Carter nominates Muskie

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter yesterday said he will nominate Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine to succeed Cyrus R. Vance as secretary of state, congressional sources said.

Carter notified top congressional leaders of his decision yesterday afternoon. Congress was to be officially told of the decision at a White House meeting at 4 p.m.

The president formally announced his decision to the American people at a national broadcast news conference last night.

Muskie, considered a liberal, in chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and was the Democratic vice presidential candidate in 1968.

Senate sources said the choice of Muskie, highly respected on Capitol Hill, virtually assured that the nomination would be confirmed.

An influential Senate aide, who asked that he be not named, called the president's decision "politically astute" and "a wise choice." Vance's aide, Jack White, yesterday in a White House meeting at 4 p.m.

Cronkite denies seeking VP position with Rep. Anderson

WASHINGTON (AP) - CBS anchorman Walter Cronkite flatly denied yesterday that he would consider running for vice president on a ticket with presidential hopeful John Anderson. Cronkite, named in polls as one of the most popular and highly trusted men in America, was quoted in the May 1 issue of New Republic magazine as saying he would be honored to join Anderson in the 1980 presidential race. However, in a statement issued through CBS, Cronkite said: "The New Republic reporter has misinterpreted our conversation. "I have no interest in entering politics in any capacity," the Cronkite statement said. I have never endorsed a political candidate and I have no intention of endorsing a political candidate in the upcoming campaign, including Mr. Anderson."

Student uncovers 'divine' writings of Mormon founder

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) - "Reformed Egyptian" characters Mormon church founder Joseph Smith Jr. says he copied directly from golden tablets given to him by an angel in preparing the church scripture, have been found in an old family Bible, the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints says. The single page containing about two dozen characters arranged in vertical columns was found this month by a Utah State University student and is believed to be the earliest sample of Smith's handwriting, the church said Monday. The Book of Mormon, accepted as scripture by the church, unfolds a religious history of the Americas, including a visit to ancestors of the American Indians by Jesus Christ following his resurrection.

Fearing nuclear doomsday

HELENA, MONT. (AP) - Claiming nuclear war would erupt within a week, today's leader of a religious sect said members of his faith had taken refuge in fallout shelters in several Western states. However, in most cities he named as refuge areas there had been no reports of people heading for shelters, private or public. Leland Jensen, 65, a chiropractor and "practical physician" in Missoula, predicted that either a nuclear war would start or "an incident that will cause it to happen" would occur at 7:55 p.m. EDT Tuesday. Jensen says he believed all cities with populations of 100,000 or more and major military bases are targeted for nuclear attack from the Soviet Union. He said he based his prediction on biblical prophecy and measurements of the Pyramid of Khufu in Giza, Egypt. He said about 200 members of his church had attended the event in shelters in their homes in Missoula. He said members also had taken shelter in the Montana cities of Billings, Bozeman, Butte and Kalispell, Thompson Falls and Arlee, and in Durango, Colo., and Sheridan and Cody, Wyo. Anita Strainman, a follower in Arlee, said she and three other people were taking refuge in a basement fallout shelter stocked "with water, dry food, a couple of leaves of bread and some peanut butter." Ed Day, a leader in Sheridan, Wyo., said 20 people were sheltered there, and Civil Defense officials in Cody, Wyo., reported six persons had taken refuge in a tunnel.

Maroszan resigns in dispute

By Tom Lachman

Steve Maroszan liked to think of himself as part of the Notre Dame family. For all of his 55 years, he has lived in a block from campus, remembers to the end of his life when he was six, he worked in the South Dining Hall, and in the original "Huddle" during the days of Frank Leahy. His family was a household here for 25 years.

Last fall he took a job as a member of Notre Dame's security force working nights at the Main Gate for four years of receiving unemployment and Social Security disability compensation, but yesterday, Maroszan claims he was forced to resign by Security Director Glenn Terry because "they were afraid of me." He described the competitiveness which exists between members of the Security, and said that his popularity among students made them "feared that I was going to go beyond them." Terry would not comment on the matter.

