Domino's President tells of pizza empire

By MARC RAMIREZ
Assistant News Editor

He promised to deliver the lecture within 30 minutes or deliver it free of charge, and Thomas S. Monaghan, founder, chairman of the board and president of Domino's Pizza, Inc., lived up to his word as guest speaker at the Saint Mary's Business Associates Luncheon yesterday.

"Most people ask me what it's like to own the (Detroit) Tigers," he said.

Monaghan has been a Tigers fan since his early childhood in Ann Arbor, Mich., when he was brought up in Catholic orphanages and foster homes. "All we had to do was play sports," he explained, "and baseball was the biggest. We were all Tiger fans." We'd all hang around the stands when the Tigers played. We knew all there was to know about them.

"I always wanted to play shortstop. When that began to seem not possible, I dreamed of owning them."

The success of the company Monaghan founded in 1960 helped make that dream come true (Monaghan purchased the Detroit baseball franchise in September, 1983). Domino's, Inc., is the largest pizza-delivery company in the world and the second largest pizza chain in the country.

Domino's began in Ypsilanti, Mich., under the name "Dominic's," and when Monaghan's brother James elected not to give up the business that summer, Monaghan bought out his brother's partnership. He opened stores in nearby Ann Arbor and Mount Pleasant, and gave the business the name of Domino's.

Ruppe defended pro-life stance in front of a House Committee

By DAN McCULLOUGH
News Editor

Peace Corps Director Loret Ruppe defended herself against Washington Times articles which accused her of liberalizing the agency's abortion policy during testimony before the House of Representatives, Committee on Foreign Affairs on Feb. 8.

The articles claimed Ruppe was responsible for a "more permissive policy that allows volunteers to remain in the Peace Corps until after a second abortion," rather than being dismissed after one.

The articles also say Ruppe decided to continue that practice of using federal money to fund abortion counseling, transportation and per diem expenses of pregnant mothers.

But Ruppe told the Congressional committee, "I have been, and continue to be, an active opponent of abortion on demand. I believe my record in the pro-life movement speaks for itself. However, my current position as the Director of the Peace Corps requires me to take an oath to uphold the law. Therefore, I am not free to implement policy based on my personal belief without regard to legal requirements. Consequently, I have directed efforts toward achieving the administration pro-life policies, but have been limited in my ability to do so by the requirements of legislation and the decisions of the Supreme Court."

Ruppe also told the committee that when she became head of the Peace Corps, the agency did not pay for abortion procedures, but did pay for the transportation and per diem to volunteers who wanted to return to the United States to have the procedure performed. She also said that at the time of her appointment, there was no established limit to the number of abortions a volunteer could have and return in service.

"Current authorities appeared to require a continuation of the Peace Corps policy," said Ruppe.

She directed her General Counsel to obtain an opinion from the Justice Department on the issue. The opinion, returned Nov. 20, 1981, states, "We conclude that the Pregnancy Discrimination Act (PDA) would probably prohibit the Peace Corps from implementing any across-the-board policy of terminating volunteers who become pregnant while overseas or pregnant volunteers who elect to have abortions."

With respect to the funding of abortion-related expenses, we conclude that the Peace Corps is not barred from using appropriated funds to pay travel costs and a per diem to volunteers who are evacuated for the purpose of obtaining an abortion, and, in fact, that the Pregnancy Discrimination Act (PL 95-555) requires the Peace Corps to continue paying those costs, so long as travel and per diem expenses are paid to volunteers evacuated for other comparable medical disabilities.

Ruppe, in response to the Justice Department's opinion, testified, "Since we have full responsibility for any medical conditions developed by volunteers while overseas, many of which require evacuation, I believe I had no choice under the law but to pay similar expenses for pregnant volunteers returning to the U.S."

She told the committee as a response she issued a memorandum outlining "a three pronged effort" to reduce the incidence of unwanted pregnancies among the volunteers.

"First, I trained a institutional program for volunteers in family planning and sexual responsibility, and requested the counseling skills of our medical staff in this area. Second, I had the counseling of pregnant volunteers both in-country and in the United States redesigned to emphasize anti-abortive alternatives to abortions and the prevention of future pregnancies. Finally, I determined that any volunteer requesting a second abortion during her tour of service with the Peace Corps was acting with such a degree of irresponsibility that automatic separation from the Peace Corps was warranted."

At the same committee hearing, Representative Henry Hyde (R., Ill., known in Congress for his strong pro-life stand, told Ruppe, "I have read the legal memorandum of your counsel and I don't see any problem, frankly ... I am satisfied that you are following the law and you are not out of step with this administration, and you are doing a fine job in a difficult situation."

see RUPPE, page 5
In Brief

The 1984 Army ROTC Spring Awards Ceremony was held yesterday in the Library Auditorium and Cadet Scott Hobor assumed his first duty as 1984-85 Cadet Battalion Commander at the event. Among the awards given, Senior Mike Sees received the Commander’s Saber; Senior Dave Speich was given the Deputy Commander’s Award and Superior Cadet Awards were presented to Senior Jim Dyer, Junior Eric Frederick and Freshman Kevin Brownie and Freshman Pat Doyle. — The Observer

The new offices for the Student Organization for Central America (SOLAS) for the 1984-85 academic year will be Joe Hongvici, president; Alejandro Foxley, vice president; Sylvia Elizuric, secretary and Pat Neary, treasurer. — The Observer

Taking over the administration of the Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s Ground Zero group for the 1984-85 school year will be Bob plumbing, chief of staff; John Olszewski, Notre Dame vice chairman; Lisa Wilson, Saint Mary’s vice chairman; Mary Kay Maginn, treasurer; Beth Bleyer and Harry Blanton, co-secretaries. — The Observer

The Judicial Council named Joe Zahn the new coordinator effective immediately. “My primary goal is to make the council...beneficial to the community.” — The Observer

Of Interest

The South Bend Police Department will conduct an unchained bicycle and property auction beginning at 8:41 a.m. Saturday, at the rear of the police station, 701 W. Sample Street. The sale will conclude at 3 p.m. A partial list of items to be sold are: bicycles, tools, clothing, hubcaps, stereo, AM-FM radios, and other miscellaneous items. Proceeds go to the Police Pension Fund. — The Observer

“Conscience and the Law: Religion and Government in Conflict” will be the topic of a lecture by Dr. William Durand, founder and legal counsel for the Center for Law and Pacifism, Colorado. The talk in Room 105 of the Law School is sponsored by the Thomas J. White Center for Law and Government and the Social Justice Forum. It is open to the public without charge. — The Observer

The missing George Gipp scenes in television copies of the “Knute Rockne — All American” will be shown on an ABC-TV special May 10. A segment of the third edition of “Celebrities Where Are They Now?” will explain the disappearance of two scenes. One is the death bed scene where Gipp played by a young Ronald Reagan, implores his coach, Knute Rockne, played by Kevin Browne and Freshman Freshman Bongiovi, the other is a following scene where Rockne reconsiders the entire team in an emotion al locker room talk to his players. Both scenes were removed when hundreds of friends of a senior rushed to his aid at a meeting in the Morrissey chapel. The student was appealing his dismissal for an incident at a bar in Ft. Lauderdale.

