Irish hope Middies are the answer

By SKIP DESJARDIN Assistant Sports Editor

Hard times may have befallen the Notre Dame football team, currently in the midst of its worst start in 18 years, but Navy football coach George Walsh says the Irish look as good as ever to him.

This week's press conference in Annapolis, Walsh said the only difference between this year's Notre Dame team, and its 2-4 record, and the winning teams of the recent past is the outcome of the close games.

"They are the same Notre Dame team. They play the same way," Walsh said. "The difference is that in past years they've won the close ones. This year they've lost the close ones."

As Gerry Faust pointed out in our press conference of his own this week, Notre Dame is just 14 points away from a loss.

Notre Dame was trounced by Michigan, the Wolverines are physically stronger than the Irish. "I think Notre Dame's defense has played well for them for the most part. We have our work cut out for us again this week.

"At this point, their best chance of a win is the turnover game for the Irish. They are the only competition fans have been able to appreciate is seeing which unit of each team will face this year. We'll face this year's Notre Dame team, and our coaches will have our work cut out for us again this week."

Walsh agrees, claiming there is no better conference than the Irish. "I am really impressed with their defense. They get to the football. Their team pursuit is unbelievable."

Faust has seen one of Navy's top offensive weapons first hand. Kicker Steve Fehr is a product of Cincinnati's Princeton High School. He also happens to be the top field goal kicker in the country.

"He is the best. There's no doubt about it," says Faust. "Because of Fehr, Navy is a threat to score from just inside midfield."

Welsh agrees, claiming there is no better kicker in the country. "He's extremely consistent. Actually, his coach speaks for itself."

"The Irish have won by an average margin of 27 points in the last 17 consecutive years over the Middies. The battle between the two schools has seemed to be about as competitive as a snowball's chance of surviving in hell. About the only competition fans have been able to appreciate is seeing which unit of the Irish (first or second string) can put more points on the scoreboard."

The 17 straight victories that Notre Dame owns over Navy since 1964 is the most victories in a row ever held by a Notre Dame football team over an opponent.

The law of averages might be something to think about today. However, when the two teams met for the 55th consecutive year—the longest intercollegiate rivalry in college football. And although Notre Dame's 44-9-1 record over the Midshipmen reflects a one-sided domination, the games between the two schools have evoked some memories in football lore for both schools.

The year 1928 was not exactly one to be remembered by either teams as the Naval Academy scrambled through a 5-3-1 campaign after having gone undefeated two seasons before, while Notre Dame Coach Knute Rockne was in the throes of a 5-4 season under his "Minuteman Squad."

"We'd be in the game one minute, and get blown out the next," as he used to say (See. Even the legend basked in the agony of defeat.)

On one October day at Soldier Field an un-official crowd of 120,000 (a college football record) packed the place to witness a 7-0 Notre Dame triumph in only the second game ever between the two schools. The actual paid attendance was 103,081, but in any case the foundation had been laid for a continuing rivalry.

Only two years later, Notre Dame again faced Navy and a large crowd. On October 11, 1930, Notre Dame Stadium was dedicated before a crowd of 40,593, who saw a 26-2 defeat of Navy on that special day. "We played in the stadium with a great deal of pride that day," said one of the stars of the game, Nedly Hoffman. "The stadium was Rock's. He had such a big impact on its design and construction. It's really a tribute to him, that's why the stadium is so great." Led by their "Football Hall of Fame" backfield Fred (Buz) Bortles, the Midshipmen enjoyed two straight victories over the Irish at Baltimore and Cleveland in 1933 and 1934. Navy would win again against Elmer Layden's third Notre Dame team in 1936 as they began to get Notre Dame's number.

Irish-Middies clashes memorable

Notre Dame vs. Purdue — "The backyard battle for West'llough"? Notre Dame vs. Southern California — "The greatest rivalry in college football? Notre Dame vs. Navy — "Yeow?" Notre Dame fans tend to smirk when the Notre Dame-Navy game is mentioned as a great rivalry. For them, it's defined as an unseemly antagonism between two competitors.

Two head coaches comment on making the change

BY DAVE IRWIN

Jerry Faust knows what it is like to fall from the top of the world. He came to Notre Dame with more fanfare than any coach in America has ever experienced. Fans and media personalities turned him into a re-born Knute Rockne before he even won a game at Notre Dame. It was understandable with his outgoing personali ty and warmth. But now those Irish faithful have become the Irish doubters. And Keith Drum, of North Carolina's Durham Morning Herald, has even suggested that Faust's fellow coaches are inwardly smiling at his difficult start after the hype he received.

But Faust's counterparts have not written him off, although one can not really expect men in the same profession to be as critical of each other. It just isn't the polite thing to do.

"I personally have great confidence in Ger ry Faust as a man and as a coach," says Louisiana State head coach Jerry Stoll. "In my humble opinion Gerry Faust will do a tremendous job and is doing a tremendous thing. I've never seen a school make a perfect change. It's impossible not to man in the face of the law of averages catching up. He is going to take a while."

There lies the key. It is going to take time. Make no doubt about it, something is wrong when a Notre Dame football team is 2-4, racks up 321 yards in total offense against a defense like Southern Cal's and comes up with just seven points and twice first and goal only to come away with nothing. But there are many reasons for it, and not all the fault is Faust's. After all, there is not much separating the Irish from being 5-1. The second half against Michigan is the only time the Irish didn't belong on the same field as the Irish. That's something the coaches have to overcome.

"We are only 14 points away from the top of the world," says Faust. "That's really something with the schedule we play!"