In his letter of resignation, Maroszan charges that Terry had earlier asked him to resign and "quietly fade from the campus" because fact that Maroszan would then be ineligible for Social Security. He previously received due to a spinal handicap. Initially, he refused.

However, after a writer warning of the possibility of bringing his "judgement, tactfulness and ability to get along with your fellow employees" and an oral conversation in which Terry reportedly told Maroszan that he would be "on the spot constantly," Maroszan then resigned. In a four-page letter to Terry. He commented that simply working his post was "enough of a challenge." Maroszan says he was actively cultivated the friendship of on-campus students that passed through his post at the Main Gate. Showing a sincere interest in their studies and campus activities. He notes that he always was willing to stop and talk with students at the gate, and they tagged him with the nickname "Boog Powell." He once offered to throw a party for students and other friends at his house, but Terry vetoed that idea. Maroszan protested to an old acquaintance, Dean James Roemer, and he believes that Terry became insecure at him for going over his head.

"We shouldn't treat these people like princes, there are intelligent young men and women," said Maroszan. He feels that the present Security force discourages forming relationships - a charge which Terry denies - and that this time beyond being continued confrontation between students and the security force.

"It's not necessary to project a strong-arm image," Maroszan added, "and I don't think that I qualify for the image of Security officer. I don't consider the present Security staff as made up of "strong, young men who have had ambitions of becoming police officers, and never achieved it," but he added that he holds no animosity towards any of them.

Maroszan's letter outlined a pattern of distrust throughout the security force and particularly bad feelings directed toward him by other members of the organization. The four page letter expresses a tone of bewilderment as Maroszan frequently wonders "what drastic, unpunishable offenses have I committed to warrant taking away my freedom of speech from our table, causing my wife undue, emotional strains to want to divorce me?" He noted later that Terry "wouldn't divulge the charges against me.

Maroszan clearly enjoyed his job ("I love this University") and he happily recounts the stories of the time he talked a group of rowdies out of smashing through the gate during his first week, and the time a bunch of students helped him celebrate St. Patrick's Day.

"I love my kids because I know what the heck is going on in their lives," he says, "and I want to hear from my old gang again. They're the greatest bunch of kids I ever knew.

A petition is being circulated in several halls on Maroszan's behalf, he said, but he does not think it will be a help getting his job back. He said the future looks "bleak" for him, but concluded, "I know I'm right in the way I ran that hall. I've had some compliments at my gate," he once said) and I'd do it again and again and again—and be fired for it."

"Freedom Flotilla"

Cuban refugees migrate to Florida

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — The ragtag fleet of the "Freedom Flotilla" found smooth seas yesterday and immigration officials braced for new waves of refugees reaching the Florida shores with at least 1,250 boats loading in Cuba.

"We are preparing for what we expect to be a flood of refugee ladies, vessels headed for Key West," said Coast Guard Cmdr. Samuel Dennis at a news briefing.

The first boats to arrive since a weekend storm tied up at Key West shortly after noon yesterday with 58 refugees aboard.

Weeping refugees streamed off the 39-foot "commercial fishing boat" Roadrunner, telling how a Cuban soldier who tried to swim out to their ship to join them was caught by other soldiers and viciously beaten.

Crews of Coast Guard helicopters reported "a large number" of vessels leaving the port of Mariel, where the Cuban government has allowed exiles to pick up relatives and other Cubans who had sought asylum in Havana.

Immigration officials estimated that more than 1,300 refugees arrived in Florida last week in the biggest, which was temporarily stalled by a Sunday storm that swept the Straits of Florida with hurricane-force winds.

An estimated 300 boats left Key West on Tuesday, bound for Cuba 30 miles to the south.

Timothy Tower of the U.S. Interests Section at the Cuban Embassy in Havana said 1,252 small boats were already waiting to pick up refugees at Mariel.

Havana Radio put the number at 1,757.

