Poisoned Tylenol capsules

Test finds cyanide in suicide case

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (AP) — Cyanide was in Extra-Strength Tylenol capsules found in the Philadelphia home of a man whose death last spring was listed as a suicide by coroners, police said yesterday.

A preliminary test at the time of William Pascual's death on April 3 found nothing unusual in the pills, but further tests were done this week after seven deaths in the Chicago area were blamed on cyanide-poisoned capsules.

Philadelphia Police Chief Frank Scafidi said at a news conference yesterday that police also found cyanide in a bottle of Extra-Strength Tylenol in the Pascual home, and Gilligan discussed the aspects of the assassination of President Kennedy.

Cyanide was found in tampered Extra-Strength Tylenol capsules taken from store shelves in the Chicago area, and the pain-reliever was recalled by its manufacturer.

Inside Thursday

Yes folks, here is yet another commentary to go along with the recent rebendishing of alcohol-related stories that have been bandied about this past few days. Remember, the best way to combat the beverage of the devil is to take a few minutes to read on.

Since the contents of a letter Dean of Students James Roemer sent to Campus View residents appeared in last Friday's Observer, the campus has been buzzing with jokes and jibes regarding his requests of prejudice and scepticism, and presented with the request receiving the most attention from the camp comedians is the suggestion that plenty of food be served at parties, especially if the guests are pushing running campust ever since, and I can say that I blame the .

Fire fighters revise tactics in mine blaze

MORGANFIELD, Ky. (AP) — Workers battling a fire inside an Illinois coal mine near Harvard changed tactics early yesterday after two days of unsuccessful attempts to douse the flames.

Information about the fire was sketchy, but state officials have been at the scene "around the clock" since the fire's discovery Sunday, said James Thorp, a mining inspector supervisor with the state Mines and Minerals Department.

Thorp said his agency was notified of the fire shortly after 6 p.m. Sunday, when it was discovered by Illinois Creek workers.

John Boyce, a spokesman for Illinois Creek's western Kentucky division, issued a short statement on the fire, saying only that workers were trying to extinguish the fire from the surface yesterday.

Thorp said he did not believe the fire would "endanger anybody in the surrounding area."

A company official who did not want to be identified said yesterday that workers tried for about 14 hours to extinguish the fire by fighting it on the inside of the Hamilton No. 1 mine.

That strategy was halted about midnight Tuesday, and workers planned to seal the mine to keep the fire from igniting gas, the official said. Under the new plan, holes would be drilled from the surface and the affected area of the mine would be flooded with water.

The fire began after a slate fall, apparently when the chunk of rock struck trolley wires and ignited timber inside the mine, the company official said.

tested, told reporters Tuesday that he bought the Tylenol at a local drug store two weeks before taking the capsule — well in advance of reports of the Chicago-area deaths. Police Sgt. Jack Lee in Goshville said the account of the purchase Blagg gave to authorities has not been "confirmed." Blagg was questioned for two hours Tuesday by FBI agents.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration said strychnine was found in two other bottles obtained from the Longs Drug Store where Blagg said he purchased his.

"It's highly suspected at this time that it was a copycat crime," Lee said.

That assessment was disputed by Illinois Attorney General Tyree Fahner, who is heading a task force investigating the Tylenol capsules with cyanide and placed them on the shelves of five Chicago-area stores last week.

"We have not ruled out the possibility of more than one person," he said, but added: "It looks less and less that it's more than one."

Cook County Medical Examiner Albert Stein said yesterday that lab tests indicate cyanide could have remained in the adulterated capsules "for at least 48 hours" without revealing tell-tale signs of their content.

Fahner said more than 1,000 persons had been interviewed since the task force was established and that investigators have narrowed down that list to "eight or nine" potential suspects, all local residents. Fahner said they were at the relevant time, said Fahner. "We're not concerned about their leaving the jurisdiction."

World mourns Sadat's death

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) - Wiping a tear from her eye, the widow of President Anwar Sadat placed a wreath on his grave yesterday -- the first anniversary of his assassination by Muslim fanatics.

Relatives and friends, including the widow of the shah of Iran, stood by as flowers were placed on Sadat's white marble tomb, 300 yards from the site where he was gunned down.

Some of the women, all dressed in mourning black, wept during the brief, low-key ceremony. Farah Diba, widow of the shah of Iran, whom Sadat sheltered in his final moments, stood gaunt-faced beneath a black lace shawl.

