The Observer

VOL XIX, NO. 24

The independent student newspaper serving Notre Dame and Saint Mary's

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1984

Heifer project — page 8

Smaller-scale bust of Rockne stolen

BY MARGARET FOSMOE

Staff Reporter

Rockne's gone again.

Three days after the missing bronze bust of legendary Notre Dame football coach Knute Rockne was mysteriously returned at a pep rally, a small replica of the statue has vanished from Rockne Memorial. The smaller bust had been pedaled to the foyer of Rockne Memorial since the original bust disappeared last spring.

Director of Security Glenn Terry believes Monday night's heist may have been "a prank," and a lock had to be removed before the figure was taken. "They may have had a smaller knife when they broke it," said Terry. Terry noted that a jack-o-lantern and two handwritten notes on the pedestal after taking the bust "sometime prior to 5:58 a.m." Monday, said Terry.

One note reads "Here's a buck for your troubles," according to Terry. Terry would not release the contents of the second note.

Members of the Rockne memorial staff were responsible for the installation of the smaller bust after the original theft last spring, according to Terry. Security did not have a key to the lock, he said.

Meanwhile, the original Rockne bust, which surfaced at Friday night's pep rally, was turned over to Rockne Memorial officials yesterday. Terry would not say whether the bust would be reinstated in the foyer since the replica has disappeared.

The campus security office continues to investigate the case, said Terry. "I think this is anything more than a prank," he said.

Little Sibs weekend may be back this year

BY LORI ZAFF

Neat Staff

This year's Little Sibs Weekend Committee believes the weekend has a good chance of being approved by the Campus Life Council in spite of the problems encountered in its debut weekend two years ago.

The committee provides the chance for younger siblings of Notre Dame students to visit and enjoy the campus. After the first Little Sibs Weekend, the council rejected plans for future weekends when they discovered many of the "little sibs" were going to bars and parties and being "inappropriate in their behavior toward others." The issue will be brought up again at tomorrow's meeting, said health and counseling committee chairman Frederic Syburg.

"The guidelines don't mean you may not have activities; they do mean that when you do these events, these are the guidelines you must follow," he said.

Pelligrino said the alcohol policy see O-C events, page 5

Alcohol policy to cover O-C events

BY ANNE GALLAGHER

Staff Reporter

The Dillon Hall Screw-Your-Roommate/Booze Cruise, which was scheduled for this past weekend, was cancelled in response to a published statement by the administration stating that such events were not in keeping with the University's new alcohol policy.

"It is a new piece of paper we issued," noted Father Franck Cafferelli, associate vice president for student services. "But the logic of these guidelines is in the spirit and intent of the alcohol policy.""A number of people have been looking for a way to keep the party time going," noted Father Theodore Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame.

A human sawhorse

As junior Chris Pomiel firmly braces a wooden beam, Saint Mary's student Suzanne Dunlap saws away at it with a carpenter's flair. Student volunteers are helping to build the set for the play "The Hot House," to be put on by the Notre Dame/Saint Mary's Theatre on Oct. 5-6 and 11-13. The play, directed by Frederic Syburg, is set in "an unnamed government institution."

Alcohol policy to cover O-C events

BY JOHN GOLDRIK, associate vice president for residence life and to provide proper identification for events, these are the guidelines you must follow. The rector and dorm managers are going to bars and parties and being "inappropriate in their behavior toward others," the committee chairman stated.

"The guidelines don't mean you may not have activities; they do mean that when you do these events, these are the guidelines you must follow," he said.

Pelligrino said the alcohol policy see O-C events, page 5

ND gradually adjusts to women since coed move in 1972

Editor's Note: This is the third of a five-part series focusing on the question of sex discrimination at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's.

Today's article looks at the history of coeducation and the lighter side of the university experience, social life. Tomorrow's story will study the possibility of discrimination in Notre Dame and Saint Mary's academic programs.

