Murder alarms ND students

by John M. Higgins

A resident of South Bend was murdered in her Notre Dame Avenue apartment last night. Delmarie Britton, 28, was found behind a couch in her apartment at 1010 Notre Dame Avenue across the street from the Goose’s Nest Tavern. She was pronounced dead at the scene of a gunshot wound in the back, by the county coroner at 9:45 p.m.

Police said neighbors heard gunshots at approximately 9 p.m. and that a white and blue Cadillac was seen leaving the vicinity of the murder. A car matching the description was seen at approximately 10:30 p.m. near the Notre Dame post office. Robbery was cited as a possible motive for the killing. No additional information was available.

Students living in the area were shocked by the news of the murder. “We’re all frightened to death,” one student said.

“This is the second murder in five weeks,” said a second student. “I walk through this area all the time, and I’ve never felt safe.”

Informed of the incident, Off-Campus Community Director Mark Kelley said, “No matter what the circumstances behind the shooting may be, this crime indicates that we have a seri­ous problem right in the core of the student neighborhood. Some corrective steps are necessary, especially regarding the relationship between the South Bend police and off-campus students and the University. Student safety off campus must be improved.”

Most students can only pray it is just around the corner.

Existentalist Jean-Paul Sartre dies

PARIS (AP) - Jean-Paul Sartre, whose existentialist view of man as the maker of his destiny placed him among the giants of modern philosophy, died yesterday after a month-long illness.

The 74-year-old French writer-philosopher died at Broussais Hospital in Paris, surrounded by a few close friends, townspeople and those present, Liliane Siegel, author of a book on his life.

Others at his death bed, according to Ms. Siegel, were feminist author and playwright Simone de Beauvoir, Sartre’s close companion for most of his life, and his adopted daughter, Arlette el Kaim.

Sartre, who was admitted to Broussais March 19 for treat­ment of pulmonary edema, accumulated fluid in the lungs that hampered his breathing. He died shortly after 9 p.m. 2, EST.

The existentialist Sartre was awarded the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1964, but refused to accept the prestigious prize to mark his contempt for what he called bourgeois honors.

Nearly blind in the last decade of his life, Sartre had virtually given up writing, as reading had made him legendary as an impassioned, though often ineffectual, defender of justice as he saw it.

Sartre’s writings explained that the movement (AAPP) has a threefold purpose. The major objective is to collect African students from college campuses across the nation who understand that it is their responsibility to help alleviate the suffering of the African masses. The projected goal of the AAPPF is to establish a united African front under socialist rule.

He also cited the AAPPF attempts to raise the consciousness level of every American man and woman. “We try to help make people think for themselves, but this is extremely difficult to accomplish in America,” Carmichael said.

Stokely Carmichael

Carmichael speaks against capitalism

by Pam Dogra

“Capitalism degrades the thought process and must be destroyed,” said Stokely Carmichael, the leader of the All-African People’s Revolutionary Party (AAPRP), who has adopted the African name Kwame Toure, told a moderate sized audience last night in All-African People’s Revolutionary Party (AAPRP) meeting; in Nieuwland Hall that the capitalist system exploits the masses and prevents the people from determining their own future.

“Is it ridiculous to believe that under a capitalist system, people have equal opportuni­ties in life? How can one explain why in the U.S. there are millionaires with oil wells and pious pates who sit on their backs?” the former Black Panther leader asked.

Carmichael further explained that the capitalist system tends to breed certain attitudes in college students. He called bourgeois honors.

As a political leftist, part of the misunderstanding was of Sartre’s own making. He liked to think of himself as a member of the proletariat, but most of what he said and wrote were his own ideas.

His doctrine held that only man’s commitment to a cause, his conscious participation, makes him different from animals or inanimate objects.

He argued that man by himself is a creature without soul or meaning, and the only freedom worth fighting for is the freedom of choice.

His earlier achievements made Sartre one of the most prestigious playwrights and novelists in the French lan­guage.

He vehemently opposed the French war in Algeria in the 1950s and the American war in Vietnam. He gave his prestige to such causes as Lord Bertrand Russell’s “War Crimes Tribunal” during the Vietnamese war and the Basler-Merishof urban guerrilla movement in West Germany in the 1960s and 1970s.

Sartre was born in Paris on June 21, 1905. His father was a naval officer and his mother, born Anne-Marie Schweitzer, was a niece of the philosopher, Albert Schweitzer, who won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1952.

News in brief

CHURCH.

Students may be using a new procedure for advance registration for the fall semester similar to the one Notre Dame has been using.

Students are instructed to enter the registration area at the southeast entrance of Angela Athletic Facility and to bring their I.D. cards and an accurate schedule of classes booklets. I.D. cards will serve as students' official entry to register.

Students should check in at the first table by showing their I.D. card and giving their name. Notre Dame students should show their Form 30.

Center announces seminar

Students who participated in departmental pre-registration for majors will receive a list of the classes for which they are already pre-registered.

Students should then proceed to the departmental tables where they will register. From the department’s representative, the student should request a card for each section in which she wishes to enroll.

