Gary Hart regains campaign success in Connecticut win

Associated Press

HARTFORD, Conn. — Gary Hart, cementing a six-state sweep of New England, swept to an easy victory over Walter Mondale yesterday in the Connecticut Democratic presidential primary — prelude to next week's showdown in neighboring New York.

With 87 percent of the precincts reporting, the Colorado senator was piling up 55 percent of the vote. Former Vice President Mondale had 30 percent, and the Rev. Jesse Jackson was third with 9 percent.

Hart led for 34 of the 52 delegates at stake. Mondale led for the other 18 delegates to the Democratic National Convention. Mondale went into Connecticut with a substantial lead in delegates to the national convention, 674 to 349 for Hart. Jackson had 5. Others accounted for 72 and there were 160 uncommitted delegates. It takes 1,967 delegates to win the nomination.

Hart worked hardest of the contenders in the state, hoping to claim one final victory in a badly troubled New England to rekindle the momentum he had earlier in the campaign. Mondale spent little time or money in the state, hoping to claim uncommitted delegates. It takes 87 of the vote.

President Mondale had 30 percent of the vote.

Mondale went into Connecticut with a substantial lead in delegates to the national convention, 674 to 349 for Hart. Jackson had 5. Others accounted for 72 and there were 160 uncommitted delegates. It takes 1,967 delegates to win the nomination.

Hart's strength in past primaries holds up against the so-called 'yuppies,' the young urban professionals responding to his call for new ideas in government.

Jeff Adlerman, the ABC news polling chief who conducted a survey for WABC in Connecticut, said Hart's sweep "It's a whole state of yogis. Low unemployment, high tech businesses, suburbanites, cosmuters. It's a state designed for Hart.

Mondale, in the unusual position of seeing Hart better organized from the start, devoted little time and few resources to Connecticut as he looked ahead to primaries in New York — 252 delegates at stake — and Pennsylvania.

With 87 percent of the precincts reporting, the Colorado senator was piling up 55 percent of the vote. Former Vice President Mondale had 30 percent, and the Rev. Jesse Jackson was third with 9 percent.

Hart led for 34 of the 52 delegates at stake. Mondale led for the other 18 delegates to the Democratic National Convention. Mondale went into Connecticut with a substantial lead in delegates to the national convention, 674 to 349 for Hart. Jackson had 5. Others accounted for 72 and there were 160 uncommitted delegates. It takes 1,967 delegates to win the nomination.

Hart worked hardest of the contenders in the state, hoping to claim one final victory in a badly troubled New England to rekindle the momentum he had earlier in the campaign. Mondale spent little time or money in the state, hoping to claim uncommitted delegates. It takes 87 of the vote.

President Mondale had 30 percent of the vote.

Mondale went into Connecticut with a substantial lead in delegates to the national convention, 674 to 349 for Hart. Jackson had 5. Others accounted for 72 and there were 160 uncommitted delegates. It takes 1,967 delegates to win the nomination.

Hart's strength in past primaries holds up against the so-called 'yuppies,' the young urban professionals responding to his call for new ideas in government.

Jeff Adlerman, the ABC news polling chief who conducted a survey for WABC in Connecticut, said Hart's sweep "It's a whole state of yogis. Low unemployment, high tech businesses, suburbanites, cosmuters. It's a state designed for Hart.

Mondale, in the unusual position of seeing Hart better organized from the start, devoted little time and few resources to Connecticut as he looked ahead to primaries in New York — 252 delegates at stake — and Pennsylvania.

By MIKE ELLIOTT

The Notre Dame/Saint Mary's Right to Life group has raised more than $7,000 so far in its Phone-a-Thon to raise money for the South Bend Women's Care Center.

Begun Monday night, the Phone-a-Thon will continue through Thursday, April 5. The center will be run independently of the campus Right to Life group and will provide counseling and aid to South Bend women.

In the coming two weeks, student volunteers will call thousands of area residents in their attempt to raise $50,000, according to club president John May. Twenty students will operate the telephones each night.

Approximately $3,000 has already been raised in student donations.

It is "an opportunity for Notre Dame/Saint Mary's students to help reduce abortion, and to offer Christ­ian support to women in South Bend," May said.

The money will help pay for one full-time counselor, the center's operating expenses, pregnancy tests and services, and financial assistance for women carrying their preg­nancies to term. The center will be located in a donated house on North St. Louis Street, across from the South Bend clinic.

Based on reports from other clinics in cities of comparable size to South Bend, May predicts a $3,500 annual operating budget for the center, which will open in two to four weeks.

The Phone-a-Thon will continue until Thursday, April 5. Monday night's Phone-a-Thon opener was "very successful," according to May. "We think it will go over very well."

He stressed that the Women's Care Center is a gift from the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students to the South Bend community and that telephone operators are still needed. Anyone interested should drop by the campus Right to Life office in the basement of Labornie.

El Salvador returns point to presidential runoff

Associated Press

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador: Official returns from the flawed presidential election trickled to yesterday and the contest appeared headed toward a runoff between two bitter rivals. Official vote tabulation was delayed for two days by political squabbling, but unofficial figures from Sunday's voting supplied by the competing political parties gave center-left Jose Napoleon Duarte 45 percent of the vote and conservative Roberto d'Aubuisson 20.4 percent. Six other candidates divided up the remaining votes.

