Seniors denied football tickets on basis of ineligibility, junior status

By PAT SAIN
Senior Staff Reporter

Not all seniors are what they appear to be -- the Registrar's office says some are still juniors. This error surfaced yesterday when football tickets were distributed to seniors. When some seniors asked for their tickets, they were told they were "not eligible," because they were "listed as a junior by the Registrar's office," said Laura Stelow, a Walsh secret. The problem was caused because the seniors were "short credit hours," said Assistant Registrar Beverly Fisette. If a senior's total credit hours fall below a certain cut-off point, said Fisette, they are given junior status by the computer.

"We stood in line from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.," said Sizelove. "Even when one of my friends [Susan Harrzell, a Walsh senior] presented them with a valid [senior] ID, they (the ticket office) said she was not eligible." They (the ticket office) were "really rude" about the problem, Stelow said.

The ticket office would not hold football tickets for those seniors who were mistakenly listed as juniors, said Joan Avery, also a Walsh senior. "Some will have to come back on Wednesday with the juniors to get their tickets," Avery said.

Kevin Finger, a senior in St. Edward's Hall, said he stood in line from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., when he had to leave for a class. Finger said he gave his ID to a friend, who was unable to obtain a ticket for him because he was "listed as a junior." Finger said he went to the ticket office, Michael Bobinski, with a transcript from the Registrar's office. Finger said he was told he had to get a handwritten letter from the Dean, and come back the next day. Finger said he would not have to wait in line. But he would not be able to get a ticket next to his friends in the senior section.

Bobinski said there were 15 to 20 students who were listed as juniors, but claimed to be seniors. "The seniors were upset by the error, although they were not able to see the letter I signed on the ticket," said Bobinski. He said he did not see Finger's status as a senior listed in his transcript.

"The students have to see the other side of the story," said Bobinski. "We have to give out Purdue game tickets, Purdue bus tickets, and season tickets. Each application must be checked for all three tickets."

The students are checked against a list provided by the Registrar, said Bobinski. "We used the most current information available -- the list was printed August 23." Students who are incorrectly listed must get a letter in writing from the dean of their college, or the Registrar's office in order to get a ticket, said Bobinski.

Heshburg invites candidates to talk to Notre Dame students, faculty

By JOHN MENNELL
Senior Staff Reporter

Invitations have been sent to the 1984 presidential and vice presidential candidates asking them to speak at Notre Dame. As he has done every election year since becoming University president, Father Theodore Hesburgh, C.S.C., sent telegrams to each of the candidates asking them to "visit the University of Notre Dame before the election and address the faculty and students on the moral issues of the campaign."

"I suggest that they discuss the moral issues of the campaign," Hesburgh said Tuesday, "but I can't tell them what to talk about." The candidates have discussed moral issues while others have not. Hesburgh would not comment on which issues he wanted the candidates to discuss, saying he wanted to let them decide for which issues which are relevant to the candidates to discuss, saying he wanted to let them decide for which issues which are important. Jimmy Carter, who accepted Hesburgh's invitation in 1976 discussed human rights.

Although the content was the same in all four of the telegrams the wording varied from formal to personal. The Associated Press reported that the telegram to President Ronald Reagan was addressed "Mr. President," while the one to Geraldine Ferraro was addressed "Mrs. Ferraro." But to Vice President Walter Mondale it was "Dear George," and to Walter Mondale it was, "Dear Fritz." Hesburgh said he would be surprised if none of the candidates came to Notre Dame this election year, although the last to accept his invitation were Carter and Mondale in 1976.

Judicial Coordinator Zahn attacks OBUD, criticizes election handling

By JOSEPH MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Student Body Judicial Coordinator Joe Zahn began the new school year by saying, "We're not going to accept any baloney from the Administra­tion on the plans we're going to implement for the benefit of the community."

In an interview last week, Zahn also attacked the Ombudman Organization as "a dishonest group of 25." Zahn said he intended to form a committee to renew the fight for control of student elections against the Ombudman Organization which now has control over the student electoral process.

Zahn said, "The National Ombudman Organization clarifies Ombuds as a complaint bureau. The Judicial Council will be taking back the counting of the ballots."

Student Body President Rob Ber­tino responded with a "flat no" to Zahn's suggestion of a takeover of elections by the Judicial Council. "That's already been settled for this year," said Bertino.

