Home to America
Ex-hostages, families reunite

There was a somber moment, though, when the motorcade brought the hostages and their families twisted through the hills to West Point. It passed through crowds waving American flags at half staff, in memory of eight servicemen killed in a helicopter crash April 3.

As the hostages passed through the stage of Highlands Falls, a church bell pealed 444 times, once for each day in captivity. Finally the hostagent long trip was over and they poured into the Hotel Thayer where the assistant manager, Lee Curtis, offered them iced shrimp, chips, dips, hors d'oeuvres and drinks, and left them on their own.

When the plane landed at Stewart Airport at Newburgh, N.Y., the first hostage off, a Marine, kissed the American ground.

Eight more Marines followed, chog in fresh uniforms, and each saluted America as he stood in the plane doorway.

Then came the diplomats who had been caught in the U.S. embassy, heaving from its walls. A few of them had to be helped down the stairs of the ramp.

The hostages' families flooded the terminal.

"Thank God!" they cried. "God bless America!"

Children hugged onto their father's legs. The fathers lifted them in to the air and cried. Kinkaid fell onto each other, hugging, crying, laughing, choking up.

The journalists, who had been worrying about the aircraft's safety, seemed less worried.

"We've all been worrying about the aircraft's safety, she's been receiving," Ms. Dwyer said. "We've worried about her since the day left the". The release was the satellite petition in an effort to obtain 100,000 signatures to urge President Reagan "to secure the safe and early release of her aunt.

The petition movement, which began with The Buffalo Evening News and WKBW-TV in Buffalo, is now geared towards western parts of the state, but family members are acronymically making other cities aware of Mrs. Dwyer's captivity.

Ms. Dwyer has posted petitions in several residence halls at Mary's and has also distributed some of the petitions to Notre Dame students.

Ms. Dwyer spoke to the State Department last Thursday and said, "there's nothing new to report.

There's still no word on Mrs. Dwyer's sign, but analysts believe that there will be a news conference next week.

As the motorcade pulled through cheering, waving crowds lining Hudson Valley roads to a wild hello at the gates of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, they had been promised two days of privacy.

President Reagan stayed at the White House to give the hostages and their families the chance to talk to each other, alone.

Reagan met with the families yesterday morning in the State Dining Room at the White House to send them off to the reunion.

Was the emotional moment; he choked up.

In his eyes, the new president said, "Since we all didn't get to church this morning because of this (ceremony), we can just say, Dear God, thank You. Thank You for what You've done. And God give you the understanding and the patience that you'll need now with regard to this homecoming and get-together.

A great national welcoming, led by Reagan, is scheduled for Washington tomorrow—a week after the hostages' release after 14 months in captivity.

It was a homecoming not unlike the homecoming the nation saw when prisoners of war flew home from North Vietnam in 1973. For the hostages, the trip started early yesterday at Rhein-Main Air Base in West Germany.

SMC student distributes petitions for captive aunt

By JOHN HIGGINS

Members of the Notre Dame Alumni Board met with students last Thursday night in dormitories across campus.

The Board's objectives were twofold—to become more familiar with campus problems and increase student awareness of the Alumni Association.

At a meeting attended by 30 residents of Grace and Pasquerilla West Halls, Board members William Reynolds ('54), and Paul Kruse ('52), announced the Alumni Association's new summer employment placement program. Kruse said the program is a coordinated effort between the Alumni Association and the local Alumni clubs to provide Notre Dame students with summer jobs.

"We want to help in job placement as best we can", Kruse said. "Obviously we can't guarantee the jobs, but depending on the amount of effort from the local clubs, we should be able to place many students in summer jobs."

Kruze and Reynolds distributed forms for students interested in obtaining summer jobs through the program. Kruse directed students to fill out the forms and submit them to the Alumni Office. "The information will be given to the local club where the student wants to work," Kruse said. "It's up to them to get the information out to their members in order to place students."

Additional forms will also be available in the Alumni Office.

"We don't expect immediate success with the program," Kruse commented, "but if we get the ball rolling now, we should be able to place quite a number of students."

