Knott donates $4 million to campaign

A Baltimore business executive has pledged $4 million to the Campaign for Notre Dame, bring the total fund raising for the University sponsored drive to $152 million-$22 million beyond its original goal.

The multi-million dollar gift was donated by Henry J. Knott, Sr., chairman of the board of the Anundel Corporation, a real estate firm. Mr. Knott made the donation unrestricted saying, "I am leaving the gift's purpose to the discretion of the University administration."

University President Fr. Theodore Hesburgh, in announcing the pledge, stated that the specific use for the Knott gift will be determined later.

"However applied," Hesburgh said, "Knott will greatly advance the scholarships of this institution and honor a man who has given himself and sharing his resources."

Mr. Knott holds numerous corporate leadership posts as well as his involvement with Anundel. He started his career as a bricklayer during the Great Depression and eventually started his own firm. In 1945, he branched out into house building and land and shopping center development.

The Knott family is actively involved with Notre Dame. Francis X. Knott, a son, serves on the Advisorcy Council for the College of Engineering and is the daughter, Marion Knott Beckman, is the executive director of the Notre Dame Museum of Art.

Other donated gifts like the Knott donation are, according to the University vice president for advancement and development, James W. Frick, "rare indeed."

Leftist rebels storm
US Embassy in El Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) -About 300 militants attacked the U.S. Embassy here today, throwing tear gas and screaming, "We will take the embassy!" Authorities reported.

They said U.S. Marine guards and Salvadoran troops used tear gas to repel the invaders who climbed the embassy fence but were driven back before they could force their way into the building. Two Marines were reported to have been slightly wounded.

"They surrounded the embassy building for a few minutes and they may have hurled a Molotov Cocktail on the western side of the building," said embassy spokesman Vitas Dambrava.

In Washington, State Department officials said one Marine guard was wounded slightly when a bullet grazed his head. They said the Marine probably was saved by his helmet. No details were given about the second injured Marine, but officials said his wound was not serious.

There was no report of casualties among the left-wing invaders.

The 45-minute attack occurred at midday, the Washington officials said, and Salvadoran soldiers responded quickly to help the Americans and fired on the attackers. Dambrava said the Marines did not directly return fire.

"The Marines did not respond to the attacks," he said. He reported there was some gunshot damage to the embassy.

Ambassador Frank Devine was having lunch at his residence at the time and the ranking officer on duty was deputy mission chief Richard Horrath.

The U.S. compound occupies an entire block and is surrounded by a high wall and thick metal fences.

Reporters at the vicinity said they saw some helmeted Marines on the embassy roof but they could not determine if they were armed.

The embassy was immediately closed and incoming telephone calls were not answered. Leaflets scattered on the sidewalk said, "Down with imperialism" and "We want to live in peace."

At least 24 persons were killed and some 100 were wounded Monday in gun battles between security forces and leftists in a street demonstration.

There were reports that leftist activists, who held 12 hostages in the ministries of

Capacity crowd attends
Anderson addresses audience on many issues

by Mary Ellen Woods

Jack Anderson, nationally syndicated columnist, addressed a capacity audience last night in the Library Auditorium. Earlier in the evening he held a press conference before local television stations.

Anderson's flowing remarks touched on a variety of subjects ranging from Jimmy Carter and his chances for reelection to foreign policy and the current situation in Cuba. According to Anderson, Carter has lost the confidence of the people, and as a result, the American people are in a state of apathy.

Americans are not listening to the president, and as a result the Congress is not either, Anderson observed.

Although he noted that Carter can use the powers of the presidency in his attempts for reelection, Anderson questioned whether this will be enough to secure the nomination for Carter.

Commenting on the polls, Anderson stated that he felt that Sen. Edward Kennedy would get the nomination. Kennedy, according to Anderson, does have problems," acknowledged Anderson, specifically pointing to his liberal voting record and Chappaquiddick.

The fact that Chappaquiddick may defeat Kennedy, Anderson is quick to point out that it was not the same as Chappaquiddick that has made Kennedy a responsible politician.

"It is after Chappaquiddick that Kennedy really grew up," Anderson said. "In building the playboy image, he took a more active and responsible role in Congress." Anderson turned to the Republican party, suggesting that the best man for the presidency was Alexander Haig.

Haig served as Chief of Staff during the "final days" of the Nixon administration. Because President Nixon was "preoccupied with Watergate," Haig was in charge, running the country, Anderson observed.

"He ran the country better than Carter, then that Carter is now," Anderson stated.

Anderson offered some remarks about President Carter.

"Jimmy Carter is a good man. He wants to do what is right for the country, but he lacks the experience." Had he placed, experienced people around him, Anderson speculated, he might have been a better president.

As an example, Anderson pointed to the economic outlook. He feels that Carter does not understand the present situation, nor has he done anything to alleviate the problems of increasing unemployment and rising inflation.

