Off-campus crime: The residents’ view

By Mary Fran Callahan
Senior Staff Reporter

His apartment abounded in comfort. Plush couches sat tastefully on plush carpeting. Paintings hung from the walls, plants, from the ceiling. Draperies gracefully covered a wall of glass doors, which led to a balcony. There was bar of fine wood with a neat row of matching barstools. And of course, a stereo with speakers four feet occupied center stage of the room.

“I carry a knife when I walk home at night,” the apartment’s occupant commented. “And since the semester started, I’ve pulled it twice just walking home from the library,” he added.

Off-campus assaults robberies and beatings no longer automatically appear on The Observer’s front pages. Like a major city’s seemingly callous attitude towards crime, Notre Dame’s off-campus squirmishes are fast becoming an inevitable part of the university. One need only walk up and down Notre Dame Avenue to see the precautions which have been taken. Bicycles and baseball bats sit next to front doors; windows have safety locks on them. Guns are rumored to sit in bureau drawers and knives line quite a few Levi’s pockets.

“I’ve given rides home to people at night. And when you’re off-campus, you need a gun,”

Reagan, Carter await the outcome

By Donald M. Rothberg
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON — Their long, sometimes bitter campaign over, President Carter and Ronald Reagan are reduced to the role of the average citizen.

Today, on the first anniversary of the takeover of the U.S. Embassy in Iran, they could only vote and wait.

Carter was returning to his Plains, Ga., home to cast his ballot today. He has won the presidency in the past and will continue to have custody of the hostages, although observers expect his chances of re-election to be slight.

Reagan, returning from a campaign stop in Oregon, Carter coupled his appeal to potential Anderson voters with sharp attacks on Reagan.

Carter, concerned that Anderson is more likely to draw support from him than from Anderson, has decided to avoid any plans to vote for Anderson. The president said he and the Illinois congressman have goals “very close” on such issues as energy conservation and controlling the spread of nuclear weapons.

Carter has stated, “I ask you to consider the consequences to your lives if you should wake up Monday morning and find a new administration ready to take over the Oval Office, not committed to those goals.”

During a long campaign "Campaigning in Ohio, Illinois, Michigan, Missouri, Washington and Oregon, Carter coupled his appeal to potential Anderson voters with sharp attacks on Reagan.

“You can rewrite the lines in the movie industry and you can rewrite the lines in the history of some businesses, but there’s no way to wipe out 20 years of right-wing Republicanism exemplified by Governor Reagan,” he said.

In a last-minute schedule change, Carter dropped plans for a closing-day campaign stop in California and added an appearance in Detroit. Aides denied the change meant the president was writing off Reagan’s home state and its 45 electoral votes.

More than 80 million Americans were expected to vote, their ballots deciding contests for thousands of offices from the local level to the White House.

The key to victory for Reagan or for Carter appeared to rest in indecisive vote of closely contested industrial states in the Midwest, and both men made final bids for support there.

The tables are turned

Bigwig’s capture irks Iranians

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iraq refused to free Iran’s oil minister yesterday and said Iran’s complaint that his battlefield capture violated international law sounded more of coming from a country that has held American hostages for a year.

The Iranians said they held Iran’s oil minister Mohammed Jawad Baquir Tunguyan and five senior aides here and abducted an Iranian diplomat to invoke “all international codes and regulations” for his release.

“They were ambushed and kidnapped, and taken to Iraq territory,” said a statement by Iran’s Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai.

Iran officials pointed to the occupied U.S. Embassy in Tehran as an answer to Iranian complaints about the illegality of the capture and noted that Tunguyan and his aides are prisoners of war.

Iraq said one of its patrols captured Tunguyan, 30, outside the besieged city of Abadan on Friday. Abadan has been shelled daily since the war began Sept. 22. The Iraqis claim to surround the city.

Both sides reported sharp fighting yesterday at Abadan, Iran’s last stronghold on the Shatt al-Arab waterway and the source of 60 percent of its refined oil before the 43-day-old war began.

Abadan was the target of a fresh weekend drive by the Iraqis who threw a mobile bridge across the Bahmanshahr River and stormed up its eastern river bank into the outlying Zollafar district.

Iran’s oil ministry said that “Iraqi mercenaries... had infested” the Zollafar district but were “totally annihilated and their position is now impossible.” Near communion sent Iranian troops pushed back by several miles Iraqis trying to block southern roads to the city.

Parson yesterday Iranian warplanes bombed Iraq’s “declared sanctuary” near the Bahmanshahr River.

Iran, issuing a flurry of dispatches and communiqués claiming smashing war victories, has made such claims several times before.
A Notre Dame professor of philosophy and logic, Dr. Boleslaw Sobocinski, died Sunday.

Sobocinski was the founder of the Notre Dame Journal of Formal Logic. Born in Leningrad in 1906, Sobocinski taught at Warsaw University in Poland before coming to the United States in 1949. He served as director of the Institute of Applied Logic in St. Paul, Minn., before coming to teach at Notre Dame. Sobocinski retired from teaching in 1965 and continued to edit the Notre Dame Journal of Formal Logic.

Contracts totaling $2,088,166 have been paid for the reconstruction and expansion of Saint Edward’s Hall, Notre Dame’s oldest dormitory that was severely damaged by a June 25 fire. The general contractor is Casteel Construction Co., mechanical, United Heating and Plumbing, electrical, Koontz-Wagner Electrical; temperature controls. Havel Bros., Inc., and windows, More-Ray Corporations.

The hall, built in 1882, will be physically upgraded in the historical restoration, and a addition will enable it to house 187 students, compared with 144 before the fire. University officials hope to have the reconstruction finished by the start of classes in the fall of 1981. — The Observer

The Supreme Court said yesterday it will decide whether the nation’s public schools and colleges must pay for interpreters to help deaf students in their classroom. In a case that could significantly affect the educational opportunities of handicapped persons, the court will study a University of Texas attempt to avoid such expenses. A federal appeals court said the university was obligated under the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 to pay for Walter Camenisch’s master’s degree in education. Camenisch has been working toward a master’s degree in education at the University of Arizona, Santa Cruz, but has been unable to attend classes because he cannot understand the lectures.

