Burke Yonchak lead but runoffs planned

Lloyd Burke and Bob Yonchak garnered 47.8 percent of the vote, more than any other SBP-SRP ticket but not enough for an outright win, as 50 percent plus one vote was required. Burke and Yonchak, along with Maureen Burum finished with 31.5 percent, including victories in Primary North, Division, and South districts. Burke said he was surprised that he did not win, but he was pleased with the support he received.

The results from Student Senate District 1 and 2 also came out overwhelmingly in favor of Burke and Yonchak, garnering 46.1 percent and 46.9 percent respectively. Burke thanked his campaign team for their hard work and dedication. He also expressed his gratitude to the voters for their support.

The Students Senate race was the only one that went to a runoff, with the runoff elections scheduled for Tuesday, February 9.

Japanese airliner crashes, 147 survive

TOKYO (AP) — A Japan Air Lines DC-10 with 174 people aboard crashed yesterday into the shallows of Tokyo Bay just short of a runway at Haneda Airport. Police said at least 12 people were killed and 147 were rescued — 81 of them injured.

The aircraft smashed into the bay in two feet of water at 2:14 a.m. Official said the nose broke off and the tail was left on the bottom. It was on a domestic flight from Haneda to the southern city of Fukuoka.

Helicopters rushed to the scene, and fishing boats were mobilized to rescue passengers and crew members.

JAL spokesman J. W. Rhat said the reservations list contained 170 Japanese names. Of the 147 survivors, 166 passengers and eight crew members were rescued.

The police also rescued 46 people from the water. A total of 210 passengers and crew members were aboard the plane.

The pilots of the DC-10, which was on a domestic flight, had already signaled to the airport that there was an emergency.

Keenan fixes houses for needy

Cindy Coldiron

Staff Reporter

When a fire in 1979 destroyed Notre Dame, Fr. Sorin reportedly announced that "this was a sign from God that we have dreamed our dreams too small and it is time to dream even bigger dreams while we are rebuilding.

Fr. Richard Conyers and the students of Keenan House now consider these words with much inspiration. The group from Keenan presently has four houses in the Northwest One neighborhood (Holy Cross Parish area) in South Bend which they have rebuilt and rehoused with needy families.

Fr. Conyers remarked that "our goal is to have as many as ten homes and we would like to expand our housing.

"We sell these houses to people on a land contract basis," Fr. Conyers continued, "and charge them what they can afford. If these homes were of no cost to the people, then they would be of little value psychologically or socially to them."

Fr. Conyers said that "if an extended period of time of paying rent, for example twelve years, we give them a quit-claim deed and they can do whatever they want with the property. Hopefully, after this period of time, the families will be stable in their lives and can realize a profit on their investment or move into a better home.

When asked who determines what families will live in these homes, Fr. Conyers stated that these families don't usually come to the Keenan group but rather they are referred by people they know who feel qualified to live in the homes. For example, people would have no chance at home to live in a neighborhood which Fr. Conyers believes is important to rescue neighborhoods and to help society.

"We have the advantage of the low cost of our student volunteer labor," he said. "One time we had ninety guys working on one of the homes on a Saturday. Fifty-two students have many skills available to us and they realize that the essential value in life is responding to people's needs."
The detention of Professor Kosimierz Braun in Poland has been called a "cancellation of the Shakespeare comedy" as originally planned as this year's final production of the ND-SMC Theatrem. An alternate presentation is being planned. Braun was scheduled to join the ND-SMC Communications and Theatre Department at the beginning of the semester. Department officials have had no communication with Professor Braun for several days. He is not permitted to leave the country and is being held in a building near Warsaw. "His situation is unknown," said an associate professor of the department says "an alternate presentation is in the planning stages. What it will include has not been determined. We would like to do something, such as a Polish play, that presents our feeling for what has happened in Poland." — The Observer

China plans an extensive governmental-retrenchment that includes cutting the number of vice prefects from 16 to two or three and scrapping a system that requires students to leave their jobs for life, an authoritative leftist Hong Kong newspaper reported yesterday. It was the most detailed report yet on the Communist leadership's plan to cut down China's monumental bureaucracy, which many senior Chinese officials blame for stalling the country's drive to modernization. For the year 2000. The Hong Kong Chinese-language daily newspaper Ta Kung Pao, which reflects the official Communist Party line in Peking, said the program was "revolutionary" and of paramount importance to the "face of the country and the party." — AP

