Revolutionaries attack embassy

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — An armed band of professed anti-communist revolutionaries burst into the Swiss Embassy here yesterday and were holding off police with a threat to "blow this black away and everyone in it" unless a legal warrant is served in their homeland.

Their leader, who identified himself only as Col. Wysoki of the "Polish Revolutionary Home Army," told The Associated Press in a telephone interview that his group was heavily armed and was holding 15 "apolitical personnel" hostage.

He said they had 55 pounds of dynamite and would blow up the embassy, with themselves in it, if the Polish government does not meet their demands within 48 hours or within 24 hours from midnight today.

Wysoki refused to say how many people were in his group. A police official said, "According to our information, there are about three suspected terrorists."

Their demands also included release of "political prisoners" and an "end of repression" in Poland, where authorities are holding 650 of the thousands of Solidarity supporters interned when martial law was declared last Dec. 13.

There have been anti-government protests in Poland since then, and unrest swept the nation last week on the second anniversary of Solidarity's founding. But the embassy takeover was believed to be the first terrorist attack on foreign soil against the martial law regime.

Wysoki, who claimed to be a descendent of two 19th century Polish rebel leaders, said the group was not connected with the dissident Polish labor union Solidarity. Swiss authorities and Solidarity spokesmen elsewhere in Europe said they had never heard of the "army."

The Polish Foreign Ministry refused to comment on the group's demands, saying only that the Bern embassy was sealed and that its chief diplomatic officer, Charge d'Affaires Ludwik Dobrowolski, was in Poland on vacation.

Beware of the boneheads

Bonehead adj. having a calcified cranium; devoid of gray matter; moronically mindless, syn. fool, dolt, numskull, administrator.

They are everywhere, you can't escape them. Those people who by their very nature, complicate and confuse your life. These are "the boneheads." You don't have to worry when they are going to strike. In fact, you can't always identify them, for they hide behind a facade of competency, ready to pounce on the unsuspecting.

Amending college introduces a person to miniseries of boneheads who do it for worldwide publicity or if for no other reason than it prepares a person for the frustrations of later life. Here at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's, a well-developed course in Boneheadedness 101 is offered unofficially to all.

"People would consider the maid who ignores their 'Do Not Disturb' sign and empts the trash at eight in the morning, or the dining hall worker who, despite one's pleas to the contrary, sends your entree adrift in gravy, as examples of boneheadedness. However, these are simply examples of people trying their best at a job that brings them into contact with students who are often boneheads themselves. The true bonehead does not waste his time on such things. He has more important work to do."

There is hope. First off, each one of us must avoid joining the ranks of the boneheads. Take every move, actually accomplished its purpose. Once a veil of boneheadedness hides cold logic. Alumni, whose contributions provide the basis for most of our classes are discouraged rather than encouraged. Many students voluntarily fled off-campus rather than become a part of the mainstream. But the problem existed on campus, and some method was found to correct it. The rules for this system were so inane that many students felt the need to move, actually accomplished its purpose. The truth of the matter is that on balance the Soviet

The United States has 50 percent more nuclear weapons than the Soviet Union, despite President Reagan's announcement yesterday that the Russians have the upper hand, a liberal-oriented defense group said yesterday. The United States has warheads of about 12,000 atomic warheads, compared to about 8,000 for the Soviets, said the Center for Defense Information, a private, non-profit group with its center in Washington. The United States has proposed a $21.9 billion Pentagon spending plan for the new fiscal year, a 1.4 percent increase over the current $21.5 billion, said business administration officials. Haig will help select other members of the national security council who has not yet been designated, according to Frank Guisti, a public relations spokesman for UTC, which has headquarters in Hartford. The committee will organize and conduct meetings of the president, the cabinet, and the chief executive officer of UTC for one year immediately before becoming secretary of state under President Reagan in January 1982.

"The center of gravity of the situation at Shimonper, says a recent Uriel Feinman, an Israeli commentator, "is the existence of a window of vulnerability." And of course no one can question the logic of the students who by their very nature, conspire to bring the campus to a state of anarchy. Here at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's, a well-developed course in Boneheadedness 101 is offered unofficially to all.

Labor parades revived in cities

(AP) — Three soars revived the traditional workers' parade yesterday and unions blamed President Reagan for the worst unemployment in 40 years as Americans celebrated or mourned the state of unemployment on the 100th anniversary of the first Labor Day.

