New campus phone exchange breaks down

By JOE MUSUMECI

News Staff

The newly installed "239" exchange of the campus telephone system went dead around 8:45 p.m. last night. Indiana Bell supervisor Jay Corley said that he received a call to repair the system at about 9:30 p.m.

The addition of the new exchange leaves only residence phones on the "285" exchange and necessitates that many on-campus calls be made as if they were going off campus. The new system has confused many students upon their return from break.

The breakdown was caused by a burnt-out circuit pack in one of the "239" switches installed to implement the new system, located in the basement of Memorial Library. The cabinets were installed alongside the open racks of software for the old system. The "285" system was not affected by the failure.

Asked about the cause of the failure, Mr. Corley said that the fault was within the circuit board itself and not inherent in the entire system. About the circuit board he said: "If they're going to break down, they do it early. This one must have been borderline: it waked fine when we put it up, until now." Corley said that the fault was not a common one, and that the chances of such a failure occurring again were very slight. He said that several similar systems had been installed around the area, and were in fact much less troublesome than the system which Nutre Dane had previously used. The supervisor said that repair of the problem is a simple matter involving merely the replacement of the circuit board at fault. When Corley was contacted, another supervisor was at the supply center near Niles picking up a new circuit board, and Corley said the phones would be working again by today.

Search for air disaster victims continues

By BILL CRIDER

Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS -- The man called the Sky Mask Rapist, who says his three-year terror spree included 81 crimes in 12 states, is now in permanent residence at Angola Prison, facing lifetime sentences plus 2,681 years in jail.

During each of six court appearances since early December, Jon Barry Simonis said he was sorry about everything, but couldn't help himself.

"I am guilty of these crimes. I knew extremely well what I was doing beforehand, while I was doing it, and I know now," Simonis told District Judge Charles Beckel during a Dec. 10 hearing in Donaldsonville. Simonis, who turned 31 Friday, said he would wear a ski mask during break-ins and often rape women residents who happened to be home.

He received his 21 lifetime sentences on rape convictions, the extra years for other crimes including armed robbery, burglary and auto theft. Simonis began his prison terms Thursday.

Simonis was arrested Nov. 27 in Lake Charles, his home town. Officers had been told that a car like Simonis' was seen near the scene of one of the "ski mask rapist" attacks. Simonis was one of the police who investigated the suspect, who was not convicted Simonis was the man who attacked her. "Everything I knew could have come from newspaper, anybody who attended the trial or anyone who investigated the case," he said.

However, Clarence Von Williams, serving 50 years on the rape conviction, was released on Dec. 5 at a special court session in Orange. Tapes, on a motion filed by both defense and prosecution, "Simonis knew too many details not to have committed the rape," said Orange County District Attorney R. Ely Whalen.

Simonis and the victim worked at a drugstore near his home. It was then that he told investigators about 81 armed robberies or burglaries in 50 cities in 12 states -- mostly involving rape or other sexual crimes. Other men had been convicted in two of the crimes described by Simonis.

In Texas, man was quickly freed but there was some confusion, because the rape victim instead the
A Michigan State University student says he will file discrimination charges against a fraternity which allegedly suspended him for being homosexual. The 20-year-old member of Delta Sigma Phi, who asked not to be identified, said he will take his case before M SU's Anti-Discrimination Judicial Board. University regulations against sex discrimination probably would apply to the case, said Sally Bright, the board's executive secretary. Scott Pawley, president of the fraternity, said only that the member was suspended Sunday night because his lifestyle was incompatible with the rest of the fraternity. — AP

The Bijou Theater, where Tallulah Bankhead made her Broadway debut and Helen Hayes scored a notable triumph, fell under a building yesterday in New York while sign-carrying protesters stood outside. The 95-year-old theater, 1452 Broadway, was at 20th Street West of Broadway is being demolished to make room for a new hotel. Flanking the Bijou are the Helen Hayes and Monoco theaters, which the builders also want to raze. A court order has delayed demolition of those theaters pending a hearing Jan. 21. Miss Bankhead made her debut at the Bijou in 1919 in "The Squab Farm," and Miss Hayes starred there in "What Every Woman Knows" in 1926. — AP

An Omaha Nebraska television station and local police have teamed up to re-enact unsolved crimes on the air for a Crimestoppers program. The re-enactments will be broadcast on station KEYT beginning in March in hopes that police will get anonymous tips leading to arrests and convictions, officials say. Ray Delp, KEYT news director, said tips that lead to convictions will be rewarded from private contributions. The shows will feature University of Nebraska at Omaha drama students. Similar Crimestoppers programs exist in more than 100 U.S. cities, Delp said. — AP

Gerhart Niemeyer, professor emeritus of government and international studies at the University of Notre Dame, has been appointed to the Board of Foreign Scholarships by President Reagan. The Board is under the Department of State's Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs. Established by the Fullbright Act of 1961, the board oversees the department's worldwide exchange of graduate students, teachers and senior university scholars. Niemeyer emigrated from Germany in 1933, became a U.S. citizen in 1943, worked as a foreign affairs officer in the Department of State from 1950 to 1955 and joined the Notre Dame faculty in 1955. A political theorist, he served as visiting professor at Yale, Columbia, and Vanderbilt Universities as well as at Hillsdale College (Michigan). — The Observer

Dr. David Norburn, a professor at the London Business School, is an expert in British business policy, has been named a professor at the London Business School. He is an expert in British business policy, has been named chair in management at the University of British Columbia. Norburn, who directs the London Business School's Continuing Executive Programme, will start his three-year appointment next fall. — The Observer

Snow today, high in the mid 20s. Near blizzard conditions tonight with bitter cold and high winds. Tomorrow cloudy and windy with a high around zero. — AP

Friday, January 15, 1982 - page 2
Investigation begins on D.C. subway wreck

WASHINGTON (AP) — Crews using blowtorches and a crane dismantled the wreckage of a subway train yesterday while three different investigations began trying to find out what caused the rush-hour crash that killed three people and injured at least 25 others.

Traffic was limited on the subway system between the capital and its suburbs as four downtown stations remained closed so the train could be removed.

The National Transportation Safety Board, a panel of experts picked by Metro and the Washington Metropolitan Authority were investigating the accident, the first fatal wreck in Metro's five-year history.

The deaths and injuries occurred as the derailed train backed up and the last of its six cars slammed into a concrete abutment in the tunnel. As many as 1,500 riders may have been aboard.

The subway crash happened 26 minutes after 76 people were killed about one and one-half miles away when an Air Florida jetliner crashed into the 14th Street Bridge as it took off from National Airport.

The subway was packed because government workers left early to avoid the snow and because a stalled train meant that only a single rail could be used for both directions between some stations.

As the train, bound for Maryland, approached the Smithsonian station on the Mall from the north, its operator found he was still being switched to the opposite rail.

He called central control, which monitors the trains, and his train was ordered to back up before the crossing, according to Joe Sheard, in charge of the rail operations. Manual switching of the trains because automatic systems were out of order, hopped onto the last car and took control to back the train, officials said.

