following murder

Crime awareness increases

by John Higgins

University and student officials are reacting to revived concern over the off-campus crime situation in the wake of the robbery/murder of a South Bend woman in her Notre Dame Avenue apartment Tuesday night. A meeting with South Bend Police Department has been set for next Monday afternoon.

Dean of Students James Roemer said that he asked Director of Security Glenn Terry to set up a meeting between Police Chief Mike Borkowski, and the NO Off-Campus Commissioner, Student Body President, chairman of the Hall President’s Council (HPC), and a representative of The Observer. According to Roemer, the group will discuss student protection, what additional things the South Bend Police Department can do, what the students can do for themselves, and what the University can do to help.

“This is a very, very serious matter,” Roemer added. “We regret very much that the person lost her life. We do not want any students to be hurt. We want to talk to the police about the additional things they can do to give us security.”

The victim, Delmarie Britton, 27, was murdered in her apartment at 1090 Notre Dame Avenue. Roemer reported that Britton forced her way into her apartment. Ms. Britton's boyfriend, who was a resident of the apartment, was beaten and tied up in a back room. Ms. Britton was found behind the couch in the living room with a gunshot wound in her back. Police say they have no suspects. An undetermined amount of cash and jewelry was taken.

Official announces possible military action against Iran

(AP) - Iran has until mid-May to end the deadlock or face possible military pressure, a senior U.S. official said yesterday. But in Tehran it was announced that the new Iranian Parliament, which is to decide the hostages' fate, may not even be elected by then.

A key Iranian leader, Ayatollah Mohammad Beheshti, told reporters in Tehran the parliamentary debate would take place "perhaps in June or July.

The Boston Globe reported the Carter Administration has informed its allies and Iran that it is prepared to clamp a naval blockade on Iran if there is no break in the hostage stalemate.

Lambsdorff said yesterday he "perhaps has appeared been taken or do I have to share it?"

Kennedy works to catch Carter

by Tom Koege

Senior Staff Reporter

Professor of Law Charles E. Rice decried what he called the "philosophy of moral neutrality espoused by the Planned Parenthood organization" as a "symptom of what has gone wrong with society" in a speech honoring "Respect Life Week" last night in the Library Auditorium.

Rice's speech, entitled "Planned Parenthood and the March of Dames: Society's Savoirs?" centered on Planned Parenthood's propagation of what he termed a "contraceptive mentality: the willful separation of the procreative aspect of sex from the simply unitive aspect of sex.

"I have no respect for people who would hand out contraceptives to little kids without their parents even knowing," Rice said. "The Rice Report that more germane issue, however, is that "they (Planned Parenthood) are a symptom of the problem of society."

Rice traced the origin of the concept of "moral neutrality" to three factors occurring over the past two decades: "the loss of certainty that what we know is right, the secularization of American life, and a "contraceptive mentality" which sees contraception as a God-given right.

These three forces have led to the acceptance of a moral neutrality in which there is no absolute moral right, and moral decisions are seen as being solely the area of the individual, according to Rice. This concept, he argues, "has sent 66 to the Senate and right up until the roll call," campaigned in a primary he appeared to have wrapped up.

Before embarking on the campaign trail yesterday, Kennedy told reporters, "I'm in the race right up until the roll call" at the convention.

In the Republican race, front-runner Ronald Reagan picked up the endorsements of New Jersey's 21 GOP county chairmen yesterday before flying to Philadelphia to begin only his second day of campaigning in a primary he appears to have wrapped up.

New Jersey will send 66 delegates to the GOP National Convention in July and Ray Donovan, Reagan's New Jersey campaign co-chairman, said yesterday's endorsements translate into at least 66 delegates for the former California governor.

The endorsements were a significant but not unexpected setback for U.N. Ambassador George Bush, who has been stumpimg hard in the crucial state of Pennsylvania this week in an effort to overturn Reagan's lead.

When he learned of the endorsements, the former Cali...
Research shows high cancer rate among Iowa farmers

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) - The death rate for Iowa farmers from all kinds of cancer is much higher than for non-farmers, indicating the "healthy farm life has its cancer risks," a university research team reported Tuesday. "It is quite surprising, I think the farmers will be somewhat surprised, too. The concept that farmers are healthier is a pretty universal one," said Dr. Leon Burmester, head of the project.

Anti-KKK group fights for demonstration rights

KOKOMO, Ind. (AP) - Anti-Klans Klan demonstrators have filed a formal request to hold a counter-demonstration to an already scheduled Ku Klans Klan march. The mayor said he has received calls and letters expressing some concern about closing on a Saturday, a big shopping day down town and says merchants are also concerned about what would happen if they stayed open during the march.

Weather

Becoming mostly cloudy today with a 30 percent chance for afternoon and evening showers. Highs in the mid 50s. lows tonight in the upper 30s to low 40s. Becoming sunny Friday with highs of 55 to 60.

Campus

9am-4pm BLOOD PRESSURE CLINIC IN LEMANS LOBBY

11am-2pm MUSIC PERFORMANCE don murray and friends spot by senior arts festival SENIOR BAR

2pm MEETING sailing club new members welcomed ROOM 204 O'SHAG

6:30pm AIIESEC GENERAL MEETING (international association of students in economics and business) LAFORTUNE LITTLE THEATER

7pm ART SHOW three-dimensional objects, photography, and architectural works; opening and reception spot by seniors in art festival the ENS GALLERY

7pm ENGINEERS WEEK debate and discussion 'purpose of engineering, education and research" ROOM 356 ENGINEERING BLDG

7:15pm FILM "murder by death" ENGR. AUD.

