Grant program - page 3

The Observer

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1983

CSC brother suffers laceration in accident; student helps in aid

By JOHN MENNELL
News Staff

Holy Cross Brother Rowcz Adalbert suffered a laceration of the scalp while riding a bicycle and ran into a tree near St. Michael’s Laundry yesterday morning.

The bicycle and glanced around” and saw Adalbert crash into the tree. Torres, a pre-med major and Army ROTC cadet, began to administer first aid at the scene.

“At first, I was nervous,” Torres said, “but then I calmed myself down.” He then used CPR techniques to clear Adalbert’s throat.

Norman Muller, director of St. Michael’s Laundry, was informed of the accident, and he called security. “They were here right away,” he said.

Security officers Joseph Aranan and Robert O’Brien called for an ambulance and helped Torres keep Adalbert’s breathing clear.

The ambulance arrived approximately seven minutes later, minutes that “seemed to last forever,” Torres said. Torres continued to aid Adalbert with the paramedic direction.

Adalbert was then taken to St. Joseph’s Hospital, where his vital signs stabilized. He remained in intensive care.

See ACCIDENT, page 3

Student Senate passes resolution allowing K of C to rent building

By ELIZABETH FLOR
News Staff

The Student Senate passed a resolution last night allowing the Knights of Columbus to rent its space to campus organizations for social activities.

The Knights of Columbus building is presently not being used on weekends. The administration has prohibited parties sponsored by the Knights of Columbus in the past because of alcohol abuse and lack of supervision. To allow renewed use of the Knights of Columbus space, groups must observe a number of rules such as parietals.

Campus organizations holding parties will also have to check with Notre Dame or Saint Mary’s identification, engage a supervisor such as a club adviser or the proposed Knights of Columbus chaplain, and provide Dean Roemer with notification of the impending party.

Dorm-sponsored parties are also subject to Hall Presidents Council’s alcohol guidelines and party rules.

Dorms such as Lyons, Morrissey and Howard have limited party space, and the Knights of Columbus building is probably the biggest party space on south quad,” said Dave McCay, senator for district three.

The Senate also passed a resolution which would allocate $800 to the Notre Dame and St. Mary’s witty lounges. Army ROTC cadet, to administer first aid at the scene.

Farmington was raised by the Notre Dame student government with the policy with “ulterior motives,” hoping to spur the administration to act upon the need for more adequate laundry facilities.

Teresa Ross, Student Senate Executive Coordinator, has received negative responses from the Hall Presidents Council as well as from women’s dorms, towards the resolution. The rectresses have not shown cooperation, saying that allowing men to use their laundry rooms is an inconvenience.

See K OF C, page 3

Oktoberfest to feature mix of old and new; root beer garden added

By THERESA GUARINO
Staff Reporter

A mixture of old and new events will highlight this year’s Oktoberfest, scheduled to take place Oct. 5-7 at Saint Mary’s.

The week will feature traditional activities such as hall decorating and a beer garden, and some new ideas including hayrides and a picnic.

Oktoberfest, under the direction of the Saint Mary’s student government, has been a tradition at the College since the early 1970s. Originally started as a one-night beer garden, it gradually expanded into a series of events that the entire campus, not only students under 21, could participate in.

Events for this year include a dorm-decorating contest sponsored by the halls. Decorations will be judged Monday by several Student Activities staff members. The winning hall will receive a cake and half-price admission to Oktoberfest’s perennial favorite, “The Sound of Music.”

A picnic is scheduled for Tuesday, along with organized games and entertainment. “The Sound of Music” will be shown Wednesday in the Haggar College Center.

The traditional beer garden is scheduled for Thursday from 5 p.m. to 1 a.m. Admission will be $1 and 21 student ID will be required. A root beer garden with free admission will be held in front of Regina for students under 21. Both the beer and root beer gardens will feature Buster Lopez, the disc jockey at last Saturday’s Five Hall Dance in the Haggar Center.

“We hope that the root beer garden will alleviate some of the problems of last year’s beer party,” said O’Donnell.

The only difference between the two will be the beer; the entertainment will be the exact same.”

Oktoberfest will end Friday with two new activities, a bonfire and hayrides from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Hot apple cider will also be served. All Oktoberfest activities are open to Notre Dame students.