But at the far end, the last set of wheels had already passed beyond the switches on the opposite track. It was kept on the wrong track by an incorrect switch, officials said. Thus, when the train moved, the last car was gradually turned sideways, spanning two sets of rails, and was crushed around a concrete pillar holding up the tunnel.

There was enormous force because you had all the rest of the train pulling it forward," vol. Cody Plauefield, Metro peeled off and the floor buckled and tore.

Metro officials were unable to say yesterday why the switches were in the wrong position and why the automatic controls for operator in the crashed car could have done anything to prevent the disaster.

Patricia Goldman, head of the NTSB investigation, said her team wanted answers to a number of questions, to resume normal service and reopen the downtown stations by today's rush hour.

The deaths and injuries occurred as the derailed train backed up and the last of its six cars slammed into a concrete abutment in the tunnel. As many as 1,500 riders may have been aboard.

The subway crash happened 26 minutes after 76 people were killed about one and one-half miles away when an Air Florida jetliner crashed into the 14th Street Bridge as it took off from National Airport.

The subway was packed because government workers left early to avoid the snow and because a stalled train meant that only a single rail could be used for both directions between some stations.

As the train, bound for Maryland, approached the Smithsonian station on the Mall from the north, its operator found he was still being switched to the opposite rail.

He called central control, which monitors the trains, and his train was ordered to back up before the crossing, according to Joe Sheard, in charge of the rail operations. Manual switching of the trains because automatic systems were out of order, hopped onto the last car and took control to back the train, officials said.

But at the far end, the last set of wheels had already passed beyond the switches on the opposite track. It was kept on the wrong track by an incorrect switch, officials said. Thus, when the train moved, the last car was gradually turned sideways, spanning two sets of rails, and was crushed around a concrete pillar holding up the tunnel.

There was enormous force because you had all the rest of the train pulling it forward," vol. Cody Plauefield, Metro peeled off and the floor buckled and tore.

Metro officials were unable to say yesterday why the switches were in the wrong position and why the automatic controls for operator in the crashed car could have done anything to prevent the disaster.

Patricia Goldman, head of the NTSB investigation, said her team wanted answers to a number of questions, to resume normal service and reopen the downtown stations by today's rush hour.

By VIC SCULLI
Staff Reporter

Despite a strong concerted effort by the student Government and hall rectors Fr. Van Wolvlear, Vice President of Student Affairs, voted the Campus Life Council's proposal to allow kegs in hall party rooms.

Fr. Van Wolvlear made the decision despite the fact that the proposal was passed by the Hall Presidents Council, the Student Senate, and the Campus Life Council. The proposal submitted to Van Wolvlear included a number of amendments suggested by hall rectors regarding control over kegs in party rooms. In a letter to Don Murphy, Student Body President and Chairman of the CLC, Van Wolvlear cited four reasons which formed the basis for his decision:

1. This office has not been informed of any alcoholic abuse in the party rooms. Abuse would call for some policy change.
2. The resolution offers no control of the number of kegs coming on campus. Our gate security personnel have no way of knowing which kegs are authorized and which are not. We would lose complete control over the number of kegs coming on campus. Our present policy of no kegs allow us complete control.
3. Our alcohol counselors agree with the findings of the publication "Campus Reports" that the national trend is to prohibit the use of kegs on campus.
4. We (the University) have a stronger legal position by the enforcement of some restrictions regarding the use of alcohol on campus.

Van Wolvlear also stated that residence hall rectors will make their party room guidelines more restrictive in regards to the use of alcohol. A statement prohibiting the serving of beer from a common source may appear in the next du Lac.

The CLC has decided not to appeal to President O'Meara or to Fr. Henshaw. Despite the veto, CLC members were pleased about things that came out of the proposal. "For the first time, there was an organized backing between rectors and students," said CLC Secretary Paul Callahan. "A lot of rectors supported the Student Government on the issue. That is important.

"Rectors see the advantages to the proposal. The Administration doesn't."

Callahan stressed that kegs are not an issue, but rather that the social life on campus is improved. The Administration, he feels, has isolated itself from the student body. He is concerned that other creative proposals will be turned down and that the Administration will not cooperate. Finding out why a gap exists between Student Government and the Administration and then bridging that gap is essential," Callahan said. "The issue of kegs is dead until Student Government and hall rectors and the Administration can bridge that gap." He concluded.

V.P. of student affairs rejects keg proposal

Sony Tape and Sunshine Promotions Present an evening with....

ROD STEWART
Le Grande Tour America and Canada 1981/1982

WORTH LEAVING HOME FOR!!!!

Thursday, Jan. 21 8PM Notre Dame ACC

All seats reserved. $12.50 and $10.50

On sale now at: ACC Box Office, Robertson's South Bend and Concord mall, St. Joe's Bank - Main Branch, First Bank - Main Branch, The Elkhart Truth and Suspended Chord in Elkhart.

---

This is the interior of a Washington subway car which crashed Wednesday after it backed into a tunnel abutment, shown at left. Three people were killed and at least 23 were injured when the rush-hour train derailed and hit the concrete. (AP Photo)
NEW YORK (AP) — President Reagan told a group of New York businessmen and civic leaders today that "there is a new spirit of individual initiative rising in our land" to supplant the failed efforts of big government.

Reagan flew from Washington to meet the new secretary general of the United Nations and to address the New York City Partnership, which serves as a model for his campaign to encourage voluntary efforts to solve social problems.

In a speech prepared for a banquet of the 2-year-old association at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, Reagan said the group, "You are that tough little tug that can pull our ship of state off the shoals and out into open water."

The partnership, headed by David Rockefeller, is dedicated to improving economic and social conditions in the city by coordinating private and public programs and has task forces concentrating on public safety and youth employment.

One of Reagan's pet projects has been formation of what he calls his Private Initiative Task Force, a group of about 40 corporate executives and civic leaders assigned to identify, reward and foster voluntary self-help projects in communities across the country.

He called for "a renaissance of the American community, a rebirth of neighborhood. This is the heart and soul of rebuilding America."

Using new rhetoric, Reagan reiterated his claim that the present recession is a result of the failed policies of the past. "Our administration is a cleanup crew for those who went on a nonsensical binge and left the tab for us to pick up," he said.

He predicted the incentives provided by his economic program and the will of the American people are the driving forces behind recovery, and he appealed for volunteers to help solve the problems of poverty and need that he said this government has failed to cure.

It has been a fundamental tenet of Reagan's political philosophy that government should stop trying to solve the array of social problems it has tackled since the New Deal and that those closest to community problems are better equipped to implement solutions efficiently and effectively.

Reagan planned to meet newly elected U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez De Cuellar. The private, mid-afternoon meeting in the president's hotel suite was billed as a short "get acquainted session" with no formal agenda.

Rapist

"He is considered an escape risk," said Endie Day, a spokeswoman for the state Department of Correctional Institutions. "He has served an indeterminate period in extended lockdown, remaining in a one-man tier above Death Row instead of being placed within the general prison population."

