Literary Festival funds cut

by Mary Ann Callahan
Staff Reporter

Due to an anticipated $2000 budget cut by Student Union, the Sophomore Literary Festival has been forced to seek funds from various departments to pay authors who were contracted to appear last November.

Though the English Department utilizes the speakers in its classes, the department has flatly refused to provide any funds, claiming that the festival should be self-supporting, according to student union festival officials.

"I don't feel like I'm getting any support from Student Government as a whole," Doug Krietzberg, festival chairman commented.

"I think it's up to the union that cultural events are not profitable because they don't make money."

Yet according to Dave Ellison, Cultural Arts Comission chairman, budgetary difficulties are not definite. "If it be in the student's favor, we will arrange that," he said.

Krietzberg said that Ellison had warned him that a budget cut could arise in the near future. Due to the $2000 cut, the event will have to be slashed. The Feld Ballet scheduled for the Festival will have to be cancelled.

In a nationally broadcast State of the Union address to a joint session of Congress, Carter also announced that he wants to "begin registration" of draft-age youths, but expressed hope that "it will not be necessary to vindicate the draft.

"The threat is to our union depends on the state of our union," Carter said. Carter also said that he had been urged to "make every effort" to provide the financial condition of the Student Union has improved due to a larger than expected profit on movies and fund raisers last semester. Hull also said that these excesses profits might possibly be used to aid the literary festival if needed.

"I don't feel like I'm getting any support from Student Government as a whole," Doug Krietzberg, festival chairman commented.

The eight authors contracted will definitely appear and are scheduled to give lectures, and attend receptions and classes during the festival scheduled for March 9-11, according to Ellison. These authors include: John Barth, John Cage, E. L. Doctorow, Dave Hare, Mario Vargas Llosa, Sam Shepard, and Charles Simic.

Regardless of whether or not the budget is slashed, the festival will remain a quality festival. A particular attraction is the appearance of playwright Dave Hare, who authored Teeth and Tongue, which will be performed while Hare is on campus. The festival committee has arranged that the event will be in the audience on the production's closing night. After watching his work performed, Hare will give a backtalk to the production company. A wide variety of literary talent has been accumulated. Of the eight authors, three are novelists, three poets, and two are playwrights.

Barth's The Sot-weed Factor won a National Book Award in 1966. Montana's House was credited as being one of the most important contributions to Latin American Literature in 1973. Llosa's novel Burned Children received a Pulitzer Prize.

The majority of authors will speak in The Library Auditorium and Washington Hall, though all times and locations will be publicized at a later date. The first announced presidential candidate to visit Notre Dame, Republican Benjamin Fernandez, will speak today at 4:15 in the Library Auditorium.

Fernandez feels his background of financial expertise is a major asset to his candidacy. His thoughts on the economy are somewhat idealistic. "Inflation is insidious, destroying the purchasing power of the people who least can afford it, the low income folks of our country. An attack on inflation requires the balancing of the Federal budget, reducing waste in government, deregulating across the board, vowing bills which would require deficit financing, and developing a strong energy program which would minimize the effects on our economy by policy decisions of the OPEC cartel.

Fernandez is the first Presidential candidate to visit Notre Dame, and he will make a return visit during the Mock Student Union elections.

State of the Union
Carter attacks Soviets in speech

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Jimmy Carter today warned Iran and Soviet intervention in Afghanistan confront the US with a "grave threat" to Middle East oil supplies, vowed last night that any Soviet effort to seize control of the Persian Gulf region "will be repelled by use of any means necessary."

Declaring that "the state of our union depends on the state of our union," Carter said that he had been urged to "make every effort" to provide the

by Michael Oriwak
Senior Copy Editor

Benjamin Fernandez, Republican candidate for President, will speak this afternoon at 4:30 in the Library Auditorium. The lecture is co-sponsored by Notre Dame student government and the central committee of the 1980 Notre Dame Mock Convention.

Fernandez, who finished ninth in a student poll of Republican candidates earlier this week, is a successful businessman with a colorful rags to riches back­ground. Born in a boxcar, Fernandez worked his way through college and eventually rose to the top of the business world. His current aspiration is to be the first president of Latin American descent. He began to pursue that goal in November, 1978. By any standards, Fernandez' political career has been conservative. In his campaign literature, he calls for a return to "the work ethic," favors a "powerful defense posture" for the country, and wants to balance the federal budget.

Fernandez is particularly concerned over communism's influence in the Caribbean. "Communism is festering in the Caribbean as evidenced by the Communist triangle, Cuba, Jamaica, and the Dominican Republic. And today, Cuba's Fidel Castro is exporting Communism into Nicaragua, El Salvador, and El Salva­ dor. The United States is being surrounded across its soft underbelly by a direct, positive communist influence." Fernandez is asp­let at the switch.

Fernandez attacks Soviets in speech

The first announced presidential candidate to visit Notre Dame, Republican Benjamin Fernandez, will speak today at 4:15 in the Library Auditorium.

Khomeini enters hospital for fatigue, heart illness

(AP) - French radio reported last night that Iran's 79-year-old revolutionary leader, Ayatollah Khomeini, had been ad­mitted to the cardiology department of Reza hospital in Tehran with a heart problem. The report quoted a Khomeini spokesman in the holy city of Qom, where the ayatollah lives, and gave no further details.

Khomeini's doctors said earlier yesterday that his "condition is good and there is no cause for concern." The statement, broadcast on Tehran radio, came after Khomeini's office in Qom, 100 miles south of Tehran, said he would con­tinue forecasting appointments until Feb. 9 because of fatigue and a mild illness.