Organizers are hopeful that the new events will make this year’s fest one of the most successful yet. “I definitely think that the turnout from both Saint Mary’s and Notre Dame will be good,” said Dunn. “After the turn-out for the Five Hall Dance, which was non-alcoholic, we’re hoping for the same success at the root beer garden, especially since we’ll be using the same DJ.”

“We’re enthusiastic about this year’s Oktoberfest,” said Director of Student Activities Mary Ann O’Donnell. “The student organizers have really worked hard to plan activities that everyone can take part in. There’s something for everyone this year.”
Comedian Joan Rivers’ caustic cracks, costumes and other Emmy awards lit up the switchboards at several major NBC affiliates. NBC affiliates in Los Angeles, New York and Chicago reported 50% complaint calls by mid-week, according to NBC Spokeswoman in New York. A statement by Miss Rivers’ comments were deleted from the West Coast showing, but a network would have no comment about her performance. At one point during the show, while bantering with co-host Eddie Murphy, Miss Rivers noted that he is black and Catholic, while she is Jewish and female. “If you had a long, long love affair, you could be the companion appointed by James Watt,” said Miss Rivers, adding “Is it all right to keep focusing on your recent 24-hour-a-day business group that an advisory committee on coal pollution included a ‘black a woman, two Jews and a cripple.’” When Miss Rivers asked Murphy how he stayed in shape, he playfully whispered in her ear. “I don’t know,” she said, and the others turned away. Another dress change spurred a one word comment — “goddamn.” “I said one ‘goddamn,’ but I was tense,” Miss Rivers said later at an after awards hall in Century City. — AP

Continental Airlines announced it will resume service to 25 U.S. cities today under protection of a federal bankruptcy court, cut topping employees’ salaries in half and offering $49 one-way domestic fares this week. “We are very optimistic and very enthusiastic about our future,” Continental President Frank Lorenzo said at a news conference yesterday “Now that costs are firmly under control, we can compete and build a largest airline in the world.” When Continental returns to service, it will have just 27 percent of the flights it had prior to filing its reorganization petition, Lorenzo said. Dwindle will mean losing thousands of dollars, and only about 35 percent of the airline’s 12,000 employees will be on the job. More will be added as the company progresses. International businesses were not affected by the filing. — AP

A 47-year-old Caledonia, Michigan man died when his single-engine plane crashed in a field in St. Joseph County during a flight on Tuesday. The plane, which was identified as a Cessna 182 airplane, was radio equipped and had a registered owner in the state, said a police official. No other accidents have been reported in the area since yesterday morning. There was no indication of a fire, and the official said that a search was underway by Federal Aviation Administration investigators. The plane crashed near the intersection of U.S. 31 and U.S. 31, and is lying on its side in a cornfield. — AP

Frank O’Malley, one of Notre Dame’s leading thinkers of the 1940s and 1950s, will be the featured subject of a discussion this Thursday. A paper completed by a history graduate student, a paper is the work of Anne Sproul, a doctoral candidate at Northland College in Ashland, Wisconsin. The discussion, sponsored by the Charles and Margaret Hall Cawson Center for the Study of American Catholicism, will take place this Thursday at 4:30 p.m. in the library lounge of the Memorial Library. Copies of Sproul’s paper are available at the Cawson Center, 614 Memorial Library. — The Observer

The traveling “Works on Paper” exhibition, sponsored by the National Association of Schools of Art and Design, is making a stop at the Saint Mary’s College galleries Sept. 23-Oct. 14. The show, which has appeared throughout the country during the past two years, features work by artists from colleges and universities. The works, which include a variety of media, were selected for inclusion in the show by a panel of three judges from the University of Cincinnati and the University of Delaware. Five Saint Mary’s art students had their work chosen for inclusion in the show: Catherine Gunning and Susan Varga, 1982 graduates; Joyce Byrnes and Marianne Jones, 1983 graduates; and Theresa Bolaskowski, a senior. — The Observer

Mostly sunny today and warmer. High in upper 70s. Fair tonight and mild. Low in the low to mid 50s. Mostly sunny and warmer tomorrow. High in the low 80s. — AP

Margaret Fosmoe Managing Editor

In an atmosphere where classroom competition is all - most a varsity sport, this often leads to frustrating time conflicts. That is where priorities come in. Setting priorities involves sitting down and determining one’s goals and establishing a balance between class work and out of class work that will provide the best experience in the long run.