By ELLA FLOR

Senior Staff Reporter

In the Notre Dame Report of Dec. 2, 1971, it was announced that women students would be admitted to the University at the start of the next academic year. One hundred twenty-five freshmen and 240 women transfer students entered Badin and Walsh Halls for the 1972-73 school year.

University President Father Theodore Hesburgh voiced the question the community was asking when he decided to remain a separate men's school, although three years before and admit women as undergraduates. At that time Notre Dame did not have a key to the lock, he said.

Meanwhile, the original Rockne bust, which surfaced at Friday night's pep rally, was turned over to Rockne Memorial officials yesterday. Terry would not say whether the bust would be reinstated in the foyer since the replica has disappeared.

The campus security office continues to investigate the case, said Terry. "I think this is anything more than a prank," he said.

Little Sibs weekend may be back this year

BY LORI ZAFF

Neat Staff

This year's Little Sibs Weekend Committee believes the weekend has a good chance of being approved by the Campus Life Council in spite of the problems encountered in its debut weekend two years ago.

The committee provides the chance for younger siblings of Notre Dame students to visit and enjoy the campus. After the first Little Sibs Weekend, the council rejected plans for future weekends when they discovered many of the "little sibs" were going to bars and parties and being "inappropriate in their behavior toward others." The issue will be brought up again at tomorrow's meeting, said health and counseling committee chairman Frederic Syburg.

"The guidelines don't mean you may not have activities; they do mean that when you do these events, these are the guidelines you must follow," he said.

Pelligrino said the alcohol policy see O-C events, page 5

Alcohol policy to cover O-C events

BY ANNE GALLAGHER

Staff Reporter

The Dillon Hall Screw-Your-Roommate/Booze Cruise, which was scheduled for this past weekend, was cancelled in response to a published statement by the administration stating that such events were not in keeping with the University's new alcohol policy.

"It is a new piece of paper we issued," noted Father Franck Cafferelli, associate vice president for student services. "But the logic of these guidelines is in the spirit and intent of the alcohol policy.""A number of people have been looking for a way to keep the party time going," noted Father Theodore Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame.

A human sawhorse

As junior Chris Pomiel firmly braces a wooden beam, Saint Mary's student Suzanne Dunlap saws away at it with a carpenter's flair. Student volunteers are helping to build the set for the play "The Hot House," to be put on by the Notre Dame/Saint Mary's Theatre on Oct. 5-6 and 11-13. The play, directed by Frederic Syburg, is set in "an unnamed government institution."

Alcohol policy to cover O-C events

BY JOHN GOLDRIK, associate vice president for residence life and to provide proper identification for events, these are the guidelines you must follow. The rector and dorm managers are going to bars and parties and being "inappropriate in their behavior toward others," the committee chairman stated.

"The guidelines don't mean you may not have activities; they do mean that when you do these events, these are the guidelines you must follow," he said.
The Observer

Wednesday, September 26, 1984 — page 2

In Brief

Notre Dame’s College of Arts and Letters will receive a $500,000 grant from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation for the endowment and a specific program of faculty development, according to Professor Timothy O’Meara, University provost. The grant will fund faculty development over the next three years. The other half, ap­plied toward the establishment, will require a three-to-one match of gifts to the University, which will establish a $1 million endowment for faculty development. “This one award gives tremen­dous momentum to the Institute for Scholarship in the Liberal Arts,” said Michael Louis, dean of the College of Arts and Letters. “As matching for this gift, it will establish a substantial program of faculty devel­opment for the future.” — The Observer

Of Interest

“Understanding Eating Problems” is the title of a panel discussion to take place tonight from 7 to 8:30 in Carroll Hall at Saint Mary’s. Panel members include Dr. Daniel Rybicki, clinical psychologist and director of HOCPE (Healthy Op­tions for Problem Eaters) at Memorial Hospital in South Bend; Molly Sullivan, director of the alcohol education office at Saint Mary’s; and Nancy Schosseman, assistant director of counseling and career de­velopment at the College. The presentation is sponsored by Saint Mary’s counseling and career development center. — The Observer

