Terrorists extend deadline

BERN, Switzerland (AP) - Terrors threatening to blow up the Polish embassy, eight hostages and themselves have extended by 48 hours their deadline for Poland to end martial-law rule and free all political prisoners, the government reported last night.

The gunmen occupying the embassy released a fourth hostage late Wednesday. He was an 80-year-old Polish-born professor who still holds at the compound, a day after he was taken over by the raiders Monday. Three women were freed earlier.

A government spokesman said the deadline extension and the students' release were obtained after "intensive negotiations."

Playing a key role in the talks is an 86-year-old Polish-born theologian, Professor Joseph M. Bochanski, a resident of Switzerland. He spent an hour in the embassy Tuesday in the first face-to-face negotiations with the gunman.

The terrorists, who still hold at least eight hostages, originally issued an ultimatum saying they would blow up the building at 10 a.m. Wednesday. A 4 a.m. EDT, if Poland's communist government did not meet their demands.

One of the women hostages who was freed said she saw "four raiders armed with long weapons." The invaders claimed they had enough dynamite to destroy the building, themselves and their hostages.

As dusk, police surrounding the embassy moved their road blocks farther away from the compound, raising speculation of an armed assault.

In Warsaw, the Foreign Ministry gave its formal permission for Swiss police to move into the embassy, which has extraterritorial status. It also asked Switzerland to permit Poland to send a special group here to help end the siege. It was believed the group would include members of an anti-terrorist commando squad.

Lunchtime fast raises $15,000 for Coalition

NOTRE DAME, Ind. (AP) - The campus-wide fast, designed to increase awareness of and support for the leder cable which powers the north campus buildings, was donated to the People's Food Co-op, a self-help program and soup kitchen for the poor of the South Bend community. Other agencies which received funds included the Argo Industries and Tribal Foundation, Social Security Administration.

According to Coalition director Ed Colbert, this year's fasting program will begin September 29. "We are trying to get Food Services to increase the amount of money donated for each lunchtime fast," he noted. "We have been $5 cents for a long while now."

Other plans for the year include a hunger week, which would include speakers, films, a retreat, and other events to further explore the issue of world hunger.

---

Explosion darkens campus buildings

A high voltage tap box exploded near the Ave Maria Press building at 9:00 yesterday morning. The explosion left the right side of the building without power throughout the morning.

The tap box, which was located on the north campus, exploded because of an accumulation of moisture in the box, according to John Delee, Notre Dame's Director of Utilities.

The deteriorated condition of the box coupled with the moisture from the nearby sprinkler system caused the explosion. The force of the lightening-type explosion lifted off the manhole lid and sent smoke into the air.

Damage was limited to the two square foot tap box and feeder cable which power the north campus buildings.

The utilities department restored power to most of the buildings by 12:30 yesterday afternoon. Sarratt Center and the Guard House will remain without power until sometime this afternoon, however, since major repairs to the feeder cable could not begin until early this morning.

---

Finds ND lacking social space

by JOHN SPENDLEY

Senior Staff Reporter

Frustration threatens to blow up the Polish Embassy, eight hostages and themselves have extended by 48 hours their deadline for Poland to end martial-law rule and free all political prisoners, the government reported last night.

The gunmen occupying the embassy released a fourth hostage late Wednesday. He was an 80-year-old Polish-born professor who still holds at the compound, a day after he was taken over by the raiders Monday. Three women were freed earlier.

A government spokesman said the deadline extension and the students' release were obtained after "intensive negotiations."

Playing a key role in the talks is an 86-year-old Polish-born theologian, Professor Joseph M. Bochanski, a resident of Switzerland. He spent an hour in the embassy Tuesday in the first face-to-face negotiations with the gunman.

The terrorists, who still hold at least eight hostages, originally issued an ultimatum saying they would blow up the building at 10 a.m. Wednesday. A 4 a.m. EDT, if Poland's communist government did not meet their demands.

One of the women hostages who was freed said she saw "four raiders armed with long weapons." The invaders claimed they had enough dynamite to destroy the building, themselves and their hostages.

As dusk, police surrounding the embassy moved their road blocks farther away from the compound, raising speculation of an armed assault.

In Warsaw, the Foreign Ministry gave its formal permission for Swiss police to move into the embassy, which has extraterritorial status. It also asked Switzerland to permit Poland to send a special group here to help end the siege. It was believed the group would include members of an anti-terrorist commando squad.

Lunchtime fast raises $15,000 for Coalition

NOTRE DAME, Ind. (AP) - The campus-wide fast, designed to increase awareness of and support for the leder cable which powers the north campus buildings, was donated to the People's Food Co-op, a self-help program and soup kitchen for the poor of the South Bend community. Other agencies which received funds included the Argo Industries and Tribal Foundation, Social Security Administration.

According to Coalition director Ed Colbert, this year's fasting program will begin September 29. "We are trying to get Food Services to increase the amount of money donated for each lunchtime fast," he noted. "We have been $5 cents for a long while now."

Other plans for the year include a hunger week, which would include speakers, films, a retreat, and other events to further explore the issue of world hunger.

---

Explosion darkens campus buildings

A high voltage tap box exploded near the Ave Maria Press building at 9:00 yesterday morning. The explosion left the right side of the building without power throughout the morning.

The tap box, which was located on the north campus, exploded because of an accumulation of moisture in the box, according to John Delee, Notre Dame's Director of Utilities.

The deteriorated condition of the box coupled with the moisture from the nearby sprinkler system caused the explosion. The force of the lightening-type explosion lifted off the manhole lid and sent smoke into the air.

Damage was limited to the two square foot tap box and feeder cable which power the north campus buildings.

The utilities department restored power to most of the buildings by 12:30 yesterday afternoon. Sarratt Center and the Guard House will remain without power until sometime this afternoon, however, since major repairs to the feeder cable could not begin until early this morning.

---

Finds ND lacking social space

by JOHN SPENDLEY

Senior Staff Reporter

Frustration threatens to blow up the Polish Embassy, eight hostages and themselves have extended by 48 hours their deadline for Poland to end martial-law rule and free all political prisoners, the government reported last night.

The gunmen occupying the embassy released a fourth hostage late Wednesday. He was an 80-year-old Polish-born professor who still holds at the compound, a day after he was taken over by the raiders Monday. Three women were freed earlier.

A government spokesman said the deadline extension and the students' release were obtained after "intensive negotiations."

Playing a key role in the talks is an 86-year-old Polish-born theologian, Professor Joseph M. Bochanski, a resident of Switzerland. He spent an hour in the embassy Tuesday in the first face-to-face negotiations with the gunman.

The terrorists, who still hold at least eight hostages, originally issued an ultimatum saying they would blow up the building at 10 a.m. Wednesday. A 4 a.m. EDT, if Poland's communist government did not meet their demands.

One of the women hostages who was freed said she saw "four raiders armed with long weapons." The invaders claimed they had enough dynamite to destroy the building, themselves and their hostages.

As dusk, police surrounding the embassy moved their road blocks farther away from the compound, raising speculation of an armed assault.

In Warsaw, the Foreign Ministry gave its formal permission for Swiss police to move into the embassy, which has extraterritorial status. It also asked Switzerland to permit Poland to send a special group here to help end the siege. It was believed the group would include members of an anti-terrorist commando squad.

Lunchtime fast raises $15,000 for Coalition

NOTRE DAME, Ind. (AP) - The campus-wide fast, designed to increase awareness of and support for the leder cable which powers the north campus buildings, was donated to the People's Food Co-op, a self-help program and soup kitchen for the poor of the South Bend community. Other agencies which received funds included the Argo Industries and Tribal Foundation, Social Security Administration.

According to Coalition director Ed Colbert, this year's fasting program will begin September 29. "We are trying to get Food Services to increase the amount of money donated for each lunchtime fast," he noted. "We have been $5 cents for a long while now."

Other plans for the year include a hunger week, which would include speakers, films, a retreat, and other events to further explore the issue of world hunger.

---

Explosion darkens campus buildings

A high voltage tap box exploded near the Ave Maria Press building at 9:00 yesterday morning. The explosion left the right side of the building without power throughout the morning.

The tap box, which was located on the north campus, exploded because of an accumulation of moisture in the box, according to John Delee, Notre Dame's Director of Utilities.

The deteriorated condition of the box coupled with the moisture from the nearby sprinkler system caused the explosion. The force of the lightening-type explosion lifted off the manhole lid and sent smoke into the air.

Damage was limited to the two square foot tap box and feeder cable which power the north campus buildings.

The utilities department restored power to most of the buildings by 12:30 yesterday afternoon. Sarratt Center and the Guard House will remain without power until sometime this afternoon, however, since major repairs to the feeder cable could not begin until early this morning.