Faust isn't joking about the schedule. Notre Dame has lost to some pretty good football teams in Florida State (5-2), Southern Cal (6-1), Purdue (5-2) and Michigan (5-3). But all Purdue are ranked and the Boilermakers are coming out of a tough stretch with two losses in their last two games. They will be ranked and Rose Bowl bound.

Besides being good football teams, the mere fact of Notre Dame's success seems to bring out the best in opponents, regardless of the rhetoric they may give you about the importance of winning their conference games.

"Everybody wants to beat Notre Dame," says Bowden, whose Seminoles are independent along with the Irish. "I had a bigger desire to beat Notre Dame than Pittsburgh. That's the difference in those two teams when Ask Michigan, who was looking ahead to the Notre Dame game, beat by Wisconsin, or Purdue, who lost to Minnesota. Both were conference games.

The biggest reason, however, for Notre Dame's unexpected start is the transition period that must be gone through. And yes, Dan Devine was 8-5 in his first season, but it took two great Joe Montana comebacks or the Irish would have been 6-4. Once Ara Parsegian, a true Irish living legend, instantly won the hearts of Irish fans by taking over a 2-7 Hugh Devore team and turning it into a 9-1 squad that came within 1-33 of the national championship. Faust inherited only 16 start ers and 38 letter-winners overall from a squad that was 9-2-1.

Besides the new offense, he made minor changes in the defense and introduced new techniques and responsibilities to the players. The coaching staff has four new assistant coaches out of eight and only two of the returne rs are responsible for the men they coached the previous year. It is going to take time for things to mesh if they don't mesh in the next two or three years then the bow birds may have something to complain about. "Gerry Faust is going through a normal transition period with older players," says Bobby Bowden. "The guy has too much quality going for him and the school has too much quality not to turn things around. I know it will work out. He is recruiting his players and doing it his way."

"It's not his fault and it's not Notre Dame's," continues Bowden. "I'm sure he'll overcome it. I don't know what the situation was with Ara, but young players will adjust sooner to a

Regan concludes budget failure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary Donald Regan conceded Friday that President Reagan is unlikely to achieve his goal of a balanced federal budget in 1984.

Regan also confirmed that administration officials are debating among themselves whether the reductions needed would be very difficult to achieve.

Regan said the nation is in for several more months of bad economic news, but said that, "the current recession will be mild, its end certain and swift." He predicted the economy would begin rebounding from the recession in late winter or early spring of next year.

He said the tax cut voted this year would help the community to come out of the recession. He noted that interest rates have declined.

"More mortgage money should be available, with all that implies for residential construction industries," he said.

But in the meantime, he said, "the prospect of a recession means that the budget deficit may widen beyond our projection."

Regan promised repeatedly in his campaign last year to balance the budget, and cited the goal earlier this year in urging Congress to approve a deep round of spending cuts.

But the Treasury Secretary's comments were only the most recent in a string of private and public remarks by administration officials that the goal may be slipping out of reach.

Regan has asked Congress to approve a three-year package of tax increases totaling $22 billion to help close the deficit. Regan said the proposals would be sent to the House and Senate later this year.

Other than that, he said the administration is still considering a long list of possible tax increases, including increases in excise levies and imposing an import fee on oil.

"We have not come to any conclusion about whether to recommend anything beyond the $22 billion plan, Regan told reporters after his public testimony.

Some key Senate Republicans are calling for tax increases of as much as $70 billion over the next three years to help balance the budget.

But Regan said that balancing the budget might not be as important for the economy as raising the trend that the budget is in control.

"By 1984, he said, the nation will have a $3.8 trillion economy. Officially, the administration says that without further action by Congress to raise taxes or cut spending, the deficit would be slightly below $50 billion in 1984. But budget Director David Stockman said this week that a congressional estimate that the actual deficit would be $100 billion was "not out of the ballpark."

Notre Dame honors former Iranian hostage

By RICH COLLIS

Before the National Anthem is played today, Notre Dame will pay tribute to former Iranian hostage Col. Leland J. Holland, a self-proclaimed Notre Dame buff who spent seven and a half of his fourteen months as a hostage in solitary confinement, longer than any other military hostage.

With the blessing of the University, the ND Athletic Department has invited Holland to attend the Notre Dame-Navy game, along with Admiral Thomas Hayward, chief of Naval Operations, and the Superintendent of the Naval Academy, Vice Admiral Edward Waller. In a ceremony on the field of Notre Dame Stadium, ND Athletic Director Gene Corrigan will welcome Holland and his wife and present them with a ND blanket and a special Notre Dame medal.

Holland, a career military intelligence officer who has served in Germany, Italy and Vietnam as well as Iran, was taken hostage on Nov. 4, 1979, when Iranian students attacked the United States Embassy in Tehran. Upon his release along with the 51 other American hostages on Jan. 20, Holland was asked what he missed most while in solitary confinement. In the category of sports, Holland answered that he hadn't actually heard the broadcast but remembers "a lot of commotion" the night the program aired.

"But I'm just plain tired of talking about it. Now I tell them, you don't give me no green stuff and you don't get nothing," said Patty Mackay, bursts with spirit at last night's Navy pep rally. (photo by Cheryl Ertelt)

Grover Mill recalls radio hoax

By MICHAEL BEZDEK
Associated Press Writer

GROVER MILL, N.J. (AP) — To be sure, jack-o'-lanterns still grin but not as Martians. Halloween is not the favorite holiday of Grover Mill.

"The plan that Orson Welles doomed to an embarrassing niche in modern history 43 years ago when he made it the setting for his broadcast adaptation of H.G. Wells' novel, 'War of the Worlds,' has been repeated every Halloween since 1938. Thousands of the city folks who have kids are so that nobody can play a joke on them again."