The shah's son and self-proclaimed heir, Reza, was among the mourners for Sadat, architect of the Egyptian-Israel peace treaty.

Mrs. Sadat, wearing dark glasses and a black dress buttoned to the neck, was also accompanied by her son Gamal and President Henni Mobarak, whose wife Suzan, who rarely appears in public. They listened as a Moslem shiek read from the Koran, and then Mrs. Sadat shook hands with other mourners, who went silent.

A Koran lay in a book rest on top of Sadat's tomb, which was surrounded by wreaths of pink, red and purple carnations and roses. A gas flame burned in a cast iron vase atop a marble column behind the tomb.

Hundreds of soldiers and police stood guard in the sandy dunes around the parade ground where the tomb is located. Armored personnel carriers mounted with machine guns were parked at the entrance to the parade ground.

The ceremony was private. Official state ceremonies marking Sadat's death are scheduled for today. Yesterday was a national holiday recalling Egypt's recapture of the Suez Canal in the 1973 war with Israel. The war was launched by Sadat.

Draper urges pullout; Lebanese arrest refugees

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Lebanon's army rounded up dozens of Palestinian refugees who invaded Lebanon four months ago to leave Beirut.

But Palestinians say the army wants to terrorize them and drive them out of the country.

Israelis officials in Jerusalem, meanwhile, said they were told by U.S. envoy Morris Draper that Syria wants Israeli forces who invaded Lebanon four months ago to leave before Syria's army pulls out. But the officials called the Syrian message an "opening position" that could be negotiated.

Draper is trying to arrange a pullout of both Syrian and Israeli troops to avoid the possibility of another outbreak of fighting between the two countries. Israel still has the American military advisory force in Lebanon and Syria has an estimated 30,000 troops in Lebanon. They entered the country to police a cease-fire that ended the 1975-76 Lebanese civil war.

"We must clean Beirut of all arms," said Lebanon's Defense Ministry spokesman Maj. Atef Torbay after the latest sweep at the Bourj el-Barajneh refugee camp.

Torbay said he did not know how many people in west Beirut had been arrested or where they were being taken. Police sources said 250 had been picked up but one diplomat put the number at 44.

Asked about illegal aliens, many of whom have worked in Beirut for years, Torbay said "They will be deported."
Washington (AP) - President Reagan said with anger, told a Republican congressional candidate to "shut up" yesterday after being repeatedly interrupted with the accusation that he had abandoned conservative causes.

"I don't know who the two of you are, but you haven't said a word that's true yet," Reagan told the candidate, Gary Richard Arnold of Santa Cruz, Calif., and an unidentified man who applauded Arnold's remarks.

For more than five minutes, Reagan defended himself against Arnold's charges as they stood 25 feet apart in the Senate East Room of the White House. Arnold was among about 180 people who turned out in a series of political briefings and a presidential pep talk.

After Arnold interrupted him more than a half-dozen times and refused to let him finish an answer, Reagan lost his patience and shouted, "Shut up. Look.

Arnold sat down shortly afterward as the president was applauded by the audience.

The incident began as Arnold, a businessman challenging Rep. Leon Panetta, D-Calif., rose from his back-row chair as Reagan spoke and said, "Mr. President, you have given us the largest tax increase in the United States history.

Two or three members of the audience tried to shoo him down into his seat, but Arnold persisted.

"We do not have the president supporting the presidential program. The Soviets have a higher increase in trade. The Soviets get the wheat and Americans get the shaft. We have a Yalta taxation situation here, and we have a Reagan-Moscow setting into the nation's body politic.

He complained that Republicans such as himself who opposed the tax increase have been denied GOP campaign funds.

Reagan tried to rebut the charges with arguments, and at one point he tried humor. "I thought this was for Republican candidates." The president said the tax increase "that we reluctantly supported in order to get continued reductions in spending and a balanced budget may be a small, new spy submarine designed to disrupt Scandinavian-Soviet ties.

The crew and its weapons were last heard of November 1 near the southernmost point on the perimeter of the American military base there.

Presidential press secretary Larry Speakes said afterward that Reagan asked the name of the man who interrupted him. "It seemed a bit out of the ordinary," Speakes said of the incident. "The president responded with his usual eloquence.