---
Former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, hoping to avoid a run-off in his quest for a fourth term, went before voters for the first time in six years yesterday as four states held primary elections. Both Arizona and Florida have incumbent Democratic senators and governors seeking re-election, but none faced major opposition. In the presidential contest, Gov. William O'Neill, Democrat, and Sen. Lowell Weicker, a Republican, were unopposed and sought re-election November 5th, but a total of 32 candidates were selected at party conventions. Voters were choosing three congressional candidates and a conservative, non-accusatory nominee for secretary of state of Alabama. Wallace, 65, stopped short of predicting he would win a majority of the vote and thus avoid a Sept. 28 run-off between the top two finishers. "It's hard to beat them all at one time," Wallace said at a Labor Day rally. But he added, "I'm going to be governor again." — AP

Food allergies were dismissed as a cause of eczema by the American Academy of Pediatrics in 1969, but they do contribute to the skin condition, a Duke University Medical Center study reported yesterday. More than half of 26 children suffering from eczema, a red, itchy rash, were found to be allergic to specific foods, said Dr. Hugh Sampson, a pediatric allergist. How the foods cause eczema remains unknown, Sampson said, but he noted the tendency to have any allergic runs in families. He said eczema affects between 1 percent and 5 percent of the population, a range that runs from 2.2 million to 6.6 million people. — AP

A Chicago ironworker unable to work for 2 years because of a neck injury returned $120,000 in unclaimed checks that he found while taking a bag of food to a neighbor. Edward Jacekcy, 63, spotted three duffelbags filled with checks made out to American Red Cross and later delivered them to Salvation Army. Jacekcy, 63, spotted three duffelbags filled with checks made out to corporals emergency. Four of the men were injured in stabbing attacks at a San Francisco union hall, including two of the men who were hospital patients in 1975, and in 1979 the couple chartered an aircraft for a vacation in the Bahamas. He did not say what that would be. Did Jacekcy ever think of working again? "I think of working every day," he said. "It's hard to beat them all at one time." Wallace said at a Labor Day rally: "But he added, "I'm going to be governor again." — AP

One inmate was killed and two others — one of them the dead man's brother — were injured in stabbing attacks at an AP operation in New York and warmer. High around 80. — AP

Hundred of supporters of the Palestinian cause marched through Khartoum, Sudan to the Palestinians' wall. — AP

Movie star Sophia Loren, who spent 17 days in her native Venice, Italy, has described her sentence as a "hellish and shocking experience." She denied press reports that claimed she was accorded special treatment at the women's prison. — AP

A Chicago ironworker unable to work for 2 years because of a neck injury returned $120,000 in unclaimed checks that he found while taking a bag of food to a neighbor. Edward Jacekcy, 63, spotted three duffelbags filled with checks made out to American Red Cross and later delivered them to Salvation Army. Jacekcy, 63, spotted three duffelbags filled with checks made out to corporals emergency. Four of the men were injured in stabbing attacks at a San Francisco union hall, including two of the men who were hospital patients in 1975, and in 1979 the couple chartered an aircraft for a vacation in the Bahamas. He did not say what that would be. Did Jacekcy ever think of working again? "I think of working every day," he said. "It's hard to beat them all at one time." Wallace said at a Labor Day rally: "But he added, "I'm going to be governor again." — AP

Becoming partly sunny today and mild. High in low 70's. Favorable conditions in the area until 56. Tomorrow, mostly sunny and warmer. High around 80. — AP

The 28 religious who live at Corby Hall have survived comfortably well while their country has been subjected to 20 months of tax hikes, tax break, tax reform and economic insecurity. Comfortable is the most appropriate way to describe Corby Hall, the main residence at Notre Dame for members of the Holy Cross community. Six comprise the community to the main entrance of the 89-year-old structure, which boasts almost 50 rooms. The steps and way, so worn, was the front porch. Each half of the porch encloses three chairs and two hanging plants. Rumors of extravagant living have haunted Corby for some time. Tales include descriptions of a "Hershey bar-corned chandeliers in priests' rooms, and a hidden jacuzzi.

There were no limits of high living on lower floors of Corby. The pale yellow entrance hall seems in a condition similar to most student dorms. Gray carpeting leads to a hallway with parlors and guest rooms on one side; private rooms and a Chapel on the other. The door to one priest's room was open. Inside, a desk covered with papers and documents filled one corner. The floor was scattered across the floor. A small bed covered by a spread, was positioned against one wall. The area was the size of a single room at Morrissey, if not smaller. Corby has few luxuries. There is no central air conditioning — only window fans in the television room on the first floor. Furniture looks old, but well worn.

Ninety-six religious are registered to take meals and use the lift of 15 cars at Corby Hall. The Corby budget is financed through various donations and provides only basic living and teaching facilities. It took Father Leonard Banas his first year as Corby Hall superior to find out just what adjustments he could make in the budget to ease the impact of the recession. Banas would not reveal the amount of Corby's annual budget.

Banas finds the economic situation similar to the Depression, but "not as bad." Although he admits that he cannot speak for all of the priests registered at Corby Hall, Banas said there have been administrative changes during the past two years. Corby Hall secretariat Bert Kovacs maintains that Corby religious look "a very conservative lifestyle," although they are aware of Corby's annual budget. Banas does not tolerate increases in the budget to provide the pension for the priests. Banas said that they constantly ask themselves if they should decrease the labor force. Banas hopes the economic outlook will brighten soon. He works with parishioners in Michigan, where he says people lost their jobs, but they turned to the automotive industry in which they relied on the automotive industry before.

The views expressed in the inside columns are the views of the author, not necessarily those of the newspaper. — AP

Kelli Flint
Executive News Editor

Inside Wednesday

Corby Hall survives recession well

Corby Hall residents use small economy cars now. When Banas came, he eliminated big cars. Chevrolet and Chrysler are the most popular automobiles Corby residents use. Banas hopes the economic outlook will brighten soon. He works with parishioners in Michigan, where he says people lost their jobs, but they turned to the automotive industry in which they relied on the automotive industry before.

The views expressed in the inside columns are the views of the author, not necessarily those of the newspaper. — AP

Kelli Flint
Executive News Editor

Inside Wednesday

The 28 religious who live at Corby Hall have survived comfortably well while their country has been subjected to 20 months of tax hikes, tax break, tax reform and economic insecurity. Comfortable is the most appropriate way to describe Corby Hall, the main residence at Notre Dame for members of the Holy Cross community. Six comprise the community to the main entrance of the 89-year-old structure, which boasts almost 50 rooms. The steps and way, so worn, was the front porch. Each half of the porch encloses three chairs and two hanging plants. Rumors of extravagant living have haunted Corby for some time. Tales include descriptions of a "Hershey bar-corned chandeliers in priests' rooms, and a hidden jacuzzi.

There were no limits of high living on lower floors of Corby. The pale yellow entrance hall seems in a condition similar to most student dorms. Gray carpeting leads to a hallway with parlors and guest rooms on one side; private rooms and a Chapel on the other. The door to one priest's room was open. Inside, a desk covered with papers and documents filled one corner. The floor was scattered across the floor. A small bed covered by a spread, was positioned against one wall. The area was the size of a single room at Morrissey, if not smaller. Corby has few luxuries. There is no central air conditioning — only window fans in the television room on the first floor. Furniture looks old, but well worn.

Ninety-six religious are registered to take meals and use the lift of 15 cars at Corby Hall. The Corby budget is financed through various donations and provides only basic living and teaching facilities. It took Father Leonard Banas his first year as Corby Hall superior to find out just what adjustments he could make in the budget to ease the impact of the recession. Banas would not reveal the amount of Corby's annual budget.

Banas finds the economic situation similar to the Depression, but "not as bad." Although he admits that he cannot speak for all of the priests registered at Corby Hall, Banas said there have been administrative changes during the past two years. Corby Hall secretariat Bert Kovacs maintains that Corby religious look "a very conservative lifestyle," although they are aware of Corby's annual budget. Banas does not tolerate increases in the budget to provide the pension for the priests. Banas said that they constantly ask themselves if they should decrease the labor force. Banas hopes the economic outlook will brighten soon. He works with parishioners in Michigan, where he says people lost their jobs, but they turned to the automotive industry in which they relied on the automotive industry before.

The views expressed in the inside columns are the views of the author, not necessarily those of the newspaper. — AP

Kelli Flint
Executive News Editor

Inside Wednesday

The 28 religious who live at Corby Hall have survived comfortably well while their country has been subjected to 20 months of tax hikes, tax break, tax reform and economic insecurity. Comfortable is the most appropriate way to describe Corby Hall, the main residence at Notre Dame for members of the Holy Cross community. Six comprise the community to the main entrance of the 89-year-old structure, which boasts almost 50 rooms. The steps and way, so worn, was the front porch. Each half of the porch encloses three chairs and two hanging plants. Rumors of extravagant living have haunted Corby for some time. Tales include descriptions of a "Hershey bar-corned chandeliers in priests' rooms, and a hidden jacuzzi.

