Unsanitary conditions reported in food sales

By MARY HIGGINS

Conditions in residence hall food sales are "deplorable," according to a report on inspections conducted earlier this year.

The inspections were conducted on Nov. 9 and Nov. 11. In his report to Father John Van Voelkle, vice president for student affairs, campus Environmental Safety Specialist Michael McCauslin stated, "Generally conditions jeopardize the following the broadcast. The policy in an interview on..."

Two teenagers just seen hunting near the site of an explosion, according to Dr. Leonora Marie in Pleasant Hill, Iowa, were missing yesterday, and authorities theorized they may have fired shots that set off the blast felt up to 45 miles away. However, Polk County Sheriff's Deputy Dan Furguson emphasized that that was just a theory and that investigators were still seeking the cause of the explosion at a tank container. Authorities had not released the names of the missing youth. Deputy Mark Strenner said if anyone was near the explosion, in an industrial part of the south side of Des Moines, "the chances of survival are slim." No other injuries were reported, but the explosion, at about 4:45 p.m. Saturday, was felt for miles around and left a crater 80 feet deep and 100 feet across. — AP

High winds, rain and what citizens described as a funnel cloud ripped through the Tippacanoe Mall in Lafayette, Ind., yesterday, heavily damaging 12 to 28 stores and several homes and apartment buildings. No serious injuries were reported. Lafayette Police Lt. Gene Reed said three funnel clouds were reported as the bad weather moved through the west central Indiana city at about 8:30 a.m. "The wind only appeared to last for 30 to 35 minutes. It was rain and wind damage," said Lafayette Sgt. Edward Moser. "Several citizens spotted a funnel cloud." Moser said there was only reported one man who was struck by debris. He was treated and released at an area hospital, Moser said. — AP

About 4 million Americans will be traveling by airplane, train or bus this Thanksgiving weekend, according to the Travel Industry Association of America. That will make the Nov. 25-27 weekend the busiest of the year for scheduled transportation, the industry said in a news release. According to the association, more than 45 million people will use the intercity bus system. 1.5 million will take commercial airline flights, and at least 100,000 will ride by train. Spokesmen for various transportation companies advised those traveling over the holiday weekend to make reservations as possible and to allow extra time to make sure they catch their trains or buses. — AP

Violence flared in an impoverished Oaxaca state, Mexico as voices cast bullets in special elections yesterday following a bitter campaign between candidates and Mexico's two major Institutional Revolutionary Party. In Magdalena Tuxpan, the mayor said two men and a woman were shot to death and 20 people were wounded in a clash between factions of the Institutional Revolutionary Party — PRI. Mayor Alfredo Zarate Cabrera said some 1,200 people were marching in support of Jesus Moreno Tejada who had wanted to represent the party in the mayoral election. When they approached a polling station, they were met by 150 armed men who fired into the crowd. Zarate said an estimated one million voters across the southern state went to the polls to elect 570 mayors, with the PRI expected to win most of the races. Local officials said they did not expect any results to be announced until this afternoon, and it would probably take a week to compile official results. — AP

Andropov sends letter to Germans

Associated Press

BONN, West Germany — Soviet President Yuri V. Andropov sent a letter to Chancellor Helmut Kohl, a spokesman for Kohl said yesterday, the eve of a debate on the deployment of NATO nuclear missiles in West Germany.

Meanwhile, police reinforced security in the government district to discourage violence by anti-missile activists, and said they will ring the Parliament building today during the debate on an issue that has divided the country.

Chancellor spokesman Alexander Allardt declined to reveal what the letter from Andropov said. But the conservative Hamburg newspaper Bild Am Sonntag said the Soviet president warned that the West German government must be prepared to "take the consequences" if it goes through with the missile deployment.

The first battery of nine Pershing 2 missiles could be placed in West Germany as early as Wednesday. The letter was delivered to the chancellery Friday evening by the German ambassador and his governing coalition has prepared to question the parliament's approval was enacted.

The missile plan is expected to win future German parties.

According to Bob Johnson, Zahn Hall president, resolution guidelines were followed "to the letter" at the debate today. He is a staunch supporter of the missile defense and his governing coalition has prepared to ask that the Soviets make a new proposal at the Geneva arms talks on medium-range missiles.