The London Daily Telegraph reported Thursday that doctors had checked Khomeini's heart. In Tehran correspondent, Am Roy, reported, "A senior poli­tician said to me last night: 'The imam has had a heart check. Something very simple.' Khomei­ni's office in Qom said that he was recovering well from 'a minor ailment.'" Mili­tants holding Americans hostage in the Embassy in Tehran issued a statement asking for their countrymen to pray for Khomeini's health and blaming his illness on pressure resulting from diplomacy among Iranians. On Jan. 8, Khomeini announced he was canceling all public appointments beginning Jan. 12. Also yesterday, Iran's Foreign Minister insisted that deported Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi had been placed under detention Panamanian authorities preparing his return to Iran. He dismissed denials by various Panamanians, saying they were "false reports."

"Sooner or later the world will come to realize that the report was right and the caged shah was actually under custody," Sadegh Ghotzbadeh said in an interview with the official Press news agency carried by Tehran Radio. The broadcast was moni­
New Zealand expels Soviet Ambassador over funds

WELLINGTON - New Zealand (AP) - New Zealand's government and its ambassador to Moscow, Paul McCartney, were expelled by the Soviet Union. The Prime Minister told a new conference the expulsion order had no connection with military intervention in Afghanistan.

Gold prices drop after weeks of increase

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market staged a sharp rally yesterday, rebounding from Tuesday's setback. Trading was active. The price of gold, which started the week above $800 an ounce, plunged below $600 in early trading in Europe yesterday. But the it attracted a surge of new buying, and recovered to the close of above $500. Yesterday stocks steadied and then began moving up again as the gold marker staged its comeback.

Hundreds pay respects to Justice Douglas

WASHINGTON (AP) - William A Douglas was buried yesterday, after President and hundreds of others honored the man who served on the Supreme Court a record 36 years. Those who eulogized him invoked what they described as Douglas' two great passions—individual liberties and the environment. "This Land is Your Land," a Woody Guthrie song, was chanted from their penless dance, and with hobos, and "ShallWe Gather by the U.S. army chorus.

McCartney remains busted in Tokyo jail cell

TOKYO (AP) - An expert on Japanese drug law said yesterday former Beatle Paul McCartney "will never be allowed back in Japan. But before he goes he should stand up to the marijuana trials," made the comments as McCartney marked his first week in Japan inside a Tokyo jail on suspicion of being a CIA agent. He was quoted as saying he was under arrest on the resort island of Okinawad, 15 miles southeast of Panama City. The government of Panama's ambassador to Washington, Carlos Lopez Guevara, said he was authorized to "categorically deny" the Iranian statements. Rights groups, public affairs officer at the U.S. Embassy in Panama City, said "As far as we know the shah is not in custody, and thus far all these reports from Teheran are foundless.

Embassy militants issued a statement calling on their countrymen to pray today for Khomeini's health and blamed American imperialists and the Soviet and Afghan army units, especially in the far northeast. It has been virtually impossible to verify the claims of either side.

Weather

An 80 percent chance of snow today, becoming warmer with highs from 26-30. Cloudy and warmer tonight and tomorrow with a 30 percent chance of light snow.

Order restored in Afghanistan

(AP) Afghanistan's new president said yesterday "revolutionary order" has been restored just four weeks after the civilian of Soviet Ambassador Voevodin Sofinsky early this morning for paying Soviet government funds to a small pro-Moscow political party. The Prime Minister told a new conference the expulsion order had no connection with military intervention in Afghanistan.

Weather

An 80 percent chance of snow today, becoming warmer with highs from 26-30. Cloudy and warmer tonight and tomorrow with a 30 percent chance of light snow.

Order restored in Afghanistan

(AP) Afghanistan's new president said yesterday "revolutionary order" has been restored just four weeks after the civilian of Soviet Ambassador Voevodin Sofinsky early this morning for paying Soviet government funds to a small pro-Moscow political party. The Prime Minister told a new conference the expulsion order had no connection with military intervention in Afghanistan.

Weather

An 80 percent chance of snow today, becoming warmer with highs from 26-30. Cloudy and warmer tonight and tomorrow with a 30 percent chance of light snow.

Order restored in Afghanistan

(AP) Afghanistan's new president said yesterday "revolutionary order" has been restored just four weeks after the civilian of Soviet Ambassador Voevodin Sofinsky early this morning for paying Soviet government funds to a small pro-Moscow political party. The Prime Minister told a new conference the expulsion order had no connection with military intervention in Afghanistan.

Weather

An 80 percent chance of snow today, becoming warmer with highs from 26-30. Cloudy and warmer tonight and tomorrow with a 30 percent chance of light snow.
Carter suggests possible aid agreement with Iran

WASHINGTON - The Carter administration hinted yesterday that it may be willing to discuss U.S. economic and military aid to Iran if the American hostages held in Tehran are released.

The suggestion came as the administration again delayed announcement of anticipated action to impose new economic sanctions against the Iranian government. The move to cut arms to Iran, made through the State Department, is part of an evolving administration strategy designed to rally moderate countries in Southwest Asia and the Middle East against the Soviet Union.

One element of the strategy is a softening of U.S. pressures in Iran, where some 50 Americans were seized by Islamic militants Nov. 4 in a takeover of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

The militants holding the hostages have demanded that the United States arrange the return of the deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi to Iran to face trial, and permanently execute. The shah, deposed a year ago, is now in Panama.

President Carter signaled the new approach toward Iran on Monday in a written State of the Union message to Congress. He said the United States has "no basic quarrel" with the regime of revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and is prepared to establish "a new and mutually beneficial relationship" with Iran.

