Americans killed as Spanish plane crashes

MALAGA, Spain (AP) — A chartered DC-10 loaded with Americans heading home from a Spanish vacation was said yesterday to have skidded across a highway and caught fire, killing at least 46 people and possibly as many as 77.

The Spanish transportation minister, Luis Gara, said at an impromptu news conference yesterday that 46 people had been killed. He said 83 were missing. He said 85 of the injured remained hospitalized, he said.

Rescuers would continue to search for victims in the wreckage tonight, Gara said.

The Washingt on transportation minister, Hal Lavine of Tamarac, Fla., one of the passengers in the rear was complement of a crew of five.

NEW YORK (AP) — A special prosecutor said yesterday that a renewed inquiry had ever again found sufficient evidence to make that Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan was involved in a kickback scheme.

Prosecutor Leon Silverman said he investigated various reports, including allegations that Donovan had met with mobsters, funneled contributions and been present when a kick back was offered.

But Silverman said, "I continue to be concerned by the number of allegations" about Donovan's ties to organized crime.

Donovan, in a brief statement from Washington, said, "It is proving to be a very complex and difficult issue and I am not pleased and I am not in a position of accepting any new appointment to the Panel of his triple-bolted front door was opened. Activities funding deadline Wednesday

BY DIANE DICKERS

The deadline for any student club, organization, or special project to apply for student activities funding is tomorrow, September 15, according to Director Jim McDonnell.

Each year student government allocates 80 percent of the student activities fees to established clubs, organizations, and projects. The remaining 20 percent are apportioned to a student government subcommittee consisting of both students and administrators.

The source of these funds is the $30 student activities fee that each student pays annually at the University.

This year more funds will be available than ever before, according to Executive Vice President and Provost Louis Silverman. "Organizations have increased substantially in the past few years. Four years ago, we allocated $700,000. Last year the total was $54,000. This year the amount could go up to $40,000 or $44,000 for clubs, organizations, and special projects," McDonnell said.

Off-campus house victim of robbery

An off-campus residence on North St. Louis Street was burglarized last Saturday night.

According to the victim — a senior at Notre Dame — the student next door heard a loud crackling noise at approximately 2:30 a.m. The resident returned from Senior Band at 3:30 a.m. to find the center panel of his triple-bolted door kicked in.

The thieves escaped with a stereo receiver, television, and two speakers valued as a total of $540. The Police officers estimated that the crooks were in the house for no more than three minutes.

The victim believes that student residences in the northeast neighborhood are prime targets for crime. "I've been living there for the entire month of August and had no problems until the students returned," he said. "Any thief in South Bend knows which houses belong to students."

Star, 22, said "I believe I know the motive (for the murder), but I'm not at liberty to say..." Silverman said he was concluding his probe of Donovan, which was 9 months old, but would be willing to accept a new appointment to reopen the investigation, "if any,"

The government approved yesterday the merger of three Western railroads, the Union Pacific, Missouri Pacific and Western Pacific, into a single line that will serve 21 states from the Puget Sound to the Gulf Coast. Despite protests from competing railroads, the action was supported by the Commission said shippers and the public will benefit from the combination. The railroads are expected to begin formal merger proceedings within 30 days. The prospective merger was one of the major developments in recent years. Shippers will be better served by the single line that would allow goods to go directly across two-thirds of the nation. With this decision the commission has endorsed a privatized proposal that will increase efficiency and competition. — AP

The real death of a Notre Dame Sophomore is a reminder that life can have negative effects on one's life. Of all the living creatures on earth, humans are the only ones who have real dreams. Yet we all attempt to avoid the subject of death entirely. Even when people try to face up to their mortality, it is often in a clumsy and off-hand manner. It is something that "can't happen to me." As you can read elsewhere in this paper, a plane crashed yesterday in Spain. A majority of the passengers survived which means so many to say it is "only a few died." However this is not comforting to the victim's relatives and friends. They are concerned only with their own personal grief. The funeral ritual is a good example of mankind's efforts to cope with death. Well wishes come to "honor the dead," and "pay their last respects." However, the decrease doesn't care how many mourners there are. Instead, the funeral ritual serves to relieve and mask the grief of the bereaved. People ridded with guilt because they treated the deceased unfairly while he or she was alive, can soothe their consciences through displays of affection that may be better shown while the deceased was alive.