Henry Senkiewicz, head of Ombuds, refused to comment directly on Zahn's remarks but said, "The issue should be brought through the proper channels of student govern­ment and not through The Observer."

Bertino said he did support the creation of BACCHUS on campus which is a national organization sponsored by the United States Council of the United States. The Notre Dame BACCHUS organization would serve as a division of the Judi­cial Council and would be under the direction of the Judicial coordinator.

Agents foil terrorists

DALLAS - Federal agents believe they foiled a pair of terrorist plots against the Republican National Convention, including a plan for an ultralight aircraft attack, by arresting nine Iranians and Palestine Liber­ation Organization supporters, offi­cials said yesterday.

The alleged plots never were confirmed, officials said, but they said that threats had been made.

The nine were arrested before and during last week's GOP presidential nominating session and were all charged with violating their immigration status, said Ronald Chandler, Immigration and Naturalization Service district direc­tor. The agency refused to release the names of the nine.

"The Secret Service and/or the FBI had information on the students concerning threats against the con­vention and possible involvement with the PLO," Chandler said.

"The Iranians were alleged to have been involved in some plot in­volved an ultralight aircraft," he said. "We questioned these individ­uals and determined they were out of their immigration status either be­cause they entered illegally or they violated their visa," Chandler said.

Democratic Vice Presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro, right, jokes out sound to the crowd at the American Federation of Government Employees National Convention at AFGE Executive Vice President John Stavroulantis' invitation in 1976 discussed human rights.

Tuesday afternoon, Ferraro was invited to speak at Notre Dame by University President Father Theodore Hesburgh, along with Walter Mondale, Ronald Reagan, and George Bush. John Mennell's story above.
A B-1 bomber prototype crashed and burned yesterday at a low altitude test flight over the Mojave Desert, killing one crew member and injuring two others, the Air Force said.

"The crew escape capsule successfully separated and landed near the site," the Air Force said in a statement. "It was an unseasoned low-altitude test flight that was conducted as a training exercise for the crew."

Man arrested, charged in maiming of six dogs in Philadelphia suburb

Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA — A man was ar­rested yesterday and charged with throwing a corrosive liquid on six dogs in his neighborhood, burning one "down to the bone," after a week-long series of maimings caused four of the animals to be killed.

Charles V. Duques, 20, a resident of the Mount Airy section where the pets were attacked, was arrested at Municipal Court when he appeared to answer unrelated charges of theft and carrying firearms.

As at least two other suspects, both juveniles, are being sought, officials said.

The corrosive material was thrown on the dogs in their owners' back yards, burning four of the pets so severely they had to be killed and another two so badly blinding one said police Inspect­or Joseph Szataski.

"He has a reputation of being an all around criminal. He wants to come to light," Staniski said of Duques.

Duques was charged with six counts of conspiracy and six counts of cruelty to animals, police said. The cruelty counts are mis­deemeanors, carrying a maximum penalty of a $5,000 fine and two years in prison on each count, said Elaine Newton, spokeswoman for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Staniski said reports from wit­nesses led to the arrest. The SPCA had offered a $1,000 reward after the attacks were discovered Aug. 21.

Authorities are awaiting autopsy results to determine what the cor­rosive substance was, but Staniski said he suspects it was something like a commercially available drain cleaner.

One of the dogs that had to be destroyed was Trouble, a pit bull terrier belonging to Shartia Stivender, 17, and her family. Trouble, who was 27 months old, had been put in the Stivenders' back yard to keep cool, Miss Stivender said.

"We first noticed he was sick a few days ago. My brother heard him making unusual noises," she said.

"Then the hair started coming off his back. It made you sick just to look at it."

Troubles was killed Tuesday at the SPCA shelter. Sam McClain of the SPCA said the dog had been burned "down to the bone."

"It's just pitiful, doing that to these dogs," Miss Stivender said. "And the dogs didn't do anything to them."

James Street's dog also had to be destroyed.

He noticed Saturday morning that Abdul, his Doberman pinscher, wouldn't eat.

"Sunday, he got worse, and Mon­day, I took him to the hospital," Street said. "I couldn't get close to him, because it made me sick."

At Farmount Veterinary Humane Society said Street's dog had burns over about 40 percent of its body. Although police received about 20 calls about attacks on dogs only six could be documented, said Ms. Newton.

"We were informed that police had received other calls about animals being hit by acid, but we didn't see the animals," she said. "We would need to see some proof that other dogs were hit."