Following a brief discussion of our foreign policy in respect to Cuba, in which he compared Carter's reactions to those of John Kennedy in 1963, Anderson opened the floor to questions. He adeptly fielded queries on such subjects as SALT II, the current coup in Mexico, the Moscow Summit of 1985, and the possibility of Ted Kennedy being assassinated.

"Congress," said Anderson, "is split because they and the

due to policy disagreement

Disgruntled with the behavior of Student Government's Board of Commissioners, Curt Hench said yesterday he has resigned his position as SG Services Commissioner. Hench listed policy disagreements and difficulties with board members as reasons for his resignation.

According to Hench, members of the board were difficult to work with because they fight among themselves rather than working for the student body. He said that the board was caught up in "arbitrary and petty things."

"The Judicial Council should be trying to strengthen students' rights," the Hall Presidents Council should work for better dorm conditions. Instead, Hench claimed, "they are trying to have fun playing with the power they have."

Hench also expressed displeasure with the board's abolition of Student Union's complimentary ticket policy, a policy whereby the SU has occasionally provided free concert tickets to its volunteers.

The board decided that the SU, being a volunteer organization, should expect no such compensation. However, Hench said, the board told the SU that it would be allowed to sponsor dinners for its members as compensation.

"Either we're a volunteer organization with compensation or we're not," he said last night.

Hench said that while he is not aware of any pending resignations, no board member has indicated any change in position. However, he indicated that the two statements were contradictory.

Ex-policemen receive light sentence in murder case

HOUSTON (AP) - A federal judge who was ordered to resentence six ex-policemen convicted of civil rights violations in the death of a young Mexican-American student to a year and a day in prison has changed his mind - one of the lightest possible prison terms for the felony conviction. They could have been sentenced to life imprisonment. U.S. District Judge John Nixon made the change at the sentencing. Originally, Sterling had sentenced the former police officers to a 10-year suspended sentence, with five years probation, for the felony count and one year in prison on a misdemeanor count. But the Justice Department appealed the sentence on the felony count, and the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that federal law barred probation sentence on the charge. The case began in May 1977, when the body of Joe Campos Torres, 23, was found floating in the dusty waters of Buffalo Bayou, which flows near the police headquarters in downtown Houston. Torres had been arrested a few days earlier during a disturbance at a tavern and was in custody before he ended up in the bayou. The defense said he jumped or fell; prosecutors said he was pushed. Convicted of the civil rights violations were policemen Terry Benson, 27, Stephen Orlando, 22, and Joseph J. Janish, 22. Benson now is a carpenter, Orlando an electrician, and Janish manages a fast-food restaurant and attends college. They will remain free on bond pending appeals, if any.

Chrysler reports worst loss in corporate history

DETROIT (AP) - Chrysler Corp. said yesterday that it lost $460.6 million in the third quarter - a loss for the single quarter that was larger than any reported by a U.S. company in an entire year. The huge deficit, which had been expected among industry observers, may help the company's campaigns to raise financial aid from the federal government. In 1975, Singer Co. reported $451.9 million in losses - the worst corporate history.

Tornado tears through Oklahoma, killing two ARDMORE, Okla. (AP) - A tornado touched off by a prewinter storm ripped the rural community of Newport, Woodward county. Tuesday morning, killing two persons and injuring three others, authorities said. The two who died were in a mobile home, officials said at the scene. Another person was in a mobile home where the tornado was reported. A half-dozen homes were reported damaged in the area, about seven miles northwest of Ardmore. Heavy wind damage also was reported at the nearby community of Lone Grove. Mike Bracken, a Highway Patrol dispatcher, said the tornado touched down about two miles south of the Newport-Woodward area, some seven miles northwest of Ardmore.

Weather

Cloudy and windy today with a 40 percent chance of rain during the afternoon to early evening. Highs in the upper 40s. Windsy and rainy tomorrow with thunderstorms possible, and highs in the low and mid 60s.

For juniors
Magazine internships open

College juniors working toward careers in magazine journalism are invited to apply for the 14th annual Magazine Internship Program, sponsored by the American Society of Magazine Editors (ASME) with a grant from the Magazine Publishers Association (MPA). Interns will spend the summer of 1980—from June 11 to August 22—on individual assignments to the editorial staffs of participating consumer magazines and business publications in New York City and elsewhere. They also will have the opportunity to meet with a variety of magazine executives, editors and writers for informal weekly discussions on magazine publishing.

Forty-seven students were selected for last year's program and were assigned to such academic courses in journalism, participation in campus journalism, previous summer internships at magazines or newspapers, and published articles in magazines or newspapers. For further information and application forms, students should contact the office of career counseling and placement, or write directly to Mr. Robert E. Kenyon, Jr., director, Magazine Internship Program, ASME, 575 Lexington Avenue, New York, New York 10022. Phone: (212) 752-8035.