"It makes you feel stupid and embarrassed... those who thought it was real," he said. He believes most of the panic occurred in nearby cities such as Newark, Philadelphia and New York, because people there had no way to know the broadcast was a spoof.

He said he doesn't know of anyone in Grover Mill who died in fear on the night of the broadcast, mainly "because those who did aren't saying."

"They thing you have to remember is that country people don't like to be taken in by the city slickers. And that's what most of them think Welles did, made fools of them," he said. Sayler said he worries about a real disaster befalling Grover Mill and people "will just sit right there where they are so that nobody can play a joke on them again."

Joe Hall, who runs a service station near Grover Mill, said simply, "Not that Martian business again. I'm not even going to talk about it."
President Reagan, declared "it as a fiddle" after a two-day physical checkup, headed for a weekend with the fall foliage at the Camp David presidential retreat yesterday. The 70-year-old president and his wife Nancy checked out of the National Naval Medical Center at Bethesda, Md., in early afternoon — about 24 hours after they were admitted for their first routine examinations in two years. The last test was an eye examination and Reagan wore sunglasses against a cloud-shrouded sun as he walked to his helicopter for the short flight to the Maryland mountains. "Any problems?" a reporter shouted. "Nope," Reagan replied. — AP

Republicans should not sit back and relax during off-year elections, Maureen Reagan, the president's daughter, told a GOP gathering in Greenwood, Ind. Ms. Reagan said that if they were advising students on which school to attend, "I would say to Purdue." Adam Allerhand, professor and chairman of chemistry, told The Indiana Daily Student newspaper that poorly ventilated and designed laboratories, chemicals improperly stored in hallways and a lack of space make the IU Chemistry Building unsafe. "I told them that they are students that they should go to IL or Purdue (University at West Lafayette) for chemistry. From a standpoint of personal health, I would say go to Purdue," Allerhand said. He and Donald McMasters, IU's hazardous waste control specialist, said the space and ventilation deficiencies are serious. However, IU-Bloomington Vice President Dr. Kenneth Gros Louis said yesterday, "I don't think anyone is in imminent danger." — AP

Rudy and Joanne Sheptock of Elizabeth, N.J. have adopted their 15th and 16th children, who will become part of the family that includes seven of their own children and four others awaiting adoption. "We have problems and troubles just like any other family," Mrs. Sheptock said Thursday after an adoption hearing at the Union County Courthouse. "The difference with us is that we know where the answer is. We look to God." Six years ago, the family became born-again Christians and embarked on a personal campaign to aid homeless and unwanted children. When money is a problem, the family will "put our faith in the Lord," Mrs. Sheptock said. "The Sheptocks are mind-boggling and very unusual," said Phyllis Gold, assistant director of Spalding Adoption Agency of Westfield. "They have in their midst those kids because they chose to. It would be unfortunate, however, if prospective parents believed they have to be like the Sheptocks in order to take a special child into their homes." — AP

Archibald Cox, national chairman of Common Cause, says legislation that would limit the scope of the U.S. Supreme Court's review power is "extremely dangerous." He says 20 bills before Congress that would, in some way, restrict the authority of the high court, the former Watergate special prosecutor told a Massachusetts law school audience Thursday night. Although Congress has the right to define the Supreme Court's jurisdiction, Cox cautioned that lawmakers should move "very cautiously" before tampering with such a decision. Increased judicial restraint has been favored by the Reagan administration. But Cox said that overall, judicial review has proved to be the most reliable protector of individual rights. He acknowledged that the Supreme Court has inserted the Constitution but said it can be corrected through political debate, judicial reconsideration and constitutional amendments. — AP

Regulator urges mortgage limits

WASHINGTON (AP) — To help financially strapped savings and loans, Congress should curtail the ability of many homeowners to pass on their low-interest mortgages to new buyers, the chief federal regulator of the thrift institutions said yesterday.

Loan- assumption deals have been used more and more, in this period of high interest rates, as a means to help sellers attract buyers in a depressed housing market.

But Richard T Pratt, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, told the Senate Banking Committee that such deals have frustrated lenders' expectations of turning over their low-yielding mortgage loans, which he called "the albatross of the thrift industry."

He also said the loan deals have "substantially reduced the supply of mortgage credit and (have) increased the cost of mortgage credit to the first-time homebuyer and those least able to afford interest rates existing in the economy at this time."

Savings and loans, whose traditional function has been to use money from savers to make long-term housing mortgages, have been hit particularly hard by inflation and high interest rates.

They have large portfolios of mortgages written years ago at relatively low interest rates. But to attract money in a period of high interest rates, they have to pay more for short-term deposits than they are taking in from long-term home loans.

Pratt wants Congress to approve legislation that would give savings and loans broad new powers to operate more like commercial banks. He contends such changes are necessary if S&Ls are to successfully weather volatile economic conditions.

The legislation proposed by Pratt also would override state laws that bar due-on-sale clauses in home loans provided by the nearly 2,000 federally chartered savings and loans associations. The clauses mean a lender can call in a home loan when the house is sold, preventing assumable mortgages which allow sellers to pass on low-interest loans to new buyers.

Three states — California, Florida and Michigan — prohibit the enforcement of due-on-sale clauses for both state and federally chartered savings and loans. Eight states prohibit the enforcement for state-chartered S&Ls. They are Mississippi, Colorado, Georgia, Arizona, New Mexico, Washington, Illinois and Iowa.

Legislation sponsored by Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, banking committee chairman, would override state laws for all lenders approved by the Department of Housing and Urban Development — which would mean both state and federally chartered S&L States, however, could decide within three years to override the federal preemption.

Poll: Sadat's death hurts Mideast peace chances

NEW YORK (AP) — A majority of Americans think the death of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat hurts the chances of peace in the Middle East, according to the latest Associated Press-NBC News poll.