"I personally believe the guy who did this is a sick person," said Staniski. "I guess it was just a matter of time before he got around to humans."

Even Straight A's Can't Help If You Flunk Tuition.

Today, the toughest thing about going to college is finding the money to pay for it. But Army ROTC can help—two ways:

First, you can apply for an Army ROTC scholarship. It covers tuition, books, and supplies, and pays you up to $1,000 each school year it's in effect.

But even if you're not a scholarship recipient, ROTC can still help with financial assistance—up to $1,000 a year for your last two years in the program.

Dozens of fires continue to blaze in Montana, hundreds driven away

Associated Press

HELENA, Mont. — Boistered by 5,000 firefighters from at least seven states, diminished winds and cooler temperatures, officials unleashed large-scale air attacks yesterday against dozens of fires that have blackened 150,000 acres of forests and rangeland and driven hundreds from their homes.

For the first time since most of the fires broke out Sunday, officials spoke of possible containment of some of the blazes.

The reinforce­ments, aided by slackening winds and cooler tem­peratures Tuesday night, held most of the fires to smaller gains Wednes­day than earlier in the week, when they were fanned by powerful winds.

But forecasters said the wind in the state was not expected to last. The 5,000 firefighters on the lines Wednesday were supported by 42 air tankers and 21 helicopters spraying fire retardant chemicals, said Dick Gauth, a Forest Service in­formation officer in Missoula.

"It's really anticipating increasing the airshow today," Gauth said.

The winds that fanned the fires earlier this week also had grounded the air support in most areas.

President Reagan declared three states, Missouri, Montana and New Mexico, disaster areas yesterday, bringing $1,000 in federal aid to fight the fires. The designations went to the Hawk Creek fire, 75,000 acres between Billings and Roundup, the North Hill fire, 22,140 acres north of Helena, and the Houghton Creek fire near Libby, 10,000 acres.

"We've got new crews from all over the West," said Dorothy Terry at the Emergency Fire Dispatch Center in Helena. She said they came from at least seven states — Colorado, New Mexico, California, Utah, Oregon, Washington and Idaho.

"We're in good shape as far as re­sources, and we have adequate man­power," said Department of State Lands spokesman Don Kendall.

"Weather is still the deciding fac­tor."

He said lines might be completed around the fire late Wednesday "with a little luck."

"To containment," Kendall stressed. "Control is several days away on something this size." Con­tainment is when firefighters prevent the fire from spreading, con­trolled when it's in a new place.

Aerial infrared measurements showed the North Hill fire near Helena expanded by about 5,000 acres Tuesday night.

"Our major concern is north of Helena," said Roger Bregner of the U.S. Forest Service. "The potential is tremendous. There are houses all along the (Missouri) river."

That fire also burned several miles into the Gates of the Mountains Wil­derness area.

Khadafy accuses U.S. of plans to murder him

Associated Press

TRIPOLI, Libya — Muammar Khadafy called the United States an assassin of races yesterday and said it has even tried to kill him with poison and "electronic equipment."

The 42-year-old Libyan leader made the charges during a brief speech to delegates from around the world who are in town to help commemorate the 15th anniversary of the coup that brought Khadafy to power on Sept. 1, 1969.

Khadafy, wearing a dark green safari-like suit and using reading glasses, began the efforts made by his revolution as you have heard, under the leadership of his Central Intelligence Agency to freely move to get rid of the leadership of this revolution."

He gave no specifics but par­ticularly referred to a May 7 attack in Tripoli aimed at him. He previously accused the fundamentalist Mormon Brotherhood of making the attack with American aid.

Khadafy and 11 other junior officer­civilians seized power in a bloodless coup when King Idris was out of the country. He has transformed this former Italian colony into a socialist stronghold where education and medicine are free.

Begin joins Notre Dame faculty, ends 12-year career in parliament

By AMY STEPHAN
Assistant News Editor

Monique Begin, Minister of National Health and Welfare under Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau, joins the Notre Dame faculty this fall thus ending a 12-year career in Parliament.

She leaves politics after successfully sponsoring the controversial Canadian Health and Welfare bill from the threat of fees imposed on the nation's medical care and cause some doctors to leave the country.

Although Begin's career has been in the public rather than academic sector, Dean of the College of Arts and Letters Michael Louis says her appointment is "not at all uncommon. We want strong people who have held important roles in public life to offer insights...only gained from experience."