Simonis has said that he plans to spend his time in prison writing books on how people can avoid becoming victims of criminals like himself.

Disaster

"We want to know how long after the last deicing that the plane was out in the open," he said, adding that he would add substantial weight to an aircraft and destroy the performance of an airplane."

A veteran accident investigator, Rudy Kasputin, said, "Everything is speculation at this time. We've got a difficult investigation ahead to learn what exactly happened."

In Miami, Cesar Alvarez, a senior vice president of Air Florida, said the plane was deiced "perhaps three times" and added that there were "no signs of fuel contamination."

Kasputin said everything would be examined, runway conditions, fuel purity, the state of the two engines, pilot error and airport flight rules.
Haig attempts to break deadlock

JERUSALEM (AP) — Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. told Isra­ eli officials Friday that if they withdraw from the Sinai Desert, American security measures in the area would ensure that Israeli and Egyptian forces could coexist without confrontation, understanding and recall.

The decision to lock the doors at Keenan received generally good response from rectors and security.

The new procedure results from a "general consensus decision" according to Fr. Richard Conyers, Keenan Hall rector.

"Security has become a mounting problem in the dorms. One response is to make things more secure," Fr. Conyers said. "Things were stolen or broken, and the doors were not used as a cut-through.

Another reason for the new policy is privacy. Students frequently use Keenan as a short-cut to get from one place to another. Students desire to have quiet and privacy. The locked doors will result in no longer having this building used as a cut-through for students," Fr. Conyers added.

Fr. Conyers also noted that the locked doors will not limit access to the lobby, which remains open at all times.

Haig attempts to break deadlock

In an effort to create a more secure environment, Keenan Hall is now locked at all times. Keenan Hall is now scheduled to become the last dorm to do so.

The new procedure results from a "general consensus decision" according to Fr. Richard Conyers, Keenan Hall rector.

"Security has become a mounting problem in the dorms. One response is to make things more secure," Fr. Conyers said. "Things were stolen or broken, and the doors were not used as a cut-through.

Another reason for the new policy is privacy. Students frequently use Keenan as a short-cut to get from one place to another. Students desire to have quiet and privacy. The locked doors will result in no longer having this building used as a cut-through for students," Fr. Conyers added.

Fr. Conyers also noted that the locked doors will not limit access to the lobby, which remains open at all times.

Haig attempts to break deadlock

In an effort to create a more secure environment, Keenan Hall is now locked at all times. Keenan Hall is now scheduled to become the last dorm to do so.

The new procedure results from a "general consensus decision" according to Fr. Richard Conyers, Keenan Hall rector.

"Security has become a mounting problem in the dorms. One response is to make things more secure," Fr. Conyers said. "Things were stolen or broken, and the doors were not used as a cut-through.

Another reason for the new policy is privacy. Students frequently use Keenan as a short-cut to get from one place to another. Students desire to have quiet and privacy. The locked doors will result in no longer having this building used as a cut-through for students," Fr. Conyers added.

Fr. Conyers also noted that the locked doors will not limit access to the lobby, which remains open at all times.

Haig attempts to break deadlock

In an effort to create a more secure environment, Keenan Hall is now locked at all times. Keenan Hall is now scheduled to become the last dorm to do so.

The new procedure results from a "general consensus decision" according to Fr. Richard Conyers, Keenan Hall rector.

"Security has become a mounting problem in the dorms. One response is to make things more secure," Fr. Conyers said. "Things were stolen or broken, and the doors were not used as a cut-through.

Another reason for the new policy is privacy. Students frequently use Keenan as a short-cut to get from one place to another. Students desire to have quiet and privacy. The locked doors will result in no longer having this building used as a cut-through for students," Fr. Conyers added.

Fr. Conyers also noted that the locked doors will not limit access to the lobby, which remains open at all times.

Haig attempts to break deadlock

In an effort to create a more secure environment, Keenan Hall is now locked at all times. Keenan Hall is now scheduled to become the last dorm to do so.

The new procedure results from a "general consensus decision" according to Fr. Richard Conyers, Keenan Hall rector.

"Security has become a mounting problem in the dorms. One response is to make things more secure," Fr. Conyers said. "Things were stolen or broken, and the doors were not used as a cut-through.

Another reason for the new policy is privacy. Students frequently use Keenan as a short-cut to get from one place to another. Students desire to have quiet and privacy. The locked doors will result in no longer having this building used as a cut-through for students," Fr. Conyers added.

Fr. Conyers also noted that the locked doors will not limit access to the lobby, which remains open at all times.

Haig attempts to break deadlock

In an effort to create a more secure environment, Keenan Hall is now locked at all times. Keenan Hall is now scheduled to become the last dorm to do so.

The new procedure results from a "general consensus decision" according to Fr. Richard Conyers, Keenan Hall rector.

"Security has become a mounting problem in the dorms. One response is to make things more secure," Fr. Conyers said. "Things were stolen or broken, and the doors were not used as a cut-through.

Another reason for the new policy is privacy. Students frequently use Keenan as a short-cut to get from one place to another. Students desire to have quiet and privacy. The locked doors will result in no longer having this building used as a cut-through for students," Fr. Conyers added.

Fr. Conyers also noted that the locked doors will not limit access to the lobby, which remains open at all times.

Haig attempts to break deadlock

In an effort to create a more secure environment, Keenan Hall is now locked at all times. Keenan Hall is now scheduled to become the last dorm to do so.

The new procedure results from a "general consensus decision" according to Fr. Richard Conyers, Keenan Hall rector.

"Security has become a mounting problem in the dorms. One response is to make things more secure," Fr. Conyers said. "Things were stolen or broken, and the doors were not used as a cut-through.

Another reason for the new policy is privacy. Students frequently use Keenan as a short-cut to get from one place to another. Students desire to have quiet and privacy. The locked doors will result in no longer having this building used as a cut-through for students," Fr. Conyers added.

Fr. Conyers also noted that the locked doors will not limit access to the lobby, which remains open at all times.
The last time I saw Paris

By Robert Griffin

Letters to a Lonely God

by myself in Paris, feeling blue, I kept remembering Jake Barnes in "The Sun Also Rises." "Better not think about it," he said when he began feeling bad. Thinking makes it bad, and wine doesn't help. Things will get bet-tter, in the meantime, you don't need to think about it. Courage is a form of refuting to think, when your thought will let you see what a mess things are.

If I were wealthy, I'd go to Maxim's for a drink. I might run into Jackie Onassis and her crowd at Maxim's. I don't know Jackie Onassis.

The Hotel Crillon reminded me of Fitzgerald's story, "Babylon Revisited." A glance at its expensive lobby showed me I was in trouble. I could get arrested for listening. "You can't go home to Babylon." I thought. "Babylon belonged to the Bad and the Beautiful. Anyway, all the great Babylonians have died." Outside, the light was finally leaving the sky, and the stars were coming out. It was 6:30 in the evening, and there was no place to go but the hotel where I was sleeping. The front desk was peace and tranquility, and I was happy. Darkness always seems to face me. Dangers come with darkness, I thought, but nothing is more dangerous than thoughts that come from being alone. Daylight offers you emptiness, when you're by yourself. Night promises tomorrow, when something unexpected might turn up, like finding out that you are loved.

