Infant formula INFANT, Nestle debate issues

By VIC SCIULLI

Infant formula should not be used where it can cause parents to use it at present in the general population," said Cornell University research professor of nutrition and infant formula in a debate in the library auditorium.

Van Ertelt, along with Rick Hoyt, represented the Infant Formula Action Coalition in the debate with Nestle Corporation. Speaking on behalf of Nestle were Dr. Thad M. Jackson, Vice-president for Nutrition and Development at Nestle Coordination Center, and his wife Betty Jackson, a nutritionist for Nestle.

In her speech on objections to the formula, Van Ertelt said that Nestle has a "false image of the public," that the media is too biased, and that Nestle has "paid to advertise in the media." She also said that Nestle is "paid to advertise in the media."

Mr. and Mrs. Thelma Jackson, a nutritionist for Nestle Coordination Center for Nutrition, discussed the problems faced by women raising families in the third world.

The promotion of infant formula, Van Ertelt said, should be limited. These limitations should include areas where purchase of the formula results in too much of a family's income; areas where the rate of infant mortality is high, and areas where a special value is placed on breast-feeding.

In his answering speech, Jackson discussed a study done by the World Health Organization which allegedly showed no causal relation between breast-feeding decisions and aggressive marketing procedures. There has been a massive move away from breast-feeding throughout the world, according to Jackson, and there is no strong evidence which shows aggressive marketing to be the exclusive cause of this trend.

Van Ertelt, in fact, admitted that conditions have improved since 1978. These changes include a curtailing of aggressive marketing procedures in the Third World. Third World mothers, however, are evaluating their breast milk deficiency for the first time. When asked what they feed their babies, many mothers apologized for "breast-feeding," adding that they have nothing better to use.

Infant formulas results in three dead

CHULA VISTA, Calif. (AP) - A quarrel over neighborhood dogs apparently provoked a four-hour siege in a mobile home community that ended with three people dead and a police officer seriously wounded, police said.

Police, firing a barrage of tear gas, struggled a mobile home Wednesday evening and found a 57-year-old retiree lying in a back bedroom, uninjured but semi-conscious and clutching a cocked pistol. Authorities said he was armed with a rifle.

Alys E. McNair, described by a neighbor as "a loner who never gave anyone any problems," was rushed to a hospital Wednesday night and listed in non-critical condition, officials said. He was thought to be suffering from shock.

A witness said McNair was killed in the first volley of gunfire as he ran out the window and saw two people lying on a bed in a rear bedroom. He walked to his car from his mother's trailer with a dog in his arms.

Melvin said McNair had quarreled with Mrs. Castro, complaining that her dogs were noisy.

Mrs. Castro, who lived next door to McNair, was killed as she ran from her trailer home to investigate the shooting, said Melvin, who was batonning at the time from the "gangster," just kept shooting and shooting.

Mrs. Gerad was killed after driving into the area, Brown said.

Although Melvin said McNair had quarreled with Mrs. Castro, he believed that McNair was "as very quiet guy ... a loner who never gave anyone any problems.

Drown said "dozens of 100 bullets were fired, all by the suspect.

The suspect, Robert Dennis, 34, was shot in the throat. He was listed in stable condition at Bay General after undergoing surgery.

Deputy Linda Harmich was credited with saving Brown's life by dragging him to safety after he was hit by a 2.2 caliber bullet at the base of the throat, Drouo said. She had answered the initial call with Brown, Drouo said.

Just before 5 p.m., officers laid down a smoke screen, then advanced behind it with an armored van to remove one woman's body from a driveway at the Mountain View Mobile Village.

Then, officers began lobbing tear gas into a trailer they believed McNair was using. The gun was still being fired, for at least 4 minutes before the shooting stopped and the man was taken into custody.

Two just blocks from the trailer park is Landerhut Elementary School, which has some 600 students. The quake was felt from kindergarten to third grade, had been let out of school right away and had been kept away from their parents by principal Cliff Johnson, "so we had to keep them in on our way home.

The rest of the children were held at the school until their parents could come for them, Johnson said.

I just don't believe that you discuss those options on what you may or may not do.

To tip his hand, Reagan, said would reduce American leverage.

Asked whether there are any circumstances under which he might use U.S. troops, Reagan said: "Well, maybe if they dropped a bomb on the White House I might get mad.

In discussing his controversial budget proposal, Reagan left open the possibility of compromise, saying that if opponents "come up with some specific suggestions, suggest something, we'll take a look at it."

But he then added that "we cannot go back on national defense," without sending the wrong message to both allies and potential adversaries and he called his tax cut policy the "strongest thing we have to reduce productivity.

The president opened his eighth news conference by announcing that he will name a panel of private citizens to search out waste and inefficiency in the government with an eye to controlling costs.

"This will be the largest effort of its kind ever mounted to save tax dollars," Reagan said. He said the members of the volunteer panel will be named within a few days.

"I expect them to roll up their sleeves and search out waste and inefficiency ... he said. "We mean business and we intend to get results."

As he has before, Reagan said his economic policies will produce recovery from the current recession, but he added, "I'm just not going to be pinned down on a date ... to when recovery will come.

Reagan also said that high interest rates are "the greatest single threat to recovery," until the recession, major banks increased the prime rate Wednesday from 6.1 to 16.7 percent.