Begin will spend this semester in independent study and research as she regains out of public life in Canada, said Louis. During the spring semester she will teach courses on topics which might include themes in Canadian studies and policy-making in the public and private sector.

Begin was elected to Parliament in 1972, one of the first two women elected from Quebec. In 1975 she was cochairman of the Canadian Liberal Party's national convention, and became a delegate to the United Nations the same year. She was appointed Canadian Minister of National Revenue in 1976, and Minister of National Health and Welfare a year later.

Begin will hold the G. Shaffer Professorship in Arts and Letters. Provost Timothy O'Meara made the one-year appointment.

Critics warn it could downgrade the nation's medical care and cause some doctors to leave the country.

MARINA, Calif. — A shocked community sent food and money yesterday to the Army family of a 13-year-old boy who hanged himself after telling his mother, "If there was one less mouth to feed, things would be better."

The death of Danny Holley, who collected cans for a penny apiece to help buy food for his sister and two brothers, touched thousands of families at Fort Ord and brought hundreds of sympathy calls.

The troubles of the Holley family were not much different from those of many other Army families, said Cynthia High of the Army Emergency Relief office, who had worked with Jennifer Holley, Danny's mother.

The family of Army E-5 Johnnie Holley, stationed until next year in South Korea, had moved in June from West Germany to Fort Ord, 100 miles south of San Francisco, and was beset by bureaucratic problems.

Promised housing was unavailable, funds from their bank account were held up in transfer and their car hadn't arrived, said Mrs. High, who began helping the Holleys July 11.

"The army was providing services as much as possible," she said. "There are many, many cases of families who have financial troubles when they arrive at a new post."

Mrs. Holley had received an interest-free loan of $1,300 from the relief office, emergency food supplies and assistance from an elderly volunteer in a Pioneer Grandmothers program. Still, it was difficult for the family to cope, and Danny took it very hard.

"I didn't know anyone here," Mrs. Holley said, her eyes red from crying, as she sat in her kitchen. "And we couldn't go anywhere. Mrs. High gave us a little book of bus tickets that I'd use when I had to go to the doctor or something like that, but when they ran out, there was nothing. We just stayed home.

"It was hard for him to understand why this was happening to us. I guess he just didn't have the patience."

Danny used to roam the neighborhood collecting cans, which he sold for a penny apiece to the supermarket. Neighbors showed compassion and saved their cans for him.

Sometimes he gathered enough to bring home nine dollars.

The money helped buy food for his sister Erin, 4, and brothers Johnnie, R. and Christopher, 2. Mrs. Holley said the children often went to bed hungry.

"He used to get up in the morning and make me a cup of tea and bring it to me in bed. He would write me little letters. He was just a good kid."

But several times, in moments of despondency, Danny would tell his mother, "If there was one less mouth to feed, things would be better," Mrs. Holley told Ms. High.

On Monday morning, Danny hanged himself in the backyard of the house his mother had rented. His brother Johnnie found him and called his mother, who cut him down and called an ambulance. An hour later, Danny was pronounced dead at the hospital.

Saint Mary’s gets some new faces in various College departments

By THREESA GUARINO
Assistant News Editor

Almost every department at Saint Mary’s is experiencing personnel changes this year, as approximately 55 new faculty and administrative members join the College staff. Richard J. Cichocki, a veteran of the FBI National Academy and the South Bend Police Academy, replaces Anthony Konstant as director of security. Cichocki was a member of the South Bend police force for 23 years before coming to Saint Mary’s. He rose from patrolman to the rank of captain of the record bureau, where he was in charge of data processing, among other duties.

Replacing Erin Murphy Lorente as director of athletics and recreation is Jo-Ann Nester. Nester is a graduate of Temple University and spent the last ten years teaching and coaching in Virginia.

Filling the vacancy left by Tom Reid, Mary J. Feeley joins the College staff as director of Campus Ministry. Feeley holds a M.S. from Indiana University-Bloomington, and is presently a Ph.D. student at Saint Mary’s of the Lake Seminary. She was previously an Assistant Professor of Theology at St. Francis Seminary.

Gloria Chelminiak, a graduate of the University of Minnesota, has been appointed director of health services. Chelminiak was previously assistant director of health services at Saint Mary’s for seven years. Colleen J. Hart, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin’s School of Nursing, takes Chelminiak’s old position.