D'Aubuisson's Republican National Alliance party disagreed with those figures. A spokesman, who asked not to be identified, said their tallies showed Duarte. 57, leading the 40-year-old d'Aubuisson by 51 percent to 35 percent.

He agreed with a spokesman from Duarte's Christian Democratic Party that Duarte and d'Aubuisson would have to test their sharply differing ideologies in a runoff. Salvadoran law calls for a runoff between the two top vote getters within a month if no candidate receives a majority of the ballots cast.

The first official returns, from three small towns in San Vicente department, showed Duarte with 1,169 votes (34.3 percent) to 1,187 (33.6 percent) for d'Aubuisson.

The official figures came from the Central Election Council, whose members represent six of the eight political parties. Two parties were not represented because they regis­tered after the council was formed to oversee the election.

"There is a total disorder in terms of who gets orders in the council. Every member is from a different party and they can't agree on any­thing," according to an official.
The American newspaper

Bob Vonderheide
Editor-in-Chief

Inside Wednesday

The idea first drew laughs. Then chokes.
A five-hour, live broadcast of a major newspaper in action, the critics said, would draw only a handful of viewers, with most of them being retired journalists still bitter about the cancellation of CBS's Lou Grant. But the people of Kentucky surprised the state's public television officials last fall when a good number tuned in to watch the nightly copy desk of The Courier-Journal produce Louisville's morning newspaper.

Why the success of a five-hour dose of newspaper nuts and bolts?

Editors at the Louisville paper say it was because the public does not understand how newspapers work, how they function or how the tick. Perhaps it is true. For being the only industry explicitly guaranteed protection by the U.S. Constitution, there is little public understanding about what goes on behind the headlines.

In this decade, however, the misunderstanding has turned to mistrust.

Newspaper shotshoppers take aim at the critical "Hail­em-to-the-wall" attitude of some immigrant editors. Classes are now taught in college about the media's role in the fourth arm of government but without either checks or balances. And the First Amendment bruises every time a cameraman rushes to the parents of a war victim to ask how they feel.

But day after day, in the trenches of most professions, and in our own newsroom, the situation is barely so melodramatic. Stories on the Watergate got the attention, but the items detailing city council or church committees on page 20 go unread.

Lofty ideals about a "free press" remain on the shelf beyond arm's length when deadline approaches. When the story falls flat, when the printer faces the floor and checks his watch, the editor and reporter do not stop to recall the First Amendment.

They want to know two things: Is it fair? And is it accurate?

We at The Observer have been asking ourselves those questions since Nov. 3, 1966, when Notre Dame student journalists founded the paper as an alternative to the censorship-prone Scholastic and the student government-controlled Voice.

Robert Sam Annon, one of the newspaper's founders, explained the reaction from most government-controlled newspapers: "The reaction from most readers was shock. There was actual news in the newspaper. Those were heady days. We were fully of ourselves and what we imagined was our power; the power to print the truth and, by printing it, somehow change the way the country was heading."

But while the First Amendment guarantees rights, the responsibilities belong to journalists themselves. And despite some reporters who poke cameras in the face of grieving families, the American press is a dedicated profession who values accuracy and fairness.

We strive for those two values daily at The Observer. Come up to Lafayette's third floor, open the door and look the place over. It beats a five-hour television show any time.

Observer note

The views expressed in the Inside column are the views of the author, and do not necessarily reflect the views of the editorial board or staff.

APPLICATIONS FOR
• Managing Editor
• Section Editor
• Copy Editor
for the 1985 DOME are available this week in the Student Activities Office.

LIVE ENTERTAINMENT

Featuring Sherry Woods in the lounge

This is not a misprint

10¢ TACO BAR
Sun.-Thurs. 9p.m.-close

Late Night Happy Hour
Sun.-Thurs. 10p.m.-close

$1.00 MARGARITAS
2 for 1 BARDRINKS

(thirty minutes from campus)
Guinea mourns president's death

Associated Press

DAKAR, Senegal — The government of neighboring Guinea declared 40 days of mourning yesterday for President Ahmed Sekou Toure, whose death was viewed in much of Africa as a severe blow to the continent's stalled drive for peace and unity.

Sekou Toure, 62, died Monday after heart surgery in Cleveland, Ohio, ending 26 years of rule in a country he led to independence from France in 1958.

Guinean radio, monitored in Dakar, said Prime Minister Lansana Bouanga, 61, a close associate of Sekou Toure’s since before independence, was named as his temporary replacement until a new president could be chosen. Western diplomatic observers said he was the likely successor.

Under Guinea's constitution, presidential elections will have to be held within 30 days.

Javier Perez de Cuellar, secretary-general of the United Nations, sent a message of condolence to the Guinean government Tuesday, and the U.N. flag will be at half staff in tribute to Sekou Toure.

In the Tanzanian capital of Dar es Salaam, President Julius Nyereere called Sekou Toure a 'great nationalist leader, a great African statesman and a great man.'

In Washington, the State Department hailed Sekou Toure as "an internationally respected statesman whose efforts on behalf of peaceful settlements of disputes had earned for him and his country an enviable record for peacemaking."