Most people leave only their memories when they die. A president or a scientist may leave accomplishments that live on for years. But how often does an average person touch a few lives, do his or her best to survive, and quietly pass on. Here at Notre Dame we have a special custom called the record of the Catholic Church in saving Jews during World War II and noted that Pope Paul VI has spoken out against the genocides on many occasions, including during a 1979 visit to the Nazi death camp at Auschwitz in his native Poland. — AP

The Vatican yesterday angrily rejected Israel's charges that the church kept silent about the Nazi massacre of Jews in World War II. The Vatican was prompted by Pope John Paul's decision to meet with PLO chief Yasser Arafat. The Vatican called the Israeli president's charges "inaccurate to the truth." Representatives of both Israeli and Palestinian Jewish organizations, expressing the "deep shock of organized Jewry," said their organizations demand a formal protest to the Vatican. Arafat's Palestinian Liberation Organization, sworn enemy of the Jewish state, does not recognize Israel's sovereignty. — AP

Variety key to WSND success

BY JOSH ESSELIN

The station that was once known simply as "WSND," now has a new name, "LaFortune Student Center," and a new format that includes substantial election coverage.

Lynn Marie Fordhaus, A.M. program director, is pleased with the station's new format and the increased student involvement.

"I believe that by offering a diverse range of programming, we can attract a larger audience," Fordhaus said. "Our listeners can adjust their tastes with the change in format, and we can offer a wide variety of programming that meets their needs."
$120 million
Westmoreland sues CBS for libel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland, Glamour he was labeled by CBS in a documentary which said U.S. military leaders purposely underestimated enemy troop strength in Vietnam, sued the network for $120 million yesterday.

Westmoreland called the program, broadcast in January "vicious, false, and contemptible." But Van Gordon Sauter, president of CBS News, said, "we stand by the broadcast," which he called "a valid journalistic broadcast about an important issue in the Vietnam war.

CBS will fight the suit "not only because we see this suit totally devoid of merit, but because it constitutes a serious threat to independent journalism in our society," Sauter said.

The suit was filed in federal court in Greenville, S.C., according to Dan Burt, Westmoreland's attorney. The retired four-star general, who headed the Army for four years in Vietnam, lives in South Carolina.

The action seeks $40 million in general damages and $80 million in punitive damages. The money will be donated to charity if he wins, Westmoreland said.

In the 90-minute documentary, "The Uncounted Enemy — A Viet­nam Deception," the network said there was a conspiracy to falsify enemy troop strength to portray a rosier picture of the war.

"When CBS first asked me to par­ticipate in the making of this documentary, Westmoreland said at a news conference, "I had no idea that they had prejudged my par­ticipation in that war, nor that they would attempt to prove that I or anyone else was in any way capable of any illegal or improper acts.

The network stood by the show, but Sauter said at the time the word "conspiracy should not have been used.

The suit alleges violations of CBS news standards and procedure in the preparation of the broadcast.

CBS planned in a follow-up show scheduled for broadcast tomorrow to give Westmoreland 18 minutes of unedited air time. But the follow-up was postponed after the network was unable to get anyone to present Westmoreland's view.

... Crash

The crash was the worst in Spain since March 27, 1977, when 96 people were killed in Tenerife on the Spanish Canary Islands after a Royal Dutch KLM 747 slammed into a Pan Am 747 taxiing on the runway. The crash was aviation's worst.

Spantax Convair Coronado crashed on landing in Tenerife on Dec. 5, 1972, killing 145 West German tourists.

In Long Beach, Calif, Dave Eastman, a spokesman for McDon­nell Douglas Corp., maker of the wide-body DC-10s, said two inves­tigators were on their way to Malaga to assist Spanish authorities.

The U.S. Federal Aviation Ad­ministration ordered American car­riers to ground DC-10s for engine mount checks after an American Airlines crashed at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport on May 25, 1979. One of the plane's engines ripped away upon takeoff, causing the plane to roll out of control and plunge to the ground.

