s students petition in motion to boycott Nestle’s

by John Hogan

Students of Saint Mary’s College will have the opportunity to support the World Hunger Coalition boycott by juror boycott of Nestle’s products. Maria Garvey WhC, chair, said yesterday.

The Notre Dame student body overwhelmingly endorsed the recent referendum calling for a boycott of Nestle products by the University. Sponsored by the WHC, the action was propelled by Nestle’s marketing of infant formula in underdeveloped countries. The jury charge that the formula, because it is expensive and difficult to use, exploits the low income and low educational level of the mothers of these countries. Notre Dame Administration supported the decision of the students.

Saint Mary’s organizers are aiming for 900 signatures supporting the action. Garvey said that 700 signatures had already been recorded. She has not determined if the SMC administration will support a boycott if 900 signatures are obtained.

The boycott of Nestle’s products at Notre Dame is now in full effect, according to senior food services director Robert Robinson.

Robinson said that all purchases of Nestle’s products were terminated as of March 6. Items on hand will continue to be used until they are depleted. Approximately ten items are covered by the boycott. Use of Nestle products in university vending machines has also ceased.

According to Robinson, the cost of the boycott has not yet been determined. Bidding is under way to find appropriate replacements for the Nestle products. When the replacements are chosen, the cost can be determined.

Organized labor tests
carter’s wage guidelines

WASHINGTON (AP) - Organized labor, charging that President Carter’s “voluntary” wage guidelines are illegal, asked a federal judge yesterday to stop the anti-inflation program of its only penalties.

The AFL-CIO and nine member unions filed in U.S. District Court, asking for an injunction to stop the government from denying federal contracts to firms that pay wages exceeding the 7 percent guideline.

AFL-CIO President George Meany, a strident critic of Carter’s anti-inflation program, said the threatened penalties turn the “voluntary” program into a mandatory one, which phased out mandatory controls in 1974, can be reinstated, he said.

“It is obvious that the denial of contracts is an enforcement weapon primarily for wage controls, since the price guidelines are for all practical purposes non-existent,” Meany said at a news conference.

The 84-year-old labor leader said Carter has the right to ask the public to “voluntarily do anything the president thinks is right for the country.”

“By when he asks employers to ‘voluntarily’ hold the wages of their employees to 7 percent or less — and then backs that up with the denial of contracts if employers don’t ‘voluntarily’ go along — then he has instituted a mandatory program,” Meany said.

He called on the government to help seek a speedy ruling on the suit, which poses a major legal challenge to the heart of Carter’s program for curbing inflation.

The administration, which has defended the contract denial portion of the program as being legal, indicated yesterday it would be content to let the matter simmer on the back burner for awhile. The government has 60 days to file a response to the suit.

Carter’s program, unveiled four months ago, seeks to voluntarily limit wage and fringe benefit increases to 7 percent a year and to slow consumer price increases this year to about 7.5 percent.

To encourage compliance, the government has said it will deny federal contracts worth $5 million or more to firms that exceed the guidelines.

The inflation rate last year was 9 percent, and government price reports issued during the last two months indicate inflation this year is running above 10 percent.

The AFL-CIO has opposed Carter’s program from the start, claiming it is unfair to workers.

The federation, contending employers are holding down wage increases but not price increases, has called instead for a mandatory and “equitable” system of controls on prices, wages, dividend income, profits and interest rates.

Meany, calling Carter’s price guidelines a “joke,” also said yesterday that the 13.5 million member AFL-CIO soon will launch a nationwide monitoring program designed to blow the whistle on companies that exceed Carter’s price guidelines.

Meany said the AFL-CIO was launching its “Price Watch” program because “there is just no enforcement” by government inflation monitors. He said the government does not have enough people, “to monitor Mobil Oil alone.”

Alumni Association elects board members

Members of the University of Notre Dame Alumni Association have elected six new directors to serve three-year terms. The new board represents more than 60,000 alumni.