7:30pm FILM, DISCUSSION, SONGS kenneth ross, gerard casey, vicer doherty, michael chancy "an irish evening" LAFORTUNE CENTER RATHSKELLER

12:30pm & 6:30pm ONE EARTH MARKETPLACE artifacts LAFORTUNE CENTER MAIN LOUNGE

7:30pm LECTURE 'reflections on janos scholz in the art of photography' ROOM 306 ENGINESSING BLDG

7:45pm RESPECT LIFE WEEK LECTURE "medical myths about the right to live," dr. eugene diamond MEM. LIBRARY AUD.

7:30pm RESPECT LIFE WEEK LECTURE "medical myths about the right to live," dr. eugene diamond MEM. LIBRARY AUD.

8pm DRAMATIC PERFORMANCE "uncommon women" senior arts festival closing night REGINA HALL SMC

8pm FACULTY RECITAL carol bellano, soprano LITTLE THEATRE SMC

8pm LECTURE "aliberti's dream made possible" prof richard berto, u. of arkly, ARCHY BLDG. ROOM 202

8pm MASTER LECTURE SERIES "current perspectives in behavior therapy," alan e. kardin, pa. st. u. on psyeh. dept. HAGGAR AUD.

9:30pm MUSIC PERFORMANCE pat breen, ellen binkowski, and matrin sheehan senior arts festival NAXZ

Judge awaits Lance verdict

ATLANTA (AP) — A federal judge said yesterday he was considering a defense motion to declare former U.S. budget director David Stockman innocent of bank fraud, but said he would not rule until a jury returns its verdict.

Defense attorney Nicholas Chiviv developed immediate objections to an acquittal and asked the U.S. District Judge Charles H. Mote Jr. if he would rule Thursday, when closing arguments in the trial are scheduled.

"No, I intend to rule after the verdict," Mote responded. Closing arguments had been set for Wednesday, but the judge decided to allow an extra day for final preparations. The jurors were not present Tues- day and were not called to court until yesterday.

Lance's lawyers renewed ear­ lier motions for directed ver­ dict on the charges against him: 10 counts alleging mis­ application of bank funds and two counts alleging false state­ ments to banks.

The jury could begin deliber­ ation late today after the judge reads them the charges from the indictment, the contents of both parties and the applicable law.

Defense attorneys urged Mote to include the list of contentions on his instructions, but the judge refused to change his mind.

"This jury is going to need help," Mote said. "It's not going to be a matter of my reading 656 and saying, 'Go to it.'" Section 656 of the federal criminal code is the law prohib­ iting misapplication of bank funds.

Lance and three co-defen­ dants — former bank president Richard Carr, Former pharma­ ceutical jack mulloins and contractor

Thomas Mitchell — were indic­ ted in May 1979 after a 20-month investigation on a total of 33 counts.

The judge has ordered direc­ ted verdicts of acquittal in 14 of the counts against lance — one of which alleging a 10-year conspiracy involving almost 400 loans.

TIPPECANOE PLACE RESTAURANT IS NOW HIRING RESTAURANT PERSONNEL

full or part time/day and night shifts high wages: excellent benefits training: classroom and on the job

cordial atmosphere

FOOD WAITRESSES AND WAITMEN

BUFFET WAITRESSES, BARTENDERS, HOSTESSES, HOSTMEN, COCKTAIL WAITRESSES, DISBURSERS, BROOKLYN'S

APPLICATIONS

ATTEND PERSON BETWEEN 9:00am & 6:00pm

MONDAY THRU SATURDAY

AT TIPPECANOE PLACE

630 W. Washington Ave South Bend, Ind.

Mass Followed by Supper every Friday at the Bull Shed

5:15 pm

Juniors $50 deposit (non refundable) for $415 Senior Trip to Nassau & the Bahamas (oct 19-25) due today

SMC deposits 6-8 lemans ND Deposits 11-2 Lafortune

The Observer

Night Editor: Steve "Dream Police" Swen

Asst. Night Editor: Bill Keenan, "ya'll" Hillord

Copy Editor: Lynne Daley

Layout Staff: Colleen Sturr

New Editor: Pam "X News Editor" Deegan

Design Editorial Layout: Dave Mandolfini

Features Layout: Sal "Always Use 2" Granada

Sports Layout: Mark Perry, Clark Lab Bar

Sports Copy Editor: Jim Sheas

Typos: Beth Huffman, Michele Kelleher, Kathy Fehres, Nancy Russell

EMT: S. Paul Selakvo

Proofreader: Bruce Oakley

ND Day Editor: Janet Riggs

SMC Day Editor: Connie Lingus

Art Design: Anne Fink

Photographer: Tom Jackman

Lisa Gasiorek

Asst. Night Editor: Colleen Sturr

Copy Editor: Lynne Daley

Layout Staff: Colleen Sturr

New Editor: Pam "X News Editor" Deegan

Design Editorial Layout: Dave Mandolfini

Features Layout: Sal "Always Use 2" Granada

Sports Layout: Mark Perry, Clark Lab Bar

Sports Copy Editor: Jim Sheas

Typos: Beth Huffman, Michele Kelleher, Kathy Fehres, Nancy Russell

EMT: S. Paul Selakvo

Proofreader: Bruce Oakley

ND Day Editor: Janet Riggs

SMC Day Editor: Connie Lingus

Art Design: Anne Fink

Photographer: Tom Jackman

Jim Holden

The Observer is published Monday through Friday, except during exam and vacation periods. The Observer is published by the students of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College. Subscriptions may be purchased for $20 per year in cash payable at the Notre Dame, Indiana 46556. Second class postage paid, Notre Dame, Indiana 46556.