The deadline for receipt of applications is December 15, 1979.

Carter names Judge Hufstedler as new secretary of education

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, citing Shirley M. Hufstedler, a federal appeals court judge, to be the nation's first secretary of education, but held out the possibility yesterday that she may be named to the Supreme Court if a vacancy occurs there.

The President described Mrs. Hufstedler, 54, as "one of the best minds in the country," and as someone "who could take a new fresh look at the way we educate our children."

Carter's decision was reached Monday after he met the California jurist for the first time. Deputy White House press secretary Rex Granum said it was understood in that meeting that Mrs. Hufstedler "will not be precluded" from consideration for a high court post.

There is no vacancy on the bench, but Justice William J. Brennan Jr., 73, confirmed last week that he may retire in June or July at the end of the court's current term.

By choosing Mrs. Hufstedler, who has been a vocal supporter of the proposed Equal Rights Amendments, Carter may boost his political standing among women. His aides have criticized Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., Carter's rival for the Democratic presidential nomination, as failing to place women in positions of responsibility on his staff.

But the nomination could also give the President political difficulties because he was under pressure to name a member of a minority group to the post. Carter, in a statement read to reporters by Granum, said that Mrs. Hufstedler, a member of the Ninth U.S. Court of Appeals and one of the best known women on the federal bench, "...is deeply committed to the quality of education and enjoys my full confidence and support."

Granum, explaining Carter's decision to name someone whose experience was outside of the education field, said: "We thought it important that he bring in somebody who could take a fresh, innovative look at education. He feels very good about her managerial talent and the fresh outlook."

As a Cabinet secretary, Mrs. Hufstedler will be paid $69,630 annually. Her nomination, which must be approved by the Senate, leaves Carter with one remaining Cabinet vacancy, that of Secretary of Commerce. Juanita Kreps is resigning from that post.

Mrs. Hufstedler, whose reputation is that of a liberal-to-moderate Democrat, will head the second new major federal agency in the Carter administration, with a budget of $14 billion and about 17,000 employees. In 1977, Carter created the Department of Energy.

Mrs. Hufstedler lives in Pasadena, Calif., with her husband, Seth M. Hufstedler, a prominent California attorney. She was appointed to the appeals court in 1969 by President Lyndon B. Johnson, becoming the second woman to be named to a circuit court position.

The legislation creating the Cabinet-level Education Department was signed into law by Carter on Oct. 17, setting in motion the bureaucratic machinery that will lead to establishment of the department.

HPC finalizes budget

by Jana Schutt
Staff Reporter

The HPC held a short meeting in Farley Hall last night. Business was brief, with only a short address by John Calloway, An Tostal chairman, on the agenda.

Calloway reminded the presidents that it is time to pick a hall chairman for An Tostal 1980. He urged the presidents to get involved themselves as well.

It was announced that the HPC budget for this academic year is now firmly set at $14,040. After subtracting $200 for the council's contingency fund, the council has a total of $13,840 to use for allocations to the dorms.

Don Ciancio, executive coordinator of HPC, informed the council that budget hearings for the HPC allocations will be held this Thursday from 7:45 p.m. in the Planner common room.

The recycling program initiated by the HPC in conjunction with InPIRG was discussed by InPIRG representative Jim Jones. Jones announced that a station wagon would collect the newspaper and aluminum cans every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday between 12:45-1 p.m. Pick-up spots are to be organized for each dorm participating.

HPC chairperson Ellen Dorney closed the meeting with a reminder that the women on campus should exercise caution when walking across campus at night.

"An escort is available from Security," Dorney said. This concern is prompted by the recent sexual assaults reported on campus.

Counseling Center holds workshop

SMC BoF G stresses rape awareness program

by Mary Kay Laydon

The Saint Mary's Board of Governance met last night to discuss recent issues regarding the St. Mary's community, particularly security problems surrounding the alleged rape of two female students Oct. 20.

The Board discussed the development of an effective rape awareness program combining the efforts of the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's security departments.

Suggestions were made to improve security on the road between Notre Dame and Saint Mary's, such as increased lighting, installation of direct telephone lines to security, increased patrol of the area, and a volunteer student escort service along the road.

Saint Mary's has placed a bid with the College Bowl Committee to hold the national competition in the College, according to Mary Lavery, director of student activities. Should the College win the bid, it would mean $90,000 to $100,000 of advertising to the school.

The Chemistry Club and the faculty are sponsoring a series of debates and lectures on energy at noon everyday this week except Thursday, according to Pia Trapani, Student Body president. The debates are being held in the Wedge Room of the SMC dining hall.

The board introduced two new members: Erin Flood, the freshman representative, and Joan McCarthy, the athletic commissioner.