Named director-at-large, a position reserved for graduates of the last five years, is John D. Short, director of development for Cathedral High School in Indianapolis. He is a member of the Indiana University Bar Association and has been active in a number of Notre Dame activities since his graduation in 1974.

Others named to the board include Clement J. O’Neill, a San Diego attorney who is president of the Lawyers Division of the San Diego Thomas More Society; Paul W. Kruse, Edina, Minn., principal staff scientist for Honeywell Corporate Technology Center and a Fellow of the American Physical Society; John J. Kean, Fenton, Mich., executive vice president of Quality & Works, Inc. and president of the Notre Dame Club of Flint.

Born 100 years ago

Einstein remains a legend

(AP) - Across the world, people are pausing to remember a man whose name many have known since childhood but whose work most could never understand in a lifetime.

His name was Albert Einstein and he was born 100 years ago today.

His fame is almost as baffling as the theory that catapulted him into history. For he captured the imagination of our times in a way few men ever do and no other scientist has ever done.

He was a quiet, withdrawn child, whose parents feared that he might be backward. When they anxiously consulted Einstein’s headmaster about a child who lagged behind his classmates was beginning to show a remarkable curiosity.

A relative once showed him a compass. Einstein, like any 5-year-old, was intrigued. But he also silently wondered what unseen forces could be making the needle flicker and move - and he later wrote that was the moment he began wondering about the universe.

As a young man at the turn of the century, he was unable to get the teaching job he wanted and became a minor official in the Swill patent office. For years he laboriously wrote reports on everything from valves to primitive vacuum cleaners. At night in a back room of his shabby apartment, he searched for the laws governing nature.

Several years later, rumors of a remarkable series of discoveries began to trickle through classrooms and laboratories. A clerk nobody had heard of was publishing articles that were demolishing concepts of time, space and matter on which science had rested for centuries.

With a handful of equations and formulas, Einstein startled that time was relative, that it existed only in relation to physical matter. If everything in the universe were to disappear, so would time itself. The implications were shattering. Just when many scientists believed they had reached the boundaries of knowledge - as others had believed in other ages - relativity swept them into a vast universe of almost unthinkable complexity.

Einstein also demonstrated that gravity was a field in space and not a force exerted by the earth, that light was composed of quanta or particles, and a dozen other equally astounding revelations.

Even the greatest minds had to struggle to understand relativity. But there were few scientists who did not realize that an age had ended.

By 1921, Einstein's work had been recognized with a Nobel Prize. The excitement and controversy of relativity was to go far beyond the realm of science. Where in 1919 astronomers confirmed some of Einstein's basic premises, newspaper headlines trumpeted that the world would never be the same again.

For centuries men had stared out into the eternal, finding darkness of the universe. And now a scruffy, almost comical little man was quietly uncovering its secrets with a flourish of his pencil.

Einstein became an almost mythical figure whose every moment was followed by a rapt world. In the 1920's thousands of lectures on relativity were packed with curious, excited throngs.

HPC discusses drug problems

by Aileen Lavin
Staff Reporter

Peggy Cronin, Alcohol and Drug counselor at the Student Health Center, met with the HPC last night in Morrissey Hall to discuss her upcoming project for alcohol awareness. A professor from Minneapolis will be coming to Notre Dame April 5 and 6 to conduct sessions discussing the problems of alcohol on college campuses.

"He will explain the process of how college encourages destructive drinking and allows it to happen," said Cronin.

Cronin was encouraged by student care for each other in dealing with alcohol abuse. "Students are caring enough to confront others when they see destructive drinking," she said. "They are making observations and getting concerned enough to talk about it out loud—they are taking it seriously."

There will be four sessions held on April 5. The first one will address the Administration, the next will be addressed to student leaders and the last two will be open to all the students and will include a "show and tell" session where the students will have a chance to role play and actually participate. Crowley's program will end on the next day with a question and answer session.