There were no limits of high living on lower floors of Corby. The pale yellow entrance hall seems in a condition similar to most student dorms. Gray carpeting leads to a hallway with parlors and guest rooms on one side; private rooms and a Chapel on the other. The door to one priest's room was open. Inside, a desk covered with papers and documents filled one corner. The floor was scattered across the floor. A small bed covered by a spread, was positioned against one wall. The area was the size of a single room at Morrissey, if not smaller. Corby has few luxuries. There is no central air conditioning — only window fans in the television room on the first floor. Furniture looks old, but well worn.

Ninety-six religious are registered to take meals and use the lift of 15 cars at Corby Hall. The Corby budget is financed through various donations and provides only basic living and teaching facilities. It took Father Leonard Banas his first year as Corby Hall superior to find out just what adjustments he could make in the budget to ease the impact of the recession. Banas would not reveal the amount of Corby's annual budget.

Banas finds the economic situation similar to the Depression, but "not as bad." Although he admits that he cannot speak for all of the priests registered at Corby Hall, Banas said there have been administrative changes during the past two years. Corby Hall secretariat Bert Kovacs maintains that Corby religious look "a very conservative lifestyle," although they are aware of Corby's annual budget. Banas does not tolerate increases in the budget to provide the pension for the priests. Banas said that they constantly ask themselves if they should decrease the labor force. Banas hopes the economic outlook will brighten soon. He works with parishioners in Michigan, where he says people lost their jobs, but they turned to the automotive industry in which they relied on the automotive industry before.
Two programs
Summer programs offer Europe

By FRANCES NOLAN

Over 90 Saint Mary's and Notre Dame students toured Europe this summer as part of two programs sponsored by Saint Mary's College. Dr. Anthony Black, Associate Professor of History at Saint Mary's, directed the two summer programs, which encompassed several European countries.

The first program took students to London and included travel in Ireland, Scotland, and Italy. The second program allowed students a two-week stay in Rome in addition to travel in France, Germany, Switzerland, and Italy.

The continuing programs are open to any Notre Dame or Saint Mary's student, and many students from other universities have participated in recent programs.

A variety of courses are offered in the programs this summer. "They (the courses) are geared toward your experience," said Ann Fishery, a Saint Mary's student who participated in the programs this summer. "I took International Business and was able to see and understand how various firms worked in the countries we visited. I could compare our organizations with theirs," commented Fishery.

Saint Mary's and Notre Dame students can also obtain up to six credits from one program or nine credits from the two programs combined.

Anyone interested in additional information about these programs should contact Dr. Black at 284-4460. An informational meeting will be held later in the semester.

The Observer
Wednesday, September 8, 1982 — page 3

Individual counseling

SMC series targets sexuality

By SUSAN O'HARA

The Counseling and Career Development Center, Health Services, and Campus Ministry of Saint Mary's will be holding a series of presentations aimed at making students more aware of their sexual responsibilities.

Mary Then, assistant director of Counseling and Career Development at Saint Mary's hopes the series, entitled "Relationships and Sexuality," will magnify the necessity for students to make responsible decisions regarding their sexual activity. She added that because of the Catholic community at Notre Dame/Saint Mary's, many students are reluctant to confide in anyone if they have questions or concerns about sex.

The noted that individual counseling is also available and all records are confidential and apart from school records.

Tom Reid, director of Campus Ministry at Saint Mary's, will kick off the series by discussing Christian values, sexuality and decision making. Mary Thes will then cover the psychological aspects of sexual relationships.

In addition, Dr. Norman Forrest, the gynecologist for Notre Dame and Saint Mary's, will discuss the medical problems related to the reproductive system. He will also speak about some common sexually transmitted diseases, normal sexual functioning, and family planning.

The presentation will be Tuesday, September 14 in Carroll Hall (SMC) at 6:00 p.m.

The following week Dr. C. William Tageson, associate professor of Psychology at Notre Dame, will answer questions including "Why do opposites attract?" and "What can I do if people learn about you from people you are attracted to?"

In the third presentation, Mary Then and Rev. Fred Pfliegher, Pastor of Hilltop Lutheran Church will examine the definition of sexuality and aid students in understanding their sexual feelings.

The fourth presentation will explore relationships, intimacy, and marriage and the role women are expected to play in these relationships. Presentations will be discussed also.

No date or speaker has been announced.

World Bank publishes image renewal book

TORONTO (AP) — At a cost of $5 million a year in 1970, the World Bank tried to help Madagascar with an irrigation project to double rice production in paddy fields around Lake Fenetsa.

The failure was nearly complete. There was a small increase in rice supplies, farm income scarcely grew, money flowed away from the poorest in the area, the plan was presented by the local inhabitants and dependence on government increased.

In Dakar, Senegal, an 88 million World Bank urban housing program approved in 1971 had managed medical personnel, seven of which were occupied.

Dakar banks were reluctant to lend money to the people for whom the houses were intended. They were years ago a small revolving fund was established. Partly as a result, more than 4,500 houses are now under construction, with a resident population of 20,000 and rapidly growing.

These and other tales of woe and some of subsequent achievements are recounted in a glossy 140-page publication issued as part of an unusual attempt by the bank to rehabilitate the image of its International Development Agency.

Spending by IDA had to be cut back by 5 percent in 1982 because of problems stemming from the refusal of the U.S. Congress to appropriate funds promised three years ago by then-President Jimmy Carter.

The agency, formed in 1960 as an arm of the World Bank, lends to the world's poorest countries, offering 50-year loans at zero interest, with service charges of less than 1 percent per year.

Muzafer S. Berger of Turkey, the World bank's vice president for external affairs, discussed the agency's problems with reporters in Toronto this week for the bank's annual meeting with the International Monetary Fund.

"Very often IDA has been talked about as if it were a glorified welfare agency," Berenek said. "I think the comparison with welfare is incorrect and inaccurate."

He said the agency's aim was to encourage investment and production—not consumption and inaccuracy.

Since the agency began lending, 27 nations have "graduated" by developing their economies to the point that they can afford more conventional lending terms, either from the World Bank or private sources.

The development agency gets its money from contributions by the richer countries, plus a slice of the profits of the World Bank's other operations. The bank operaties by borrowing from commercial banks, then reloaning at a slight premium to countries which can afford to pay going rates of interest, but are not considered creditworthy.

OPEN ADDITIONS!

DANCERS!

Auditions for

The Little Match Girl

Tuesday, September 7 at 7:00 p.m.
Little Theater SMC

Wedneday, September 8 at 7:00 p.m
Washington Hall AND

SMC series targets sexuality

By SUSAN O'HARA

The Counseling and Career Development Center, Health Services, and Campus Ministry of Saint Mary's will be holding a series of presentations aimed at making students more aware of their sexual responsibilities.

Mary Then, assistant director of Counseling and Career Development at Saint Mary's hopes the series, entitled "Relationships and Sexuality," will magnify the necessity for students to make responsible decisions regarding their sexual activity. She added that because of the Catholic community at Notre Dame/Saint Mary's, many students are reluctant to confide in anyone if they have questions or concerns about sex.

The noted that individual counseling is also available and all records are confidential and apart from school records.

Tom Reid, director of Campus Ministry at Saint Mary's, will kick off the series by discussing Christian values, sexuality and decision making. Mary Thes will then cover the psychological aspects of sexual relationships.

In addition, Dr. Norman Forrest, the gynecologist for Notre Dame and Saint Mary's, will discuss the medical problems related to the reproductive system. He will also speak about some common sexually transmitted diseases, normal sexual functioning, and family planning.

The presentation will be Tuesday, September 14 in Carroll Hall (SMC) at 6:00 p.m.

The following week Dr. C. William Tageson, associate professor of Psychology at Notre Dame, will answer questions including "Why do opposites attract?" and "What can I do if people learn about you from people you are attracted to?"

In the third presentation, Mary Then and Rev. Fred Pfliegher, Pastor of Hilltop Lutheran Church will examine the definition of sexuality and aid students in understanding their sexual feelings.

The fourth presentation will explore relationships, intimacy, and marriage and the role women are expected to play in these relationships. Presentations will be discussed also.

No date or speaker has been announced.

World Bank publishes image renewal book

TORONTO (AP) — At a cost of $5 million a year in 1970, the World Bank tried to help Madagascar with an irrigation project to double rice production in paddy fields around Lake Fenetsa.

The failure was nearly complete. There was a small increase in rice supplies, farm income scarcely grew, money flowed away from the poorest in the area, the plan was presented by the local inhabitants and dependence on government increased.

In Dakar, Senegal, an 88 million World Bank urban housing program approved in 1971 had managed medical personnel, seven of which were occupied.