Why are you here?

If you find yourself unable to answer “Why am I here”, now is the time for some serious thinking. Spending years attempting to sort out the above questions or procrastinating between the two will not help.

Don’t get caught up in the rush to the business world unless you are really sure it is for you. Don’t panic and show up at the IBM interview just because your roommate does. Becoming a small cog in the giant corporate wheel could mean a rather bleak life for someone. Setting some time aside, or even taking a year off from school, to explore your options is a sensible idea. Don’t go into anything blind. Talk to professors and professionals. Get a summer job related to the fields in which you are interested. And once you make the decision, set your priorities according to the demands of that job. Remember what you are aiming for is not just a diploma case, but a career.

Why are you here?
The Observer

Tuesday, September 27, 1983 — page 3

continued from page 1

for his actions in a letter from the University. Torres was commended for "his quick and intelligent action and concern." Torres' actions were in our finest tradition," Roemer said.

"I never expected to use my CPR skills," said Torres. "The incident makes me want to be a doctor all the more." Torres was noticeably moved by the incident. Yesterday afternoon he said the accident was "all I had been thinking about all day. I haven't been able to concentrate on my classes at all. I just hope he's all right."

... K of C

businesses, such as restaurants or gift shops, to occupy the space on the end of Green Field.

Another concern is an undergraduate club similar to Senior Bar. However, student government will not propose this $1.5 million project until they see if the undergraduate nights at Senior Bar are successful. Callaghan said, the group would like to talk to the World Health Organization about the changes. A revote on the boycott will take place this spring or next fall.

... Accident

continued from page 1

The need for on- or off-campus town houses for seniors at the Board of Trustees meeting in this year's United Way drive. Some hard-headed administrators have proposed to the board, allowing the dorms that give to other charitable printed competition between Cassaghan said.

Callaghan wants to eliminate the dorms that will give to other charitable printed competition between the end of Green Field.

Another concern is an undergraduate club similar to Senior Bar. However, student government will not propose this $1.5 million project until they see if the undergraduate nights at Senior Bar are successful. Callaghan said, the group would like to talk to the World Health Organization about the changes. A revote on the boycott will take place this spring or next fall.

... Accident

The Observer

continued from page 1

tensive care last night. Further tests will be administered today to determine the cause of death. Dean of Student Affairs James Roemer, who arrived at the scene a few minutes later, expressed his concern for Adelbert, calling him "a valuable part of the Notre Dame community. The 70-year-old Adelbert has been with the Physics Department for almost 40 years and retired from teaching two years ago.

He was coming back from the Physics Department when the accident occurred," said Brother Paul Kelly, Adelbert's religious superior. Roemer also commended Torres for his actions in a letter from the University. Torres was commended for "his quick and intelligent action and concern." Torres' actions were in our finest tradition," Roemer said.

"I never expected to use my CPR skills," said Torres. "The incident makes me want to be a doctor all the more." Torres was noticeably moved by the incident. Yesterday afternoon he said the accident was "all I had been thinking about all day. I haven't been able to concentrate on my classes at all. I just hope he's all right."

... K of C

businesses, such as restaurants or gift shops, to occupy the space on the end of Green Field.

Another concern is an undergraduate club similar to Senior Bar. However, student government will not propose this $1.5 million project until they see if the undergraduate nights at Senior Bar are successful. Callaghan said, the group would like to talk to the World Health Organization about the changes. A revote on the boycott will take place this spring or next fall.

... Accident

continued from page 1

The need for on- or off-campus town houses for seniors at the Board of Trustees meeting in this year's United Way drive. Some hard-headed administrators have proposed to the board, allowing the dorms that will give to other charitable printed competition between the end of Green Field.

Another concern is an undergraduate club similar to Senior Bar. However, student government will not propose this $1.5 million project until they see if the undergraduate nights at Senior Bar are successful. Callaghan said, the group would like to talk to the World Health Organization about the changes. A revote on the boycott will take place this spring or next fall.