Kohl will be the first speaker in the Parliament debate today. He is a staunch supporter of the deployment and he governing coalition has a 58-seat majority in Parliament, so the missile plan is expected to win approval. The chancellor says the parliament's 1981 approval was sufficient and this new vote was expected tomorrow is not necessary. The Parliament debate is expected to be heated, particularly after the Social Democrats' rejection of the missiles.

Israeli plane downed during retaliatory raid

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Swarms of Israeli fighter-jets roared over the Mediterranean, roared low over Beirut and hurtled east starting at 2 p.m. (7 a.m. EST). They made at least a dozen runs over the capital and the mountains.

The fighters came sweeping in from the Mediterranean, raced low over Beirut and hurtled east starting at 2 p.m. (7 a.m. EST). They made at least a dozen runs over the capital and the mountains.

The plane crashed in the Beirut neighborhood about a half-mile from the Beirut airport, headquarters for the 1,800-man U.S. Marine contingent of the multinational force patrolling the capital.

There was an official word on casualties in the bombings, but a statement from the Syrian backed Israeli military said Israeli bombs killed at least two civilians and wounded eight in a Lebanese, controlled town of Sidon. It gave no other details.

Reagan record in Congress mixed

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Reagan didn’t get everything he wanted from Congress this year, but he continued his three-year string of victories in holding down — if not cutting — federal spending.

The lawmakers did vote to spend about $11 billion on domestic programs Reagan said he didn’t want, and they cut a like amount from the money he requested to continue the nation’s defense buildup. But when measured against administration expectations at the start of the session, Reagan considered the results quite satisfactory.

White House spokesman Martin Fitzwater, reviewing the final flurry of legislation after Congress adjourned Friday night, said the administration was generally pleased with the outcome.

“The best evidence is we’re not vetoing anything,” Fitzwater said. “We went into this Congress with a list of proposals, and I don’t think they got most of the items off it.”

Cuban refuses to leave until material returned

Associated Press

ST. GEORGE'S, Grenada — The June Cuban diplomat on Grenada says he’s staying put until Cuba recovers $2 million in equipment used to construct the airport the Reagan administration contended was becoming a Soviet and Cuban military base.

“The island is mine,” says Guston Diaz, who remains in the Cuban Embassy in St. George’s with an aide. Pablo Mora. “I will not leave until I get a positive response.”

“It’s paradoxical and ironic that the country that accused us of building the airport for military purposes has now turned it into a military base,” Diaz said during an interview at the embassy.

He said Cuba spent more than $35 million on construction and equipment for Point Salines airport, about a dozen miles south of St. George’s, the capital.

The Charge d’Affaires wants the United States and Grenada to return vehicles, heavy equipment and machine the Cubans were using to build it.

Diaz also insists on the return of a Cuban Airlines plane parked at Pearl Airport, Grenada’s only commercial airport.

The diplomat and his aide say they are the only Cubans left of 784 who were on Grenada when United States and Caribbean forces invaded the island Oct. 25, 1983.

John Farris has said he believes 12 to 50 Cubans are hiding out in the hills or on Grenada’s third island.

The Cubans on Grenada when the invasion occurred were construction workers at the airport project and soldiers who Diaz said advised President Fidel Castro or were “engineering and technical experts.”

Diaz met with Grenada’s governor general, St. Paul Scoon, asked Cuba to reduce its diplomatic force to one person.

Diaz, 35, took charge of the embassy after the evacuation of Ambassador Julian Rizzo and helped oversee the return of the bodies of Cubans killed during the invasion.

Debden denied U.S. contentions that the Port Salines airport was going to be used by Soviet and Cubans warplanes. Like Bishop, he insisted that the facility, still 9,000-foot long runway, would allow jumbo jets, a weapon needed to bring much-needed tourists to the 133-mile square-mile island, which bases its survival on rum making, cocoa and bananas.

The airport “would have been finished by March, in March of next year,” Diaz said.

THE Complete Tour of the War Powers Act for the first time to restrain a president’s power to send troops into action on his own, and in doing so it gave Reagan permission to keep Marines in Lebanon for 18 months.

As the year began, Reagan faced dire predictions that the Democrats, whose House majority had been reinforced by 26 new members elected in 1982, could finally halt the Reagan juggernaut that had dominated the 97th Congress. Plans were laid to block the third year of the three-year, 25 percent income tax cut Reagan had won early on, and substantial tax increases were contemplated to cut into the huge deficit declared by members of both parties.