A Swiss executive jet was hit by Palestinian anti-aircraft fire aimed at Israeli warplanes over Beirut yesterday and made an emergency landing, the state radio reported. Pilot Paul Keller, his co-pilot and four passengers were unharmed after the twin-engine 36-A larjett, operated by the Geneva firm Aero Leasing, flew into a barrage of gunfire while approaching the airport. The left wing and fuselage were hit, Keller said. He estimated damage at $4 million. Keller said he had come to Beirut to pick up someone, but was told he could not land. He said business was hit there across their faces to avoid identification. Police said the guerrillas attacked at least 22 between 6:30 a.m. and noon in the capital, and staged similar raids in Santa Ana and San Vicente. — AP Leftist guerrillas in El Salvador, wearing handkerchief masks forced passengers off buses in three cities yesterday and burned the vehicles or shot up their tires, police and witnesses said. No one was hurt in the attacks, but at least a dozen people were taken to hospital in hysterics, police said. There were no reports of any deaths or the guerrillas, all apparently in their teens, who made an emergency landing, the state radio reported. John Hay "Jock" Whitney, 82, founder of the Museum of Manassas, N.Y., a newspaper publisher, movie producer, diplomat and one of the nation's wealthiest men, died yesterday at the age of 77. Whitney, who created and operated the successful Hysterical Horse Stables, died at his home in Manassas, Va. He had been in frail health for a year. Born to a family that established itself in the New World in 1635, Whitney was worth an estimated $50 million. Keller estimated that his estate after 1979, when he suffered a setback from a heart ailment, was worth $1 million. Keller said he had come to Beirut to pick up someone, but was told he could not land. He said business was hit there across their faces to avoid identification. The Dream of an extended weekend, and legally sleeping through Monday morning was shattered quickly after the administration realized that students had no intention of attending classes. The following morning, Mary Helen (N) Gent, resident life director, felt a bit suspicious that Dean Rice, her telephone, and the school closure form were called the Dean who denied cancelling Monday's classes. Through the work of the Hall Directors and the Resident Advisors, students were told that they should be in attendance for classes the following day.

In another humorous attempt to out-smart the administration, the supposed school closing. It was a dandy good try, though. When students go to such lengths to get one snow day off from school, it makes me question the Administration's decisions that were made a school closing. A recent Observer article stated that much careful thought and consideration went into the decision of closing a school or keeping it open for the day.

Exactly how much ice and snow must accumulate on the streets to close a major university or college? South Bend, Ind. has been hit with weather conditions that make it safe to drive. Almost every weekend thus far, the South Bend police department has declared driving hazardous. In some instances, tickets were issued to people who drove their cars on city streets.
WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan formally sent Congress his 1983 spending plan yesterday, eliciting Democratic criticism that his is a budget for the rich. "It is not true," he insisted.

The $797.6 billion proposal signed by the president projects deficit-of-$98.6 billion this year and $91.5 billion for the fiscal year that starts Oct. 1.

Reagan said he hasn't given up his no-deal stance of bringing the budget into balance, but this plan, more than his last, encountered bit-ter rhetoric from Democrats and open acknowledgement by Republican leaders that it won't get through Congress unscathed.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., Reagan's chief Democratic antagonist, changed after a short courtesy briefing at the White House that the budget shows the president "has forgotten his roots (and) associated with that country club style of people."

"We," Reagan countered during a signing ceremony in the Oval Office. "I've only played golf once since I've been president, and he's an inveterate golfer, and I'm sure he has to go to a country club to play."

As he signed the first of two green-bound copies of the budget book with a ceremonial pen, Reagan quipped: "That will be weekend work for Tip O'Neill."

"I'll send the pen with it," Reagan added, "because he may want to make some further cuts in it."

Senate Democratic leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia called the budget "shocking." Democratic leader Jim Wright, reacting to Reagan's presentation by saying, "Mr. President, I just have to say to you I disagree with about 80 percent of what you said."

"The president didn't yield at all," Wright said.

But the two politicians didn't let their policy dispute interfere with their social friendship. At a luncheon Reagan hosted for the National Hockey League, Baker Jr. and House Republican leader Robert Michel predicted Reagan would get some -- if not all -- of what he requested.

"If this president's budget, perhaps with some modifications, is going to be passed," Baker told reporters after the signing ceremony, "the essence of it is you can't keep going the way we are."

"That doesn't mean the president will get every last bit that he's asked for," Michel added.

Bread rationing likely under martial law

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The military government announced plans yesterday to move Poland deeper into the Soviet economic sphere and said a critical grain shortage may require bread rationing.

The martial law regime imposed Dec. 13 also said tight controls will be applied to any revival of the Solidarity union, which it again accused of having been manipulated by anti-communists.

The plans were published in newspapers today in the form of a communiqué by the Council of Ministers to Premier Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski. Also carried was a Polish news agency report from Rome on Polish Catholic Prime Minister Archbishop Jozef Glemp's statement Sunday that there would be a place for Solidarity in Poland if its spokesmen would obey the law.

The Council of Ministers communiqué said the martial law regime is designed to improve wages, housing, food supply and opportunities for youth. Details were not spelled out.

The communiqué stressed Poland must rely less on the West for imports and change its factory output to reflect that, must reduce trade with socialist allies, and become self-sufficient in food production.

The announcement appeared to be a clear turn away from the West, which already holds an estimated $26.5 billion in Polish debt.

inex jobs and where and when to apply.

According to Shook, there will be approximately 200 positions on campus this summer. The majority of the interviewing and job offers will take place between April 15 and the end of the semester.

"This is usually a demand for summer jobs but because of the economy and how availability of jobs in other areas, the demand is even higher," Shook said. "Many students keep jobs if they go back home, chances for jobs will be slim.