University simplifies future registration processes

Justice committee outlines tenure policy

by Mike Shields
Newspaper Editor

Faculty representatives and students outlined and criticized the status of tenure at Notre Dame during a conference held last night in Hayes-Healy. The conference was sponsored by the University Committee for Justice in Education.

Peggy Osberger, a Government major, accused the University of sexism for failure to grant tenure to women faculty members. She cited the statistic that 5 of 9 women eligible last year, received tenure. She also noted that only 40 men are on the faculty.

She accused the University of having a "revolving door" policy that excludes women from tenure positions.

This policy deprives students of the opportunity to learn from qualified teachers, she said.

Osberger also found fault with the University's confidential tenure decisions. Professors do not know why they were turned down, she said. She called for the University to treat all tenure decisions impartially.

Vincent Delatte, professor of History, outlined the tenure system as defined by standard of the American Association of University Professors. He said tenure is not a guarantee of lifetime employment, but professors cannot be dismissed without good reason and due process. He stressed the fact that tenure does not insulate a faculty member from an accounting of his actions.

DeLatte said tenure committees are not unquestionably excellent, and added that they could be dissuaded in the case of financial crisis or a decline of enrollment in his department.

"Tenure should maximize the academic freedom of professors, but will not lead to mediocrity as a result of complacency," he said.

"English Professor John McDonnell told the audience that academic freedom is too important to be left to tenure committees.

He said the road to tenure becomes a principle if it is inseparable to the highest goals of knowledge and wisdom.

He added that tenure tends to promote an intellectual conservatism, and can leave professors "psychologically stuck at an institution."

Robert Burns, associate dean of Arts and Letters, discussed the progression of faculty development in light of tenure.

He gave a brief outline of the history of faculty development, and divided his discussion into faculty development in light of tenure as a personal and professional improvement opportunities for faculty members.

Professional development is seen in improved research and publication, while personal development is evidenced psycho.

Class of ’82 announces events

by Mary Agnes Carey

Stephan Center is the site for this evening’s “Monster Mash,” a Halloween event co-sponsored by the Notre Dame-Saint Mary’s Sophomore classes from 9:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. Admission is $1 in costume and $2 if not, with soda, pretzels, and candy corn included. A DJ will be featured but “no disco music is allowed,” according to sophomore class president, Steve Bruegger. According to Bruegger, although the sophomore classes are sponsoring the event, anyone is welcome. Participants can bring their own albums to be played and a costume contest will be featured with prizes to be announced.

Bruegger explained that this event is one more instance of the surplus money for the class. “Since no alcohol is appropriated for class activities, we’re already in debt,” he stated. Although previous activities, such as an ice cream social, a picnic, and showing of the movie “Dog Day Afternoon,” received good turnouts, the receipts were not enough to produce a profit.

“the ‘Monster Mash’ is another chance for the class to make money,” Bruegger commented.

Future activities for the sophomores include a formal in late February; sponsorship of a comedy film festival featuring the Marx Brothers, Abbot and Costello, and Laurel and Hardy, and a computer Dance.

Phila. Future Judge dismisses suit

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - A federal judge yesterday dismissed the major part of the Justice Department’s unprecendented police brutality lawsuit against the city of Philadelphia, its mayor and 15 top officials.

The action by U.S. District Court Judge J. William Ditter, Jr. means "the case is over," said City Solicitor Sheldon B. Albers.

Ditter said that the U.S. attorney general "has standing before this court when he seeks to advance the civil rights of third persons" without congressional authorization.

The judge said that there may be instances in which "some civil rights violations cannot be effectively redressed by the victim." In that case, Ditter said Congress may find it appropriate to enact legislation permitting the attorney general to bring such suits.

Ditter, however, let stand a portion of the suit dealing with alleged discrimination on the basis of race, color or national origin in federally funded police programs.

The civil complaint, filed in August, alleged that the defendant’s condoned widespread police abuse that deprived citizens of their constitutional rights.

The complaint, which was personally signed by then-Attorney General Griffin B. Bell, alleged that police abuse was "automatic, unreasonable or shocking to the conscience."

Mayor Frank L. Rizzo, a policeman for 28 years before he became the city’s mayor in 1972, had stoutly defended the 8,085 officers and 900 policemen in the nation’s fourth largest police force.

Rizzo blamed the lawsuit on politics, a claim that was denied by the Justice Department.

At the time the complaint was filed, a Justice Department official said authorities believed they had evidence of intimidation of people by Philadelphia policemen and the covering up of the intimidation by their superiors.

Holding with interest the recent debate over the supposed conflict of ROTC with Christian values and as former members of Naval ROTC, we would like to comment on what we see as an offshoot of Christian values.

There has been an increased public concern in the past year over the role of ROTC in society. This concern stems from the belief that ROTC is not true to Christian values.