Spantax said it had chartered an Iberian Airlines 747 to take the pas­sengers not needing hospitaliza­tion to New York yesterday. Survivors were taken to the Holiday Inn and Iberia Riviera.

Spantax also said it would release the names of the victims and the pas­senger manifest after positive iden­tifications were made.

Family planning program

The Natural Family Planning Program of Saint Joseph County is again offering information classes on campus this semester. In cooperation with the Notre Dame Campus Min­istry Office, the program will offer an Information Night on Tuesday, Sep­tember 14 at 7:30 in the Galvin Life Science Auditorium.

A slide show will be shown in­troducing the natural family plan­ning method followed by a brief presentation.

The group will also offer a four­part clinic to engaged and married couples. Registration is now open. The first clinic starts on campus Sep­tember 22. Call Katy Fulechy for more information.

Future of Solidarity

ND grad lectures on Poland

By DAN MCCULLOUGH
News Staff

"The future of Solidarity appears to be in the waiting stage," according to Dwayne Bednar, 1982 Notre Dame graduate and feature speaker at the first Cavanaugh Academic Commission lecture of the year.

Bednar, a former Cavanaugh Hall resident, told of the economic strife and everyday problems the Polish people are experiencing and appealed for relief to aid these people whose interest is "bold."

Although he said that he had no confrontations with the government, Bednar told of numerous uprisings and stated that, "defiance is a favorite pastime in Poland."

Despite the outlawing of Solidarity, and the five-year prison term the wearing of a Solidarity pin can bring.

In addition, security notes that evidence is subsequently developed indicating a relationship between Masselli's murder and Donovan.

Otherwise, he said, "this is my farewell appearance and I will have nothing more to say." Donovan had been investigated on charges that he conspired perjury by denying mob ties before a Senate committee and that he witnessed an illegal labor peace payoff.

Security announces parking restrictions

Notre Dame security has announced that parking is restricted to vehicles approved by the Athletic Department with special passes in all parking spaces around the football stadium.

Parking will be restricted in C-1 and D-1 from today until Saturday, September 18 to make room for the lighting equipment for Saturday night's game against Michigan.

Alternate parking is available in south C-1 (Red Field West) through Friday and in Green Field through Saturday. Any vehicle violating this restriction may be moved to another location on campus.

In addition, security notes that security, student, staff and visitor parking in A-1, B-1, C-1 and D-1 is restricted on days of all home football games. Vehicles must have passes issued by the Athletic Department for parking. Vehicles left in these restricted areas after 8:00 a.m. on days of games will be towed at the owner's expense.

Polish people were going through: Traveling in conjunction with the Koscinski Foundation, Bednar spent four weeks in classes and two weeks traveling throughout Poland. And said that he will return later in the year if the interest is sufficient.

Cars that talk back

From Discover News Service

"The door is ajar. Your washer fluid is low. Please secure your seat belts. Thank you." A back seat driver?

No, it is a hortatory electronic voice that will replace warning buzzers and flashing lights as either an option or standard equipment on some 1983 model Chrysler Corporation and Ford cars.

Unlike the mechanically driven recorded voice systems now available in some Japanese cars, the Ford and Chrysler devices are totally electronic.

Their sounds are produced by a microcomputer voice synthesizer, which selects electrical tonal combinations that drive a speaker to produce the desired words.

In addition to the three warnings issued by Ford's version — door ajar, key left in the ignition, headlights left on with the door open — Chryser's device will alert the driver to eight more problems, including low levels of gasoline and windshield washer fluid.

Troubled ride for Harley-Davidson

By H. JOSEF HEBERT

Associated Press Writer

Peter Fonda rode one in "Easy Rider" and Steve McQueen took to his Harley in "Rocky III." For better than 50 years, the mystique of Harley-Davidson dominated the macho motorcycle world.

But now America's only remaining manufacturer of motorcycles is in danger of being run off the road by Japanese imports.

The company is about to investigate complaints from Harley-Davidson Motor Company, that imported Japanese motorcycles -- especially the heavy, highway touring models similar to those built by Harley-Davidson -- are making it impossible for the 75-year-old American company to compete.