... Accident

continued from page 1

The need for on- or off-campus town houses for seniors at the Board of Trustees meeting in this year's United Way drive. Some hard-headed administrators have proposed to the board, allowing the dorms that will give to other charitable printed competition between the end of Green Field.

Another concern is an undergraduate club similar to Senior Bar. However, student government will not propose this $1.5 million project until they see if the undergraduate nights at Senior Bar are successful. Callaghan said, the group would like to talk to the World Health Organization about the changes. A revote on the boycott will take place this spring or next fall.

... Accident

continued from page 1

The need for on- or off-campus town houses for seniors at the Board of Trustees meeting in this year's United Way drive. Some hard-headed administrators have proposed to the board, allowing the dorms that will give to other charitable printed competition between the end of Green Field.

Another concern is an undergraduate club similar to Senior Bar. However, student government will not propose this $1.5 million project until they see if the undergraduate nights at Senior Bar are successful. Callaghan said, the group would like to talk to the World Health Organization about the changes. A revote on the boycott will take place this spring or next fall.
Making sense of El Salvador

Willie, I will tell you about Willie. He is about four years old, short, with thick, dark hair, cut close. He has sparkling eyes, a brilliant smile and an incredible ability to mimic English words. Say “watch” and he says “watch” say “thank you” and he says “thank you.”

Richard Cohen
Richard Cohen Column

you.” But mostly what he says is “poppa” which is what he said over and over again as he hugged me around the legs. Willie is a war orphan.

I met Willie when I and a crew from ABC television came here to do the requisite story about war orphans. It is an old story, as old as war itself, but war orphans really are El Salvador’s hidden crop. Some of them are sold, some just die, and many roam the streets begging from people as poor as they are some, the lucky ones, manage to get here — here being an orphanage run by Kenneth Myers, a priest from Cleveland who forges in refugee centers for kids no one wants, he wants them.

Willie is one of these. He burst upon me when we entered the cottage where he lives with 15 other children. He jumped at me, grabbing me around the legs, saying, “poppa, poppa.” over and over again. He was dressed in oversized orange shorts, a white T-shirt and sandals made of aquamarine-colored plastic. I picked him up and swung him over my head, and instantly about 4 or 5 other kids barrelled into me, swinging from my legs like drunks from a lemonade stand, all of them calling me “poppa.”

Willie attached himself to me. When I walked outside into the sun, Willie followed. “Poppa, papa,” he said.

“Nice,” I said more to myself than to him. “Unfortunately, I am not your papa.” Willie’s smile, “Unfortunately,” he mimicked.

Unfortunately, I knelt down to talk to him and instantly he was in my arms, hugging me. You cannot imagine, after dealing with nothing but death and war, how good it feels to hold a child, to hug and be hugged. And so the two of us held onto each other until other kids came and they joined in. There was a girl in a yellow dress and a chubby boy and maybe one or two others. It is tough to take notes when you are being hugged by lots of little kids. It is tougher still to say who needed the hugging more — me or them.

One of the kids, an older girl named Maria who watches the youngest children, was asked how she was orphand. She said the soldiers came, ordered her out of the house and took her parents away. She never saw them again. She was asked what she thought of war. Her response was to turn away and look into the mountain in the distance.

This is a depressing place. In the caves, the poor live in raiment, their dormitories made of corrugated steel, the roofs held down by bricks and rocks. In the countryside, the homes are sometimes made of branches and twigs woven together. The better ones are adobe and brick, tile roofs, but no running water and often no electricity. It is hard to be optimistic. There are so many poor people, so little wealth, so much violence and a foreigner, especially the new ones, walks on the surface of it, confused by everything, scared of much of it, asking questions to get one answer and a different answer the next time.

A country like ours sends down experts in everything. But the truth of the matter is that in more than a decade we have not been able to rebuild Newark or Detroit and now we have come here, where the problem is so much greater, to tell the Salvadoreans how it should be done.

This is why I like Willie and, by extension, this orphanage run by Father Myers. Here the people are — keep the mountain. Here the goals are neat and uncomplicated by politics.