Carter added, as the same time, that the hostages must be released first. The point was underlined Wednesday by Hod­ding Carter, the State Depart­ment spokesman, as he rese­red that the taking of hostages violates international law.

But the spokesman said, "The United States and Iran "share some problems that have be­come very manifest over the last month."

Referring to the Soviet thrust into Afghanistan, which bor­ders Iran, he said circumstan­ces in the region have changed in the last month and should be addressed jointly.

 Asked about U.S. aid to Iran, the spokesman said, "I'm nei­ther ruling it out nor ruling it in. I'm suggesting we would like to discuss the possibility of a new and more mutually beneficial relationship."

Nuclear Technology

Phillips lectures at SMC

by Pam Degnan
Senior Staff Reporter

Four years ago, John A. Phillips, while an undergrad­uate student at Princeton Uni­versity created a "home-made" atomic bomb. Lecturing before a large audience in Carroll Hall last night, Phillips emphasized the need for curbing nuclear technology in Third World countries and criticized U.S. energy policies.

Phillips began his lecture with an explanation of how he de­veloped an atomic bomb. By buying, public official docu­ments for $25 that were never released on the operations of the Man­hattan project, Phillips said the actual creation of the bomb came quite naturally.

"I was a physics major of average intelligence. Everything I needed to know was contained in these documents. So you see - anyone can make and market their own bomb - anyone including terrorist or­ganizations, radical govern­ment leaders and underdeve­loped Third World countries. And that is why it is frightening," Phillips said.

The 23 year old then related an event that increased his belief that Third World countries are becoming more interested in buying nuclear technology to advance their social and econo­mic stance in the world. "After my bomb project was made public, I received a phone call from a Pakistani operative who wanted to purchase my design for his country. It was thus I fully realized the im­portance of the bomb and what could happen if it landed in the wrong hands," Phillips explain­ed.

Phillips reported that within 10 years underdeveloped countries such as Iran, South Africa, and Brazil will have the technology to construct the atomic bomb. He added that because of U.S. financed nuclear power plants in these countries that their entrance into the arms race is inevitable and unavoidable.

In the 60's, scientists expres­sed misgivings about develop­ing the bomb. Many dropped out of the "peaceful" atom power move but unfortunately it was too late because big, big money was involved. American companies like Westinghouse and General Electric had wrap­ped up too much money in power plants overseas. They did not realize that nuclear technology was clearly inappro­priate for these countries," said Phillips.

On the subject of radioactive wastes and their harmful ef­fects on mankind, the Princeton graduate explained that one pound of plutonium - a highly lethal substance - could flatten across the entire U.S. in the form of dust destroying every living being.

"Radioactive wastes have a half-life of 2400 years. Not only will they be a constant threat in our lifetime, but for many generations to come. I'm upset over nuclear energy, as you should be. No one has the right to make use of nuclear energy in this world."

[continued on page 9]
Soviets banish dissident leader

MOCK CONVENTION "TRAITOR" - The Soviet government newspaper Wednesday accused dissident leader Andrei D. Sakharov of having "blurred out" state secrets to Westerners and said he had been banished from Moscow for reasons of national security.

"Investiga's" toughest worded denunciation of Sakharov was the fullest authoritative explanation of the government's action against the Nobel Peace Prize winner, who was picked up by police Tuesday, stripped of his state honors, and exiled from Moscow.

Before flying off, Sakharov told family members he and his wife Yelena Bonner, were being sent to Gorky, 230 miles east of here, and industrial center closed to foreign reporters. Friends and relatives said Wednesday they had received no new word from Sakharov, and they made a public demand for official confirmation of his whereabouts.

Meanwhile, international protests over the punishment of the human rights activist mounted. Besides condemnations from Western governments, the Communist parties of France, Spain and Italy announced their opposition. Communist Poland's government media sounded a lone note of support for the Kremlin. The president of the French National Assembly, Jacques Chaban-Delmas, cut short a visit to Moscow in protest.

The 53-year-old Sakharov, a nuclear physicist and winner of the 1975 Nobel Peace Prize, had become the strongest voice of dissent in the Soviet Union in recent years, meeting frequently with American and other Western journalists to publicize alleged human rights violations. The lengthy Izvestia article came close to calling him a traitor. It said he had "stepped onto the path of direct betrayal of the interests of our motherland," and claimed in a later passage he had "overstepped the bounds of the law."

At another point, the article said that in meeting with foreigners, Sakharov, a key developer of the Soviet Union's hydrogen bomb, had often "blurred out things that any government guards as an important secret."

An announcement Tuesday said only that Sakharov's public honors had been taken from him because of his "traitorous work." But the Izvestia commentary Wednesday also confirmed that "competent organs" had expelled him from Moscow, though it did not say where he was sent.

"These measures were essential for reasons including the fact that he began to be used a channel for intelligence services of imperialist powers to worm out important state secrets of the Soviet Union," Izvestia said.

It remains unclear whether Soviet authorities plan to put Sakharov on trial or will consider the summary banishment and stripping of honors to be sufficient punishment. Two years ago another leading dissident, Anatoly Shcharansky, was tried and convicted of treasonable espionage as a result of his contacts with Westerners.

Notre Dame Karate Club practices Tuesday and Thursday 6-8pm in the ACC pit.

Professional Instruction

Beginners welcome

/not to exceed 1/2 page

ND Press publishes novella

ND Press has published a second work of fiction by Mircea Eliade, noted historian of religions. The Old Man and the Beastmata, a novella ranked among the best of Eliade's creative works, was translated from Rumanian by Mary Parkinson.