After President Lane Kirkland told a crowd in Texas that the Reagan administration "knows the price of every shilling in dollars and the value of nothing on the scale of humanity."

But Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan said in a television interview that Reagan was sensitive to "the ills of unemployment," and he predicted the jobless rate, which stood at 9.8 percent of the labor force in July and August, would begin to drop in the fall.

Budget showdown imminent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress returns from its Labor Day recess this week facing seemingly heavy odds against overriding President Reagan's veto of a $44 billion supplemental appropriations bill.

Although White House spokesmen say they anticipate "an uphill battle" in getting Congress to sustain the Aug. 28 veto, House Speaker Thomas O'Neill, D-Mass., and White House aides getting the necessary two-thirds vote in both chambers will be tough.

Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., has said Reagan will win this newest budgetary showdown with Congress.

A house override vote could take place as early as tomorrow. If the House sustains the veto, the matter will not reach the Senate since both chambers must vote to override.

Caught in the middle are some 300,000 internal revenue service workers, who face midweek layoffs unless there's a quick resolution of the money quarrel or an internal agency transfer of funds, which requires written authorization by the heads of the congressional budget panels.

Tens of thousands of others in the federal work force, at such agencies as the departments of Labor and Health and Human Services and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, could be forced to take unpaid leave time by Sept. 15 unless the impasse is resolved.

The appropriations bill, among other things, would provide money to meet payroll through the remainder of the current fiscal year, which ends Sept. 30.

The problem stems in part from the fact Congress approved a pay raise for the 2.1 million federal civil servant force last Oct. 1, but did not provide enough money to meet payrolls under the higher scale through the end of the current budget year.

Burlington iron workers and high school bands marched in Indiana's capital yesterday in the city's first Labor Day parade in 40 years. "In the past we may have concentrated too much on baseball games, picnics and fishing trips," said Loran Robbins, head of the largest Teamsters local in the state, which had an 11.1 percent jobless rate in July.

Marchers paraded down Michigan Avenue in Chicago's first Labor Day parade by organized labor in 50 years, and the first Labor Day parade since the 1940s rolled through Denver.

Arizona officers manned roadblocks to catch drunken drivers as the state tried to cut the number of Labor Day weekend road accidents. The nationwide highway death toll had passed 356 yesterday afternoon.

There were the usual rollicking celebrations on the three-day weekend that traditionally means the end of summer: raft regattas on the Missouri and Arkansas rivers and mud stomping in Maine.

And there were somber reminders of unemployment. Parishioners at the A.M.E. Church in Baltimore were asked yesterday to offer jobs instead of money when the offering plates were passed around.

Marchers in Racine, Wis., wore black armbands Sunday, marched with 250,000, which march organizers said is the number of the state's jobless.

About 6,000 teachers were on strike in Pennsylvania, Michigan, Illinois and Ohio, threatening the beginning of school for more than 100,000 students.

"Today there are as many unemployed Americans as there were in 1944," Kirkland said in San Antonio at the unveiling of a statue of a statue of union pioneer Samuel Gompers.

Gompers, who helped found the American Federation of Labor in 1886 and died in San Antonio in 1924 at age 84, is memorialized by a 16-foot-tall marble, bronze and oyster-shell statue — surrounded by 12 seven-foot-tall statues of American workers.

Kirkland quoted him as saying in 1914 it is "a false and unwise economy and a lack of statesmanship to reenact public expenditure and improvements when such course means suffering, misery and hunger." Kirkland said President Reagan should read those words.

At summit Arab leaders back Reagan plan

The Associated Press

At the summit here yesterday, the leaders indicated that they would back the American plan to begin direct talks with the Palestine Liberation Organization.

President Reagan has offered to begin such talks, the leaders agreed, but he has made it clear that they would not be opening dialogue with organizations which regard Jews or Israeli settlements in the West Bank as terrorist organizations.

Reagan's plan, they said, would lead to the establishment of a Palestinian Authority in the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

The leaders also agreed that the American military forces in the Gulf would be withdrawn to bases in Saudi Arabia.