Coast Guard officials said that by early yesterday they had assisted 39 boats since the unauthorized boats got underway. Of the 39, 42 were disabled, 15 were found abandoned, nine were found sunk and eight were found capsized with no sign of life around them.

Two men drowned.

Coast Guard officials said six large cutters were stationed across the straits, in a point about 30 miles from Cuba, to be close at hand in case any boats need assistance.

Havana Radio reported that Cuban authorities had posted about every six miles on their side of the straits. A terrific hail of machine gun fire returned 7:30 p.m. in Room 331 (O'Shag).
Gunmen attack Iranian diplomat.

KUWAIT (AP) — Gunmen in cars fired a hail of bullets at a motorcade carrying the Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh, murder squad said one of the cars fired a hail of bullets at a motorcade at 9:30 this morning. No one was hurt, an official of Kuwait's news agency said.

Ghotbzadeh, who arrived in Kuwait on Monday, was being driven to a meeting with Kuwait's official news agency. Ghotbzadeh, who arrived in Kuwait on Monday, was being driven to a meeting with Kuwait's official news agency.

KUWAIT Interior Ministry said one Kuwaiti security official was injured in the incident. The Kuwait news agency quoted an official that the car was loaded with weapons when it attacked the motorcade at 9:30 this morning. No one was hurt. According to sources, favored W.G. Kissinger, former National Security Adviser to President Ford, was killed in July 1975.

Kissinger was an active participant in the Iran-Iraq conflict, a first serious in the early years of Richard Nixon's administration. Although Kissinger eventually resigned after it had become painfully clear that he had been duped as the winner in their conflict, the Vance-Brzezinski conflict was not as dramatic or one-sided as that between Rogers and Kissinger. Both men were aware that the press had a penchant to draw parallels between Vance and Rogers, both New York lawyers, and Kissinger and Brzezinski, both foreign-born, Ivy League foreign policy professors.

The issue that led to Vance's resignation was the aborted attempt to rescue the hostages in Iran. He sought the advice of his aides in the attempt, as did Secretary of Defense Harold Brown. At an April 11 National Security Council meeting, Brzezinski's view prevailed. Vance was not even at the meeting. He was on a brief vacation in Florida, and the source he was not advised that the rescue attempt would be considered at the meeting. Although Vance had a chance to present his views, he was not present at the tentative decision of April 11 was not changed.

McDonnell hails new Dome advisory board

By Dan DeLuc

Student Activities Director James McDonnell has announced the establishment of an advisory board for the Dome yearbook, which has never has had such a board before.

McDonnell said that the board will be composed of people who have expertise in areas relevant to the yearbook and who are willing to share their knowledge with students willing to learn. He screened that the board's capacity will be strictly advisory and that ultimate decisions concerning Dome activities and policies will continue to be made by students.

Dome Editor Al Dryer, in cooperation with the editorial board of the yearbook, selected the advisory board. He said that the board has been a matter of discussion since last fall. Dryer, who readily welcomed the board, stated that the two things consistently associated with Dome-winning yearbooks are an ample budget and support from the administration. The board has met once and will be critiquing this year's Dome. Tentative plans for the future call for the board to meet several times a year. Individual board members will be available anytime for consultation.

Board members are: Kathleen Galligan, dean of Collegiate Seminar; Donald Nelson, graphic designer; Kenneth Milkus, public relations; Carl Mager, director of Printing and Publications; and Juanita Scatkunas, third year law student; Paul Duker, third year student in the College of Arts and Letters; and James McDonnell, director of Student Activities. One or two students outside the Dome staff are expected to be added to this list.

Resignation

The Kuwait news agency first reported that Ghotbzadeh escaped an assassination attempt but later said it "appeared" to be an assassination attempt. Ghotbzadeh's motorcade continued its journey toward the airport and borders.

Iraqi earlier blamed Iran for two recent assassination attempts against Iraq government officials in Baghdad, capital of Iraq. Last Sunday, Tehran Radio claimed Iraq President Saddam Hussein had been assassinated in a火锅, but later said it was a "ruse." The official Iraqi purpose of the tour was to explain to Iran "does not want to interfere in any country's internal affairs," he said.