Domestic automakers' September car sales fell 5.8 per cent from the same month a year earlier, industry officials reported in Detroit. They also reported that the 1982 model year turned out to be the poorest for U.S. companies in 21 years. The five major U.S. producers said they sold 486,452 new cars last month down from 518,522 a year earlier. Sales of imported cars showed an increase over the same period but were down to their lowest level for a model year in four years. Importers reported 182,248 cars sold in September, up 9.2 per cent from 168,845 in September, 1982. Imports' market share for this month also fell to 27.2% from the August record of 32.7%. However, it was said that they held only a 24.3% per cent share in September of last year. AP

Wall Street Update

The stock market ran up its second biggest gain ever on Wednesday in a new outburst of buying by investing institutions expecting lower interest rates. The Dow Jones average of 30 in­dustrials jumped 37.07 to a 14 month high of 944.26. The gain was surpassed in Wall Street annals only by a 38.81-point rise on Aug. 17.

Analysts said a drop in some money-market interest rates helped most other evidence pointed toward a deepening recession. The Federal Reserve had decided to encourage further declines in rates.

The AIESEC local committee at Notre Dame managed to place nine foreign students in South Bend last year with each firm as Unipart, Crowe Chizik and Co., and Memorial and Saint Joseph's Hospitals. Meanwhile four Notre Dame students spent from eight to twelve weeks in Italy, West Germany, Iceland and Finland.

The national organization awards credits to local committees on the basis of performance and achievement. Each credit allows the local committee to place one student abroad. Aside from these credits, the number of students which a local committee can place overseas is based on the number of internships the committee finds for foreign stu­dents. In South Bend, the local committee can employ a foreign intern, "We have to sell AIESEC to them," Julie Glasgow, public relations director for AIESEC. Notre Dame said: "We have to familiarize students with our organiza­tion and with the quality of people which they would be hiring."

The process of placing students in a foreign internship is highly com­plex. The national committee ranks its members based upon the opinion of its Board of Advisors. The profiles of these members are then for­warded to the central organization. It is here that members are matched up with available internships on the basis of their ranking by the local committee and the number of inter­nships the local committee has won.

The procedure for being placed in a foreign internship is: (1) The national committee calls in all local committees; (2) The local committee finds foreign internships; (3) The central organization awards credits to the local committee; (4) The central organization then awards a foreign internship to the local committee.

Mutual's multICAST: rebirth of radio

In this, the age of video, we often overlook the advances being made in radio.

Like television, radio has entered the world of satellite technology, and nowhere have the groundbreaking innovations meant as much to broadcasters and listeners alike as at the Mutual Broadcastingsystem.

Skip Desjardin

On the Media

Organized in 1934 when stations such as WGN in Chicago and WOR in New York banded together to supply common programming, Mutual was one of the giants of the radio's "Golden Age." Inevitably, television eclipsed all radio networks when it captured the hearts and imaginations of Americans in the 1950's and 60's, and Mutual fell on some not-so-golden times. But now, the company has returned to the forefront. Its Project Satellite has once again established Mutual as a leader in the broadcast industry.

The concept is simple. The network has provided free satellite dishes to about 600 affiliate stations. Mutual programming is fed to WGN in Chicago and over several channels simultaneously. Each station has the option of what program it wants to pick up.

"In the old days, we had to buy telephone lines from the phone company," explains John Chanin, one of Mutual's vice-presidents. "They cost as much as per mile, per hour. And the quality just wasn't that good. If you wanted to send a football game, for instance, to some stations, and the hourly news to others, you had to pay for all sorts of lines. With the satellite, we've eliminated both of those problems. We transmit top quality sound directly to stations -- with no static or interference. And we can now send more than one program at a time.

Mutual's potential is growing fast. From the present three channels, plans are to broaden programming to take up as many as ten different channels at the same time.

"That way," Chanin continues, "if 100 stations want news, they take channel one. If 100 others want a talk show, they take channel two. And so on.

The Multicast system opens unlimited possibilities for the network. Slowly, cautiously, they are beginning to explore them all.

We have invaded the youth market recently," Chanin says. "Last year, we had a 24 percent increase in overall stations. That's a real upswing compared to the other networks. As radio audiences, like those in cable television, continue to be fragmented, Mutual is making strides to reach as many different types of audiences as possible.

"In the old days, network radio dominated," Chanin recalls. "They provided entertainment and personalities but TV took the personalities away. Radio became more locally-oriented. Then music began to move over to the FM band, and AM stations needed new kinds of programming."

The problem is that in local stations could not afford to fill large segments of time. That's where Mutual has made its contribution.

They have been covering Notre Dame football for 15 years, and just signed an agreement to broadcast the line for five more years. They provide NFL games, bowl games, basketball, and college basketball games as well. The news department offers two newscasts an hour, as well as a number of other special programs. Mutual is the home of the king of night-time talk shows, Larry King.