Several major changes have been made in the Residence Life staff, following the departure of residence hall directors Michelle Valley and Lisa Schulte. Former LeMans Hall Director Peggy Hayes has moved to Holy Cross Hall. Replacing Hayes in LeMans is Susan Gloré, a former residence camp director in York, PA. Gloré holds a B.A. from Shippensburg State College. Heading the McCandless Hall staff is Nan Loy, former graduate counselor at Shippensburg University, where she graduated with a M.S.

Other new members of the administrative staff include Sharon M. Cramer, director of housekeeping; Mark S. Kaback, superintendent of grounds; Cheryl A. Meyerhorst, coordinator of telecommunications, and Mary Esther McCloskey, admission counselor.

There are new faces in every academic department at Saint Mary’s this year. Mark Towner will be the College’s visiting artist in residence. Towner holds a B.F.A. from the Cranbrook Academy of Art. Maria A. Caramiglio, also comes from the Cranbrook Academy of Art as a visiting instructor.

Pamela Susan Patzelli and Michael Robinson both join the Department of Business Administration and Economics. Another assistant visiting professor, Rodney C. Lahn, will teach in the Department of Chemistry/Physics this year.

Craig Hosterman will begin full-time work at Saint Mary’s this year. Hosterman was previously a part-time assistant professor in the Communication and Theater Department. In the Education Department, Assistant Professors Janice Grow and Mary Ann Traxler will join the staff.

Beginning this year in the English Department are new instructors Eileen Bender, Laura Haigwood, Karen Heidler, Phyllis Henley Moore, and John A. Sopko will be staff lecturers, and Douglas Thorpe will be a visiting professor.

James C. Murphy will be a visiting government instructor. At the Department of Mathematics, Ann E. Brown and Karen Barker join the staff.

Additions to the Department of Nursing are Cynthia Danford, Ella S. Hartmeyer, Valerie Ann Lincoln, Ann McSorley, Maureen Mullen, Margaret Overbeck, Coninane Wals, and Karen McEvoy Wynn.

New members of the Department of Modern Languages are Renee Kingcade and Patrick Martin, while Sophia K. Jordan joins the Philosophy Department as a lecturer.

Nancy L. Menk replaces Raymond Sprague as director of the counseling groups at Saint Mary’s. Menk will also be an instructor in the Music Department.

Reverend David J. Murphy and Rita Borm are new staff members of the Department of Religious Studies. Joining the Department of Sociology, Anthropology and Social Work is David Pilgrim, as an assistant professor.

Zahn said, “I can’t stress enough that this is not an anti-alcohol organization. He said BACCHUS would have an alcohol awareness week in April to discourage drinking, but to encourage responsible drinking. BAC­ CHUS also will offer breathalyzer tests at the Senior Bar, said Zahn.

Religious publication revived by Ministry

Special to The Observer

The Notre Dame Religious Bulletin, a famous campus newsletter described by a former editor as "the most palatable 29-day精神ual vitamin ever compounded for college students," has been revived as a percus of the Office of University Ministry.

The bulletin, a weekly in its resurrected form, will be distributed to students at Sunday Masses in Sacred Heart Church and posted to all 26 of the University's residence halls.

Between 1921 and 1965, the newsletter was a prominent feature of Notre Dame life. Its first appearance was as a daily single-sheet mimeographed message from the office of Father John O'Hara, C.S.C. O'Hara was Notre Dame's prefect for more than 40 years before becoming the University's twelfth president.

Foreign deficit soars

WASHINGTON — In a sobering batch of new economic signals, the government said sales of new single-family homes hit a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 630,000 units this month in July while the nation's foreign trade deficit soared to an all-time record.

The 0.8 percent drop in the Index of Leading Economic Indicators followed a 1.3 percent decline in June and July declines in sales of new single-family homes, oil, clothing, iron and steel products, telecommunications equipment and agricultural commodities.

The July import surge led by a rapid advancement of how many were from what Middle Eastern country, "but I can tell you they were a combination of Iran's and Syrian's.

The deficit for the first seven months of 1984 totals $73.8 billion, already double the $69.4 billion record set in 1983. Analysts predict the deficit this year could easily reach $130 billion by the end of the year.

The July import surge was led by a sharp upswing in shipments of Japanese autos, oil, clothing, iron and steel products, telecommunications equipment and agricultural commodities.