Eliade, born in Bucharest in 1907, Eliaide grew up in Rumania between the world wars. Since 1937, he has taught at the University of Chicago Divinity School. The author's studies in history of religions are well known in English, but little of his fiction has been translated. His epic novel, The Forbidden Forest, was published by the Notre Dame Press in 1976. It was the first of his novels to be published in English.

The newly translated novella was originally published in Rumania in 1907. It is available at Notre Dame Booksellers, 117 South Main Street.
Dear Editor:

A colleague recently observed that 'The New York Times' has become an organ of the Rockefeller Foundation. It was not clear whether he was referring to the Times as a newspaper or a corporation.

I mention this because one of the consequences of this development is that the Times has become a mouthpiece for a very powerful and influential group of people. This is a problem.

For example, in recent weeks the Times has carried a number of articles about the problems facing the Third World. These articles are not only superficial but also tend to be one-sided.

I am not a liberal, however, and it is not my intention to defend the interests of the Third World. Rather, I would like to suggest that the Times' coverage of these issues is flawed.

First, the Times often fails to recognize the underlying causes of the problems facing the Third World. For example, it is often content to simply blame the problems on the actions of the Third World countries themselves.

Second, the Times often fails to recognize the role of the powerful nations, particularly the United States, in creating and sustaining the problems facing the Third World.

I believe that the Times has a responsibility to its readers to provide a more balanced and accurate account of the issues facing the Third World. This means that the Times should not simply repeat the views of the powerful nations, but should also give voice to the views of the people of the Third World.

I hope that the Times will take these concerns into account in its future coverage of the Third World.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]
If you're about to graduate with an engineering or computer science degree, we'd like to talk to you about your future.

Will be in commercial jetliners?

We're building two new planes — the 787 and 787. While the orders for 727s, 737s and 747s keep coming from all over the world.

Perhaps you'd like to get into the aerospace field, where we have more projects going than you can shake a calculator at.

Or maybe you'll help us provide computer services to over 2,000 clients, including government, private industry, commercial air, planes and aerospace.

Whatever path you take at Boeing, you'll enjoy living in Seattle — one of America's most beautiful cities.

BOEING WILL BE ON CAMPUS SOON.

Boeing will be here within the next two weeks. So sign up for your interview today in the Placement Office.

Then we can tell you in person about all the opportunities you'll have to grow with Boeing.

If this time is inconvenient for you, just write us: The Boeing Company, P.O. Box 3707-VPM, Seattle, WA 98124.

An equal opportunity employer.

BOEING GETTING PEOPLE TOGETHER.
Phoenix Dan Fogelberg (Epic)

Phoenix, Dan Fogelberg's newest album is a disappointment. Now before Fogelberg,ghes--"soch our office, let me explain--Dan Fogelberg's music is not folk, not rock, not even Fogelberg is Fogelberg. From this innovative man I would hope to see continued diversity and growth in his artistic expression. However, I have to say that I cannot for the moment consider Fogelberg an artist, but rather a performer. He's placing it all on the line. There is minimal musical innovation. The phrasing is predictable, the percussion bland, the chord progressions are a bit too familiar.

The cliches which riddle the album certainly detract from the total experience of the album for any one who believes in Fogelberg's talent as an artist, but he also explores other facts of dimension to Fogelberg's love affair with guitar. I didn't know that Dan had it in him. To finish, I must admit that "Longer" and "Tullamore Dew" the instrumental on the album, are not typical Fogelberg. These two pieces evince some progress, busthich bunch of songs give his repertoire a bit of variety.

The most attractive thing about the album for me is that it isn't crammed with love songs. Listening to the top selling music in this country today, an outsider would judge to be a rather shallow collection of songs with othing but love (or two things love and sex if you don't believe they have anything to do with each other). Fogelberg, does not limit himself thematically to these concerns. Certainly he has written some truly beautiful love-find love-lose songs but he also explores other sides of life.

"Along the Road" is particularly probing like his titillating penchant for the theme of Power of God" from Two Sons of Different Mothers. The album, which was made with Tim Weisburg, Fogelberg addresses issues that are so pertinent to our society that we tend to become dulled to their critical nature--"Face the Fire" is about the dangerous freedom of power, and "Phoenix" tells us of the danger of defining oneself in terms of a relationship with another person.

I find the lyrics to be the best part of this album, together with some strides forward in style for Fogelberg's guitar, but throwing in some Eagle's and Jackson Browne glosses does not constitute innovation. Musically, the album is enjoyable, but I do not find Phoenix very exciting.

K. Connelly

Jefferson Starship

Freedom At Point Zero (Grunt)

When Grace Slick left the Starship last year, I felt a little letdown. The Starship was one of my favorites, but I rarely had any complaints with their music. I wondered whether they would be the same, or be able to survive without her. Yet I was pleasantly surprised to find that they have matured a bit, and they seem to be more comfortable with their new lead singer. I was actually worried how a big contribution Grace Slick really did make.

When I first encountered this album, I wasn't very enthusiastic. My first exposure was hearing the excellent musicians that play on the album, the recordsing is trum therir 1977 American and Canadian tours, before they had to drop the orchestra, then you probably know most of the songs. I was going to get the album if you saw the trio without the orchestra, then you will realize that what you were really missing after you listen to this album.

I was surprised enough to get my hands on a copy of a promotional live album from WWMS in Cleveland that is not unrelated and does not contain the orchestra. I expected the album to be much the same, but I was pleasantly surprised at the added depth of the band. The orchestra put in "La Vie", the forcefulness added to "Ponies" and the enhanced variety to "Pictures at an Exhibition."