Dakar banks were reluctant to lend money to the people for whom the houses were intended. They were years ago a small revolving fund was established. Partly as a result, more than 4,500 houses are now under construction, with a resident population of 20,000 and rapidly growing.

These and other tales of woe and some of subsequent achievements are recounted in a glossy 140-page publication issued as part of an unusual attempt by the bank to rehabilitate the image of its International Development Agency.

Spending by IDA had to be cut back by 5 percent in 1982 because of problems stemming from the refusal of the U.S. Congress to appropriate funds promised three years ago by then-President Jimmy Carter.

The agency, formed in 1960 as an arm of the World Bank, lends to the world's poorest countries, offering 50-year loans at zero interest, with service charges of less than 1 percent per year.

Muzafer S. Berger of Turkey, the World bank's vice president for external affairs, discussed the agency's problems with reporters in Toronto this week for the bank's annual meeting with the International Monetary Fund.

"Very often IDA has been talked about as if it were a glorified welfare agency," Berenek said. "I think the comparison with welfare is incorrect and inaccurate."

He said the agency's aim was to encourage investment and production—not consumption and inaccuracy.

Since the agency began lending, 27 nations have "graduated" by developing their economies to the point that they can afford more conventional lending terms, either from the World Bank or private sources.

The development agency gets its money from contributions by the richer countries, plus a slice of the profits of the World Bank's other operations. The bank operaties by borrowing from commercial banks, then reloaning at a slight premium to countries which can afford to pay going rates of interest, but are not considered creditworthy.
Arab secret summit seeks peace options

FEZ, Morocco (AP) — Arab leaders conferred in strict secrecy yesterday at a summit meeting convened to define a possible Arab peace strategy in the Middle East for the first time since the creation of the state of Israel.

The summit was formally opened Monday by the host and chairman, Morocco's King Hassan II, with a warning to the leaders to allow no premature information leaks out of the closely guarded conference center.

Official Moroccan sources said the kings, emirs and presidents remained locked in intense debate until Tuesday evening and resumed their talks seven hours later. The sources gave no indication of the subjects discussed, but pointed out that the Israeli invasion of Lebanon and its aftermath took top place on the published summit agenda.

Lebanon has asked the summit to demand that all foreign forces — "Israeli, Palestinian and Syrian" — be evacuated from Lebanon and not permitted to wage war without delay.

It was clear, however, that the most important discussions will center on two Arab peace plans that envision a general Arab recognition of Israel, and a third plan put forward by President Reagan proposing creation of an autonomous Palestinian "domestic authority" in association with Jordan.

The Reagan plan was welcomed by many Arab moderates but rejected by the Israeli Cabinet and the militant Arab hard-liners. It was viewed as a means to woo the peace plans put forward by Saudi Arabia and Tunisia, though it was not formally listed on the summit agenda.

The Saudi plan would require Israel to evacuate all Arab territory occupied since the 1967 war, including the Golan Heights and the Arab sector of Jerusalem. The Tunisian plan would reduce Israel to three disconnected enclaves enclosed by the Middle East. The Israeli state was formed in 1948.

East Jerusalem — containing the Al Aqsa mosque, the third holiest shrine of Islam — plays a crucial role in all three plans. The entire city is to be annexed by Jordan under the Tunisian plan. The Arab sector would simply revert to a Palestinian state under the Saudi plan.

Under a proposal of the Reagan plan that particularly infuriates the Israelis, the Arab inhabitants of east Jerusalem would affiliate with Jordan in elections for the Palestinian domestic authority.

East Jerusalem and all the West Bank were part of Jordan until the 1967 war. Jordan's King Hussein subsequently relinquished all Jordan's claims to east Jerusalem, the heart of the Palestine Liberation Organization and the Palestinian state which the PLO wants to set up in the West Bank.

Arafat had the summit to demand that all foreign forces — "Israeli, Palestinian and Syrian" — be evacuated from Lebanon and not permitted to wage war without delay.

While trying to build momentum behind the Middle East peace plan, Reagan is facing a showdown with Congress. He has scheduled a $11.2 billion supplemental appropriation bill which he claimed is needed to define 77 days of his presidency at his moun- tain ranch outside Santa Barbara, spent nearly three months in the Mideast negotiating the settlement of the war in Lebanon and the evacuation of Palestinian guerrillas from Beirut.

Stepp said the UAW in negotiations with General Dynamics Corp. of St. Louis, which bought Chrysler's defense unit earlier this year. The two sides began work on economic proposals, he said.

"We are close to 90 percent in agreement on non-economic issues" at General Dynamics, Stepp said at the news conference. Some of the items which have been resolved are seniority, grievance procedures, representation and transfers, he added.

Stepp added that the UAW in negotiations with General Dynamics Corp. of St. Louis, which bought Chrysler's defense unit earlier this year, had reached agreements on non-economic issues.

"This peaceful step could never have been taken without the truly heroic work of Ambassador Habib," Reagan said last week.

Reagan's presentation of the Medal of Freedom to Habib was announced last week.

The president has not explained the plan and its defiance of Reagan's call for a freeze on new Jewish settlements in the occupied West Bank and Gaza strip, the administration said.

Reagan wants Congress to approve revised legislation with more money for defense spending and less for domestic programs. Without a new bill, the government will not have money to meet the Sept. 15 payroll for 3 million military personnel.

The president's return also marked the end of three days of his historic visit to the island of Kauai, his birthplace, to discuss the resurgence of the war.

The summit was formally opened Monday by the host and chairman, Morocco's King Hassan II, with a warning to the leaders to allow no premature information leaks out of the closely guarded conference center.

General Dynamics spokesman Ray Forbes said the company would have no comment on its talks with the UAW.

"We are never willing to compromise when it comes to the rights of workers," he added.
Suspects caught in murder case

NEW YORK (AP) — Police captured one man after a car chase and searched for two others yesterday in the ritual murder of a Florida nutrition professor. Authorities said they had issued "numerous" warrants and considered the case "solved."

A man tentatively identified as Gary McNichol, 21, was arrested with the stolen car and credit cards of Professor Howard Appledorf, who was murdered over the weekend in his condominium near the University of Florida campus at Gainesville.

Police were searching for two companions with whom McNichol was drinking at an East Side bar frequented by homosexuals. Police said one of the men had a record as a transvestite and a transsexual, and speculated the men might be distrusted as women.

The men left the bar after McNichol jumped in the car and led police on a chase through Manhattan at speeds up to 100 mph. McNichol is believed to be one of three men Florida authorities have been seeking in the slaying, according to Detective Capt. James Power.

The three, whom Florida authorities declined to name, were involved in an attempt two weeks ago to rob a $500 check belonging to Appledorf.

In Gainesville, police said that with the arrest in New York and the tentative identification of other suspects, they considered the murder solved.

"I can tell you the case is solved," said Detective Capt. James Power. "We know who committed the homicide act," said Gainesville police Capt. Richard A. Ward. "We aren't going to identify the suspects or say how many there were," he said.

"There are other individuals involved," Ward said. "Numerous homicide warrants issued," Ward said.

Gainesville police investigators were sent there to question and positively identify the man held there, Ward said. Officers also were sent to Lumberton, N.C., and police there have alerted officials in Boston and in Connecticut about the other wanted men, according to the police captain.

Ward said police had received information Monday which pointed to the New York suspect involved and there are "numerous" murder " warrants" been issued by a judge here.

State attorney Eugene Whitworth said that if the New York suspect waived extradition it could be returned to Florida "tomorrow or the next day. If not, it could be 30 to 60 days."

The body of Appledorf, a popular professor of nutrition and a well-known defender of the nutritional value of so-called "junk food," was found Saturday. His body was tied and laid face up on a couch. His head was stuffed into a canvas bag of ice and swathed with sheets and pillows.

Three plates contained the remains of submarine sandwiches. An unseen sandwich sat on a fourth plate. The apartment was strewn with trash, and the words "murder" and "revenge" spelled backward were written on the walls.

Town survives atomic shadow since 1911

By MARCIA DUNN

Associated Press

Long before the atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki, the Manhattan Project's industrial park was a quiet, residential suburb, about a mile from the processing plant to catch rainwater in her backyard.

Dr. Evelyn Talbott, a native of Canonsburg, said that lung cancer cases were not higher, according to radioactive element radon. However, the incidence of ulcers in general was down, says Mayor Jack Passante.

University of Pittsburgh researchers assured residents at a town meeting last month that radiation levels are not alarming. "The radioactive effects — if they are there — are very, very slight. I assure you this is not a serious problem that is out of control," Dr. Edward Radford said following a two-year study funded by the EPA.

"Frankly, I would live there," said Dr. Evelyn Talbott, a native of Canonsburg.

Both researchers said they found slightly higher radon levels in some homes of Canonsburg's 13,000 residents living within one mile of the facility.