Actor Robert Redford has sent a telegram to U.S. Representative Dan Quayle protesting the use of his name and photographs in connection with Quayle’s campaign to unseat U.S. Senator Birch Bayh. In a telegram sent through Warner Communications Inc. in New York on Friday, the film star noted that Quayle has been referred to throughout the campaign as “the man with my name and photograph in connection with Quayle’s campaign.”

With the dedication of Notre Dame’s Snite Museum of Art, only a few days away, we can’t help but note an article authored by University President Rev. Theodore Hesburgh in the November-December 1977 issue of Museum Magazine. Hesburgh tells the story of Frederick Snite, the 1933 Notre Dame grad and polio victim who “drew on deeply held religious convictions for equanimity in adversity.” It was Frederick’s father, the late Colonel Frederick Snite, that put forth $2 million for the construction of the new museum and “to keep alive the inspiring memory of Frederick.”

But while we note Hesburgh’s article, we must call attention to the magazine itself. After only its first five issues, Museum has already drawn rave reviews from critics across the country. You may wonder how a magazine on a subject such as museums may be so successful in such a short period of time? Just look at the people behind the operation.

The publisher, Jules Warshau, is no rookie to the museum business. He has created over 60 titles for newsstand sale. He was once owner-publisher of Status and Diphilms magazines, publisher of Holiday, and director of publishing for the Saturday Evening Post Company.

After he was ordained as editor of the Saturday Evening Post, Warshau put together many of his cohorts from the Saturday Evening Post to join his venture into the exploration of museums. Atop the list of experienced editorial board members is Frederic A. Birmingham, the editor-in-chief with over 40 years of author/editor experience. Before joining the Post as editor, Birmingham was highly respected for his editorial work with Esquire, Time, and Reader’s Digest, as well as for authoring many best-selling novels.

“He’s the grand old man of American journalism — undisputedly so,” insists Managing Editor Thomas J. O’Neil, who worked at the Indianapolis Star and the Post after serving as an editor-in-chief of The Observer in 1976-77. “His presence here has a lot to do with our success thus far.”

Birmingham’s editorship has gotten off to such a rousing start. The publishing business is far and away “a people business.” And this magazine has the people behind it.

But why a magazine on museums? “Did you ever stop and realize that a half billion people a year visit museums?” asks O’Neil. “And that nearly every major magazine around the country features museums of some sort on a somewhat regular basis? Well, those people who founded this magazine realized that there was no one magazine that hit the smack in the middle of the museum trade.”

O’Neil also indicated that magazines originating in the last decade all seemed to be aimed at a specific niche. Three years ago, when the idea was first discussed, it was believed that a worldwide interest in museums would give a museum magazine a great promise.

“After the days of the King Tut exhibition, the whole attitude toward museums around the country really ballooned,” O’Neil says. “That helped to enforce our opinion of how this type of magazine could really be successful.”

Museum Magazine is currently circulating 120,000 copies — a figure that company representatives hope to have tripled by the end of next year.

And that figure is sure to grow, as potential readers around America realize that the magazine is not ads as its title may imply. Museum features an interesting blend of museum critique, fine photography, colorful science fiction and editorial humor. Just look at the lineup of commissioned writers hired by Museum — Walter Cronkite, Mary Renault, Julia Child, Orson Welles, Red Sox, Art Bachwald. And that is in addition to the magazine’s own staff of quality editor/writers.

“We’re working hard to attract quality writing through big names,” says O’Neil. “And we’ve gotten impressive support from these people.”

Someday soon the magazine may be receiving national support through newsstand sales. For now, however, Museum Magazine is available in 80 museums in more than 30 states, or by direct mail. Subscriptions are $15 per year (six issues), and can be obtained by writing to the magazine’s circulation offices, P.O. Box 1500, Bemidji, N.J. 56672.

Inside Tuesday

Museum, worth looking into

Paul Mulaney

Editor-in-chief

Note: The Observer news department has announced the promotion of five of its reporters in the last year. Sophomore Tim Vercillo has been promoted to senior staff reporter, and junior Mary Agnes Gabri and Sophomore Tim Vercillo have been promoted to the position of staff reporter.

Actor Robert Redford has sent a telegram to U.S. Senator Birch Bayh on a suggestion by Quayle's campaign to unseat U.S. Senator Birch Bayh.

Inside Tuesday

Museum, worth looking into

Paul Mulaney

Editor-in-chief

Note: The Observer news department has announced the promotion of five of its reporters in the last year. Sophomore Tim Vercillo has been promoted to senior staff reporter, and junior Mary Agnes Gabri and Sophomore Tim Vercillo have been promoted to the position of staff reporter.

Actor Robert Redford has sent a telegram to U.S. Senator Birch Bayh on a suggestion by Quayle's campaign to unseat U.S. Senator Birch Bayh.

Mostly cloudy and breezy with a 50 percent chance of rain. High today in the high to mid 70's, low tonight in the low 40's. Southernly winds 15-20 m.p.h.
...Crime

[continued from page 1]

campus, the standard conversation starts "have you been broken into yet?" an off-campus student commented, laughing slightly, then sobering quickly.

"We got broken into once. Now we have a gun, and if we have to use it we won't hesitate," a student said.

His housemate interjected, "There is just so much tension in the neighborhood." Well then, do off-campus students live in a state of fear?

"Let's just say we're always cautious," a student responded.

"I see strangers wandering around, so now we all keep the doors locked even when we're home" another student commented.

Several students also mentioned that a thief had broken into a house, rubbed its resident up against the wall, and assaulted the occupant while eight people slept in the house. The thief fled with an expensive camera. In short, these criminals have guts.

"I don't fear the blacks (sic) at all," a 25-year Notre Dame Avenue resident commented, "but who if we are the drunken students going home late at night. They'd knock on my door at four in the morning and want to use the bathroom," she said.

She further explained that students have vandalized her when denied bathroom privileges. Recently, poles supporting her porch, were removed - an act the resident attributes to Notre Dame neighborhood kids. "The porch restoration cost $117. I can't afford that type of expense," she commented.

