Riehle/Behney top SBP-SBVP election

In a strong showing, Paul Riehle and Don Ciancio led the SBP-SBVP with 43 percent of the vote in the campus election held yesterday. The ticket of Tom Behney and Frank Guillfoyle garnered 22 percent of the vote and will face Riehle-Cianco in a runoff tomorrow.

Mark Kelley won the Off-Campus Commissioner race outright with a 56 percent majority of all votes cast. Approximately 325 people voted in the election, but according to Bro. Ed Lurher, member of the Campus Council, based on last year's figures there might have been some 1300 students eligible to vote for the position.

The other tickets for SBP-SBVP, Tim "Slats" Slattery, "Uncle" Keith Cooper and Bob Carey-Torsten Marshall, received 16 and 18 percent of the vote respectively.

In the Off-Campus election, John Solari finished second to Kelley with 30 percent of the vote, and Joe Lohmuller received the remaining 14 percent of the ballots.

Riehle and Ciancio made a strong showing in Flanner, Ciancio's home territory. They received an overwhelming majority in Keenan, Riehle's base, where he garnered 226 of the 234 votes cast. Riehle-Cianco also carried the North Quad by a large majority.

Behney and Guillfoyle made their strongest showing in Alumni where they received over two-thirds of the votes cast. This did not stop Riehle and Ciancio from winning the South Quad, but by a much smaller margin than on the North.

Carey and Marshall received the highest number of votes from off-campus residents, approximately 55 percent of the total.

Voters ready for primary election

CONCORD, NH (AP) - After months of being wooed, raged, lectured and surveyed, the people of New Hampshire take part today in their final poll - the primary election that could reshape the field of presidential contenders.

Sen. Edward Kennedy, who running nearly 2-1 behind President Carter in some polls, predicted "we're going to make a strong showing" in the Democratic primary. Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. of California, was rated a distant third.

At the Republican stop, last minute votees of verbal shows reenacted in the final hours of a campaign that turned bitter Saturday night after the exclusion of four candidates from a debate between Ronald Reagan and George Bush, considered the frontrunners.

Former Gov. Hugh Gregg, Bush's New Hampshire campaign chairman, accused "using" the four other candidates to embarrass Bush.

There are many people in our operation who are quite incensed to think we've been sandbagged by Mr. Reagan, Gregg told reporters.

That's ridiculous," countered Reagan. "If anyone was sandbagged, the four gentlemen who were excluded from the debate were, and I probably was to a certain extent immediately after leaving the debating stage to Bush and Reagan, the four candidates said Bush was responsible for their exclusion. The Nashua Telegraph, sponsor of the debate, has assumed sole responsibility.

Government breaks down

KABUL, Afghanistia (AP) - The Soviet-backed government appeared to have virtually broken down yesterday in the face of strikes and violence protesting the Russian presence in Afghanistan. Medical sources and more than 300 civilians died in street fighting.

Striking civil servants and office workers ignored official broadcasts ordering them to return to work and Afghan government ministries were paralyzed for a third day. A general strike of shopkeepers continued into its fifth day.

Heavily armed Soviet and Afghan troops backed by submachine gun-toting civilian members of the ruling Kha People's Party, maintained patrols throughout the city.

The Soviet military commander in Kabul was, in effect, acting as head of the government.

Reports indicated fighting that raged in Kabul on Friday had slowed considerably, one report reaching New Delhi said gunfire raged through the streets of Kabul through Sunday. Some evidence of sporadic fighting in Kabul told a Paris radio station during a telephone interview that the center of the city was calm.

TASS, the official Soviet news agency, said "life in Kabul is now gradually coming back to normal," and claimed an "armed sortie of agents trained
Kissin' Carter smooches sis, hugs skatin' brother Eric

WASHINGTON (AP) -- President Carter welcomed members of the U.S. Olympic team to the White House Wednesday, calling them "modern-day American heroes." Carter shook hands with all the athletes but also gave a big hug to冰 Hockey, the speed skater who won five gold medals during the six completed Games. Carter also hugged Linda Franzanne, the silver medalist in figure skating, and Beth Heiden, younger sister of Eric who gained a bronze in speed skating. He also gave Miss Heiden a little kiss on the forehead.

Petro output slips due to oil strike, industry ungreased

Dublin (AP) -- Two months into the longest oil workers' strike in Ireland, the union's president says he is far from in agreement with the industry's giants despite reports that production is being shipped at the highly automated refineries involved. The latest offers from nine major oil companies are under consideration when the national bargaining committee met tomorrow at the Denver headquarters of the Oil, Chemical, and Atomic Workers Union.