"We're not done yet, either," says Chanin. "We are already ready to put an uplink here at Notre Dame. We could have had it this year, but we just weren't satisfied with the equipment. It will be perfected in 1983, and then we'll be able to send football, basketball -- even some of the Notre Dame news stories -- directly onto the satellite from here.

Radio is far from dead, despite the excitement and innovation in the other media. And Mutual's resurgence is proof.

Editorial thurdays drive

Dear Editor,

Monday's editorial, "For Only Two Bucks, It's a Legitimate commerce in the year's campus-wide United Way Drive. Placing imaginary quotas into the mouths of John Hardy and Tom Boges, the editorial described the United Way as nothing more than "awarding trips to Disneyland" to the dorms with the best response, and picking up tips from the fund-raising efforts of "Marcello, Giancana, and Hoft." How ridiculous to make fun of a good-will organization like the United Way! What do we expect to see from the Observer when it comes time to talk about other worthwhile organizations like the World Hunger Coalition, or Pax Christi? Perhaps Mr. McGinn and Mr. Higgins, who wrote the editorial, should try running a campaign if the retarded people from Logan Center themselves.

Of course, such abuse is justified because McGinn and Higgins (as well as many before them) have managed to turn the United Way to appear to be anything but a worthwhile organization. The underlying theme to their argument is that because the United Way had done for its polio stricken mother no "guilt complex." The dorms don't care much about Grace who lives in the United Way. But you are mistaken; it is not those who give who have "guilt complexes," but those who do not. The dorm rep from P.E., who called her dorm to give 90 percent has no "guilt complex." The dorm rep from John Hardy who called her dorm to give 50 percent has "guilt complex." The only ones with "guilt complexes" are those like Mr. McGinn and Mr. Higgins who would have people do all the work for the United Way. In other words, those who do not give have no "guilt complexes." The only ones with "guilt complexes" are those who work hard to get other people to give money to the United Way.

The sad thing, Mr. McGinn and Mr. Higgins, is that it is not, nor the dorm reps, nor John and Tom who suffer because of your words. The only ones who suffer are those in the St. Joe area who depend on the United Way for help. You, and those like you, have succeeded in thwarting the United Way Drive. Last year the ND community contributed 74 percent; this year, only 61 percent was given. The 800 member ND student body has fallen short of its $10,000 goal, a drop in the bucket when you consider that Notre Dame's student body contributes $13,000 to the drive, and a drop from a "righteous" $11,000 to $2,0000. Less people gave this year than ever and I think that you can take some of the credit. Congratulations!

A rocky road

HEY, are you THINKING out there? It is very discouraging to walk across campus and catch glimpses of Macho Man, Chic Woman and Snobby Intellectual. I feel like stopping dead in my tracks and screaming out. "Hey you guys, are you chic, woman, Joe Cool, and Snobby Intellectual? Are you thinking for yourselves?"

David M. Schorp

Chautauqua in Faith

Fraternities and sororities of most big schools are dominated by "fraternal materialists," who is a supermutant of Macho Man or Chic Woman, with Snobby Intellectual. Instead of exemplifying brotherhood and fostering true comradeship, very often "fraternities" are the epitome of material misguidance. If refusing to think for themselves, members might hide their insecurities in numbers, assume the "correct" appearance and manmannerisms, and then begin looking down upon those not of their social elite. I am a good example of the trap our need for attention and security will pull us into. How great is the amount of potential wasted on social status, money, sex, and other misguided "masters of being."

There is both an easy and a hard way of seeking happiness. Faith is the hard way. To quote a "principle", "our world is struggling to figure out for ourselves, amid all possible, wide open alternatives, how to 'love the world?"' The sooner we find an answer, the better. For if we do not know, we may die in a life of "identity crisis!" (Or else, spend the rest of our lives in "quiet desperation") Can you imagine God saying, "You can pay me now, or you can pay me later?"

When my ways are fixed, it is a very hard, lengthy process for me to change. To abandon the thoughts and actions I am used to, and to assume new ones, requires in itself security, self-sacrifice, faith, and God's grace. As any accomplishment is only as fulfilling as the effort necessary in its achievement, the road to happiness is a rocky one

SPECIAL PREMIUM TO FIRST DOZEN NOTRE DAME CUSTOMERS
It was another week of ups and downs in college football last week. Three of the Bottom Ten teams in the country went down to stinging victories — to the dismay of their fans. As a result, Massachusetts, Michigan, and New Mexico State dropped out of the rankings this week.