The president said that reflected concern that the Federal Reserve Board might cause monetary policy, and that the administration might tolerate higher deficits Reagan's own budget projects record deficits, with the figure this year estimated at $4 billion. But he said the Federal Reserve

Saint Mary's elects new student officers

By MARY BETH PORTER

Yesterday, Saint Mary's College held its annual student government elections. Kathleen Murphy, who ran unopposed, was taken into office last night for her second year as Student Body President for the 1982-1983 school year. Assembling her will be Elaine Hotter who will be re-elected as Student Secretary, and Beth Tighe, the new Vice-President of Academic Affairs. According to Mary Elizabeth Ott, the election went very well and the water turnover was terrible. In fact, she had 58 percent of the student body voting this year, the highest increase over last year," reported Miss Ott. Although Murphy's ticket was unopposed, the other ticket was also "very quiet," "no," or "abstain," and the ticket will have no further action until the next election.

Elections for Saint Mary's class of 1984 also have new officers. A special ticket in place are Beth Bunker, President, Carol Daziminski, Vice President, Mary Beth Feistel, Secretary, and Maura Kahn, Treasurer. The class of 96 also has its new officers. Denise Drake will be President, with Beth Anshorge re-elected as Secretary. Also, the class of 94 will have an office for next year's juniors will be Kathleen Jennings as Secretary and Molly Mulligan as Treasurer.

The class of 1985, however, does not have its officers yet. The Freshman class will have a runoff for its class officers on Monday. This runoff will be between the tickets of Kara Uegeman, Sharon Bousch, Helen Lucaitis, and Mary Callie Porter in the first ticket as candidates for President, Vice President, Secretary, and Treasurer, respectively, and Marie VanFeldt, Kathy Boyle, Mary Esterday, and Kelly Mullany on the opposing ticket.

The Student Body President and Vice Presidents along with the class officers will officially take office on April 1, 1982, for the upcoming school year.

Singer Dolly Parton has cancelled all performances for the next four to six weeks, including performances at the Holiday Star Theatre at Merrillville, Ind., because of emergency gynecological surgery, a woman for the entertainers announced yesterday.

"Her personal physician insists on complete rest away from work and strenuous activity for the next four to six weeks," said Beverly Magid of Solters, Roskin and Friedman, Los Angeles public relations firm. Miss Parton was scheduled for three performances March 5-6 at the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo. She was forced to cancel performances at last year's show because of problems with her vocal chords. The public relations agency also said Miss Parton would not appear at the Front Row Theater in Cleveland next month. "The agency didn't tell us any details about the operation, only that it was an emergency that suddenly arose," said Johnnie Hendon, a spokeswoman for show. — AP

Professor Seguin, director of ND's MBA management program, was seriously injured in an auto accident near Elkhart. He was reportedly unconscious for over an hour, and suffered a severe concussion. He underwent surgery twice, and has a heart condition, which complicates matters. — The Observer

A student pilot missing since Sunday on a cross-country training flight has been found near his downed plane in Baja California, the Coast Guard said. The pilot, Mark Fletcher, 25, took off near Phoenix, Ariz. on a flight to Lake Havasu City, Calif., then back to Phoenix, but apparently got lost and ran out of gas, the Coast Guard said. Fletcher apparently was not badly hurt in the forced landing, but the impact damaged the plane's landing gear. The Coast Guard picked him up in a helicopter. Fletcher was listed in stable condition at the 119 Naval Air Station at El Centro, Calif. — AP

A federal judge in Pensacola, Fla., has ruled that the Okaloosa County School Board does not have to readmit a 15-year-old junior high school student accused of stabbing a school bus driver. U.S. District Judge Winston Arnow ruled Wednesday that Vernell Williams' rights were violated because she was suspended from Mingo Junior High School without a hearing, but said a return to classes would be "disruptive." The ruling has no effect on the outcome of criminal proceedings against Miss Williams, an expulsion hearing next week or her $30,000 civil suit against the board and two school administrators. Miss Williams, of Fort Walton Beach, was arrested last month on charges of injuring driver Ann Knox by stabbing her with a broken bottle when the driver stopped to call for help in subduing unruly students.

Nearly 4,000 singing and chanting voting rights marchers planned the steps of the Alabama state capitol in Montgomery yesterday, ending a 13-day re-enactment of a historic 1965 protest with a pledge to fight a new heart in Dixie. "Thousands folded into step with the few dozen who had made the full 150-mile journey as they approached the white-domed capitol, where black leaders vowed to save the Voting Rights Act of 1965, a major victory of civil rights struggle 17 years ago. When the parade reached the statehouse steps, march leader Joseph Lowery declared a "massive pilgrimage" would be organized to Washington. He said details would be revealed later. Lowery, 57-year-old president of the Atlanta-based Southern Christian Leadership Conference, walked the final few miles in blue jeans and a denim jacket. Lowery was joined by the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., father of the slain leader of the 1965 march, and the younger King's son, Dexter. The threat of mass arrests over the powerful demonstrators barely an hour before last day's walk began as they vowed to ignore the route specified in their parade permit. After lengthy negotiations, a compromise was reached between black leaders and Police Chief Charles Swindall and the trek as completed without incident. Some 100 police, including不通 supplement black as well as whites, provided escort. — AP