His attackers were trying to destroy good relation between Iran and its neighbors, but that his talks with Iranian leaders had been successful, theReplacing Grant.

The governments of Kuwait and Iraq are in the process of establishing diplomatic ties. The Arab world is trying to export its Islamic revolution from Iran.

Notre Dame receives grant

Notre Dame has received a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts for Dome productions on Charley's Aunt and A Doll's House. The grant will be used to produce a number of plays over a three-year period.

Politicians campaign in Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Vice President Walter F. Mondale, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, Rosalynn Carter and Ronald Reagan all plan campaign trips to Indiana to woo voters in the state's May 6 presidential primary.

With the primary a week away, the campaigning is intensifying for the 80 Democratic National Convention delegates and the 54 Republican National Convention delegates at stake in the Indiana contest.

Mrs. Carter plans to visit Gary and Indiana toll today, campaigning on behalf of her husband, President Carter. In Gary, she will dedicate a new mental health facility, while in Indianapolis, she will meet with reporters and with Dr. Benjamin Osborne, the Center Township trustee.

She also will talk with supporters at Dr. Osborne's office on Massachusetts Avenue. Mondale will appear Friday in Fort Wayne as a fundraiser for Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., but the appearance also is designed to help the Carter-Mondale ticket in the primary. Bayh, who is remaining neutral in the Carter-Kennedy campaign, had Kennedy as the speaker at a fundraiser in January.

Kennedy returns to Indiana to campaign in Indianapolis and Evansville and his Indiana press spokeswoman, Karen Ernst, said the Massachusetts Democrat likely will return this weekend for more campaigning.

Reagan campaign spokesman Peter Rushhoven said the former California governor will spend Sunday in Indianapolis, and will speak at an afternoon rally. Rushhoven said Reagan will remain in the state through Monday.

Reagan's campaign is aimed at capturing all 54 delegates and Rushhoven said he is optimistic about that goal. To capture all the delegates, Reagan must come in first in each of the state's 11 congressional districts.

George Bush and John Anderson also appear on the GOP ballot, but neither has campaigned in Indiana. Bush is running an independent bid for the presidency.

On the Democratic side, party rules all but cancel a winner-take-all situation.

Although most state party officials are backing Reagan, they agree that Kennedy will pick up some Indiana delegates, but they expect the bulk of the delegates to go to the president.

...Muskie

A former governor of Maine and also a state legislator, Muskie was elected to the Senate in 1958. He ran for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972. As a means of gathering foreign expertise, Muskie toured Israel, Egypt, the Soviet Union and West Germany. In Russia he talked with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin and said he found him "completely cordial and frank."

In February 1979 Muskie visited Poland as Carter's envoy and met with Polish leader Edward Giezek for talks on economic matters and the SALT II arms treaty. In that same trip, he visited West Germany, Portugal, Spain and Belgium.

Muskie, 6 foot 4, often has been called "Lincoln-esque" because of his height, lean figure and craggy face.

He was born in Rome, Maine, March 28, 1914, the son of a Polish immigrant and his father, a tailor, had been named Marszewski, but immigration officials shortened the name to Muskie and it became official when his father became a citizen.

"I can't see where Lifton is coming from," said another professor stressing the same problems of vague and indirect communication which students say characterize their own interviews with the chairman. Another departing professor said that "enrollment figures for next semester are a disaster. There is one new course with an enrollment of none."

Another course, Introduction to Film, had once been a very popular one until it was dropped in the department.

When taught by Miles Ciner, it was a great success, with more applicants than spaces available. After Lifton permanently dropped the course last year, Ciner was replaced in teaching the course, and enrollment. Was been cut and had a downward spiral.

While Lifton says that the thrust of Theater in the new curriculum will be "performance," there is an agreement among students and faculty that he means more to them.