But there is a powerful newcomer on the scene. The Purdue Boilermakers had their backs against the wall, and were faced with almost insurmountable odds. But Quarterback Scott Campbell put on an incredible performance, with some help from the Purdue special teams to pull defeat from the jaws of victory.

When time running out, and the Wisconsin Badgers were out of timeouts, Campbell kept the ball. He had a less-than-successful thought about handing the ball to the tailback, but then he spotted the opening, and ran it in for the winning touchdown. Where Wisconsin had no choice but to watch the clock.

But Campbell saw a rare opportunity, and pounced on it. He carried the ball out-of-bounds, stopping the clock.

Enter the special teams, who sent an errant punt snap into the end zone, where Wisconsin had no choice but to fall on it for the winning touchdown.

For Campbell, three cheers for intelligence above the rest of the fans, including the handicapped. In true Texas spirit, these fans have been banished to the end zone.

In the spot where the wheelchairs once sat, a luxury bar and lounge have been built. Now, not just anyone can go there to drink, mind you. No, one must pay an annual dues of $3,000 for the privilege of entering the lounge and paying $2 for a mixed drink and $1 for a beer.

The rest of the fans, including the handicapped, are not allowed to drink alcoholic beverages in the stadium. They can have soft drinks, however. How generous, here, then, are the rankings:

1) Oregon (0-6)
   Ducks didn't in 56-7 loss to UC
2) Memphis State (0-6)
   Tigers running out of its grave
3) The Texas State (1-9)
   North is 0-5. West is 1-4
4) Oregon State (0-6)
   Chasing Oregon in the Great White Northwest battle
5) Eastern Michigan (0-6)
   Humans could win 36 straight.
6) Purdue (0-6)
   Boilermakers are never lazy live in fast-motion loss
7) Virginia (0-6)
   Yes, Cavaliers, the season does end eventually
8) Kentucky (0-3-1)
   Replace Northwestern in fine Wildcat tradition
9) Michigan State (0-6)
   Voters consider record only — who cares about stats?
10) Tylene (0-7)
   Coach Johnes and Johnson instill killer instinct

Also receiving votes:
   The Marinos (0-1)
   The NFL (0-3)
   The Los Angeles Dodgers (88-74)

If I'm not wrong, you can't really take a nap the way you do, because your head just wouldn't fit in the bed. I mean, you know, during the day, how do you do it? You're always in bed, you know. And then you do it at night. And then you do it during the day again. It's just not possible.

Johnston kicking Irish ahead

By TIM DOYLE
Sports Writer

One of the most crucial aspects to the outcome of a football game often goes without notice — the kicking game. The man responsible for the kicking of field goals and extra points often goes very little credit, only blamed.

Senior Mike Johnston (5’11, 184 pounds) deserves a lot of credit for his excellent work this season. Johnston has been absolute­ly perfect. He is 6-for-6 on field goals and 9-for-9 on extra points through 11 games.

Johnston’s performance in the Michigan State game earned him a petition for the No. 1 kicking spot among the Irish. Assistant Head Coach Brian Van Wyk pressed him on this spot during the season.

"If I break it that’s fine, if that’s true for some reason. I don’t think it is, but if he says he wants the job for the kick I just want to keep winning," Johnston said.

Entering the season, the Rochester, N.Y., native faced some stiff competition for the kicking job. With hook-up, he may not win the Michigan or Michigan State games," says Notre Dame Head Coach Gerry Faust. "Maybe we’ve kind of taken him for granted, but he’s a super job."

After three games Johnston is averaging 8.6 points a game for a total of 24 points. At this pace, he is well ahead of Dave Reeve’s record pace when the senior compiled 75 points in kicking in 1977.

"I have not set a goal of breaking the record," says Johnston. "If I break it that’s fine, if that’s true for some reason. I don’t think it is, but if he says he wants the job for the kick I just want to keep winning," Johnston said.

In the second game, the Belles exhibited outstanding serving skills, but they created a little trouble for themselves by not moving properly. With all of the substitutions that Coach Murphy made some team members had to play in positions that they were not accustomed to. This caused a little confusion on the court, but the players adjusted well.

In viewing her team’s success, Murphy stated, "We are still trying to develop our most aggressive style of play which we will need when we get to State. We play well, but we have to dominate the game more. I was pleased with our offensive attack tonight, because our players varied their shots more. We scored frequently with threes and two-pointers."