Students taking entrance examinations for private high schools in Tokyo and its neighboring cities were ordered yesterday to remove wrist watches equipped with calculators and dictionaries. Officials of Kokugakuin High School said a new dictionary-equipped wrist on the Japanese market has the capacity of translating 1,000 words from Japanese into English, or from English into Japanese. But six students, said none of 3,279 students, who apparently anticipated the ban, was known to have worn special watches on the tests. — AP

A human rights conference in Manila charged yesterday that the United States has a "direct hand" in alleged human rights abuses in the Philippines because of its continued economic and military support to the Manila government. The conference, organized by six Filipino religious and lawyers' groups, said "an alarming pattern of military abuses and atrocities" has occurred in the country despite the lifting of eight years of martial law last year. The conference issued its denunciations of President Ferdinand E. Marcos and the United States in a declaration adopted at the end of a two-day meeting here. — AP

Martial law cracks down on clergy

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Communist Poland's martial-law regime stepped up its attack on the Roman Catholic clergy, striking at a church, and a West German newspaper quoted reliable sources in Warsaw as saying a nationwide wide-ranging round-up of priests is planned.

In its second broadside against the church in two days, Radio Warsaw said that some "lower Catholic clergy," were recruiting "old sources of conflict," such as placing of religious symbols, crosses, in public places, state institutions and schools. The broadcast accused one priest in northern Poland of appealing to parents to oppose efforts to remove crosses from schools "even if they were fired on in the process."

Another broadcast criticized the church for speaking out against intimidation of leaders of the independent union Solidarity and said some priests sought to "criticize the policy of the authorities towards extremes."

One Western diplomatic observer who maintains close ties with the church said, "Such criticism is likely to misfire. Who criticizes the church now, after being silent for months when it began working in behalf of interests."

The observer, who requested anonymity, said 1,800 internal union activities released from camps, 1,100 were set free at the behest of the church. The regime says some 4,000 people are still detained.

The church counts some 80 to 90 percent of Poland's 36 million citizens as members, and the prime minister, Archbishop Josef Glemp, has spoken out against intimidation and other aspects of martial law since it was imposed Dec. 13 and Solidarity leader Lech Walesa detained.

Glemp has maintained public silence since returning from Vaxian talks last week with Polish-bom Pope John Paul II, but church sources said the priest will deliver a sermon Feb. 26 and it is expected to outline the church's policy toward martial law.

In West Germany, the respected newspaper Frankfurter Allgemeine quoted "reliable sources in Warsaw" as saying the Polish regime plans a major attack on the clergy in two or three weeks, with nationwide arrest of priests and broadcasts of former tapes.

The paper said the Polish secret police have been secretly taping recordings of parishes priests, and with the help of East German agents, hopes to falsify the recordings into statements of loyalty to the regime that would be broadcast "with the goal of discouraging the church among the people."

The government announced Wednesday that 3,500 Poles were detained for martial law violations during a two-day sweep called "Operation Calm." Yesterday, Interior Ministry officials said all but about 250 of them had been released after brief checks of their documents.

Leftist guerrillas destroy towers, city powerless

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Leftist guerrillas destroyed several transmission towers yesterday morning near Santa Ana, 20 miles northwest of San Salvador, leaving parts of the nation's 3 million largest city without electricity.

They also claimed their forces killed at least 12 and wounded another 157 government soldiers in clashes last month and reiterated their call for national团结ist insurrection approaches.

Meanwhile, Lt. Gen. Wallace H. Nunn, US Army commander in Latin America, planned to speak with reporters for the first time since arriving here in what he termed the military situation.

The press session was scheduled at Lapogano Airport, near the capital, where guerrillas destroyed more than half the Salvadoran air force in a daring raid Jan. 27.

In a message to President Reagan told a news conference earlier in the day that he has "no plans to send American combat troops into action" in El Salvador or anywhere else that he said would not serve any purpose to discuss other options under consideration to assist the junta.

The guerrilla's Radio Venceremos claimed yesterday that last month's casualties took place in 142 clashes in 19 locations around the country. The broadcast didn't break down its figure into killed and wounded.

The casualty count appeared to be much higher than the military's, but official spokesmen in the military press office were not available immediately for comment.

Claims on casualty figures from the opposing sides in this Central American nation regularly differ widely and cannot be confirmed independently.

"The hour of national insurrection is near," Radio Venceremos said, echoing other commentaries made since Jan. 1. It urged people to "be ready with food supplies and medicines."

Leftist guerrillas are fighting to oust the U.S.-supported civilian-military junta that took power in an October 1979 coup. Church and human rights groups estimate 32,000 people have been killed in the 27 months of political violence since then.

Nobel prize winner opens festival

By FRANCES NOLAN

A workshop by Nobel Prize winner Czeslaw Milosz opens the Sophomore Literary Festival Sunday at 1:30 p.m., followed at 7:30 p.m. by a poetry reading. A major expectation for the Sophomore Literary Festival is that the creative energy transmitted by the artists taking part will be instilled in the viewers, according to Lori Tobi, a member of the Executive Committee of the Public Relations Committee.

Tobi remarked that a change from previous festivals is a more coherent theme. "One of the writers is a free creator and literature as a free art form."

Stressing the fact that this was a year-long project, Tobias commented that those who have worked on the festival are proud of what they are trying to present.