A resident downtown the street shared her sentiments, "I object to having over half a dozen taverns within two and half blocks of my house," the thirty-year neighborhood veteran commented. "All those taverns are not conducive to the well-being of the students. You cannot believe how drunk they get."

A faculty member who resides in the neighborhood also agreed with the city residents.

"There is so much stupid behavior among the students. They are an influence," he said. He also cited the procession home of one student who was assaulted a long time ago, into a house, robbed it, and assaulted an occupant while eight people slept in the house. The theft fled with an expensive camera. In short, these criminals have guts.

"I didn't fear the blacks (sic) at all," a 25-year Notre Dame Avenue resident commented, "but who if we are the drunken students going home late at night. They'd knock on my door at four in the morning and want to use the bathroom," she said.

She further explained that students have vandalized her when denied bathroom privileges. Recently, poles supporting her porch, were removed - an act the resident attributes to Notre Dame neighborhood kids. "The porch restoration cost $117. I can't afford that type of expense," she commented.

A resident downtown the street shared her sentiments, "I object to having over half a dozen taverns within two and half blocks of my house," the thirty-year neighborhood veteran commented. "All those taverns are not conducive to the well-being of the students. You cannot believe how drunk they get."

A local resident of A faculty member who resides in the neighborhood also agreed with the city residents.

"There is so much stupid behavior among the students. They are an influence," he said. He also cited the procession home of one student who was assaulted a long time ago, into a house, robbed it, and assaulted an occupant while eight people slept in the house. The theft fled with an expensive camera. In short, these criminals have guts.

"I don't fear the blacks (sic) at all," a 25-year Notre Dame Avenue resident commented, "but who if we are the drunken students going home late at night. They'd knock on my door at four in the morning and want to use the bathroom," she said.

She further explained that students have vandalized her when denied bathroom privileges. Recently, poles supporting her porch, were removed - an act the resident attributes to Notre Dame neighborhood kids. "The porch restoration cost $117. I can't afford that type of expense," she commented.

A resident downtown the street shared her sentiments, "I object to having over half a dozen taverns within two and half blocks of my house," the thirty-year neighborhood veteran commented. "All those taverns are not conducive to the well-being of the students. You cannot believe how drunk they get."

A local resident of...
They really are efficient

Macrae credits Japan’s economy

Norman Macrae, Deputy Editor of The Economist, a heralded London-based publication, spoke yesterday at the Memorial Library Auditorium. As the third part of the I.T.T. sponsored Key Issues Lecture Series, "Japan and the United States in a Turbulent World: Myths and Reality," this particular topic centered on "Lessons from the Japanese Experience."

Reviewing America’s attitudes toward the Japanese economy, Macrae scoffed at the notion of the Japanese economic system as "The Fragile Flower," so prophesied by National Security Advisor Zbig Brzezinski in the sixties. Macrae’s comment that drew loud applause from the more than 100 spectators gathered.

Macrae remarked that the West can no longer underrate the economic status of Japan as that country now possesses a per capita Gross National Product extremely close to that of the United States (if not indeed greater than the U.S.).

The positive indicators of the economic status of Japan are reflecting a life expectancy rate which surpasses the U.S. and an infant mortality rate which is half of that of America. Another plus acquired through this system is an educational system superior to its American counterpart and a crime rate much lower than that of the United States.

Macrae pointed to the "relentless daily productivity hunt." The Japanese take pride in producing fault-free products and in competing with their rival companies in obtaining "the lowest defect rate" possible.

In relating government’s role in the economy, Macrae quoted a high-ranking Japanese official.

"The prime minister says ‘This is our consensus.’ He is not very precise either. But action can then be taken in line with that unprecies consensus with everybody feeling he has had some say in what is being done. The consequence is that in Japan every decision is done. The consequence is that in Japan every decision is done. The consequence is that..."

Macrae continued by relating a 1979 report given by the Comptroller General.

"I think that it is a great thing that a mighty commercial power has been built up in the world without a military establishment..." he said. In expressing Japan’s growth as that country now possesses a high-ranking Japanese counterpart and a crime rate much lower than that of the United States, Macrae credited Japan’s economy.

In dealing with the foreign technological growth, Macrae stated that the Ministry of Industry sees to it that non-Japanese technology "is bought at the lowest possible price."

"The Japanese have been early to recognize that the ideal size for a profit center--by which I mean group of friends working together towards the same objective--is very small, probably not more than 7 to 11. Similarly down on the assembly lines... teams of skilled engineers swarm all over the largely automated assembly lines, intent on increasing the flow of fault-free cars or appliances.

"I think that it is a great thing that a mighty commercial power has been built up in the world without a military establishment..." Macrae’s words in expressing Japan’s growth with that of the United States.

---

This Wednesday and Every Wednesday...

ND/SMC SPECIAL

Pitcher of Beer $2.00
Pitcher of Pop $0.75

PIZZA KING

CarryOut Dial 272-6017

OPEN EVERY DAY

MON. — THURS. 11:00 - 12:00
FRI. & SAT. 11:00 - 1:00
SUN. 4:30 - 11:00

See Us For Your Pizza Parties
students to get acquainted with their neighbors and assume the responsibility as members of a community.

"If you read the crime reports, you'll see we have a real good record as far as this section of the city goes," Arthur Quigley, a spokesman for the Northeast Neighborhood Center commented.

"I don't see anybody walking anymore. Homeowners are afraid to go out," said. It's all out of hand. The whole Northeast Neighborhood is going down. It seems like the whole place is just going all out of hand. The whole Northeast Neighborhood is going down. It seems like the whole place is just going.

"It's all out of hand. The whole Northeast Neighborhood is going down. It seems like the whole place is just going all out of hand. The whole Northeast Neighborhood is going down. It seems like the whole place is just going.

"It's all out of hand. The whole Northeast Neighborhood is going down. It seems like the whole place is just going all out of hand. The whole Northeast Neighborhood is going down. It seems like the whole place is just going.

"It's all out of hand. The whole Northeast Neighborhood is going down. It seems like the whole place is just going all out of hand. The whole Northeast Neighborhood is going down. It seems like the whole place is just going.