Inside his department, Lifton is well known for "going toward a critical studies" department. It was not entirely clear what he meant in the week preceding the department's last meeting. However, a 'critical studies' department was among the ideas announced at the meeting.

The conflict between a theater performance and theater analysis is in great part caused by the fact that most of the faculty hire as former department head Reginald Bann, now a professor in Communications and Theatre, came to Notre Dame/Saint Mary's to do theater. At the time, the University was looking forward to a major renovation of Washington Hall. According to Bann, James Burchardt, provost at that time, led a major renovation of Washington Hall. According to Bann, James Burchardt, provost at that time, led a major renovation of Washington Hall.

One result of this analysis, which received a mixed reaction from students and faculty, was the discontinuation of the university's "going toward a critical studies" department last year, before current Professor Lifton arrived on campus.

As a result, the department has hired Dr. Hernandez Tomas, a professor from Bloomington, to direct the program.

Lifton's ability to provide effective publicity for the ND/SMC theater season has also been questioned by students and faculty. As former department head Reginald Bann, Lifton is nominally responsible for the publicity department consisting of five paid student positions.

Lifton said that the publicity office has been "weak this year," but blamed it on students who did not follow the office's rules on their own.

Disenchantment with the way the department is being run at present caused students to turn to the administrations of Saint Mary's and Notre Dame for answers. "It's hard to understand what's happening in the department," said hairah. "We tried to get in touch with the deans, but they told us we had to talk to the chairman."

Attempts to talk to the chairman led to a meeting two weeks ago in Washington Hall at which departmental president Reginald Bann and theproblems and solutions facing the department. The students left the meeting unsatisfied, they said.

Kathy Horgan said that "Before we went in, we wrote out the questions we wanted to ask him. After we came out, we thought it was kind of a joke, and we weren't that surprised he said what he did. He seemed to be very unclear on the issues. He made us sound incompetent, or like we were flapping our arms for nothing. We weren't, we just wanted some answers."

However, according to student Regina Pratt, "A lot of our questions were answered because we

Student Body President Paul Riehle and Vice-President Don Gardner were the new members of their cabinet at a meeting last night.

Riehle said that the cabinet will be divided into three parts, each under the direction of an executive coordinator. Every executive coordinator will be responsible to one of these coordinators, as well as to the SBP and the ND/SMC board of governors.

Executive coordinator Frank Guadylille will have five commissioners functioning under him. Donald Schmeds is the new academic commissioner. The HPC-CLC liaison is Erin O'Connor. Sean Heffron heads the newly-reorganized student government.

Kathy McMahon pitched a perfect game while going five-for-eight at the plate to lead the Notre Dame softball team to a 1-0 win in the right cap of a doubleheader with Bethel. McMahon and Jan Crowe collected back-to-back homeruns in one Irish rally. Crowe proved to be the savior for McMahon's gem, making for a perfect catch for the final out of the game. In the opener Notre Dame took the win 13-2.

Fuzzy-baller back in action

The Notre Dame men's tennis team hopes to get back on the court on Wednesday after their long layoff due to the visitation of Western Michigan at 3:00 at the Comeremy Tennis Center. Tom Fallon's team has its 14-match winning streak snapped Sunday in a heart-breaker with Ohio State, losing the match, 5-4. The Irish stand 15-3 this year and are shooting for their second consecutive 20-win season with five matches remaining. Following the conclusion of the regular season the team will begin preparations for the Eastern Collegiate championships to be held in Rochester, N.Y., May 24-26.

Football, basketball, hockey tickets

As stated in a recently released directive from the athletic department, Notre Dame/Saint Mary's students will be required to purchase football tickets starting next season. The purchase of purchasing student tickets will be as follows:

On May 3, 1980, a package of ticket applications will be mailed to each student's home address. Included in the package will be a four-game season application for tickets to the Purdue, Michigan, Miami (Fla.) and Air Force football games. All four tickets included will be $46.

Also included will be a separate application for the Army game which will be played the first day of fall break. The cost of the single-game ticket will be $6.