The Guinean president had been flown from Cleveland Clinic Monday on a plane arranged by Saudi Arabian King Fahd after a team of doctors from the clinic had examined the president in Guinea on a previous visit. Classic spokesman Frank Weaver said.

When he arrived in Cleveland, massive internal bleeding was discovered and surgeons replaced his aorta, the main blood vessel from the heart. The internal bleeding continued.

"The president literally suffered cardiac arrest and he was not able to be revived," Weaver said.

The death was announced to Guineans on the official Conkry radio. The announcement, monitored in Dakar, proclaimed a ban on public entertainment, urged that flags be flown at half staff and ordered prayers in churches and mosques.

Funeral services were set for Friday.

Sekou Toure was one of the generation of revolutionary leaders who led African countries to independence. Along with Presidents Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia and Nyerere of Tanzania, Sekou Toure was one of the elder statesmen who strongly influenced African affairs.

Widely admired in black Africa as a persuasive mediator, Sekou Toure was to have become chairman of the Organization of African Unity at its summit May 24 in the Guinean capital.

He came to power in the struggle that made Guinea the first of France's African colonies to achieve complete independence, on Oct. 2, 1958. Guinea is situated in Africa's western bulge along the Atlantic Ocean. Much of its population of about 5.5 million people is dependent on subsistence agriculture, although the economy also relies on bauxite, gold and diamond mining.

ATTENTION JUNIORS:
The deadline for signing up for senior portraits has been extended to March 30

Sign up in both dining halls during dinner or by calling the DOME (239-7524) evenings between 7 and 9 p.m.

INTERESTED IN BEING A PART OF STUDENT GOVERNMENT NEXT YEAR?
Applications and Job Descriptions are now available for Student Government Cabinet Positions and can be picked up in the Stud. Govt. Offices, 2nd Floor LaFortune.

NO EXPERIENCE NECESSARY UNDERCLASSMEN ARE ENCOURAGED TO APPLY
Deadline Mon., April 2 Questions?? Call Hob at 1088 or Cathy at 1334

THIS OLD HOUSE PIZZERIA & PUB
"BRUNO'S"

This wednesday only Bruno will deliver a 16" pizza with 1 topping for only $5.95 Each additional topping $1.00 extra
Order 2-51 off total price Ordered 62-32 off total price
Order 4 or more $3 off total price

SUMMER STORAGE SPACE
Special discount for NdSMO students (5 x 10 spaces and larger)

CALL 259-0655 to RESERVE SPACE
SELF LOCK STORAGE OF MCKINLEY

What does the Student Union Record Store have for me?

Top tapes, at prices $2.00 below list price
Any record or tape may be ordered-
-takes 4-5 days NO EXTRA COST blank tapes:
TDK SA 90's 2 pk--$6.00 1--$3.25
TDK SA 60's 2 pk--$4.50 1--$2.50
Maxell UDXL II's 2 pk--$7.00 1--$3.75

SUMMER SPECIAL RATES
STORAGE RESERVATION

MOCK CONVENTION still needs a few more DELEGATES
Sign-up TODAY in 2nd floor
LaFortune Office
Republicans, Democrats, ANYONE welcome.

Official continued from page 1

When he arrived in Cleveland, massive internal bleeding was discovered and surgeons replaced his aorta, the main blood vessel from the heart. The internal bleeding continued.

"The president literally suffered cardiac arrest and he was not able to be revived," Weaver said.

The death was announced to Guineans on the official Conkry radio. The announcement, monitored in Dakar, proclaimed a ban on public entertainment, urged that flags be flown at half staff and ordered prayers in churches and mosques.

Funeral services were set for Friday.

Sekou Toure was one of the generation of revolutionary leaders who led African countries to independence. Along with Presidents Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia and Nyerere of Tanzania, Sekou Toure was one of the elder statesmen who strongly influenced African affairs.

Widely admired in black Africa as a persuasive mediator, Sekou Toure was to have become chairman of the Organization of African Unity at its summit May 24 in the Guinean capital.

He came to power in the struggle that made Guinea the first of France's African colonies to achieve complete independence, on Oct. 2, 1958. Guinea is situated in Africa's western bulge along the Atlantic Ocean. Much of its population of about 5.5 million people is dependent on subsistence agriculture, although the economy also relies on bauxite, gold and diamond mining.

attitude JUNIORS:
The deadline for signing up for senior portraits has been extended to March 30

Sign up in both dining halls during dinner or by calling the DOME (239-7524) evenings between 7 and 9 p.m.

INTERESTED IN BEING A PART OF STUDENT GOVERNMENT NEXT YEAR?
Applications and Job Descriptions are now available for Student Government Cabinet Positions and can be picked up in the Stud. Govt. Offices, 2nd Floor LaFortune.