The poll of 1,598 adults, taken by telephone Monday and Tuesday in a scientific random sampling also said a majority of Americans do not think the United States government should formally recognize and have direct diplomatic relations with the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Sixty-eight percent said the assassination of Sadat on Oct. 6 hurts the chances for peace in the Middle East, while 22 percent said his death makes no difference in peace prospects. Two percent said Sadat's death helps the chances of peace and 8 percent were not sure.

Sixty percent said the United States government should not formally recognize and have direct diplomatic relations with the Palestine Liberation Organization, while 25 percent said there should be formal relations between the PLO and the U.S. government. Fifteen percent were not sure.

Sixty percent said they did not know enough about the issue to have an opinion on the proposed creation of a separate Palestinian Arab state on Israel's West Bank, while 15 percent said they approved and 18 percent disapproved.

The poll reported that Americans were sharply divided over the effects of the sale of AWACS radar planes by the United States to Saudi Arabia, 47 percent said the AWACS sale would not mean the United States

Government threatens strikers

WARSAW, Poland (AP) —

Premier Wojciech Jaruzelski threatened yesterday to use "extraordinary means of action" against Solidarity if the union failed to heed a parliamentary call for an immediate end to the strikes that are keeping Poland in turmoil.

He also named a non-Communist and a Catholic to his government and reshuffled five Cabinet posts in an apparent effort to gain broader support. Meanwhile, the military council of the Soviet-led Warsaw Pact ended a two-day meeting in Budapest, Hungary. No communique was issued, but Poland was believed to have been on the agenda.

"In connection with the dangerous situation in the country, I conveyed to the Sejm (Parliament) a government draft proposal for a law on extraordinary means of action to protect citizens and state," said Jaruzelski, who is also Poland's Community Party chief and defense minister.

"If this resolution of the Sejm is not respected, I shall propose in an urgent manner the start of legal procedures for the government proposal of a law.

"The interests of the socialist state, the peaceful and secure existence of our nation, must and will be protected," Jaruzelski said in a speech to Parliament that received thunderous applause.

Jaruzelski did not explain what he meant by "extraordinary means of action," but a law limiting strikes would effectively strip Solidarity of the right to strike, which was part of the August 1980 t o agreements that gave birth to the first union free of Communist Party control in the Soviet bloc.

"Parliament is expected to discuss the anti-strike resolution and Jaruzelski's proposed law for two days.

Solidarity leaders also were trying to halt the protest wave that had idled an estimated 50,000 workers in scattered cities. It said it would discuss "disciplinary measures in relation to people guilty of weakening union unity and discipline." It was the first threat of internal discipline voiced by the union since it was formed.

"We must program the use of the strike weapon in a thoughtful and planned way," said the union appeal from its Baltic headquarters in Gdansk. "We must settle the most important problems of the nation such as economic reform, control over the economy and access to the media.

On other matters, Jaruzelski said prices for gasoline and alcohol must rise. And in an apparent effort to broaden his government's support, Jaruzelski named a non-communist Democratic Party leader a deputy premier and a member of the pro-government Pan Roman Catholic group to a ministerial post.

Edward Kowalczyk replaced Deputy Premier Waldemar Mach, who was criticized for his handling of food matters, and Zenon Komender replaced Zygmunt Lakomec as minister of internal trade, which is also responsible for food distribution.

Komender's appointment puts both Catholics in the government. Last November, Jerzy Gdowski was named a deputy premier, the first Catholic to hold such a top post since the late 1940s.

While 25 percent said it will decrease the chances of war, 32 percent said it would make no difference and 4 percent were unsure.

Nasa begins shuttle countdown

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — While astronauts reassembled deserted landings a continent away, National Aeronautics and Space Administration crews prepared for a Halloween "April 10" station, the start of the countdown for Launch II of the space shuttle Columbia. Even rain delayed it but that didn't stop them or the scrup.

While Columbia flies again, it will be the world's first ship to go into space more than once.

Test conductor Gilbert H. Whitaker was to command the start of Columbia's four-day journey at 1 a.m. EST today, beginning a 75-hour countdown sequence leading to next Wednesday's shuttle launch.

In California, astronauts Joe Engle, O. J. and Michael Truly, were practicing the landing they will make on Rogers Dry Lake on the Mojave Desert at the end of their five days in orbit. They flew in a G-118B II jet plane whose controls and handling imitated those of the shuttle.

Columbia, named with the two rockets and the external tank that will hold its mass, was buffeted by periodic downpours during the night. The rain did no damage but slowed the pad.

Mark Hess, spokesman for NASA, said the work was about 14 hours behind, but would not affect either countdown or launching. Many of the "cleanout" activities were carried out simultaneously with those of a countdown beginning on the first flight of Columbia last April 12.

Inspectors going through a final check of the aft end of the orbiter, discovered a depression about the size of a quarter and three-eighths of an inch deep in a one-inch diameter line that carries flammable hydrogen. The "dip" was in the plenum of engine 1 in the three-engine cluster. Officials could only speculate what caused it, perhaps a bump from a work platform or a dropped tool did. It might even have been throughout the April flight or put there while the ship was being refurbished.

"We have a flyable piece of pipe," Hess said after extensive testing was conducted to make sure there were no leaks. The pipe was X-rayed, sub­merged in water, and flooded with water, and a mold was made to determine the depth of the indenta­tion.

The countdown to Wednesday's 7:50 a.m. scheduled lift off has been scheduled "bods," totaling 29 and a half hours. One lasts 12 hours and the other two are eight hours each to give rest to the launch pad workers and for flexibilities in case of unforeseen problems.