After one hour discussion, Rockne changed his mind, and he lauded the students’ concern. The semi-staged event ended with Rockne holding an alternate proposal in the air, looking like a model of justice, and announcing the student would stay. — The Observer

A protest post-mortem

Some of the more resilient banners still swing in defiance on the quads, but many more have fallen, victims of rectors and a protest movement that switched from passion to reason.

Exams begin in five days, and August seems a whole summer away. But when we return, the alcohol policy will be here to greet us, 99 percent of it intact, just as we saw it on April 17 when the party really ended.

So what have the protests done? Infuriated some, for sure. We made a few chuckle — such as Dean of Students James Roemer — who wondered if we had better things to do.

By the way, have you ever noticed that many of the people who claim that we are such an intelligent student body are the first ones to discuss us when the tide turns? Last spring, Dean Roemer said he was impressed with hundreds of friends of a senior rushed to his aid at a meeting in the Morrissey chapel. The student was appealing his dismissal for an incident at a bar in Ft. Lauderdale.

Well, just one year later, Roemer plays up to the national media, saying how embarrassed he is for us. Not a single administrator had the nerve to admit that the students had a legitimate gripe, but simply were going about promoting the wrong thing, now.

The morality line is getting a little hard to stomach now. If drunkenness is so immoral, why not emphasize a non-alcoholic beverage instead of a behavior that adds to the death rate of 25,000 Americans a year. If the students have a point, but they were so caught up in the protest, we may not have listened. We do not want to make alcoholism an issue, but the students have a point, and we must take it seriously.

The Notre Dame Club at Saint Mary’s will sponsor a Mass at 10:30 a.m. May 6 in Stapleton Lounge in LeMans Hall. Father Thaddeus Kuehne, vocational director of Moreau Seminary, will celebrate the Mass in French. The Mass is open to the public. — The Observer

Weather

Weekend weather will start off cloudy and cool today with a chance of drizzle. High in low to mid 50s. Mostly cloudy conditions are forecast for Sunday through Monday in low to mid 40s. Sunny and warmer tomorrow with high in mid 60s. — AP

Looking for something to fill those long dull evenings?

The Observer is seeking a limited number of night-time production workers for next semester. No previous experience is necessary, but enthusiasm and a sense of humor are both essential. Learn valuable layout skills and have fun too. Stop by the La Salle office, or call and make an appointment for an application and more info. Questions about this fantastic opportunity? Call 631-9330.

The Notre Dame Marketing Club Golf Tournament

Friday, May 21 at Burke Memorial Golf Course -- Awards, Refreshments: food to follow at Senior Bar from 6:30-8:30 open to all marketing club members

Looking for something to fill those long dull evenings?

The Observer is seeking a limited number of night-time production workers for next semester. No previous experience is necessary, but enthusiasm and a sense of humor are both essential. Learn valuable layout skills and have fun too. Stop by the La Salle office, or call and make an appointment for an application and more info. Questions about this fantastic opportunity? Call 631-9330.

The Notre Dame Marketing Club Golf Tournament

Friday, May 21 at Burke Memorial Golf Course -- Awards, Refreshments: food to follow at Senior Bar from 6:30-8:30 open to all marketing club members

Looking for something to fill those long dull evenings?

The Observer is seeking a limited number of night-time production workers for next semester. No previous experience is necessary, but enthusiasm and a sense of humor are both essential. Learn valuable layout skills and have fun too. Stop by the La Salle office, or call and make an appointment for an application and more info. Questions about this fantastic opportunity? Call 631-9330.

The Notre Dame Marketing Club Golf Tournament

Friday, May 21 at Burke Memorial Golf Course -- Awards, Refreshments: food to follow at Senior Bar from 6:30-8:30 open to all marketing club members

Looking for something to fill those long dull evenings?

The Observer is seeking a limited number of night-time production workers for next semester. No previous experience is necessary, but enthusiasm and a sense of humor are both essential. Learn valuable layout skills and have fun too. Stop by the La Salle office, or call and make an appointment for an application and more info. Questions about this fantastic opportunity? Call 631-9330.
St. Mary’s Director of Campus Ministry Reid to relocate to Seattle

By MARY PADDEN
News Staff

Tom Reid, Saint Mary’s director of Campus Ministry for four years will be leaving in June for Seattle where his wife has accepted a clinical internship.

During the past four years the department saw substantial growth in staff and student involvement. In addition, Reid said a “team orientation” developed within the department.

Reid’s wife, Molly, currently working on her Ph.D in psychology at Notre Dame, has been accepted into a clinical internship at the University of Washington in Seattle.

Reid decided to make the move as this year marks a four-year cycle at Saint Mary’s. The area of relocation was advantageous as two of Reid’s brothers are Washington residents. “We knew the move would come eventually, but we weren’t expecting it to be so soon,” Reid said.

Reid praised the quality of Saint Mary’s programs, and the accessibility of both faculty and administration.

His time at Saint Mary’s enabled him to gain new insight. “Working at a women’s college has helped me to grow in a number of ways. Being a man in a predominantly female atmosphere helped me to become more sensitive to the needs of women,” Reid is pleased with the direction that Campus Ministry at Saint Mary’s is taking. He said increased involvement in programs such as the Fast for a World Harvest. Three Minutes to Midnight, and other peace-oriented functions of this spring show that Campus Ministry has become a vital part of the Saint Mary’s community.

After leaving, Reid plans to continue his work with Retreats International by offering spiritual growth programs and consulting with people in recreit ministry. He hopes to expand his work to include those of all ages.

Family and premarital counseling are two areas in which Reid would enjoy being involved. He believes by extending his ministry to these areas, he would be able to help people relate better to family needs.

His relationship with Campus Ministry as a specialization has come to a close, but he feels his work in human and spiritual development has only begun.

Both Reid and Sister Karol Jackowski, dean of student affairs at Saint Mary’s, have a great deal of confidence in his replacement.

Mary Feely has been named to the position, and will assume duties as director August 1.