Former Notre Dame all-American and Na­tional Football League star Alan Carroll Hall at Saint Mary’s. Carroll, tonight, with the high in the upper 60s. Partly cloudy and cool tonight, with some light rain expected in the extreme northwest quadrant of the state. — The Observer

The Semester Around the World program will hold an informational meeting tonight at 7 in Room 348 Madeleva Hall. All interested Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s students are invited to attend. — The Observer

The German Club is holding a meeting in the lobby of LaFortune tonight at 8. All students interested in the club are welcome to attend. — The Observer

A bus trip to the Art Institute of Chicago on Thursday, Nov. 1, will provide an opportunity to view a special exhibition of 137 Impressionist paintings from American and European collec­tions, including works from the Jeu de Paume in Paris. The show, titled “A Day in the Country: Impressionism and the French Landscape,” brings together major works by Monet, Renoir, Cezanne, Gauguin, Seurat, van Gogh, and other important 19th­century French painters in what is considered one of the most significant Impressionist exhibitions of the 20th century. The cost of the ND trip will be $15, which includes round-trip bus fare, admis­sions to the Art Institute, and a special audio-guided tour. The bus will leave from the CCE at 9 a.m. and return at approximately 8 p.m. Anyone wishing to reserve a place on the trip should see Annie Eis­ley in McNichols, room 126, between 8 a.m. and noon. All reserva­tions must be paid for by Sept. 28. There will be no refunds. Spaces on the bus are limited so students are urged to sign up immediately. The trip will be sponsored by the department of art, history and design. — The Observer

Weather

Mostly cloudy and cool today, with the high in the upper 50s and lower 60s. Partly cloudy and cool tonight, with the low in the low to mid 50s. A 50 per­cent chance of rain and cool temperatures tomorrow, with the high in the mid 60s. — AP

The Observer

The 5 cornerstones of student life

Dan McCullough

News Editor

For decades, the decades on Five Corners have been an important aspect of Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s social life. They have been places where old friends could hang out together and new friends could become acquainted.

While the murder of Corby Taven owner Harold Rowley by the summer nearly put an end to one of the traditions in the center of campus and often inbra­vado, the man who opened the bar, Rowley’s widow, Rose, opened the bar before the first home football weekend. Two nights later, the interior was swept and straightened out, and the doors of bars and taverns opened in time for the thirty Notre Dame fans Friday night.

Old alumni remembered and first-time patrons were welcomed to attend. — The Observer

Of Interest

“Understanding Eating Problems” is the title of a panel discussion to take place tonight from 7 to 8:30 in Carroll Hall at Saint Mary’s. Panel members include Dr. Daniel Rybicki, clinical psychologist and director of HOCPE (Healthy Op­tions for Problem Eaters) at Memorial Hospital in South Bend; Molly Sullivan, director of the alcohol education office at Saint Mary’s; and Nancy Schosseman, assistant director of counseling and career de­velopment at the College. The presentation is sponsored by Saint Mary’s counseling and career development center. — The Observer

Former Notre Dame all-American and Na­tional Football League star Alan Carroll Hall at Saint Mary’s. Carroll, tonight, with the high in the upper 60s. Partly cloudy and cool tonight, with some light rain expected in the extreme northwest quadrant of the state. — The Observer

The Semester Around the World program will hold an informational meeting tonight at 7 in Room 348 Madeleva Hall. All interested Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s students are invited to attend. — The Observer

The German Club is holding a meeting in the lobby of LaFortune tonight at 8. All students interested in the club are welcome to attend. — The Observer