Heraty improves relations

Editor's note: The following is part of a weekly series of student government updates.

As the Notre Dame/Saint Mary’s liaison in Student Body President Don Murday’s cabinet, Maureen Heraty works to improve the relationship between the two student governments. In coordinating the goals and activities of each group, Heraty tries to bring complimentary members of the two organizations in contact with each other. That requires that Maureen also work with the ND Student Senate. Recently, Student Union Director Bill Lawler and Saint Mary’s Student Activities Planning Board Chairman Lee Peck met to discuss the social events slated for this semester. It is hoped that these discussions will prevent some of the overlap which has occurred in years past.

"One of Heraty’s functions is to take suggestions and/or complaints from each governing body to the other’s SBVP Don Murday. In an effort to bring ND-SMC problems into focus, Heraty issued a survey to both the Saint Mary’s Board of Governors and the Notre Dame Senate.

The survey outlined commonly perceived areas of difficulty and gave those polled the opportunity to present possible solutions. Heraty found the Saint Mary’s response to be particularly helpful. These suggestions concern everything from the number of interaction between ND and SMC students and faculty to the need for increased communication and contact.

One suggestion which ND Athleti­cian Ed O’Malley is exploring: possible the possibility of intramural competition. Saint Mary’s women also expressed dissatisfaction with the problem of in­adequate social space. Generally, SMC women support Murday’s push for a new student center. “In schools which are close to some of the overlap which has occurred in years past, it would be very nice," say Murday’s. Maureen Heraty also believed the idea.

One situation which disturbs people on both campuses is the lack of communication concerning each other’s activities. The case appears to be that Saint Mary’s students rarely hear about events at ND and vice-versa. Through Heraty’s efforts, the SMC Student Union has in­creased its poster distribution in Saint Mary’s Publicity Commission to use its services. SBVP Tara Kent wyst mentions Heraty’s position valuable as a Public Relations job. "Maureen helps both governments keep up with and on good terms with each other.

According to SMC senior Helen Fuller, "Maureen helps present the other side of SMC to ND. It’s about time people here realize that a husband isn’t the only reason girls go to Saint Mary’s."

JPN Weekend offers parents' view of ND life

By MICHOLE MADDEN
News Staff

Juniors Weekend is designed to give the parents of Notre Dame juniors a chance to visit the campus and dorms, and meet some of the faculty and friends that their children live and learn with.

The schedule for this weekend is as follows: Beginning Friday after two days of registration, there will be a Cocktail Dance with a surprise theme at Stepan Center at nine o'clock. The surprise will be announced at 9:30 will be a series of collegiate workshops, giving parents a chance to meet with some of the professors in each department.

Each of these will be followed by a small reception. Saturday evening in the Hesburgh and Fleming Center will feature the Junior Class Mass at Sacred Heart Church at 5 p.m.

This year, two thousand parents and family members are expected for the weekend, and this is an anticipated to considerably boost local business. The Hotel Conference, alone, has reserved 600 rooms in area hotels that are available to the parents at a 10 percent discount. Although there has been some concern about competition from the new Marriott Hotel, the Morris Inn has not been affected, and has booked its available thirty rooms.

The weekend has been carefully planned by fourteen separate committees, and will further require numerous Sophomore volunteers in its execution. The Chairmen, Greg Kane and the executive coordinators Bill Hennessey and Ann Chapski along with all the committee chairmen have been carefully overseeing the weekend to assure its success.

Even the weather seems to be cooperating, with temperatures expected to remain in the upper thirties or forties. The weekend, however, will continue as planned regardless of what weather conditions prevail.

All juniors and their parents are encouraged to attend all the scheduled events, as this is an excellent opportunity to unite the two integral parts of any student's life - school and family.

Proponents of world disarmament unrealistic

Bernard Norling

Editorial Opinion

It would have been better for humanity that nuclear war never become a reality. But in light of experience it is realistic to anticipate that few individuals and no governments can be trusted with such awesome power. But that is a purely hypothetical proposition now. Nuclear war is a real possibility that must go away, and we have no alternative but to learn to live with them.

Bernard Norling, a former running mate of Ronald Reagan's, isn't budging from his original position. He supports the Department of Health and the Environment last Tuesday that the government policy of secrecy surrounding birth control prescriptions is more dangerous to families than is the threat of unwed pregnancy. "But Schweiker, a former running mate of Ronald Reagan's, isn't budging from his original position. He supports the Department of Health and the Environment last Tuesday that the government policy of secrecy surrounding birth control prescriptions is more dangerous to families than is the threat of unwed pregnancy. "

"Weimar Germany has been noteworthy. Weimar Germany systematically cheated on the disarmament provisions of the Treaty of Versailles and Japan routinely evaded the paper restrictions imposed upon her by disarmament agreements. Since Marxist metaphysics teaches that the end justifies the means and that the laws of history assure that the whole earth must become communist, the Marxist, who can repossess confidence in the Russian-track's disarming accomplishments without regular outside inspections -- inspections which Moscow refuses to permit? Doubtless the Marxist varieties will too. But other disarmers should not ignore the fact that such a process would be spread over generations, even centuries, and that meanwhile their descendants would groan under dull, heavy despotisms like those of contemporary eastern Europe and China.