The study found slightly higher rates of thyroid abnormalities. In addition, the incidence of ulcers in men and self-reported nervous and emotional disorders in women also were slightly higher, according to the study. But because only 50 percent of Canonsburg residents eligible for the study participated, the researchers said they could not conclude that the illnesses were caused by exposure to low-level radiation.

Both scientists said their assurances do not apply to the 18 acre site where processing occurred. Five businesses remain at the site.

A study released earlier in the summer by Pitt doctoral student Stephen Lanes, meanwhile, concluded that people living near the industrial park were not significantly affected.

Lanes' study indicated that lung cancer rates were not higher than elsewhere in Washington County and that lung cancer cases were not concentrated around the industrial park.

Despite such positive reports, city officials in Canonsburg say the publicity has hurt business and real estate sales are down, says Mayor Jack Passante. "It's put a stigma on the area that I am going to last for quite some time," Passante said.

Welcome Baptist Students!

BAPTIST STUDENT UNION

Bible Study - Fellowship - Fun
JOIN * Monday, September 18, 1982
* Time: 7 pm
* At the Bulla Shed
Pianist prepares dramatic comeback

BALTIMORE (AP) — Seventeen years after a mysterious affliction crippled his right hand, pianist Leon Fleisher is refreshing for a dramatic, two-handed return to the concert performing that won him world renown.

Using both hands to play in public for the first time since 1965, he will play unaccompanied and with the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra at the Sept. 16 opening of Baltimore's $22 million symphony hall, before thousands of people who paid at least $25 each.

"I'm looking forward to it with great pleasure," he said in a telephone interview. "It's going to be an exciting evening."

Fleisher, 54, spent years searching for a cure, even trying shock treatment and hypnosis. He became depressed and acted like an "ostracized" person around him. He learned piano works for the left hand and took up conducting, but he didn't give up hope.

In 1977, explaining that he didn't want to become a full-time specialist in works for the left hand, Fleisher said: "I'm quite certain that sooner or later I'm going to be playing with two hands again. It'll happen — I really think it will."

Fleisher underwent physical therapy and psychotherapy in unsuccessful efforts to cure the ailment. Then in January 1981 he underwent an operation at Massachusetts General to correct a new and not necessarily related problem called carpal tunnel syndrome.

Before surgery, it was almost impossible for Fleisher to even hold a baton, hospital spokesman Martin Bandel said. His left hand and ring fingers tended to clench.

After the operation, the clenching returned, but to a much lesser degree, Bandel said. It was then that physical therapy began.

Carpal tunnel syndrome "was a subsequent problem," said Fleisher. "We couldn't deal with the first problem until we took care of that."

His doctors were the first to see him play again with two hands, a hospital spokesman said. He performed for them at a hospital chapel.

At the opening of the 2,467-seat Joseph Meyerhof Symphony Hall, named for the philanthropist who contributed $10 million to it, Fleisher will perform Franck's Symphonic Variations and an unaccompanied nocturne. The event will be taped by the Public Broadcasting Service.

...Poles

continued from page 6

London's Standard newspaper reported that the British Army's Special Air Service commando squad was sending men to Bern to "advise the Swiss police on how to set uplistening devices and to install a miniscule fish-eye camera in the building to watch the gunmen." The terrorists, it was said, had taken themselves "The Polish Revolutionary Home Army," are holding eight junior Polish diplomatic personnel and a Polish national who was visiting the embassy when it was seized, Hubacher said.

Their leader, who gave his name only as Col. Wysoczki, has said that if the demands are not met, he and his "anti-communist paramilitary squad" will blow up the embassy with 55 pounds of dynamite they claim to possess.

At first, Hubacher said there were 14 hostages, but later reported there were only 12, including three women who were released. The Polish news agency said in Warsaw, however, that there still were 10 hostages in the embassy.

ORGANIZATIONAL MEETING

For: all those interested in working with young inner-city children who have failed in public schools.

Wed. Sept 8 6:30pm

DURSSTONE LITTLE THEATRE

Any Questions call Mike at 285-6970

Come Hear About

SHENANIGANS

A new choral ensemble featuring song and dance

Wed., 9 pm

Crowley Recital Hall

More info in Crowley office
Education beyond the classroom

The popularity of activities night at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's shows a community-wide desire to be involved. This involvement points not only to an immediate need for individual expression but also to a higher appreciation of education.

In the spirit of experiential learning, we students pledge ourselves to practicing long hours, writing informative essays, and aiding the indigent.

Students from Notre Dame and Saint Mary's earn more than a degree and a grade point average; we carry with us a sense of fulfillment from putting as much as not more time into extracurriculars as academics. By contributing our talents to sports, clubs and projects, we test our abilities by working toward our physical and mental limits.

Students who attended the activities nights at the Stepang Center and at the Angela Athletic Facility testify to the belief in the well-rounded human being. Few students empathize with the near-sighted intellectual; few respect the consummate athlete. What we most admire is the individual who is intellectual; few respect the Center and at the Angela in the well-rounded human summate athlete. What we most admire is the individual who is intellectual; few respect the

Robert Lloyd Snyder

Then mid-week

These thoughts on the male/female relationship at Notre Dame reminded me of a phenomenon that continuously nags me each time I vividly recall some situation. For ters for the various candidates magically appear throughout the campus. Each advertisement difference quite different from the next -- except in one intrinsically fundamental way. Though women have been members of the undergraduate schools since 1972, no woman has ever been elected student body president; indeed, no woman has ever actively campaigned for the job. And very few women have served as class presidents. While almost all "tucks" have at least one girl in prominent display, the overwhelming majority of the candidates lead us to believe that one of the unwritten prerequisites to a primary leadership position on the Notre Dame campus is male gender.

A friend of mine once sarcastically remarked that most men at Notre Dame held that women were not taken seriously by a male-dominated world or a male-centered universe. Phenomenon that continuously nags me each time I vividly recall some situation. For ters for the various candidates magically appear throughout the campus. Each advertisement difference quite different from the next -- except in one intrinsically fundamental way. Though women have been members of the undergraduate schools since 1972, no woman has ever been elected student body president; indeed, no woman has ever actively campaigned for the job. And very few women have served as class presidents. While almost all "tucks" have at least one girl in prominent display, the overwhelming majority of the candidates lead us to believe that one of the unwritten prerequisites to a primary leadership position on the Notre Dame campus is male gender.

Robert Lloyd Snyder

As I was walking out of O'Shaughnessy hall yesterday afternoon, I began thinking about that beautiful girl in my 11 a.m. class. I began to reconsider the phenomenon of the overabundance of beautiful girls, an overwhelming majority of the candidates lead us to believe that one of the unwritten prerequisites to a primary leadership position on the Notre Dame campus is male gender.

Robert Lloyd Snyder

As I was walking out of O'Shaughnessy hall yesterday afternoon, I began thinking about that beautiful girl in my 11 a.m. class. I began to reconsider the phenomenon of the overabundance of beautiful girls, an overwhelming majority of the candidates lead us to believe that one of the unwritten prerequisites to a primary leadership position on the Notre Dame campus is male gender.

Robert Lloyd Snyder

As I was walking out of O'Shaughnessy hall yesterday afternoon, I began thinking about that beautiful girl in my 11 a.m. class. I began to reconsider the phenomenon of the overabundance of beautiful girls, an overwhelming majority of the candidates lead us to believe that one of the unwritten prerequisites to a primary leadership position on the Notre Dame campus is male gender.

Robert Lloyd Snyder

As I was walking out of O'Shaughnessy hall yesterday afternoon, I began thinking about that beautiful girl in my 11 a.m. class. I began to reconsider the phenomenon of the overabundance of beautiful girls, an overwhelming majority of the candidates lead us to believe that one of the unwritten prerequisites to a primary leadership position on the Notre Dame campus is male gender.

Robert Lloyd Snyder

As I was walking out of O'Shaughnessy hall yesterday afternoon, I began thinking about that beautiful girl in my 11 a.m. class. I began to reconsider the phenomenon of the overabundance of beautiful girls, an overwhelming majority of the candidates lead us to believe that one of the unwritten prerequisites to a prime leadership position on the Notre Dame campus is female gender.

Robert Lloyd Snyder

As I was walking out of O'Shaughnessy hall yesterday afternoon, I began thinking about that beautiful girl in my 11 a.m. class. I began to reconsider the phenomenon of the overabundance of beautiful girls, an overwhelming majority of the candidates lead us to believe that one of the unwritten prerequisites to a prime leadership position on the Notre Dame campus is female gender.

Robert Lloyd Snyder

As I was walking out of O'Shaughnessy hall yesterday afternoon, I began thinking about that beautiful girl in my 11 a.m. class. I began to reconsider the phenomenon of the overabundance of beautiful girls, an overwhelming majority of the candidates lead us to believe that one of the unwritten prerequisites to a prime leadership position on the Notre Dame campus is female gender.