Reynolds emphasized that it is the responsibility of each student to contact their local clubs to find out if they are placed in a job.

The pair also listened to students' comments about the use of funds from the University's ongoing fund-raising drive, the Campaign for Notre Dame and plans for improvement of campus social facilities.

Reynolds said that less than $10 million of the $18 million "raised" had actually been received by the University while the remainder of the funds had only been pledged by donors. "The new dormitories, Stepan Chemistry Building and the University endowments are all projects funded by the Campaigns," he said.

Reynolds stressed the importance of the endowment to the University. "The endowment is invested and used to fund special teaching chairs to attract high-quality outside or existing faculty.

The endowment currently stands at approximately $200 million," Reynolds continued. "In contrast, Harvard's has $1.5 billion and Yale over $500 million. The endowment..."
A helicopter hovered over the roof of a federal detention center yesterday. The pilot of the craft was forced to gunships in a building behind the penitentiary, a device that was successfully used to drop weapons to prisoners below, authorities said. The helicopter landed on a white flag, surrendering several hours later, leaving the roof of the federal Metropolitan Correctional Center one by one to be searched. The search revealed unharmed. It was not known who the helicopter's hijackers were trying to free, but it was learned police were over the roof of the detention center as the hijackers lowered a metal room below, authorities said.

A showdown is looming between local groups on opposite sides of the abortion issue. In anticipation of a battle in Congress, the National Right to Life and the American Catholic League are planning a sizable demonstration on Capitol Hill later this month. In the wake of last week's Supreme Court decision striking down a Pennsylvania law regulating abortion clinics, the two groups are working to create a national, nonviolent anti-abortion movement. Officials of both organizations are meeting later this month to discuss the demonstration and other options for carrying on the battle. A show-down over the abortion issue is inevitable. But the battle has already been fought.

A single incident of apathy can make a difference, but the collapse of a nation is not. In the context of the abortion issue, we are confront...
Iranians express dissatisfaction over release of U.S. hostages

By CHARLES J. HANLEY
Associated Press Writer

The release of the American hostages was a major defeat for extreme factions in Iran, and could set the stage for a resurgence by President Abolhassan Bani-Saddeh and his followers, Cottam said.

Iranian politics have come down to a struggle between the conservative, clergy-led Islamic Revolutionary Party, which dominates Parliament and backs Bani-Saddeh, and the faction represented by Rajai, a more secular, Westernized and leftist group.

They struggle over a country grappling with monumental domestic problems.

The economy is in shambles, with massive unemployment, because of the disruptions of the 1978-79 revolution, international sanctions imposed because of the hostage-holding, and the war with Iraq which began last September.

Kurdish separatists continue to wage a guerrilla war. All of the latter seemed to be a counter-revolution. And Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, irreplaceable symbol of the revolution, is in frail health.

For most of the hostage-holding, Bani-Saddeh’s efforts to negotiate an end to the crisis confounded at the time by revolutions by veterans taking a harder line, many affiliated with the IRP.

A leading Iranian “pragmatist” said late last week that the hardliners were embittered in the end. “This only showed the two-faced character of those who opposed their release and now agree (with it) the people of Iran now under stimulation and financed by falsehood in turn,” said this politician, who spoke by telephone with Teheran. He was self-addressed, letter-size envelope that you may enclose to:

Professor Richard Costum of the University of Pittsburgh, an Iran expert who has visited the country since the hostage-taking, supports his view.

mment is absolutely essential to the survival of the University. It is understandable that many of those who previously complained about the lack of social space on campus. Reynolds said a major obstacle to the creation of the problem was the lack of a consensus among the various student and administrative groups involved. "The recent presentation (by Student Governing Board) before the Board of Trustees was impressive," he said. "But there is no clear solution as yet."

On a concluding note, Kease com- mented on the卖掉 of the Danne-Mackey Association is broadly reac- tionary. It is one of the world’s largest unions. We’re interested in getting the younger alumni active because they’re the core for coming years."
Hotel caters to ex-hostages

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — The 52 freed American hostages will spend their first two days on home soil getting reacquainted with loved ones in the privacy of a government-owned hotel on the grounds of the U.S. Military Academy.