Willie looks into my sunglasses. He sees his reflection and studies it as if it were something else. He touches the glasses tentatively and then harder and then so hard that I fear he will damage it. “Stop,” I say.

“Stop,” he laughs, and then he ambled off to play with some other kids and I never saw him again.

Willie. Let me tell you about Willie. So far, he is the only thing here I really understand.

P. O. Box Q

Men of Notre Dame calendar

Dear Editor:

As a female, ex-Farley resident, and student of the Notre Dame community, I am writing in support of Mr. Scally's viewpoint concerning the proposed calendar, "The Men of Notre Dame." First of all, I would like to question why the idea of a uniquely male calendar was even brought up. In an age where sexual discrimination is of such concern that the leader of a committee of group is no longer called a "chairman" but a "chairperson" (or some variation thereof), a calendar of single sex orientation seems archaic as well as offensive. It may not appear prejudiced at first, but if two men's dormitories were to propose a strictly female calendar, the charge of "female sex object" would be cited immediately against the men. Is there a different standard when men are concerned?

Second, why was the calendar proposed? As I understand it, the idea was thought of as a means of fundraising for the activities of two women's dormitories, Walsh and Farley. In other words, simply put, these women decided to earn money by selling calendars (assuming there would be a poster boy for each month) since the men in the photos must appeal to the consumer for the calendar to sell, it is in the best interests of the two dormitories to pick men that are "suitable." Does the university wish to put its name on a fundraiser based upon selling the physical likenesses of its male population? Or would it rather go into print as valuing other qualities of its entire student body (social awareness, academic achievement, sports records...). Third, who would pick the "male models," and why do they deem themselves qualified to judge applicants? Are not all males attending the University "Notre Dame Men," or do Farley and Walsh women know of some special qualification that limits this title? If they do, perhaps they should be in on the admissions process.

Fourth, to whom would this calendar appeal? Obviously, to the 12 or so mothers of the "male models," but besides that, what audience is Walsh and FarleyHalls trying to reach? Would the people who bought the calendar look at each picture and think, "Gee, I wonder what type of person that man is, if he is nice, if he is friendly, concerned, smart... More likely, a situation similar to the E1 calendars of World War I would arise. Did the models of those calendars win fame for their talents? For their physical appearance of individuals of the opposite sex to make money? Is this so very different from the nature of the Playboy article?

And sixth, isn't it about time that Notre Dame became known nationwide as a coeducational institution proud of both its male and female students? Would we want it any other way?

I do not wish to label the women of the two dormitories as sexist, or prejudiced. I wish in stead to encourage them to consider another idea, a calendar entitled "The People of Notre Dame." Students, faculty, administration and staff could be photographed at work, in volunteer capacities, at home, at play. By diversifying the subject matter of the models, characters and personalities as well as the activities of individuals would be loaded — not their physical appearances. If Farley and Walsh Halls were to produce this type of a calendar, I, for one, might even put it on my Christmas list.

Robin Brown

The Observer

Box Q: Notre Dame, IN 46556
1-219-239-9051
The Observer is an independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration or editor. The news is reported as accurately and as objectively as possible. The assigned editors represent the opinion of a majority of the Editorial Board. Commentaries, letters, and the October column present the views of the authors. Column space is available to all members of the community and the free expression of varying opinions on campus, through letters, is encouraged

The Observer

Editorial Board

Editor-in-Chief
David Donzis
Managing Editor
Margaret Fosmoe
Eucene Editor
Paul McGinn
News Editor
Bob Vonderheide
Sports Editor
J. Bower
Sewansee Editor
Mark Worsch
Sewer Dave's Editor
Anne Mostecksy
Farraret Editor
Sarah Hamilton
Photo Editor
Sue Brown
Sports Editor
Michael Smithson

Department Managers

Business Manager
Daniel O'Hare
Controller
Alex Salsas
Advertising Manager
Chris Owen
Pommograph Manager
Shanea La Crosse
Circulation Manager
Mark Motzio
System Manager
Kevin Williams

Founded November 3, 1966

Richard Cohen
Richard Cohen Column

they entered the men's dorms to produce a coeducational institution proud of both its male and female students! Would we want it any other way?