Feely is currently director of Lay Formation, and associate professor of Pastoral Theology at the St. Francis Seminary in Milwaukee. She has had previous involvement in the South Bend area as director of religious education at Holy Cross Parish and through teaching theology at Notre Dame during the spring semester of 1982.

Correction

Because of an editing error, the fourth place winner in the Ugly Man on Campus contest was incorrectly reported in yesterday’s Observer. John Sharkey finished fourth in the contest.

A hard day in the stands deserves a soft night in a Sheraton.

We have comfortable beds for aching backs. Fine restaurants and lounges for tired throats. A convenient location.

Notre Dame vs. Purdue
September 8, 1985
The Indianapolis Hoosier Dome

Special Football Fan Rate: $49.00 per room per night
For Reservations Call: (317) 924-1241
Survey shows broad range of ND beliefs

By Richard Pilger

A survey of Notre Dame students' moral attitudes has recently been conducted by a professor from Marquette University. The poll covered a broad spectrum of issues involving violence, sex, politics, religion, racism and drug use.

Dr. Daniel Maguire is a visiting professor of ethics this year. His poll is the starting point for his classes and has developed over fifteen years of teaching at Marquette.

Currently, more than a hundred questions comprise the survey, which has often grown from the suggestions of Maguire's students.

The polling of 299 Notre Dame students occurred in three upper-level theology and sociological classes, but participation was not mandatory. Of the 299, 66 percent were male. Most questions required one of three answers: yes, no or don't know.

"The results," said Maguire, "indicate that students here are remarkably conventional and conservative." He added that the attitudes of most students point to a class consciousness over social awareness, citing the overwhelming support for Reagan against the democratic candidates. In the survey, Reagan beat Jackson by 66 percent. Mondale by 56 percent. Those who considered themselves politically active, however, numbered only 25 percent.

Maguire also noted an ironic response to questions on abortion. While 98 percent of those surveyed consider themselves religious, and 89 percent of those children to be raised in their religion, 56 percent found abortion morally acceptable in certain circumstances. Eighty-four percent found contraception acceptable; 51 percent believed that evaluations can be morally justified.

Other results showed large differences in the opinions of men and women. Women were far less tolerant of violence than men, with 56 percent of responding females agreeing that violence can be morally justifiable, in contrast to 72 percent of the men. Fifty percent of the males considered themselves religious, while only 44 percent of the women.

Men were consistently less religiously oriented than women, with 85 percent of the males considering themselves religious, to 94 percent of the females.

None of the women pictured God as feminine, while one percent of the men did.

Only five percent of the men believed themselves in some way racially prejudiced, versus 52 percent of the women. Women were usually more conservative toward extramarital sex, at the same time more tolerant of homosexuality and masturbation. Twenty-four percent of the males accepted casual sex between strangers to 4 percent of the females.

While 61 percent of those surveyed found themselves in some way sexually repelled, 76 percent approved of interracial marriages.
Pizza
continued from page 1

"Dominic's was too common," Monaghan said, "and I thought we might have trouble with the name.
So I picked Dominic's. It sounded
Italian, and I didn't know anyone else with that name.

"The reason there's three dots (on the Domino's logo) is because we had three stores at the time. I was planning to add a dot for every store we opened. Could you imagine a dominio with 1,400 dots?"

After finding a niche in the pizza delivery business, Monaghan's store in Ypsilanti "became a little legend.
It was the busiest pizza place in the country. But starting a chain is tough. Number two is five times as hard as one, and three is five times as hard as two," he said.

By the end of 1983, however,
Dominic's, Inc., reported sales of at least $70 million, or approximately $45,000 per store, and currently is planning to construct a 30-story corporate headquarters, using a design by architect Frank Lloyd
Wright that was never built in Ann Arbor.

And Monaghan sees no saturation point in sight. Pizza Hut, Dominic's top competition, has 4,000 stores nationwide, and they're doing fine," said Monaghan. "We can build our stores closer to each other than they can."

Monaghan said Dominic's doesn't concentrate on building franchises near college campuses. "We started out that way," he said, "but we used to lose a lot of money in the summer.
Military bases are a different story, though. They're like campuses all year long."

The lecture was delivered free.

United Limo
CALL 674-6993
To O'Hare
CALL 674-6993

LEAVE HOME
220 a.m. 2:45 a.m. 5:45 a.m. 7:45 a.m. 9:15 a.m.
2:45 a.m. 5:45 a.m. 7:45 a.m. 9:15 a.m.
12:45 p.m. 2:45 p.m. 5:45 p.m. 7:45 p.m. 9:15 p.m.
3:00 p.m. 6:00 p.m.

To ORD
5:45 p.m. 7:45 p.m. 9:15 p.m.
10:45 p.m. 12:45 a.m. 2:45 a.m.

LEAVE ORD
10:30 a.m. 12:00 noon 2:00 p.m. 4:00 p.m. 6:00 p.m. 8:00 p.m.
11:00 a.m. 12:30 p.m. 2:30 p.m. 4:30 p.m. 6:30 p.m.
2:00 p.m. 4:00 p.m. 6:00 p.m.

To O'Hare
2:00 p.m. 4:00 p.m.
6:00 p.m. 8:00 p.m.
10:00 p.m. 12:00 a.m.

All Stops Eastern Std. Time
Effective April 29, 1984
Subject to Change Without Notice
Clip and Save this Schedule

We'll Pay You to Get Into Shape This Summer.
If you have at least
Two years of college left, you can spend six weeks at
Our Army ROTC Basic
Camp this summer and earn approximately $600.
And if you qualify, you can enter the ROTC 2-Year Program this fall and receive up to $1,000 a year.
But the big payoff happens on graduation day. That's when you receive an officer's commission.
Get your body in shape (not your bank account).
Enroll in Army ROTC.
For more information contact your Professor of Military Science.
ARMY ROTC
BE ALL YOU CAN BE.
CALL:
CPT ANNE RIEMAN
239-6264

Ruppe
continued from page 1

Some anti-abortion groups dis agree with the Justice Department's interpretation of the PDA. James Bopp, Jr., general counsel to the National Right-to-Life Committee, told in a letter to the NRLC's
Legislative Director Douglas
Johnson, "I have concluded that the Justice Department has taken an exremely narrow interpretation of the abortion exception in the PDA not warranted by the plain language of the statute ... The PDA does not require the payment of travel or per diem expenses to Peace Corps employees seeking abortions."

Ruppe's Public Affairs Officer
Hugh O'Neil told The Observer that Ruppe would not comment on the issue beyond the transcript provided of the Congressional hearing.