Bench reverses convictions in reporter's bomb-killing

PHOENIX AR (AP) -- The Arizona Supreme Court reversed the murder convictions of Marx Dunlap and James Robinson in the bomb-killing of newswoman Dan Bolles. The high court said Robinson, a fledgling plumber, and Dunlap, a part-time contractor, were unfairly prevented from cross-examining John Adams, the state's key witness in the 1977 hearings. Adams, who pleaded guilty to second-degree murder, was sentenced to 20 years, admitted planting a bomb under Bolles' car.

Parades, speeches featured

(AP) Thousands of Iranians paraded through rain and snow past the occupied U.S. Embassy in Tehran today as President Ari stained Hassan Raji. Raji, who surrendered from the embassy compound wall that they must stay united in the face of fire, struck a blow for the "Machine gun armed Moslem militants marched back and forth in the courtyard of the embassy, where approximately 50 American hostages spent their 114th day in captivity. Raji's appearance, part of Iran's "Militization Week" ceremonies was his first at the embassy since he was elected president Jan. 25. In an interview published earlier Monday, the president hailed the hostages and lifted the hostages since Nov. 4, as "young patriots." And he made no mention of the release of the hostages in either the interview or the speech. But he did tell the interviewer for the Hong Kong Star newspaper that the militants "must respect the lawful authorities."

The four-day long U.N. investigation commission on Iran testimony in Tehran Monday from top diplomats of 26 nations alleged human rights violations under the regime of the deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

The U.S. said it had understood that the U.N. "Fact finding" mission would lead to the release of the hostages, but the Iranians insist that there is no such commission. Revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini said that any decision on the hostages must await the election and convening of a new Parliament, not expected until April at the earliest.

The Observer: "Obvious more patience is needed." Obviously, the Shah be returned to Iran as soon as possible by whatever means. His return means freedom.

Early in the 111-month-old embassy standoff, the militants released a letter in support of the demands said to be lived signed by over half the hostages.

Hundreds of thousands had been expected to take part in the parade past the embassy, but the inclement weather held down the numbers. People watching the militants parade inside the embassy grounds chanted anti-Khomeini slogans and held Khomeini posters aloft.

In New York, a spokesman said U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim feels the commission's "inconclusive interim report." "The Secretary General is confident that all these efforts will lead to a final solution of the crisis," said spokesman Radouan Sadi. "Obviously more patience is needed." The English-Language Tehran Times newspaper published what was said to be a letter from embassy hostage Brian Herman, 45, a State Department budget officer, urging that the militants demand for the return of the Shah to Iran be postponed.

The Feb. 13-dated letter, addressed "To the American people," noted that the militants consider the Shah to have been a tyrant guilty of many crimes and says, "We wish to repeat our urgent request that the Shah be returned to Iran as soon as possible, by whatever means. His return means freedom."

Kramer tops award nominees

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - "Breaking Away," a modestly budgeted comedy about four youths reaching maturity in Italians, was nominated for a surprising five Academy Awards yesterday.

The movie, filmed on location around Greensboro, N.C., gained Oscar nominations for best picture, best supporting actress, best director, original screenplay and adaptation score.

The five nominations were:
- Best picture: "Breaking Away" (producer, independent)
- Best actress: Barbara Babitch of "Breaking Away" (nominated for best supporting actress, best director, original screenplay and adaptation score)
- Best director: Jerry Schatzberg ("Breaking Away")
- Best screenplay: Jerry Schatzberg and Bob Fosse, co-screenwriters ("Breaking Away")
- Best adaptation: Jerry Schatzberg, original screenplay and adaptation score ("Breaking Away")

"Kramer vs. Kramer," another Robert Benton film, received four nominations:
- Best picture
- Best actor: Dustin Hoffman ("Kramer vs. Kramer")
- Best actress: Meryl Streep ("Kramer vs. Kramer")
- Best supporting actress: Katherine Helmond ("Kramer vs. Kramer")

Other films nominated include:
Junior Parents Weekend was held this past weekend and, according to Chairman Jim Riedman, the event went over "much better than expected." A record crowd of over 2,450 people attended the President's Banquet on Saturday. Though the event is not designed to make money, it did generate some revenue, he said.

According to Steve Burgoon, financial chairman, the weekend brought in approximately $1,500. "Most of the money was made on the cocktail party," Burgoon estimated.

The weekend was run on a very strict budget, and because of the unexpectedly large crowd, some money was made, he said.

Junior Parents Weekend was surprisingly well considering the fire at the Ramada Inn and the raid at Goose's. According to Riedman, most of the parents at the closing breakfast when the fire broke out. Some volunteers did drive over to the motel to check on any parents that may have been affected by the blaze, but few parents were affected. Similarly, most Junior and Senior parents were at the President's Dinner when Goose's was raided.

The weekend began with the cocktail party on Friday night. Saturday started with work shops with the professors of the different colleges and was concluded with the President's Dinner and a concelebrated mass. Rounding out the weekend was the closing breakfast on Sunday morning.