The leaders included Nabil Gasior, Iraq's president; President Ben Ali of Tunisia; King Hassan of Jordan; President Sadat of Egypt; Sandan Gufrar of Somalia; and President Nimeiri of Yemen. They also agreed to hold talks on the creation of a joint Arab military force to be based in the United Arab Emirates.

The leaders also agreed to discuss a possible joint Arab peace initiative, and a joint Arab declaration on the status of the Middle East.

How would you like $50,000 at your fingertips to invest as you please? Sounds like something you may have to wait a few years to think about right? Well, thanks to the College of Business Administration Advisory Council Investment Fund (CBA-ACIF), the opportunity is just around the corner.

Beginning sometime in mid-September, students participating in the Fund’s activities will begin analyzing investment possibilities. This will initiate the long process of determining which securities will comprise the Fund’s portfolio for the coming year.

The CBA-ACIF originated with an anonymous donation of $10,000 by a member of the College of Business Administration Advisory Council for the purpose of permitting students to participate in the “market” as a practical supplement to their education in the classroom. The donor felt that students could this way enrich their formal education without taking any personal risk.

According to the Fund’s moderator, Professor Paul Conway, the ACIF’s portfolio has outperformed the Dow Jones Industrial Average in each year of the Fund’s existence. It has achieved performances as outstanding as a 46.5% value increase in 1981. The value of the Fund has swollen to around $30,000 as of late August.

If you are wondering how the Fund is managed, it works like this. The Fund’s co-chairmen (chosen last spring) meet with Conway and outline the investment criteria to be followed this year. This involves determining what percentage of the Fund’s sources will be allocated to growth, income, and speculative issues. The objectives for the coming year are also decided—namely which areas have the most potential and deserve exploration. Then at an organizational meeting which will be held in a few weeks, student participants will be organized into research teams of five members. Each participant will be given a stock or stocks to examine. These stocks will either be part of the current investment portfolio or issues which merit purchase consideration.

Participants will be given several weeks to complete their reports on the issue(s) assigned to them. These reports will then be turned over to the research team leaders who will discuss them with the chairman at a meeting of the executive committee. This group will then prepare specific revisions in the Fund’s portfolio.

But don’t think that the final decision has been made here. One final meeting is held to discuss the current revisions and is open to all participants. So if you think you have a worthy stock which has not been recommended by the executive committee, you still have a final chance to voice your opinion. The final investment decisions are made at this meeting and are then carried out subject to the moderator’s approval.

Conway stresses that the decisions are up to the students. As long as they can justify their moves, the students are allowed to determine the Fund’s portfolio. Nearly the entire Fund is invested in stocks, but some bonds and money market certificates are also held.

“We want to emphasize,” Conway notes, “that participation in the Fund is open to any student. You don’t need to be a business major to get involved, nor do you need to have much knowledge about investments, just a little interest and desire.”

So if you want to help decide how $50,000 will be invested this fall, fill out a CBA-ACIF form by Friday, September 17, and return it to Room 244 Hayes-Healy. After all, when is the next time you will be able to invest that kind of money and without personal liability?

Chemical warfare research continues

By TIM AHERN
Associated Press Writer

The United States officially announced biological warfare in 1960. But in Frederick, Maryland, in a small corner of the military base where the American germ weapon effort was located, Army scientists are still involved in “medical defensive 8R research.”

With little public attention, the researchers are trying to discover vaccines or antidotes to any germ weapons that might be used against American troops.

The effort is based in a two-story building in the sprawling base that was once the headquarters of U.S. chemical and biological warfare efforts.

Officials are secretive about describing their work, which has continued since 1969 when President Nixon renounced American use of biological weapons and ordered the destruction of existing arms. But he said that a defensive effort would continue, so guard against possible germ attacks by an enemy.

“We what we’re doing is uniquely medical. We’re involved in medical defensive research,” said Col. Richard Basquet, the doctor who heads the Army Medical Inservice of Infectious Diseases.

“We’re just trying to use the tools provided by modern biology to come up with better vaccines,” he explained. “We’d like to see if we can use to our advantage the technology that’s sweeping through biomedical research.”

A weary traveler wins as he endures yet another ravine in the rugged and rocky terrain. Okay, so you enjoy a drink now and then, but is that drink your ticket to get away from it all? It is all in your head. You picked it up you mustochest. You should integrate eating the right foods with your life instead of leaving them in the classroom. You’re not going to leave your degree there, are you? The question remains as to whether it’s an inspired dedication, or a bull and chain conviction.