"It's all out of hand. The whole Northeast Neighborhood is going down. It seems like the whole place is just going all out of hand. The whole Northeast Neighborhood is going down. It seems like the whole place is just going.

--Crime

Howard mass honors the hungry

Tomorrow night at 10 p.m. there will be a celebration of the Eucharist "in memory of those who hunger," in the Howard Hall Chapel. All those who fast are especially invited to attend.

---
Editorials

Single issues and multiple mistakes

by E.A. Gormer

In an article ironically entitled "The Christian Matte" in the latest issue of Scholastic, Prof. Ralph McNerney of the Philoso- phy Department writes about the abortion issue in a way that, although not original, is echoed, as he himself claims, in the incongruity ofissu- seman of Catholic liberality (i.e., Msgr. George Higgins) and at the same time before the election, a single-issue electorate judgment in favor of Ronald Reagan because of his stand against abortion. What is especially unsettling about his article is one's perception that the abortion issue has become so prominent that it has overshadowed the usually lucid mind of Prof. McNerney. He has, in short, allowed his speech and writing to be infected by a patently fallacious piece.

To avoid misunderstandings, let me say that 1) I am opposed to abortion and think it should be illegal and that 2) I think Prof. McNerney is fallible in his presentation of humanists (or, rather some of them) for an important incon­ sistency.

But it is simply false to think that either of those points gives any particular support whatever to the political conclusionProf. McNerney argues for on them. Let me quote his concluding par­ graph in full: No doubt Mr. Nixon and Mr. Mondale will con­ siderably have a problem when the only issue is abortion, for public funding is a political con­ servative. It is difficult to see how that problem would be any different from the other candidate's more con­ gressionalists are supposed to be, no voter will find such a choice on his ballot. He will actually find particular Care and Prof. McNerney wants you to choose Ronald Reagan's name. Mr. Reagan, to a very different than the other can­ candidates on the ballot! Isn't that in fact a number of matters other than abortion on which Carter must be important from Prof. McNerney (I leave out Anderson as a certain choice). It is in any case that has attended to this same cam­ campaign (rather than excluding as unnecessary everything but the single issue of abortion) that it is not beyond reasonable judge­ ment that voting for one who, by the man's stand on welfare, govern­ ment spending and the Windfall Profits Tax, may well be severe or freeze to death a substantial number of your fellow citizens. The poorest and the oldest. Oh that sounds over-dramatized, and yet our class professors. But the fact is that there is a substantial number of the poor in our society now subsisting on dogfood who may well die directly or indirectly because of malnutrition ifhouse wife spending is cut deeply enough. Does Ronald Reagan intend to cause their death? I think not, but that he may indirectly cause it he doesn't have a very clear idea of what and especially to deals he has, in short, allowed his speech and writing to be infected by a patently fallacious piece.

The candidate referred to in particular is Mr. Ronald Reagan, whose name Mr. McNerney \textit{is} a reasonable way to be for philosopher to make an argument in ethics and a Thomist. Is it enough to "feel" that a single issue as important as abortion over all others? Isn't a philo­ sophers ought to encourage citi­

do the third-rate cowboy movies is also committed to doing other things that are likewise funda­ mentally evil? Professor McNerney claims that no other issues in the cam­aign are on the same level as this "massively important one." But does he arrive at this judgment? Apparently by sug­ gestic that all the other issues can be collected under the vague difference between "conserva­ tive" and "liberal" which is scarcely very profound or sharp in American politics. The un­ stated rhetorical question is this: Surely you don't think that such a vague and untenable dif­ ference as that is "massively im­ portant"?

Well, the fact of the matter (and Thomists are supposed to be, no voter will find such a choice on his ballot. He will actually find particular Care and Prof. McNerney wants you to choose Ronald Reagan's name. Mr. Reagan, to a very different than the other candidate's more con­ gressionalists are supposed to be, no voter will find such a choice on his ballot! Isn't that in fact a number of matters other than abortion on which Carter must be important from Prof. McNerney (I leave out Anderson as a certain choice). It is in any case that has attended to this same cam­ campaign (rather than excluding as unnecessary everything but the single issue of abortion) that it is not beyond reasonable judge­ ment that voting for one who, by the man's stand on welfare, govern­ment spending and the Windfall Profits Tax, may well be severe or freeze to death a substantial number of your fellow citizens. The poorest and the oldest. Oh that sounds over-dramatized, and yet our class professors. But the fact is that there is a substantial number of the poor in our society now subsisting on dogfood who may well die directly or indirectly because of malnutrition ifhouse wife spending is cut deeply enough. Does Ronald Reagan intend to cause their death? I think not, but that he may indirectly cause it he doesn't have a very clear idea of what and especially to deals he has, in short, allowed his speech and writing to be infected by a patently fallacious piece.

The candidate referred to in particular is Mr. Ronald Reagan, whose name Mr. McNerney \textit{is} a reasonable way to be for philosopher to make an argument in ethics and a Thomist. Is it enough to "feel" that a single issue as important as abortion over all others? Isn't a philo­osophers ought to encourage citi­

Doonesbury

by Garry Trudeau

Garry Trudeau

The Observer

I have a proposal that can save the Tribune's readership. It's a proposal that is not new. I propose that the Tribune switch to a single-topic format, similar to the way the New York Times handles its Sunday magazine section. The Tribune's readership is currently split between those who want the Tribune to be a general-interest paper and those who want it to be a political newspaper. By focusing on a single topic, the Tribune could please both groups. The Tribune could become a daily newspaper that focuses on a specific area of interest, such as politics, business, or sports. This would allow the Tribune to provide in-depth coverage of a particular subject, while still offering a wide range of topics for its readers. Such a format would also make it easier for the Tribune to attract new readers, who might be put off by the Tribune's current breadth of coverage. By focusing on a single topic, the Tribune could become a more focused and powerful newspaper.
THE MCNALLY POLL

Poll Results: Of Lucifer and Lust

Ed McNally & Leslie Griffith

Let’s face it: Political polls are boring. As most every analyst has remarked with rare originality, the only poll that counts is the one taken on Election Day. And under our system, the Electoral College (not to be confused with Valparaiso) can by rights ignore that poll as well.