Students who participated in departmental pre-registration for majors will not need to obtain class cards for those courses previously selected and indicated on the list of classes.

If a student should change her mind about a course for which she has already obtained a class card or for which she had signed up at departmental pre-registration, the student should report to the drop table.

There, the student may turn in any unwanted class cards and drop any courses she may have selected as her departmental pre-registration. Students who do not attend to return cards to the departmental tables.

When a student has all of her class cards, she should sign her name and social security number on the back of each card as the tables along the exit corridor. She should then turn all of her class cards in at the Registrar's table. Students carrying more than 18 credits should list these credits on Terri Mary’s Academic Affairs forms.

When a student turns in her class cards at the Registrar’s table, she will be given a pre-punched card authorizing her to have an I.D. made.

The student should return to the gym for I.D. pictures April 24 and 25 from 8:30-11:30 a.m. and from 1:30-4:30 p.m. At this point, the registration process will be complete. Students should exit using the north door of Angela.

Byrne appoints ND graduate

by Mary Fran Callahan
Senior Staff Reporter

Chicago Mayor Jane Byrne on Sunday appointed Joseph Whelan, a Notre Dame alumnus, to the position of her personal appointment secretary—a job which pays $21,800 annually.

Byrne, who has been criticized for her blunter-than-blunt negotiating tactics in bond talks and for her nepotistic tendencies following the appointment of her daughter to a key administrative post in Chicago, also named a new public relations chief in city hall, who has also been implicated in the so-called "shock and awe" deal with fiberoptic company TeleOptic. Also, Byrne announced the appointment of a new public relations chief in the city hall.

Whelan, a former aide to the mayor, will be the mayor's personal secretary. He was previously the deputy chief of staff for Mayor Richard Daley.

Whelan's appointment is expected to be controversial, as he is a close friend of the mayor and was a key player in the recent bond talks. However, Byrne has defended her decision, saying that Whelan is the right person for the job.

PHILOSOPHY

244 Philosophy of Law 10 MWF Hawk

The purpose of this class in the philosophy of law is to view law in its philosophy and discrimination. This will occur by the analysis and assessment of concrete issues such as: What is the nature of law? What is the nature of legal liberty? What is justice? What is the nature and what are the limits to my responsibility? What is the justification, if any of punishments? There will also be a special section of the course devoted to acts of conscience in their legal environment.

244C Philosophical Issues in Women's Studies 2TT4 Clark

This course is designed to acquaint students with contemporary research in women's studies and to provide a forum for discussing issues in that research. Among topics of discussion will be language, freedom, power and the self.

RELIGIOUS STUDIES

300 Christian Culture 11MW Jancokzi, McDonell, Mandell

From the various perspectives of Religious Studies, Philosophy, and Humanities Studies, this course examines ways Christians, and Catholics in particular, have understood the relationship of the Gospel to the natural forms, human values, and social issues. Cross-listed with HUST 300 and Phil 300. Underclassmen only.

356 World Justice and Church 11TS Maltes

This course focuses on the teaching of the Catholic Church in relation to contemporary issues of social justice. The biblical notion of justice is examined in depth. Recent encyclicals, dogmas of Vatican II, and statements from national conferences of bishops dealing with social issues are studied along with the writings of contemporary theologians and social analysts. The role of various agencies within the Church as well as volunteer associations of Christians concerned with problems like world hunger, peace, human rights, third world development, minority groups, the situation of women, etc. are examined. Along with regularly assigned readings, films, and group discussions, the participants are given the opportunity to participate in local issues through research concerning one particular current social justice issue of their choice and write a major paper on that topic.

SOCIOLOGY

203 Introduction to Social Problems 9TT11, 10TT12, 11TS McGee

An examination and evaluation of (1) the nature of social problems and the perspectives used to understand such problems, (2) the extent of selected social problems such as aging, crime and delinquency, substance abuse, suicide, divorce, child abuse, racial prejudice, poverty, and the role of selected social institutions such as the family, religion and education in social problems and (4) the personal and societal responses made to social problems. No prerequisites.

235 Social Work Policy and Service 9TT11 Pilger

Development of social policy and service programs in response to changing social conditions. Focuses on the theory, history, scope, nature, organization, and implementation of concurrent programs on local, state, and federal levels. No prerequisites. Offered fall semester.

305 Business and Society 9TT11 Horning

A systematic analysis and evaluation of both the cultural and social factors which shape the role of business in our society. Materials draw, in large part, from other courses used as a basis for comparison. Illustrative topics include organizational structure, power authority, social responsibility, organizational behavior and ethics. Prerequisite: Soc 153 or permission of the instructor. Offered fall semester.

355 American Minorities 12 MWF McKevelly

The study of the patterns of intergroup relations in various societies with special attention to integration, segregation, cultural pluralism and temporary accommodation. No prerequisites. Offered fall semester.