Under U.S. law, the International Trade Commission could recommend to President Reagan an import quota or additional duties on motorcycles if it is determined that the import situation continues to harm Harley-Davidson.

In a petition filed earlier this month with the commission, the Milwaukee-based, privately held company accused Japanese manufacturers of copying its design and advertising style to grab customers who have been Harley-Davidson's "traditional support."

The complaint says Japanese sales of the powerful open-highway bikes of 700cc and above have jumped by nearly one-third since 1977, while Harley-Davidson’s share of the slumping motorcycle market has fal­ler.

During the first six months of this year four Japanese companies -- Honda, Yamaha, Kawasaki, and Suzuki -- accumulated for nearly 80 percent of the 134,412 over-the-road motorcycles sold in the United States, while Harley-Davidson's share dropped to about 15 percent.

During much of the 1960s and early '70s, Harley-Davidson cobbled almost all of that market.

The company told the trade com­mission "there is a serious question how long Harley-Davidson can continue to survive" without some temporary restriction on imports.

"If the import situation continues to deteriorate ... the willingness of (Harley-Davidson's) lenders to con­tinue to support the company will be brought into question," the petition continued.

Three of the four Japanese manufacturers declined to comment on the Harley-Davidson allegations, saying they had not thoroughly examined the petition filed with the government.

A spokesman for Honda, which makes about 40 percent of the motorcycles sold in this country, denied that Japanese manufacturers are to blame for Harley-Davidson’s problems.

Two women assess coeducation

Saint Mary's

Why an all women's college? Coming from a co-educational high school it was because I couldn't stand them anywhere. The worst reasons for choosing Saint Mary's College is that it's difficult to pin point just one.

Karen Hosinski

The real question is, why Saint Mary's and not Notre Dame? I chose Saint Mary's because I fell in love with Saint Mary's—the atmosphere, the people, and the academic excellence. Instead of million-dollar's daughters, I found a community of women were devoted to each other.

The reason I did not want to go to Notre Dame is that I agree with the fact that sex became coeducational. Though I hold no grudges against Notre Dame women, I believe Saints would be for any real academic or social reasons, and not for equality of women, but rather because coeducation was a popular educational trend.

Why did I choose to attend an all-women's college? The all-women's college offers the chance to identify with emotions and goals exclusive to the female gender. While male chauvinists may be unable to empathize with such concepts of male and female, there exists an underlying psychological distinction between the sexes. While women and men are equals, they are different. With the competition between men and women in the job market and in the real world, it is important to understand members of one's own sex.

Growth would necessarily return, the cost of doors would be wiped out years of unproductive stagflation. The industry would be given a chance to revitalize again our country would know an abrupt end to starvation. Earth's inhabitants will be teeming free expression of authors. Though skin cancer might already toxic with alpha, beta, and gamma particles. I chose Saint Mary's because I like the atmosphere and I feel at home here. I wouldn't trade this experience for anything on earth.

Karen Miranda

Counterpoint

First of all, your attitude is blatantly anti-feminist. It is not that, at least reduces life expectancy, but rather the competition between the sexes. To say that it is a game between men and women is not to confuse with the same sex or female—who pursues the same interests or goals, who choose the same values?

Secondly, to describe men as merely a distraction which inhibits communication between females is very chauvinistic. Are the women at Saint Mary's aware of the status of males and Notre Dame men in particular as anything more than sex objects and potential dates?

You define the world as a habitat for men and women, each existing separately. Or maybe this is how you wish it would be, or how it would function the most effectively, according to your values. The danger in your vision is that once women enter any type of co-ed environment, which they inevitably will, they will never be able to relate to men in any other way, they will not have the chance to develop social skills and human values which integrate the sexes.

I am a woman who chose to attend Notre Dame. I do not argue my coeducation communication between women at Saint Mary's and women at Notre Dame you are right. But I disagree with the idea that the competition between men and women, so without them, my life and college career would be a lot less rich. I choose to live in a world of both men and women, and I wouldn't trade that experience for anything on earth.