At the call to stations, support personnel made certain all switches and valves were in proper positions. Then — at the command of test con­ductor Gilbert H. Whitaker — electricity, conditioned air, gases and propellants began flowing into the shuttle.

Montana key to 49er success

By MICHAEL MONK
Sports Writer

He earned the title "Comeback Joe" during his illustrious playing career at Notre Dame, and rightfully so. Time and again, quarterback Joe Montana won four NFL games by coming back from behind late in the fourth quarter. Montana's ability to pass with Montana at the helm has changed the confidence that once gave the 49ers a problem. If I had to pick one player who has the time to throw, I couldn't help but be successful.

The media blitz which has resounded from Montana's auspicious efforts has not changed him. Despite being the best passer in the NFL, he never becomes complacent. Montana's ability is given the time to succeed.

"Playing quarterback on a pro team is a high-pressure job," he explained. "Playing quarterback on a team like the 49ers is even tougher. We're a team that is just learning, that hasn't learned yet what it's like to win.

It's been five years since the 49ers last won a championship game but with Montana at the helm, that is sure to change this season. And the young, determined quarterback shows no sign of letting up.

"I haven't done much thinking about a failure period - I'm not set up for that..."

...I haven't done much thinking about a failure period - I'm not set up for that...

It has been a Cinderella story for Montana. From third-string quarterback at Notre Dame to one of the best quarterbacks in the NFL. But the story is still being written, and Montana realizes that there are still many more obstacles to overcome.

"I play quarterback on a pro team like the 49ers, and it's tough. We're a team that is just learning, that hasn't learned yet what it's like to win.

It's been five years since the 49ers last won a championship game but with Montana at the helm, that is sure to change this season. And the young, determined quarterback shows no sign of letting up.

"I haven't done much thinking about a failure period, he said. "I'm not set up for that. I've always had the confidence that once given the job, I could perform. And my confidence has been getting better each week because experience gives you confidence."

The success Montana has attained this season is due in large part to the outstanding receivers for the 49ers. Led by veterans Freddie Solomon and Dwight Clark, the receiving corps is big, fast, and dependable. Because of their talented receivers, Montana is afforded the luxury of several different targets. It gives grey hairs to defenses that cannot double up on a prime receiver, while allowing only single coverage on a lesser receiver. This fact was portrayed in the Dallas game, in which the 49ers embarrassed America's team, 45-7. On one play, the Cowboy's secondary doubled-up on Solomon, leaving Clark to single coverage. Montana took advantage of the situation, throwing a 79-yard touchdown pass to the deftly fast Clark.

Another major factor in Montana's success is the big 49er front line, which has allowed only 13 sacks in 10 games. When a quarterback's ability is given the time to throw, he can't help but be successful.

Los Angeles celebrates World Series victory

LOS ANGELES (AP) - With controversy following a sunny sky, the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers paraded through downtown yesterday to the cheers of up to 300,000 baseball fans and received the ceremonial key to the city.

Three floats carried the heroes up Broadway to City Hall, where they were introduced one by one to the crowd.

"I think we captured something of the city of Los Angeles, a long time to have and so richly deserved," said pitcher Burt Hooton, who won the final game of the World Series 9-2 Wednesday night in New York. The Dodgers defeated the New York Yankees four games to two.

"It's good to bring it home to you," Hooton said as the crowd roared its approval.

One star they didn't see was rookie pitching sensation Fernando Valenzuela, although they interpreted several official speeches with chants of, "We Want Fernando, We Want Fernando.

"Unfortunately, Fernando was not feeling too well today and he was unable to attend," Dodger Manager Tom Lasorda said. "He wanted to be here very, very much. I spoke to him before the parade began and he extended his sincere thanks to all of you for what you have done this year."

Excited by several marching bands, World Series most valuable players Steve Yeager, Pedro Guerrero and Ron Cey waved from the floats. Among their teammates riding the floats were teammates Steve Garvey, Dusty Baker, Rick Monday, Bill Russell, Bob Welch, Jerry Reuss, Dave Stewart, Terry Forster, Dave Goltz, Reggie Smith, Bobby Castillo, Derrel Thomas and some of their wives and coaches.

"If we knew it would be this much fun we'd have done it a lot sooner," said Reuss, another of the Dodgers' pitching aces.

Cey, the first player introduced, said: "I've been waiting nine years to see this happen. Nobody can say we did it the easy way. I'm sure we had all of you on your seats the last three weeks. I think our season is going to be the best ever.

Bradley said the Dodgers' triumph provided the city a unifying occasion.

Everyday pursuits fell by the wayside for the celebrants, whom one police sergeant on the street estimated at "about 300,000."

Ohio State and Iowa take their Big Ten title hopes on the road today against the serial attacks of Scott Campbell of Purdue and Terry Eason of Illinois, two of the nation’s leading passers.

Unranked Ohio State and 16th-ranked Iowa currently lead the Big Ten with 3-1 records, but five other contenders are only a step behind with 3-2 records, including Purdue and Illinois.

Ohio State will have to stop Campbell, ranked No. 1 nationally in passing efficiency, not to mention his main target, Steve Bryant, who is tied for first place nationally in pass receiving.

Iowa will be up on Eason, whose 2,071 passing yards lead the nation. Eason doesn’t have a No. 1 target. He has seven receivers who have caught passes in double figures, including four who have caught 20 or more passes this season.

A third key game matching teams with 3-2 Big Ten records finds Michigan at Minnesota in the battle for "The Little Brown Jug." A drizzle of great importance in the past but one that has lost some of its luster because of new evanities and added emphasis.