Prior to this program, students who have already dealt with alcohol problems either within themselves or those of a member of their family will be communicating their experiences through student publications.

Fr. Dunne to lecture on prayer

Fr. John Dunne, professor of theology at Notre Dame, a widely recognized theologian and teacher, will lecture on "The Meaning of Prayer" in Howard Hall today at 7:00 p.m.

All interested members of the campus community are invited to this lecture which is being sponsored by the Religious Commission of Howard Hall.

Kaufman to discuss human rights

Members of amnesty international and other interested students are invited to an informative discussion with Eddy Kaufman, member of Amnesty International's Executive Council tonight at 8:30 in Grace Basement Lounge. Discussion will be open to any question on human rights, Amnesty activities or politics in general.
Tired of sports reporting

All right, enough is enough. We don't want to hear again about these sports reporters making their opinions known about athletic events. Craig Chval's recent article about the ACC tournament on the Eastern regional of the NCAA basketball tournament was the last straw. In it, Mr. Chval expressed his own feelings about Duke and North Carolina, and how those teams' play belittled the quality of Eastern basketball, assuming from the comments of the ACC Holiday Tournament at Madison Square Garden, that anyone #1 - ranked Blue Devils lost to some random, in a game that wrapped up a last place finish for them in their league, had knocked off the mighty co-champions of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

We might add that this is not the first time that Duke has fallen to St. John's this year. In the 1979 ACC Holiday Tournament at Madison Square Garden, the then #1 - ranked Blue Devils lost to some random, in a game that wrapped up a last place finish for them in their league, had knocked off the mighty co-champions of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Out of the bondage of ignorance

Dear Editor:

Because of the nature of this subject and for other obvious reasons, I must request that you publish this letter anonymously.

I would like to express a sincere commendation to the four members of the Gay Students of Notre Dame who displayed such courage and intelligence in appearing on public television last Tuesday and Wednesday evenings (March 6 and 7) to plead their case. It was a giant step forward for humankind and out of the bondage of ignorance, despair, shame and injustice.

I, for one, plan to tell all of my many monetary assets to this campus organization, to be used to educate the Notre Dame community in the beauty, the worth and the plight of these individuals.

Some day, God willing, and I believe He does, a letter like this will not have to be published anonymously.

Liberation...Vigor...Reality in Puebla

If there are many recurrent phrases and ideas which emanate from the recent meeting of Latin American Bishops in Puebla, Mexico, the three which stand out above all others are: "in the reality of Latin America"; "with vigorous energy"; and "liberating evangelism".

These phrases characterize the meeting. Most of the bishops came to the meeting extremely conscious of the real aspect of their area's oppression from within and without, the dehumanizing effect of inequalities, and the rich cultural background of their people. They were energized by the excitement and attention given to them for their work, and encouraged by the expressions of Catholics around the world. Liberators told of the hope they saw in the people of the previous out meeting in Medellin, Colombia, and had new confidence for the future, as their work was being analyzed and discussed as a model around the world.

It is true, also, that in the context of liberation theology, the work of liberating man, freeing his energies, and had swept not only Latin America, but was beginning to be recognized as a model of the entire world. Their ears were ringing with the" sound of the gospel in their lives.

"The Celestial Cow"

"The Celestial Cow" is a semi-humorous, quasi-moralistic teacher who must be ;tressed whenever someone turned over the Queen of Hearts with the low cut "Midway through the high spirits. "...I will smile when they talk of lust-I will scream-Scream! To be you, babe! Phallic! Unconscious! That's what takes my strength away! That happy child, that child of nature, that little whore on my path of misery!"

Compounding the inopportune trauma accompanying this budding adolescent sexual consciousness are the problems of fear and ignorance. Moritz offers some poignant scenes, whereby the viewers share parental concerns about the child's own dren's sexual awakening. In a very comic scene, Wendla presents a moral proponent (Frau Bergman) in quest of the dilemma of "where babies come from."