NO EXPERIENCE NECESSARY UNDERCLASSMEN ARE ENCOURAGED TO APPLY
Deadline Mon., April 2 Questions?? Call Hob at 1088 or Cathy at 1334

THIS OLD HOUSE PIZZERIA & PUB
"BRUNO'S"

This wednesday only Bruno will deliver a 16" pizza with 1 topping for only $5.95 Each additional topping $1.00 extra
Order 2-51 off total price Ordered 62-32 off total price
Order 4 or more $3 off total price

SUMMER STORAGE SPACE
Special discount for NdSMO students (5 x 10 spaces and larger)

CALL 259-0655 to RESERVE SPACE
SELF LOCK STORAGE OF MCKINLEY

What does the Student Union Record Store have for me?

Top tapes, at prices $2.00 below list price
Any record or tape may be ordered-
-takes 4-5 days NO EXTRA COST blank tapes:
TDK SA 90's 2 pk--$6.00 1--$3.25
TDK SA 60's 2 pk--$4.50 1--$2.50
Maxell UDXL II's 2 pk--$7.00 1--$3.75

SUMMER SPECIAL RATES
STORAGE RESERVATION

MOCK CONVENTION still needs a few more DELEGATES
Sign-up TODAY in 2nd floor
LaFortune Office
Republicans, Democrats, ANYONE welcome.

Official continued from page 1

thing," said a council spokesman who asked not to be identified.

The election itself was disorganized because of apparent bureaucratic bungling and interference by leftist rebels that prevented thousands of people from voting.

Jorge Rochac, an election council employee who helped set up the voting machinery, said there had been only five weeks to prepare for ballotting after the national assembly approved the election law in February.

Because of the late start, Rochac said, the council was forced to work with outdated information. In some cases it established polling places in public buildings that had long since been closed or destroyed by war.

Rocha said he thought the council, in an attempt to avoid fraud, also had set up a system of safeguards that was too complex.

So, on election day, thousands of Salvadorans couldn't find their polling places, and others were confused over eligibility.

A CHALLENGE

To see what we need to do The Observer would like you to "Like" the story and write a brief paragraph on what you think.

The Observer would like to offer you a chance to discuss the story. If you would like to do so The Observer is in the Commons and the Observer office at the Commons.

The Observer
Democratic budget plans stall in House

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Democratic leaders, facing complaints from their own troops, stumbled yesterday at the start of an effort to push a $16 billion deficit-reduction package through the House.

The House Budget Committee was set to begin work on the so-called "pay-as-you-go" plan endorsed by the Democratic leadership. Work was expected to be completed Wednesday so that the full House could vote next week.

Hours before the committee session, all House Democrats met privately to discuss the issue. Participants said afterward that while outright opposition to the leadership plan was not expressed, several new proposals were presented from several segments of the party. That sent the Budget Committee Democrats scrambling to try to come up with ways to accommodate the various ideas.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., conceded "there may be some variances" in the package as a result of the session.

Party liberals pressed for a freeze on any increases in most spending — including the Pentagon budget. Members of the Black Caucus pressed their own plan that would devote more to domestic programs. And the conservative "sail officals" who sided with President Reagan's economic program in 1981 expressed a different view.

But the Democrats appeared to agree they want a plan that can easily be explained to voters, emphasizes their differences with Reagan and shows a lower deficit than that produced under the plan Reagan backs.

The president's fiscal 1985 budget proposal contains a projected deficit of $180-$184 billion. In his January State of the Union address, Reagan called for big cuts between the White House and Congress on a three-year, $100 billion "down payment" on eliminating deficits. Those talks collapsed after only four meetings.

The Democratic leadership package would cut domestic spending by nearly $18 billion and raise taxes by about $40 billion. Those tax increases would be devoted to the increases in military spending and help in some government benefit programs targeted for the poor — thus the "pay-as-you-go" label.

Trouble Reading Your Student Savings Card?

Call today for a complete examination and 20% OFF any pair of glasses with your student savings card.

- Large selection of fashion frames
- All types of contact lenses
- Prescriptions filled
- Dr. Ronald L. Snyder
- Dr. Patrick Albert

Professional Vision

1635 N. Ironwood • 277-1161

MANAGEMENT INTERNS

Glendale Federal is currently seeking highly motivated men and women for its MANAGEMENT INTERN PROGRAM. Enthusiastic individuals with a 4-YEAR DEGREE (prefer Business), who possess LEADERSHIP QUALITIES are needed to help meet future management needs. Eighteen-month program provides an overall perspective of an expanding financial institution and offers the right individuals rewarding and challenging career opportunities.

For immediate consideration, please send your resume to Employment Department.

GLENDALE FEDERAL

4300 E. Thousand Oaks Blvd. - Thousand Oaks, CA 91360

350 S.E. Second Street - Ft. Lauderdale, FL 33301
Notes from Ft. Lauderdale, Florida

Ft. Lauderdale is certainly an interesting place. To begin with it is on the edge of Hollywood and Gomorrah while others might describe it as the best place possible to spend a Spring Break. Of course maybe these two descriptions are not too dissimilar. Whatever the case may be, I was spending a week in Ft. Lauderdale, spending a week there is definitely an atmosphere perfectly: "They just come to the beach, disengage their brain and want to know. They're not conscientious...what kills me is this is our educated population."

Since there are usually around 20,000 college students there over the Easter week in Ft. Lauderdale in any given week during the Spring Break months, one might expect Notre Dame students to melt right into the masses. To a great extent this did happen. The arrival of Domers in Florida did, however, receive some adverse publicity. Local newspapers ran feature articles on the Notre Dame students in Ft. Lauderdale and the services it provided. Also resurrected in these articles were the events of last year's Spring Break in Ft. Lauderdale which brought Notre Dame some unwanted national attention.