The president resolved to veto any tax increase and vowed he would not permit a resurrection of the high spending levels of earlier years. Administration concerns were borne out by early defeats in both the House and Senate, which bolted from Reagan’s budget resolution and set their own guidelines calling for new taxes and only modest spending cuts.

Incarnation is part of the experience.

Community living and a simple lifestyle form an important part of the experience. Each HCA group is fortunate to have in its area a local Holy Cross religious community that helps provide the group with a sense of support, assistance and guidance. The challenge that awaits a Holy Cross associate is the challenge to grow in the knowledge of oneself and of others. It is the challenge to seek in one's life the realization of the Christian ideal within a culture full of violence and injustice. It is the challenge to join, in such a world, our ideas with action, in order to reconcile the rich with the poor, the Church with the world, and faith with reason. The call is a difficult one, for it is an ongoing struggle to make our Christian faith a real part of our daily lives, and yet to be true witnesses to what we believe. Those who respond to that call must serve to do.

In the service of another person, we learn to be, to be necessitated, to be needed, to be wanted. Awareness is a key to the struggle; until I came out to Arizona with the program I never really gave much thought to what life was like as a migrant farmworker or what it was like trying to support a family at a wage far below the poverty level. I had never seen transients or street people before, and now I am working with them every day at an emergency shelter in downtown Phoenix. I never knew what life was like for the poorest of the poor. The homeless people that I am working with at the shelter are each wounded in some way, the spiritual, physical and mental scars run deep. These people have been systematically and categorically oppressed throughout their lives by the extant social structure, and their souls are filled with anger and hate, with fear, and a deep, deep loneliness. They are the helpless, crying out for help, and getting no answers from society.

Notre Dame and home seem so far away in the face of such experiential learning. I am being challenged each day to try to understand what all this means with respect to my faith and how I will live my life as a doctor, my intended career. It has been almost three months now that I have been out here, and the adjustment process has at times been full of very difficult educational experiences, however there have been many pleasant and enjoyable experiences also. We have the household chores — cleaning, cooking, shopping and repair and maintenance — divided up with reasonable equity. After four years of revelling in the squall of empty beer-can-laden floors in Dillon, I guess that it is part of my responsibility as a graduate to start picking up after myself.

We have a house meeting once a week to discuss community business, to air out any problems we have been having, and to discuss any other topics that might affect the community. Every Tuesday night we have Father Bill Downowt over to the house for dinner and Mass. It is a good time for us to get together in a structured way so we might strengthen our bonds as a community and get to know each other better.

We also usually have a discussion on a previously agreed upon subject. The topics generally are about social concerns or thoughts on the readings at Mass, or maybe just on how work has been going and things we have been dealing with.

The experience of this year will change me in many ways. I will not be the same person I was before the year. I will have new perspectives and a new and more critical way of looking at things. I will be tested and strengthened by experience, and with firm trust in God, I will be able to integrate them into my lifestyle and my profession.

I have some prime beach property in Beirut you might be interested in. The decision has already been made and no matter how many letters like this one are written, it will not be changed.

For the social life here is already comparable to the social life of a Tibetan monastery. Without alcohol, they might as well put the closed signs out at ten o'clock. Students will go off campus for a good time, and we all know it. It is like the advantages of a downtown South Bend social life.

So what to be done? Don't ask me; I'm only a lowly student. Perhaps conferring with the faculty will help, since they are to be asked their opinion. Personally, I am in favor of violent protest with riots and burnings. Desperate situations call for desperate measures. Let's start with the office of the assistant to the executive vice-president of the University.

Dear Editor:

Can it be true? Is this really happening? First, there was Gerry Faust as head coach of a major (+) college football team: a little hard to accept at first, but after his sparkling record as the university's only considering the dry campus, there would probably compound the problems of the administration of either institution. The news is reported as accurately and as objectively as possible. Unsought editorial opinions are the opinions of a majority of the Editorial Board. Commentaries, letters, and the Inside Column present the views of their authors. Column space is available to all members of the community, and the free expression of varying opinions on campus, St. Mary's Letters, is encouraged.

Reflections on service in Arizona

Holy Cross Associates is a post-graduate volunteer service program that is operated under the auspices of and in affiliation with the Holy Cross order religious. The HCA program attempts to integrate into social service an added dimension often lacking in secular volunteer programs, that of spirituality.