Included also will be an application for season basketball and hockey tickets. Ticket application for basketball and hockey must be returned by August 15. Separate checks for each application are required. Seat assignments will, as in the past, be distributed in the fall.

Rudy Glenn's long road to NASL heights

'Or till places,' lamented a year-round member of the South Bend team.

The pro Turner Soccer League's Chicago Sting front office encourages Sunday afternoons at "In the South Bend, Indiana we draw more people than we get in Connecticut," said Rich Hunter. his bragging edifice on Chicago's south side, "Just start the Sting and their lease with Wrigley Field."

This on day, the hospitable residents of Michiana had turned out a force of 4,865 groupies to sit through an even billed as "Sophomore Soccer" 80 in, of all places, Notre Dame Stadium.

People in these parts, football fans, Notre Dame still means Saturday afternoons watching men in shoulder pads and gold helmets, none of this T-shirt and short pants busines.

The match between the Sting and the Home Miners Kicks was a minor landmark of sorts.

Professional soccer, in its continuing quest for nationwide exposure, was making a debut in the Hoosier state. It was the first game of the American Soccer League, and all the trimmings. NASL, a major landmark of sorts.

One of the characters in this little bit of history was 21-year-old Rudy Glenn of the Sting. Glenn was a product of the Indiana University's nationally ranked soccer team, which, in line with the other side of Juniper Road when Indiana University's nationally ranked soccer team took on Notre Dame at Carrier Field.

Big time soccer for the Irish was just getting off the ground when Glenn and his mates cruised through South Bend last September 26th to give some credibility to Rich Hunter's blossoming program.

A crowd that swelled close to the thousands saw Notre Dame hold the vaunted Hoosiers to a draw before Grillin followed home a rebound in the 43rd minute of play to send IU on its way to a 4-0 conquest.

Now a mere rookie in the international calf of the N.A.S.L., Glenn recalls his first year on South Bend.

However, the thought that comes back most vividly about his days at Indiana University remains, "We never did win it all (the national championship.)"

The importance of bringing life to a game at a school where athletic success has been measured in touchdown, jump shots and Olympic swimming gold medals for so long did not weigh on Glenn's mind.

Huffman comes of age, assumes leadership role

by Brian Beglane
Sports Writer

Tim Huffman, one of only two returnees this year, is a key to the squad next season. He is projected as one of the top independents in the Midwest."He's a big dude, very fast, and he can get to the quarterback, get to the ball carrier, and force fumbles," said Coach Bill Marquard.

A True Patriot - Notre Dame halfback Vagas Ferguson [above], was the first Irish player chosen in yesterday's early rounds of the National Football League draft. Ferguson was the 216th player chosen in the first round, going to the New England Patriots. A complete listing of the first six rounds appears in Sportsboard on page 10.

Irish items / More Quarterbacks

DRAFT BOARD—The choice of Vagas Ferguson in the first round and Dave Wyman and Tim Foley in the second round of yesterday's NFL draft marked the third time in as many years that at least two Irish football standouts were tapped on the first two rounds. In 1978 Ross Brower, Luther Bradley and Mike Courey were both first round selections, while in 1979 Bob Golic and Dave Huffman were both picked the second round through the master pro club.

ITEMS INTERJUVATIVE—What coach has the most wins in Notre Dame athletic history? (Trivia answer appears at the bottom of the page) It's not Cavanagh and Digger Phelps.

Ten Irish to watch this year

Irish clobber Bethel twice

by Beth Huffman

A home field advantage did not focus into the picture for Bethel College when the red-shirted Notre Dame baseball team swept a doubleheader in a field yesterday, sweeping a doubleheader 14-0 and 7-5 over the Bethel offense. The Irish put the last nail in at 24-7, tying the all-time Notre Dame win record set in 1928.

"It's just an awesome feeling," said senior Dave Bartlett as the sweep. "The team is really excited now. We're going to the history books this weekend. The records are near, but the team wants the NCAA bid. That's what we've been working for and we seniors realize that this is our final shot."