Holderbey vs. Espinosa
Scholars debate euthanasia morality

by Chip Black

"They shoot horses, don't they?" repeated Rev. Dr. Robert Holderbey in a debate last night with Dr. Jose Espinosa over euthanasia. The debate, sponsored by the ND/SMC Right to Life campaign, was held in the Library Auditorium before a crowd of approximately 50 people.

Holderbey's statement concerned the patient to death of patients who are suffering severe pain and are on brink of dying. He used several examples of 'hijious death,' where, according to him, euthanasia should be applied.

The format of the debate gave Espinosa speaking time first, with Holderbey allowed an equal allotment of 25 minutes to speak. After each participant had spoken, the floor was opened to questions.

"If there are ten heads and nine hats, do you get more hats or do you start chopping? Unfortunately, our society sometimes chooses the latter," Espinosa, a professor at Case Western Medical School, said about the United States' attitude towards euthanasia.

Espinosa stresses the inadequacy of pro-euthanasia definitions of 'close to dying.'

He pointed out that a low reading on an EEG did not give an accurate account of the life in a body. Espinosa also mentioned that many doctors wish to kill infants they believe 'defective.'

He concluded his presentation by outlining the current laws that deal with euthanasia and how he believed that many of the terms in the laws were vague.

"I endorse the right to live."

Rogari said.

Campus View Manager John Wilson declined to estimate the damage, saying only that it was “nowhere near” the $35,000 estimated in the police report.

The residents of the apartment deny that the fire was caused by fireworks. “There’s just no way,” one said. “We were only using little firecrackers, not bottle rockets, and we stopped at five o’clock when two girls came over.”

A根据Chief Robert Lindley of the Clay Township Fire Department, Campus View has had no other fires since the complex opened in 1974. “This is the first fire that we were aware of,” Lindley said, “other than a small one two years ago that was set in order to cover up a burglary.”

Campus View undergoes no regular inspection for fire safety, Lindley said: “It’s a residential area. We are not allowed to inspect unless the residents request it.

Day 4. Bookstore Basketball held a record turnout for the weather. But no one seemed to care as crowds to pack up for yesterday's second round action in the campus basketball classics.

"There were a lot more people watching today," offered bookstore Commissioner Rob Simari. "The weather really began to clear up for us this evening, and the temperatures were supported by a full house in the '70s by Friday.'"

A crowd of over 200 watched the defending champ "Defending Chumps" dispose of Tenenbuillt in the Bookstore courts. Dan Short led "Champs" with 7:4-5 scoring performance, while teammates Bill Hanulik and Tom Kaminke put in a good game. One of Hanulik buckets was an unconventional running jumper from just under the foul line. In other tourney highlights, "IU" Mccrain Carriers" flushed out the "I" with a 22-8 advantage on the Lyons courts. The "Carriers" were paced by Mike Koshuka's 7:6 finishing performance, while sophomore teammate Pete Vagas pumped the 6-8-for-8 clip.

The tournament has been very competitive so far, and we are expecting continued excitement in the rest of the games," said Simari.

Today's top Bookstore offerings feature "Much Later WEB" on Bookstore at 9:30, followed by "Buncher Brooklyn" at 10:00 on the same court. "Strapagamaspon and the Combat Guides" will be featured on their Bookstore session on Bookstore at 10, also at 6:15.

Irish Extra

By Bill Marguard

Notre Dame's spring drills were cancelled by inclement weather for the fourth time in a week. Tuesday was a muddy grounds and blustery weather for the Irish. But then Coach Dan to call off the drills of weater permitting, the Irish will work Wednesday. Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Notre Dame staff still haven't scheduled the team's first scrimmage of the spring, as the weather has been very pleasent so far by what the squad has accomplished during preseason work and other drills.

One positive note about the miserable weather is that the Irish had a long weekend. Football got a serious injury during their abbreviated week.

Buchanan strives for full recovery

By Frank LaGrotta

Or a time upon a time there was a coache named Dan Devine at a school called Notre Dame. Dan was a football coach and Notre Dame was a school that cared about football.

Well, one day Coach Devine was studying for his upcoming roster and he rubbed his hands in glee. His doctor had given him a free pass.

"The doctor provided a way to flush Dan Buchanan's hands in glee," recalls Dave Disabato, who owns a Plumbing Co. "The blocker was back ...'' was all the doctor could say. Dan was satisfied and went on to make the starting lineup.

"I did that for about 12 weeks," he remembers, "along with stretching and flexing exercises to get my strength back."

"I remember one long distance run out of contact drills and team work and is ready to be back on the field."

But then something happened. "I stepped on my hand and he doctors said it was a broken ankle. As they bandaged it up, he asked how Coach Dan saw all his linemen plans for the upcoming season evaporate into the misty dunne points of the cold autumn a term-0.

"I knew when I did it that it was bad and I told his friend, Buchanan, who would probably like to forget the whole scuffle. The ankle was a bit of a pain, but it was a good thing. I did that at fall workouts begin in August."

"I was so happy with a win," said Irish coach Tom Fallon, "but we had a bad of bad news today. I hope I think we got them all out of our system. But I can't say I didn't play."

Tennis team extends streak