"I've never loved anyone in the world," replied: "I love the society says sex is taboo, the young ones are anxious to be initiated into the secrets of sexuality whereas the poor, ignorant Wenda the Stork story, Frau Bergman stiffly responds: "Children come from.' PLO aids Amin in Ugandan invasion

estinian soldiers were fighting alongside Ugandan troops in the battle to drive out Tanzanian invaders.

Amin, in a Uganda government radio broadcast monitored in Nairobi, also claimed Israeli soldiers and mercenaries were fighting on the side of the Tanzanians.

There has been no independent confirmation available of claims made by either side.

Amin put the number of invaders at 40,000, double his previous estimate. Most independent observers believe the figure is far lower, perhaps no more than 8,000 Tanzanians and anti-Amin Ugandan exiles.

Amin is believed to have arrived at an equal number of defenders around Kampala, the Ugandan capital.

The radio reported what is said was Amin's speech opening a conference of the 34-nation Islamic Development bank in Kampala.

"No matter what the sacri-ifice, the armed forces are determined to crush the aggressors." Amin said. He describled the enemy occupying part of southern Uganda as "agents of imperialism, racism and Zionism.

Diplomatic sources estimate the Libyans at 1,400 men and the Palestinians were believed to number in the hundreds.

Neutral sources in East Africa with access to top-level intelligence reports said Amin appears increasingly capable of carrying out his boast that he'll win the 4-month-old war that started when he invaded and tried to annex part of northwestern Tanzania.

The sources said it's only stretched a little further. Holy Cross students would have an easy short cut across the lake without getting their feet wet. [Photo by Mark Rice] ized. He is wide awake, but under the power of suges-tion.

Kreskin proved his point by taking 35 people from the audience displaying how his suggestions could react upon them. The funniest example was Kreskin's suggestion of music. He made the subjects have a violent aversion to the music of Chopin, at the same time convincing them that "Chopsticks" was the most beautiful piece in the world.

Rome program to focus on architecture, art

The Eternal City will be the laboratory and inspiration to architecture history from Rome, Italy. "Architecture and Urbanism--The City and Its Art" is theme of this year's Notre Dame summer program. The course will offer a variety of educational experiences through wide-range field excursions and on-site inspection studies. The program will focus on the City of Rome and its environs and include a five-day field trip to Assisi, Florence and the principal cities of Tuscany.

The program is cosponsored by the Departments of Architecture and Art for students or non-students who need not speak Italian and may choose to participate in the field course with academic credit.

The program will be offered in two parts, a five-week session from June 18 to 30 will cover the periods in art and architecture history from Etruscan to Early Renaissance.

A four-week course from July 2 to 30 will cover the periods from High Renaissance to Late Baroquick to point out that for the majority of schools, football is not a revenue-producing sport. Football wars by the NCAA in 1977 said that of the 475 member institutions, only 92 (19 percent) achieved revenue equal to their operating expenses for football. In Division 1, only 43 of the 85 "big-time" schools reported making money. One school reported a loss of $1.2 million.

"I have considered it ironic," said Linda Fortunato, women's athletic director at Northwestern, "that those institutions making a great deal of discussion from basketball and football--like Michigan and Notre Dame--complain the most, while most of the schools in the red from football, which is the majority, are not flagging their mouths and are trying to deal with it as realistically as they can.

And while the debate continues, for many schools the question of how they are going to meet these requirements if and when they go into effect is also a major concern.

Kreskin performs at SMC, displays mental abilities

Jana Shott

The Amazing Kreskin performed in O’Laughlin Auditorium last night before a capacity crowd of about 300. Kreskin is the world’s most famous mentalist and an authority on E.S.P. (Extra Sensory Perception).

Kreskin began by explaining that to prepare for a show he must be alone for an hour. During this period he controls his mind and his muscles to the extent that he can slow his heartbeat to 22 beats per minute.