The concert opens with "Fanfare" leads into "The Peper Gunn There", a good example of the Starship's love affair with folk music, and its a killer. The wait is over and thank-you. The recordsing is trum therir 1977 American and Canadian tours, before they had to drop the orchestra, you were really missing after you listen to this album. I haven't had enough time to get a chance to listen to the complete album yet, but the live album is well worth the money. The excellent live anthology of THE super group of the seventies. That prev­ious releases have been "Welcome Back my Friends to the Show that Never Ends..."

Mike Bigely

Emerson, Lake and Palmer

In Concert (Atlantic)

Many people believe the No Nukes album to be the "live album of the year", but I believe they are grossly mistaken. However, with the great assembly of musicians that are on the album, they cannot be accused of having tampered with the original wearling of the music above the excellence of musicians that play on the Emerson, Lake & Palmer In concert album. This album was recorded in Boston with Keith, Greg and Carl backed by a 60 piece orchestra.

The recording is from their 1977 American and Canadian tours, before they had to drop the orchestra, you probably know most of the songs. I was going to get the album if you saw the trio without the orchestra, then you will realize that what you were really missing after you listen to this album.

I was surprised enough to get my hands on a copy of a promotional live album from WWMS in Cleveland that is not unrelated and does not contain the orchestra. I expected the album to be much the same, but I was pleasantly surprised at the added depth of the band. The orchestra put in "La Vie", the forcefulness added to "Ponies" and the enhanced variety to "Pictures at an Exhibition."

The concert opens with "Fanfare" leads into "The Peper Gunn There", a good example of the Starship's love affair with folk music, and its a killer. The wait is over and thank-you.

The final piece on the album is from the Nice. Emerson, Lake and Palmer have performed a reworking of "Here was all the power I was used to hearing on a recording, yet, it made me kind of sad. The song is very tight and quite impressive as an opening.

The recordsing is trum therir 1977 American and Canadian tours, before they had to drop the orchestra, you were really missing after you listen to this album. I haven't had enough time to get a chance to listen to the complete album yet, but the live album is well worth the money. The excellent live anthology of THE super group of the seventies. That prev­ious releases have been "Welcome Back my Friends to the Show that Never Ends..."

Mike Bigely

Deguello Z*Z*TOP (Warner Bros.)

The wait is over and thank-you. After a threeyearlong wait, Z*Z*TOP has finally released a new album, Deguello, and its a killer. 'Deguello' is the Spanish word for "Godfather" electrically driven by the band since their World Wide Texas Tour. The addition of "Lone Wolf Horns". With Gibbons, Hill, and Beard overshadowing their own horns, a new dimension is added to this three man powerhouse. ZZ Top shows asymmetry in power, coming from Isaac "Hays" 'Thank You' to an intense cover of "Old Mac's Broom My Boneyard". With ZZ Top's two covers of the next two tracks coming from an electric guitar, ZZ Top comes up with some songwriting gems of their own. ZZ Top's famous "Hill and Beard overdubbing their own horns, a new dimension is added to this three man powerhouse. ZZ Top shows asymmetry in power, coming from Isaac "Hays" 'Thank You' to an intense cover of "Old Mac's Broom My Boneyard". With ZZ Top's two covers of the next two tracks coming from an electric guitar, ZZ Top comes up with some songwriting gems of their own.

The final peice on the album is from the Nice. Emerson, Lake and Palmer have performed a reworking of "Here was all the power I was used to hearing on a recording, yet, it made me kind of sad. The song is very tight and quite impressive as an opening.

The recordsing is trum therir 1977 American and Canadian tours, before they had to drop the orchestra, you were really missing after you listen to this album. I haven't had enough time to get a chance to listen to the complete album yet, but the live album is well worth the money. The excellent live anthology of THE super group of the seventies. That prev­ious releases have been "Welcome Back my Friends to the Show that Never Ends..."

Mike Bigely
ND/SMC students return after D.C. anti-abortion demonstration

by Colleen Short

Approximately 45 students returned from Washington yesterday after an anti-abortion demonstration held Tuesday. The trip was sponsored by the ND/SMC Right to Life Organization (RLO).

In Washington, students met with close to 100,000 other pro-lifers outside the White House to listen to several speakers address the abortion issue. At noon the group embarked on the two hour journey up Pennsylvania Avenue to the Capitol. Despite cold and rainy weather, the group remained cheerful.

According to RLO organizers, "It was so impressive to see people from all over the nation unite and participate in this kind of an emotional protest," one student commented. "It was very sincere, a sense of camaraderie pervaded the day's activities."

The group met at the Grotto Monday for a send-off Mass said by Bishop Crowley. They departed for the long bus trip to Washington at 6:15 p.m. Funds for the bus were donated by the Knights of Columbus and the South Bend Right to Life Organization. Abortion is legal in the United States and has been ever since the Supreme Court's decision of Roe v. Wade on Jan. 22, 1973. This decision sparked many intellectual conflicts among doctors, clergy, lay people, and activists over the past six years.

Nore Dame's concern for the issue of abortion led to the National Conference on Abortion which was held on campus last October. The students' decision to go for life has led to participation in similar activities over the last few years.

Participation in the march on Washington is just one activity of the RLO. A newsletter is published the last weekend of every month, and open meetings are held every other month. Every second Saturday the group can be found saying the Rosary at the Grotto.

Will the Constitution be amended and abortion outlawed? Not in the near future, but the pro-life students are hopeful. Tom McDougallih, publicity chairman of the campus pro-life group expressed his sentiments: "We are hopeful. The amendment is something we pray for and we work for. We hope it will be realized."

Prosecutor continues Pinto case with or without key documents

WINAMAC, Ind. (AP) - The chief prosecutor in Ford Motor Co.'s reckless homicide trial vowed to press his case even if he is unable to introduce key documents on the safety of the fuel system in Pinto subcompacts.