Dear Editor,

Pacifism is an ideal that I have always longed to embrace. For my family, that stems from a genuine respect for the ideal of non-violence, another part grows out of a longing for commitment to a noble and just cause. Indeed, if I must die an early death, I would much rather die for peace than for aggression.

But if I am to be morally and intellectually honest, I must discuss the personal motive of self-preservation as a major factor in my decision. Likewise, I must also discuss the difficulty of a noble and just cause, for great evil is done often by basically good people following noble and just causes to their logical extremes. No, if I am going to accept any reason for non-violence, it will have to be out of a genuine belief that it is through the practice of this ideal that I can do the greatest good.

As you may have already discerned, I am qualified myself as a critic, but I would like to believe that most sins of commission is that it is often we fail to do that most harms our neighbor. Yet would this not also apply to the extreme case in which the only way to save my family is to kill an attacking madman? Given that violence, even to death, was the only way to save the seven members of my family, would not my failure to commit this act of violence constitute a great sin of commission? Moving the argument to the global level, I can see why we should be against most wars just as we should be against most acts of violence. But again, there is the extreme case of a madman leading a group of noble and just followers. Would not our absence from World War II, in spite of the crimes we did commit, has constituted a greater sin than did our presence.

There are many reasons for becoming a pacifist, but only three carry conviction. The first is that God has given everyone a personal commission of non-violence; and since I am not God, I am not free from the crime. The second reason is to serve as an example to a world gone mad with violence. For such people, non-violence may not be intrinsically the best in all situations, but in the broader perspective, it is hoped that the extreme ample of non-violence will help to wake us up to the excess of our own abuse. Finally, it is often argued that in the light of nuclear weapons and the potential annihilation of the human race, there is no same choice other than pacifism.

For the first argument I have already disqualify myself as a critic, but I would like to make two observations. One, that such an individual conviction is heresy evidence to the rest of us, and two, that such a revelation, even if authentic, might only be meaningful for the individual. As for the second argument, I comment that while I respect and admire the goals and conviction of one who truly set such an example, the argument as presented does not apply against all violence in all situations for all people. Moreover, I might well hold such a person responsible for failing to protect my family. And finally, the third rationale is more of a reason against a major nuclear war than against violence or war in any form. Generally I do find some forms of this argument more convincing, I have yet to find any form.

Dauer leads Orioles over Yankees

Baltimore Orioles' Rich Dauer (26) provided a three-run home run in the sixth inning to give the Orioles a 6-4 victory over the New York Yankees last night.

Dauer's HR highlighted a three-run rally in the sixth inning that overcame a 6-5 New York lead. Pitcher Dan Ford got the win and scored on Cal Ripken Jr.'s single. Gary Roenicke doubled and Rick Dempsey was walked to load the bases.

Dauer then lofted a fly to right, scoring Ripken, before pinch hitter Benny Ayala singled to drive in Roenicke.

Twins 2 Rangers 0

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - Al Wilkins and Ron Davis combined to shut out a shorthanded and Toms Bruntz homered last night as the Minnesota Twins defeated the Texas Rangers 2-0.

Wilkins, 8-7, allowed five hits in his 6 1/3 innings before giving way to Davis, who finished up for his 19th save. Wilkins struck out three and walked in two in picking up his 19th victory with a Minnesota pitcher this season.

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw, drill­ ting passes to wide receivers John Stallworth and Jim Smith, totaled Daltas with three touchdowns strikes as the Steelers defeated the ruling Cow­

Dawg by a 49-yard pass from Bradshaw, then turned him around again to score on an 8-yard toss.

Woods, holding for the kick, fumbled a center snap and Anderson never got a chance to try the extra point.

Dallas, inspired by a bizarre play that saw White fall down, got up and throw a 30-yard pass to tight end Cobbie, charged back to go ahead 7-6.

A costly third-down, roughing the passer penalty on John Goodman put the Cowboys in position for the payoff. White's 9-yard pass to Pearson.

The Steelers made it 15-7 early in the second quarter as Stallworth hoodwinked his man again on a 22­

Dallas jumped ahead 14-13 on an 80-yard drive featuring White and Cobbie again. Cobbie caught a 13­ yard pass on the drive and slipped into the open for a 12-yard scoring pass from a scrambling White.