Riedman said that a report should not be written as this year's junior class could learn from this year's programs, successes and problems. He advises next year's junior class to "be prepared to do a lot of work, but it is worth the trouble."

Blatant sexism?

Where are you going to go when you are 14 or 15 and get an abortion? And how, if you are at all old enough, do you tell your parents? You must have at least two years of graduate or professional school before you are an Air Force officer. Non-scholarship students enrolled in the Air Force ROTC are required to notify parents before having an abortion. Young girls have a legal right to abortion, but there is a lack of facilities for young girls to have abortions. The case, which likely will not be argued until next fall and decided sometime in 1981, forces the court to weigh the constitutional rights of young women to have abortions against the traditional rights of parents.

The Utah law is being challenged by an 18-year-old girl, identified only as H.L., in a federal court, who did not want her parents to be told about her abortion. She, at age 15, went out of her home and left her parents.

WASHINGTON-The Supreme Court said today it will decide whether the parents of young girls have a legal right to be notified before young girls undergo an abortion. The justices agreed to review a Utah law that requires doctors to notify parents before performing abortions. Utah law is being challenged by a 15-year-old girl in federal court.

On women and Law School

Lawyers advise students

Senior Staff Reporter

Emphasizing the moral quality of a Notre Dame Law School education and the practical aspects of life for women entering law practice, six members of the Notre Dame Law community addressed an audience last night in Hayes-Healy Auditorium.

The seminar "Women in Law," which was sponsored by the Notre Dame Pre-Law Society, and attended approximately a hundred interested students, according to society president Diane Rice.

The speakers last night included Professor Patricia O'Hara, visiting professor of Law, local attorneys Joanne Schwartz and Carmen Paeseck, and three women from the Notre Dame Law staff.

All the speakers commented favorably on the quality of education at the Notre Dame Law School. O'Hara told her audience that "you will not find the same atmosphere here at other law schools."

Adrienne Coffin, a second year law student, said that there are many really dedicated professors here, and an awareness of moral issues in the law. She described the Christian Lawyers Forum as an example of moral awareness. This group meets regularly to discuss ethical questions brought up by legal practice.

Attorneys Schwartz and Paeseck concentrated their talks on relating their experiences as professional women successfully maintaining a normal family life. Schwartz affirmed that it is possible to step out of practice for a few years to start a family and then return to the law. But she cautioned her audience that it is prudent to become established first.

The 1974 valedictorian from Notre Dame Law School, O'Hara, practices corporate law in San Francisco. She is teaching at Notre Dame while taking a two-year sabbatical. O'Hara outlined the history of women in American law practice. She stated that today there are triple the number of women in law school than there were in 1970. She said that "career numbers are breaking down the obstacles to women in the law. Judge and clerks stop thinking of us as different."

O'Hara painted an optimistic picture for dedicated students looking toward law school. "The future for women interested in law is extremely promising, opportunities are open," especially in corporate law and government work, she said.

For those interested in Business law, O'Hara indicated the usefulness of accounting courses. She listed several other skills she felt necessary for law school, including analytical, problem-solving and writing. O'Hara also commented on where to apply, pointing out that the locality of the law school is a factor to be considered.

The law students answered practical questions concerning first year work loads, social life and attitudes that students assume toward law school.

Coffin mentioned that, "taking a few years off before starting law and before law school, is a viable option.

"As I said that the seminar was "very informative." She said that "the field of law is becoming more flexible - women have a lot more mobility - if you're a successful lawyer, then or woman, options are open and available to you."

Irish swimmers win finale; finish season at 7-5

by Michael Orman

Before the start of each swimming season, every coach sets a realistic goal for his team—improvement.

For Stalk's 1979-80 edition, the regular season came to a close Saturday, as the Irish defeated host Illinois State, 76-72, but ended their three-year Ivy League title goal. The final dual meet record of 7-3 was the best finish since the 1974-75 season, when the Irish finished with a remarkable 11-1 record.

For wins over Illinois State, Stalk's 11th in his 22 years as the helm, brought back memories for the veteran coach. "That 1978 win was in the same pool against the same opponent, also in a regular season finale. "We won that one, and the second exciting way we won this one," said Stalk, "putting it on the final leg and the last relay, an exciting finish to a great season."

Leading 54-52 going into the final period, Notre Dame relied, the Irish needed a first place finish and the accompanying seventh place to clinch the victory. The relay team of Roody, Brady, Flynn, and Jackman broke a 5-47, 57, the best time this year for 1,650 meters, and turned the 72-72 tie into a victory for Notre Dame this season and just the seventh win in four years for this team, a feat of the victory record.

"I think they really didn't indicate what kind of a season it was, said Stalk. "We could have had six wins, or had just lost 9-13 with a little bit of added luck."