The Observer is a member of the Associated Press. All reproduction rights are reserved.
Noon classes create concern

by Paity Sheehan

The noon hour classes scheduled for next semester have caused confusion among students. The main concern is whether or not there will be sufficient time to eat lunch before or after the 12:15 class.

Scheduling classes during noon hour will alleviate the large crunch of students in the lunch hour, according to David Kill, assistant registrar.

He explained that the noon classes will also minimize the need to place large classes in crowded rooms, due to one additional time block.

"We have to schedule classes in rooms which aren't sufficient," Kill explained. "It (rescheduling classes at noon) will be a big help to us.

Describing the effect of the noon classes on the lunch hour, Robert Robinson, Senior Food Service Director, echoes Kill's reasoning that this would eliminate the lunch line crunch.

"We've recognized that we've had to do some changes to accommodate students who have 12:10 and 1:15 classes, Robinson said.

At this time, Robinson is waiting for registration results, as there will be very helpful in deciding what arrangements will be made.

In Costa Rica

Cuban exiles obtain refuge

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — More than 250 Cuban exiles, some weeping with relief, others shivering with emotional "liberty" and "down with communism," arrived from Havana on the week yesterday.

One refugee said he was attacked by a group of people at the airport, said Juan Alberto Rodriguez, his face cut and a knee bloody and bandaged. "But I feel like it is a new day. I have left the hell of Cuba.

The arrivals were the first of an estimated 10,000 Cubans who packed themselves into the Peruvian Embassy in Havana.

President Rodrigo Carazo was on hand for the arrival of the first plane and embraced some of the refugees as they set off on Costa Rican soil at the start of an airlift.

Refugees said thousands of Cubans in the streets of Havana threw stones at buses taking them to the airport and shouted, "We don't want you.

Carlos Aguilar, a Costa Rican foreign ministry official who accompanies the refugees from Cuba, said the scene at the Havana airport was "like nothing I have ever seen before.

But he said the about 300 people formed two rows and shouted obscenities at the exiles as they walked to the plane. He said he saw one man with a bloody nose.

"I could not believe what those people had to go through to leave," he said.

Rodriguez, treated by Red Cross workers at the San Jose airport, said he thought the people at the Havana airport were sent by Fidel Castro's communist government "to hassle us.

Most of the exiles appeared to be men in their 20s and 30s but there also were older people, children and women.

Hector Vazallo, an English student at the University of Havana, said, "I don't want Castro's government telling me what to do.""I the tall, handsome youth dressed in a cotton-knit t-shirt said, "I came alive today. I was dead. I was like a robot but now I am a man again."

More than half of the refugees have been of Spanish. The United States has agreed to take 5,500. Spain said it will take 500, Canada 300, Ecuador 200, Belgium 150, and unspecified numbers will go to Argentina, Brazil, West Germany, and Sweden.

Costa Rica has offered to be a staging area for all of the refugees but said only 300 could remain permanently. The country has acted as a "bridge" for exiles leaving Cuba in the past.

Summits yield promises of continued negotiations

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's back-to-back summit talks with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin resulted in an agreement yesterday to hold non-stop negotiations in the Middle East on the future of the Israeli-held territories.

The intensive negotiations are aimed at translating Be- gin's plan for the creation of an autonomous Arab state and Sadat's suggestion of a council elected by inhabitants of the West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip.

At a news conference, Begin said he could not predict an agreement by May 26, the date immediately precede and follow the elections to the council and the size of the council will be determined by the council.

"We have a long way to go before final agreements," Begin indicated he had not budged from his view that the council should have authority over municipal affairs only.

He also said Israel would withdraw its military and civil authorities but maintain its security in the Israeli-held territories.

"Hundreds of thousands of people were killed if we are not responsible for security on the West Bank and in Gaza," Begin said.

Sadat has demanded legislative and executive powers for the Palestinian council and a limited Israeli presence. Egyptian officials have floated the idea of mixed Egyptian-Israeli patrols or a multinational force to keep the peace.

On another touchy subject, Begin gave no ground in his conviction that Israel has the right to establish new settlements and that they protect his country's security.

The Observer Thursday, April 17, 1980 - page 3
Circus crews boost unity

NEW YORK (AP) - Linerant, always on the move with nowhere to call home, circus performers make up one of the finest, closest communities left in a diffuse modern society, says the chaplain to troubors of the big top.

"They're sweet, mutuality supportive and close-knit family in a tone when the family structure generally is being torn apart," says the Rev. David Hennessy, America's only full-time circus minister.

"You're never really on the circus," he says. "When anything happens to one individual, everybody is involved, whether it's a birth, marriage, death or accident. They're one big family.

The nature of circus life demands that performers and crew call him, is chaplain to the biggest of the three-ring spectacles, the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus.