Back at the hotel, I saw the young man from the restaurant. I wondered what had happened to the girl. I wanted to tell him. "Paris is the springtime for lovers," using a Parisian accent.

It would have been a dumb thing to say. I didn't even have the excuse of wine softening my brain to want to say it. "It would have reminded him he was alone for the night," I thought. "He deserves having that fact rubbed in his face. He's wicked to want to punish a person for being young."

The next day, I left Paris to spend a summer in New York. In New York, at least, you can talk to cab drivers.

I was eating, an American student came in. I could guess that she was an American, because she was wearing "Paris On Ten Days A Day" at her table. The place was very small, with less than a dozen tables crowded closely. At about five minutes, I could hear the whole conversation, when a young man carrying a camera, who had been studying the menu at a nearby table, introduced himself as an American student abroad, and he asked if he could join her for dinner. She said she would love to if she did. Soon, they were having a good time, exchanging travelers' experiences, discussing what to order, and trying to discover if they had some of the same friends at the same table. It was probably a case of the Bad and the Beautiful.
Sports Briefs

Friday, January 15, 1982 — page 7

Every Saturday and Monday, The Observer and The Associated Press will sponsor a skier trip to Swiss Valley. Advance tickets can be purchased at the ticket office for $2.50, or for $5.00 on the shuttle bus. The bus will depart Minnesota State at 5 p.m. every Saturday and return to campus at 11 p.m. All are invited to come and join the fun. — The Observer

The Student Union has announced that there are still eight openings remaining for the ski trip during Spring Break (March 13-19). All interested in going on this trip, please bring a deposit of $50.00 to the Student Union ticket office by Monday, January 18. If you have already signed up for this trip, please be sure to deposit $50.00 to the ticket office by Monday. — The Observer

The women's crew club will hold an organizational meeting on Sunday, January 17, at 7 p.m. in Lafortune. The meeting is open to anyone interested in rowing this spring. New members are also welcome to attend. — The Observer

The ND / SMC ski team will hold a mandatory practice and ice trials at Royal Valley Ski Area this Sunday, January 17. Anyone with any interest in skiing this semester should attend. Transportation leaves the main circle at noon. Dress for ski trials, call Barry Trapp (570), Steve Hilbert (569), Joe Hill (1674) or Nancy Shell (3SM 4996). — The Observer

Soccer team winter workouts will begin on Sunday, January 17 in the ACC Pit. A mandatory meeting for all 1982 soccer team members and all who intend to play will be held prior to the 2-4 p.m. intramural games starting at 9:30 a.m. in the Pit. All interested persons must attend the meeting and be dressed for practice, which will follow immediately thereafter. — The Observer

Women's track and cross-country runners will meet Thursday and Sunday nights in Denny East to discuss practice and meet. All are welcome. For more information call Lisa (8091) or Cindy (8073). — The Observer

The Tae Kwon Do / Karate Club of Notre Dame will have its first practice, Saturday January 19 at 6:15 p.m. in the wrestling room of the ACC. Old members are encouraged to attend. New members, whether advanced or beginners, are welcome. For more information call Ray (288-3108). — The Observer

A 5K road run will be held tomorrow in South Bend. The run will be sponsored by the Sports Medicine Program of the Saint Joseph's Medical Center and the Student Athletic Council of the South Bend Community College. The race will be held Monday at 10 a.m. at the South Bend Community College on the Notre Dame Campus. The race is free and open to all. — The Observer

Notre Dame football players appeared in several all-star bowl games before break. John Krinn and Phil Pouedereau played together or the East squad in the annual East/West Shrine Game. Pouedereau was also selected to play in the New Japan Bowl. Co-captain Bob Crable chose to appear in only the Hula Bowl. Joe Granite was also chosen for the annual Blue/Grey Game clash. — The Observer

Spring lacrosse participants must sign up for weight training. Sign up for this trip, please bring a second deposit of $50.00 to the Student Union ticket office by Monday, January 18. If you have already signed up for this trip, please be sure to deposit $50.00 to the ticket office by Monday. — The Observer

College basketball games

CHAMPAIGN, III. (AP) — Ron Stokes hit two free throws with 0:21 remaining and Milt Barnaby added one with 1:05 left to lift Ohio State to a 51-50 win over Illinois in Big Ten basketball. Stokes' 11 points, foiled by Illinois guard Perry Rage. His score tied the game at 47-47 with two seconds left and Jim Markal made the remaining two free throws.

The Illini remained close in the second half, and Scott Roth's jump shot with 1:44 left gave them a 54-53 lead at the point 46-58 with 6:48 remaining. However, Northwestern then went on a 9-2 run to lead 58-53. Wisconsin's only points during the dry spell came on two free throws by Blackwell and a 20-foot jumper by senior guard John Bailey with 1:30 left.

Suck added 13, Michael Jenkins 12 and, senior forward Andre Goode 10 for the Wildcats. Freshman guard Carl Golston had 12 and Bailey 10 for Wisconsin.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota's 7-3 center Randy Breder scored 22 of Minnesota's 16-58 over Purdue, in a first-round game in the Big Ten basketball action.

The Gophers, who upped their record to 8-2 and 2-1 in the Big Ten, broke open a tight game midway in the first half. It was the Gophers' 15th loss for Iowa, which fell to 10-2 overall and 2-1 in the conference.

Mississippi fell behind the Haw­keyes, 3-4, at the half but caught in the second half and whittled out a three-point lead. Then, with less than 4:00 remaining. John Bruce made a foul shot and completed a four-point spread.

From that point, Mississippi built its lead to 13. The Hawkeyes came back to cut the lead to six but could get no closer as they were forced to foul in the closing minutes.

Gerry Landroo Asian led the Haw­keys with 14, followed by Boyle with 10. Breder, another Gopher player in double figures were Gary Hodges and Darryl Mitchell with 10 each.

The Hawkeyes only 37 per­cent from the field but 8-3 from the free throw line, while Illinois is 7-10. — The Observer

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Indiana improved to 9-1 in Big Ten basketball action over Illinois in Big Ten basketball action.

30-21 at intermission after a techni­cal foul was called on Wisconsin's Oscar Abdul-Fate in the first half. After a second, left and Jim Markal made the remaining two free throws.

The Illini remained close in the second half, and Scott Roth's jump shot with 1:44 left gave them a 54-53 lead at the point 46-58 with 6:48 remaining. However, Northwestern then went on a 9-2 run to lead 58-53. Wisconsin's only points during the dry spell came on two free throws by Blackwell and a 20-foot jumper by senior guard John Bailey with 1:30 left.