Kreskin acquainted himself with the audience by joking, “I’m going to follow the show with two things: first a seance and then an orgy.” This brought a great howl from the audience.

The first demonstration of his mental abilities, was a card trick. Kreskin chose three assistants from the audience. A deck of cards was passed among them. Each was told to look at one card and then to concentrate on that card. Kreskin named the three cards chosen. He also caused them to rise from the deck without the use of his hands. This drew exclamations of awe from the crowd.

Kreskin proceeded to spend the major portion of the performance reading the thoughts of people in the audience. For one subject he stated the nickname of the boy’s mother and father. The “check affect” immediately preceded a short hypnotism. Kreskin appointed a committee to hide his paycheck. If he could not find it, he said he would forfeit his pay for the performance. The committee chose to hide the check in a wall decoration above Kreskin’s head. This was done while the mentalist was back stage. After ten minutes of frantic searching, using a chair, he took down his pay to a standing ovation from the audience.

Former cult leader commits suicide

MODESTO, Calif. (AP) - A former Peoples Temple leader shot himself in the head yesterday only minutes after complaining of FBI and CIA harassment in connection with the cult's murder-suicide ritual in Guyana, police said.

Mike Prokes, a former top aide to Temple leader Jim Jones and one of 80 American survivors of the Jonestown tragedy, was reported in grave condition at Modesto Hospital.

Sgt. Dallas Scott of the Modesto Police Department said Prokes shot himself immediately after a news conference.

Reporters said Prokes, 31, read a five-page statement dealing with the murder-suicide last November 17 that left more than 900 persons dead, including Jones.

Additional details of Prokes' news conference were not immediately available.

Reporters said Prokes excused himself and walked into a nearby restroom. They said the next thing they heard was the shot.

In an interview last December, Prokes said the Jonestown tragedy was locked in his mind. "Time can't even heal something like that," he said.

"It's just a legacy of death. I feel the most profound sadness I've ever felt in my life: it will stay with me but I know I can function with it," he added.

Prokes was a former television reporter in Stockton, Calif., and had handled public relations for the Temple six years ago after setting out to prepare an investigative story on the Temple and Jones.

In Guyana, he handled liaison duties with the Guyana government and helped put together a once-a-week radio show extolling the virtues of the agricultural community called Jonestown.

The leading London music hall told Einstein he could name his price if he would top its bill for three weeks. He never replied. On his first visit to America, in 1921, a bewildered Einstein was chased through city after city by wild, admiring crowds. With more enthusiasm than success Congress tried to read an explanation of relativity into the Congressional Record.

The world Einstein was the ultimate absent-minded professor. People took delight when he once forgot where he lived and had to telephone a friend to get his own address.

Yet Albert Einstein was far more than a scientist. An ardent idealist, he used his fame to plead for peace and brotherhood. But even his friends often found the great man of science embarrassingly naive amid the grubby realities of politics. He was, as one friend said, "exceedingly straight-forward, honest and childlike."

His hope that the problems of men could be solved as rationally as those of science was tossed aside by the horror that began in the 1930's. In 1933 he fled his native Germany after the Nazis, who burnt his works and vilified relativity as "Jewish pluck, swept to power.

From America, Einstein broodingly watched Hitler build an empire of despotism, fear, racism, and ignorance. Confronted by a greater evil than war, Einstein warned Franklin Roosevelt that Germany was experimenting with a deadly new weapon. At his urging, the United States began the experiments that culminated in 1945 with the first atomic bomb.

For the rest of his life he blamed himself for having helped give humanity the means to utterly destroy itself. After decades of working for peace, he began to retreat into a loneliness that had always set him apart from others and now deepened.

He confessed to a friend: "I have never belonged to any country, my home, my friends or even my immediate family with my whole heart."

He retreated into his work only to discover that, too, had failed him. The visionary genius that had changed man's understanding had begun to falter before the war and now it dried up altogether.