The concern is not unfounded. ROTC is an organization that has its roots in the military and its values are often in conflict with Christian values. However, it is important to recognize that ROTC is not the only organization that faces this challenge.

Christian values are not always consistent with the values of other institutions, such as the military. It is important to remember that the military is not the only organization that carries out its responsibility.

The question we must ask ourselves is: "How can we be true to Christian values while also being true to our military service?" This is a complex issue, and there are no easy answers.

However, we believe that there are several things that can be done to address this issue.

First, it is important to recognize that ROTC is not a perfect organization. It is not perfect, and it does not always live up to its ideals.

Second, we believe that it is important to work towards improving ROTC so that it can better reflect Christian values. This can be done by increasing the number of ROTC cadets who are true to their faith, and by providing training that helps ROTC cadets understand and incorporate Christian values into their daily lives.

Finally, we believe that it is important to continue the debates over ROTC and its role in society. Only through these debates can we hope to find solutions that address the concerns of both ROTC cadets and the larger community.

In conclusion, while we believe that ROTC is not true to Christian values, we also believe that it is possible to make changes in the organization so that it can better reflect Christian values.

We would like to end by encouraging all ROTC cadets and their families to continue to work towards this goal.

Sincerely,

Student Activities Committee
a small group of other Americans had moved to the Western Nation establishment. They come from south of the Rio Grande, they are bringing to American fiction a quality of imagination now missing from the old U.S. circle writers preoccupied with black humor, gray sex and white gore. They use to know everything, the causes of man's tragic reaction beyond his group, the mysteries of time, space and consciousness, the alchemy of their art style, their flashes brilliance and in pursuit of greatness is 19 year old Carlos Fuentes....

Webster Schott in 1967

Born in 1928 in Mexico City, Carlos Fuentes has felt the impact of Cuban revolutions - one political, the other literary. The Mexican Revolution of 1910 had profound and deeply penetrating aftershocks throughout all aspects of Mexican life - religious, economic, and social, as well as political. The literature of a country caught up in such an upheaval cannot be expected to escape the consequences tantamount to the threats. Carlos Fuentes, who will speak in the Library Auditorium tomorrow night at 8, responded to the various pressures of his environment in political activism, but also in his literature. Keith Botsford states that it is not a "LEFTist" Fuentes who writes novels defaced by Marxism, as Time has claimed; rather, it is a Fuentes who transposes the imaginative politics of his novels to the real world. Fuentes' father was a career diplomat, so Fuentes spent much of his youth traveling and experiencing different cultures. It is probably that experience that enables him to perceive his own culture sufficiently. Like his father, the author became involved in affairs of State, serving as Minister of Foreign Affairs and on the International Law Commission of the United Nations. As recently as 1969 Fuentes was denied entry to the United States and labeled "an undesirable alien," presumably, Fuentes' political (Marxist) ideology.

It was only in the early 1960's that American critics and the reading public took notice of Latin American literature. It then became fashionable to quote Borges and Cortezar's "Las Basbas del Diablo" was made into the film "Bigger Than Life" and Fuentes was the person to consult on Mexican culture. The author has written many scholarly works on Latin-American politics and culture. Among these is "Hands on the Universe." Fuentes has also penned several volumes of poetry and many significant novels.

In The Death of Artemio Cruz, there is evidence of a disillusionment with the revolution and a sense of betrayal of the principles that propelled it to a successful conclusion. According to David Gallagher, in Mexico, "he has been particularly energetic in his denunciation of what seems to him the inadequate and exaggerated politics of his "unisonal" revolution. One oligarchy or another rules Mexico now. Carlos Fuentes is one of Mexico's most distinguished writers, a possessor of an enviable international reputation, and unquestionably an artist of the most serious intent.

Frank Conroy

Ward currently writing and publishing a book entitled, God In An Irish Kitchen. In addition, Ward wrote two books on the Irish settlement of Melrose, Iowa, in which he grew up, Hiding Up the Hills and Concerning Mary Ann. The latter of which was a biography of same community as the first, except told as seen through the eyes of one woman. It was in 1921 that the young Leo R. Ward first set foot on the grounds of the University of Notre Dame. He had been a rural farm boy from Iowa corn country, Ward had spent the four previous years as a member of the Holy Cross seminary. He had decided on the vocation as priest and educator. After his success and failures, all in perspective. In philosophy, a professor teaches his own theory of life and in the process uses himself. This involvement can produce strong resentment in the classroom if not accompanied by a respect for everyone's viewpoint. Father Ward, however, possessed the respect for his students, which was conducive to the creation of a healthy classroom atmosphere.

A man of great interests, Father Ward has devoted his life to his vocation as priest and educator. In 1959, after travelling throughout the United States gathering information on the Irish as an entity in itself, he published a book entitled, The Living Parish. Ward surveyed the developments which were taking place in the parishes at that time, including their social life and worship, the Legion of Mary, Catholic Action Programs, family life and the community.