Suck added 13, Michael Jenkins 12 and, senior forward Andre Goode 10 for the Wildcats. Freshman guard Carl Golston had 12 and Bailey 10 for Wisconsin.
Devine finally moving on

It's been a strange 13 months of unemployment for Dan Devine. But then, he never really was your average football coach. In fact, during his tenure at Notre Dame, virtually no one viewed him as an average anything. For every other, fan or member of the media who thought there was no one better, there was another who thought there was no one worse. He certainly could lay claim to being one of the most misunderstood men in sports.

In Dan Devine the scheming, inpet, awkward man who David Israel would write about, or rather, the sincere, dedicated football wizard a David Condon would describe? Perhaps no one is qualified to answer that question objectively.

One month from today, the 57-year-old Devine begins a new job. After 26 years as a head coach and a year of "retirement," he's taking a public relations job that was rumored to be his in early-November. He has been named the executive director of the Sun Angels Foundation, Arizona State's independent booster organization.

The appointment brings to a close an unusual year for the man who hasn't been able to escape the eye of the hurricane since coming to Notre Dame in 1975, even following his resignation in August of 1980. Even the announcement itself was surrounded by controversy. Virtually no one knew it was coming.

The week before last year's Alabama game, a report appeared in the Chicago Tribune indicating that Devine had "pleaded" for his job back, and would return for the 1981 season. The paper admitted the next day that it had been misinformed.

The past year has been a tension-filled one for Devine, the Notre Dame football program and the relationship between the two. Anti-Devine forces blamed the former coach for part of the current team's woes, saying the left Jerry Faust with little to work with. Devine supporters responded by asserting that Faust had taken virtually the same players, and turned 9-2-1 team into a 5-6 year.

Faust offered an open invitation to all former coaches to be a part of "their" team. After all, Faust told Devine, "you're family." Devine feels he made an effort to stay away from the program, perhaps because he knew some would interpret any interaction with the players as interfering. Many athletic department personnel, including certain assistant coaches, never thought much of Devine.

Once, the former coach visited practice during the preseason and sat at training table. He visited the press box and the sidelines during the Michigan game, something Devine felt was innocent enough. Once again, different interpretations of the same facts were complimented by rumors and office gossip.

The filling out occurred at mid-season, much like it had when Ara Parseghian stepped down following the 1974 season. It is safe to say that Parseghian never showed his face at a Devine practice; just as Devine has separated himself from Faust's program. "I'd say this move signifies my divorce from Notre Dame football," Devine said yesterday in a telephone interview from Tempe, Ariz., "although it probably occurred a few months ago. But I still am, and hope to continue to be, close to certain players."

But the past is the past, as Devine might say. He would just as soon look ahead to his new job, than dwell on any mistreatment he may have perceived over the past year.

Michael Orman
Sports Writer

The Sun Angels' announcement ends speculation that Devine might be heading for the vacated head coaching spot with the New England Patriots. Reports indicate the deal stumbling block them, not only for Devine, but later for USC's John Robinson, was Partor General Manager Bucky Kilroy. Sources say that Kilroy would not relinquish control of the roster, something that turns off many a head coaching prospect.

"I'd been in the NFL," he said yesterday. "I'd won in the NFL. I'd beat players like Paul Brown, Weeb Ewbank, Don Shula, Tom Landry, Chuck Knox. I hadn't won a Super Bowl (his 1972 Packers won the NFC Central, but lost to eventual conference champion Washington in the first round of the playoffs), but there wasn't anything left to prove to myself."

Speculation about Devine taking another head coach- ing position after resigning here, brought with it one obvious question. How could a man who said his reason for leaving the Irish was his health, suddenly be interested in another coaching job? "My official statement was that I left Notre Dame for personal reasons," Devine said yesterday. "Somebody questioning me led me into a health. I didn't mention Jo's health until questioned."

Mrs. Devine's health was part of his decision, he ad- mits. A victim of multiple sclerosis, Mrs. Devine was recovering from surgery in the fall of 1980 and was tem- porarily blind in one eye. "I knew in July (1980) that I could work my full shift — seven days a week, 14 hours a day — until January 1," says Devine. "I felt that after the first of the year, I wouldn't be able to go out on the road (recruiting) and do the kind of job Notre Dame deserved. But wear is a long time."

And although he never ruled out the possibility of coaching again, Devine admits, "I figured when I resigned, I was through coaching."

It seems now, that indeed, he will not coach again. His new position will keep him involved in all sports. "I'll stay close to the football program," he says. "The Executive Director is expected to attend all the games, both home and away. But the next big thing in my life is a family."

The appointment brings to a close an unusual year for the man who hasn't been able to escape the eye of the hurricane since coming to Notre Dame in 1975, even following his resignation in August of 1980. Even the announcement itself was surrounded by controversy. Virtually no one knew it was coming.

The week before last year's Alabama game, a report appeared in the Chicago Tribune indicating that Devine had "pleaded" for his job back, and would return for the 1981 season. The paper admitted the next day that it had been misinformed.

The past year has been a tension-filled one for Devine, the Notre Dame football program and the relationship between the two. Anti-Devine forces blamed the former coach for part of the current team's woes, saying the left Jerry Faust with little to work with. Devine supporters responded by asserting that Faust had taken virtually the same players, and turned 9-2-1 team into a 5-6 year.

Faust offered an open invitation to all former coaches to be a part of "their" team. After all, Faust told Devine, "you're family." Devine feels he made an effort to stay away from the program, perhaps because he knew some would interpret any interaction with the players as interfering. Many athletic department personnel, including certain assistant coaches, never thought much of Devine.

Once, the former coach visited practice during the preseason and sat at training table. He visited the press box and the sidelines during the Michigan game, something Devine felt was innocent enough. Once again, different interpretations of the same facts were complimented by rumors and office gossip.

The filling out occurred at mid-season, much like it had when Ara Parseghian stepped down following the 1974 season. It is safe to say that Parseghian never showed his face at a Devine practice; just as Devine has separated himself from Faust's program. "I'd say this move signifies my divorce from Notre Dame football," Devine said yesterday in a telephone interview from Tempe, Ariz., "although it probably occurred a few months ago. But I still am, and hope to continue to be, close to certain players."

But the past is the past, as Devine might say. He would just as soon look ahead to his new job, than dwell on any mistreatment he may have perceived over the past year.

The appointment brings to a close an unusual year for the man who hasn't been able to escape the eye of the hurricane since coming to Notre Dame in 1975, even following his resignation in August of 1980. Even the announcement itself was surrounded by controversy. Virtually no one knew it was coming.

The week before last year's Alabama game, a report appeared in the Chicago Tribune indicating that Devine had "pleaded" for his job back, and would return for the 1981 season. The paper admitted the next day that it had been misinformed.

The past year has been a tension-filled one for Devine, the Notre Dame football program and the relationship between the two. Anti-Devine forces blamed the former coach for part of the current team's woes, saying the left Jerry Faust with little to work with. Devine supporters responded by asserting that Faust had taken virtually the same players, and turned 9-2-1 team into a 5-6 year.

Faust offered an open invitation to all former coaches to be a part of "their" team. After all, Faust told Devine, "you're family." Devine feels he made an effort to stay away from the program, perhaps because he knew some would interpret any interaction with the players as interfering. Many athletic department personnel, including certain assistant coaches, never thought much of Devine.