Wisconsin, also a contender with a 3-2 record, takes on winless Northwestern. The Badgers should have a tough going, losting now that they are back on friendly home grounds and if they do, they will extend Northwestern’s losing streak to 28 games, which will match the major college record shared by Kansas State and Virginia.

Rounding out the schedule will be Indiana, at Michigan State, and the Spartans dropped a 27-26 decision at Purdue last Saturday when Morton Anderson’s No. 1 yard field goal attempt blew wide on the final play of the game.

Ohio State Coach Earle Bruce has a lot of respect for the passing tandem of Campbell and Bryant, but the Buckeyes are not without ammunition for the task. Quarterback Art Schlichter and receiver Gary Williams can more than hold their own in any passing game.

With Tim Spencer on the mend, Ohio State will have a one-two running punch in Spencer and Jimmy Gayle who gained 186 yards last Saturday.

Eason, who has passed for more than 300 yards and has 10 touchdowns this season, will try to lead Big Ten passers to match the career conference record shared by predecessor Dave Wilson and Mark Hermann of Purdue, who has seen every yard of his 15,365 yards.

Butch Woolfolk, the Big Ten’s leading rusher with an average of 142 yards a game, will be added to his Michigan records. Minnesota’s Frank Jacobs is a close second with a 96.8 average, but the Gophers also have a dangerous passing combination in quarterback Mike Hohensee and receiver Chester Perry.

Former Purdue player

Morris released

LAFAVETTE, Ind. (AP) - Former Purdue University basketball player Danny Morris has been released on $9,500 bond after his arrest on a burglary charge.

Lafayette police arrested Morris Tuesday, and he had been held on $15,000 bond in the Tippecanoe County Jail. At a court hearing, prosecutors agreed with Morris’s attorney to reduce bond to $5,000.

No trial date was set.

Police charged Morris, 22, who as a 6-foot-6 forward averaged 10.5 points a game during four years at Purdue, and former Boilermaker football player Don Guyton illegally entered an apartment above a Lafayette liquor store July 30.

Police said they were trying to locate Guyton.

They said Morris also was arrested on an unrelated shoplifting charge.

Morris’s attorney, Charles & Deets of Lafayette, said, "I think there was some over-reaction to this just because it was Drake Morris. There’s no evidence that they used force to get into the apartment; there’s no evidence that anything was taken, and he was friends with the people renting the apartment.”

The attorney added, “They filed a very serious charge against him on a very fine legal technicality. I think the system will find him not guilty.”

Morris, a 1977 graduate of East Chicago Washington High School, was a starter for the Purdue basketball squad his last three seasons.

They called them the Baby Bombers and somehow, despite the countless titles suggested the nickname stuck. The term crept into Notre Dame Athletic Director Roger Valenciak. The Baby Bombers were more popular than quarterback Terry Hanratty and split end Jim Seymour, as sophomore, astonished football followers by leading Ara Parseghian's squad to the 1966 National Championship.

Eleven players from that 9-0 team were named to several All-American teams, a number which had never been approached by any other Notre Dame football team. Seymour headed the list that included two running backs, three offensive linemen, a defensive back, a linebacker and a specialist. Three defensive linemen, Hanratty, despite topping eight touchdown passes (all to Seymour) and throwing for over 1,200 yards, was not included.

But it was Hanratty who consistently placed the pioneer in the hands of his gifted ol' men. Over their three-year career, Hanratty and Seymour teamed up for 11 percent of the former's total completions. Until Joe Theismann arrived on the scene, Hanratty had thrown for more yards, more touchdowns and a higher percentage than any Notre Dame quarterback. Likewise, Seymour had caught more passes, for more yards, more touchdowns than any Irish receiver until the Thiebout-Tom Gaterow tandem clicked from 1969-1971.

Following the 1966 season, the consensus among pro scouts and college football authorities was that the Baby Boullier's combination would be virtually unstoppable the next two years.

Andree was able to make his way off the court with the aid of crutches, and some help from John Shumate, the former Irish center who now works as a part-time assistant coach.

The Spartans took an early 10-0 lead, but a 28-yard field goal by kick­er Joe Angara narrowed it to 10-3. With time running out and the Irish in possession of the ball, Parseghian called a series of plays more malignant than a Dan Devine rifled up Nippitch. Parseghian had stolen the game, with the Irish outscoring the Spartans 275-14 over their next seven games.

The year 1966 was one of those kind of seasons for the Irish. Not since Frank Leahy's squad over the course of the game, six if I can recall correctly. O'Brien had replaced Hanratty but by the fourth quarter he was extremely weak."

Before the Navy game earlier in the season, it had been discovered he had diabetes. He began giving himself injections of insulin, not slowing down his football career. However, the day before the Michigan State game O'Brien said, "It's settled."

The real reason Notre Dame didn't try the long bomb in the final seconds of the game, "it's settled," the coach said, "was because Coley started feeling a little sick. Against enough insulin that day — not knowing he was going to have to play practically the entire game. He was munching candy bars at the end, trying to get his strength up, but he just couldn't throw the long ones..."

The next week against Southern Cal was completed out of 53 passers try a Notre Dame record. "The plays we ran were perfect for the situation," continued Yonto. "The draw play to (fallback Larry) Cotler was just great. A perfect defense, it was an ideal call. We were looking for a break and despite the criticism, we were trying to win."

"Another thing to be considered was their kicking game. The previous week their kicker had booted a 56-yard field goal. A turnover by us would have been disastrous. We would have had to switch, and we would have cost us a national title. A win in one of those games and the National Cal would give us the title."

"A win" over USC was an under­statement. Even the most accomplished team was the two-time defending champion and had played 275-14 over their opponents the previous seven games. "It's not the kind of thing to be considered when analyzing the football season," said Yonto. "First of all, we had sustained six of injuries over the course of the game, six if I can recall correctly. O'Brien had replaced Hanratty but by the fourth quarter he was extremely weak."