For decades a wise and beloved teacher of philosophy and writing, Father Ward is currently writing and compiling a collection of poems on the lives of several people, all of whom appeared unable to attain a goal and yet did. He hopes someday to add this book to the list of his books and poems already published.
Well, the big game of '79 has come and gone. USC vs. ND. Poetic retribution, according to anyone's story... THE EVENT. A gridiron happening of cosmic proportions. The gridiron people who take their game seriously, it's usually the game of the century. Someone has to lose. Someone has to win. Someone has to become the most famous person of the decade; more rarely, it's a the '66 ND-Missouri game, a the '77 Ohio State-Notre Dame game. Where does one go from there? The old man in the Millennium... Epoch? History of the World? Might of the football field. The power of the numbers! It's usually the game of the year. My circumscribed view is that the game is the game. It's the game of the year. As the years go by, the abbreviations are lost. Us and Them. To being consciously aware of history will always be in the White areas. It will always be in the White areas, because the Black areas cannot be understood, unfortunately, except in terms of race.

Race affects the heroes, the stars, theElectricity in the air, the South African cultural life; political, social and economic. The South African country in the world today, unique because in the face of world-wide condemnation, the government remains committed to an openly racist system. There are approximately 25 million people in South Africa; 18 million Africans, two million Whites and two million Asians and people of mixed descent. The five million Whites are in exclusive control of the political and economic power in the country. The last few years have seen a boom in the South African economy, which is complex and industrialized. The fruits of this boom have been reaped only by the White minority which enjoys the cultural life and living in the world. But the economy is built upon cheap Black labor and an ever growing army of underpaid, underemployed and unemployed people. The government has adopted and enforced the apartheid system. Apartheid disenfranchises all things to different people. To the Whites it means the good life, to the Blacks it means repression and exploitation. It means the destruction of Black culture and social organization.

The death of Nelson Mandela, the founder of the African National Congress, has left a void in the struggle against apartheid. The question is, how can the Black communities continue to fight for their freedom in the absence of a strong leadership? The answer lies in the ongoing struggle for the release of all political prisoners and the end of the system of repression and violence.

The struggle for freedom is not only a battle against the South African government, but also a fight for equality and justice. We must continue to support the anti-apartheid movement and to speak out against the injustices of the system. Only through unity and solidarity can we hope to achieve a better future for all South Africans.

Vietnam's defense minister, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, was quoted in the Czechoslovak newspaper Rude Pravo as saying the United States and China are arming remnants of the ousted Pol Pot and Lon Nol forces in an unnamed neighboring country for an attack on Cambodia.

The government of Lon Nol was toppled by the Khmer Rouge forces of Pol Pot in 1975. The current pro-communist regime in power is headed by Gen. Heng Samrin.

In a 1978 interview published in the Communist Party newspaper, Giap is quoted as welcoming no Vietnamese counter-offensives under way in Cambodia. He said only small groups of Pol Pot supporters remained and even those would be liquidated soon, the paper said.

Giap, who is on a visit to Czechoslovakia, did not say in which country the arming of the ousted forces was going on.

Interhall Hockey opens up to OC

The Notre Dame-Saint Mary's Right to Life organization will sponsor a 27-hour dance-a-thon beginning at 7 p.m. Saturday in the LaFortune Ballroom.

The couple collecting the highest amount of pledges will be awarded cash to be used toward the purchase of concert tickets for any event at the ACC this year. A portable barbecue will also be raffled off at the end of the dance. Each dancer will receive one free raffle ticket.

Each participant must have a partner, and partners must register and leave together. A couple may dance up to 24 hours, but once they leave, they cannot resume dancing at a later time. There will be a five-minute rest period each half hour.

Pledge sheets and rules are available from Ed Kinal (3050), Mary Anne Hughes (1327), and Helen Evans (4956). Pledged money must be collected and returned by Nov. 16.

Registration materials available

Registration materials for next semester will be available for all Committee on Academic Progress students this week in 146 O'Shaughnessy between 8 a.m. and noon and between 2:30 and 4:30 p.m. Students in C.A.P. should pick this information up as soon as possible.

Right-to-life sponsors dance-a-thon

Off campus students interested in Interhall Hockey should sign up on the O-C roster in the Interhall office in the ACC before Wednesday, Nov. 7. For more details contact Tom Fromholt at 372-8219.

How you can change the world in 25 years or less.

Let's face it.

In 25 years or less, the world of energy as we know it, will be entirely different.

So will we.

Today, we're a leader in the petroleum industry. And tomorrow, when your children are grown, we hope to be meeting their energy needs as well.

We've committed 90 million dollars this year alone to research and development programs that read like science fiction.

We're into earth sciences. Mining and milling uranium. Solar research. Geothermal energy development. Even new technology to produce fuel from coal, and synthetic crude oil from tar sands and oil shale.