The flood of imports overpowered a 10.3 percent rise in exports as U.S. sales overseas reached $189.1 billion, their highest level since September 1981.

In another report yesterday, the government said sales of new single-family homes were flat in July at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 630,000 units. This represented an 11.5 percent drop from the February peak as the housing industry continued to be battered by rising mortgage interest rates.

However, he said, agents "never confirmed or substantiated anything in the investigation" and it was substantially resolved by the last day of the convention.

Federal investigators didn't elaborate on what type of attack they thought might be conducted with the aircraft, most of which have tiny motors and wings of nylon fabric and do not require piloting licenses.

Nevertheless, sharpshooters were assigned to watch the airspace around the convention center for suspicious aircraft, federal officials said.

Chandler said he did not have a breakdown of how many were from what Middle Eastern country, "but I can tell you they were a combination of Iran's and Syrian's.

Census Party presidential nominee Sonia Johnson, the first alternative candidate in U.S. history to receive primary matching funds from the federal government, raises her hand to emphasize a point at a press conference Tuesday in Los Angeles. She called the conference to discuss her exclusion from presidential debates and issues.

Making a point

The Observer
I realized $50 billion sounds like a big increase in our budget. But remember, every billion you chop off of that... means 12 less nuts and bolts to fasten our weapons together with.

I think it is a good idea. No good deed is a small deed.

I had a farewell dinner last Thursday with my parents at the Morris Inn, and like any well-mannered young man, I immediately tried to find out what was happening at the tables around ours.

That night was lucky, I had the choice between straining my ears to overhear this old man chattering about his days as a Notre Dame student and straining my eyes staring at the waitress. Unfortunately, the girl left before I could digest what this aging alumnus was muttering.

To my surprise, this story was true. The old man, I too value the little details of the campus. Instead I heard the half-bald politician, I will never denounce the principles upon which this University was founded. I wrote:

"Dome," the symbol of Notre Dame may be the greatest thing about his days as a Notre Dame student, but the spirit of Notre Dame is the sunny side of it.

I even decided against munching on the crackers which our waitress placed at our table:,

"... and the tree surrounding it." And I remember the kindness of my teachers and the lree which sustained me. These actions may or may not work. I rather imagine it will take the whole country to make our leaders reach theirs.

To be too large for worry, too noble for worry, too much effort to deny, in the privacy of their homes and staff meetings. Do not good deeds a small deed. Let your conscience be your lawyer. No good deed is a small deed. And the lree is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame du Lac and Saint Mary's College.

I will write on all sides by the busy convention anchores and commentators that Reagan must choose between "ideology" and " pragmatism." But this is the dreariest either or fallacy. Reagan mocked by it his conduct in his first term when he appeared clear of either or and embraced both.

There isn't any core quiet, only one of tactics, between Reagan and the "theological" militants of the New Right, including the Southern "S-pan boys" and the Dolan Vignette NFCAP and the farther barbies and fiefdoms, and the whole Dallas scene of right radical chic. Reagan's heart is with them just as his head is with the Baker-Deaver-Dorman pragmatists who have run his White House staff and are running his campaign somehow with only manageable blunders thus far.

I mean to mention something I will wage the ghost house on, if not the estate. Reagan and his evangelicals and his intellectual Beachhead Boys will strike a pact which will let him work with his pragmatists to win the election. But then Reagan will strike a pact with his Oval Office pragmatists to let him deepen and thus broaden his appeal in his second term, in order to leave a heritage which his successors in 1988, 1992 and thereafter can use for continuing the Reagan Revolutions. It may or may not work. I rather imagine it may come sooner and earlier than Reagan's militants think, for reasons still to be explained.

Heep opened the inning with a single that bounced in front of double baseman Steve Sax and over his head. Hernandez then lined a double into the left field corner, and Heep raced home from first.

MESSAGE TO THE MOST IMPORTANT PERSON WE KNOW...

THE BEER DRinker.

At Anheuser-Busch, brewing is an art. No one takes more time or goes to more effort or expense than we do in brewing the most popular family of beers in the world.

We take great pride in this distinction, yet this distinction carries with it certain responsibilities.

Beer is a beverage to be enjoyed by adults socially—with family and friends at home... in your clubs, restaurants and at special events. It is also the beverage of moderation, and good judgment should be used when you drink.