Although he has earned a monogram in each of the last two seasons, this is Johnston’s first year on scholarship. He was invited to join the team as a walk-on his freshman season.

"I always wanted to play for Notre Dame," Johnston says, "but Bob Thomas put in a word for me."

Bob Thomas, who you may recall kicked for the Irish from 1973-75, is also a Rochester native and a close friend of Johnston’s. "Bob’s father has helped my kicking game the most," says Johnston. "He helped me get some kicks in the early season and now he helps me."

With only one extra point to go in his college career (that coming in his sophomore year), Johnston is a little anxious about his first few kicks.

"I was really quite nervous for that first field goal against Michigan," Johnston said. "But if I dominate the game more. I was pleased with our offensive attack tonight, because our players varied their shots more. We scored frequently with threes and two-pointers."

Notre Dame cross country Women runners finish second

CROSS COUNTRY - The women's cross country team ran their best meet of the season last Saturday at Manchester College as they placed second in a very competitive field of six teams. The women finished just three points behind first-place Manchester as they easily held off third-place St. Joseph’s.

All five of the Irish runners finished in the first twenty in the field of more than fifty competitors. Once again, Marta Facer led the women with a fourth place finish and a time of 20:09. Anne Area was just a second behind in fifth place and Marie Luo King a 20:36 (20:36) finishing tenth. Mary O’Connor, eleventh with a time of 20:49, and Gina Ochsner, 21:17 and a tenth-place finish overall, rounded out the scoring for the Irish.

Although their unseeded record was not exceptional, the team was still satisfied. As club vice-president Luke predicted, “We thought we could really well considering the weather. The temperature was up around 85° and the humidity was sweaty.”

The team’s tough schedule continues this weekend when the team travels to Western Michigan.

WATER POLO — The water polo team traveled to Chicago last weekend and placed third in a tournament of eight teams.

After crushing Hope College 19-5 in their first game, the Irish faced a Loyola team that is one of the top twenty teams in the nation. Although Notre Dame lost 19-8, the eleven-point difference represented the smallest margin of victory for Loyola throughout the tournament. In fact, Notre Dame played even the second half and might have won if they had not been blown out in the first half. In the consolation game, the Irish offense continued to struggle as they lost to Drexel 12-11.

Club president John Smith scored ten goals during the tournament — including six in the first game — to lead all Irish scorers. Player-coach Tom Austgen chipped in with eight goals and Mike Roberts and Steve Ibbotson scored five goals apiece. Goalkeeper Chris Parker had an outstanding tournament and was named in an unparallelled 26 goals save in the three games.

The team faces both Bowling Green and Hope College in a showdown at the Rock Bowl memorial pool.

RUGBY — The rugby football club travelled to Mar­quette last weekend for their toughest competition of the season. Unfortunately, their underdog record was preserved, a victory was not in the cards as the Irish had to settle for a 12-12 tie.

After the first period ended with the score knotted at zero, the Warriors opened the scoring in the second half on two long, bizarre runs. With just 3 minutes remaining, it appeared that they had the Irish at bay. It was then that centers Brian Foley and Mike Sareh were able to connect on a few sharp passes that led to Notre Dame’s first points of the day. Senior Schneider kicked the two point conversion and the lead was cut to 12-6. With only three minutes remaining and the game and the score still tight on the line, Brian Myohanen was able to score a solo try to bring the score to 12-10. With time running out, Steve Schneider converted his pressure packed two point kick to tie the game at 12-12.

Although not an addition to the win column, the rug­gers were still pleased with their performance. As club secretary John Goebbelsberger said, “Despite the tie on our record, we were really satisfied with our team morale and our ability to come from behind.”

The 4’6” A side will host the Chicago West Side Con­fers this Saturday behind Steppen at 11:00. The B side was able to work out their problems last Saturday as they shutout the hard-hitting Marquette B team 8-0. Sophomore Tom Corrigan and senior Tom Fal­lon both scored for the Irish B side as they upped their record to 1-3.

The Cream squeaked out a 6-0 thriller as time ran out against Marquette’s C team. Bill Cintron scored a four point try and Tom Reedy added the conversion to raise the C team’s record to 1-1.

SOCCER — The women’s soccer B team ran into a 1-3 defeat two games this past week. The women shutout Barnaby’s of the Michigan Soccer League 2-0 in their first win of the season last Thursday. Claire Henry had two goals for the Irish. The team was not quite as lucky on Sunday though as they lost 3-0 to N. Joe’s Bank.