Transfer Orientation
Organizational Meeting
Monday, May 7
6:30 p.m.
Little Theatre
LaFortune
All are welcome

Put us to the Test!
DOMINO'S PIZZA is ready for finals. We will be open 11 a.m. to
3 a.m. from Monday, May 7 to Tuesday,
May 15
We guarantee 30 minute service
Call
277-2151
to order

Put us to the Test!
DOMINO'S PIZZA is ready for finals. We will be open 11 a.m. to
3 a.m. from Monday, May 7 to Tuesday,
May 15
We guarantee 30 minute service
Call
277-2151
Pizzas and More
3-8 Happy Hour
Mixed Drinks 2 for 1
Irish Pitchers $2
Sat. open 8 a.m. Pre(Carly Open) Drinks!
Abigail McCarthy

Abigail McCarthy, the commencement speaker at Saint Mary's, outspoken proponent of Catholic women's colleges and women's rights activist, will serve as an ideal model for the graduates of 1984. Having met the incoming seniors, Father Theodore Hesburgh, Notre Dame President, directed the students to begin the day with prayer and a thanksgiving for their gifts. McCarthy is a wise choice, possessing solid credentials. She is a writer, an encycclist, leader of women's rights, but she is first and foremost a graduate of Saint Mary's women's college. Her career attests to the fact that a Catholic women's college provides the skills and integrity necessary for modern careers.

Abigail McCarthy's accomplishments demonstrate her strong sense of social responsibility. McCarthy shows leadership qualities in the world of church and politics.

Shakespeare readings

To the men of Gavagan it must have seemed like a midsummer's night's dream. Just outside their dorm, from dawn to dusk, continuous hours. And all through the night, the marathon's organizers were conversing with friends; passers-by obstruct the view of those who stood at the top of theImage. Beaucamp, Faust, to Aspen. The allegory of Achilles and the Trojan horse never seemed more true in the night's darkness. Despite the hours, there was no sense of fatigue. McCarthy should be able to convey her sense of confidence and social responsibility to the students who are about to leave the College and are questioning what they will be taking with them as they begin their college life.

In the past few days, several articles have appeared discussing the role of ROTC at Notre Dame. Specifically, they debated whether or not Catholic ideals and values were compatible with those of the military. I have read the technical phrases and bibliographic quotes. I would like to present a broader perspective.

John P. O. Box

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to the letter that appeared in The Observer April 25, entitled Student Union Fiasco, to Aspen, Colorado. The allegations made by three members of the Student Union Executive were completely unfounded. Mr. Kevin Campus, and Maureen Clune were not involved in any way with the activities that the Executive claims.

First and foremost, three organization meetings, nine days in Aspen, and additional transportation, the two names which the administration claims they cited as their Student Union Representatives were WRONG. This is a blunder example of their misinformation concerning the entire trip.

Upon entering the Air Force ROTC program two years ago I was immediately confronted with a seemingly insurmountable mound of paperwork with questions ranging from "What is your mother's maiden name?" to "Have you ever advocated armed opposition to the government of the United States?" I struck me as significant that nowhere there were any references to one's personal religious moral values. When I decided to ask myself the following question: "Will ROTC require me to compromise these values?" was no alternative but to withdraw.

First of all, a few incidents. I had no idea what the course's scope, format, and objectives would be. How could the instructor promptly deliver the facts I feared I had about being brainwashed into becoming a "baby killer." He emphasized the fact that all cadets incur no military service obligation during the first two years of ROTC (now reduced to one year grace period), and that under no circumstances would we be forced to see any act that we genuinely considered to violate the tenets of our faith.

The second of all, a few incidents. I had no idea what the course's scope, format, and objectives would be. How could the instructor promptly deliver the facts I feared I had about being brainwashed into becoming a "baby killer." He emphasized the fact that all cadets incur no military service obligation during the first two years of ROTC (now reduced to one year grace period), and that under no circumstances would we be forced to see any act that we genuinely considered to violate the tenets of our faith.

Mike McVey, a mathematician and a Student Union Florida trip attendee, had scheduled transportation for his entire week in Aspen. Students were informed that they would be able to make the trip at the same price of $80.00. As for Summit Park Pow-Wow, he was told that the Student Union would offer weekend lodging, round trip transportation, and was unable to take part in the remainder of the trip.

Alyson M. Miller

The Responsible Use of Alcohol was issued.

Page 6, Friday, May 4, 1984

Transportation was needed by only few students - or anyone else in the Notre Dame community for that matter - to be able to participate in the transportation of the alcohol to the summit.

John P. O. Box

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to the letter that appeared in The Observer April 25, entitled Student Union Fiasco, to Aspen, Colorado. The allegations made by three members of the Student Union Executive were completely unfounded. Mr. Kevin Campus, and Maureen Clune were not involved in any way with the activities that the Executive claims.

First and foremost, three organization meetings, nine days in Aspen, and additional transportation, the two names which the administration claims they cited as their Student Union Representatives were WRONG. This is a blunder example of their misinformation concerning the entire trip.

Upon entering the Air Force ROTC program two years ago I was immediately confronted with a seemingly insurmountable mound of paperwork with questions ranging from "What is your mother's maiden name?" to "Have you ever advocated armed opposition to the government of the United States?" I struck me as significant that nowhere there were any references to one's personal religious moral values. When I decided to ask myself the following question: "Will ROTC require me to compromise these values?" was no alternative but to withdraw.

First of all, a few incidents. I had no idea what the course's scope, format, and objectives would be. How could the instructor promptly deliver the facts I feared I had about being brainwashed into becoming a "baby killer." He emphasized the fact that all cadets incur no military service obligation during the first two years of ROTC (now reduced to one year grace period), and that under no circumstances would we be forced to see any act that we genuinely considered to violate the tenets of our faith.

The second of all, a few incidents. I had no idea what the course's scope, format, and objectives would be. How could the instructor promptly deliver the facts I feared I had about being brainwashed into becoming a "baby killer." He emphasized the fact that all cadets incur no military service obligation during the first two years of ROTC (now reduced to one year grace period), and that under no circumstances would we be forced to see any act that we genuinely considered to violate the tenets of our faith.

Mike McVey, a mathematician and a Student Union Florida trip attendee, had scheduled transportation for his entire week in Aspen. Students were informed that they would be able to make the trip at the same price of $80.00. As for Summit Park Pow-Wow, he was told that the Student Union would offer weekend lodging, round trip transportation, and was unable to take part in the remainder of the trip.

Alyson M. Miller

The Responsible Use of Alcohol was issued.

Page 6, Friday, May 4, 1984

Transportation was needed by only few students - or anyone else in the Notre Dame community for that matter - to be able to participate in the transportation of the alcohol to the summit.