Once, the former coach visited practice during the preseason and sat at training table. He visited the press box and the sidelines during the Michigan game, something Devine felt was innocent enough. Once again, different interpretations of the same facts were complimented by rumors and office gossip.

The filling out occurred at mid-season, much like it had when Ara Parseghian stepped down following the 1974 season. It is safe to say that Parseghian never showed his face at a Devine practice; just as Devine has separated himself from Faust's program. "I'd say this move signifies my divorce from Notre Dame football," Devine said yesterday in a telephone interview from Tempe, Ariz., "although it probably occurred a few months ago. But I still am, and hope to continue to be, close to certain players."

But the past is the past, as Devine might say. He would just as soon look ahead to his new job, than dwell on any mistreatment he may have perceived over the past year.

The appointment brings to a close an unusual year for the man who hasn't been able to escape the eye of the hurricane since coming to Notre Dame in 1975, even following his resignation in August of 1980. Even the announcement itself was surrounded by controversy. Virtually no one knew it was coming.

The week before last year's Alabama game, a report appeared in the Chicago Tribune indicating that Devine had "pleaded" for his job back, and would return for the 1981 season. The paper admitted the next day that it had been misinformed.

The past year has been a tension-filled one for Devine, the Notre Dame football program and the relationship between the two. Anti-Devine forces blamed the former coach for part of the current team's woes, saying the left Jerry Faust with little to work with. Devine supporters responded by asserting that Faust had taken virtually the same players, and turned 9-2-1 team into a 5-6 year.

Faust offered an open invitation to all former coaches to be a part of "their" team. After all, Faust told Devine, "you're family." Devine feels he made an effort to stay away from the program, perhaps because he knew some would interpret any interaction with the players as interfering. Many athletic department personnel, including certain assistant coaches, never thought much of Devine.

Once, the former coach visited practice during the preseason and sat at training table. He visited the press box and the sidelines during the Michigan game, something Devine felt was innocent enough. Once again, different interpretations of the same facts were complimented by rumors and office gossip.

The filling out occurred at mid-season, much like it had when Ara Parseghian stepped down following the 1974 season. It is safe to say that Parseghian never showed his face at a Devine practice; just as Devine has separated himself from Faust's program. "I'd say this move signifies my divorce from Notre Dame football," Devine said yesterday in a telephone interview from Tempe, Ariz., "although it probably occurred a few months ago. But I still am, and hope to continue to be, close to certain players."

But the past is the past, as Devine might say. He would just as soon look ahead to his new job, than dwell on any mistreatment he may have perceived over the past year.
A rose by any other name ...

SAN FRANCISCO — Earlier this winter they had a contest in the Bay Area to come up with a nickname for Joe Montana. Now, they may go back to the one he already had.

Notre Dame's "Comeback Kid" brought his team back against the mighty Dallas Cowboys last Friday, and now, just three years out of college, he's leading his team to the Super Bowl.

The confidence that the Beaver Falls, Pa., native displayed during his collegiate career, when he pulled off come-from-behind wins with regularity, has made him one of the top signal-callers in the NFL.

"Before the game Joe was just sitting there with his earphones on," said the 49ers Keith Fahrborn after the 28-27 win in last Sunday's NFC Championship. "He had won a national championship in college, so this was no big thing to him."

"I had never won any damn thing. He calmed me down," Montana said.

Montana had the same effect on the entire team.

"I swear to God I knew we were going to score when we were at our 11," said Fahrborn of the deciding touchdown drive. "I don't think one guy in the huddle felt any other way around there."

Contests in San Diego did not.

"I was very confident in the huddle," the All-Pro quarterback said. "We had to move the ball and we knew we could.

Even the thought of a dream-ending interception didn't phase Montana.

"I can't worry about those things," he said. "That's when you start to throw them."

Frequent Walls, the Cowboys' rookie defensive back, who had intercepted two of Montana's passes before the fatal drive, shrugged off the thought of any deciding issue.

"That doesn't stop Joe Montana. He's a gambler. He takes all the chances he has to win."

With time running out last week, Montana took the biggest chance of his pro career.

On the Dallas six-yard line, third down, three yards to go, and with "Too Tall" Jones and Randy White bearing down on him, Montana pumped faked.

"That fake was the difference," said one Cowboy after Montana's 14-yard touchdown run. "I can't believe he had enough cool to fake when he had a couple of guys like that coming at him."

Just as he had enough cool to find Kris Haines alone in the end zone to cap a miraculous 55-34 Cotton Bowl win over Houston. And as he had been level-headed enough to engineer similar comebacks against Air Force, Purdue and Southern Cal.

"When I released the ball, I knew it was high," Montana said in the lockerroom. "But I didn't know it was up that high — where Dwight Clark would have to jump three feet off the ground for it."

"I saw the catch for the first time on television. It was an unbelievable catch."

And not a bad throw. First time there was the pump fake, and then the way Montana led the ball just out of reach of any defenders. Post-game quotes aside, a possible interception was very much on his mind. Since it was only third down, he knew he had another shot at getting the ball in the end zone, and he was not going to take any chances.

As Walls said, Montana gambles just enough to win.

"He's an exceptional athlete and an outstanding quarterback," beamed San Francisco Head Coach Bill Walsh. But Notre Dame fans already knew that.

SMC women win again at home

By DAVE WILSON
Sports Writer

The Saint Mary's basketball team picked up its fifth victory against four losses Wednesday night with a combined 90-81 triumph over both IUPU-Fort Wayne in Angela Athletic Facility. Although plagued with injuries and illness three weeks for the holiday break, the Belles returned to action in good form, and seemingly ready to face the remainder of a busy schedule ahead.

The Belles emerged out to an eight-point lead midway through the first half, and extended that margin to 10 by halftime, leading 34-24. A recklessly second-half performance by the opposition allowed the Belles to continue building a lead they never relinquished.

The contest was a costly one, as both teams picked up injuries. Freshman guard Kathy Murphy slipped late in the second half and apparently injured her arm, although the extent of that injury is unknown. With a number of team members already injured and the loss of freshman Mary Van Oor for academic reasons, Dandurand managed to use all of his players, and just about every one scored.

Mary Pat Stillington led the Belles with 14 points, followed consistently by the Gretchin Meyer and Cyndi Short with 15 and 11 points respectively. Freshman guard Kathy Murphy slipped late in the second half and apparently injured her arm, although the extent of that injury is unknown. With a number of team members already injured and the loss of freshman Mary van Oor for academic reasons, Dandurand managed to use all of his players, and just about every one scored.

Mary Pat Stillington led the Belles with 14 points, followed consistently by the Gretchin Meyer and Cyndi Short with 15 and 11 points respectively. Freshman guard Kathy Murphy slipped late in the second half and apparently injured her arm, although the extent of that injury is unknown. With a number of team members already injured and the loss of freshman Mary van Oor for academic reasons, Dandurand managed to use all of his players, and just about every one scored.