Robert Lloyd Snyder

As I was walking out of O'Shaughnessy hall yesterday afternoon, I began thinking about that beautiful girl in my 11 a.m. class. I began to reconsider the phenomenon of the overabundance of beautiful girls, an overwhelming majority of the candidates lead us to believe that one of the unwritten prerequisites to a prime leadership position on the Notre Dame campus is female gender.

Robert Lloyd Snyder

As I was walking out of O'Shaughnessy hall yesterday afternoon, I began thinking about that beautiful girl in my 11 a.m. class. I began to reconsider the phenomenon of the overabundance of beautiful girls, an overwhelming majority of the candidates lead us to believe that one of the unwritten prerequisites to a prime leadership position on the Notre Dame campus is female gender.
Wedneday, September 8, 1982 — page 8

SHOWCASE

Winwood backtalk

Steve Winwood is an artist at the mercy of his lyrics. This is no reflection on the man himself, an acknowledged star at 16 with Traffic and part of the infamous "super group" Blind Faith.

Winwood writes haunting melodies on his keyboards, melodies that are surrounded and carried by the lyrics he so skillfully vocalizes and sweats over, put in front of the audience and takes the stage, surrounded by the band, and plays at the Athletic and Convocation Center.

The single and the album are great. They are more than a decade old, but it still sounds fresh and new. Winwood has a unique ability to make even the most outmoded song sound fresh and new.

The album, "Arc Of A Diver," is the culmination of Winwood's career, a testament to his ability to create music that is both personal and universal. The lyrics are powerful, the melodies are haunting, and the performances are masterful.

Winwood's voice is clear and strong, with a depth that is rare in today's music. His ability to convey emotion through his voice is unmatched, and his ability to reach the depths of the listener's soul is remarkable.

The guitar work on this album is also excellent. Winwood uses the guitar to create a rich tapestry of sound, with a variety of effects and techniques that add to the overall impact of the music.

In short, "Arc Of A Diver" is a masterpiece of rock and roll, and Steve Winwood is one of the greats of the genre.
IN CONCERT

all seats $9.50 reserved

with special guest to be arranged

Tickets go on sale this Thursday Sept. 9 at 10am at River City Records , 50970 U.S. 31 North 277-4242!!!
Limit 10 Tickets per Person!!!

October 5 & 6, 1982
The Rosemont Horizon
Rosemont, Illinois

Limited supply of charter bus trip packages for The Who Concerts are now on sale at River City Records, 50970 U.S. 31 North, South Bend, Indiana. Call 277-4242 for further information.

Package includes round trip transportation by deluxe
Indiana Motor Bus Coach, good reserved seat to concert and refreshments on bus.

RIVER CITY RECORDS CHARTER BUS TOUR
DETROIT LIONS vs. CHICAGO BEARS !!!!
This Sunday Sept. 12 Pontiac Silverdome
Bus packages still available at River City Records , 50970 U.S. 31 North, 277-4242
Interhall football signups will take place this week, but if you cannot be considered within the individual departments, for more information, contact your dorm's athletic commissioner or call the new 24-hour NWA phone line at 239-5100. —The Observer

The Observer: Notre Dame basketball greats Adrien Dantley, Kelly Tripucka and Austin Carr, and 15 other former Notre Dame players will be returning to the ACC September 18 to participate in the legion Center Benati Basketball Game. The game is being organized by Notre Dame assistant basketball coaches Gary Broekw and John Shumate, both former All-Americans who will appear in the game. "It will be a great opportunity for all of us to help give something back to the South Bend community and enable local fans to see the game," said Dantley. Tripucka is set for 1 p.m. Saturday, September 18, just seven hours before Notre Dame opens its 1982 football season against Michigan at the Rockne Memorial. Tickets are $4 in the lower arena and $4 for tickets. Selling for each at Gate 10 of the ACC. —The Observer

Ooug classes begin Wed, Sept 8 from 4-4:30. For faculty & staff classes start on first class day catalog - 306 pages. What's the Life? Apply for the 1982-83 catalog. Only $4 for GUYS CALL MICHOLE FOR TODAY! —The Observer

The Observer: Interested in rowing? Contact Jill DeLucia at 234-7331 about joining the Notre Dame-Saint Mary's rowing team. Please contact either: Susan Gearhart, athletic commissioner, at 234-5556 for information regarding fees, and John Shumate, both former Irish All-Americans who will play in the game, for details on the team. The Irish rowing team will hold an organizational meeting tomorrow at 6:45 p.m. in room 219 of the Rockne Memorial. Upper-class males interested in participating at Gate 10 of the ACC. —The Observer

Missy McManus
—The Observer

NCAA Volunteers for Youth will hold an organizational meeting for all student athletes tomorrow at 7 p.m. in the ACC football auditorium. Volunteers for sponsored by the NCAA and the Notre Dame athletic department, matches students with youth in the community. —The Observer

The Observer: Swimmers interested in the Notre Dame varsity swimming teams should report for an organizational meeting this afternoon in room 218 of the Rockne Memorial. Upper-class males should report at 4 p.m., upper-class females will meet at 4:30 p.m.; all freshmen at 5 p.m. Contact Coach Donna Stark (239-7042) for more information. —The Observer

Gerry Faust will be the guest tonight at 8:45 p.m. as the Fellowship of Christian Athletes reviews its discussion series. The meeting will be held in the Memorial Library Lounge. PCA promotes Christian fellowship among athletes, coaches and spectators in the hope that this will shared with the larger community. All invited. —The Observer

The Observer: Interested in rowing? Contact Jill DeLucia at 234-7331 about joining the Notre Dame-Saint Mary's rowing team sometime this year. —The Observer

The Observer: This is the last issue of the Observer this semester. For information, call your dorm's athletic commissioner or call the new 24-hour NWA phone line at 239-5100. —The Observer
Soccer squad seeks to improve even more

By SAM SHERRILL
Sports Writer

After a year in which the Fighting Irish squad captured their most impressive season ever, including an unexpected run to the NCAA Finals, can this year's edition really hope to better last year's triumph? The answer appears to be yes. Coach Rich Hunter, in his sixth season as head coach, feels the squad is capable of this strong effort and claims this team is different.

"This team, unlike some in the past, doesn't really have one individual star," Hunter says. "But our team has good overall talent. We have five men up front who are capable of giving us nine, ten, eleven goals. So we're expecting more of both our offense and defense this year."

Senior Gerad McCarthy will be the starting goalie after a one-year blitz. Another returning is tri-captain Mark Luetkehans, back after a year abroad, to play the important position of sweeper. The three start-ning fullbacks will be seniors Brad

McCurrie and Larry Smith and junior Ted Schwartz. The other three captains, Mike Sullivan and Jay Schwartz, will anchor the midfield, with Steve Berry rounding out the backh alf corps. Up front, junior Ken Herdegen and sophomore Herb Herdegen are slated to man the forward corps. The development of junior Mario Martin is the key."

Hunter has been pleased with the depth that has developed unlike in previous seasons. "When you lose players like Jim Sehn (fullback) and Sani Kabate (last year's leading scorer), it can really create problems, bringing in new people. But the players have really been great about keeping up with their workout schedule over the summer. We started working in July and some guys have really sacrificed a lot. We're much frrther along than I thought we'd be."

Add to these comments the prospect of several quality freshtmen, and you see the reason for the optimism surrounding the squad. But what of that elusive NCAA Tournament bid? "The reason getting to the NCAA is so difficult," Hunter explains, "is that there is such an unusually small number of tournament spots. Nevertheless, I think we have a chance at it. It is not just a matter of talent."

"We're going to have to improve little by little, and that's what I think we're going to do."

"Teams like Indiana, we can beat them, but we're just not really up to their caliber. The main reason for this is that the amount of financial backing that they get from their universities, which we just don't get from ours. It's really discouraging to me how little support the Athletic Department gives us in relation to some of the other major sports."

The outlook appears to be good, then, for this year's Irish team, and, if injuries don't pop up and the ball bounces the right way, there's still a good chance the NCAA Soccer action starts tonight at 7:00 at Carrier Field.

Irish coach Luetkehans typifies Irish intensity

By AL GNOZA
Sports Writer

Mark Luetkehans is a man of many talents, but you probably won't hear too much about him or his intellect. You see, Mark happens to play soccer, and a soccer player at Notre Dame just doesn't get a lot of attention."

"I think the players deserve all the credit, I don't like any personal acclaim. Leave it to them."-

IUPU - that we open with - was the kind of team that we used to have trouble with back in '87. But now we look at that game as a chance to work on our skills and concentrate on the basics."

Even with the increasingly dif-cult schedules, the Irish have maintained their successful tradition. Last year's edition finished 16-3-3, including quality showdowns against most of the big names on the schedule. Dedication from the players and from the coach. It is no exaggeration to say that the majority of the necessities for a quality Notre Dame soccer team have been contributed by Rich Hunter himself."