John P. O. Box

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to the letter that appeared in The Observer April 25, entitled Student Union Fiasco, to Aspen, Colorado. The allegations made by three members of the Student Union Executive were completely unfounded. Mr. Kevin Campus, and Maureen Clune were not involved in any way with the activities that the Executive claims.

First and foremost, three organization meetings, nine days in Aspen, and additional transportation, the two names which the administration claims they cited as their Student Union Representatives were WRONG. This is a blunder example of their misinformation concerning the entire trip.

Upon entering the Air Force ROTC program two years ago I was immediately confronted with a seemingly insurmountable mound of paperwork with questions ranging from "What is your mother's maiden name?" to "Have you ever advocated armed opposition to the government of the United States?" I struck me as significant that nowhere there were any references to one's personal religious moral values. When I decided to ask myself the following question: "Will ROTC require me to compromise these values?" was no alternative but to withdraw.

First of all, a few incidents. I had no idea what the course's scope, format, and objectives would be. How could the instructor promptly deliver the facts I feared I had about being brainwashed into becoming a "baby killer." He emphasized the fact that all cadets incur no military service obligation during the first two years of ROTC (now reduced to one year grace period), and that under no circumstances would we be forced to see any act that we genuinely considered to violate the tenets of our faith.

The second of all, a few incidents. I had no idea what the course's scope, format, and objectives would be. How could the instructor promptly deliver the facts I feared I had about being brainwashed into becoming a "baby killer." He emphasized the fact that all cadets incur no military service obligation during the first two years of ROTC (now reduced to one year grace period), and that under no circumstances would we be forced to see any act that we genuinely considered to violate the tenets of our faith.

Mike McVey, a mathematician and a Student Union Florida trip attendee, had scheduled transportation for his entire week in Aspen. Students were informed that they would be able to make the trip at the same price of $80.00. As for Summit Park Pow-Wow, he was told that the Student Union would offer weekend lodging, round trip transportation, and was unable to take part in the remainder of the trip.

Alyson M. Miller

The Responsible Use of Alcohol was issued.

Page 6, Friday, May 4, 1984

Transportation was needed by only few students - or anyone else in the Notre Dame community for that matter - to be able to participate in the transportation of the alcohol to the summit.

John P. O. Box

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to the letter that appeared in The Observer April 25, entitled Student Union Fiasco, to Aspen, Colorado. The allegations made by three members of the Student Union Executive were completely unfounded. Mr. Kevin Campus, and Maureen Clune were not involved in any way with the activities that the Executive claims.

First and foremost, three organization meetings, nine days in Aspen, and additional transportation, the two names which the administration claims they cited as their Student Union Representatives were WRONG. This is a blunder example of their misinformation concerning the entire trip.

Upon entering the Air Force ROTC program two years ago I was immediately confronted with a seemingly insurmountable mound of paperwork with questions ranging from "What is your mother's maiden name?" to "Have you ever advocated armed opposition to the government of the United States?" I struck me as significant that nowhere there were any references to one's personal religious moral values. When I decided to ask myself the following question: "Will ROTC require me to compromise these values?" was no alternative but to withdraw.

First of all, a few incidents. I had no idea what the course's scope, format, and objectives would be. How could the instructor promptly deliver the facts I feared I had about being brainwashed into becoming a "baby killer." He emphasized the fact that all cadets incur no military service obligation during the first two years of ROTC (now reduced to one year grace period), and that under no circumstances would we be forced to see any act that we genuinely considered to violate the tenets of our faith.

The second of all, a few incidents. I had no idea what the course's scope, format, and objectives would be. How could the instructor promptly deliver the facts I feared I had about being brainwashed into becoming a "baby killer." He emphasized the fact that all cadets incur no military service obligation during the first two years of ROTC (now reduced to one year grace period), and that under no circumstances would we be forced to see any act that we genuinely considered to violate the tenets of our faith.

Mike McVey, a mathematician and a Student Union Florida trip attendee, had scheduled transportation for his entire week in Aspen. Students were informed that they would be able to make the trip at the same price of $80.00. As for Summit Park Pow-Wow, he was told that the Student Union would offer weekend lodging, round trip transportation, and was unable to take part in the remainder of the trip.

Alyson M. Miller

The Responsible Use of Alcohol was issued.

Page 6, Friday, May 4, 1984

Transportation was needed by only few students - or anyone else in the Notre Dame community for that matter - to be able to participate in the transportation of the alcohol to the summit.
Loret Ruppe's stand on abortion policy

The following is an excerpt from Loret Ruppe's testimony before the House of Representatives Reproductive Health Activists Task Force on Feb. 8, 1984. Ruppe is director of the Peace Corps and will speak at the Notre Dame commencement ceremonies on May 20.

I appreciate the opportunity to clarify some of the irresponsible and inaccurate charges which have appeared in the press regarding the Peace Corps and my position on this policy.

First of all, I went to Mexico to make absolutely clear that, as an individual, I have been and continue to be, an active opponent of abortion on demand. I believe my record on the pro-life movement speaks for itself.

However, my current position as the Director of the Peace Corps does not go to the extent of the personal position I hold. A government which wisely feared the development of such a policy would have to conform to a complex of legal, legislative and administrative protections.

Therefore, in early 1981 I directed my understanding of Catholic teaching to be chary. A glance around the church's first task is not to demand that good men and women disagree on the teaching they contain. But the thing that recurs in Catholic teaching on the use of violence is simple: The church abhors bloodshed. Catholic can't glide easily past those ex-communications.

Moreover, since my appointment, I have directed my efforts toward achieving the administration's pro-life policies, but have been unable to negotiate the conflicting requirements of legislation and the decisions of the Supreme Court.

When I became the Director of the Peace Corps, I found that I had inherited a policy under which, I was pleased to learn, the Peace Corps had no legal requirement to check the horror of war, even those interventions which result in unwanted pregnancies.

I believe my record in the pro-life position makes it clear that I am earnestly seeking an alternative for both Catholic and non-Catholic concerned individuals to try and learn if there are other medical options for pregnant women.

I directed that this request for an opinion clearly indicate that my objective in asking for guidance was to quote from the letter, "the well-known position of this administration regarding abortion, with which we want to continue to cooperate.

I have full responsibility for any medical condition developed by volunteers while in service, and the church's response must fit easily into the mission of Catholic education.

We must have full responsibility for any medical condition developed by volunteers while in service, and the church's response must fit easily into the mission of Catholic education.

I have wondered lately if I could modify our policy of paying for travel and per diem for volunteers seeking abortions.

In an effort to satisfy myself that we were indeed required to continue this policy, I directed the General Counsel to request an opinion from Justice Postell, to determine whether our continuing payment of travel costs and other benefits to those who interrupted the pregnancy, was not in violation of the law.