Attorneys for both sides are behind closed doors yesterday to negotiate use of the documents, which the state maintains show that Ford knew the Pinto fuel tanks were unsafe but did nothing about it.

Pulaski Circuit Judge Harold R. Staffeldt ruled Tuesday that the evidence cannot be presented without accompanying proof that the evidence is authentic.

Prosecutor Michael A. Cosentino said he offered to exclude some documents from the trial if Ford would agree to authenticate others, but he refused to specify which of the more than 130 papers he wanted verified.

Chiel Ford attorney James F. Neal said defense lawyers would study the proposal and make a counter-offer.

Ford is charged with three counts of reckless homicide in the August 1978 deaths of three teenagers when their Pinto exploded in flames when hit from behind by a van on a northern Indiana highway.

Although Cosentino says the documents are key to his case, he said if he cannot introduce them as evidence, he still will "go forward and present our evidence anyway and take it as it comes." He said he has other ideas about how to authenticate the documents if Ford refuses.

"We're not ready to throw in the towel," Cosentino said. "That's the last thing we'll be around for a while."

In testimony yesterday, two forensic pathologists said two of the teenagers killed in the crash would be alive today if not for the Burns they sustained.

Dr. Robert J. Stein, a Cook County, Ill. medical examiner and Dr. James A. Benz, chief of pathology at Indianapolis' Wishard Hospital, testified that sisters Judy Ulrich, 18, and Lyn Ulrich, 16, did not suffer serious enough injuries as resulted from rear-end impact to kill them.

No autopsy was performed on the third victim, Donna Ulrich, 18, the sisters' cousin.

Ulrich told Judy Ulrich, who lived for eight hours after the accident, she was initially burned over 95 percent of her body but had no evidence of any external or internal injuries.

"No injuries were sustained," he said. "If the mishap had not occurred, Judy Ulrich would be alive."

Benz, who specializes in autopsies on burn victims, said Lyn Ulrich, who was sitting in the back seat, suffered no neck or back injuries.

"I had information that this individual was involved in a rear-end collision," he said, "I know by experience that injuries in this area (back and neck) are very common."

Lyn Ulrich suffered a slight skull fracture above the right eye and a broken right thigh, Benz said.

Staffeldt refused to allow Benz to speculate on how great a force would be needed to cause the broken thigh.

"We're beginning to have been trying to establish through medical testimony that the force of the clash was insufficient to cause traumatic injuries, and therefore it was the defective fuel system that caused the car to explode."
Cellist to solo with So. Bend Symphony

The internationally acclaimed cellist, Yo-Yo Ma, will be the featured soloist with the South Bend Symphony on Saturday, January 26 at 8 p.m. in the Morris Civic Auditorium. At age four, Yo-Yo Ma began his cello studies and performed his first recital at the Juilliard School of Music. In the United States, Yo-Yo Ma performed with "Isaac Stern and His Friends" at Carnegie Hall and at the Kennedy Center in Washington D.C. This season he appeared with the New York and Los Angeles Philharmonics and the National Symphony under Mstislav Rostropovich's conductorship. Intercontinentally, Yo-Yo Ma recorded with London's Royal Philharmonic Orchestra and toured France, England, Mexico, Canada, Hong Kong, and Taiwan both in recital and as orchestral soloist. In the future, Mr. Ma will play across Europe and with Hebert von Karajan and the Vienna and Berlin Philharmonic Orchestras.

Three local toughs from South Bend. Adams had nothing better to do than pitch quarters in the library on the landing between First Floor and The Pit. Left to right are Mitchell Kutz, Richard Norris and Jack Lambert. (photo by Tom Jackman)

Japanese film series begins

The department of Modern and Classical Languages at Notre Dame will sponsor a series of 14 Japanese films on Thursday nights at 7:30 in Washington Hall.

The series will open tonight with "I Was Born, But..." directed by Yasujiro Ozu. "Seven Samurai," "Crucified Lovers," "Harp of Burma," "An Autumn Afternoon," "Hara-kiri," "An Actor's Revenge," "Woman in the Dunes," "Double Suicide," "The Ceremony" and "Ugetsu." All films have Japanese dialogue with English subtitles. Admission for each showing is $1 or $10 for the full series. The films are open to the public.

...Nukes

[continued from page 5]

to burden future generations with these substances," Phillips commented.

Phillips then attacked the ineffectiveness of the U.S. energy policies. Raising his opinion on the Harvard Energy Report, Phillips cited only two possible solutions to the energy crises: conserve energy and utilize solar energy sources.

"We are being conned by the government. We are constantly told that nuclear power is the solution to the energy crisis but only 1/3 of nuclear power is used for this purpose," Phillips said. He said this raises the unanswered question of what is being done with the remaining 97% of nuclear energy.

"The same bureaucracy, the same nuclear industry, promised that a Three Mile Island could not happen and yet it did. But so far nothing is being done to prevent history from repeating itself," Phillips pointed out. Phillips closing remarks emphasized the fact that today's young people will pay for past mistakes.

"We're inheriting the entire energy crisis, the dangers of nuclear wastes and plants and the threat of the atomic bomb as a terrorist weapon. We grew up in the shadow of the atomic bomb and there will remain if no action is taken," Phillips said.

Phillips addressed a question from the audience dealing with the U.S. boycott of the Olympic games. "I don't think young Soviets and American athletes who have been training for these games for 5 years now should sacrifice for other people."

Because you attend college you are eligible to receive TIME, the world's leading newsweekly at the lowest individual subscription rate, just 35¢ an issue. That's BIG SAVINGS off the regular subscription rate of 59¢ an issue and even BIGGER SAVINGS off the 91.25 newsstand price.