I do not wish to label the women of the two dormitories as sexist, or prejudiced. I wish in stead to encourage them to consider another idea, a calendar entitled "The People of Notre Dame." Students, faculty, administration and staff could be photographed at work, in volunteer capacities, at home, at play. By diversifying the subject matter of the models, characters and personalities as well as the activities of individuals would be loaded — not their physical appearances. If Farley and Walsh Halls were to produce this type of a calendar, I, for one, might even put it on my Christmas list.

Robin Brown

The Observer

Box Q: Notre Dame, IN 46556
1-219-239-9051
The Observer is an independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration or editor. The news is reported as accurately and as objectively as possible. The assigned editors represent the opinion of a majority of the Editorial Board. Commentaries, letters, and the October column present the views of the authors. Column space is available to all members of the community and the free expression of varying opinions on campus, through letters, is encouraged

The Observer

Editorial Board

Editor-in-Chief
David Donzis
Managing Editor
Margaret Fosmoe
Eucene Editor
Paul McGinn
News Editor
Bob Vonderheide
Sports Editor
J. Bower
Sewansee Editor
Mark Worsch
Sewer Dave's Editor
Anne Mostecksy
Farraret Editor
Sarah Hamilton
Photo Editor
Sue Brown
Sports Editor
Michael Smithson

Department Managers

Business Manager
Daniel O'Hare
Controller
Alex Salsas
Advertising Manager
Chris Owen
Pommograph Manager
Shanea La Crosse
Circulation Manager
Mark Motzio
System Manager
Kevin Williams

Founded November 3, 1966
It left both teams with 2-2 records meeting for the third time.

You were right.

Found beaded letters "ABERG LAU SHAFT."

Red Bookstore.

Lost: LaFortune. They are Camera at Green Small.

Smaller. Opportunity to model Lamaur.

Wool server "Century" to make reservations. Anyone who is interested in joining the club is welcome to attend.

NV A office by past weekend, as two teams travelled to two different regattas. Tom for rent. The Windsurfing Club will be held this Friday at 4 p.m. in 445 Stanford. Members should bring a proof of insurance. Those interested in learning should make reservations to be included in the joining club is welcome to attend.

The meeting for the Windsurfing Club will be held this Friday at 4 p.m. in 445 Stanford. Members should bring a proof of insurance. Those interested in learning should make reservations to be included in the joining club is welcome to attend.

Entries are now being accepted at the NVA office for the Dorr 6-miler run. The set is for October 8 at 10 a.m. T-shirts will be awarded to all finishers and trophies to the first place finisher in each of six divisions. Bring the 42 entry fee to the NVA office by October 8.

NVA will be sponsoring a horseback riding trip at the Waupaca County Fair on Sunday, October 2. To reserve a time, bring the $5 registration fee to the NVA office by Thursday.

The ND-SMC Sailing Club was very busy this past weekend, as two teams travelled to two different regattas. Tom Fink, Dan Dressel, and Barb Blanchette raced in the M.C.S.A. Sweep Championships in Detroit, finishing in fourth place. The second team of Brian Rock, Pete Solot, Paul Kramer, Jim Collins, and Priscilla Karie raced in the Kent State (Ohio) Black Squirrel Regatta. The "A" Division was close and N-V-SMC came in second place due to a protest. The "B" Division was also close and ND-SMC finished second in this time, by two points. Overall, ND-SMC finished second in the regatts.

continued from page 10

To thwart the Wildcats, the now smaller Northwestern team employed a more effective technique. Depending on who felt the stronger, a particular point in the race, that runner would assume the lead and push away.

In other words, when Carol would get tired of leading the pack, Julie would take over. When Julie became tired, Dilton would assume the front spot, and so on.

Unable to defend himself against this type of physical and psychological attack, the Northwestern runner fell off the pace. He then watched the leading pack of four break away and leave him behind 60 yards as they crossed the finish line together in 24.42.

Northwestern's top man finished in third, Tyler and Courter flank with seventh, respectively.

John Adams and Craig Maxfield who were competing for the last time. Adams came in eleventh place, while Maxfield came in twelfth place.

Mike Collins, an outstanding freshman who was Notre Dame's fifth man at Ohio State, hurt his leg and did not compete.