Choose your own pain or pleasure! Do you choose a "saleable" field for the job market, or one that suits your creative interests? You shall be able to live a fulfilled life, or doomed to drudgery. Some students bridge this gap. They live for today and tomorrow, while those in train going through the motions to some day make it to the top. Others stuff their brains with knowledge now, to starve on the saleable concept. For the twenty-first century, it stands as the most potent image of man’s capacity of evil and as the strongest call for him to do better. Positively, it is the only way out. If you立志 for the belief that you can’t be a bad person, but don’t sell your soul, for only you can define happiness.

D-6 is by far the best lot that is all convenient for students on South Quad but only the lucky residents of Lyons, Carroll, and Holy Cross are given the privilege of parking there. What pleasure, you ask? The thrill of wheeler! The challenge of crossing “D-6” canyon without losing all four hubcaps! The ultimate anticipation of how many dents the D-6 rocks have inflicted on your car each time you take it out! And then there’s the present fear of all making it up the D-6 mountain in a snowstorm.

The smaller size of D-6 is the reason that is the most convenient to the residents of only three dorms. Our friends in McKenna, Howland, Baden, Walsh, Sortin, Pangborn, Fisher, Dilson, and Alumni must trudge past the swampland to D-2.

Of course, D-6 is expandable. I believe the thought of lots of people on campus are sufficient. Therefore, the swampland that surrounds D-6 could be used to provide at least three times as much parking area than presently exists – which would take care of nearly all of South quad.

The implications of this proposal, however, will eliminate the insane charm of D-6. A parking lot! Why, who would ever want that? Certainly not we D-6 dwellers who have now come to love the gravel! And I must say that Not Dariee has tried to make things pleasant for us. Just last semester, we all moved our cars off the lots to NoNo. Mainly because we didn’t want that black snow job wasn’t at all effective, but the experience of the gravel certainly was a welcome change of pace.

Our endowment fund has been used to pump with the campus a new chemistry building, lavish renovation of the old, library, dorms, senior bar, and a wonderful smoke alarm/fire protection system. If few dollars might be directed toward saving the undersides of our cars from the ravages of D-6.

My freshman year, a friend of mine from Carroll Hall became one of the few, the proud, the student car owners. Little did he know that he would be assigned to Lot D-1, across Juniper Road. Twenty minutes of brisk walking and the world as you knew it, that registered his car under a name female vary same to have the privilege of parking there. (F. B. Impersonators on the N. S. security staff discovered that every car has a name, and that every name is a female, by the way, and slapped the nearest parking area.)

Everyone's gaining on the Braves

ATLANTA (AP) — Jeff Leonard and Milt May knocked run-scoring singles in the eighth inning to lift the San Francisco Giants to a 8-2 victory over Atlanta yesterday, nullifying six innings of no-hit ball by the Braves Tom Niedenfuehr.

Atlanta's defeat, coupled with the Los Angeles Dodgers' 7-2 triumph over Cincinnati, cut the Braves' lead in the National League West to a half-game. The victory was the Giants' fourth in a row, moving them within six games of the Braves.

The Giants, held hitless and runless for six innings, scored eight runs on nine hits in the final three innings.

Joe Morgan led off the eighth with a walk from Donnie Moore, 2-1, Atlanta's third pitcher. Morgan advanced to second on a balk and Darrell Evans was intentionally walked in Morgan, moving Evans to third. May then greeted reliever Carlos Diaz with an RBI single to right.

Al Holland, 5-3, was the winner, while Greg Minton pitched the final two innings for his 24th save.

Dodgers 7, Reds 2

CINCINNATI (AP) — Jerry Reuss scattered five hits and Steve Garvey drove in five runs with a homer and double as the Los Angeles Dodgers overpowered the Cincinnati Reds 7-2 yesterday.

Reuss, 14-10, had allowed only two singles until Cesar Cedeno led off the eighth with his eighth homer of the year. The victory was his third of the season over the Reds against one loss. Reuss struck out three and walked one in recording his seventh complete game.