They’ll be provided with round-the-clock service belying their hero status, including special telephones, an open bar, free room service, and household meals prepared to order.

Perched on a snow-covered cliff overlooking the ice-clogged Hudson River at the southern end of West Point, the 170-room Hotel Thayer will be closed to press and public until tomorrow morning, when a voluntary news conference will be held before the hostage entourage departs for Washington.

Until then, any contact with the world outside the hotel will be strictly on the initiative of those inside.

"It's their hotel. They can do whatever they want," said hotel assistant manager Lee Curtis.

"If they want to be left alone, that's the way it will be," said an academy official. Lt. Col. Elliott Fishburne, the academy's treasurer, said, "We're preparing for them to have all the privacy they want."

The perimeter of the 54-year-old brick-faced hotel is being patrolled by military police trucked in from Fort Dix, N.J., attack dogs and academy security forces.

Roads approaching the hotel's half-mile driveway have been blocked, with armed guards posted. The Thayer Gate entrance to the 14,000-acre military reservation, located a stone's throw from the hotel next to the Village of Highland Falls, is shut for the duration.

The West Point Cadet Chapel also has been closed to everyone but former hostages and their kin.

Inside the six-story hotel an augmented staff of 240 will provide 24-hour service. A special fine-entree dinner menu is being offered — jumbo shrimp, chicken cordon bleu, prime ribs of beef, steak and lobster and veal scaloppini.

Fishburne said the special guests will be able to eat in the 400-seat hotel restaurant or in their rooms. A traditional Thanksgiving dinner is planned for tonight.

A large crowd began gathering outside Thayer Gate as Sunday morning services were completed at village churches. Many in the crowd carried American flags and yellow ribbons, while hawkers pleaded flags, ribbons and lapel buttons.

A giant "Welcome Home" sign with two-foot high red letters was stretched over Main Street, just in front of the academy barricades.

Exhibition opens at Snite

An exhibition of drawings and watercolors by Franklin McMahon, noted Chicago artist-reporter, will open at the Snite Museum of Art at the University of Notre Dame Sunday, Jan. 25.

Through the use of a graphic and often colorful style, McMahon reports on many of the major issues that faced the Church and the social conflicts that posed a threat to humanity. Particularly strong are watercolors of the present pope's visits to Auschwitz and Birkenau.

Drawings of the strike for better working conditions for grape pickers, a portrait of Dr. Martin Luther King and a march by the Catholic anti-nuclear movement are reminders of conflicts in our recent history.

Many of the works in the exhibition were used to illustrate the recently published book, "This Church Since Vatican II," written by Very Rev. Francis X. Murphy with a foreword by Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh of Notre Dame.
Polish government to televise debate on national news

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Polish government offered Sunday to debate on nationwide, state-controlled television the union leaders who staged massive labor protests last week to press for a 40-hour, five-day workweek.

Meanwhile, reports circulated here that Solidarity, the independent union born during last summer's nationwide strikes, planned a general one-hour warning strike Feb. 3 to support farmers seeking a similar independent union.

A Solidarity official in the Baltic area port of Gdansk said this coming Wednesday would be a similar day of sympathy for the farmers "in all corners of Poland," but said it would not take the form of a general strike. He did not elaborate.

Earlier Sunday, officials said the main evening news program would provide the forum for the union-government debate. The debate would be an event that, like the independent trade union Solidarity and its estimated 10 million members, is unprecedented in the Soviet bloc.

But a communicator from some Polish miners, published by the official news agency PAP with apparent government approval, proposed the debate be aired next Tuesday and Sunday. A union official said the debate might be recorded in advance this week.

The offer followed a massive protest Saturday against the government's refusal to grant an immediate one-hour warning strike last Oct. 3 and surpassed a strike Jan. 10, the nation's estimated 1 million workers involved Saturday varied.

Leaders who saw that claim as a means of silting public opinion against them, said some 75 to 90 percent of Poland's workers responded to an appeal from Solidarity leader Jerzy Wietas that Saturday be free.