"A 1971 graduate of Notre Dame, Hunter later earned his law degree here and presently teaches courses in business law in the College of Business. But the majority of his time is spent on the soccer team, which he almost singlehandedly has brought to the point it's at today."

His philosophy is simple - "I tell my guys that we can't win just thinking about winning. It's all about concentrating on doing what you do best. Don't try to be what you can't. I could try and be a criminal lawyer, but I don't think I could do as good a job as I can as a teacher and a coach. If you do your best, then I think you're a success, win or lose.""

At the end of the year, one of the biggest rumors on campus usually has Rich Hunter leaving Notre Dame for greener pastures. Every August, however, has found him still holding court in the classroom and on the soccer field. Is this year finally going to be his last under the shadow of the Golden Dome?

"I don't really have too much of a say about that. I'm not tenured here, so it's really out of my hands. I've been here ten years now, and sometimes I think about doing other things. Someday it may be time to move on. But I don't really know when that will be.""

Few personalities on campus can boast of the popularity which Hunter enjoys, evidenced by the way in which students fight to get in his classes, and the high demand for recommendations from him. The greatest accolade, however, came in 1981 when he was elected Senior Class Fellow - an honor previously bestowed on the likes of Eugene McCarthy, tara Parekhgan, and Ray Meyer. No coach is more deserving of such praise.

Similarly, the Notre Dame soccer program takes a back seat to football. There are no Notre Dame soccer highlights on network television and it doesn't matter what the coach has to say on his way to his little league practice. The analysts don't pay to see it so no one is going to get paid to play it.

That's right, no scholarships. Just a desire to play the game and to go to a good school.

It is this sacrificing, hard-working attitude which Luetkehans em-plifies most. Suffice it to say that if Pete Rose had played soccer, he probably would have played a lot like Luetkehans."

"An aggressive player? Yes, I guess I play pretty hard," said Luetkehans. "But I also feel I use a lot of finesse."

"I like the Irish attitude, but I don't really have too much of a say about that. I'm not tenured here, so it's really out of my hands. I've been here ten years now, and sometimes I think about doing other things. Sometimes it may be time to move on. But I don't really know when that will be."

"I don't really have too much of a say about that. I'm not tenured here, so it's really out of my hands. I've been here ten years now, and sometimes I think about doing other things."

"The Irish could have a

"teams in first-ever NCAA tour-ament bid.

With a little student support, the Irish could have a very rewarding season. "Our support has been getting better each year," observed Luetkehans. "Everyone has worked do very hard, especially Coach Rich Hunter."

"The Rochester Tourney (with Georgetown, Syracuse, Rochester and the Irish) will be a major hurdle on our schedule. But if we can do well there, I think it will be a good year.""

"The Irish attitude, but I don't really have too much of a say about that. I'm not tenured here, so it's really out of my hands. I've been here ten years now, and sometimes I think about doing other things."

"The Irish could have a very rewarding season. "Our support has been getting better each year," observed Luetkehans. "Everyone has worked do very hard, especially Coach Rich Hunter."

"The Rochester Tourney (with Georgetown, Syracuse, Rochester and the Irish) will be a major hurdle on our schedule. But if we can do well there, I think it will be a good year."

"The Irish could have a very rewarding season. "Our support has been getting better each year," observed Luetkehans. "Everyone has worked do very hard, especially Coach Rich Hunter."

"The Rochester Tourney (with Georgetown, Syracuse, Rochester and the Irish) will be a major hurdle on our schedule. But if we can do well there, I think it will be a good year.""
Races tighten as baseball season winds up

CINCINNATI (AP) — Dany Baker drove in four runs with a homer, double and single as the Los Angeles Dodgers regained first place in the National League West with an 8-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds last night.

The Dodgers' win put them one-half game ahead of Atlanta, which was playing in Cincinnati.

Baker hit a two-run double in the third inning that carried the Dodgers to a 5-0 lead in the first inning off Mike Morgan, 6-9, when Al Beutler led off with a walk, Glenn Guenter singled and Leonard smashed an RB

Brewers, 4, Tigers 0

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Cecil Cooper lined a three-run homer to cap a four-run eighth inning and Don Sutton scattered seven hits for his first Milwaukee victory, leading the Brewers to a 4-0 win over the Detroit Tigers last night.

Sutton, 1-1, acquired by Milwaukee from Houston on Aug. 30, struck out none and walked none as the Brewers kept a three-game lead over second-place Baltimore in the American League East. It was the Brewers' sixth complete game of the season.

Loser Dan Petry, 4-9, carried a three-hitter into the eighth when Ed Romero beat out a single to deep left. Romero raced to third on a house-right double by Paul Molitor and Robin Yount slapped a single to second, his third hit, to break the tie.

Cooper then looped a two-run home run of the right-field seats for his 28th homer, finishing Petry.

Royals, 7, Yanks 2

NEW YORK (AP) — John Lowenstein cracked three hits, including his second double of the season, and drove in two runs to supplant Mike Morgan as the hitting leader as the Kansas City Royals defeated the New York Yankees 7-2 Tuesday night, giving them an 11-game winning streak.

Morgan entered the game with a hit in 22 straight games, then drove in two runs to supplant Mike Morgan as the hitting leader as the Kansas City Royals defeated the New York Yankees 7-2 Tuesday night, giving them an 11-game winning streak.

Bullard hit a two-run smash, his 19th, off Steve Trout in the eighthinning.

The streak is Baltimore's longest since 1980, when the Orioles captured 10 of 11 from Aug. 1 through Aug. 11. It is the second longestwinning streak in the American League this season, topped only by Cleveland's 11-game winning streak from May 23-June 5.

Baltimore has not lost since Aug. 27, when it dropped the secondgame of a doubleheader to Texas.

Farr made his major-league debut in relief of starter Steve Comer, 1-6.

Over a month. Atlanta had gone into a three-game losing streak after the Mets scored 17 runs in two games.

Baker drove in four runs with a homer, double and single as the Los Angeles Dodgers regained first place in the National League West with an 8-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds last night.

Baker hit a two-run double in the third inning that carried the Dodgers to a 5-0 lead in the first inning off Mike Morgan, 6-9, when Al Beutler led off with a walk, Glenn Guenter singled and Leonard smashed an RB

Brewers, 4, Tigers 0

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Cecil Cooper lined a three-run homer to cap a four-run eighth inning and Don Sutton scattered seven hits for his first Milwaukee victory, leading the Brewers to a 4-0 win over the Detroit Tigers last night.

Sutton, 1-1, acquired by Milwaukee from Houston on Aug. 30, struck out none and walked none as the Brewers kept a three-game lead over second-place Baltimore in the American League East. It was the Brewers' sixth complete game of the season.

Losor Dan Petry, 4-9, carried a three-hitter into the eighth when Ed Romero beat out a single to deep left. Romero raced to third on a house-right double by Paul Molitor and Robin Yount slapped a single to second, his third hit, to break the tie.

Cooper then looped a two-run home run of the right-field seats for his 28th homer, finishing Petry.

Royals, 7, Yanks 2

NEW YORK (AP) — John Lowenstein cracked three hits, including his second double of the season, and drove in two runs to supplant Mike Morgan as the hitting leader as the Kansas City Royals defeated the New York Yankees 7-2 Tuesday night, giving them an 11-game winning streak.

Morgan entered the game with a hit in 22 straight games, then drove in two runs to supplant Mike Morgan as the hitting leader as the Kansas City Royals defeated the New York Yankees 7-2 Tuesday night, giving them an 11-game winning streak.

Bullard hit a two-run smash, his 19th, off Steve Trout in the eighthinning.

The streak is Baltimore's longest since 1980, when the Orioles captured 10 of 11 from Aug. 1 through Aug. 11. It is the second longestwinning streak in the American League this season, topped only by Cleveland's 11-game winning streak from May 23-June 5.

Baltimore has not lost since Aug. 27, when it dropped the secondgame of a doubleheader to Texas.

Farr made his major-league debut in relief of starter Steve Comer, 1-6.

Over a month. Atlanta had gone into a three-game losing streak after the Mets scored 17 runs in two games.

Baker drove in four runs with a homer, double and single as the Los Angeles Dodgers regained first place in the National League West with an 8-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds last night.

Baker hit a two-run double in the third inning that carried the Dodgers to a 5-0 lead in the first inning off Mike Morgan, 6-9, when Al Beutler led off with a walk, Glenn Guenter singled and Leonard smashed an RB

Brewers, 4, Tigers 0

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Cecil Cooper lined a three-run homer to cap a four-run eighth inning and Don Sutton scattered seven hits for his first Milwaukee victory, leading the Brewers to a 4-0 win over the Detroit Tigers last night.