Finally, I determined that any volunteer who requested a second abortion during her tour of service with the Peace Corps was acting with such a degree of irresponsibility that automatic separation from the Peace Corps was called for.

I hope that I have now made my position clear. I am not trying to promote abortion among Peace Corps volunteers not attempting to subvert the administration's pro-life policy. The record shows, it has made every effort to revocate Peace Corps policy toward what I believe is a responsible third party in the prevention of unwanted pregnancies.

I am trying to do so under the legal constraints, as outlined by the Department of Justice, in which case, when I cannot be the Peace Corps funding in them as long as the taxpayers permit.

But Catholic and Christian institutions serve inner city communities, and among them there are the large figure of one who has already conquered the world without those who would, if asked, deploy (Matthew 26:53). It is easy to understand how people who have not lost their innocence (in instance, both include large numbers of Cat­holic) cannot be contradictory.

A community with a deep commitment to authentic Christian living is a community which imitate Christ and should reflect a little more of Christ's ambition towards the use of weapons. Secular colleges and universities are founded in them as long as the taxpayers permit.

But Catholic and Christian institutions serve inner city communities, and among them there are the large figure of one who has already conquered the world without those who would, if asked, deploy (Matthew 26:53). It is easy to understand how people who have not lost their innocence can be right.

In Nicaragua, priests in a military govern­ment defend the inflamed incendiary and recalcitrant Miskito Indians as regularly necessary for the advancement of the Sandinist revolution.

In Terrorists, priests in a military govern­ment defend the inflamed incendiary and recalcitrant Miskito Indians as regularly necessary for the advancement of the Sandinist revolution.

In Nicaragua, priests in a military govern­ment defend the inflamed incendiary and recalcitrant Miskito Indians as regularly necessary for the advancement of the Sandinist revolution.

In Terrorists, priests in a military govern­ment defend the inflamed incendiary and recalcitrant Miskito Indians as regularly necessary for the advancement of the Sandinist revolution.

In Terrorists, priests in a military govern­ment defend the inflamed incendiary and recalcitrant Miskito Indians as regularly necessary for the advancement of the Sandinist revolution.

In Nicaragua, priests in a military govern­ment defend the inflamed incendiary and recalcitrant Miskito Indians as regularly necessary for the advancement of the Sandinist revolution.

In Terrorists, priests in a military govern­ment defend the inflamed incendiary and recalcitrant Miskito Indians as regularly necessary for the advancement of the Sandinist revolution.

In Nicaragua, priests in a military govern­ment defend the inflamed incendiary and recalcitrant Miskito Indians as regularly necessary for the advancement of the Sandinist revolution.

In Terrorists, priests in a military govern­ment defend the inflamed incendiary and recalcitrant Miskito Indians as regularly necessary for the advancement of the Sandinist revolution.

In Nicaragua, priests in a military govern­ment defend the inflamed incendiary and recalcitrant Miskito Indians as regularly necessary for the advancement of the Sandinist revolution.
Energy of ‘Godspell’ gives old story new life

by Mary Feider

I went to ‘Godspell’ expecting to see a 1965’s rendition of a modern musical in the context of the contemporary experience. The familiar figures are known by heart and the music refreshing under the direction of Betsy Quinn. Adorned with an ensemble of ten characters, innocent and unassuming Bill Borozick (Jesus Christ) coasted to the stage the Gospel according to St. Matthew through musical parables and improvisational vignettes. Throughout most of the show the energy generated by the ensemble was reflected in the audience response. Incorporated on the stage was a five-piece band whose music kept the atmosphere upbeat and the production flowing. Under the choreography of Betsy Quinn and Ann Marie Lamon the ensemble was strong and exciting in their dance. Though the music throughout the show was captivating and alive, the ensemble’s energy level during the first few numbers was not as high as in the rest of the performance. The style is a little bit too self-indulgent, slightly forgotten by the receptive audience. The show was even above visually.

The construction of a colorful and movable set added special visual and enhanced the musical movement on a sometimes overwhelming O’Laughlin stage. Red and orange colors, wooden blocks, cut like pieces of puzzle, were moved around with ease by the ensemble composed in equal vibrant colors, although a clear distinction between each color individually’s costume would have created more variety among a cast with much dimension.

Maintaining an upbeat throughout our show, the ensemble kept the audience response changing as the mood swung from dramatic to humorous. The contemporary interpretation of the Gospel stories showed in creativity. The actors used present day language and humor to tell a story written two thousand years ago. Though this could be awkward, it was received extraordinarily well. Even the dramatic crucifixion at the conclusion was paced well through the modern musical interpretation.

Throughout the show there is an evident imagination of the Jesus character, which synthesizes to the ensemble creating a total performer. The color and energy on the stage creates a visual excitement and a new understanding of O’Laughlin. Godspell is definitely an experience well worth seeing.

Godspell is showing at O’Laughlin Hall May 4, 17 and 18 at 8 p.m. Tickets are $2 and are sold at the door only.

What’s happening...

- MOVIES
  - The Student Activities Board will present the film ‘The Big Chill’ tonight and tomorrow night in the Engineering Auditorium. Quoted as ‘the best good feeling film’ 1983, ‘Chill’ features several hits of the 1960s. Admission will be $1.50.
  - Tonight at 7:30, the Friday Night Film Series presents the 1965 film ‘Zelig’ in the Annexum Auditorium. In this hit’s latest and most brilliant films,” Woody Allen has cast himself as a human chameleon whose desire for social acceptance is so great that he literally becomes the same as those with whom he associates. ‘Zelig’ brings documentary footage with staged action in order to blur the distinction between fiction and reality, thus creating an ironically historical fiction through which most of the events of the 20th century come to pass. Admission is $1.
  - Tomorrow at 4 in the Annexum Auditorium, Nancy Biegel will perform a Grand Piano Recital.

- MASS
  - The celebrants for the Masses at Sacred Heart Church this weekend will be:
    - Father James Burtchaell at 5:15 p.m. (Saturday night vigil)
    - Father John Gerber at 9 a.m.
    - Father Richard McBrine at 10:30 a.m.
    - Father Stephen Gibson at 12:15 p.m.

- MUSIC
  - Tonight the Notre Dame Progressive Music Club will sponsor a ‘Fill in Your Social Gap’ dance in the Churrasqua ballroom from 9 to 2. One hundred posters and records will be given away at the dance. Admission is $1.
  - Tomorrow at 4 in the Annexum Auditorium, Nancy Biegel will perform a Grand Piano Recital.

- MOVIE NEWS
  - For all those interested in supporting the Mondale campaign, a bus will leave the Main Circle at 10 a.m. Sunday to campaign in South Bend until 2.