What about the real mysteries of the day? Have you ever wondered what students here think you’ll end up in heaven or in hell? You see, your friends are always like, "Oh, I’m really hard working and I’ll be justly rewarded in heaven. An 11:00 a.m. class isn’t a problem at all."

Well, a confident 76 per cent of the 10,000 members of the ND/SMC community who they want to be elected to one post or another. An over 80-some male students are walking around bad-mouthing the women, but 80-some male students are thinking they’ll go there; and 80-some male students are convinced they’re proceeding in the direction. But don’t mind advising on travel arrangements, either.

The new success of Satan’s football team could win a wide following for the whole institution. And though everyone knows that in 1977 God Made ND #1, “Bama could be tough this year, and it probably wouldn’t hurt to occasionally hedge our bets."

For the record, it’ll be the Gipper with whatever field goals in Illinois. Ohio, and Texas all very late in the 4th quarter. Watch for it.”

Voila! French Film Festival Opens

Chris Cervenak

Whether you can sing all verses of the “Marseillaise” or only choose in on that catchy refrain “Voulez-vous couchez avec moi, ce soir?” this week’s French Film Festival is worth catching. Forget the stereotypical foreign flick imbued with political statements and oppressive smoke-filled rooms.

Instead, prepare yourself for some romping good laughs and humorous, painless continental entertainment.

From November 4 through November 17, Le Lien and the Movie Commission are presenting four French movies in the Engineering Auditorium. Admission is only $1.00. All movies will be shown at 7, 9, and 11:00 p.m. Here is a preview of the films:

Tuesday, Nov. 4 – Truffaut’s Small Change

This widely acclaimed film of the famous French director, François Truffaut, is an intimate mosaic of the lives of several children in a small provincial town. Truffaut masterfully gives us moments of raucous hilarity and genuine trauma demonstrating a vision of childhood that is profound and wonderful.

Wednesday, Nov. 5 – DeBroca’s Dear Inspector

Remember the King of Hearts and That Man Frankie? The same director who brought you these series up Dear Inspector. It’s one of those witty romantic comedies that only the French can produce, yet also a suspenseful murder mystery. It asks whether a lady cop and a professor of Greek can find happiness together in their middle years.

Cristi Cristi of The New York Post writes, “If Columbus were a lady or Kojak a woman, we would have to praise Philippe DeBroca to beat us to the female punch in the wise, witty, and wonderfully light-hearted fashion that is its hallmark. It’s the feel-best movie around.” Thursday, Nov. 6 – Cesar, Cousine

This is a love story with a twist. It’s about Martha and Ludovic, cousins through marriage (his uncle and her mother), whose relationships develop from one of acquaintance to friendship to love. Of course, their patient and loving families look on in dismay. And Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s students, take note of one critic’s view of “Cousin, Cousine”: “Quite possibly the most accurate representation of happy, healthy sensuality I have seen on film (John Simon, New York Magazine).”

Friday, Nov. 7 and Saturday, Nov. 8 – Le Cap aux Folles

One of the most phenomenal film successes in history, this comedy is on its way to becoming the largest grossing foreign film in history. “La Cage aux Folles” is the name of a transvestite night club run by a pair of aging homosexuals, one of whom has a son. It gets better. The son’s fiancé’s father is the chief of the Department of Morals and is not likely to approve of his new in-law. Eager to help the young lovers, the boy’s “parents” make a valiant attempt to curb their outrageous lifestyle to appear “normal” and “respectable.”

The results are unforgettably comic. There are scenes of such hilarity that the Marx Brothers and Charlie Chaplin come to mind as the only basis of comparison. But beneath the comedy is a touching and sensitive story that proves that love doesn’t know any boundaries.

So whether you want to impress a date with your cosmopolitan savoir-faire or simply want to enjoy yourself, have some wine, grab your popcorn and check out the French Foreign Film Festival. Oh, and you can leave your French-English dictionaries at home. Dubbing and subtitles are provided.

Chris Cervenak is a Notre Dame junior from Los Angeles, California.
Marullo disputes Russian aura

Tomorrow night at 8 p.m. the Cavanagh Hall Academic Commission will sponsor the illustrated lecture, "Are the Russians Ten Feet Tall?" to be presented by Dr. Thomas Marullo, assistant professor in the Department of Modern and Classical Languages. The lecture will be held in the Cavanagh Study Lounge, and is the first in a series of lectures to be sponsored by the newly formed Cavanagh Academic Commission.

College Bowl meeting

There will be a brief meeting for all persons interested in this year's ND College Bowl Program, tomorrow at 7 p.m. in room 106 O'Shaughnessy. Rules and procedures will be explained, and sign-up sheets will be available. For further information, call Dr. Peter Lombardo at 7005.
In Bottom Ten

Texas-El Paso takes first

As was the case with our counterparts in the Top Ten, there were some drastic changes at the top of the Bottom Ten.

Last week's number-one team, Colorado, surprised even themselves, suffering a disappointing loss to Iowa State. Chuck Fairbanks and his squad stormed to a 17-9 victory against the Cyclones, who were bothered by the atmospheric conditions in Boulder.

As a result of the win, Boulder and UTEP rules, the Buffaloes have been banned from this week's poll. This could spell disaster for their chances at a national championship, as Colorado closes out the season with games against powerhouse Oklahoma State, Kansas, and Kansas State.

Vanderbilt, owners of the number-one ranking earlier in the season, and last week's number-three team, were winners as well. The Commodores grooved to a 14-10 win over Memphis State. This game impressed the voters, as Vandy was dropped from the rankings, and the Tigers made their debut in the numbers-nine slot.

Usually, the Bottom Ten gives awards only at mid-season and in the post-season. In extreme unusual cases, however, provisions are made for special recognition. Such is the case with "The It. William Calley Scapegoat Award." It goes to the Athletic Director at Texas Christian University, Frank Windegger.

During last week's TCU-Baylor game, PA announcer Bob Barry gave the results special recognition.

Windegger, there's no one to blame for the loss. Said Windegger, "there's no one to blame for the loss but the PA announcer."

They shoot horses don't they?