They also easily forget just what communist conquest has meant in the past. Lenin, Stalin, and successors have used to death the word "commie" between twenty and sixty million Russians since 1917. Mao Tse Tung slaughtered comparable numbers in China. When the Russian armies were withdrawn in 1944-45, the plight of those in their path was not enviable. A few of the old political prisoners escaped to the west; the rest were murdered.

What is "real" about exposing people beyond the Iron Curtain to such experiences at the hands of Red Guards, their armies, and the state police?

Apart from the dubious proposition that surrender and submission are synonymous with morality, unilateral disarmament would not even produce the physical safety desired by its advocates. If the whole world should be communized one day it is highly likely that it would not be a harmonious Red Europe but would consist of a number of states. Since present communist countries are bitterly divided among themselves and quite as contentious as other nations there would not be fewer occasions for war than now. Since communist states do not suffer pacifist movements to flourish, nor are their governments inhibited by the humanitarian sentiments of western liberals, in a wholly Marxist world the use of nuclear weapons in war would become more frequent than less likely.

Those who claim Christianity, properly understood, compelled Germany to renounce a new dearth of nuclear weapons, would recollect some past history. The medieval church allowed the blood War in principle. In the hard world of politics, if our ancestors had not displayed more faith and spirit than some of their descendants the western world would have long since been overwhelmed by Huns, Avars, Saracens, Magyars, Vikings, Turks, and Mongols, and Christianity would have vanished.

One wonders whatever happened to the venerable Christian maxim that the matter of the greatest importance in existence is not the comfort and security of bodies but the salvation of souls? How has it happened that so many spokesmen for contemporary Christian churches espouse the world view of the aggressively anti-Christian philosophies of the 19th century? That the basic foundation of life is to live more safely and pleasantly in this world? We must all die one day. Are we more likely to face a nuclear blast than from the threat of a sword, a piece of shrapnel, an automobile, or a stroke, perhaps?
Dictatorship reigns in Nicaragua

Over two years ago in Nicaragua, a coalition of Marxist guerrillas, the Sandinistas, overthrew the dictatorship of Gen. Anastasio Somoza. Americans believed that the coalition would end the old regime's massive corruption, brutality, and oppression, and provide a measure of social justice to the majority of the population. Others were far more skeptical, fearing that the Marxist Sandinistas would gain the upper hand in a new government and apply a strict Marxist-Leninist economic and foreign policy.

A judgement of the new government's performance is justifiable, and it appears that the skeptics were correct. Here is a summary of their concerns:

- Economic Struggle: The new government is struggling to manage the economy. It faces severe shortages of food and other basic necessities.
- Political Repression: There have been reports of political repression, including arrests and trials without due process.
- Human Rights Violations: There have been allegations of human rights abuses, including torture and arbitrary detention.
- Foreign Policy Concerns: The Sandinistas' foreign policy, particularly their alignment with Cuba and the Soviet Union, has raised concerns among many Americans.

Students defend Shapiro

Dear Editor: In your opinion (Feb. 9), we learned that Prof. Samuel Shapiro would no longer be teaching a Humanities seminar class. Shapiro apparently lost his job because one of his former students complained to her advisor, and Prof. Hoffman, about Shapiro's use of "colorful language," his religious views and that Prof. Shapiro added additional reading materials.

We feel sorry for Prof. Shapiro who has always been dedicated to his teaching. Shapiro has always been an active role model of the kind of behavior that is expected in an educator. His teaching style has always been challenging and thought-provoking. Shapiro's teaching style has always been captivating and engaging.

The students who were the subject of the complaint have always been respectful and attentive in Prof. Shapiro's classes. They have always been engaged and eager to learn from him.

We strongly believe that Shapiro's teaching style should not be used as a basis for his dismissal. Shapiro has always been an excellent teacher who has inspired and challenged his students to think critically and creatively.

We urge you to reconsider your decision and provide Prof. Shapiro with an opportunity to continue his valued contributions to Notre Dame.

Respectfully,

Reader criticizes recent editorials

Dear Editor: While it was all too typical of recent editorials, The Observer's endorsement for Student Body President managed to be even more disappointing. In the editorial, The Observer lamented the apathy of both students and faculty regarding student government. However, The Observer harbors the most disconcerting of both student government. They didn't even deign to comment on the incumbent's endorsement of a candidate until one and a half hours after the election started. The "self-appointed elders" never saw the endorsement until after they had voted. Furthermore, The Observer devoted space to a "candidate" who believed "the president might as well live in Nepal" than all three real candidates combined. That is an unmitigated disaster.

The endorsement of Earl Rin was even more disturbing -- not because of the choice itself, but because of the reasoning employed. I could use a typical Observer editorial play by instigated a past affiliation with the paper alone prompted me to protest it, but I won't. Rather, I cannot understand the logic used in reaching the decision. Claiming to be interested in "apolitical" candidates, a "candidate" was totally uninformed who was running for the office. The winning candidate had never seen the endorsement until after he had voted. Furthermore, The Observer devoted space to a "candidate" who believed "the president might as well live in Nepal" than all three real candidates combined. The same is an unmitigated disaster.