"I love it," he said in an interview. "The gypsy life in a way, the fresh air, dealing with young strong-hearted people. It's the freedom and clarity of entertain­ment in the world today."

Although he has attended hundreds of performances and rarely misses one, "I enjoy them. They're always something different, doing new, doing every performance. It's a phenomenon.""Hennessy, 68, an accomplished trumpeter, assigned to the circus ministry two years ago by a U.S. church commission for people on the road, said circus life exemplifies religious concepts.

Like the church and human existence itself, he said, the circus is a pilgrimage, "a continual journey with no beginning, city, your home a trailer or train car, reflecting the transitory nature of earthly experience."

"It makes for more understanding of human values. With all the joys and sorrows, the circus roads rollick.

"It's bigger than life," he said. "The world needs that sort of fantasy. It takes away from the drabness and trials of ordinary life."

But the key way in which the circus represents a sort of heaven other, he said, is in its interdependence, the reliance of its people on each other. "They're never alone to pull together," he said.

"Circus people, even their careers, even their lives, depend on it. Each member of a unit depends on the others. They can't do each other. It's a high level of discipline and mutual trust. No other occupation shows that solidarity through."

He holds twice weekly worship services for the circus people, plus a steady round of counseling on personal problems, officiating at ceremonies, visiting the ill or injured, after church classes for circus children.

"It's an eccumenical ministry, with about a third of the 500-member company being Catholics, most of the others Protestants."

"They all know I'm with them without distinction," he said. "The door of my van is open to all. I have a very good rapport with circus people. I'm one of them."

---

Indianapolis (AP) - The Carter administration's contradictory Iran policy on has confused and angered America's allies, Republican presidential contender Ronald Reagan said Tuesday.

"A long string of conflicting signals emanating from the White House, State Department and the National Security Council to the allies clearly is causing them to wonder if the Carter administration really knows what it is doing," Reagan said at an airport news conference.

The news conference was held during a brief stop before Reagan traveled to Terre Haute, where he planned to speak to a Republican fund-raising dinner.

Reagan said the Carter administration told allies on March 25 they would be expected to break relations with Iran if the United States did so.

But, on March 31, Carter changed his mind because he saw hopeful signs, Reagan said.

On April 7, Carter broke diplomatic relations with Iran.

"We all, however, to warn our allies of these actions," Reagan said, "is a gross communication of what is the essence of diplomacy."

Reagan said Carter then sent Secretary of State Cyrus Vance to confer with the allies, who then responded by delivering protest notes to Tehran and recalling ambassadors.

Reagan said Vance told the allies a mid-May date for their imposition of sanctions had been scrapped because the Iranian Parliament would not be ready to deal with the hostage question until later.

"Carter administration European reporters a specific date for sanctions had been set, but again failed to notify the allies themselves," Reagan said.

The State Department said Monday Carter has not set a specific date for allies to break relations with Iran on imposing sanctions. Officials said Carter left a "miscommunication" in the weekend interview with European television correspondents.

"This is the hallmark of the foreign policy of the Carter administration - inconsistency, underperformance and contradiction. Is it any wonder that the allies we need now more than ever are finding lies so incomprehensible?"

Reagan said.

Reagan, who most observers feel has a commanding lead in the Indiana May 6 primary, said he still planned to campaign hard. Reagan is now the only Republican candidate waging as active personal campaign in Indiana.

DETOUR (AP) - The battered auto industry suffered another blow yesterday as General Motors announced a new round of layoffs and a potential cutback in the current labor contract.

The announcement came only a day after Ford Motor Co. said it would lay off 8,900 production workers and 6,100 white-collar employees.

It was the biggest production curtailment since the current lumper for GM, the nation's largest automaker. Available line speeds will be cut in four plants and an entire shift will be dropped in one of those and four others.

GM said it acted to "further balance production with current market conditions."

"What that means," said spokesman Bruce MacDonald, is "incoming dealer orders."

GM's business is reduced because customers can't get car loans and are ordering less for their own inventories, he said.

"We're not running our assembly lines out of control," he said.

"Ships are being dropped at the Cadillac plant in Detroit and at Leeds, Mo.; Janesville, Wis., and Norwood, Ohio. Lines are being slowed at Janesville, Lansing, Mich.; Lordstown, Ohio; Linden, N.J. and Toronto."

---

...Iran

(continued from page 1) chet of Tehran hostage Kevin Hermening, said the Moslem militants holding the U.S. Emb­assyitters today their conditions for allowing relatives to visit the hostages.

Mrs. Timm is in Paris, trying to get a special flight from the French capital by the French government. The U.S. deadline for Iranian action was disclosed by a stoppacer for who told reporters the president might move further readjustments as early as today but will not consider military steps until Iran agrees.

That will give the Iranians still another time to change and they may be not to non-military U.S. pressure, said the aide, who declined to be identified.

---

...Bookstore

An Tostal

sponsors tack-ins

The An Tostal Committee will sponsor a tack-in service next week. Students may sign up for this service at both dining halls at dinner tonight.
Chrysler may fail FED loan requirements

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chrysler Corp.'s financial situation is in "a fluid state" and the auto giant has qualified for a billion dollar federal aid package made within a week, Treasury Secretary G. William Miller said Tuesday.