Diplomats express ideas on post-release Iran relations

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The international community should "punish" the government of Iran for its seizure of American hostages, but military reprisal would not be acceptable, Charles Percy, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Commit- te, said in a television interview Sunday.

The senior secretary of state Edmund S. Muskie, in another television interview, said that in the future, the world community should build trade and break relations with any nation that violates the rights of another nation's diplomats.

Warren Christopher, Muskie's former deputy who served as chief negotiator for the hostage release, said that although he believes the Reagan administration should abide by the deal that freed the hostages, it will be a "long time" before U.S. relations with Iran return to normal.

Peru, an Illinois Republican who was interviewed on NBC TV's "Meet the Press," expressed outrage over the "barbaric" behavior of the Iranian government and said it would be "hard to pay the price" for any mistreatment of the hostages.

"There is an element of punishment that I think the government of Iran must be forced to face now," Percy said.

He declined to spell out what kind of punishment, but Percy suggested the Iranian government should be condemned by the international community for its behavior during the 444-day ordeal.

He said the world should not condone or condone the hostage-taking, however, saying that "we cannot condemn an entire people for the actions of a temporary government.

Muskie, appearing on ABC TV's "Face the Nation" also said the United States should honor the agreement, despite the "vile and disgusting" treatment to which the hostages were subjected.

To back out now, he said, would have an adverse impact around the world.

The career decision you make today could influence national security tomorrow.

For professionals at NSA contribution to the dual mission of foreign intelligence production and communications security

Research Scientists, Engineers, Computer Scientists and Mathematicians are working with systems at the cutting edge of technology.

Career opportunities and challenges await you in any of these NSA career fields.

Electronic Engineering: There are opportunities in a variety of research and development projects ranging from individual equipments to very complex, large systems involving large numbers of computers, mini-computers and computer networks. Professional growth is enhanced through rotation with highly experienced NSA professionals and through contacts in the industrial and academic worlds. Each individual project or system development assignment is among the best available.

Computer Scientists: At NSA you'll develop the world's largest computer installations in the world with almost every major weapon of computer equipment represented. You'll oversee projects of distributions of such disciplines as computer science, mathematics, computer science, and computer science, and computer science.

Mathematicians: You'll work on diverse agency problems applying a variety of mathematical disciplines. Specific assignments might include solving communications-related problems, performing language analysis research and evaluating new techniques for communications security.

Language: NSA offers a wide range of challenging assignments for Slavic, Near Eastern and Asian language majors involving translation, transcription and analysis of cryptic, hard to break languages. Your work may cover encryption and decoding training in the primary language and can span on many years of continued professional growth.

NSA also offers a salary and benefits program that is truly competitive with private industry. There are assignments for those who wish to travel and broaden their technical display, to the Bahamas, Washington, D.C., and many other places.

Reagan tells ex-hostages:
“America is proud of you”

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan, his eyes filling with tears and his voice choking from emotion, told the families of the 52 freed hostages yesterday that “America has to be very proud of you.”

The president met with 139 relatives of the hostages in the ornate, gold-chandeliers State Dining Room of the White House — their last stop before a short plane ride and the long-awaited reunion with their loved ones at the West Point Military Academy in New York.

"We won't be going with you to New York because we feel very deeply that you don't need any outros," Reagan told the relatives.

"This is a moment for you and for them."

It was a meeting where tears mixed with laughter and with the expectation of at last, an end to the 14-month hostage drama.

Larry Parsons, father of former hostage Gregory Persing of Sanford, Del., thanked Reagan for helping to bring the Americans home. "You helped put the icing on the cake," he said.

As they talked among themselves, some recalled the strain of the long ordeal.

Cheryl Kalp, whose husband Malcolm was a hostage, said her 14-year-old son Michael "kept me together to the harshest of times."

on Buck Williams," Phelps said.

Maryland's 6-8 junior center, who played on the 1980 Olympic team with Notre Dame graduate Bill Hanzlik, pulled down just three of his game-total nine rebounds and scored nine of his 20 points in the second half.