Thankfully, the vast majority of those who consume beer do so in moderation. Nevertheless, anything less than responsible consumption of alcoholic beverages is detrimental to the individual and society. We at Anheuser-Busch certainly are concerned about you, our valued customer. Accordingly, we are dedicated to the support of research, education, and treatment programs aimed at combatting alcoholism and alcohol abuse.

Gann, Griffin, Dorsey key new Irish defensive alignment

By JOE BRUNETTI

Irish football fans will see both a new philosophy and a new formation on this year's defensive line. While the new formation may not be easily distinguished from last year's conventional 4-3, the new aggressive style of the defensive line should be both noticed and felt by opponents.

The key to this year's defensive line will be "aggressiveness. We will not lose the Irish on a read-and-react defense as they have in the past. This new emphasis on attacking the line will be utilized.

"Our defensive linemen are going to be more attack-oriented this year," said Irish defensive line coach Rick Lantz. "We want our linemen to attack the football more and to become more involved with the play."

This change will put more pressure on the Irish line because they will no longer have as much time to prepare for the offense. This new defensive philosophy requires each player to have a greater amount of confidence in his individual abilities. Lantz, however, does not think this should cause a problem.

"The players have been developing confidence in their ability to attack the line of scrimmage and to react properly when they are out of position," he said. "I think they have really seen great improvement in their confidence in the last few practices."}

Going into the Purdue game, Lantz has five players who show starting ability, but only three positions to fill.

Senior Mike Gann is the veteran of the quintet with three monograms under his belt. The 6-5 marketing major will hold down the left tackle position for the Irish this fall. Last year, Gann led the squad in sacks while starting all twelve games for the Irish.

"Mike is really playing like a senior," said Lantz. "He has always been a good football player, and he is really working hard to become a great one.

The other two starters are both sophomores - Wally Kleine and Mike Griffin. The 6-8 Kleine was forced to sit out the entire '82 season with knee problems, but returned strong in '83, playing in every game. Kleine earned his starting right tackle spot by having excellent spring and summer camps.

"Wally has unlimited potential," said Lantz. "He has shown us in the spring and summer that he wants to fight to reach that potential."

Griffin will anchor the nose tackle position for this year's Irish. The 240-pound Ohio resident will replace Jon Autry, who was lost to graduation. A freshman, Griffin earned starting spots against Colorado, USC, Penn State, and Air Force while replacing the injured Autry.

Griffin is a throwback to the day of old. He likes to line up on the center. He revels in being double-teamed," said Lantz.

"He really makes it easy for the linebackers behind him."

While Griffin is the muscle nose tackle for the Irish, junior Eric Dorsey is a finesse-type lineman. The 250-pounder utilizes his superior speed on the field and will provide the Irish with another dimension at nose tackle.

"Dorsey and Griffin give us a positive combination. Sometimes we will have Griffin go through our opponent's playbook, and then we can switch to have Dorsey go around our opponents," said Lantz. "Erich is the fastest off the ball of any of our defensive linemen. It's a great combination, and he has complete confidence in his ability."

Gren Dinges is Mr. Versatility on the line. He has the capability to play any of the three positions on the line which makes him an invaluable member of the squad.

"He's so dependable," said Lantz. "He can handle playing nose tackle or either of the end positions. He is our most important defensive lineman."

While Griffin, Gann, and Kleine will hold down the starting slots, Lantz emphasizes the point that all five players have starting abilities.

"We feel comfortable and confident with all five. Those five could play at anytime, and they all get a lot of playing time."

The only question mark on the line may be a lack of experience among the quintet. Lantz, however, doesn't think the youth of the line will be a problem.

"Every coach wants to start juniors and seniors, but all of them have gotten considerable time in the past," said Lantz. "We expect them to play like veterans."

"We want them to make something happen. They are going to be turned loose."

The key word to describe this year's defensive line is "aggressive."

The ABC/CBS Sports Network will present the Irish football scrimmages for the Irish before the Purdue game will hold tomorrow at 4 p.m. in the stadium. The Irish will line up against Notre Dame roster, and they will forgo the scrimmages in order to heal completely - linebacker Mike Kovalski (knee sprain), safety Joe Johnson (foot infection), tight end Ricky Elston (ankle sprain) and defensive tackle Tony Roos (ankle strain). Lantz, however, does not think the youth of the line will be a problem.

"We will have a good football player, and he has complete confidence in his ability."