Coach, T.V. , to leave back-to-back losses.

HELP

A RICH man is in need of a ticket to PITTSBURGH game. Please reply at once. I'll pay $100 or best offer. My ad ran out of print by coming set of 277. 376-7120. You will be richly rewarded.

NEED USC GA'S.

NEED 2 USC & 1 student ticket

NEED 2 tickets for USC & OR PITT GA'S.

NEED UCB TICKET FOR USC & OR PITT GA'S

NEED 2 USC tickets and 1 student ticket for USC GA'S.

NEED NAVY GA's & 200

NEED 2 tickets for USC & OR PITT GA'S.

NEED 2 tickets for USC & OR PITT GA'S.

NEED 2 tickets for USC GA'S.

NEED 2 tickets for USC GA'S.

NEED 2 tickets for USC GA'S.

NEED 2 tickets for USC GA'S.

NEED 2 tickets for USC GA'S.

NEED 2 tickets for USC GA'S.

NEED 2 tickets for USC GA'S.

NEED 2 tickets for USC GA'S.

NEED 2 tickets for USC GA'S.

NEED 2 tickets for USC GA'S.

NEED 2 tickets for USC GA'S.

NEED 2 tickets for USC GA'S.

NEED 2 tickets for USC GA'S.

NEED 2 tickets for USC GA'S.

NEED 2 tickets for USC GA'S.

NEED 2 tickets for USC GA'S.

NEED 2 tickets for USC GA'S.
... Beuerlein

In this series he would convert three third-down and two fourth-down situations into first downs while passing for 87 yards in the drive against the first-team Miami defense.

On a fourth-and-five from the Notre Dame 25 yard line Beuerlein completed a nine-yard pass to Joe Howard to keep the drive alive. On a third-and-three, Beuerlein ran the ball himself for five yards. After a penalty and a sack, Beuerlein made perhaps the play of the game on a fourth-and-14 situation when he drilled a bullet to Milt Jackson.

"Some big hole," cracks Beuerlein.

"I wore number seven in high school too, so I consider it my number, not anyone else's. I want to make my own name here."

He fed a 25-yard pass to Alvin Miller on a third-and-19 situation.

Beuerlein converted another third-down situation as he took the team to the Miami four-yard line, but the drive finally stalled when he was sacked on fourth down. Still, it was a performance that earned the plaudits of coaches, players, and viewers alike. And it was one that was clearly mentioned to me that the last quarterback to wear number seven at Notre Dame was Joe Theismann," chuckles Beuerlein.

But if one watched closely, Beuerlein does seem to possess not only the poise of the Theismann, but many of the physical traits. Some lithe figure. Some youthful choir boy face. Some neat groomed blond hair.

"Some big hole," cracks Beuerlein.

"I wore number seven in high school too, so I consider it my number, not anyone else's. I want to make my own name here."

He got off to a good start last Saturday, but realizes that it may be wise to ease himself into anything too soon.

"My first goal this year was to feel comfortable with the system," says Beuerlein, "and then I sort of set a second goal which is to be the top back-up quarterback by the end of the year. I have great confidence in the system. I'm comfortable with the coaches and the system. Beuerlein has just been superb in that respect."

Second of career

Bob Forsch no-hits Expos

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bob Forsch pitched the second no-hitter of his career and the first in the National League in exactly two years, giving the St. Louis Cardinals a 5-0 victory over the Montreal Expos last night.

The Expos, who were mathematically eliminated from the NL East pennant race yesterday afternoon when Philadelphia beat Chicago 5-2, came close to getting a hit only once.

Tim Raines hit a double to left-center that Cards' center fielder Willie McCoy caught after a long run. McCoy also hit a warning-track fly ball in the seventh that easily was caught by David Green in right field.

Forsch retired the first five batters before hitting Gary Carter in the left side in the second. St. Louis second baseman Ken Oberkfell then boosted Chris Speier's grounder, allowing Carter to move to third, but Forsch got the first of his six strikeouts to end the inning.

Then Forsch retired the final 21 Expos to complete the no-hitter, matching his performance of April 16, 1978, when he whitewashed Philadelphia 5-0.