Yet when it came down to the final minutes of this tight game, it was clutch free throw shooting by the Irish that made the difference. After missing the front end of a one-and-one situation with just minutes remaining, Kelly Tripucka "showed why he's an all-American," according to Phelps, as he hit on his last six from the charity stripe to preserve the Irish victory. Tripucka finished with a game-high 25 points which included an 11-for-13 performance from the foul line.

Freshman swingman Tom Sluby, playing before many hometown friends and relatives, iced the game with 0:13 remaining as he calmly hit two free throws to put the Irish up by three. The Terps were able to pull to within one with :07 on the clock, but Notre Dame easily broke the Maryland full-court press, got the ball down court, only to have Tripucka fouled and hit the final two points of the game.

For Lefty Driesell's Terrapins, this was their fourth loss in a big game, something Driesell often has been accused of not being able to win. Road losses earlier this season at Louisville and North Carolina, an overtime setback in Cole Field House at the hands of Virginia and this loss, leave the 10th ranked Terps at 11-4 on the year. The 13th ranked Irish are now 12-3.

"We just knew we had to stop Albert."

"It was a great game for the fans to watch," said Driesell, shaking his head. "But there's no way we should have lost another game in Cole Field House.

"I don't know what it is. I don't know why we're losing. It's a mystery to me," the confused coach added. "We're the same team as last year. We've got the same coaches and we're playing the same teams. But then last year nobody thought we'd win the games, so we were hunting people. Now they're hunting us."

IRISH ITEMS — Everyone in the Maryland student section was wearing a yellow ribbon in honor of the return of the 52 former hostages, the game was nationally televised by NBC as part of a doubleheader which featured DePaul vs. LaSalle as the second game. Notre Dame now has won four of the last five games in this series which now stands at 4-4...the Irish play host to Cornell Tuesday night.

...Hockey

Things were not quite as gloomy Friday night, though the result for the Irish was ultimately the same. ND got off to a fast start in the series' opener when Jeff Logan whipped the puck through the pads of Pioneer goalie Scott Robinson with only 47 seconds elapsed from the clock. The Irish added to their advantage ten minutes later when junior goalie Bill Rodstein sent a power play goal past a sprawling Robinson. Denver was finally able to muster some offense five minutes later when Ken Berry scored on a crisp pass from defenseman Shawn Dixon. But Denver looked ragged two minutes later when Logan registered his second tally on assists from center Kirt Rock and winger Kevin Humphreys (both of whom assisted on Logan's first goal).

The second period was highlighted by aggressive fore-checking on the behalf of Notre Dame. Though they were unable to mount much of a scoring threat, the Irish were able to confine Denver to their own zone. But Berry broke the standoff for Denver at 8:26 pulling the Pioneers to within one on his second goal of the night. Berry's goal set the stage for a drive from senior defenseman Gary Nolde who ripped the puck past McNamara just 33 seconds later. Dave Berry, the freshman defenseman, added another Pioneer goal at 15:15, and Denver was again battling on even terms.

The Irish showed some life about one minute later when they chucked their second power play goal of the night thanks to Bjork and some smart passing from Parsons and Logan. This was followed by a Denver goal scored by sophomore center John Ugrando, but the Irish again knotted the game just 44 seconds later on a drive by freshman winger Joe Bowie.

The score was tied at 5-5 as the third period began. Both teams skated cautiously through the final few minutes with neither side considering effective Irish forechecking keeping the power Pioneers offense at bay. Each team carefully probed the other's defense, but no immediate return. At 10:29 though, Nolde broke through the Irish defense and beat McNamara for what would prove to be the game winner. The Irish skated bravely throughout the final minutes, but their inability to engineer a smooth attack and Den-ver's defense eventually killed all Irish opportunities.

Notre Dame was handicapped through the series by a case of the flu which incapacitated star Irish center Dave Poulson. Poulson unable to dress for Friday night's match-up and was less than 100% for Saturday night according to Smith.

The Irish are to move up in the standings and capture a WCHA playoff spot (the first eight finishing teams of the league's ten members qualify for postseason play), they will have to do it on the road. ND travels to Minnesota-Duluth this week and will remain on the road against Michigan and Michigan State. In coming series.