Although there were only around 800 Notre Dame students down in the Ft. Lauderdale area, small in comparison to some schools, it seems that the Notre Dame mystique works even in the sunshine of Florida.

I was disappointed and upset after reading something in Loretto's "The Strip" which I thought the bars which possessed that special garage atmosphere.

Christ and violence

Dear Editor:

After reading Ken Kollman's letter to the editor which appeared in the March 27 issue of The Observer I felt it necessary to make an effort to be heard. Mr. Kollman seems to feel strongly that a strong defense is necessary to maintain the democratic traditions of America. Mr. Kollman is correct. I feel that his implication that Jesus Christ would support the United States' present trend in defense (i.e. nuclear weapons meant for mass destruction) is totally misguided. I present his attempts to twine Christ's ideology in order to support his personal opinion.

Kollman wonders, "where Krais gets his idea that Jesus would not fight in any war, just as one example?" I am appalled that Kollman has never read the Gospels, for if he had he would have known that Jesus constantly taught love, forgiveness and peace were the important things for which to strive. I have yet to find a Gospel in which Jesus believes personal freedom and liberties. "Whether one wants to fight in a war or not is an individual choice. But Christ was and is a pacifist, he abhors violence, including a so-called "just war."

Christ said, "I say to you, love your enemies and pray for those who persecute you...for if you love only those who love you, what reward have you? (Matthew, 5:44-45). He could just as easily have said, "Love the Roman, the inquisitor, the war monger, the person who makes war against you."" Mr. Kollman's conclusion that all stopped being "responsible Christians" and started following Christ.

Jennifer Cantwell Sophomore

Honesty is important

Dear Editor:

I was disappointed and upset after reading the March 19 front page article on cheating at Notre Dame's colleges and universities, including Notre Dame. I find it unfortunate that the problem is supposedly widespread and common. To think that dishonesty has become a way of life to some college students is disturbing.

Something must be done to correct the problem before it spreads slowly off the campuses as the college cheaters move on through life as "respected" members of the community.

Dr. Emil Hofman is one person who is working diligently to correct this problem. He treats his students with trust. Instead of admonishing them in the form of a written notice, he gives them a simple message: "You are responsible for your actions, and I trust you will act accordingly during the examination period."

Personal decisions in the real world are made on the basis of ethical and moral values.

Unfortunately, the Observer failed to recognize this fact when it printed its March 15 article. Instead of commending Dr. Hofman for the work he has done by promoting honest and Christian morality through his teaching, the Observer, instead, unfairly tarnished the reputation of honest students just beginning to build for themselves.

To write that some "students speculate that a vast majority of the class has cheated" in Chemistry 15-16 hardly gives you the right to speak to your readers that cheating rampant everywhere. I am an upperclassman in the Physics department. I question the validity and basis for your statement. I also question your reason for indicting Dr. Hofman for his class. I am sure many honest people, including Dr. Hofman, have been hurt.

We should not encourage such thorough harm to the Notre Dame community by using Christian values outside the classroom and accusing the people who may be America's only hope for an honest future!

Stephen O'Neill

Women's history week

Dear Editor:

The marking of Women's History Week at the University of Notre Dame was neither a "dry good" effort nor a bad joke as Mary O'Brien's article of March 15 indicated. If her knee stopped jerking long enough for her to get to the library to read some woman's history, she might have found several different women, whose value to which she alludes in her "The Strip" "could have something to contribute to each" but her message is clearly directed towards those who descend on Ft. Lauderdale do not lose all of their integrity during Spring Break. Instead of concentrating on the admitted excesses that occur during Spring Break a more balanced view should be presented.

Spring Break, while bacchanalian in nature at times, should not be seen as a week when all the good characteristics of college students are in remission.

P. O. Box Q

Editorial Board

Editor-in-Chief ... Bob Vanderheide
Managing Editor ... Mark Worsche
Editor-in-Chief ... David Taele
News Editor ... Sarah Hamilton
Viewpoint Editor ... Mary Healy Photo Editor ... Pete Laches

Department Managers

Business Manager ... Dave Taele
Controller ... Marial Hornsa
Circulation Manager ... Jeff O'Neill
Systems Manager ... Kevin Williams

Founded November 3, 1966
Tennis team defeats Valparaiso

By ED KONRADY
Sports Writer

The men's tennis team, which appears to be rolling after its spring trip to Florida, downed the Valparaiso Crusaders 9-0, yesterday at the South Bend Racquet Club.

Turned away from their home courts at the ACC, the team took a short road trip to dispatch the out-classed Crusaders. The teams agreed to play eight-game matches, and the Irish prevailed in just two-and-a-half hours.

The shutout was the fifth of the year for the tennis team, while the Crusaders stretched their scoreless streak against the Irish to seven matches.

The victory raised the Irish season record to 9-0 following an impressive 6-2 record compiled in Florida.

"Florida was tough," said number one singles player Joe Nelligan. "But getting outdoors helped me a lot. I know I play much better outdoors."