Let’s talk about Jack Nicholson for a little while. As Jack Gittes, in chinatown, he was superb. The perfect grizzled gumshoe trapped in the corruption he is trying to clean up. He’s a semi-decent man whose only reward for his trouble is a third nozzle. And Nicholson’s acting is flawless. In Cabin’s Neck, Nicholson’s semi-McMurphy is fantastic. Who could, I think, dislike his world of playing—boy-play—he even did Jack in Roger Corman’s The Raven.

This opening paragraph is meant as a rebuttal to those convinced that Tony Richardson’s The Border is a showcase for Jack Nicholson’s acute talents. It also encompasses all the nice things I intend to say in this review. The Border is superbly fluent and meaningful film whose only saving grace is Jack Nicholson’s performance. That, however, is far from sufficient enough plus factor to make us recommend the film. It is definitely no showcase.

The Border tells the story of Charlie Smith, a disenchanted border guard who becomes involved in the corruption that pervades his post and then lashes out against it. It’s a plotline that bears through the Hol­lywood carwash countless times before and will undoubtedly be run through the mill in countless other films. The acting, however, is excellent: director Tony Richardson manages to confuse his audience. For example: (and examples aren’t tough to find), a pre-title sequence presents a Mexican church that is destroyed by an earthquake or bulldozer or Godzilla for all we know. The reason for this little episode is never explained or even alluded to in the remainder of the film. Another thing that bothered me was the lack of affection Charlie Smith displays to his wife (portrayed with all the subterfuge of Lawrence and Shirley by Valerie Perrine) for whom he becomes involved in the corruption in the first place. Any normal person would have dumped her in the first reel.

The holes in Richardson’s exposition as held together in a perverse couplage of one violent act after another: a little boy is shot in the chest, an infant’s life is threatened, a man’s head is blown off, etc. At one point, Nicholson commits upon the action and vomits on camera. I don’t know if this isn’t supposed to be a cue to the audience.

But Richardson’s crew must take their share of the blame. Rick Witter’s flat and over-exposed photographs the film a sort of Mars-Mare quality. The editing is ill-paced and continuity is sometimes lacking. By Cooper’s musical score is at best amateurish. And all of us who thought that Frey and Jenkins has only retired to a couple of Guadalupe’s but failed to notice that Cooper’s has become involved in the corruption in the first place. Any normal person would have dumped her in the first reel.

Irish run to championships

By EARL RIX
Sports Writer

Coming off an outstanding performance at the Big State Championships, the Notre Dame track team travels to the prestigious Central Collegiate Championships (CCC) in Madison, Wisconsin this weekend. The Irish will be part of a 165-team field that includes Michigan, Eastern Michigan, Southern Illinois and Wisconsin. These four teams are expected to vie for the team championship, with Michigan shaping up as the favorite.

Sprinters Greg Bell and Phil Gilmore return to the lineup after missing last weekend because of injuries. Tim Cannon and Bill Ribera, two of the Irish standouts this season, are still out with injuries. Ribera is recovering from pneumonia; Cannon separated his shoulder in a fall on the ice and will be out for at least four weeks.

Despite the injuries, the Irish will have more healthy bodies than last week when they turned in the finest team performance in several years. This season as well as the track program as a whole is definitely on an upswing. Last weekend the Irish broke two school records and Jim Moyar qualified for the NCAA championships in the 1000 meter run to a third place finish in the Big State Championships.

"We'd like to score as many points as possible, and quality as many people as we can for nationals," said Irish sprint coach Ed Kelly.

Both Paul Doyle and Steve Drziszla are close to NCAA qualifying standards. Doyle needs to pole vault 16.5 meters and Drziszla needs to run 1:10.45 or less in the 600 to join their teammate Moyar at the nationals. Drziszla is running only in his best event, the 600, and only needs to cut one-half second from last weekend's time in order to qualify. Senior tri-captain Doyle, however, is competing in four events in order to prepare for the national meet later. Because he is running the high hurdles, shot put, and long jumping in addition to pole vaulting, a qualifying vault will not be a piece of cake.

The Irish have already qualified Bell, McCloonagh, Drziszla, Doyle, Cannon, Dillon, and Caron for the NCAA championships. They will try to add some more to this already lengthy list this weekend. The Irish did not even bother to send a team to the ICAAA's last year.

Qualifying for the ICAAA's this weekend are Jacques Ruby in the 600, Mitch Van Eyckos in the 440, Phil Gilmore in the 60, Greg Bell in the long jump, and Chuck Constable in the high jump.

"Jim Kania and Ron Hyde are good, steady, consistent workers," said Kelly. Kania hopes to qualify for the ICAAA's in the 600 and Hyde hopes to do likewise in the 880. "If Steve Cronerault vaults the way he's capable of vaulting, he can also qualify," added Kelly.

The Irish are looking forward to continued improvement as the year goes on. "We've worked well, we've trained well, and we're looking forward to the season," says Kelly. "We'd like to prove that with some results."
ATTENTION: Please return the plant that is missing from the Student Offices main desk.

NEW YORK (AP) - As expected, the Gerry Cooney-Larry Holmes World Boxing Council heavyweight championship fight, originally scheduled for March 15 at Caesars Palace in Las Vegas, Nev., has been postponed until June. 11 because of torn muscle fibres in the challenger's left shoulder.

But promoter Don King said that Holmes won't sit back, waiting for Cooney's injury to heal.

"He will have an interim fight," King said. "It's a fighting champion and will continue in that vein." "He's a fighting champion and will continue in that vein."