Here are this week's rankings:

1) Texas-El Paso (1-8)
2) Northwestern (1-7)
3) Oregon (1-7)
4) Georgia Tech (1-7)
5) Cincinnati (0-8)
6) Michigan (1-7)
7) Columbia (1-6)
8) Missouri State (1-7)
9) Memphis (1-7)
10) MVP Today on CBS (1-1)

Next week it's a classic, as the Tigers face Cincinnati.

As was the case with our counterparts in the Top Ten, there were some drastic changes at the top of the Bottom Ten.

Last week's number-one team, Colorado, surprised even themselves, suffering a disappointing loss to Iowa State. Chuck Fairbanks and his squad stormed to a 17-9 victory against the Cyclones, who were bothered by the atmospheric conditions in Boulder.

As a result of the win, Boulder and UTEP rules, the Buffaloes have been banned from this week's poll. This could spell disaster for their chances at a national championship, as Colorado closes out the season with games against powerhouse Oklahoma State, Kansas, and Kansas State.

Vanderbilt, owners of the number-one ranking earlier in the season, and last week's number-three team, were winners as well. The Commodores grooved to a 14-10 win over Memphis State. This game impressed the voters, as Vandy was dropped from the rankings, and the Tigers made their debut in the numbers-nine slot.

Usually, the Bottom Ten gives awards only at mid-season and in the post-season. In extreme unusual cases, however, provisions are made for special recognition. Such is the case with "The It. William Calley Scapegoat Award." It goes to the Athletic Director at Texas Christian University, Frank Windegger.

During last week's TCU-Baylor game, PA announcer Bob Barry gave the results special recognition.

Windegger, there's no one to blame for the loss. Said Windegger, "there's no one to blame for the loss but the PA announcer."

They shoot horses don't they?

Here are this week's rankings:

1) Texas-El Paso (1-8)
2) Northwestern (1-7)
3) Oregon (1-7)
4) Georgia Tech (1-7)
5) Cincinnati (0-8)
6) Michigan (1-7)
7) Columbia (1-6)
8) Missouri State (1-7)
9) Memphis (1-7)
10) MVP Today on CBS (1-1)

Next week it's a classic, as the Tigers face Cincinnati.

As was the case with our counterparts in the Top Ten, there were some drastic changes at the top of the Bottom Ten.

Last week's number-one team, Colorado, surprised even themselves, suffering a disappointing loss to Iowa State. Chuck Fairbanks and his squad stormed to a 17-9 victory against the Cyclones, who were bothered by the atmospheric conditions in Boulder.

As a result of the win, Boulder and UTEP rules, the Buffaloes have been banned from this week's poll. This could spell disaster for their chances at a national championship, as Colorado closes out the season with games against powerhouse Oklahoma State, Kansas, and Kansas State.

Vanderbilt, owners of the number-one ranking earlier in the season, and last week's number-three team, were winners as well. The Commodores grooved to a 14-10 win over Memphis State. This game impressed the voters, as Vandy was dropped from the rankings, and the Tigers made their debut in the numbers-nine slot.

Usually, the Bottom Ten gives awards only at mid-season and in the post-season. In extreme unusual cases, however, provisions are made for special recognition. Such is the case with "The It. William Calley Scapegoat Award." It goes to the Athletic Director at Texas Christian University, Frank Windegger.

During last week's TCU-Baylor game, PA announcer Bob Barry gave the results special recognition.

Windegger, there's no one to blame for the loss. Said Windegger, "there's no one to blame for the loss but the PA announcer."

They shoot horses don't they?

Here are this week's rankings:

1) Texas-El Paso (1-8)
2) Northwestern (1-7)
3) Oregon (1-7)
4) Georgia Tech (1-7)
5) Cincinnati (0-8)
6) Michigan (1-7)
7) Columbia (1-6)
8) Missouri State (1-7)
9) Memphis (1-7)
10) MVP Today on CBS (1-1)

Next week it's a classic, as the Tigers face Cincinnati.

As was the case with our counterparts in the Top Ten, there were some drastic changes at the top of the Bottom Ten.

Last week's number-one team, Colorado, surprised even themselves, suffering a disappointing loss to Iowa State. Chuck Fairbanks and his squad stormed to a 17-9 victory against the Cyclones, who were bothered by the atmospheric conditions in Boulder.

As a result of the win, Boulder and UTEP rules, the Buffaloes have been banned from this week's poll. This could spell disaster for their chances at a national championship, as Colorado closes out the season with games against powerhouse Oklahoma State, Kansas, and Kansas State.

Vanderbilt, owners of the number-one ranking earlier in the season, and last week's number-three team, were winners as well. The Commodores grooved to a 14-10 win over Memphis State. This game impressed the voters, as Vandy was dropped from the rankings, and the Tigers made their debut in the numbers-nine slot.

Usually, the Bottom Ten gives awards only at mid-season and in the post-season. In extreme unusual cases, however, provisions are made for special recognition. Such is the case with "The It. William Calley Scapegoat Award." It goes to the Athletic Director at Texas Christian University, Frank Windegger.

During last week's TCU-Baylor game, PA announcer Bob Barry gave the results special recognition.

Windegger, there's no one to blame for the loss. Said Windegger, "there's no one to blame for the loss but the PA announcer."

They shoot horses don't they?

Here are this week's rankings:

1) Texas-El Paso (1-8)
2) Northwestern (1-7)
3) Oregon (1-7)
4) Georgia Tech (1-7)
5) Cincinnati (0-8)
6) Michigan (1-7)
7) Columbia (1-6)
8) Missouri State (1-7)
9) Memphis (1-7)
10) MVP Today on CBS (1-1)

Next week it's a classic, as the Tigers face Cincinnati.

As was the case with our counterparts in the Top Ten, there were some drastic changes at the top of the Bottom Ten.

Last week's number-one team, Colorado, surprised even themselves, suffering a disappointing loss to Iowa State. Chuck Fairbanks and his squad stormed to a 17-9 victory against the Cyclones, who were bothered by the atmospheric conditions in Boulder.