Notre Dame pitcher Bob Bartlett nabbed his fourth win of the season against one loss. Bartlett lasted a strong seven innings without with 13 strike outs.

"He pitched well," said Coach Tom Kelly. "He got into a little bit of trouble with walks (seven) but managed to pitch himself out."

Barlett got plenty of help from his defense, as the Irish collected 11 hits in the 14-run blast with three home runs. Round trip hammerers came from team captain Dan Voellinger and Bartlett in a seven-run sixth inning rally. Rick Chryt, a freshman from Plainville, Wis., pounded the third Irish homer in the top of the ninth inning with one on and the score 12-0. Dan Szajko also added to the Notre Dame attack, collecting two singles and a triple in game one.

Voellinger and Szajko's bats continued to be heard in the nightcap, as the pair each rapped home runs. John Eberh got game two and took credit for the win while senior Tim Hintz knuckled the ball. The Ebert-Handrich due combined to give up five runs (three earned) on four hits.

The Irish host Bradley on Saturday with Eastern Michigan travelling to Jake Kline Field on Sunday.

"This is a big weekend with two good teams," commented Kelly. "Bradley is a very good team from the Missouri Valley conference and Detroit is one of the top independents in the Midwest."

Wins in the tough weekend schedule (doubleheaders are scheduled for Saturday and Sunday) could give the Irish a wave of momentum to capture a NCAA bid.

"If we don't have the momentum now we won't have it," said Bartlett. "We are peaking now, but we can't get too excited. If we play like we have been then we should have no problem."

First round pick

A day in the life of Vagas

Yesterday morning, when most Notre Dame students were waiting for the class bell to ring, Vagas Ferguson was waiting for the telephone to ring.

Good morning, Ferguson, the vigil was short — and well worth his time. Friend and teammate, Dave Mitchell answered the call when it came from the New England Patriots announcing that Ferguson was to be first round pick of their club.

"I feel good," was Ferguson's first reaction. "I'm looking forward to playing for the Patriots and I hope I can do the job."

Being drafted in the first round is certainly an honor.

Which is an understatement, to say the least. Notre Dame coach Dan Devine is aware of the financial advantage of being a first-round selection.

"It definitely means more money," says Devine. "Sometimes there's a difference of as much as $100,000-dollars a year between a first and second round pick."

And the impact of suddenly becoming a wealthy football player hasn't escaped Ferguson. But he acts as if it's not that important to him.

"At all first round considerations," he conceded, "but not so much for me as for my family. If I do make any money, I want to use it to help my family. They don't have a whole lot of money and it will be nice to do something for them."

Curiously enough, he can't think of a single indulgence for himself.

"I don't need anything," he laughs. "I'm gonna be very cautious with my money, which means I'm not gonna spend it on alot of foolish things."

Frank LaGrotta

He will make his first visit to the Patriots' office in Foxboro, Mass. on May 11. Most likely, they will time him, give him a physical and start to talk dollars and cents.

"I don't even have an agent yet," smiles Ferguson. "But I'm gonna get one."

Still one gets the impression that this whole thing means a lot and a financial windfall as it is a dream come true.

"Oh there's no doubt that I've always wanted to play pro ball," he says. "I'm really looking forward to playing for the Patriots and coach Ron Erhardt."

And he's not overly concerned about the comparison.

"Hey, this is pro football," he points out. "I don't expect it to be easy. I know the Patriots have some great players at running back and I'm gonna have to really perform in order to play."

A fullback freshman, Ferguson played the halfback spot for most of his Notre Dame career. He feels he can run and block with equal skill.

"Fullback, halfback — it doesn't make an any difference," he shrugs. "I'll play wherever they have me."

His new coach, Erhardt, claims Ferguson is the kind of player who, "has the ability to help any team he plays for."

His old coach, Devine, calls him "the greatest back I've ever coached."

All of which are pretty tall compliments to live up to, but Vagas Ferguson has been waiting all his life for the chance to try.

Yesterday's phone call should give him ample opportunity.