And all the while, we're still looking for ways to squeeze every drop out of old oil fields. And continuing the important search world-wide for new ones.

If you've also committed to changing the world, to making your mark on the energy frontiers ahead, we'd like to talk to you.

S. Korean acting president names new KCIA director

SEOUL (South Korea) (AP) - In a major step to consolidate the new government's position, Acting President Choi Kyu-hah named a new director of the powerful Korean Central Intelligence Agency yesterday to replace the man accused of assassinating President Park Chung-Hell.

The Observer

In a major step to consolidate the new government's position, Acting President Choi Kyu-hah named a new director of the powerful Korean Central Intelligence Agency yesterday to replace the man accused of assassinating President Park Chung-Hell.

Elements of the U.S. 7th fleet steamed towards the southern harbor of Pusan in a show-off-force warning to North Korea, while a fourth peaceful day here brought a relaxation of the curfew and other martial law restrictions imposed Friday night following Park's death. Sources said some 80 top KCIA officials were being questioned to determine if they knew or might have been involved in the assassination.

Choi appointed vice army chief of staff, Li. Gen. Lee Hui-Sung acting KCIA chief replacing Kim Jae-Kyu, who has been under arrest for the slaying of Park.

Sources said the appointment was an important move by Choi and the military leaders backing him to take over the now-disorganized special-secret organization. The KCIA was a mainstay of support for Park in suppressing dissent and political opposition during his 18 years of autocratic rule.

The announcement said Lee would remain on active duty, indicating the appointment is not permanent, and still would be under the orders of martial law commander Gen. Chung Seung-Hwa, who is also army chief of staff.

Informed political sources said Choi and top military officials were cooperating in keeping the government running. The sources said the leadership of the ruling Democratic Republican Party was still in disarray and was being ignored by Choi and the generals.

The sources also said Choi, a veteran bureaucrat who was prime minister when Park was assassinated, and two other former prime ministers are leading contenders to succeed Park.

Other leading candidates appear to be two former military men who were among those closest to Park and served him as prime minister: Kim Jong-Pil and Chung Il-Kwon. Kim was the chief organizer of the 1961 coup that put Park in power and the founder and first head of the Korean Central Intelligence Agency, while Chung has held a number of top army and political posts.

professors avoid academic pressures and are guaranteed academic freedom. The problem as McDonagh saw it was that academic freedom is "hardly ever" used by the professors. McDonagh urged that professors reexamine the balance of what a university should theoretically be and what it is in practical terms.

The university should be seen as a "sacrament," he said, meaning it should be a visible sign of society's "pursuit of truth" through academics. He stressed the need for a commitment to this pursuit.

He also emphasized the need for the development of a "contemplative element" at universities. "The university has failed if it is not a contemplative center," McDonagh said. He noted that the role of universities is "to see how things connect," meaning that finding truth is not enough, but that accumulated knowledge must be interwoven.

McDonagh suggested that the hierarchical structure of the University should be inverted so that students have top priority.

"It is the important ignorance of students that must challenge us," he said, noting the students' "fresh set of questions" as a stimulus for education.

He suggested a "more sophisticated" system of appointments to replace the current tenure process, in which professors are evaluated by their peers in a given department after a six-year probation period. Only tenured professors continue at the University after the tenure decision period, McDonagh explained.
Technicalities cause delay in directory delivery
by Michael Onufrek
Senior Copy Editor

Is your campus directory lost or falling apart? Well, you're not alone. As of yesterday, the number of accurate, sturdy, permanent phone books available on campus was zero. Where are the phonebooks? Well, that's a long story.....

According to Jim Kiesle, general manager and vice-president of Promotional Enterprises Inc., Indianapolis, the comprehensive, accurate phonebooks will be on campus by Nov. 15.

In a telephone interview yesterday Kiesle told the Observer "We are over-stressed on our time for completion of the work on the phonebooks. They were to be due in 20 days. However, due to some technical problems with some of our computerized typesetting machinery we have fallen behind schedule."

Kiesle said that he received information regarding student addresses and phone numbers Oct. 8. He noted that he had expected the information—which is compiled by University registrar and Director of Printing and Publication—by Sept. 28, but was hesitant to place the blame on anyone because of possible computer foul-ups somewhere along the line.

Promotional Enterprises has been publishing Notre Dame phonebooks for the past seven years. According to Kiesle, the company has never been late before and is redoubling its efforts to beat the Nov. 13 deadline he gave the Observer yesterday.

Assistant Registrar David Kil said yesterday that he had been expecting delivery of the new phonebooks "by the end of October." Kil said he was unaware of any hold-up, and added that the phonebooks will be available in student residence halls shortly after their arrival from Indianapolis.