The last NL no-hitter was Nolan Ryan's record 38th, Sept. 26, 1981, a 5-0 victory for Houston over the Los Angeles Dodgers in the Astrodome. Ryan was the second consecutive no-hitter of the season in the major leagues. Dave Righetti of the New York Yankees pitched the first July 4 at Yankee Stadium, 4-0 against the Boston Red Sox.

In the ninth, Forsch, 9-12, struck out pinch-hitter Terry Crowley, who argued after the called third...
Today

Bloom County

Lecture, Lecture, Meeting and Fate

Aspirin Man

You know, religion sure has changed in the last few decades!

I mean nowadays some Jews eat pork and Baptists say hello to one another in the liquor store.

I called it! The Cheshire Cheecho.

The Daily Crossword

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>1</th>
<th>2</th>
<th>3</th>
<th>4</th>
<th>5</th>
<th>6</th>
<th>7</th>
<th>8</th>
<th>9</th>
<th>10</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>14</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>22</td>
<td>37</td>
<td>17</td>
<td>38</td>
<td>10</td>
<td>32</td>
<td>23</td>
<td>18</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Monday's Solution

Rolling Stones

In Chautauqua

"Charlie is my Darling" & "Stones in the Park"

Tues., Sept. 27 at 7, 9, 11

LOVERBOY LOTTERY

Thursday, Sept. 29, Nazz-3:00

CONCERT: October 29
All Seats $11.50

You must bring money to lottery to purchase tickets

* KANSAS CONCERT NOV. 3 *
LOTTERY OCT. 6
$11.50 / $10.50
Beuerlein shines with potential

By LOUIE SOMOGYI

On a night when Notre Dame fans and players alike wereElephants became dark, at least one shining ray of hope burst through.

Freshman quarterback Steve Beuerlein, showing amazing poise and great potential, became the youngest Notre Dame recipient of the Chevrolet "Most Valuable Player" award that is presented on national telecasts.

Although Beuerlein played in only three of the Irish possessions, the team put together drives of 72, 44, and 76 yards (before losing some yards on the final play) under his guidance. With Beuerlein at the helm, the offense registered exactly three of the Irish possessions, the team put together drives of 72, 44, and 76 yards (before losing some yards on the final play) under his guidance. With Beuerlein at the helm, the offense registered exactly half of the team's 22 first downs, and also amassed 185 of the 355 total yards. In all, Beuerlein completed 15 of his 23 passes for 145 yards. It marked yet another impressive stride this fall for the Fullerton, Cal., native, who had been working with the second unit ever since the Notre Dame 19-yard line, Beuerlein faded back to pass and was immediately taken down by Liberty's new defense.

“I think it gave me a break. It taught us to read routes according to what the defense gave us. So I had to read the college game is based on. Most teams don't do that.”

The freshman maintains perspective about his future, though. "I've got a million things to learn," admits Beuerlein. "I really have to work on reading the many different coverages and on not forcing my passes. I also need to become stronger, so I'll work on that during the off season in order to put on about 15 more pounds."

His confidence, however, is not in doubt. Throughout the contest, Beuerlein's great poise under fire was constantly marveled at by the television announcers.

"I do have a lot of self-confidence," says Beuerlein. "And it's important to get that confidence across to the rest of the guys in the huddle."

That confidence and poise was evident from the moment he took the field in the Orange Bowl.

"I wasn't really nervous," he recalls. "The coaches told me earlier in the week that I would get to play because of the humility factor down there, so I was kind of prepared. I just tried not to get excited or make any mistakes."

Facing a third and eight situation in his first series from the Notre Dame 19-yard line, Beuerlein faked back to pass and was immediately confronted with a strong Miami rush. He managed to scramble out of danger and pick up the first down. While still down, he was viciously speared.

"I guess that was my initiation into college football," says Beuerlein. "I was seeing stars after that.

At that point in the games, many viewers began seeing the freshman as a potential star himself.

The team went down to the Miami nine-yard line before making a field goal. On that first possession, but it was in the second possession that Beuerlein's talent came into greater evidence. On a third-and-18 situation, Beuerlein drilled a 23-yard pass down the middle to Greg Bell. One play later, Beuerlein tossed a pass that was palpable.