And it's so simple to subscribe—just look for the cards with TIME and its sister publications, Sports Illustrated, Fortune, Life, Money and People. They are available at the college bookstore or from your local TIME representative:

Kevin Rochford
121 E. Navarre
South Bend, IN 46601
(219) 233-5298
Irish recover with 65-55 win

The Daily Crossword

by Michael Molinelli

The last three minutes. There was no inconsistent play and we didn't commit very many turnovers (12 in all), so I'm basically pleased with our performance.

"We've still got a couple of things to work on, and definitely need Jane back, (se­nor co-captain Polinski who is still nursing a severely sprained ankle) but all things considered, we're in pretty good shape at this point in the season. I will say this though - we're awful tired.

No one can blame Petro or her cagers for feeling that. Tues­day's game at Valpo was the eighth the Irish have played in the last 12 days. Tonight, the team will be off to the Universi­ty of Chicago, and on returning to The Bend will face cost­ters with Mount St. Joseph's (which will immediately follow Satur­day's men's game against Me­land), and arch rival Saint Mary's (Wednesday January 13­ 7:10 p.m.).

Three Irish players reached double figures in Tuesday night's victory, which raised Notre Dame's record to 8-4. Freshman Sharon Marty led the way for the Irish with 22 points and six rebounds. Sophomore Tricia McManus and Missy Conboy added 14 and 11 points respectively. McManus also contributed seven rebounds.

In the contest, the Irish set a team record for best free throw percentage for a single game by connecting on 13 of 17 charity tosses for 76.4 percent. The old record was set on November 18, 1978, when Notre Dame hit 26 of 38 (70 percent) in an 81-51 season opening win over Clarke College.

Senior centership Molly Cash­man, who hit four of six free throws to contribute to Tuesday night's record setting perfor­mance, talked last night about her role in getting the team up for games.

"Sometimes it can be a problem getting up for games like that (against Valpo)" said the 5-4 guard from Hopkins, Minnesota. "One of the things that helps is realizing that we are a big game on their sche­dule. The fact that we are Notre Dame, and the fact that we had beaten them five times in the last two years really made them ready to want to play us, and it took a great team effort for us to beat them last night." As far as other games are concerned, I try to basically approach them all the same way. The team knows what they have to do and all it takes is concentration on our part to per­form the way we are capable of performing.

Duke upset

By MARK HANNESKJA Sports Writer

It's not uncommon for a team to be unmotivated for a ball­game which comes on the heels of a tough loss. And if the game is against a team which you have beaten before, the coach might as well throw any hope for intensity out in the snow.

Lucky for Coach Sharon Petro of the women's basketball team, that proved to be an un­necessary thing to do.

"That just might have been the most consistent game we've played all season," stated Petro yesterday in discussing Notre Dame's 65-55 victory over Valpo­ tones Tuesday night. "It was back and forth most of the way, but we finally took control in the

Molarity

by Michael Molinelli

The Daily Crossword

by Michael Molinelli

ACROSS

Down

Yesterdays & clues

Thursday, January 24, 1980 - page 10
Matvey

Was consistency from the free throw line, arising out of 22 attempts for what Dallessio termed, "the margin of victory." Dallessio also added that his team's ability to maintain poise in the Manchester gym also proved a deciding factor. "Numerous times in the game (Manchester) had the momentum going with a noisy crowd. At the beginning we were stumped, but MacGregor O'Brien did a super job stabilizing the team. She is a leader and the effect of her being on court means a lot. She put in some clutch baskets down the stretch that iced it for us." The game was not an easy one for the Belles, who trailed throughout the majority of the game. At half time Manchester held a 53-50 edge and managed to increase that lead to seven midway through the second period. "We kept coming back," remembered Dallessio, "with four minutes left we took the lead for good with some clutch baskets and free throws."

It was much closer than a five point game, both 'teams played well and it was a good game for the crowd. I think we weren't doing anything wrong, they were just doing everything right," ended Dallessio.

The win over Manchester was the first of the season for Mary's had defeated the team from North Manchester this season. Though the Belles came away with a 20-18 victory in the Huntington Tournament.

...Belles

"I came back last week with the thought of going 11-3 in the league," explained Dave. "Well, we won two so now it is down to 9-3 over the next 12. Our team still has a lot of potential, enough to make something out of this season too." More with efforts like that last Saturday, Norte Dame's chance to appear very good indeed.

All classified ads must be received by 10:00 a.m. on Tuesdays prior to the issue in which they are to run.

Classifieds
J Jackson paces win over Ioni

by Mark Ferry
Sports Editor

With Tracy Jackson leading the way with 18 points, Notre Dame coach Digger Phelps got a good opportunity to look at his whole team in action, as the Irish cruised to an easy 84-63 win over the Golden Griffins of Canisius College at the ACC last night.

"The kids needed the playing time," said Jackson. "It was good to have them get on the bench in there. They all played very well." Jackson scored six of Notre Dame's first ten points, helping to ignite a rally that turned an 8-8 tie into a 16-8 Irish lead that was never threatened. "I was happy to get the offensive and defensive rebounds well, and I was happy with the way we mixed up our boards well, and I was happy with the way we mixed up our defenses." Phelps used his bench freely, as ten reserves scored for Notre Dame. Jackson was followed by Kelly Tripucka, who notched 11 points, and ten players. Jackson led all reserves with ten.

Polvin bounces back to lead ND

by Brian Beglane
Sports Writer

In a season of ups and downs for the Notre Dame hockey team, sophomore Dave Polvin has taken the grand tour from the peaks to the valleys. When he is healthy, sometimes it seems like a brick wall is the only thing that can stop him on the ice. But a ton of bricks fell on Polvin in mid-November when his ankle injury limited him to action on the ice for six to eight games. He was a non-factor when the Irish started the season, but was the fact he missed eight games.