The cast of ‘Godspell’
Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Trainer Wayne Lukas will play a pair of spares — the fillies Althea and Life's Magic — in a full-house field for tomorrow's Kentucky Derby.

For the second straight year the classic one-and-one-fourth mile race drew its starting limit when 20 3-year-olds were entered yesterday.

Actually, 21 horses were entered, but Grooms' Image was bumped by the rule restricting the field to the top 20 money winners. Althea and Life's Magic entry was made the early 5-2 favorite for what will be the richest of 11 classic one-and-one-fourth mile races.

Tomorrow afternoon

Full field for Kentucky Derby

With 20 starters, the purse will be $712,400, with $357,400 to the winner. The old records were $550,100 and $428,850 in 1982. This year it cost $10,000 to enter and $10,000 to start, twice as much cost last year in either categories. There have been 32 fillies in previous Derbys, and two have won — Regret in 1915 and Genuine Risk in 1980.

Althea beat colts in two of three meetings in 1983 and again in a spectacular performance in the Arkansas Derby on April 21. Life's Magic finished fifth behind colts in the Santa Anita Derby. The second early choice at 3-1 is Swale while Taylor's Special is next at 7-2. Until Tuesday, Swale was expected to be part of a Woody Stephens-trained entry that probably would have been favored. But Stephens said he would not start Devil's Bag because the 1983 2-year-old champion, who would have syndicated for $36 million, had not shown that he would win at one-and-one-fourth miles.

Devil's Bag would have been ridden by Eddie Maple. But now Maple will be on longshot At The Thress, the likely long shot in the race, to start at 5:38 p.m. EDT. ABC will televise the event from the track.

Althea and Life's Magic under scored the strength of the fillies this year, which has been favored. But Stephens would have been favored. But Stephens said he would not start Devil's Bag because the 1983 2-year-old champion, who would have syndicated for $36 million, had not shown that he would win at one-and-one-fourth miles.

Milwaukee defeats New Jersey

Associated Press

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — Sidney Moncrief scored 27 points and Marques Johnson added 19 as the Milwaukee Bucks defeated the New Jersey Nets, 108-93, last night to take a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven Eastern Conference semifinal series of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Alton Lister added 12 points, and Mike Dunleavy and Junior Bridgeman each scored 19, for Milwaukee, which took a 10-point lead in the fourth quarter. The victory over-shadowed Darryl Dawkins' 31 points for New Jersey. Otis Birdsong added 20 for the Nets.

The Bucks went on a 10-1 tear to increase their 10-point halftime lead to 65-48 with 4:58 left in the third quarter. It was the first of four 17-point leads in the quarter.

After Bridgeman's two free throws gave Milwaukee its final 17-point margin, the Bucks led 71-54, New Jersey out-scored the Bucks 10-1 over the final 2:01 of the third quarter. Birdsong opened the fourth quarter with a baseline jumper, as the Nets cut the deficit to 72-66.

But Milwaukee retaliated with a 10-2 binge to go ahead 82-68 on Moncrief's layup with 7:27 to play. The Bucks kept the Nets at bay the remainder of the game.

The Nets cut the deficit to 89-80 with 3:15 to play, but Moncrief hit two technical foul shots after the Nets were penalized for an illegal defense and an outburst by New Jersey coach Stan Albeck.

The Bucks opened a 51-41 lead at intermission.

Rut continued, from page 12

run. Cotinl came in to strike out Bronco Jim Davis to bring the game to a close.

"That was probably the best college game I've pitched," said Clements of his strong performance.

The senior pitcher lifted his record to 6-5 with his third victory. Merzler led the Irish with a double and a single, while Moran chipped in with two base hits.

Notre Dame is now 20-21, and will try to clinch over the mystical .500 mark when it plays four this weekend. The Irish will face Huntington in a doubleheader Saturday at Jake Kline Field. On Sunday, the team will travel to Lewis College for another twinbill.

Rut

Saturday

$1.00 Off

$1.00 off any pizza.

One coupon per pizza. Expires in two weeks.

Free Fast Delivery

Good at locations listed.

Call us.

277-2151

1635 South Bend Ave.

Plaza 23 Center

233-3133

1428 Calvin St.

289-7100

4333 W. Western

277-8700

57400 U.S. 31 North

Hours:

4:30pm-1am Sun.-Thurs.

4:30pm-2am Fri. & Sat.

Our delivery cars carry less than $20.00

Limited delivery area.

© 1984 Domino's Pizza, Inc.

3954-13

10-2

89-80

31-94

50-93

20-21,

82-68

72-66

65-48

71-54

82-68

89-80

51-41

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 12

Domeino's Pizza is the number one pizza delivery company in the world. For over 20 years we have been bringing fast, free 30 minute pizza delivery to your door. Why not order the delicious pizza from Domino's Pizza tonight.

We use only the freshest ingredients and 100% real dairy cheese.

We promise free delivery and fast 30 minute service to your door. All you have to do is call!

And when we promise, Domino's Pizza Delivers!

DOMINO'S PIZZA DELIVERS FREE...

A Weekend Special!

Cosimo Hair Design

Men Regularly $14.00 Special Price $10

Women, Regularly $12.00, Special Price $11

And Domino's Pizza Delivers

DOMINO'S PIZZA DLVERSE FREE...

A Weekend Special!

Cosimo Hair Design

Men Regularly $14.00 Special Price $10

Women, Regularly $12.00, Special Price $11

And Domino's Pizza Delivers

DOMINO’S PIZZA DELIVERS FREE...

A Weekend Special!

Cosimo Hair Design

Men Regularly $14.00 Special Price $10

Women, Regularly $12.00, Special Price $11

And Domino's Pizza Delivers

DOMINO’S PIZZA DELIVERS FREE...

A Weekend Special!

Cosimo Hair Design

Men Regularly $14.00 Special Price $10

Women, Regularly $12.00, Special Price $11

And Domino's Pizza Delivers

DOMINO’S PIZZA DELIVERS FREE...

A Weekend Special!

Cosimo Hair Design

Men Regularly $14.00 Special Price $10

Women, Regularly $12.00, Special Price $11

And Domino's Pizza Delivers

DOMINO’S PIZZA DELIVERS FREE...

A Weekend Special!
Irish lacrosse team meets MSU still having shot at MLA crown

By MIKE SULLIVAN

Sports Editor

When Notre Dame lacrosse coach Rich O'Leary traveled to East Lansing, Mich., on Wednesday to scout a game between Michigan State and Ohio Wesleyan, he expected to get a good picture of the Spartans — Notre Dame's opponent tomorrow — as they were being dominated by conference leader Ohio Wesleyan.