According to Kil, the registrar's office compiles a computer tape of all student information relevant to the phonebooks. He said that because this information varies from academic year to academic year, the compilation process is a lengthy one which always extends into the school year.

"We try to accommodate as many students as possible by making certain that those off-campus students who desire a complete entry in the phonebooks get them. We also try to accommodate those students who transfer on-campus after the year begins," Kil said.

He added that all of this information was sent to Indianapolis "at the end of September."

The other half of the phonebooks' composition are the faculty and administrative listings. According to Kiesle, this information is received by Promotional Enterprises from Carl Magel, University Director of Publishing and Printing.

Kiesle noted that faculty and administrative listings had also been received by Oct. 8.

Steinbrenner tries to save Billy Martin

NEW YORK (AP) - More conflicts arose Tuesday over the latest Billy Martin incident. But George Steinbrenner, owner of the New York Yankees, indicated the real reason why he fired his fiery manager - to save him from himself.

Martin, 51, who has a history of solving disputes with his fists, was axed by Steinbrenner last Sunday. Five days after Martin was involved in an apparent fight in a Bloomington, Minn., hotel. The other man involved, Joseph Cooper, 52, a marshmallow salesman from Lincolnshire, Ill., suffered a cut lip requiring 15 to 20 stitches.

A source close to the Yankees' owner said: "George is worried about Martin getting involved in more serious incidents. What happens if another guy falls down and is hurt, or if a guy pulls a knife and kills Billy?"

And the source quoted Steinbrenner as saying, "I don't want that to happen to Billy, his family, to the Yankees or to baseball."

State

Carol Shukas, a sophomore transfer student from the University of Vermont, felt the state meet was the high point of the fall for the team.

"It was a good experience because the majority of the team was together. We cheered each other on and it was really encouraging. The unity was great," said Shukas, a state winner as the fourth singles berth.

Cindy Schuster, a transfer student from Saint Mary's and runner up at the state meet with Tina Stephen in doubles competition, feels the Notre Dame team has a lot of future potential.

"I expect us to go to the Nationals. I really think we have a strong team as far as depth goes. I see Notre Dame's tennis program as one that will grow stronger in the future. As the sophomores mature in a few years Notre Dame will be a big challenger," according to Schuster, also the first singles player for the Irish.

Both Schuster and Shukas feel coach Segal was responsible for the team's success this fall. The duo commented that the emphasis on basic skills and drills in practice improved their games.

"Practices were well organized and we really needed the drills. She (Segal) kept us well conditioned," Schuster said.

We were always running around the football field or the courts.

The team will continue practice indoors during the winter and then will move outdoors conspring for a brief season before the regional tournament in the third week of May.

With the St. Peter's and Villanova losses before them, the Irish now travel to face Bowling Green this afternoon for a pivotal game in the rankings for the midwest region. Bowling Green has an excellent shot at an N.C.A.A. playoff bid and while Notre Dame's post-season hopes are slim, a win today would provide a big boost for the team and the soccer program as a whole.
Flanagan wins Cy Young Award

ning pitcher in the American League, was voted the AL Cy Young Award, the Baseball Writers Association of America announced Tuesday.

Flanagan won 25 games for the American League champions, the most victories by a pitcher in the league. He lost just nine for a winning percentage of .719. His earned run average was 3.08, fourth best in the league, and he led the field in shutouts with Nolan Ryan of California with five.

Flanagan collected 26 first-place votes of a possible 28 cast by members of the BBWAA and was second on the remaining two balls. Tommy John of the New York Yankees was second with one first-place vote and Ron Guidry of the Yankees was third with the remaining first-place vote.

Flanagan was named one of 28 ballots cast by Pirates. He was the loser in Steve Well, it's nice to be home for a change. Maybe the relief to come will be confirmed when Notre Dame's soccer players move into a winning frame after last weekend's forgettable trip to New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Tonight the Irish (16-9-1) returned to winning form with a well-played 3-1 victory over Seton Hall. Although it took some 60 minutes for Notre Dame to finally put the ball in the net, the Irish performed much more efficiently on offense than in their previous setbacks.

"We looked good tonight," said coach Rich Hunter. "We didn't put the ball in the net in the first half, but we passed and moved the ball well.

Co-captain Jim Sabielski, who notched the game-winning goal yesterday, stated, "I guess it (goal) was more a result of a mental thing after a while. You look up at the scoreboard at halftime and you see the score's still 0-0 and you start to panic.

"Once you panic, it's hard to rush things. It didn't happen tonight.

"It might have been a mental thing last week," added Kevin Lovejoy. "I know that playing Indiana at home was going to be a mental thing after a while. While most of the campus attention was directed toward the Bloomington game, the Irish runners were finishing up their season at the Indiana State Cross-Country meet. A week later, the team did not face as well, as they finished a disappointing eighth in the Central Collegiate Cross.

Notre Dame offense, though, but the story and...