Miller would not say whether Chrysler will be able to fulfill the requirements for obtaining the federal loan or whether the auto giant's creditors are likely to move quickly to take control of the giant.

"I cannot say whether I'm optimistic or pessimistic," Miller told reporters. "It's a difficult task. It can be done, it's possible, but difficult."

Chrysler had said last week it expected to lose $750 million to $900 million more than it had estimated previously, and lost nearly $1.1 billion last year.

It also said it will need to draw more from the government assistance package than it indicated earlier.

Under legislation enacted by Congress, Chrysler must raise $2 billion from commercial banks, including $1 billion from non-federal sources, and must also raise $3 billion in new capital.

The board of the Federal Loan Guarantee Board, which would back out of the deal, agreed to a Chrysler announcement.

Chrysler agreed on Friday to charge off certain losses, including its $1 billion loss last year. The company also said it would sell its $1.43 billion from non-federal aid.

The board also said Chrysler had estimated earlier. Treasury Secretary G. William Miller said Tuesday.

Miller would not say whether Chrysler will be able to fulfill the requirements for obtaining the federal loan or whether the auto giant's creditors are likely to move quickly to take control of the giant.

"I cannot say whether I'm optimistic or pessimistic," Miller told reporters. "It's a difficult task. It can be done, it's possible, but difficult."

Chrysler had said last week it expected to lose $750 million to $900 million more than it had estimated previously, and lost nearly $1.1 billion last year.

It also said it will need to draw more from the government assistance package than it indicated earlier.

Under legislation enacted by Congress, Chrysler must raise $2 billion from commercial banks, including $1 billion from non-federal sources, and must also raise $3 billion in new capital.

The board of the Federal Loan Guarantee Board, which would back out of the deal, agreed to a Chrysler announcement.

Chrysler agreed on Friday to charge off certain losses, including its $1 billion loss last year. The company also said it would sell its $1.43 billion from non-federal aid.

The board also said Chrysler had estimated earlier. Treasury Secretary G. William Miller said Tuesday.

Miller would not say whether Chrysler will be able to fulfill the requirements for obtaining the federal loan or whether the auto giant's creditors are likely to move quickly to take control of the giant.

"I cannot say whether I'm optimistic or pessimistic," Miller told reporters. "It's a difficult task. It can be done, it's possible, but difficult."

Chrysler had said last week it expected to lose $750 million to $900 million more than it had estimated previously, and lost nearly $1.1 billion last year.

It also said it will need to draw more from the government assistance package than it indicated earlier.
Becker assumes directorship

by Mary Kay Leydon
Staff Reporter

Thomas Becker, a former director of planning at the Bureau of Employment and Training in South Bend, has assumed the position of Director of Development at Saint Mary's College. Becker defined his duties by saying, "I am responsible for the Saint Mary's annual fund which is the pool of money brought into the college each year. There are a number of different programs which fund the college. The Business Program involves businesses of Elkhart, St. Joseph's county, Niles and Buchanan which contribute about a thousand dollars a year in exchange for an association with the school through three or four meetings a year held at the school, and an internship program with the business department of Saint Mary's." Becker also added that, "The association also brings benefits to the surrounding area." Becker is also responsible for the parent and alumnae fund direct mail campaigns and other giving as well as the Patron Phon-a-thon. "The Phon-a-thon is coming up soon. The staff and students spend a specific amount of time calling donors, all over for donations," explained Becker.

Another important fund raiser is the Madeleva Society. Applications from other alumnae in honor of the memory of Madelevas. There is also an Anniversary Club in which members contribute a specific amount each year which matches the years the college has been in existence. Becker added that wills and trust funds are set up to benefit the college.

"The Office of Development has developed over the past years. The department of alumnae and public relations are so intertwined with development that under the direction of Larry Durance, the vice president of college relations, they have merged," Becker explained.

Becker received his B.A. in Political Science from Xavier University in Cincinnati, Ohio in 1971. He holds a master's degree in public affairs from Indiana University. Prior to his job with the Bureau of Employment and Training in South Bend he was coordinator of sales training at the Stemmer Company Division of Magnavox in Elkhart. Becker assumed the position at Saint Mary's on April 1.

Dr. Harvey A. Bender, pro- vost of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's, has been named co-chairman of a national genetic education work group, serving as an advisory body to the Genetic Diseases Services Branch of the Department of Health, Education and Wel-

Bender named co-chairman of national genetic group

By Tom Jackson

The seven-member committee was asked to plan strategies for educating physicians, genetic specialists and counselors, and to announce public awareness campaigns about genetics and to advise NIH in its educational programs.

Genetics, the study of inherited disorders and their characteristics, is a young and fast growing field, said Bender, making dissemination of information especially necessary. "There are more than 3,000 genetic diseases," he added, and most older physicians did not take a genetic course in medical school. While the amount of scientific knowledge doubles every 19 years and knowledge in the life sciences doubles every five years, what we know about genetics doubles every two years.

Bender, a member of the Indiana Genetic Disease Process Advisory Committee and expert on genetics with the U.S. Department of Justice, is also director of South Bend served to both the Catholic Regional Genetics Counseling Clinic and is an associate professor of medical genetics at the Indiana University School of Medicine.

Conlon to speak on N. Ireland

Sean Donlon, Irish ambassador to the United States, will discuss "Irish Government Policy on Northern Ireland," today at 7:30 p.m. in the Alumni Life Science Auditorium. The program is open to the public.