At yesterday's practice
Andree suffers ankle injury

By SKIP DESJARDIN
Assistant Sports Editor

Initial medical reports indicate that Andree tore ligaments in the ankle and sprained the ankle. The injury occurred when the 6-10 Andree went up for a rebound during yesterday's practice. When he came down, the impact twisted the ankle, and Andree immediately fell to the floor.

"As of now, we really don't know how long Andree will be out," Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps immediately after practice. "At the very least, it will be a cast for a month or so."

See ANDREE, page 12

The injury to Andree leaves the Irish in the unenviable position of having to cover center. Buckley, a 6-8 sophomore, replaced Andree at the spot for the remainder of yesterday's practice, but Phelps said it will be a while before he and his assistants fully assess the situation.

"For now, we'll go with Cecilk," said Phelps, "but we may have to rely on our second team for a little while."

"Timmy could be back to practice by the time the season opens, but it will take him some time after that to get back into shape. We'll just have to wait and see how he does in the injured spot."

For the remainder of yesterday's practice, the Irish coaching staff was counting heavily on Andree's contribution up front. The graduation of Kelly Tripucka and Orlando Woolridge left some places to fill at the forward spot, the transfer of Joe Kleine to Arkansas at the end of the last school year simply complicated matters.

A combination of erratic defensive play and poor shooting kept Notre Dame's hockey team from having a successful CCHA home debut last night before 2,987 fans in the ACC. Two second-period goals by Northern Michigan spelled bitter defeat for Leuty Smith and his squad as the Irish connected on only two of 46 shots in a 3-2 loss to the Wildcats.

An additional factor in the loss was the phenomenal play of freshman goaltender Brent Lampe, who repeatedly came up big in the midst of several crucial situations. With Dave Laurino pulled in favor of the extra skater, the Irish came up with only 12 shots and Lampe had to make a flurry that left the crowd on its feet and a downed Laurino on the bench.

As he put it after the game, "I thought we did an absolutely terrible job of defense. We missed two breakaways without even getting off a shot."

The Irish did get a good performance out of senior goaltender Scott Smith, who kicked out 37 shots from primarily close range. Although his defense kept Northern Michigan at bay for a good part of the game, some poorly timed break­downs created some opportunities. On two of those occasions, the Wildcats cashed in for the go­ahead and winning goals.

Just 1:25 into the second period, when Dave Morris drove in from the right circle and dug the puck out of the back of the Irish net, the first shot stopped by Laurino, and then pooled in the rebound for a shorthanded score. Bruce Martin gave the visitors a 1-0 lead when his backhand found its way through a mesh of defenders and finally past a sprawled Laurino, a power-play goal which proved to be the game-winner.

Senior winger Bill Rothstein of the scoring, and another from the right circle into the wide side of the cage. A little less than six minutes later, Wildcat Dave Smith proved Laurino human by beating him almost the identical shot.

After the two Wildcat goals in the middle period, the Irish as well as the crowd dug in for a no-hockey. Both were partially satisfied when freshman John Deane scored his first Notre Dame goal by picking up a rebound off the defenseman and mus­tering in position to stop his quick wrist shot. That was the last hurrah for the Irish, however, as Campese time and time again an­noyed the Irish scoring attempts — 'what seemed to be the last pos­sible second.

Reflecting on the game in his office, Smith summed up things pretty well. "We coughed up a strong second period and a power-play goal and that was just what they needed. We had the opportunities, but things just didn't come our way."

The Irish will be out to avenge last night's tough loss tonight in the first of three-straight games on the road. They will be at 8 p.m. and with some steady play and a little luck, the outcome will be different.

Irish must prevent letdown to beat Navy

By MIKE GILBERT
Senior Writer

If you can be encouraged by a losing football game, then you are really encouraged about our football team after its 14-7 loss to Southern Cal last Saturday.

We think we found ourselves as a football team, and now as we prepare for a good Navy team tomorrow, we have to remember that we played a good football game and to keep our heads up. At the same time, we also must guard against a letdown and try to maintain the enthusiasm and intensity we had against the Trojans.

Saturday's game was a great game for spectators to watch. There was great execution on both sides and the hitting was excellent. Each team had just one turnover and the penalties and mistakes were minimal. We feel Southern Cal is one of the best football teams in the nation.

Saturday's performance was easily the best our offensive line has produced this season. For the first time the kids had confidence in what they were doing and they were really firing off the ball. That's the reason Phil Carter did so well and gained 161 yards. He would be the first to tell you that, too.

And defensively, we thought we played an excellent team game. People may wonder about that when they notice that Marcus Allen gained 147 yards. But he is such a great runner that he is going to get his work of our prep squads during the week. They really did an excellent job simulating Southern Cal and that's why we feel they are the unusual hero of the game.

The turning point of the game had to be when their punter

Irish hockey team drops home opener
Rudzinski's back in a big way

By MARK HANNUKELA
Sports Writer

Don't blame Joe Rudzinski for Notre Dame's four losses. Heck, the poor guy didn't even play in three of them. Injured midway through the disaster in Ann Arbor, Rudzinski did not return to action until last Saturday's game against Southern Cal. In the interim, he missed the one-point loss to Purdue, Win No. 2 against Michigan State, and the loss to Bobby Bowden's Florida State Seminoles.

Despite the three-week layoff for the stuff of legends in Rudzinski's right shoulder, he came back as strong as ever against USC, making 10 tackles against the Trojans, second only to Bob Crable's 15. According to his coach, George Kelly, you'd never know he missed any.