Miss Manners

The proper letter after an 18-year visit by Judith Martin

Knowing what Miss Manners thinks of people who can spend a weekend in someone's house and not write a letter whereafter, you can imagine what she thinks of those who spend 17 or 18 years in the same house and then go off to college and never write.

Although the offense is greater, the penalty is less because the student is going to be invited back. Parents can be an offended as anyone with a lot of bad manners but they lack the recourse of saying: "You can tell what kind of people he must come from."

Miss Manners is not suggesting that a thank you note is needed for the simple task of child rearing. Nor is the suggestion that it is necessary to send one's parents a running commentary of everything that happens to a teenager away from home — they deserve better than that.

But no child should be allowed to depart his native city for school without an understanding with his parents about how often they expect letters. Miss Manners recommends that a sizable percentage of these be in the form of letters, rather than collect calls, not only because it is more expressive but also because it gives the parents a chance to see if the education is taking. (It is, not however, up to them to issue grades. Parents who return letters with spelling mistakes circled do not deserve to get any.)

Every once in a while, each child is expected to write a letter that contains no mention of money or services he would like to receive from home. This is a note that does not need to be answered.

Miss Manners is sympathetic with the wish of every devoted son and daughter to help parents live happily in a fool's paradise. Nevertheless, any kindness displayed is best stated in a letter.

Surprisingly, there are also students who neglect to inform their parents of the approach of birthdays and holidays. That is not only inconsiderate, but it seems to contradict the very achievement involved. Nobody with any brains would neglect to report success where it is most appreciated.

A student is entitled to invite parents to all ceremonies or parent's days, and it is no good saying that the student has made the decision not to attend. The choice is the parents'. A student who really wants to avoid special dinners, the thought that if you don't stay with me, I'll arrange to borrow sleeping bags for you, and I hope the mouse doesn't bite.

School holidays are presetted to be for the expressed purpose of visiting home. That doesn't mean that one always has to go home, of course, only that failure to do so must be properly and regretfully excused.

A model letter from a child who is not going home is: "I've been looking forward to seeing you so much that I have to have us wait until we are all in something of a hunch and we are not going to talk to you any more, just sit there and kid."

Dear Miss Manners — Please advise on the proper way to pay for a lunch or a show gratitude when one asks his boss to lunch Superiors here usually pay for lunch no matter who invites. Gentle Reader — Heach for the check saying, "No, no, this is purely social. I just thought it would be fun to have lunch with you. The bill be your cost after that, that it doesn't matter which finally ends up with the check."

Dear Miss Manners — I am 1 foot tall. This is the source of some difficulty, as everywhere I go I am accosted by imbeciles demanding to know how tall I am.

Perfect strangers then name very near or distant relative or acquaintance when they colonize: "I've got an uncle who is 6 foot 2, and I thought he was tall until you're really tall!"

Gentle Reader — The behavior of people who belittle compared to comment on obvious physical characteristics is, as you say, imbecile, and Miss Manners trusts that you will not refuse a thank you from back, we were returning from the Noe 12 month of the Washington D.C. purpose of the march was primarily to protect the nuclear arms by the use of the U.S. in Grenada and El Salvador. March in protest of the Bomb Dying — along the Ohio border. American listening to the Clashes, it was as though we were returning to Notre Dame from mid-semester break. However, Mike Brennan, John Murphy, Bridget Sul­fry and I were not going back from break, we were returning from the Noe 12 month of the Washington D.C. purpose of the march was primarily to protect the nuclear arms by the use of the U.S. in Grenada and El Salvador. I also went to the march to protest actions of the U.S. in Grenada and El Salvador. I was a Catholic Bishop when they state that, "the human person is the clearest reflection of God's presence in the world." This statement refers to every person — including the ones that live in Cuba, Grenada, Russia, El Salvador and Nicaragua. I do not believe in consistent reliability of Russian people. Moreover, our killings of Russians, El Salvador and other countries are a breeding ground for nuclear suicide.