A bus trip to the Art Institute of Chicago on Thursday, Nov. 1, will provide an opportunity to view a special exhibition of 137 Impressionist paintings from American and European collec­tions, including works from the Jeu de Paume in Paris. The show, titled “A Day in the Country: Impressionism and the French Landscape,” brings together major works by Monet, Renoir, Cezanne, Gauguin, Seurat, van Gogh, and other important 19th­century French painters in what is considered one of the most significant Impressionist exhibitions of the 20th century. The cost of the ND trip will be $15, which includes round-trip bus fare, admis­sions to the Art Institute, and a special audio-guided tour. The bus will leave from the CCE at 9 a.m. and return at approximately 8 p.m. Anyone wishing to reserve a place on the trip should see Annie Eis­ley in McNichols, room 126, between 8 a.m. and noon. All reserva­tions must be paid for by Sept. 28. There will be no refunds. Spaces on the bus are limited so students are urged to sign up immediately. The trip will be sponsored by the department of art, history and design. — The Observer

Weather

Mostly cloudy and cool today, with the high in the upper 50s and lower 60s. Partly cloudy and cool tonight, with the low in the low to mid 50s. A 50 per­cent chance of rain and cool temperatures tomorrow, with the high in the mid 60s. — AP

The Observer

The Observer (ISSN 559-2600) is published weekly by The Observer, Inc., 655 N. Notre Dame, South Bend, Indiana 46614. The Observer is published by the students of the University of Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s College. Subscription may be purchased for $15 per year (50¢ per copy) by writing The Observer, P.O. Box 162, Notre Dame, Indiana 46556. The Observer is a member of The Associated Press. All reproduction rights are reserved.

The 5 cornerstones of student life

Dan McCullough

News Editor

For decades, the decades on Five Corners have been an important aspect of Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s social life. They have been places where old friends could hang out together and new friends could become acquainted.

While the murder of Corby Taven owner Harold Rowley by the summer nearly put an end to one of the traditions in the center of campus and often inbra­vado, the man who opened the bar, Rowley’s widow, Rose, opened the bar before the first home football weekend. Two nights later, the interior was swept and straightened out, and the doors of bars and taverns opened in time for the thirty Notre Dame fans Friday night.

Old alumni remembered and first-time patrons were welcomed to attend. — The Observer

Of Interest

“Understanding Eating Problems” is the title of a panel discussion to take place tonight from 7 to 8:30 in Carroll Hall at Saint Mary’s. Panel members include Dr. Daniel Rybicki, clinical psychologist and director of HOCPE (Healthy Op­tions for Problem Eaters) at Memorial Hospital in South Bend; Molly Sullivan, director of the alcohol education office at Saint Mary’s; and Nancy Schosseman, assistant director of counseling and career de­velopment at the College. The presentation is sponsored by Saint Mary’s counseling and career development center. — The Observer

Former Notre Dame all-American and Na­tional Football League star Alan Carroll Hall at Saint Mary’s. Carroll, tonight, with the high in the upper 60s. Partly cloudy and cool tonight, with some light rain expected in the extreme northwest quadrant of the state. — The Observer

The Semester Around the World program will hold an informational meeting tonight at 7 in Room 348 Madeleva Hall. All interested Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s students are invited to attend. — The Observer

The German Club is holding a meeting in the lobby of LaFortune tonight at 8. All students interested in the club are welcome to attend. — The Observer

A bus trip to the Art Institute of Chicago on Thursday, Nov. 1, will provide an opportunity to view a special exhibition of 137 Impressionist paintings from American and European collec­tions, including works from the Jeu de Paume in Paris. The show, titled “A Day in the Country: Impressionism and the French Landscape,” brings together major works by Monet, Renoir, Cezanne, Gauguin, Seurat, van Gogh, and other important 19th­century French painters in what is considered one of the most significant Impressionist exhibitions of the 20th century. The cost of the ND trip will be $15, which includes round-trip bus fare, admis­sions to the Art Institute, and a special audio-guided tour. The bus will leave from the CCE at 9 a.m. and return at approximately 8 p.m. Anyone wishing to reserve a place on the trip should see Annie Eis­ley in McNichols, room 126, between 8 a.m. and noon. All reserva­tions must be paid for by Sept. 28. There will be no refunds. Spaces on the bus are limited so students are urged to sign up immediately. The trip will be sponsored by the department of art, history and design. — The Observer