O'Leary did get a good look at Michigan State; but he also received a pleasant surprise when the Spartans pulled off a big upset, beating Wesleyan, 7-6, and putting Notre Dame in an excellent position to emerge as Midwest Lacrosse Association champion.

The Michigan State win left Notre Dame, Denison, and Ohio Wesleyan with identical 7-1 records.

"I would guess that, if Denison beats Wesleyan, Wesleyan would be out of the picture in the conference, they'd have two losses," explains O'Leary. "After all, almost every championship in the country is decided on the win-loss record.

"I also think that it was a two-way tie and it came down to head-to-head competition, whoever won the game would win the championship. So, if it came down to Denison and us, I would think that we'd win it."

All of this hinges on wins by Notre Dame and Denison, of course, but because both teams have the home-field advantage, the scenario is quite probable, especially this season when the home team has won nearly every big MLA game.

"Because the teams in the conference are becoming more equal, it's always an advantage being at home," says O'Leary. "There are better teams in the league now, and more teams are capable of beating the top teams, so the home field is becoming even more important."

The Irish players are understandably excited about their chances, but they first have to get past the much-improved Spartans.

"Michigan State is a very physical, very aggressive team," says O'Leary. "They're definitely better than they were last year. They just challenged Ohio Wesleyan all the time. They're pretty strong at attack — especially one guy who's very talented — and they were able to control the ball a lot."

"Notre Dame will be looking to control the tempo just as it has done in every game of its six-game win streak. In nearly every game, the Irish were able to jump out to a large, early lead, and then hold off the opponent in the second half with a tough defense. O'Leary does not expect the game plan to be altered much tomorrow. "We're not going to change much," he says. "They're very aggressive, but as long as we don't pass panic like I think Ohio Wesleyan did, then we should be fine."

The Irish will be off with the Spartans at 1:30 p.m. on Carrier Field. If Notre Dame does win, the outcome of tomorrow's Denison-Wesleyan game could well rest on the Irish's decision.

The second game of the twinbill at the Midwest Lacrosse Association title faces Ohio Wesleyan State tomorrow on Carrier Field. To have a chance at the crown, the Irish must beat the Spartans and Denison must defeat Ohio Wesleyan. Mike Sullivan details the situation at left.

---

Splits with Western Michigan

Baseball team remains in a rut

By ERIC SCHEUERMANN

Sports Writer

The Notre Dame baseball team just can't seem to get out of the rut of playing, 500 baseball.

On Tuesday, the Irish traveled to Kalamazoo to take on Western Michigan University in a doubleheader. As has been the story as of late, the Irish split with the Broncos, losing the first game by a score of 4-2, while taking the nightcap, 4-1.

In the first contest, the Broncos quickly jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the first inning on a two-run single by designated hitter Jim Markert off Irish starter Buster Lopes.

Notre Dame tried to claw its way back in the second, scoring a run when Mike Metzler's infield single drove in Jackie Moran. In the fourth, Steve Paninaudt drove in David Clark with the tying run.

But Western Michigan came back in the bottom of the inning with another run off Lopes. The Broncos added an insurance run in the seventh on a double by Walker doubled off Irish reliever Tom Conlin to drive in Markert.

The Irish could only collect five hits with none going for extra bases. Lopes took the loss, dropping his record to 4-4.

The second game of the twinbill was a totally different story for the Irish. The offense came alive for eleven hits, while Mark Clementz pitched two hit two hit to lead the team to victory.

The game was scoreless until the third inning, when Metzler doubled to bring in catcher Brian Gibbons with the game's first run. Carl Vuono made it 2-0 in the fifth by driving in Gibbons again.

A single by Moran drove in Metzler in the seventh for one run, and Vuono came in from third base on a squeeze bunt by Ken Sosn to make the score 4-0.

But it was hurler Clementz who was the highlight. Through the first six innings he only allowed the Broncos one single. He retired the first two batters in the seventh, but a single and three walks brought in a see RUT, page 9

---

Track team at home

It has been a long time since the Notre Dame track team last competed on its home track — March 31 to be exact — but this weekend, Joe Plant's Irish will return to the Monogram Track to play host to the Midwest Lacrosse Conference.

The competition features teams from Catholic colleges in the Midwest like DePaul, Loyola, and Marquette. Notre Dame, which goes into the meet as the favorite, expects the toughest competition to come from DePaul, whose strength is in the sprints, and Marquette, which boasts some good distance runners.

Plans to use some of the runners who have not competed in recent weeks while the team travelled to meets in Iowa, Tennessee, and Illinois. However, he also hopes to allow some of his better runners to compete in races they normally do not run.

The meet also gives the Irish runners more chance to qualify for the prestigious NCAA Outdoor Championships. Last week at the Drake Relays, three Notre Dame runners qualified. Mark Woomink in the 10,000 meters, Jeff Van Wie in the 800-meter run, and Jim Tyler in the 1500 meters.

---

Isles top Canadiens, take 3-2 series lead

Associated Press

MONTREAL — Bryan Trottier's power-play goal and Brent Sutter's shorthanded score in the first period carried the four-time National Hockey League champion New York Islanders within a victory of the Stanley Cup finals last night with a 3-1 decision over the Montreal Canadiens.

The Islanders, who were man-handled in the first two games of the best-of-seven Prince of Wales Conference final, used a staunch defensive game and the goaltending of Billy Smith to grab a 3-2 lead in the series. The Isles will return to tomorrow night, they will advance to the championship round against the Edmonton Oilers, who New York swept in last year's finals.

The opportunistic Islanders took advantage of their only first-period power play when Trottier banged in a rebound of his own shot. Defender Randy Cunneyworth broke into the Montreal zone and fed Trottier, whose deflection was stopped by goalie Steve Penney. The puck fell directly in front of Penney and Trottier lifted it into the net at 3:55.

The Islanders' penalty killing was perfect in the first period, stopping four Montreal power plays. And, on the second of those power plays, Sutter broke out of his zone, moved around the Canadiens' Steve Shutt and sent a wrist shot past Penney's stick at 9:36.

Van Wie's power play when Trottier banged in a rebound of his own shot. Defender Randy Cunneyworth broke into the Montreal zone and fed Trottier, whose deflection was stopped by goalie Steve Penney. The puck fell directly in front of Penney and Trottier lifted it into the net at 3:55.

Sloppy second period featured just four shots on goal for each team and just one good scoring opportunity. Montreal's Mark Hunter slipped a wrist shot past Smith, but it bounced off the goal post and harmlessly away from the net.

The victory was just the second in the Montreal Forum for the Islanders in nine playoff games.