For the rest of his life he produced nothing of consequence and he was the first to call himself a "museum piece."

Yet the world still revered him. In 1952 he was asked to become Israel's president. His simple refusal mirrored the tragedy of his life: "I know a little about nature and hardly anything about man."
Schlesinger, court block
H-bomb publication

WASHINGTON (AP) - Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger said yesterday in court papers that the publication of a magazine article on building hydrogen bombs "would increase the risks of thermonuclear war."

Schlesinger's affidavit was filed in federal court in Milwaukee to support the government's attempts to prevent the Progressive magazine, a monthly, from printing an article on how hydrogen bombs are made.

Last week, U.S. District Judge Robert W. Warren issued a 10-day restraining order to block publication of the article, and Friday the government will ask him to grant a temporary injunction.

Judge Warren's order says that the article could make available "to foreign nations secret restricted data pertaining to the design and operational characteristics of a thermonuclear weapon."

Involved in 9 slayings
Chicago police arrest suspect

CHICAGO (AP) - Roger Dale Stafford, wanted in the killings of nine people in Oklahoma, was arrested Tuesday night on a Chicago street, a spokesman for the Cook County State's Attorney's Office said.

Stafford, 27, was arrested without incident near a police station on the Near North Side after an investigation that lasted a week, said spokesman Les Linville.

He said police were tipped by an informant that Stafford was in Chicago.

Earlier Tuesday, Oklahoma investigators said they had implicated by statements given by his estranged wife in similar cases in other states.

Arthur Linville, Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation agent, said the statements were given by Verna Stafford, 26, who came to Oklahoma City from Chicago voluntarily as a material witness against Stafford.

Asked whether Mrs. Stafford had given statements linking Stafford to cases similar to the mass slayings in Oklahoma, Linville said, "Yes, along that line, but not to the degree of out cases."

John Warren, an FBI spokesman, said agents were checking into a report by Mrs. Stafford's statements and added, "What we are getting looks good. We don't want to say too much on this now, but before this is over I think this suspect may be good for several others around the country."

Warrants have been issued for Stafford in connection with the killings of six employees of a steakhouse in Oklahoma City on July 16 and the killings of three members of a Texas family south of Oklahoma City on June 22. Police allege he was aided by his brother, who died in a Tulsa motorcycle wreck last year.

Investigators also alleged Mrs. Stafford drove the getaway car in both slayings, but was not directly involved in the killings.

Stafford has been charged with the slaying of only one member of the Suribachi Group, a Chippewa and Oklahoma County District Attorney Andrew Coons said he would not file the other five first-degree murder charges until Stafford is in custody.

Officials have said charges in connection with the slayings of Air Force Sgt. Melvin Lucas, 25, and his wife, also an Air Force student, will be filed in McClain County, Okla., where their bodies were found along Interstate 35.

Linville declined to name the other states where information was being forwarded, but officers earlier had visited Indiana, Ohio, Wisconsin and Louisiana as having "developing interest" in Stafford.

Applications for Commission positions on the Saint Mary's Student Senate will be available in the Student Activities office beginning Thursday. They must be returned by Friday, March 30. All students are welcome.

Collegeium Musicum performs
Renaissance music concert

The Notre Dame Collegeium Musicum, a choral and instrumental group for the performance of Renaissance music, will present its first public performance at 8:15 p.m. today in the South Auditorium, Notre Dame. The concert, part of the Notre Dame Concert Series, is open to the public with a suggested charge of $2.

The concert features several works of Johannes Ockeghem, a composer whose music was highly revered in its day and served as a model for subsequent generations of composers. Works by Ockeghem on Wednesday's program include portions of two motets, from his Collegeium Choir; secular chansons performed by the instrumental ensemble--Melissa Bohl, recorders; Jeff Noonan, lute; and Jeanette Jones, viola da gamba.