The Irish needed experience, and playing eight matches in nine days certainly proved it.

They won their first three matches convincingly. Carrying over their hard-fought second game of the season, the young Cayne-Cole 0-9, Florida International 7-2, and Miami (Dade) 9-0.

Then the Irish faced eighth-ranked Miami (Fla.). Al- though Notre Dame lost 9-0, the match had some competitive moments, according to Head Coach Tim Fallon.

"Mike Gibbons started out slowly, like he was always losing the first set 6-2. He won the second set 6-4, but lost the third in a tiebreaker," Fallon says. "Our kids can now say just how tough a top-notch team is.

A day after the game, the young squad came back to defeat Central Florida, 6-3. 6-0 to Rollins was next, as Pat Shields made his first appearance this year, having overcome his previous season, losing 6-2, 6-1. Rollins was a tough match," Fallon was. "We were competitive, and we could have won. It really was a good close match."

"The next two matches were very tough against the Rollins and Central Florida, and for Notre Dame brushside at St Leo and Eck-"ston." "The only problem with the final Irish trip was that the teams are either too strong or too weak," Fal- lon says. "I prefer going to Californ- ia, which is a little bit tougher and evenly matched. But, we got a chance to hit a ball or two, which is what we wanted.

Any improvement in the team's play could be attributed to the Crusaders, one of the weaker teams on Notre Dame's schedule. This weekend, however, the Irish sponsored a triangular meet with Miami (Florida) University, which should establish the competitive level of the young teams.

On Friday at 3 p.m. Notre Dame will face Hawaii. On Saturday, at 9 a.m., Hawaii is scheduled to meet Ohio University, and the Irish will take on the Bobcats at 2 p.m.
The Daily Crossword

ACROSS

1. Fishhook
2. Channel
3. Whack
4. Tart item
5. July TV
tv

6. Lobes of moss leaves
7. Maria von Lusch
8. Famed ship

DOWN

1. Standards
2. Billy — Williams
3. Purchased
4. Cab type
5. Neuma
6. Curved letter

7. Neon is one
8. Eunice
9. Strips
10. Egstrom
11. Macaw
12. Kind of rug

Clue

13. 34. Give — tare
14. Belt
15. Deceler
16. Pola of old Hollywood
17. Cat
18. Biff
19. Scott
20. Sensor

21. 36. Bella
36. Silveman
40. Deceiver
41. Pola of old Hollywood
43. Cat
44. Tiff
46. — Scott
47. Sensor

22. 37. Ruby
38. Stevens
39. Silveman
40. Females: suff
41. Congo Fly
42. Adolf

23. 38. 7 Church list
39. of feasts
40. Naturalist
41. John and family
42. Lack of vitality

24. 41. 10. Seep shape
22. 11. Omit sounds
23. 12. Ties shoes
24. 13. Giggle
25. 14. Understanding

26. 39. Come-on
40. Machine
41. Gun
42. Date in Romen

27. 35. Thwarted
36. Boisterous
37. Roister
38. Chief

28. 50. Cop by
39. Zayak
40. Princip
41. R. family

29. 55. Copy Zayak
50. Zayak
51. Princip
52. R. family

30. 55. Deserts
41. Author
42. Milline
43. Author
44. Author

31. 19. USSR range
20. Maidenhair
21. Hat fabric
22. Alder tree:
23. Scot.
24. Came back

32. 60. Wise ones
61. Aside
62. Beer produced at
63. A mod. col.

33. 8.50, $7.50
44. $8.50
45. Pressing
46. Beehive
47. Eclectic

34. 22.20. Wednesday Night Movie
23. 22.20. Eyewitness News
24. 22.20. Eyewitness News
25. 22.20. ABC News Tonight

TV Tonight

- 9 p.m. — Facts of Life
- 9:30 p.m. — Buffalo Bill
- 10 p.m. — St. Elsewhere
- 11 p.m. — Newscenter 16
- 11:30 p.m. — Tonight Show

Campus

- 12:15 p.m. — Microbiology Seminar, "Immunoregulation and Autoimmunity Disease," Dr. D. C. Bauer, Galvin Life Science Auditorium
- 2:30 p.m. — Baseball, ND vs Purdue, Jake Kline Field
- 2:30 p.m. — Income Tax Assistance Program, La Fortune Student Center
- 4 p.m. — Faculty Lecture, John Holobird, Architecture Building Auditorium
- 4:20 p.m. — Physics Colloquium, "The Decay of the Vacuum in Supercritical Fields of Giant Nuclei," Prof. Walter Greiner, 118 NSH
- 4:30 p.m. — English Lecture, "The Discrimination of Mortalities," Prof. David Halliberton, 107 O'Shaughnessy Hall
- 4:30 p.m. — Mathematics Lecture, "Geometry of Singularities," Prof. Richard Beals, 225 CCMB
- 7 p.m. — Discussion, "Christian Pacifism and the Just War Theory," Sacred Heart Crypt
- 7 and 8:30 p.m. — Film, "Animal Farm," Engineering Auditorium, Sponsored by Social Concerns, Free
- 7 p.m. — Meeting, People interested in internships, Dr. Vasoli, 120 O'Shaughnessy
- 8 p.m. — Philosophy Lecture, "The Critical Legal Studies Movement," Prof. John Finnis, Galvin Life Sciences Auditorium
- 8 p.m. — Distinguished Scientist Lecture, "Theorists and the World of Radiation Chemistry," Prof. Robert H. Schuler, Library Auditorium
- 8:15 p.m. — Faculty Recital, Laura Kligman on violin, and Karen Baranskas on cello, Annexen Auditorium

IRISH GARDENS ANNOUNCES:

A Complete Range of Floral Services To Chicagoland!!