King mentioned Jimmy Young, Randy "Tex" Cobb or Larry Frasier as possible opponents for Holmes, who left Las Vegas Wednesday to return home to Easton, Pa.

Cobb, however, is recovering from a broken arm and is unlikely to be available for a March or April date against Holmes.

Cooney's injury was diagnosed by Dr. John Bergfeld of the Cleveland Clinic as "a partial tear and weakness in the muscle fibres in the back part of his left shoulder." Cooney described the injury, suffered during a sparring session last month, as "very painful, a sharp pain and weakness."

The undefeated challenger said he was not concerned about the three-month delay dulling his ring skills.

"I want to be in the best shape I can be on June 11 and when the final bell rings, I'll be champion," he said. "I'm very confident."

many times earlier in the season, They scored more field goals (25-21) than the Pirates. The point difference came at the foul line. Routan fouled out, and four players had four fouls each for Notre Dame, and as a result, Seton Hall got 20 points at the line, compared to just eight, on only 11 chances, for the Irish.

Now ND travels to South Carolina to face the Gamecocks. "We've got to bounce back," said Phelps. "After a loss like this, we're looking for purposes. We'll regroup and go at it again Saturday."

Somewhere, it the air between here and the South, Phelps and his assistants must devise a way to put points on the board. Otherwise, the games to come may be longer and tougher to sit thought than even those that have already been played.

COLUMBUS, S.C. — Sometimes get confusing around here. Shirley Murtaugh, the secretary in the basketball office, likes to tell the story about what happened to her.

Asked to call Gamecock Coach Bill Foster at an ACC meeting in Myrtle Beach, Shirley dutifully placed the call.

"Yes, Coach Foster," she answered, and it shocked her. No. 4 Missouri defensive back Dan Muller, the New Orleans Saints pick, had called her.

"You don't think this is the right number, do you?" he asked.

"No, the lady at the other end of the line was here. I hope she's not mad. She didn't answer," Shirley said now. "I think it was the free throws as No. 4 Missouri about H.<.·

These will be the final dual meets of the season. The women's team beat the Gophers 70-63.

The victory boosted Minnesota to 18-4 overall and 10-3 in the Big Ten. The Wildcats fell to 7-15 and 6-10.

Northwestern appeared to be putting together an upset early in the contest. The Wildcats grabbed a 28-22 lead with 6:45 left in the first half as they took advantage of 11 Gopher turnovers.

Missouri edges out Oklahoma

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Forward Marvin Newhouse scored six straight field goals and guard Jon Sundvold capped the game with four free throws as No. 4 Missouri edged Oklahoma 66-55 in Big Eight Conference basketball last night.

McCoy nailed the Tigers to a 10-2 lead and started a 4-point run that ended at 13-2. He finished the game with 18 points.

Sundvold, combining his free throws with highly accurate jumpers down the lane, scored 20. Sophomore guard Chuck Barnett came back from a two-point first half to score 10 more. Forward Darryl Allen added 10 for the Sooners.

“NIGHT OF THE LIVING DEAD”

Mississippi State, there is no confusion.

The Bill Foster at the University of South Carolina known to some as "Duke" from his coaching days one state north of here, and to others as "Chicken" from his present employment situation, is rebuilding a tradition.

He seemed to have turned things around here. By the time the legend of aold Frank McGuire retired in 1980, the Gamecock program had sunk to new lows. In his last four years, McGuire could master only a 61-47 record. South Carolinians were used to mediocrity and were ready to see the McGuire could not escape their wrath.

In came Foster, who took a team with just a modicum of talent and turned them into respectable conference contenders. Despite a tough schedule, the Gamecocks went 18-11, including a 90-88 upset over No. 11 Georgia.

"We still think we have a shot at it," Foster said this week. "Last night's game helped us a lot, and we need this one as well. Every game is important now, but we have to prove we can win on the road in a tough arena. This is our chance to show that.

The Irish will have to contend with a number of players besides Foster tomorrow if they hope to bolster their standing with the NIT. People, Kenny Holmes and Brad Jer­gonson are tough upfront. The sopho­more guard ranks second in scoring and rebounding, respective­ly, on the team, and offer a lot of help when Foster is held at bay.

At 6-8, 6-9, and 6-5, the Gamecock front­line is comparable in size to Notre Dame's. But they make up that height disadvantage against most teams by sheer determination.

"They don't have much talent, but they can do many things excep­tionally well," confesses CBS's Billy Packer. "All they can do is beat you. The team hustles and works and digs like none I've seen anywhere."

The backcourt features local hero Harold Martin, a 6-3 shooter who's averaging just under 10 points per game, and 6-6 point man Gerald Peacock.

But the Gamecocks are used to mediocrity, and even perhaps, more vital to the South Carolina attack than John Paxson is to Notre Dame's. When he is on, so are the Gamecocks.

"It's never easy to win at Carolina Coliseum," Phelps says. "This year will be no exception. South Carolina's record is deceptive, because they've played a tough schedule, as usual."
"Towering inferno"

Blab lights Indiana's fire

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Uwe Blab is 7-foot-2 and 230 pounds, crowned with a shock of flaming-red hair — the "Towering Inferno" of Bobby Knight's Indiana Hoosiers basketball team.