Perhaps it was the avoidance of violence that brought the protesting rally of Viet Nam veterans who made their march through the airport. The protesters formed groups and held hands in a non-violent march through the airport. The protesters were well-random. They joked between some police and protesters about police overtime the last day of protest march. I was the impact of this first of its kind protest on public opinion cannot yet been assessed, its impact on its individuals was evident.
The age of the dinosaurs returns at the Moreau Galleries

by Margaret McCabe
features staff writer

Who says dinosaurs are extinct? Obviously, they haven't been to Moreau Hall at Saint Mary's lately to see how Keevie McCarthy has managed to bring back a little bit of The Mesozoic Era.

According to Keevie, a senior art major, she woke up one February morning and, "wanted to do something really big." Well, six months, 50 yards of chicken wire, and 60 pounds of flour later, big is exactly what Keevie had. "Bruno," named by those around who watched her come to life, is a 15 foot long and seven foot tall paper mache dinosaur. Some of you may have seen Bruno displayed in the lobby of O'Laughlin Auditorium during the Notre Dame/Saint Mary's Theater's production of "The Skin of Our Teeth."

Besides her hopes of creating something big, Keevie wanted her work of art to "generate enthusiasm in people and spark interests and ideas." Bruno clearly demonstrates Keevie's determination to just that. The dinosaur was not made as an art class project, but was an independent undertaking. Thus, besides consuming a great deal of her spare time, Bruno consumed approximately $100 of Keevie's spare money.

This sum covered the cost of wire, flour, lacquer sanding sealer, and a gold dust powder that gives Bruno his color. The paper that was used is the brown type found on rolls in public bathrooms. This was the only material used that didn't require funds as it was graciously supplied by the Ladies' room at Moreau.

Keevie did not refer to books or pictures in making Bruno, only her imagination. She started her project in a dark, damp, quiet crawl space in Moreau. According to Keevie, "the atmosphere was conducive to creating a creature from the past."

In favorable weather, Keevie worked on Bruno outside and soon discovered that there may be a market for paper mache dinosaurs. One passer-by wanted to put Bruno on top of his house for a graduation party. Another wanted to mount the dinosaur on top of his car. (It could be fun at tailgaters.)

With many new projects under way now and graduate school in her future, Keevie is looking for a home for Bruno. "There is a possibility he will be donated to a local park. In this case, Keevie would add a coat of plastic sealer to make Bruno weather resistant. What, Keevie may sell her dinosaur, as is, to anyone out there who is looking for a little, or rather, a big conversation piece for his or her dorm room."

A gift of history

Professor A.L. Gabriel, director emeritus of the University's Medieval Institute, holds the first of 15 incunabula he is donating to the Notre Dame Memorial Library. Incunabula are books published before 1500, and Gabriel's initial gift volume contains the Sunday sermons on the Gospels preached by Dinkesbuhl, a teacher at the University of Vienna, published in 1496 in Strassburg, France. A collector of rare books, Gabriel has been instrumental in building up Library's holdings in medieval studies.

The works of Giuseppe Gattuso Lomonte, professor of printmaking at the Academy of Fine Arts in Florence, Italy, and the director of the Santa Reparata Graphic Arts Center in Florence, are on display in the Hannes Gallery at Saint Mary's College from now until Dec. 19.

The exhibit, entitled "Giuseppe Gattuso Lomonte: Made in Italy," will include etchings and lithographs and some studies, drawings and photographs of his present work in sculpture.

A native of Toretta in Sicily, Gattuso Lomonte has exhibited steadily throughout Italy, Europe and the United States since 1960. His imageries deal with primeval elements of childhood myths and is approached with the same childlike simplicity.

A graduate of the Academy of Fine Arts in Florence, Gattuso Lomonte received a prize from the West German government at the III Biennial International of Graphic Art at Palazzo Strozzi in Florence and was awarded first prize for the best sculpture at the XI Rassegna Arti Visive at Camps Bisenzio.

The Santa Mary's galleries are open from 9:30 a.m. to noon and 1 to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday. The galleries are closed on Saturday, but are open from 1 to 3 p.m. on Sunday. There is no admission charge.

Since 1970, Gattuso Lomonte has concentrated on sculpture. He has worked with clay, plaster, wood and metal. He often has directly painted, drawn or scratched on the sculpture to conform to his imagery. His approach in printmaking has the same directness.

McCandless victorious in flag football final

By JEAN CRUTCHER

The Saint Mary's intramural flag football season came to a close yesterday afternoon with McCandless defeating Off-campus 21-6. Earlier this season when the two teams met, McCandless won by a much closer score, 17-13.