"Joe played what I felt was perhaps the best game of his career against Southern Cal,\" says Kelly. "He played with a great deal of intensity, which he always does, and just had an outstanding ball game.\"

For Rudzinski, the contest was an outlet for the pent up frustration that had built during his three weeks on the sidelines.

"I wanted to get in there so bad,\" he says. "It just gets to you, sitting there watching the team lose. You start thinking that if you can get in there, maybe you can help out in some way. But on the sidelines, you just feel helpless.\"

Helpless? To some extent, yes. But not totally.

"When one of my kids isn't able to contribute physically,\" says Kelly, "you will usually find him talking to his replacement. I've been lucky in that respect. I have guys who are not selfish, who try to help one another. That's what Joe did with Rick Naylor.\"

All feelings of helplessness aside, there was another, and perhaps more important feeling running through the 5-3, 210-pound Rudzinski, a feeling which many of his teammates shared.

"I think some of the criticism directed at Coach Faust was definitely unjustified,\" says the Farmington, Mich., native. "He stepped into something that he had never been exposed to — heck, college football is a big business. I don't think people appreciate what actually goes on, the pressure he is under.\"

"The team knows it lost some games it shouldn't have,\" he continues. "We just hate to see all the criticism come down on him like it has. I think once he gets his bearings, he'll produce a winner. It's just too bad people have to make such quick judgments about him.\"

"All those quick judgments, and all the second guessing are likely to stop once Faust and his Irish start regularly coming away from games with higher numbers on the scoreboard then the other team. If Saturday's performance against USC is in any indication, that should begin to happen rather soon. This weekend, as a matter of fact. As is the case nearly every week of the Notre Dame season, however, there's a but...\"

"Navy is so disciplined,\" says Rudzinski, a resident of Morrissey Hall. "They don't make mistakes. We're coming off of a very emotional game. Teams have a tendency to flatten out after games like that, so it will be very important for us to keep our intensity level up. They are the kind of team that will take advantage of our mistakes, so we have to keep from making them.\"

Rudzinski himself should have little trouble maintaining his intensity level, since the game against the Midshipmen is his fourth appearance of the season. But then even if he hadn't been a resident of Morrissey Hall the past 12 months, he probably still would have a great intensity. For the past 12 years, he's a pretty nasty kid when it comes to contact — that's just his nature.\"

"I agree with Coach Kelly when he says I'm a very intense player,\" says Rudzinski, whose broad shoulder muscles capturing the Spartans of Michigan State, played two years in the NFL, with the Green Bay Packers. "I think everybody is to a certain extent. I seem to play my best when I'm fired up.\"

Accused of lying dormant for a good part of the early season, the intensity of the Notre Dame defense is back, not just in the person of Rudzinski, but in all 11 members of Jim Johnson's unit. If it stays this time, then the road which lies ahead for the 1981 Irish should be much smoother than the one already traveled.

new coach than older ones.\"

The 95-90 scholarship rule also has done its part to reassemble the team. Known Florida State, Iowa, North Carolina and Mississippi State have just emerged in recent years.

The Big Ten this year is not the Big Two — Little Fight any more, as seven teams are with- in a half-game of the conference lead heading down the stretch.

"You just don't have the same talent in the same numbers,\" explains Stuewe. "The talent level is planed out. Two players get hurt and you lose a nose down.\"

That is evident in the Irish in recent weeks as seven starters did not play or saw limited action against Florida State. Six of those start- ers returned for the USC game, and despite the loss of standout defensive stopping, including Faust, Irish fell to Notre Dame's best effort of the season.

And one thing that is totally misunderstood by outside world is the football mentality under the Golden Dome. Fr. Hesburgh and Fr. Joyce could really care if Notre care how many football games the Irish win. In fact, Hes- bargh has made no secret that he wishes Notre Dame academics would get as much at tention as the football team.

Contrary to popular belief there are some schools where athletes do graduate. Notre Dame football players realize there is more than pre football. All 31 former Irish football players listed on active rosters of the National Football League teams during the 1980 season have earned their degree from the University. Others schools may win on Saturday afternoons, but in the long run the Irish are the real winners.

As for the NCAA's investigation of a possible recruiting violation by Faust, it is going to lead nowhere. There will not be the recruiting violations at Notre Dame as there have at other schools, there will not be any incidents similar to the one at Arizona State involving Frank Kush, and there will not be the Woody Hayes type that punch out photographers.

The Notre Dame head coach will also have to do more than win football games.

Remember the words of Bowen who says, "Tell Gerry to be patient and tell the people up there to be patient.\"

But as Stuewe says, "Time is not on the side of the coach.\"

The administration, however, will stand by Faust as long as he, his players and his staff represent Notre Dame in a positive light both on and off the football field.

The key in patience. In a couple of years, Faust's name will be long up there with Rockne, Frank Leahy, Parseghian and Devine. This time the praise he receives will be deserved.

Outlook

The record is impressive indeed: 15-16 extra points, and 15-19 field goals.

"I've always believed that the main responsibility for me as a placekicker was to help the team as much as possible," says the pre-season All-American. "The pre-season honors, along with the fact that this will be my final season made me work a little harder over the summer.\"

The hard work has paid off. Fehr now owns 10 Navy records, and his career scoring mark of 173 points puts him within 10 of the Heisman Trophy winner Joe Bellino's Navy record of 183.

"This will be just like going against Moelley,\" Fehr says of his reunion with Faust, and long time nemesis Harry Oliver.

"It's a great defense," he says only his fourth statement of the season. "They pushed Michigan to the limit earlier this season. Navy always plays hard against Notre Dame, as he. This week will be no exception. I'm sure they'll be keyed up.\"