Weather

Mostly cloudy and cool today, with the high in the upper 50s and lower 60s. Partly cloudy and cool tonight, with the low in the low to mid 50s. A 50 per­cent chance of rain and cool temperatures tomorrow, with the high in the mid 60s. — AP

The Observer

The Observer (ISSN 559-2600) is published weekly by The Observer, Inc., 655 N. Notre Dame, South Bend, Indiana 46614. The Observer is published by the students of the University of Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s College. Subscription may be purchased for $15 per year (50¢ per copy) by writing The Observer, P.O. Box 162, Notre Dame, Indiana 46556. The Observer is a member of The Associated Press. All reproduction rights are reserved.
Owners of locations of off-campus events must agree to responsibility

By SCOTT BEARY
News Staff

Under the new alcohol policy, owners of the location of an off-campus hall-sponsored activity must take responsibility or the event cannot take place, according to John Goldrick, associate vice president for residence life.

Goldrick was yesterday's Hall President's Council meeting, along with Father Francis Cafarelli, associate vice president for student services and Sister Jean Lenz, associate vice president for student affairs, fielded questions on the newly implemented alcohol policy and the ultimate responsibility for such events.

With this agreement the halls and Notre Dame would not be liable. Although there was some skepticism about owners taking such responsibility, Dr. Goldrick said he "saw no reason why they wouldn't agree."

It was stressed, however, that hall presidents should be completely aware of what they are undertaking. If a mishap should take place, the president must have made an effort to avoid it or responsibility could be placed back on the hall. Cafarelli said "the processes of law seeks responsibility," so there must be proof of an effort to uphold the law should an infraction take place.

All three encouraged hall presidents to be aware of possible infractions at off-campus events and to be mindful of hall events as well.

Goldrick was questioned about students bringing alcohol in by car. Security has been stopping some individuals carrying alcohol, according to one hall president.

Goldrick said a letter has been sent to security in order to change this procedure. He asked that guards use good judgment in deciding whether or not the amount being brought in is excessive.

To insure a strong relationship between the committee and the administration, Madden will be talking to John Goldrick, associate vice president for residence life, to remove any problems before they come up.

In addition to the work of Madden, help from the alumni clubs and the sophomore class will play key roles in building this year's program. Many of the members of the sophomore class came to the campus as "little sibs" and Jim Domagalski, class president, will be working closely with the committee in its attempt to strengthen past weaknesses.

Wednesday, September 26, 1984
Coed continued from page 1

with Saint Mary's would never be allowed at Notre Dame. He hoped any foolish rivalries between the women of the two schools would never begin, but that friendships would flourish between the campuses.

In a recent discussion with Burtchaell, now a professor of theology, Henbury said he remembered from the beginning between the two groups of women. In contrast, he thought the relationship between Notre Dame men and women was never strained.

Burtchaell believed coeducation was "the best thing that has happened to Notre Dame in years."

Burtchaell said the first women at Notre Dame were concerned with academics and would have been insolated if anyone suggested they were at Notre Dame for any other reason, including the social life.

The Advisory Committee on Coeducation allowed no favoritism, such as special accommodations, according to Burtchaell. They did however, allow special arrangements such as the installation of laundry machines in women's halls. Freshman Marlen Zloza from Saint Mary's toured Badin Hall in 1972 and when asked what she thought of it as a woman's hall, she said, "I'd never want to live there, it's a pit."

After the announcement that Whale and Baldr were to be the first two women's dorms, men from both halls protested strongly and criticized the administration for ignoring a study which termed the halls unsuitable for women, according to a 1972 Observer article.