Pittsburgh blew a chance to go ahead in the final two seconds of the half when Anderson's 35-yard field goal attempt was blocked by John Dutton.

SMC coaching staff changes

By MARY SEGER
SMC Sports Editor

This year the Saint Mary's coaching staff has undergone changes. All of the fall varsity sports have either new head or assistant coaches. The staff changes occurred in varsity basketball, volleyball, tennis, and swimming.

Michael Rouse is assuming the position of head basketball coach. Rouse coached basketball at the Buchanan Community Schools from 1976-1982. In 1978, Rouse's team became the state champions. In addition to his experience coaching high school teams, Rouse has coached in many collegiate basketball camps giving him experience coaching at the college level.

"I'm very excited about coaching basketball at Saint Mary's, but it is difficult to predict what kind of season we're going to have. It all depends upon who makes the squad this year," says Rouse.

John Klebba, the former player coach for the Notre Dame men's club volleyball team is assuming the position of assistant coach for the Saint Mary's volleyball team. Klebba played on the varsity volleyball team at Drake University and is an experienced collegiate volleyball official.

"John has a very good knowledge of many aspects of the game and he has contributed much to the program in the short time he has been here," says Volleyball Head Coach, Erin Murphy.

John Killen, the newest addition to the staff will be serving as Tennis Coach. The position of Saint Mary's tennis coach is Killen's first experience in collegiate coaching.

"Coaching at Saint Mary's is an interesting new experience, and we should have a good season," states Killen. Killen has spent 10 years coaching high school tennis and has worked in a country club as a tennis professional.

Sean Trees will take the position of head swimming coach. Trees served as the chairman of the Howard County swimming coaches which represented 22 high school swimming coaches. Trees coached at the high school level for two years. During this time, members of his squad were named high school All-Americans.

Trees views this season as "very promising, and this season should be better than previous years."

Despite these crucial changes in the coaching staff, Saint Mary's Athletic Director Erin Murphy is confident that the varsity teams will have the same or better seasons than last year. All of the new coaches are well qualified and enthusiastic about coaching the varsity teams at Saint Mary's.

"Of course there is a transition period that a team goes through from one coach to a new one, but I am confident that the new members of the coaching staff will make this transition as smooth as possible," commented Murphy.

things. He freely and openly admitted to censoring the paper. It was his university, after all, and the paper fell under his jurisdiction. So Frank felt, apparently, that he could do any damn thing he pleased.

The paper didn't matter, and neither, it seems, did the athletes who had thought. What a staunch defender of Constitutional rights. Why the hell did we put him on a commercial and let him tell the people how much more concerned with academics than with athletics the NCAA really is.

You know, when you think about it, the NCAA probably could not have come up with a more representative spokesman. Dr. Frank really stands for that which most NCAA members stand.

It's not corn root infestation research at Oklahoma, nor aerospace engineering advances at Stanford. It certainly isn't journalism instruction at Lincoln University.

It's sports — first, fast, and always.

So, remember this little story the next time you see one of these commercials during the game. Because things are not always as they seem.

The Irish women’s volleyball team, coming off a respectable showing this weekend in the Wolverine Invitational, gets ready to face its toughest competition of the year when it hosts Michigan State tonight in the ACC Pit.

The visiting Spartans, Big Ten champions last year, bring with them a program that is well established, and, possibly, the best in the area.

“Alone with Northwestern and Purdue, establish three of the three toughest teams in the Big Ten,” said Dan Anderson, Michigan State’s top men’s basketball player last year.

Anderson agrees that a famed Notre Dame upset is possible.

“Notre Dame is one of the two toughest teams in the Midwest, if not the best,” he said.

The Nittany Lions are one of the two toughest teams in the Midwest.

The second team is Temple.

Those two teams have the best defense in the Midwest.

After that are the University of Illinois and Penn State.

“Those three teams have a lot of upperclassmen who have played together,” Anderson said.

I hear that they’re real quick, but I don’t know anything specifically about how they work in Texas, but I know that a girl who graduated from the team last year told me that she’s going to have our hands full.”