Sutton, 1-1, acquired by Milwaukee from Houston on Aug. 30, struck out none and walked none as the Brewers kept a three-game lead over second-place Baltimore in the American League East. It was the Brewers' sixth complete game of the season.

Losor Dan Petry, 4-9, carried a three-hitter into the eighth when Ed Romero beat out a single to deep left. Romero raced to third on a house-right double by Paul Molitor and Robin Yount slapped a single to second, his third hit, to break the tie.

Cooper then looped a two-run home run of the right-field seats for his 28th homer, finishing Petry.

Royals, 7, Yanks 2

NEW YORK (AP) — John Lowenstein cracked three hits, including his second double of the season, and drove in two runs to supplant Mike Morgan as the hitting leader as the Kansas City Royals defeated the New York Yankees 7-2 Tuesday night, giving them an 11-game winning streak.

Morgan entered the game with a hit in 22 straight games, then drove in two runs to supplant Mike Morgan as the hitting leader as the Kansas City Royals defeated the New York Yankees 7-2 Tuesday night, giving them an 11-game winning streak.

Bullard hit a two-run smash, his 19th, off Steve Trout in the eighthinning.

The streak is Baltimore's longest since 1980, when the Orioles captured 10 of 11 from Aug. 1 through Aug. 11. It is the second longestwinning streak in the American League this season, topped only by Cleveland's 11-game winning streak from May 23-June 5.

Baltimore has not lost since Aug. 27, when it dropped the secondgame of a doubleheader to Texas.

Farr made his major-league debut in relief of starter Steve Comer, 1-6.
Players, NFL back at the table

WASHINGTON (AP) — National Football League contract talks resumed Wednesday after owners ready to raise their money offer and the players' union refused to rule out the possibility of a strike before Sunday's first week of a regular season.

Sources close to the NFL Management Council, which represents the owners, said the Associated Press yesterday that the new offer, while not addressing the players' demand for salaries based on a guaranteed percentage of gross revenues, will include matching the team's guarantee that the players' walkout wages. "They would not elaborate.

Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association, said that it was "a pretty unlikelihood" that a strike could be averted unless wages were tied to a fixed percentage of gross revenues.

He did say, however, "we will discuss any offer that is basis for future negotiations."

"The owners' last offer was rejected out of hand by the union. Garvey refused to rule out a strike this weekend. "We're still discussing our options," he said.

At last month's meeting of player representatives in Chicago, the union reaffirmed its demands for substantial wage increases for all players, a guaranteed fair share of revenues and elimination of what the union considers incentives for teams to cut older players for financial reasons.

"If the owners' new proposal does not address these issues, there can not be an agreement," Garvey insisted yesterday.

All new for '82

Irish volleyball team set to open

By MIKE SULLIVAN

Sports Writer

The woman's volleyball team, younger but more experienced than last year, will begin its third varsity season and its first year in Division I with a match tomorrow against IUSB.

Coach Sandy Van Slager's squad is looking to improve on last year's record of 17-25, which was rivaled only by a second-place finish in the state (Carlyle, 11.) are the veterans of the squad, followed by Terese Henken (Mishawaka, 11.) and Joeie Materowski (South Bend, Ind.).

Senior Jackie Pagley (Miami, Fl.) and junior Maureen Morris (Mishawaka) and Terese Henken (Carlyle, Il.) are the veterans of the team, while sophomores Robin Isler (North Huntington, Pa.) and Fauna Thomas (Fortland, Or.) also return from last year's team.

The increased experience has given the team something it needed badly — depth. This depth will be evident in the offense.

"Depth on offense is a major strength now," explained Assistant Coach Dan Anderson. "Before, when it wasn't a weakness, it wasn't too good.

"The experience has made the girls easier to teach and they're now learning to control our offensive system. We can now have a game plan for every match.

These game plans will involve defensive plays, a new addition to the team's play.

"Last year," said Van Slager, "our defense was a middle attack. This year we are trying to confuse opponents with our movements. We'll try to draw their defense away from the spot where the ball will go over the net. Like basketball, we're going to do a lot of faking."

Van Slager also is impressed by the ability of walk-on Tracy Bennington (Colorado Springs, Co.) who has a vertical leap of 23 inches. "She jumps higher than the girls I have been training for a year," said Van Slager.

The three freshmen bring a team total of seven letter-winners from last year's squad, including the team's first two scholarship winners, Van Slager said.

New players from the spot where the ball will go over the net. Like basketball, we're going to do a lot of faking."

"She jumps higher than the girls I have been training for a year," said Van Slager.

The three freshmen bring a team total of seven letter-winners from last year's squad, including the team's first two scholarship winners, Van Slager said.

New players from the spot where the ball will go over the net. Like basketball, we're going to do a lot of faking."

"She jumps higher than the girls I have been training for a year," said Van Slager.

The three freshmen bring a team total of seven letter-winners from last year's squad, including the team's first two scholarship winners, Van Slager said.

New players from the spot where the ball will go over the net. Like basketball, we're going to do a lot of faking."

"She jumps higher than the girls I have been training for a year," said Van Slager.
At U.S. Open

Martina upset by doubles partner

NEW YORK (AP) — Top-seeded Martina Navratilova was denied at the Grand Slam and a $500,000 bonus Tuesday when she was upset by her doubles partner, Pam Shriver, 1-6 7-6, 6-2 in the quarterfinals of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

It was only the second loss this year for Navratilova, who has dominated women's tennis, and stopped a 41-match winning streak. In another upset, Rodney Harmon surprised eighth-seeded Eliot Teltscher 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, 7-6, 6-3 in a men's fourth-round match.

"She had all the pressure on her," the seventh-seeded Shriver said of the Czechoslovakian-born left-hander. "I feel sorry for her, but I'm happy for myself, of course.

Also advancing into the quarterfinals was fourth-seeded Guillermo Vilas, who outlasted hard-serving Steve Denton, the No. 12 seed, 3-6, 4-6, 6-3, 7-6.

In a night match, veteran Ilie Nastase of Romania met second-seeded Jimmy Connors, with the winner to face Hamman, of Southern Methodist University, the nation's top-ranked collegiate player this year.

Navratilova won the first set in 17 minutes as she broke the 20-year-old Shriver in the fourth and sixth games. Navratilova, who had reached the semis without losing a set, appeared to be heading for the semifinals when she broke Shriver in the ninth game of the second set for a 5-4 lead. But Shriver broke back in the 10th game and fought off a break point in the 11th, holding serving for a 6-5 lead.

After Navratilova held serve to send the second set into a tiebreaker, Shriver lost the first point when she netted a forehand volley, then quickly pulled into a 2-1 lead as Navratilova netted the ball twice. But Shriver double-faulted to even the score, then she again took the lead when Navratilova missed the net with a forehand volley. The tiebreaker then went on serve as Shriver won 7-5, tying the match at 1-1.

In the third set, the two held serve until the fifth game, when two unforced errors gave Shriver a 30-0 lead. A forehand down the line made it 40-0 before Navratilova took the next two points.

The Lutherville, Md., player, who reached the final here in 1978, losing to Chris Evert, before shoulder trouble hampered her the next two years, broke Navratilova again in the seventh game, again at 30, for a 5-2 lead.

Navratilova, who had won the last three Grand Slam tournaments - the Australian and French Opens, and Wimbledon - had a break point, at 40-30, in the eighth game, but a cross-court backhand was wide, bringing the score to deuce.

Martina Navratilova

Former Card great

Boyer dead at 51

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ken Boyer battled cancer with the same hard-nosed enthusiasm that he brought to baseball, his former St. Louis Cardinal teammates say.

Boyer died yesterday morning at the age of 51.

"He was a real battler, not a showman like some players today," said former Cardinal Manager Red Schoendienst. "Kenny said yesterday that he believed he could come back from this. He went down fighting."

Boyer, who managed the Cardinals for two seasons, was considered the Cards' greatest third baseman.

"He never complained about his illness or sat around wondering, 'Why me?,'" Devine said. "That's the type of player he was. He went about his job and never complained."

Schoendienst called Boyer a "hard-nosed player who made 'em struggle."

See BOYER, page 13

Jack Daniels $7.99

Barcardi Rum $5.99

Tanqueray Gin $8.99

7 Crown $8.99

Wild Turkey 86p $7.99

Finlandia Vodka $8.99

Vodka $7.99

Gin $8.99

Rum $9.99

Bourbon $10.99

Scotch $10.99
Doonesbury

Spike's World

The Daily Crossword

Garry Trudeau

T.V. Tonight

Student Union Presents:

being there

Sept. 9, 10 Starring Peter Sellers

Admission $1

Engineering Auditorium

7:90, 11:30
In yesterday's edition, the Ob server made an erroneous reference to the reason for Lester finding Notre Dame in 1974. The Observer regrets this error, which caused confusion and misunderstanding. The Observer's apologies to those who were misled by this mistake.