Before coming to the United States as ambassador in 1978, Donlon served in the Department of Foreign Affairs in Dublin, with responsibility for Northern Ireland activities. He is a graduate of National University and served in both the Coley and Lynch presidencies.

Ginzburg advocates boycott

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Exiled Soviet dissident Alex­ander Ginzburg said yesterday that the United States and the Soviet Union are in a "tremend­uous blow to the prestige of the Soviet government in the eyes of its own people." Ginzburg, who spent nine years in Soviet prison camps before he was released last April, said the Soviets intend for the Olympics to be "a showcase for communism."

Ginzburg made his com­ments at a news conference at Indiana University.

Asked if boycotting the Olympics was more important than givingatăhes an oppor­tunity to compete, Ginzburg said, "From the beginning of the games in Greece, they (Olympics) have not been a celebration of sports, but a celebration of peace."

He said if the Games are held in Moscow, they will be neither.

"It would be difficult to think that Moscow will with­draw its troops from Afghan­istan as a result of an Olympic boycott but perhaps the boycott will have the effect of prevent­ing Moscow from moving its troops into Pakistan," he said.

Ginzburg described the cur­rent situation in Iran as "a major victory for Soviet foreign policy." He said that under the circumstances, the United States has no access to Iranian oil and no military bases from which to observe Soviet mili­tary activities in the area.

Ginzburg endorsed President Carter for re-election and said that "as far as foreign policy toward the Soviet Union is concerned, he has done more than any other president or any of his comparators have shown they intend to do."
By Madonna J. Christensen

An additional strike against ERA is that it is entirely unnecessary. Its supporters suggest that if ERA were passed, there would be no discrimination against women in the employment and educational arenas. The truth is that discrimination in these fields is currently illegal under the equal protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment (which was used to strike down various discriminatory laws), the Equal Pay Act of 1963, the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Education Act of 1972, the Equal Employment Opportunity Act of 1972, and many other federal laws and executive orders enacted in recent years. When one of the amendment’s sponsors suggested that ERA would give women that they do not already have, she replied, “Wrong. It will not be a psychological uplift.” At the same time, it is true that there are discriminatory federal and state laws currently in effect and that sex discrimination exists even in the areas covered by the ERA. This suggests that such groups of women as those covered by the ERA do need protection. No law enjoys perfect enforcement. The fact, however, that “Equal rights” have been continued to be passed without the ERA indicates clearly that women’s rights can be gained and lost repeatedly in a much more reasonable way than by passage of a constitutional amendment which would have a devastating effect on American family and social life as we know it.

ERA would invalidate statutes requiring men to support their wives (it has already had this effect in states with ERA) and would subject women to military duty and combat service on the same basis as men. It would invalidate paternity laws and most protective legislation (passage of which was urged by feminists of earlier days). No less an authority than Prof. Paul Freund of Harvard Law School has indicated that there would be as much chance of maintaining separate separate marriage laws under ERA as there would be of maintaining racially segregated school systems. Importantly, homonuclear marriages would probably go the same route as state laws prohibiting miscegenation.

A great many people have asked me why, even if the ERA is not technically necessary, women should be deprived of the “psychological uplift” of having the ERA to proclaim their equality under law in the way that the Fourteenth Amendment did. First of all, women are not a minority; they make up at least one-half of this country’s population. They can vote. They can participate in representational politics in ways which will protect their interests. But, more importantly, they cannot substitute for a man and a woman are very much greater and more fundamental than those between the races. The distinction between women and men is not an “arbitrary” one. Rather, it has been noted that “Sexual differences are one of the few major facts of life and death to society.”

Finally, Dr. Hauret Feenler strongly implied that Catholic Church favors the ERA. Although the Church has taken no official position on the ERA, Pope Pius XII did speak clearly on the topic of the emancipation of women in his encyclical, Gaudeamus. The Pope granted that “in all that pertains to the person and dignity of a human being,” there is to be true equality between men and women. However, he noted that social, economic, political, and religious liberation of women will lead to “the degradation of the spirit of woman and the dignity of a mother,” it is a total perversion.

Unjust discrimination should be fought wherever it is found, but ERA is not the way. It is unnecessary, but more importantly, it is drastic and destructive. It should be opposed strongly — as citizens committed to the well-being of our country, we can do no less.

Madonna J. Christensen is a second year law student at Notre Dame.

By Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON I have withheld writing this column until I was certain that Dan Rather was actually dead. When I called the “60 Minutes” people for an explanation concerning their gaffe, and all they could come up with was, “We knew we were taking a risk, but the only one who could fit into the Afghan rebel robe and hat we rented was Rather.”

Art Buchwald is a syndicated columnist who appears frequently in The Observer.

The Observer
Ten years ago this month, the Beatles announced to the world that they were finished. A group so close to fifteen years after the nucleus of the group had been formed in a band known as the Quarrymen, for so many trivia buffs, today is the tenth anniversary of the release of Paul McCartney’s first (and so far only) solo album, which is certainly not noteworthy as a musical accomplishment, but rather for the ingenious “Interview” contained inside. In this issue of Rolling Stone, Paul McCartney and his Apple Press Office, Paul let it be known that his former collaborators, John, George and Ringo, had written and recorded, with him, the songs in the album, which are not extraordinary instrumentally, but most of the material sounds grittier than usual, but more emotive as a result. The softer ballads, however, are far superior. Particularly of note is “I Wish I Was Your Mother,” and “Irene Wilde,” which both express Hunter’s need for family strength and how this affects relationships with women.