- $27.50 for 1 dozen roses boxed and delivered!
- Sr. Formal Specials Del'd anywhere in Chicago
- Next Day Delivery in most cases!
- Many other offers available!

For details, see us in LaFortune Basement Today or call 283-6867 Hrs: 12:30 - 5:30 Mon - Sat

Delivery to Chicago and 110 Suburbs!

Senior Bar

Wednesday Night Beer Special

Featuring THE LAW
Coaching staff key to Michigan Wolverines tonight in NIT Championship

By BEYELIUM
Assistant Sports Editor

NEW YORK - While baskets may win games, any basketball team must get rebounds to get those baskets. And rebounding is the key to the game as Notre Dame faces Michigan in the finals of the 47th NIT tonight (9 p.m. - USA Network).

The Irish and Wolverines are both big, physical teams that rebound well. It is quite possible that the battle on the boards tonight will be more exciting than what is going on in the scoring column — or even some of the strange goings-on in the upper levels of Madison Square Garden.

"The interesting matchup will be to see who can dominate the boards," says Notre Dame coach Digger Phelps. "My concern is how deep the Michigan front line is.

"I'm afraid that those who dominate the boards will win this basketball game," Michigan coach Bill Frieder bluntly states. "Rebounding will be the big thing. They're as big as any front line we've played all year."

"Like all Big Ten teams," says Irish captain Tom Sluby, "Michigan is physical and fundamentally sound. We're just going to have to go out and rebound hard."

The way for either team, then, to get ahead on the scoreboard tonight will be to get ahead in the rebounding column — especially offensively.

Notre Dame also will need to contain its 6-foot, 4-inch shot-blocker, who has displayed thus far in the NIT, and not fall back to the 64.5 percent rate the Irish had during the regular season.

"The Wolverines and Irish match up evenly. The best matchup of the night will likely come underneath, as 6-9, 245-pound Tim Kempton squares off with 6-11, 240-pound Tim McCormick. Although Kempton likely won't start for the Irish, he probably will see more than 30 minutes of duty in the game. Frieder is concerned about his team getting shots after short turns from Kempton.

"Tim Kempton really scares me," says the Michigan coach. "He's big, physical, and tough in there. He really bounces people around."

Wolverine freshman standout Antoine "Tony" Joubert also is a major factor in this contest. The 6-foot-6, 230-pound McCormick, 6-6, 250-pound Richard Reifford, and 6-10, 195-pound Roy Teltry on Michigan Tech, in the sense, McCormick added 15 points and 12 boards (eight on the offensive end) during that contest.

Joubert is an excellent leader on the floor for the Wolverines with great court savvy. Phelps, in fact, thinks that the freshman is one of the three best guards in the country. He had 17 points in just 33 minutes against Virginia Tech.

The other Michigan guard is 6-7 junior Eric Turner, who was honored as All-Big Ten Second Team by ESPN and Third Team by UPI. Michigan will often look to the pair of guards, junior John Howard and Scott Hicks have scored a combined 47 points per game in the last four outings, along with giving plenty of support on the boards.

Tonight's game will mark the end of the careers of seniors Sluby and Cecil Buckett at Notre Dame. It also

see NIT, page 6

Spring football

Christoff takes over defensive unit

By THERON ROBERTS
Sports Editor

What does a coach do during the spring football season when several of his starters return on defense? If you are Notre Dame's defensive coordinator Andy Christoff, you set forth to work on the basics: technique and fundamentals.

Christoff was named head coach Gerry Faust as the successor to Jim Johnson, who led the Irish staff to become defensive coordinator for the 1983 season, was Outlaws.

Even though his terms as defensive coordinator for Stanford (1985) and Oregon (1979-82) were not very successful as far as wins and losses, most of the problems on those teams were related to the offense. Christoff's defensive units had a knack for rising to meet the challenge of important plays.

"The philosophy we functioned under was not to give up the big play, being able to take away what the other team does best," Christoff says.

That philosophy has paid off during the past few seasons. In the 1981 season at Oregon, the longest play from scrimmage against the defense was a 14-yard gain. At Stanford in 1983, Christoff vaulted the Cardinal pass defense from last to first place in the Pac-10 Conference, while total defense improved from 11th to sixth place.

It was Oregon's 13-15 the with Notre Dame which caused a stir in the 1982 season. Christoff's defensive unit held a powerful Irish offense to just 253 yards and only 13 points.

In defending the Irish, Frieder says that he probably will go with a man-to-man defense since the Irish have had a lot of success with that defense this year — even if it means leaving one cornerback unattended.