On a cold and windy afternoon when passing was near impossible, running plays became the deciding factor in the final game of the tournament. Sophomore Jonny McCarthy scored the first of two touchdowns for McCandless in the first half. With a successful attempt at the extra point, McCandless led 7-0.

Second half action saw McCarthy score her second touchdown on a six-yard running play. McCandless also converted the extra point and led 14-0.

Off campus finally got on the board in the second half when senior tight end Eddie Johnson ran around the left end of the line and into the end zone for his first touchdown. The score came as McCandless was defending the ball into the end zone for the touch- down. After the extra point failed, Off-campus trailed 14-6.

The final touchdown of the afternoon came as McCandless executed the final play for a score. Johnson scored the winning touchdown with McCandless leading 19-6 at the end of the game. McCandless isighted the first place championship for 1985 went to McCan- dless.

The final standings for the season have McCandless on top with an 8-1 record, Off-Campus in second with 5 and 4:02 followed by Holy Cross (4-4), and Regina and LeMans tied for the bottom with 2 and 6 records.

For the second straight year, the University of Washington Huskies have come away with the consolation prize in sports.

However, Washington lost a 1982 loss to Washington State that knocked them out of the Rose Bowl and into the Alamo Bowl. The Huskies found that lightning does indeed strike twice. Saturday's 17-0 loss to Washington State, coupled with UCLA's 27-17 victory over Southern California, knocked the Huskies out of the Rose Bowl and onto the beach at Waikiki for their second straight appearance in the Aloha Bowl, this time against Penn State.

But there was jubilation in Los Anegles. UCLA has recovered nicely from an 0-3 start, defeated Southern Cal and made it to the Rose Bowl in a 17-21 victory over Southern Cal.

Ironically, the Rose Bowl is UCLA's home field. Fifth-ranked Miami also will be performing before the home folk once again.

The Rose Bowl itself has been a newsworthy game with only one recall. The home team won 6-5 at last year's Rose Bowl game.

The rest of the bowl lineup looks like this:

No. 7 Georgia Sugar - no. 3 Auburn
No. 9 Southwest Missouri - no. 7 Washington
No. 5 Michigan Sugar - no. 4 Penn State
No. 11 Iowa Rose - no. 7 Texas A \\

The bowl bids were all announced Saturday with only one recall from the reported pairings of a week ago. Notre Dame, which wound up a 6-5 splash by losing to Air Force 23-20, had second thoughts about its Liberty Bowl commitment to meet No. 18 Boston College.

The bowl of the bowl lineup looks like this:

No. 9 Georgia Sugar - no. 5 Alabama
No. 7 Michigan Rose - no. 4 Georgia Tech
No. 3 Auburn Arizona - no. 2 USC
No. 11 Iowa Rose - no. 7 Texas Tech

Dolphins thrash Baltimore, 370

Associated Press

The Miami Dolphins opened some daylight for themselves in the tight American Conference East race with a 37-0 thrashing of the Baltimore Colts on an embarrassing day for many National Football League teams.

Along with the Colts' whitewashing, no less than five other teams were shut out on a day marked byspellbound games, as the Cleveland Browns whipped the New England Patriots 50-0, the New York Giants blanked the Philadelphia Eagles 25-0.

Don Marino's 69-yard pass to Mark Duper and Mark Clayton's 81-yard punt return for Miami against the Colts, running only 42 seconds apart in the second quarter triggered the Colts' rout.

The victory gave the Dolphins an 8-4 record and a one-game lead in the AFC East over the Buffalo Bills, 7-5-1, the New England Patriots, 7-5, and the Kansas City Chiefs, 5-7.

In other afternoon games, the Denver Broncos and the Dallas Cowboys won respectful 24-0 records against the New England Patriots, 50-0, the New York Giants blanked the Philadelphia Eagles 25-0 in overtime; the St. Louis Cardinals bombed the San Diego Chargers 44-14; and the Cincinnati Bengals crushed the Houton Oilers 58-10.

In late afternoon action, the Washington Redskins routed the Los Angeles Rams 62-20; the Atlanta Falcons edged the San Francisco 49ers 38-24; the Dallas Cowboys whipped

San Francisco 24-17; and the Denver Broncos outscored the Seattle Seahawks 28-8.