The reproductions of the old classic Mot the Hoolie songs feel fuller than their original counterparts, with a heavier emphasis on rhythm and baseline. “All the Way from Memphis,” for example, is intensified by the addition of guitar licks to the original piano background rhythm. The rendition of the eternal “All the Young Dudes” is more sobering, as the electric guitar infections Hunter inserts seem more realistic and understandable with a live audience to receive them. Hunter plays for those who like to use their mind and seek solace in rock. The crashing riffs of electric guitar best express the reality, and simultaneously lifts the listener with several musical transitions. Even the quiet songs, like “Cleveland Rocks” and “Walking” are more realistic and understandable with a live audience to receive them. Hunter talks of the importance of their many studio projects, which are content to wallow in repeated arrangements, as well as the four albums produced which are related to the March of the Mods (the July 2, 1977) and the March of the Mods (the July 2, 1977), which are still available for purchase. In this case, the group has not only done everything right, but even though they were co-credited the first time, this pseud-conversation, written by John Lennon, was born. The members of the Beatles quickly realized that the Fab Four were not extraordinary instrumentally, but most of the material sounds grittier than usual, but more emotive as a result. The softer ballads, however, are far superior. Particularly of note is “I Wish I Was Your Mother,” and “Irene Wilde,” which both express Hunter’s need for family strength and how this affects relationships with women.

The reproductions of the old classic Mot the Hoolie songs feel fuller than their original counterparts, with a heavier emphasis on rhythm and baseline. “All the Way from Memphis,” for example, is intensified by the addition of guitar licks to the original piano background rhythm. The rendition of the eternal “All the Young Dudes” is more sobering, as the electric guitar infections Hunter inserts seem more realistic and understandable with a live audience to receive them. Hunter plays for those who like to use their mind and seek solace in rock. The crashing riffs of electric guitar best express the reality, and simultaneously lifts the listener with several musical transitions. Even the quiet songs, like “Cleveland Rocks” and “Walking” are more realistic and understandable with a live audience to receive them. Hunter talks of the importance of their many studio projects, which are content to wallow in repeated arrangements, as well as the four albums produced which are related to the March of the Mods (the July 2, 1977) and the March of the Mods (the July 2, 1977), which are still available for purchase. In this case, the group has not only done everything right, but even though they were co-credited the first time, this pseud-conversation, written by John Lennon, was born. The members of the Beatles quickly realized that the Fab Four were not extraordinary instrumentally, but most of the material sounds grittier than usual, but more emotive as a result. The softer ballads, however, are far superior. Particularly of note is “I Wish I Was Your Mother,” and “Irene Wilde,” which both express Hunter’s need for family strength and how this affects relationships with women.
... Varsity

Molarity

I'LL NEVER FORGET YOU, CHARLIE. THIS WAS THE MOST...

SCHOFIELD ID

THE OBSERVER

CALL TODAY

The Daily Crossword

©1990 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Syndic. Inc. All Rights Reserved

4/17/80

HOLY CROSS FATHERS — UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME

President, Rome, 9-2; 28 Fangs, unassisted to

The Observer

SportsBoard

Tennis

NOTRE DAME STREET BOX OFFICE

The Daily Crossword

Vigorous and women's volleyball...
Golfers take third place in tourney

by Bill McCormick
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame golf team battled high winds, driving rain, sleet, and even a little snow Monday, en route to a third place finish in the Indiana-apoliss Invitational. The 36-hole event was part of the first 18 holes of the season for the Irish as they continued their drive towards a possible National Invitation bid.

While the thermometer was indicating sub-30 degree tempera-tures, Notre Dame was working on a season score of 748(375-373). Three strokes of the Irish was Ball State (743), which captured second place with rounds of 367 and 367.

Purdue shot an incredible score of 360 for the first 18 holes, added a round of 373, and took the top prize at 733. Purdue freshman won the individual honors with rounds of 68-70 (138), excellent golf under any weather conditions.

"In my four years of playing golf at Notre Dame, I have never played under worse conditions," commented senior John Lundgren. "But, as senior Dan McGuiness said, the weather didn't seem to have a real impact on our scores..." The games continued on Tuesday morning. Junior Bill McGuiness grabbed seventh place overall with a score of 148(75-73), fellow junior Tim McIlroy finished ninth with 149 (74-75).

The other Notre Dame scores were Dave Knoke 150(76-74), Tom McCarthy 156(77-79), and Sören Fermann 156(73-81).
The Irish must now look toward the weekend and possibly the most important tournament of the season, the Notre Dame Invitational in Columbus, Ohio.

This tournament is important for two reasons. First, the field in Columbus will consist of teams from the Big Ten and Mid-American confer-ences, teams which Notre Dame must prove they can beat.

Secondly, the Notre Dame Invitational is also important because its fate, the nation's premier spring event, is the site of the NCAA tournament in May. And Notre Dame must demonstrate that it can do well on this treacherous layout.

"A strong finish on the Kept will really help us psychologically," Lundgren explained.

All else aside, it would cer-tainly make a big national tournament in May more realistic.