As a result of the win, Boulder and UTEP rules, the Buffaloes have been banned from this week's poll. This could spell disaster for their chances at a national championship, as Colorado closes out the season with games against powerhouse Oklahoma State, Kansas, and Kansas State.

Vanderbilt, owners of the number-one ranking earlier in the season, and last week's number-three team, were winners as well. The Commodores grooved to a 14-10 win over Memphis State. This game impressed the voters, as Vandy was dropped from the rankings, and the Tigers made their debut in the numbers-nine slot.

Usually, the Bottom Ten gives awards only at mid-season and in the post-season. In extreme unusual cases, however, provisions are made for special recognition. Such is the case with "The It. William Calley Scapegoat Award." It goes to the Athletic Director at Texas Christian University, Frank Windegger.

During last week's TCU-Baylor game, PA announcer Bob Barry gave the results special recognition.

Windegger, there's no one to blame for the loss. Said Windegger, "there's no one to blame for the loss but the PA announcer."

They shoot horses don't they?

Here are this week's rankings:

1) Texas-El Paso (1-8)
2) Northwestern (1-7)
3) Oregon (1-7)
4) Georgia Tech (1-7)
5) Cincinnati (0-8)
6) Michigan (1-7)
7) Columbia (1-6)
8) Missouri State (1-7)
9) Memphis (1-7)
10) MVP Today on CBS (1-1)

Next week it's a classic, as the Tigers face Cincinnati.

As was the case with our counterparts in the Top Ten, there were some drastic changes at the top of the Bottom Ten.

Last week's number-one team, Colorado, surprised even themselves, suffering a disappointing loss to Iowa State. Chuck Fairbanks and his squad stormed to a 17-9 victory against the Cyclones, who were bothered by the atmospheric conditions in Boulder.

As a result of the win, Boulder and UTEP rules, the Buffaloes have been banned from this week's poll. This could spell disaster for their chances at a national championship, as Colorado closes out the season with games against powerhouse Oklahoma State, Kansas, and Kansas State.

Vanderbilt, owners of the number-one ranking earlier in the season, and last week's number-three team, were winners as well. The Commodores grooved to a 14-10 win over Memphis State. This game impressed the voters, as Vandy was dropped from the rankings, and the Tigers made their debut in the numbers-nine slot.

Usually, the Bottom Ten gives awards only at mid-season and in the post-season. In extreme unusual cases, however, provisions are made for special recognition. Such is the case with "The It. William Calley Scapegoat Award." It goes to the Athletic Director at Texas Christian University, Frank Windegger.

During last week's TCU-Baylor game, PA announcer Bob Barry gave the results special recognition.

Windegger, there's no one to blame for the loss. Said Windegger, "there's no one to blame for the loss but the PA announcer."

They shoot horses don't they?

Here are this week's rankings:

1) Texas-El Paso (1-8)
2) Northwestern (1-7)
3) Oregon (1-7)
4) Georgia Tech (1-7)
5) Cincinnati (0-8)
6) Michigan (1-7)
7) Columbia (1-6)
8) Missouri State (1-7)
9) Memphis (1-7)
10) MVP Today on CBS (1-1)

Next week it's a classic, as the Tigers face Cincinnati.
Campbell rushes past last two title paces

Earl Campbell is getting ahead of himself. The sensational running back of the Houston Oilers is ahead of the pace he set two years ago and again last year when he won consecutive National Football League rushing titles.

In 1978, en route to a rookie-record 1,406 yards, Campbell had 799 yards in the final three games. In 1979, when Earl finished with 1,697 yards, he had 812 of them after nine games and, at this point in the 79 campaign, was third in rushing in the league, trailing Walter Payton's 1,000 and Ozzie Anderson's 836.

Today, after his 157-yard, two-touchdown performance in Denver that paved the way to 20-16 triumph over the Bron­cos, Campbell leads the league in rushing with 964 yards. That's 163 ahead of his rookie pace and 152 ahead of last year's.

Billy Sims, the Detroit Lions' rookie (and the NFL's No. 1 draft choice), is No. 2 now with 896 yards. Payton, who finished second to Campbell with 1,610 yards a year ago, and runner-up two years ago as well with a 1,927, who has 1,605 this year, and many other folks, are a lot of imposters, but there ain't but one Earl Campbell," the coach drawled.

And Anderson, who a year ago shattered Campbell's 1978 rookie rushing record by gain­ning 1,605 in his first pro year with St. Louis, is fourth so far this season with 746 yards.

Campbell went about picking up the rushing record in different fashions. As a rookie, he failed at the end of the season with 41.67 and 77 yards in his final three games. Last year he finished strong, rush­ing for at least 100 yards in each of his last seven games, another NFL record.

Campbell had a chance to achieve a feat not even O.J. Simpson could manage—three consecutive 200-yard games. He wound up 43 yards short (they would have shunted him past 1,000 for the season), but he still got some big yards when the Oilers needed them, . . . and not just for points.

Coach Buddy Phil­lips, at his analytical best, received some special praise for a play which was invaluable time as well as yards. "When we were first­and-15 and he were for the first down near the end of the game, that was the play of the ball game," he said.

Bum was also . . . well. Bum when he started in on the this year with 746 yards, and runner-up two years ago as well with a 1,927, who has 1,605 this year, and many other folks, are a lot of imposters, but there ain't but one Earl Campbell," the coach drawled.

Cleveland (AP)—He doesn't have the "game" like, say Houston's Dave Casper, New En­gland's Russ Francis or Denver's Riley Odems. But he's got a nickname none of the others could hope to match —"the Wizard of Oz."
Scott Zettek of Notre Dame was named Midwest Player of the Week on defense. Zettek had 12 tackles including four sacks for losses totaling 31 yards and forced a fumble which the Irish converted into a field goal while shutting out Navy, 33-0.

Tailback Jimmy Smith of Purdue has been selected Most Valuable Player of the Week on offense for his performance in a 32-31 victory Northwestern last Saturday.

Others nominated for the offensive award included Todd Sheets of Northwestern, Marion Barber of Minnesota, Butch Woolfolk of Michigan; Art Schlichter of Ohio State and Jim Stone of Notre Dame.