Yugoslavian stars signs to play Irish basketball

By JEFF BLUMB
Sports Writer

Nineteen-year-old Drazen Petrovic, a 6-4 guard for the Yugoslavian National basketball team, has signed a national letter of intent to attend Notre Dame. Irish head coach Digger Phelps announced late Friday morning.

"He signed the papers the other night," said Phelps. "The gives us, I think, another solid class behind this class."

Petrovic, whose 24 points led all scorers in last Wednesday night's 74-73 Notre Dame victory over the Yugoslavians, was caught the eye of Irish fans last Nov. 21 when he scored 13 points in the Yugoslavian team's visit to South Bend.

Petrovic also plays for Club Sesvika in Yugoslavia and is a member of the Yugoslavian Army, in which he still has six months of duty to serve. He will continue to be busy eight up until the time he returns to campus next fall as a freshman.

"He still plays on the National team and in the Olympics," said Phelps. "After the Olympics, he'll be here as a freshman. That's his plan now. He is signed to do that. If he comes to the United States to play college basketball, he's coming to play at Notre Dame. Between now and then, hopefully he shows up." Phelps later quipped, "We signed him. But watch the Russians start a war and we'll lose him."

Petrovic is the fourth player to commit to Notre Dame for next season. Already signed are Dave Rivers, a 6-0 guard from Jersey City, N.J.; Matt Beeuwser, a 6-6 forward from Santa Ana, Calif.; and Gary Voice, a 6-4 forward from the Bronx.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scores 3,000-point

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — For more than 14 seasons, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar has played his finest game against the housing centers of the National Basketball Association.

"I've played well a long time," the 7-foot-2 veteran of the Los Angeles Lakers said. "It don't come easy. Perhaps the points didn't come easy, but they did come. Saturday night, Abdul-Jabbar became the second player in NBA history to score 30,000 points in his career.

"This is really something more for the basketball fans to talk about," Abdul-Jabbar said after reaching the milestone.

Now, it appears likely that the soft-spoken, 56-year-old, with a new two-year contract, will break the all-time scoring record of 31,419 points set in 14 seasons by Wilt Chamberlain.

The record is an all-consumming goal for Abdul-Jabbar. "If I get it, I'll get it," he said.

"I hope he gets it this year," said Lakers Coach Pat Riley, adding with a smile. "Maybe I'd like to hold him back and get him motivated for next year."

No other player is close to challenging Chamberlain's record.

Riley also marveled at Abdul-Jabbar's achievement.

"That is the epitome of consistency for him to be that good," he said.

by Portland guard Darnell Valentine with 5:07 left in the half.

Down the stretch, Abdul-Jabbar helped thwart a Portland rally with seven points, including an important three-point play in the closing seconds.

Portland's Mychal Thompson marveled at Abdul-Jabbar's achievement.

"This is the offensive production for him to be that good," he said.

The Notre Dame hockey team faced its toughest competition of the season as they swept St. Thomas 3-2 and 7-0. See Ed Domansky's story on page 12 for the details on the teams most physical matchup so far this year.

Irish going to Liberty despite loss to Falcons

By MIKE SULLIVAN

Sports Editor

Folks at Boston College probably were saying, "How could they do this?" Falcons at Arizona had just come into Logan and Utah State might have been saying, "I'm glad I didn't go out there with them." An upset win by Notre Dame and the nation are saying, "I'm getting too used to seeing this." The "it" is the Notre Dame football team's 23-22 loss to Saturday in Notre Dame Stadium. Despite the loss and a 5-6 record, the Irish were not demoralized and were ready to play in the Liberty Bowl on December 29.

The defeat added to the miserable record that Notre Dame has compiled during the past four games. The Irish lost the last three games of the season. That mark stands at 1-6-1. It also gave Notre Dame a 2-5 record at home, the first time a Notre Dame team has had a losing record at home since 1965.

The loss to the Falcons was the second straight heartbreaking loss for the Irish. Last week, Notre Dame lost to Penn State in overtime. The two games were similar in that Irish lost their quarter-fourth leads. However, while Penn State had the final scoring opportunity, Notre Dame was the final scoring opportunity in the Air Force. A 31-yard Mike Johnson field goal attempt was blocked as time ran out, though, and the result turned out to be the same.