Wednesday's program focuses on Franco-Flemish music, both sacred and secular, from the late Fifteenth Century. The concert features several works of Johannes Ockeghem, a composer whose music was highly revered in its day and served as a model for subsequent generations of composers. Works by Ockeghem on Wednesday's program include portions of two motets, from his Collegeium Choir; secular chansons performed by the instrumental ensemble--Melissa Bohl, recorders; Jeff Noonan, lute; and Jeanette Jones, viola da gamba. Chansons sung by two soprano Anna Hampson, with instrumental accompaniment and "Presto sur mot," a renowned paradigm of canonic writing performed by the Collegeium Choir.

Other works on the program include "Nymphes et Muses," a lament on the death of Ockeghem written by the younger Josquin de Prez, secular chansons by busnois and Hayne van Ghjeghem, and an early polyphonic dance by Gaultier.

Bradenton, Fla. (AP) - Dave Parker said a year or two ago that his value would be worth more than any stock on the New York Stock Exchange by the 1979 season.

That's tough to figure since you don't know how many shares person holds, and at what price, but if Parker were listed on the big board he wouldn't be a bad purchase.

Parker, the 27-year-old right fielder of the Pittsburgh Pirates, is reputed to be earning between $1 million and $1.5 million a year for playing a kid's game named baseball.

The 230-pound Parker doesn't try to kid anybody about his feeling for his financial status, but he insists there are other values that make his life rich.

"It's a great honor and it gives me a lot of freedom," said Parker of his reported listing as the highest paid player in baseball. "The investments have secured me for life."

"But I take more pride in the stock as being known as the best player in the game, or one of the best players in the game. I get a great deal of satisfaction out of that," Parker insisted.

"After all, I had to be good before I could get to be rich," added Parker as he held up spring training chokers at Pirate City, the club's spring training complex.

"In baseball, a majority of the managers said I was the best all around talent in the game," he said.

"I think that is what a player really works for. Of course the money for players now is so high and just the fact that they say that I'm the best player in the game has made my value enormous."

Parker claimed that recognition as one of the best talents in the game is what he treasures most. Why not? He readily has a treasure in the bank in case anyone changes their mind.

Pittsburgh Manager Chuck Tanner, who thinks all of his players were born to the Hall of Fame and usually describes them in that vein, finds it difficult to say enough about his best player.

But Tanner reached back in his bag of compliments and came up with one that set the tone.

"Dave Parker is a Roberto Clemente with muscles," said Tanner, comparing the present day star with the late Pirates' player now in the Hall of Fame.

Parker hasn't cracked this list yet, but he's only been the major leagues four full years and his yearly figures are comparable to these former Pirate greats.

After Purdue had beaten Dayton 84-70 to advance to the draw, Rose said, "It would be total miscarriage of justice if our kids have to play and they're giving two byes to New York.

Rose, now and the Boilermakers have to start thinking about Old Dominion, a 61-59 overtime winner over Clemson on Monday night.

"The practices don't get any easier. The season has been so long, Rose said, "Now we have to scramble to find out something about Old Dominion. I do know it's a run-and-gun ball club."

One thing is certain, Rose said, and that's how the Boilermakers will play.

"We always make a concentrated effort to get the ball to Joe Barry," said Rose, "Joe is one of our top-1 center Joe Barry Carroll, who led Purdue with 25 points against Dayton. "We've got a player doesn't manifest that objective, they find themselves sitting alongside me on the bench."

Mental health a key

Irish headed for NCAA crown?

Ray O'Brien

Sunday's victory over Tennessee was much bigger than ND fans suspect. While team supporters were looking toward a speculated matchup with Michigan in the title game, the Irish were playing do-or-die before an arena of questionable 'neutral' viewers. This game might have been Notre Dame's biggest since team became more important down the stretch with less ups occurring.

The Irish seem to have their confidence back. Bill Laimbeer is showing emotion and results like never before. Rich Branning has regained his coach while Bruce Flowers continues his consistent brilliance. Orlando Wooldridge is adapting well to the pressure games while Bill McGuire has carried his team through the first half of the season last Sunday.