Mary Pat Stillington led the Belles with 14 points, followed consistently by the Gretchin Meyer and Cyndi Short with 15 and 11 points respectively. Freshman guard Kathy Murphy slipped late in the second half and apparently injured her arm, although the extent of that injury is unknown. With a number of team members already injured and the loss of freshman Mary van Oor for academic reasons, Dandurand managed to use all of his players, and just about every one scored.

Mary Pat Stillington led the Belles with 14 points, followed consistently by the Gretchin Meyer and Cyndi Short with 15 and 11 points respectively. Freshman guard Kathy Murphy slipped late in the second half and apparently injured her arm, although the extent of that injury is unknown. With a number of team members already injured and the loss of freshman Mary van Oor for academic reasons, Dandurand managed to use all of his players, and just about every one scored.

Mary Pat Stillington led the Belles with 14 points, followed consistently by the Gretchin Meyer and Cyndi Short with 15 and 11 points respectively. Freshman guard Kathy Murphy slipped late in the second half and apparently injured her arm, although the extent of that injury is unknown. With a number of team members already injured and the loss of freshman Mary van Oor for academic reasons, Dandurand managed to use all of his players, and just about every one scored.

Mary Pat Stillington led the Belles with 14 points, followed consistently by the Gretchin Meyer and Cyndi Short with 15 and 11 points respectively. Freshman guard Kathy Murphy slipped late in the second half and apparently injured her arm, although the extent of that injury is unknown. With a number of team members already injured and the loss of freshman Mary van Oor for academic reasons, Dandurand managed to use all of his players, and just about every one scored.

Mary Pat Stillington led the Belles with 14 points, followed consistently by the Gretchin Meyer and Cyndi Short with 15 and 11 points respectively. Freshman guard Kathy Murphy slipped late in the second half and apparently injured her arm, although the extent of that injury is unknown. With a number of team members already injured and the loss of freshman Mary van Oor for academic reasons, Dandurand managed to use all of his players, and just about every one scored.
By ERIAL RIX

Sportswriter

Joe Piane is proud of the steady improvement of the Notre Dame Track Team he has coached for the past seven years. Despite the low of All-America Chuck Aragon to graduation, Piane expects this year to be no exception.

"Our team is a hell of a lot more balanced than ever before," says Piane. He points to the numbers of 7-2 high jumper Chuck Constable, and sprinter Mitch Vafflden, both freshmen from North Babylon, New York, from which seniors Jacques Eady and Jim Christian also hail.

"It's a pretty young team," says Piane. "The athletes themselves are of a higher caliber than they were in the past. You can't recruit a great athlete unless you have someone for them to run with. We now can because the team is improving.

Another freshman of whom great things are expected is Van Peary of Andrews, Texas. Peary's knee is now mending following arthroscopic knee surgery in December. "He won't be running much till February, but nevertheless he will be a big asset for us -- and making a really good strong contribution by March," says Piane.

Freshmen Jim Tyler and Tim Can-non are expected to help the Irish in middle-distance events, where they will join All-America Tim Macagny, Jim Mayor, Tom Harkerby and senior tri-captain Rick Rogers. They will have a tough time living up to Aragon's performances of a year ago.

Piane feels the seniors will be vastly better than last year. There Bernie Adell, Mitch Vaffliden, Peary, Steve Daizion, and senior tri-captain Jacques Eady will share the chores. John McCloough will run the high hurdles and Bill Ribera will try to fill the shoes of Tim Twadpole in the intermediate hurdles.

The distance careers of sopho-mores Andy Dillon and Ralph Caron and juniors Tim Novak and Tim Banwaiter is one year older, and, Piane hopes, one year better.

The field events traditionally have not been Notre Dame's strong point. They have been considerably strengthened this year. Four years ago we had nobody jumping over 22 feet. Now we have four guys jump-ing past 25 feet and two of them have gone over 24 feet. That's as good as anybody, says Piane. Senior tri-captain decathllete Paul Doyle, a freshman James Patterson, and pos-ibly Pearcy will long jump. Doyle and Steve Cronomer will pole vault, and Constable will be a valuable ad-dition as a high jumper. Doyle, Frank Resly, George Pestac, Kevin Merey, and freshman footballer Bobby Fin-negan will add strength in the field events.

The Irish will have their first taste of competition at a low-key, non-scoring, ten-team meet at Purdue tomorrow.

On Sunday at the Rosemont Park Hotel, about 11 Irish trackmen will have a chance to compete against some of the world's greatest track athletes. John McCloough will have a chance to test his hur-dling speed against the two top hurdlers in the world, Renaldo Horvath and Bill Ribera. Constable will go to high jump again Dwight Stones. Steve Oba-tive will run the 600 and Ralph Caron will run the 3-mile against tough competitors.

The Irish will also field one-mile and two-mile relay teams in this prestigious meet, called the Good- will Games.

continued from page 12

Ronda Rompola, a 5-9 senior for-ward from Sayerville, N.J., averaged 18.7 points and 8 rebounds a contest for St. Francis.

"They have only one inside player, Rompola to do everything," Di- tillmans says. "We'll have to make an excep­tional defensive effort to stop her."

Rompola played on two national championship teams at Old Dominion before transferring to SMU for personal reasons. She is playing her first season for Coach Wollet Brown.

"SMU, like St. Francis, is not as tall as we are," says Dillman. "They will be changing defenses constantly to cover all 5." field guards"

IRISH ITEMS -- Junior Irish for- ward Shari Marvey set another Notre Dame career record during the road trip ... Marvey, who already holds several Irish scoring records (including most points in a career.), is now the leading rebounder in Irish history ... Marvey surpassed Jane Poinsin's record of 86 rebounds during the trium­phant victory over Marquette in the cham­pionship game of the DIll Classic ...

Four freshmen are at the top of the Irish scoring list. Ruth Kaiser, Mary Beth Schacht, and Carrie Bates are each averaging over 11 points a game, and Laura Dougherty is averaging 9.5 ppg .... Schacht leads all rebounders, averaging 10 a game.

Beginning with Sunday's contest with SMU, Notre Dame plays five out of the next six games at home.

Women

SPORTS WRITERS

come to a meeting of ALL SPORTS WRITERS Monday at 6:30 pm.