All The King's Men from Zahn Hall won this year's 16-inch softball championship by beating the Bombo's of Caavanagh in the final game 2-1. Members of the championship team (see photo) — from left to right, starting with the bottom row are: Jim Maloney, Jeff Mihalik, Paul Smith, John Bates, (middle row) Father King, Mike Fill, Bill Hochul, Dan Paterka, (top row) Mike Hanifin, Jack McCabe, Bill Strotman and Jim Mauiak.

Army ticket refunds for Notre Dame or St. Mary's students, who ordered an individual game ticket for the October 18 game and did not pick up that ticket, are available in the form of cash refunds during the hours of 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday at the Gate 10 Box Office Window. Students may pick up their refund during the month of November. The last day refunds will be issued will be Wednesday, November 26 (the day before Thanksgiving break). Presentation of your student ID cards is required to obtain the cash refund.

Off-campus women interested in playing interhall basketball should contact Kathy Erndt at 277-8727 or the Interhall Office at 6101 by today.

Lacrosse players who still have equipment out should turn it in to Rich Hunter's office today from 2:30-4:30 p.m.

...Corrigan

Gene Corrigan

[continued from page 12]

... Irish

[continued from page 12]

...Irish
AP names Notre Dame as No. 1

The Top Twenty teams in The Associated Press football poll were released Tuesday with Notre Dame at No. 1. Steve Sitko, Saggua, Zontini, and Curry.

Ireland's regional bid in field hockey

by David Wilson

Despite a heartbreaking loss to eventual champ Valparaiso in last weekend's state tournament at Richmond, the Irish women's field hockey team has received a surprising invitation this weekend's Region Five tournament.

The winner would receive a spot in nationals later on this month. Notre Dame will face Northern Michigan in the first round of the eight-team contest, and coach Jan Galen is trying to be as optimistic as possible.

"We'll just play one game at a time and see how things go," she said. "We didn't expect an invitation, but we're certainly glad to have it."

Galen added that her players will be emotionally high for the game, which is nothing unusual for the team. "I don't know much about Northern Michigan," she admitted, "but we're ready for anybody at this stage of the game."

In the state tournament, Notre Dame scored its fifth goal into the final minutes of overtime before securing victory and losing 2-1. The only Irish goal came on a shot by sophomore Kathy Ray.

The Irish more-or-less dominated the second half with goals by Carol Massie and many scoring opportunities, but neither team managed a goal before the end of regulation. In overtime, Notre Dame hung on until Valparaiso scored a disputed shot with less than two minutes remaining, to take the win.

"It's a very good win," said Galen, and I think we played just about as well as we [continued on page 11]

Cleveland Browns to win

by Maureen Henry

Sipe leads Browns to win

CLEVELAND (AP) — Brian Sipe, becoming the greatest passer in the Cleveland Browns' storied National Football League history, threw one touchdown pass and set up three other scores in a 27-21 Monday night victory over the Chicago Bears.

Sipe, who completed 23 of 39 passes for 298 yards to drive the 6-3 Browns back into a first-place tie with Houston in the American Conference Central Division, hit Reggie Rucker with a 4-yard pass 37 seconds before halftime for a 10-0 lead. He also guided Cleveland to Don Cockfield field goals of 23 and 42 yards and Mike Pruitt's 1-yard touchdown dive.

Pruit, who gained 129 yards on 27 carries, the game away with a 56-yard touchdown sprint with 3:35 to play after Chicago's Paul Voskuil narrowed the margin to 20-14.

Sipe finished the nationally televised contest with 13,354 career yards, surpassing Hall of Famer Otto Graham, who threw for 13,499 yards when he quartered the Browns for their first six years in the NFL, starting in 1950. Graham also was their QB for four years in the All-America Football Conference.

In his seventh full season with Cleveland and his fifth as a starter, Sipe became the Browns' No.3 career passer — but it took him less than five minutes to pass Frank Ryan's 13,361 yards.

For the first half, it was all Cleveland at the Browns' defense limited Chicago to 62 total yards while the Browns were rolling up 224 201—201 by them Sipe.

But Vince Evans, who managed just 26 passing yards for the Bears in the opening half, brought them alive in the second half, bootlegging the ball 7 yards for a third-quarter TD, whipping it 37 yards to Brian Bachman with 4:45 to play, then puntng it right to the clock. Minutes later, assisted by her teammates, Welsh chased the ball just 11 times for 30 yards.

Saint Mary's Belles end season in field hockey

by Maureen Henry

Saint Mary's field hockey team played for the last time this season on Friday when it competed in the Indiana State Tournament. During the tournament, the team achieved a win, suffered a loss and three of its players earned Most Valuable Player status for Division Three.

St. Mary's Belles narrowly defeated DePauw University 21-0 largely due to efforts of Beth Welsh and the sailing spirit of the team under pressure.

"The girls really came on strong in the last five seconds of the game," explained coach Marcie Weiss.

Welsh made the first goal for the Belles and tied the score with only 35 seconds remaining on the clock. Minutes later, assisted by her teammates, Welsh chased the puck in DePauw's goal a second time to win the tiebreaker and the game.

Weiss insists, "It's their spirit. They really made up their minds to win."

In their second game, the Belles received a dose of their own medicine. As the score 1-0 reveals, Marion College barely overcame the St. Mary's team. Rarely did the Marion team resemble the one that was the premier runner, was strangely inactive carrying the ball just 11 times for 30 yards.

ending career. As the score 1-0 reveals, Marion College barely overcame the St. Mary's team.

Rarely did the Marion team resemble the one that was the premier runner, was strangely inactive carrying the ball just 11 times for 30 yards.

Saturday night in Charlottesville in 1971 to fill the seat he still holds today. During his nine years as athletic director, Corrigan took a struggling athletic department and made it one of the finest in the nation.

"The spirit, the pride, the academic excellence," reads the Cavaliers' football media guide, "are the key ingredients that makes up Virginia's' programs. They include a commitment to academic excellence as well as athletic excellence. The spirit of the movement is that all aspects of Virginia's programs are made a program successful. Gene Corrigan has surrounded himself with the outstanding group of people who share his philosophy

(continued on page 11)