Summer jobs will be given on a priority basis with Notre Dame students at the top of the list. Offers include jobs in labs, offices, dining halls, and groundskeeping.

After last night's 65-44 throttling of DePauw University, one would think that DePauw's basketball team is more than ready for the post-season play that will be coming up at the end of this month.

The Belles are looking no further than the upcoming weekend, however, when they will travel north on Friday to face the powerhouse Wisconsin-Green Bay Tournament.

"We're going to face a couple of tough teams this weekend," said SMC basketball coach Jerry Dallessio.

"We'll think about post-season who we've got to worry about some of those Division II teams in the Wisconsin northerns.

"We'll have a couple of good practices Thursday and a practice game on Thursday, so the team ought to be ready by the weekend.

As for last night's content, the Belles seemingly could do no wrong as they boosted their record to 8-10 this year. SMC matched the Tigers in an immediate four-point duel before regaining off five straight field goals. DePauw lost the final 106-64 game through a barrage of minutes of action.

Despite the fact that DePauw, who was committing no less than 15 turnovers in the meantime, pulled no closer than 15 points, the Belles were able to keep their record back up to the 500 mark. The team then will return next week for a couple of home contests.

NHL All-Stars go head-to-head

When Irish trivia buffs think about Notre Dame, football players in the big leagues, usually one and maybe two names come to mind -- Carl Panamendola and perhaps Ron Reed. One more former ND star returned to the campus last week -- Chicago White Sox slugger Greg Luzinski.

No. "The Bull" never played on Jake Kline Field, or any other diamond as a collegiate. His Notre Dame experience took place at Notre Dame High School in Niles, Ill. But his ties to South Bend's Notre Dame are numerous, and the 31-year-old Medford, N.J., resident lists them with great pride.

"I've always been a die-hard Notre Dame fan," the nine-year veteran admitted last week when he caught Caithilson Frk, outfielder-first baseman Tom Paciorek and Manager Tony La Russa stopped in South Bend as part of the team's promotional caravan through northern Indiana.

"I spent the day on campus visiting with some old friends.

Luzinski lists among his Notre Dame contacts people from varied walks of campus life -- football administrative assistant Joe Youski, basketball coach Digger Phelps and Vice-President of Student Affairs Fr. John Van Wolfer.

When Luzinski arrived at Notre Dame High as a freshman in 1964, it was Van Wolfer, then that school's principal, who saw to it that the young football player, who wouldn't be able to stay at Notre Dame. "I got him a job in the school cafeteria to help him pay his way through," Van Wolfer recalls. "That was when he needed to work," he adds with a chuckle, considering the half million dollar-plus salary Luzinski now receives annually.

Throughout his high school career, "The Bull" was a two-sport standout. As a linemanbacker and halfback in football, he received offers from 150 colleges, including Notre Dame Youski, who had left Notre Dame high school after the 1963 season to take the defensive line job here, was among the many in the nest for the most sought after halfback in the Midwest in 1964.

So was another member of the current Notre Dame staff. "When I visited campus today (Wednesday), I met (linebacker coach) George Kel-ly, Luzinski related. "He remem-bered me when he was on the staff at Techs."

Add to all of this the fact that two of Luzinski's high school coaches, Danny Conaway and Alan Langer, played halfback and linebacker, respectively, for Ara Parseghian during his first two years here. It's little wonder that Gregory Michael Luzinski had "Golden Dome" written all over him.

As it was, the multi-talented younger said "thanks but no thanks" to his football suitors. "I told them there was no sense in me sig-ning a letter of intent," he recalls, "because I felt that I would be a number-one draft choice (of the Philadelphia Phillies) and that would probably be the route I'd pursue.

He was, and he did. Luzinski moved quickly through the minor leagues, reaching the majors with the Phillies late in the 1970 season. And it was just about his early years in the City of Brotherly Love that he met another Notre Dame person -- Digger Phelps. ("I got to know him through a sports writer friend of mine.") Phelps, who spent four years as an assistant coach at the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia, before a year as head man at Fordham and then on to Notre Dame, has been a close friend of Luzinski's ever since.

During this past football season, Luzinski appeared with the Southern Cal-Pep rally, down to town for the game. Over Christmas break, Luzinski had the opportunity to visit, and still have some talk to a Notre Dame group, and he calls that "one of the finest experiences I've had to date.

Luzinski had driven down to Lan- doesn't think that the Saint Mary's basketball conference is a "thanks but no thanks" for Luzinski to have played football as well.

"I have great respect for those kids who played football, but if Luzinski were to have played as well, I think that the Saint Mary's basketball conference would probably be the route I'd pursue.

At halftime the Belles were sitting on a remarkable 39-16 margin, prompting Dallessio to ease off on an effective Belles defense for about a quarter, through a sports writer friend of mine." Phelps, ("I Luzinski's former Notre Dame ties were cemented last week when he attended the annual Notre Dame College of Education alumni dinner at theHilton Inn, downtown South Bend, on a Tuesday night.