It's not too late to subscribe

Mail your order today!
The Observer Weekend

Molarity

Michael Molinelli

Doonesbury

Garry Trudeau

Simon

Jeb Cashin

The Daily Crossword

ACROSS
1. Slow
2. 9:ACROSS
3. Expel
4. Ripe
5. Top dog?
6. Sip
7. Spring
8. Supporting beam
9. 1:30 Down
10. Ham's relative
11. 2:30 Down
12. Skater (rest)
13. 3:00 Down
14. Edged, e.g.
15. "#Chop suey" composer
16. Geisha
17. Mentally handicapped
18. 4:00 Down
19. 5:00 Down
20. Top banana?
21. Behind the Screen
22. Falcon
23. Balcony
24. Depression
25. "The Twist" and "The Thinker"
28. Sour, as milk
30. Squeal
33. Expert
34. Briistle
35. Trig term
36. Top dog?
39. Kalep and anal
40. Regrets
41. Spring bloom
42. Voice vote
43. Sailing manuever
44. Mesa Valley
45. The tops
46. Top of the year
47. The tops
48. "Ovation"
51. Pest
54. Essayist Charles
55. Succulash beans
56. Sacred Egyptian bull
58. Malicious
59. Maiden name
60. Bigfoot's state
61. Exist
62. Cause
63. Coach
64. The tops
65. Coke
66. Down
67. Watch
68. Attachment
69. Chancelor
70. Raisin -
71. Hayseed
72. Eyes
73. Milieu
74. "Tribute to a nation"
75. "Howl"
76. Truck and trailer
77. Big loss
78. "Everett"
79. "The great American songbook"
80. "The Dick Cavett Show"
81. "Arthur"
82. "The Tonight Show"
83. "The Dick Cavett Show"
84. "The Dick Cavett Show"
85. "The Dick Cavett Show"
86. "The Dick Cavett Show"
87. "The Dick Cavett Show"
88. "The Dick Cavett Show"
89. "The Dick Cavett Show"
90. "The Dick Cavett Show"
91. "The Dick Cavett Show"
92. "The Dick Cavett Show"
93. "The Dick Cavett Show"
94. "The Dick Cavett Show"
95. "The Dick Cavett Show"
96. "The Dick Cavett Show"
97. "The Dick Cavett Show"
98. "The Dick Cavett Show"
99. "The Dick Cavett Show"
100. "The Dick Cavett Show"
101. "The Dick Cavett Show"

Down
1. "Tonight Show"
2. "The Tonight Show"
3. "The Tonight Show"
4. "The Tonight Show"
5. "The Tonight Show"
6. "The Tonight Show"
7. "The Tonight Show"
8. "The Tonight Show"
9. "The Tonight Show"
10. "The Tonight Show"
11. "The Tonight Show"
12. "The Tonight Show"
13. "The Tonight Show"
14. "The Tonight Show"
15. "The Tonight Show"
16. "The Tonight Show"
17. "The Tonight Show"
18. "The Tonight Show"
19. "The Tonight Show"
20. "The Tonight Show"
21. "The Tonight Show"
22. "The Tonight Show"
23. "The Tonight Show"
24. "The Tonight Show"
25. "The Tonight Show"
26. "The Tonight Show"
27. "The Tonight Show"
28. "The Tonight Show"
29. "The Tonight Show"
30. "The Tonight Show"
31. "The Tonight Show"
32. "The Tonight Show"
33. "The Tonight Show"
34. "The Tonight Show"
35. "The Tonight Show"
36. "The Tonight Show"
37. "The Tonight Show"
38. "The Tonight Show"
39. "The Tonight Show"
40. "The Tonight Show"
41. "The Tonight Show"
42. "The Tonight Show"
43. "The Tonight Show"
44. "The Tonight Show"
45. "The Tonight Show"
46. "The Tonight Show"
47. "The Tonight Show"
48. "The Tonight Show"
49. "The Tonight Show"
50. "The Tonight Show"
51. "The Tonight Show"
52. "The Tonight Show"
53. "The Tonight Show"
54. "The Tonight Show"
55. "The Tonight Show"
56. "The Tonight Show"
57. "The Tonight Show"
58. "The Tonight Show"
59. "The Tonight Show"
60. "The Tonight Show"
61. "The Tonight Show"
62. "The Tonight Show"
63. "The Tonight Show"
64. "The Tonight Show"
65. "The Tonight Show"
66. "The Tonight Show"
67. "The Tonight Show"
68. "The Tonight Show"
69. "The Tonight Show"
70. "The Tonight Show"
71. "The Tonight Show"
72. "The Tonight Show"
73. "The Tonight Show"
74. "The Tonight Show"
75. "The Tonight Show"
76. "The Tonight Show"
77. "The Tonight Show"
78. "The Tonight Show"
79. "The Tonight Show"
80. "The Tonight Show"
81. "The Tonight Show"
82. "The Tonight Show"
83. "The Tonight Show"
84. "The Tonight Show"
85. "The Tonight Show"
86. "The Tonight Show"
87. "The Tonight Show"
88. "The Tonight Show"
89. "The Tonight Show"
90. "The Tonight Show"
91. "The Tonight Show"
92. "The Tonight Show"
93. "The Tonight Show"
94. "The Tonight Show"
95. "The Tonight Show"
96. "The Tonight Show"
97. "The Tonight Show"
98. "The Tonight Show"
99. "The Tonight Show"
100. "The Tonight Show"
101. "The Tonight Show"

Thursday's Solution

Welcome Back to the Notre Dame Senior Bar this weekend open Fri. & Sat. 9:30-2:00

Television Tonight

7 p.m.
16 MASH
22 CNN News
28 Joke's Wild
34 "The MacNeil/Lehrer Report"
46 "In Touch"
8:30 p.m.
16 All in the Family
22 Family Feud
28 "The>Date Drought"
34 "straight Talk"
9 p.m.
10 NBC Magazine
22 "Dukes of Hazzard"
28 Benson
34 "Walking Week in Review"
46 "Let's Summarize Teaching"
10 p.m.
16 "Let's Summarize Teaching"
22 "Dukes of Hazzard"
28 Benson
34 "Walking Week in Review"
46 "Let's Summarize Teaching"

Campus

Friday, Jan. 15

* 7 p.m. — Auditions, ND/SMC Theatre, Spring Season, Washington Hall, All are invited, No experience necessary
* 10:45 a.m. — Meeting, Volunteer Services, Memorial Library Auditorium
* 1:45 p.m. — Basketball, Notre Dame Men vs. Davidson, ACC
* 5:45 p.m. — Hockey, Notre Dame at Michigan State
* 7:45 p.m. — Film, Arthur, Carroll Hall, Saint Mary's College, Sponsored by Student Activities Programming Board, Free admission

Saturday, Jan. 16

* 10:45 a.m. — Meeting, Volunteer Services, Memorial Library Auditorium
* 1:45 p.m. — Basketball, Notre Dame Men vs. Davidson, ACC
* 5:45 p.m. — Hockey, Notre Dame at Michigan State
* 7:45 p.m. — Film, Arthur, Carroll Hall, Saint Mary's College, Sponsored by Student Activities Programming Board, Free admission

Sunday, Jan. 17

* 1:45 p.m. — Meeting, Urban Plunge, Memorial Library Auditorium, Sponsored by Center for Experiential Learning

The Best That You Can Do"
Tonight at 9:30 is see
ARTHUR
Come on in out of the cold!
Only one showing at 9:30
Admission $1

Welcome back to the Notre Dame Senior Bar this weekend open Fri. & Sat. 9:30-2:00

Monday, January 15, 1980 — page 11
The recent Great Lakes Tournament, has reduced Bob McNamara's role to that of a very talented backup. (photo by John Moran)