The key for Notre Dame lies to the ability of Tracy "Kelly" Jackson to regain his shooting touch. Al McGuire refers to Jackson as the best sixth man in the country. Certainly no team can afford to play without a player of his caliber.

Phelps squad will see more tough games and if Jackson is not hitting his jumper, Notre Dame will go the route of the Tar Heels and Blue Devils.

Last year the Irish made it the final four behind the inspiring play of Kelly Tripuka. Kelly seemed to be lost for the last two weeks of the season but was in vintage form scoring 21 points against the Vols. He must continue to generate that offense and like things happen if 1979 is going to be the "Happening" for the Fighting Irish basketball.

As I see it, UCLA, Arkansas, Syracuse and Notre Dame possess that formula that will take a team to Salt Lake City. From this experience and talent usually show their true colors. So that's the final two as the Irish and Bruins match up for the third and final game of the season. For the last time I MAY BE WRONG, I TELL YOU. NOTRE DAME IN A THRILLER. But again predictions and analysis are cheap--don't look just topical.

Interhall roundup

Stanford, Farley win post-season playoffs

Stanford Hall took home its third interhall championship in five years Monday night, as they own a 4.5 overtime thriller over Grace Hall.

Grace had defeated Stanford in its opening two games, so Stanford fans rated the favorite because of their superior individual talent.

The more physical Grace team dominated play in the opening minutes of the game, but Stanford scored a goal early to 1-0. A 1-0 win.

Throughout the two periods, Stanford played a strong defense, so Stanford could only manage one goal for the rest of the game. Grace would pull even again.

Brian Dean led the Stanford offense, scoring two goals in regulation and then coming up with the game-winner in the sudden death overtime period, as he broke through the Grace defense and beat the goalie on his backside.

Grace fans in January, all we wanted was another Sunday in January, as Stanford coach Kevin Connolly. "We kept improving with every game," he said Monday night. "They made a lot of efforts paid off."

Grace defeated Morrissey to reach the finals, while San and Downouthed the South Quad champion, Dillon, to make it an all-North Quad final.

Women's Interhall II-ball

Farley powered over Bereen Phillips' Saint Mary's 32-21 Sunday night to capture the 1979 Women's Interhall Basketball title. Missy Sorapure led Farley with 10 points while Bereen Phillips' Karen Alg scored the topping with 11 points. Both teams, only 5 and 3 for the year, seemed to catch fire during the playoffs, eliminating the top two seeds.

When asked to comment on the San Francisco Fairlady Maureen Loughney said, "It's fun playing all the year, but it's great to finally win it all."

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) - First, Purdue tied for the Big Ten Conference regular season champion, but then was left out of the NCAA basketball playoffs. Then, the 15th-ranked Boilermakers missed out on one of two byes into the semifinals of the National Invitational Tournament at New York's Madison Square Garden. The byes went instead to Ohio State and Indiana, both of whom finished behind Purdue in Big Ten play. All of which leaves Purdue Coach Rose more than a little irritated.

Last weekend please explain to me the advantages of being the Big Ten champions. Rose’s only answer was, "I am the head coach of a team that was left out of the NCAA basketball playoffs."

Instead of going directly to the semifinals next Monday, Purdue now must play a third round game against Old Dominion at West Lafayette on Thursday. Just in case we do, the Boilermakers will play the winner of the Alabama-Texas A&M game in the first semifinal match Monday night. The two byes were selected in blind draw of the six teams remaining in NIT play.

"If the draw was as it was explained to me, then you back ‘came through again against Rose declared. "First, we win the Big Ten and we go to the NIT. Then we get to play at Old Field (Monday night against Dayton), and now Big Ten’s fourth and fifth-place teams (Ohio State and Indiana) get byes, and we get sendoff by them."