Top seeds advance to quarterfinals

NEW YORK (AP) - Defending champions John McEnroe and Tracy Austin moved into the quarterfinals of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships yesterday along with top-seeded Martina Navratilova, while upsets eliminated ninth-seeded Yannick Noah in the men's singles and No. 6 Wendy Turnbull.

Kim Warwick of Australia, who upset seventh-seeded Jose Luis Clerc of Argentina in the opening round, shocked Noah 7-5, 7-6. "A 6-1 to also advance into the quarters on the hard courts of the National Tennis Center.

Turnbull fell to 18-year-old Gerichen Rush, a wild-card entry who was just graduated from high school in June, 6-3, 6-2.

In a night match, third-seeded Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia extracted revenge for his loss in the 1981 Open by crushing No. 11 Matt Wilander of Sweden, 6-2, 6-2, 6-1.

McEnroe easily ousted Matt Doyle 6-3, 6-4, 6-4. Austin romped past No. 14 Virginia Ruzici of Romania 6-1, 6-3, and Navratilova breezed by Andrea Jaeger 6-1, 6-2 in the warm, sunny weather.

Austin advances

Navratilova and Andrea Jaeger were included in the field. The three-time champion easily beat No. 14 Virginia Ruzici of Romania 6-3, 6-2, 6-1.

The New York let-hander opened the second round by breaking Doyle, then lost his service for the only time in the match. He immediately broke back for a 2-1 lead, then served out the set.

He closed out the two-hour match by breaking Doyle in the ninth game at 15.

I don't think I played better than I did yesterday (Sunday, when he downed Vince Van Patten 6-3, 6-2, 6-2)." McEnroe said. "My concentration is going to have to be better from now on. You've got to get your mind on the match and don't let things distract you."

Rush entered at Texas University in San Antonio, Texas, the week before the Open started. She advanced to the fourth round by defeating Pam Shriver, 6-4, 6-3, and South Afncan Jennifer Muehle.

Also progressing yesterday were fourth-seeded Andrea Jaeger, 6-1, 6-1 over No. 13 Kathy Rinaldi; No. 3 Pam Shriver, 6-3, 6-1, over Ros Fairbank of South Africa, and Bonnie Glicker, 6-0, 6-1 over Elize Burgin.

secured a starting position after gaining experience last season.

Mosley will back up Brown on the weak side and "can really come a long way," according to Coach Johnson.

Neute Dame's depth in the defensive backfield has been enhanced by strong play from two freshmen. Pat Ballage and Dave McCloff.

Ballage has been noted as a hard worker with good size and speed. "Jim is a very gifted athlete but experienced secondary man is going to make mistakes. This week we're still looking for solid second team people and there is a great opportunity for the younger kids to earn the good back position."

With Herschel Walker, 'Dogs stop Clemson

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Seventh-ranked Georgia, with only limited play from injured All-American Herschel Walker, used a blocked punt by Dale Carver and two field goals by Kevin Butler to defeat defending national champion Clemson 10-7 last night in the nationally televised college football opener for both teams.

Walker, who suffered a broken right thumb 16 days earlier in a preseason scrimmage, got in for only three plays in the first half but never touched the ball. The 220-pound junior gained 22 yards on 11 carries in the second half. 10 of them coming on one of his typical rushes when he bounced off several would-be tacklers.

Clemson, No. 11 in the preseason ratings, scored first, taking 7-0 lead on Homer Jordan's 6-yard quarterback draw around midfield during the opening period. The touchdown came three plays after William Perry, the Tigers' 310-pound nose guard, recovered a fumble by Georgia quarterback John Lastinger at his own 31-yard line.

But the usually reliable Jordan, who was intercepted only nine times all last season, was picked off four times by the Bulldogs with one of them setting up Butler's tie-breaking 39-yard field goal nine seconds before the end of the first half.

The Bulldogs tied the score 7-7 on the third play of the second quarter. Carver blocked a punt by Clemson's Dale Haicher at the 10-yard line and Stan Dooley outfought two Tigers at the 2 and lunged into the end zone with the ball.

Butler added a 23-yard field goal at 5:40 of the third period and Georgia relied thereafter on its rugged defense as the Bulldogs ended the nation's longest winning streak at 13 games.

Women's tennis team makes final cuts

By DONNA WITZLEBEN

There will be four new faces on the women's tennis team this year and six familiar ones, as final cuts for the 1982-83 squad were made yesterday.