"We played hard," said Mike Johnson, "but we lost." The Irish put up a good fight on offense with the three blocked kicks, two intercepted passes and many missed opportunities, and a defensive collapse in the fourth quarter that cost them the game.

Despite these errors, though, the Irish lost a game they should have won. The Falcons were upset by a come-from-behind win. And when Mike Johnson made his second straight missed extra points was snapped at 51 when Brown's mind until the game was over. "Not after the block did I

 Notre Dame sweeps St. Thomas

By ED DOMANSKY

Sports Writer

Three unanswered third period goals by senior wing Mike Mallett gave the Notre Dame hockey team a 7-5 win over St. Thomas yesterday afternoon, and a weekend sweep of the Tommies at the ACC.

The undeniably hot now have a 7.0 overall record and a 5-0 mark in the Central States Collegiate Hockey League after the non-league sweep in Friday's action, the Irish came out 2-2 winners as junior left wing Steve Ely connected for the game winner at the 3:49 mark of the third period.

The Irish scored first, taking a 1-0 lead 5:39 into the first with sophomore Jeff Waldbillig at the 5:49 mark of the first as the Tommies scored their first goal on the other Notre Dame goal, coming in the second period. Sophomore defensemen Ed Thomas and Brian Theobald contributed two assists on the evening.

"We were good defensively and although, but the fact that no penalties were called in the first period, was no evidence of this. A second change of events occurred in the second period, however, as the Tommies were whistled against both teams. The penalty situation reached its peak when Notre Dame's Tony Bonadio and St. Thomas' Steve Olason were ejected from the game for fighting just past the halfway point.

The hard-hitting Tommies gave the Irish their first good test since this fall season.

"N. Thomas was a real good test for us," said Irish coach Lefty Smith after yesterday's game. "They were very strong and wanted these games very badly."

The next action for the Irish is next weekend as the team travels to the University of Michigan in the 12th annual.

Saturday, Notre Dame fell behind for the first time this season when St. Thomas' Mark Vastic scored at 5:6 of the first period.

The lead was short-lived, however, after the Irish scored two of the three remaining goals.

Sophomore defenceman Greg Dunbar bucked the post St. Thomas goalie Mike Tabb at 10:1 of the first period. About six minutes later, Waldbillig deflected a Mark Herrman shot past an unmanned Tabb to put the Irish in front 2:1.

Midway through the second period, St. Thomas scored two goals in 1:31 seconds to tie a 3-1 lead.

Blaze Kelly's last home game proved to be his best statistical performance as he led the Irish to a 2-2 loss to the Air Force. See Mike Sullivan's story at right for game details and the latest on the Notre Dame hockey picture.

Malletz stars

ONLY THREE MINUTES LATER, FRESHMAN Tim McPartland displayed goal knotted the score at three.

St. Thomas came rolling back, striking twice within two minutes, near the end of the stanza to take a commanding two-goal lead into the final period.

Smith replaced injured goaler Al Harecker with Friday's starter, freshman Tim Lukenda who tied the Tommies in the final period, while the Irish came up with four goals to earn the victory.

Senior center Adam Parsons pulled the Irish to within a goal at 1:33 of the third period. He offered a slapshot past Tabb to cut the Tommee lead to 5-4.

Just 45 seconds later, Mallett scored the first of his three goals on a power play.

The score remained deadlock at five until the 14:13 mark when Mallett picked up what proved to be the game winner on an Irish power play.

Then, with under one minute to play, Mallett completed the hat trick for Notre Dame with a goal to assist captain Jeff Waldbillig.

Mallett said the victory was a big one for the Irish.

"It was the first time all season that we traveled," he said. "Between periods we were just saying let's go out and show what we got. I was fortunate enough to get the three goals and I just never gave up.

Smith was very proud of his team's effort.

"It shows a lack of a character to come from behind," he said. "We were better defensively than they were, and it had a marked effect in the whole series. They handled the intensity of the game very well.

After a solid performance in the nets on Friday, Lukenda found it somewhat awkward to take over in the third period.

"I knew the team was fired up," he said, "and I knew it was up to them this time to make a few stops and help us get it back in.

Mallett added three assists to his three goals to finish the game with six points on the evening.

"It was a good team effort," said junior defenceman Rob Ricci. "It showed that we worked together and came out on top working as a unit, and that's the key to success."