Having something like meningits just changes your perception of everything," said Polvin, a native of Mississauga, Ontario. "I had been very sick like that before. There is nothing, I could do about it, I guess it was like some outside force acting on me. Polvin fortunately responded well to treatment and was released from the hospital in less than a week. A month's period of recovery followed, but the sophomore was back for the season opener against Westminster on Saturday, and returned to action on the ice on Dec. 29. The following week in Minnesota the second-year center came down with the measles, and missed three games. "I guess I was starting to worry about basketball, but I would do it anyway," said Dave. "My defenses must have been low after being sick before, so that's why I got the measles. I had lost over 20 pounds from my preseason weight, but I'm starting to get back to where I was." Bounce back 2" might qualify as his catchphrase for the year. Playing almost healthy for the first time since Nov. 10, Polvin led an Irish sweep last weekend over Colorado College with four goals and three assists. Included in that was a second period hat trick in Saturday's 3-3 win. For his efforts, Polvin was named the Western Collegiate Hockey Association's Player of the Week.

"There's no doubt about it," says Notre Dame coach Lefty Smith. "Dave makes things go; he's as fast a skater, a superb playmaker and 100 percent of the time." His presence makes a big difference.

"I really was ready to get back playing," added Polvin. "It had been a long time, and I hate being a spectator." Spectacular, however, does not mean he is a wreck of a style. Despite the lack of ice time, he looks extremely fit, and despite the highly productive weekend, said Smith, "He didn't score, but Polvin was not a 100 percent healthy player." That is the difference.

"The Irish will now begin preparations for the nationally televised contest against Maryland, the leaders in the Eastern Division of the ACC Conference. Tip-off is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. at the ACC.

Pep rally

There will be pep rally for the Notre Dame-Maryland game tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m. in the ACC pit. Digger Phelps, the Notre Dame band and cheerleaders, and a special guest will be featured. Everyone is urged to attend and show their support for the Irish as they prepare for their nationally televised battle against the Friars of the Terriers.

Matvey emerges in premiere season

by Beth Huffman
Women's Sports Editor

They say that basketball is a tall man's game, but Notre Dame guard Angela Matvey has started to turn some to the notion that basketball can benefit the small man. Matvey, who is a fast skater, a superb playmaker and ignites the rest of the Notre Dame sweep last weekend over the Mountaineers. Named an all Big East player in her high school career with a record of 29, and was named most valuable player of the tournament for her efforts. But putting the ball in the basket is something that Matvey has grown accustomed to. Matvey had a disheartening start at Austin High School her first year, playing very little, but she is making a name for herself by driving for most of his points. "I was really was ready to get back playing," added Polvin. "It had been a long time, and I hate being a spectator." Spectacular, however, does not mean he is a wreck of a style. Despite the lack of ice time, he looks extremely fit, and despite the highly productive weekend, said Smith, "He didn't score, but Polvin was not a 100 percent healthy player." That is the difference.

"I really was ready to get back playing," added Polvin. "It had been a long time, and I hate being a spectator." Spectacular, however, does not mean he is a wreck of a style. Despite the lack of ice time, he looks extremely fit, and despite the highly productive weekend, said Smith, "He didn't score, but Polvin was not a 100 percent healthy player." That is the difference.

"I really was ready to get back playing," added Polvin. "It had been a long time, and I hate being a spectator." Spectacular, however, does not mean he is a wreck of a style. Despite the lack of ice time, he looks extremely fit, and despite the highly productive weekend, said Smith, "He didn't score, but Polvin was not a 100 percent healthy player." That is the difference.

"I really was ready to get back playing," added Polvin. "It had been a long time, and I hate being a spectator." Spectacular, however, does not mean he is a wreck of a style. Despite the lack of ice time, he looks extremely fit, and despite the highly productive weekend, said Smith, "He didn't score, but Polvin was not a 100 percent healthy player." That is the difference.

"I really was ready to get back playing," added Polvin. "It had been a long time, and I hate being a spectator." Spectacular, however, does not mean he is a wreck of a style. Despite the lack of ice time, he looks extremely fit, and despite the highly productive weekend, said Smith, "He didn't score, but Polvin was not a 100 percent healthy player." That is the difference.

"I really was ready to get back playing," added Polvin. "It had been a long time, and I hate being a spectator." Spectacular, however, does not mean he is a wreck of a style. Despite the lack of ice time, he looks extremely fit, and despite the highly productive weekend, said Smith, "He didn't score, but Polvin was not a 100 percent healthy player." That is the difference.

"I really was ready to get back playing," added Polvin. "It had been a long time, and I hate being a spectator." Spectacular, however, does not mean he is a wreck of a style. Despite the lack of ice time, he looks extremely fit, and despite the highly productive weekend, said Smith, "He didn't score, but Polvin was not a 100 percent healthy player." That is the difference.

"I really was ready to get back playing," added Polvin. "It had been a long time, and I hate being a spectator." Spectacular, however, does not mean he is a wreck of a style. Despite the lack of ice time, he looks extremely fit, and despite the highly productive weekend, said Smith, "He didn't score, but Polvin was not a 100 percent healthy player." That is the difference.

"I really was ready to get back playing," added Polvin. "It had been a long time, and I hate being a spectator." Spectacular, however, does not mean he is a wreck of a style. Despite the lack of ice time, he looks extremely fit, and despite the highly productive weekend, said Smith, "He didn't score, but Polvin was not a 100 percent healthy player." That is the difference.