"For the Irish, Michigan will go with McCormick, 6-6, 250-pound Richard Reifford, and 6-10, 195-pound Roy Teltry," says Christoff. "Michigan will hold a 23 points and 11 rebounds Monday night in Michigan's 78-75 win over Virginia Tech in the semi-finals. McCormick added 15 points and 12 boards (eight on the offensive end) during that contest.

Joubert is an excellent leader on the floor for the Wolverines with great court savvy. Phelps, in fact, thinks that the freshman is one of the three best guards in the country. He had 17 points in just 33 minutes against Virginia Tech.

The other Michigan guard is 6-7 junior Eric Turner, who was honored as All-Big Ten Second Team by ESPN and Third Team by UPI. Michigan will often look to the pair of guards, junior John Howard and Scott Hicks have scored a combined 47 points per game in the last four outings, along with giving plenty of support on the boards.

Tonight's game will mark the end of the careers of seniors Sluby and Cecil Buckett at Notre Dame. It also

see SPRING, page 6

Battle of archrivals: Irish and Wolverines

Chuck Freeby
Sports Writer

Irish Items

Hello again, everybody!

While the itinerary did not include such sunny spots as Fort Lauderdale or San Diego, the Notre Dame basketball team found plenty of excitement over spring break in cities such as Springfield, Mass., and Pittsburgh, Penn.

With the NCAA's National Invitational Tournament under its belt, the Irish will be in New York City tonight for the first of two classic college basketball games in all four of their games. However, they will have to play 40 solid minutes tonight in order to fight off a good Michigan team that just missed being invited to the NCAA tournament.

The Irish have shown quite a turnaround during the two weeks of the tournament, playing good basketball in all four of their games. However, they will have to play 40 solid minutes tonight in order to fight off a good Michigan team that just missed being invited to the NCAA tournament.

This is it — something the Irish have been looking forward to for the last month! "The Grapefruit Bowl: A Series Between Two Archrivals." An "Irish Items" tip-up of the cap goes out to Notre Dame Assistant Sports Information Director Eddie White for his career collection. They were all from Barre, Pa., did most of the work on this series.

The Saint has come up tonight, the Irish will be bringing home the winner, the up-tempo Michigan. (Michigan leads the series, 8-6, including triumphs in five of the last six games. Digger Phelps holds a 18-9 record against the Wolverines, including a 101-83 loss in his first game as coach of the Irish back in 1971. As far as tournament games are concerned, the Irish hold a slim 3-2 lead over the Wolverines in the NCAA tournament. Back in 1974, Michigan dealt Notre Dame a 77-68 setback in the Midwest Regional semifinals, while in 1976 the Wolverines claimed a 80-76 win over the Fighting Irish in the NCAA final.

Recent games between the two schools have not had the significance of those two encounters, but nonetheless, they have produced a couple of fine basketball games. In 1979, when the Irish were ranked second in the country before suffering a 62-59 upset in front of a throng of 73,283 fans. However, the Irish came back the following Saturday with a vengeance. In 1983)

see SPRING, page 6

While the Irish have a chance to dish a beating to the Wolverines tonight, a major factor in this contest.

Tonight's game will mark the end of the careers of seniors Sluby and Cecil Buckett at Notre Dame. It also

see NIT, page 6

Battle of archrivals: Irish and Wolverines

Chuck Freeby
Sports Writer

Irish Items

Hello again, everybody!

While the itinerary did not include such sunny spots as Fort Lauderdale or San Diego, the Notre Dame basketball team found plenty of excitement over spring break in cities such as Springfield, Mass., and Pittsburgh, Penn.

With the NCAA's National Invitational Tournament under its belt, the Irish will be in New York City tonight for the first of two classic college basketball games in all four of their games. However, they will have to play 40 solid minutes tonight in order to fight off a good Michigan team that just missed being invited to the NCAA tournament.

The Irish have shown quite a turnaround during the two weeks of the tournament, playing good basketball in all four of their games. However, they will have to play 40 solid minutes tonight in order to fight off a good Michigan team that just missed being invited to the NCAA tournament.

This is it — something the Irish have been looking forward to for the last month! "The Grapefruit Bowl: A Series Between Two Archrivals." An "Irish Items" tip-up of the cap goes out to Notre Dame Assistant Sports Information Director Eddie White for his career collection. They were all from Barre, Pa., did most of the work on this series.

The Saint has come up tonight, the Irish will be bringing home the winner, the up-tempo Michigan. (Michigan leads the series, 8-6, including triumphs in five of the last six games. Digger Phelps holds a 18-9 record against the Wolverines, including a 101-83 loss in his first game as coach of the Irish back in 1971. As far as tournament games are concerned, the Irish hold a slim 3-2 lead over the Wolverines in the NCAA tournament. Back in 1974, Michigan dealt Notre Dame a 77-68 setback in the Midwest Regional semifinals, while in 1976 the Wolverines claimed a 80-76 win over the Fighting Irish in the NCAA final.

Recent games between the two schools have not had the significance of those two encounters, but nonetheless, they have produced a couple of fine basketball games. In 1979, when the Irish were ranked second in the country before suffering a 62-59 upset in front of a throng of 73,283 fans. However, the Irish came back the following Saturday with a vengeance. In 1983)

see SPRING, page 6