Blab, a freshman, was recruited out of Effingham, Ill., where he was attending high school as an exchange student. The native of Munich, West Germany may have provided the tinder Knight needed to set his defending national champions afire.

"I'd like to become an intimidating center," says Blab, whose name is pronounced "blob."

"I'd be great if I could, but the only way I can play that role is if I learn to play good defense," Blab said after a recent game.

A key to Blab's development has been his ability to learn. He earned straight A's in his first semester at Indiana, and he wants to emulate his father by becoming an attorney, specializing in international law.

For now, though, he would settle for being able to enforce Knight's law. Blab has added a good measure of muscle to the Indiana lineup since becoming a starter recently. His average of 16 minutes played is growing with each game.

His best performance was in Indiana's 58-55 upset victory at Minnesota. Blab held Gophers center Randy Breuer to nine points, the first time in 20 games the senior veteran was held below double figures. At the same time, Blab scored 18 and had 8 rebounds.

"He could be very good down the road," Knight says. "If he continues to develop his understanding of the requirements to become a first-rate college center and the amount of work it takes."

Although he is a great jumper, Blab appears to possess most of the other tools required of a quality big man — good instincts, disciplined play and reflexes. He lacks only experience.

He went to Effingham as an exchange student after playing there with a touring German team. He played two years for Effingham Coach Jim Maxdon, scoring 1,306 points and blocking 250 shots, before coming to Indiana.

"I don't think my problem has been a lack of confidence, but over confidence," Blab says, who speaks English with hardly an accent. "I'll have a good game, and come back with a bad game. The next few games I have just got to work my head off."

Blab finally put together two good performances, coming off a victory over Minnesota with a solid job in Indiana's 75-60 victory over Illinois last Thursday night. He had eight points and six rebounds in 32 minutes of play against Illinois. He also blocked four shots and had five assists.

Blab's early development was hurt by a deep thigh bruise sustained in a game against Colorado State last Dec. 11. He missed two weeks and three games before returning, out of shape and well behind his teammates. He still wears a football thigh pad taped to his leg to protect the bruise, which is nearly healed.

Fencers host Michigan St., Northwestern

By BILL MARQUARD

Sports Writer

The fr. in men's fencing team places its options on 19-0 and 22-match winning streak on the line tomorrow when it plays host to Northwesterners and Michigan State in a 1:30 p.m. triangular meet at the ACC.

The Irish scored an impressive 23-4 win over the Spartans in their first meet of the season and own a 36-10 series edge. The Wildcats, who were 21-3 victims of the Irish last year, are on the lower side of a 10-6 series record. Yet, Irish Mike Blabco is wary of any letdown at this point in the season.

"We took last weekend off and scored big wins over Clemson and Virginia Tech in two weekends," said DeCicco, who is guiding the Irish fencers for the 21st year. "We're starting to come into the ACC next Friday, we have to be very careful that our team is not looking ahead or behind."

"With most of our schedule behind us, we are thinking about going to the Great Lakes Championships, we have to be sure that our fencers stay sharp."

The Irish women, boasting a solid 10-1 record and series marks over Michigan State and Northwesterns. The women are 5-0 against the Spartans, including an 11-5 triumph earlier this season. They are 4-2 against the Wildcats.

Michigan State

Lakers never want revenge this weekend

By MICHAEL OLENIK
Sports Writer

 EAST LANSING, Mich. — Need not less, to say, the time has come for the Lakers to play with a bit of this time around.
Just as they had to do last weekend against Ferris State, the Irish will be out to prove that last season's 9-28 record was not indicative of the play that Notre Dame is capable of.
This time, however, the Irish will find themselves on the risk with one of the toughest teams in the nation. The 20-9 Spartans currently stand second in the CCHA and rank sixth in the nation according to the WMPRLP radio coaches poll, and the Irish will need to play their best if they want to come out on top.
So, with last November's 4-2 and 8-4 losses kept firmly in mind, the Irish will travel here for a winner-now match rematch before coming home for the annual game on March night at the ACC.

South Carolina

Troubled Lady Gamedores face Irish

COLUMBIA, S.C. — Notre Dame's women's basketball coach Mary DiStanislao called it "jumping from the frying pan into the fire."
In one sense, she's right.
After running into what DiStanislao herself called a "buzzer," Tuesday night at Illinois, the Irish must regroup and get ready to play South Carolina, the nation's 15th-ranked team, a team that hand
Notre Dame 124-48 a year ago.
For sure, the Irish will face a team that at least has a 13-13 record.
But the important thing to remember here is that South Carolina is guilty of the things it is charged with, and perhaps worse, should be brought under the holier-than-thou spiels that decrys the abuses that have taken place.
One might expect to read how deplorable the actions of most consistent and powerful San Francisco

The Spartans have also been looking forward to this weekend.
Meanwhile, South Carolina is beating to the second game.
Notre Dame hockey team to show himself.
As with Michigan State appears, the Spartans are well aware of the importance of the game.

We've heard the Irish.

The Spartans are the hottest team in the CCHA right now with one of the toughest teams in the nation.

McNamara: CCHA player of the week

Notre Dame junior goaltender
Bob McNamara earned Central Collegiate Hockey Association player of the week honors for his play in sweeping Ferris State.
McNamara allowed four goals in the series, all power play goals, and recorded the Irish's first desirable in four years in the second game.