A discount to students (ticket prices were lowered from $4.00 to $2.50) helped attendance to a slight degree. Attendance for Friday's game was pegged at 2,761 while 3,005 fans witnessed the Saturday night game.

ACC capacity for hockey is 4,287.

The Fighting Irish swim team defeated Wayne St. in a swim meet Friday at the Rockne Memorial pool. The final score was 143-108. The meet had an exciting finish, as the teams entered the final event tied at 55. Though Ronsors anchored the Irish 400-yard freestyle relay team to victory in the final event, Irish swimmer Pat LaPlaney set a meet record in the 200 yard backstroke with a time of 2:02.6.

ANNOUNCEMENT

On November 24, 1980, the Jackson Society for the Over-privileged declared that Mary Powell Jesty was sufficiently schooled in the social graces to "come out" into society. The wealthy power of the Jesty family became a threat to the eligible young bachelors showered with gifts by lovely Miss Jesty. Rumor has it, however, in view of her current residence in Topeka, she must be judged according to local standards of social acceptability. In review of her case, we have found that although tranquil and friendly, Miss Jesty is convicted, self-centered, and disdainful of everyone but herself. Sorry Mary Powell Jesty. You can't make the grade. The social set/Wisconsin Society of the First would therefore like to announce the social scene of the season. Miss Jesty came out to Jackson. Oakland claims Superbowl title

Raiders capitalize on Eagle errors

By MICHAEL ORTMAN
Associate Sports Editor

The Oakland Raiders defeated the Philadelphia Eagles 27-10 in Super Bowl XV yesterday. Oakland led from start to finish. The Raiders appeared to have complete control of the game from the opening kickoff. On the first series of the game, Eagle quarterback Ron Jaworski was intercepted. Oakland capitalized on the turnover, scoring on a touchdown pass from Jim Plunkett to Cliff Branch.

Philadelphia, with the ball on its own 37-yard line, moved to the Oakland 40, thanks in part to Jaworski's 15-yard pass to Montgomery. On third and 8, Jaworski unloaded a bomb toward the right corner of the end zone. Rodney Parker ran away from cornerback Odlie McKinley and safety Burgers Owens to catch the ball. But it wasn't a touchdown. Harold Carmichael, the other wide receiver who was expected to be a pivotal force in this game, had been in motion on the play. And when he cut forward in an instant before the snap of the ball, he drew a penalty, wiping out the potential tying score. Then the rout began.

On third and 4 from the Oakland 26-yard line, Plunkett dropped back, then scrambled out of danger to his left. He threw to King, being guarded around the left sideline by Hermann Edwards, who couldn't react in time. Jaworski tried back for a deflection, but only King and King got the ball at the Eagles' 39.

Sixty-one yards later, King had a touchdown and a Super Bowl record and the Raiders, with nine seconds remaining in the opening period, had a 14-0 lead.

Franklin's field goal, with 4:32 gone in the second period, brought the Philadelphia faithful back to life, coming after Jaworski had driven the Eagles 61 yards in nine plays to the Oakland 13.

Chris Bilek, who kicked second-half field goals of 46 and 54 yards, slipped on memory lane, missing the Raiders' 14-point lead with about 3 minutes to go in the second quarter. But his attempt from 45 yards away was wide to the right.

Once again Philadelphia began to fall. Jaworski hooked up with the 6-foot-8 Carmichael on passes of 29 and 14 yards, then hit Montgomery on a 16-yard pass, taking Philadelphia to within 10 yards of the goal line.

The Irish defeated the Terps Free throws make the difference

By COLLEGE PARK, Md. — How do you stop an all-American scoring? It's simple — kind of. You just don't let him get the ball. And by employing that defensive philosophy in the second half of Saturday's Notre Dame-Maryland game, the Fighting Irish were able to shunt down the Terps' all-everything Albert King and roll on to a 73-70 victory.

Notre Dame might have been able to stop King in the first half if he had wanted Orlando Woolridge had been able to see more than 4:17 of playing time. By MICHAEL ORTMAN

Ray Guy's punting in the first half of Super Bowl XV kept Philadelphia's offense penned in its own territory.