Women's Bookstore

Schedules for Women's Bookstore Basketball are available for pick up this afternoon from 3:30-5:30 p.m. in 354 Badin. The 32 team round robin will begin at 5 p.m. on Saturday. Any questions, call Ellen Donevory at 6987.

Notices

Professional $1.00, Reassurance sup-er Experience Typosh, junior ar-tes. Thursdays, 7-11 p.m.

Typosh done in my home. University student. Special attention.

Attention Long Distance Travelers: There will be an important meeting for the Long Distance Traveler the evening of March 12 in the Little Tigers of Late-Two-Teas-

Lost & Found

Found: one small brown puppy, in the 300 of the library, call (615) 288-6677.

Lost: Blue Banana hammer with nautical red lettering and black. Lost before break. Return Call 202-4155.

Lost: one gold wedding band with monogram and initials. Lost near LeMans. For return Call (615) 440-6672.

List of pictures from wallace please return. Ridgy 1735.

Pictures of the basketball court taken the front of O'Day. Call Jim 797-6237.

Lost: 1982 AP 10 M-14 in Engineering build-ing. Please return to null and thanks.

Found: a calculator in SM 303 in engineering building. Call 6987 for idem-nity.

Lost: one 14 g. girl braided tan leash. Found 203 of 200, REWARD.

Lost: 1981 Ford Carvel (K.O.) if found, call Peter at 6407.

For Sale

For sale: Antramp & driving guitar. Call 6988 morning.

For Sale

For Sale

For Sale

For Sale

For Sale

For Sale

For Sale

For Sale

For Sale

For Sale

For Sale

For Sale

For Sale

For Sale

For Sale

For Sale

For Sale

For Sale

For Sale

For Sale

For Sale
Sports

Varsity status granted to lacrosse, volleyball

by Beth Hoffman
Sports Editor

Title IX, a controversial creation of the HEW office calling for more equality between men and women, is again altering the structure of athletics programs. Earlier this year an announcement was made lifting women's basketball restrictions under the AIAW to Division I while retaining a number of horror-engranted-in-by two. A statement was re-tended to be released by University information services to disclose the elevation of lacrosse and women's volleyball to the varsity level for the 1980-81 academic year.

The lifting of Title IX and our efforts to give women more opportunities, said Colonel John Stephens, associate athletic director for Notre Dame. "We have been evaluating the volleyball program for some time and we felt it was the appropriate time to give them varsity status."

Lacrosse, has been, for years, one of the clubs that men really do not know about, an excellent job of administering through a good, healthy program and Rich O'Leary has done a good job of coaching them. When it was decided it was also that sport's time."

Lacrosse has been a club sport at Notre Dame since 1964 and was the present leader. Rich O'Leary, has been directing the team since 1971. Since then, the Irish have won the league, the University Cup and the Midwest Lacrosse Association, last year and is experiencing another surge of interest this season. The Lacrosse Club has people returning for various star-times and in the past received only "maybe" answers.

"The decisions were made for two reasons," said O'Leary. "In the past, our administration (Athletic) didn't say no, they just said they didn't want to make any decisions as of yet."

O'Leary feels that the adjustment to the Midwest Lacrosse Association, a league of varsity teams, will not be too difficult a problem for the club.

The club does think his team, which numbered 22 this spring, will need an adjustment period.

"We have players who have had sufficient experience and that have been competing for awhile," explained O'Leary. "Within three years we could easily have the best team in the midwest just because of our name and players and we have a strong

Volleyball

ND netters upset Hoosiers

by Michael Orman
Associate Sports Editor

The Notre Dame tennis team not only survived the toughest test it has encountered since its number 11-man winning streak began some five weeks ago but has also seized a highly touted Indiana Hoosiers and recorded a stunning win yesterday afternoon at the Courtney Tennis Center.

That was the biggest win of my tennis career," smiled enthusiastic senior captain Carl-

...continued on page 2

Gridders practice ... finally

by Craig Chval
Sports Writer

Notre Dame's 1980 football squad, working out on Carrier Field for the first time since Saturday, enjoyed yet another excellent workout Wednesday ... assistant coach Gene Smith summed things up saying: "We didn't expect it to turn out as well as we had expected but we hadn't been out since Saturday." Smith added that the cancellations caused by bad weather (four in nine days) aren't surprising. "I'm just pleased with the way we've been competing for the job."

We've gotten three kind of results, head coach Dan Devine may want to practice all summer in preparation for the murderously 1980 schedule.

Junior Phil Pozderac, expected to fill one of the two offensive tackle spots vacated by graduating seniors Tim Foley and Bob Martinovich, was in pads for the first time this spring yesterday ... Pozderac, a 6-8 behemoth, has been sidelined with a neck injury suffered while working out with the weight machines ... he's still not as far along as he'd like.

While the competition at quarterback may draw the most attention this spring, and his staff also have the unenviable task of selecting an heir-apparent to record-breaking placekicker Chuck Main, the leading candidate is starting strong safety Steve Cichy, who is being held out of contact practice as a precaution after he suffered back and elbow injuries in 79. "We feel Cichy, an honorable mention All-American in the defensive backfield last fall, has been able to work on his kicking through his kickoffs and conversions are better than adequate, and his field goals are improving ... Cichy handled the kickoff duties in the '79 Cotton Bowl when Male was injured ... walk-on Mike Johnston and junior Harry Oliver are also in the line for the job.