The Irish were defeated by two one-hundredths of a second. The Irish would be the last of the six teams to finish.

The Irish would carry their last 1978-79 season momentum into the second meet of the Midwestern Intercollegiate, a competition which saw several Irish records fall at the close of competition. "You'll probably not have any teams for this year," said Stalk. "We're already getting used to the idea."

Above all, Notre Dame will probably shave down, wouldn't have been named "Coach of the Year", I'd have to dump off all the coaches that didn't vote for me," said Stalk. "I'm still excited about the team, and very happy about the season."

"Several years ago we could not give out scholarships because of a certain ruling. I was at Notre Dame at a Notre Dame affair and I seemed pretty pleased. I mentioned to the speaker I'm back to the track, he asked me down."

"I told him that we couldn't give scholarships," Meyer recalled with a smile. "And he told me that he would send me some information about the scholarships. He was doing the right thing. I took the information to our president and he convinced him—he said that we could give scholarships—of course, it didn't matter."

Stalk served as the connection with Notre Dame, even though the Demons and the Irish were annual rivals. "I've been very pleased to have them with me in this, that we could work together," said Stalk. "Coach following a victory over Notre Dame hangs about the coach as a constant reminder of his deep DePauw roots.

"One thing Notre Dame taught me to do was to pay," offered the graduate of 15, who is seldom found without his rosary. "The guys on the court call me "Lucky Beads" because I always have them with me. I also went to Mass at Notre Dame every day, and that has carried over into our lives now—our Mass is only in the morning or afternoon."

"Notre Dame taught me a great deal," acknowledged Meyer with a thankful nod. "I'll always be indebted to them for that."

It was the Irish who were able to get a Mass a few times. "I was always able to get Mass. But then, always, what better place than in Alumni Hall?"

Two-milers qualify for NCAAs

For the second consecutive weekend, the Notre Dame track team traveled to Decatur, Ill., for the NCAA Indoor Track Championship. The two-mile relay team consisting of Jay Miranda, Tim Macaluso, Pete Bursch and Chuck Baker turned in a sensational 7:28.5 finish that easily qualified them for next weekend's nationals. Aragon had assumed himself of a trip in the NCAAs, flying halfway across the country.

The relay team, despite their fine time, finished in second place in the meet. When the race was over, the fans were rounded up to their normal seats. Aragon ran halfway across the country.

In the two-mile relay: all four of our runners ran well, but they are all capable of going faster. In addition to Aragon's time, his time is 1:54.3. He has bested them in the last three years. His three seconds off the required finish.

For the second weekend, another of the relay teams, the one-mile relay team turned in a best time of 3:58.8. Despite finishing only second in the heat, the team of Steve Dillahan, Jim Gingerich and Bill Riveria had to be pleased.

Other fine Irish performances were turned in by Rogers in the half mile, and Perry Stow in the mile. We have progressed from an average to very good team to one that is so strong that we can compete for a national title in a very short time. We haven't done much speed, but we are really coming into our own right now.

The distance medley team just missed in their attempt at qualifying for the championship.

The team of Rick Rogers, Jacques Eady, Aragon, and Burger, combined for a 9:53.0 time, two seconds off the required finish.

DePaul answers prayers of sports-hungry Chicago

It's in the sports section of the Chicago Tribune every morning. It's visible in the floods of merchandise that go on sale in front of Alumni Hall before DePaul basketball games. And it's obvious to any visitor perusing the awards in Coach Ray Meyer's office.

Chicago's prayers have been answered. But, while sports purists in the Windy City simply marvel and enjoy their first winner in ages, it seems like all the capitalist pigs in Chicago have suddenly discovered that there is a school named DePaul and their money can buy and sell red, white, and blue color make for a winning combination.

Four years ago, a 6-11 giant named Dave Corzine gave Blue Demons fans the right to shout "DePaul is Back" on their bumper stickers. Athletic Director Mr. Robert Geist allowed one of these remnants of sales campaigns past on a lamp in his office. In 1979-80, however, the fenders on the cars parked in the streets and around Lincoln Park say "WE ARE DEPAUL." The buttons on the lapels of local merchants (including the lady who makes the gong in the Student Union and probably couldn't distinguish a basketball from a rape victim) now shout "DePaul Blue Demons - #1".

This marvelous love affair grows each day, from the red and blue Terribles in the bookstore to the string of marquee lights on North Lincoln Avenue above the card shops and movie theaters proclaiming DePaul's exhausted position atop the weekly polls.

For the past weeks, assistant coach Joe Meyer has even managed to join the ranks of the Chicago media by splicing the dopes on DePaul in his daily diary that appears in the DePaul Sports. Coach Ray Meyer nonetheless gladly grants an interview to The Observer from his office in Alumni Hall.