“I’ll be a tough game,” said Coach Sandy Vandergrift. “They’re more skilled than anything we were up against in the tournament.

“We’ve played in Division I already (the Irish just moved up to Division I this year), so they should dominate us. But I’m just assuming all of this, so it might not be true.”

Anderson agrees that a famed Notre Dame upset is possible.

“Volleyball is an emotional sport,” he explains. “If the crowd is in the game, the girls will play better. Anybody can beat anybody else on a given day.”

The match, which is a best of five series of games, begins at 5:00 p.m. in the ACC Pit.

The Irish did get a good warmup for the Michigan State game in Saturday’s ACC tournament against the Spartans.

They reached the semifinals before they were eliminated by Wayne State.

Overall, they finished the tournament with a 2-3 record with victories over Lake Superior State and Grand Valley and losses to Michigan and Wayne State (twice).

“It was a good competitive experience,” said Vandergrift. “To be up against teams with more skill than this early in the season. It pointed out how the girls react in a competitive situation differently than in practice. It also helped some of us relax their jitters.”

“It also pointed out some of our weaknesses and strengths. Defensively, we’re not up to par to where we should be. We also need to improve our offensive play, too,” she said.

“The girls don’t play steady,” said Anderson. “They were very consistent. They started off warm but let the situation get them down. The passing was fine, so they could not run their offense. As far as talent goes, we had as much as the other teams. If we had played better, we would have won.”

“The Irish are to beat Michigan State, this year, to have to use the experience that they picked up over the weekend.”

University of Florida fallback James Jones (93) celebrates as the Seminoles defeated the Trojans of Southern California 17-9 last Saturday. Today the Associated Press released its Top Twenty Poll, which put the Trojans 19th and Notre Dame 20th. See the entire poll in Sportsboard page 8. (AP Photo)

Boulac impressed by progress

Adjustment and inexperience. Those are the hurdles that Coach Brian Boulac and the receiving corps have had to work through this fall. With only two experienced receivers and a new offensive system, Coach Boulac realized that he had his work cut out for him.

With the season opener now less than a week away, Boulac notes, “We have been very pleased with the progress of the new system.”

Tony Hunter, a 6-5, 226 lbs. senior, will be starting at right end.

Hunter started last season as the wingback, but was later moved to split end and right end. After a disappointing season, the Cincinnati, Ohio, native is looking to carry on the tradition of Notre Dame tight ends.

“Hunter has the physical size and ability to be as good as Dave Casper and Ken Mac sled,” Boulac said.

“Hunter’s success will depend on his health.”

As 5-9 and 167 lbs, Joe Howard does not appear to be an imposing figure. However, after an outstanding freshman year (17 receptions for 463 yards while only starting the last five games), he has earned the respect of defenders. Howard, with his lightning-quick speed, will provide the deep threat at flanker.

For the past two weeks, the Park Forest South, Ill. native is looking to carry on the tradition of Notre Dame tight ends.

Staring at the flanker slot will be Milt Jackson, a 6-0, 170 lbs. freshman, who is progressing extremely well in his adjustment to college football.

Coach Boulac notes, “Jackson is one freshman who will see a lot of action this season.”

Originally scheduled to start at split end for the Irish was junior Mike Favorite, 6-4, 190 lbs., but has been hampered by a leg injury for the past two weeks. The Park Forest South, Ill. native views the new system as “complicated, but not impossible.”

As the third offensive system in as many years, Favorite says “This is the best system I’ve seen and once we’ve mastered it, we will be able to move the ball a lot better.”

The Irish have several backups who have had fine preseasons and will be available for service. One of those is Van Peary, 6-2, 186 lbs., who red-shirted last season due to a knee injury. “This is the first time Van has worked out full time with the team and is progressing as expected,” Boulac said.

Bumper Schiro, a 6-0, 183 lbs. junior, and Chris Stone, a 6-1, 186 lbs. senior, are also expected to contribute this fall.

“ van Peary and the rest of the Irish will be Saturday evening. The Irish will send Jackson, Howard, and Hunter to start the game and fly, cross-cous, and curl their way through the newly installed offensive system.