With three members of last year's squad graduating and Linda Hoyer, on Homer Jordan's 6-yard goals and six familiar ones, as final cuts for last year's No. 2 singles player, the 1982-83 squad were made.

All of the women competed in a best-out-of-three match, double elimination tournament September 1 thru 4.

Returning for the Irish this year will be junior co-captain and All-American Pam Pizette of Miami, Fla., and fellow co-captain Camille Cooper, a Shreveport, La., native.

Rejoining three teammates also will be sophomores Lisa LaFratte of Richmond, Va., Lisa Gleason from Oakland, Ill., Cathy Schuel of Baldwin, Mo., and Laura Lee of Agoura, Calif.

It's been a rough summer of NFL training camps for former Notre Dame players.

However, three ex-Notre Dame players did not survive.

Mike Kadish, a ten-year NFL veteran who played for the ND in the years 1969 thru 1971, was released by the Buffalo Bills. Kadish, a nose tackle, was the Bills' player representative, which may or may not have had anything to do with his being let go.

Also cut yesterday were two members of the 1973 National Championship team that beat Alabama in that memorable Sugar Bowl game. Kicker Bob Thomas, whose 10-yard field goal with 4:26 left lifted the Irish over the Crimson Tide, was waived by the Chicago Bears, with whom he spent eight seasons.

Finally, cornerback Luther Bradley, who played at ND from 1973 to 1977 after sitting out the 1974 season because of a charge of attempted rape of a coed, was released by the Houston Oilers. Bradley, who originally was drafted by the New Orleans Saints, had tried to make the Oilers as a linebacker.

Defensive backfield

By WILL HARE

Sports Writer

For a defensive unit that ranked 16th nationally against the pass last season, the Notre Dame secondary is regarded not like a tiger, but more like a goat.

Three of four starters in the defensive backfield return — only John Kron is gone — on a team that yielded just 145 points per game. Yet, few seem only to remember the breakdown in the secondary that occurred in critical situations and resulted in bitter losses.

Despite the impressive numbers, Irish coaches and fans alike knew changes had to be made.

Preto, Take strong safety Dave Duerson and free safeties Joe Johnson and Rod Bone and watch their positions. Move John Mosley from defense to offense to obtain more depth at the weakside corner-back position. Install an option of the nickel defense to help out in critical situations.

It all sounds so simple.

Duerson, Street and Smith selection as an honorable mention All-American, has impressed coaches with his smooth transition to free safety.

"We're very happy with the way Duerson went from strong to free," says defensive coordinator and secondary coach Jim Johnson.

"It gives us a good corner backers back there, and it's probably his best position.

"For the strong safety position, Joe Johnson and Rod Bone are known exclusively as hard hitters and seem fit to do more damage at the new position.

"We feel the change will give us a little bit quicker secondary," adds Coach Johnson. "But, they will be tested right away."

"Both Joe and Rod are such hard hitters," worse strongside corner-back Stacey Toran "Dave (Duerson) is tactful, better suited as a roving safety."

Injuries have plagued Bone's career with the Irish and Johnson apparently has earned the starting spot. "Going into spring ball, Rod was hurt and Joe Johnson came on like gangbusters," says Coach Johnson. "Rod will still be very involved with our nickel defense."

The nickel defense involves the use of a fifth defensive back who is called on in pasting situations. "You do it to disguise coverages and to avoid mismatches," adds Coach Johnson.

"More teams we face seem to be opening up their offense. They may stack three wide receivers in there so you compensate by adding the extra defensive back in there. Sometimes, we go with six defensive backs also."

Toran, a 6-4, 197-Ib. junior, will once again man the strongside corner-back position. On the weakside corner, Chris Brown apparently has

It's been a rough summer of NFL training camps for former Notre Dame players. But there was one piece of good news for Irish fans.

Last year's offensive MVP, Phil Pozderac, made the roster of the Dallas Cowboys. Pozderac, left tackle on a defensive tackle, has been very impressive in the pre-season and his making the Cowboys comes as little surprise.

However, there are ex-Notre Dame players who did not survive. Mike Kadish, a ten-year NFL veteran who played for the ND in the years 1969 thru 1971, was released by the Buffalo Bills.