Sister John Mirtam Jones, assistant to the provost, liked the facilities. She said "the girls who come here will pick up the Notre Dame flavor fast. They (the dorms) are not overfeminized and add a women's personal touch."

Since the early years of coeducation the number of under-graduate women at Notre Dame has increased so that eight of Notre Dame's 25 dorms are women's halls.

Before Notre Dame went coed, drinking was not allowed in public rooms because of Indiana law. Approximately 10 years ago, however, drinking became permissible in private rooms. It gradually developed into the main focus of campus social life, according to Jones.

Because the drinking age was then 18 in Michigan, students were taking great risks driving back to campus at night. Jones said the administration preferred that the students "learn to drink" on campus where they were safe and people cared about them.

While the philosophy worked for three to four years, Jones said, students began abusing this generosity. In the late 1970's, Sister Jean Lenz, then rector of Farley Hall, said some rectors asked for the establishment of a party room. As parties were becoming concentrated in students' rooms and the hallways, quickly becoming uncontrollable. Although some rectors were against this idea, foreseeing difficulties, others, especially in the men's dorms, wanted this alternative.

Lenz said the "party room" emerged so rectors could have more control over large parties, enforcing party guidelines.

Most upperclassmen today are familiar with campus social life before the alcohol policy, which for both Notre Dame and Saint Mary's women's often consisted in traveling in groups from party to party and from dorm to dorm. Men were not allowed to go to parties outside their dorms unless invited, although women could go to any men's or women's party.

Last year, in an attempt to reduce the "party-hopping" syndrome, the President's Council began a policy requiring men to change women's Health at their parties. But the low attendance at women's parties remained.

"Women are essentially creative," Jones said. If they come up with some creative ideas, she believes that men will go along with them.

Both Student Activities and the Hall President's Council are working to provide alternatives. Two events which have been successful this year are the Freshman Movie Caro Night and the Transfer Student Night at Senior Bar. Roger Parent, mayor of South Bend, is helping provide activities in the South Bend area such as the Ear Raceway.

IMPORTED LEATHERS

Linea-1.

Gifts & Coffee Shop 1631 E. Edison Rd. (Near Univ. ND) (219) 277-4983

Serving: Espresso - Cappuccino - Pastries - Sandwiches

GET IN THE GAME

It's fourth and goal and you've got the ball. Make your move to the first team. The National Security Agency offers you an all-pro career opportunity in the following fields:

ELECTRONIC ENGINEERING There are opportunities in a variety of research and development projects ranging from individual microprocessors to very complex interactive systems involving large numbers of microprocessors, minicomputers and computer graphics. Professional growth is enhanced through interaction with highly experienced NSA professionals and through contacts in the industrial and academic worlds. Facilities for engineering analysis and design automation are among the best available.

COMPUTER SCIENCE At NSA you'll discover one of the largest computer installations in the world with almost every major vendor of computer equipment represented. NSA provides career opportunities in computer science design, applications and design, systems analysis and design, scientific applications programming, data base management systems, operating systems, computer networking, security, and graphics.

MATHEMATICS You'll work on diverse agency problems applying a variety of mathematical disciplines. Specific assignments might include solving communications-related problems, performing long-range mathematical research or evaluating new techniques for communications security.

LINGUISTS At NSA offers a wide range of challenging assignments for Slavic, Near Eastern and Asian language majors involving translation, transcription and analysis/reporting. Newly-hired linguists can count on receiving advanced training in their primary language(s) and can plan on many years of continued professional growth.

The REWARDS At NSA offers a salary and benefit program that's truly competitive with private industry. There are assignments for those who wish to travel and enjoy good living in the Baltimore-Washington area for those who wish to stay close to home. Countless cultural, historical, recreational and educational opportunities are just minutes away from NSA's convenient suburban location.

To find out more about NSA career opportunities, schedule an interview through your college placement office. For additional information on the National Security Agency, write to National Security Agency, Attn: M322, Fort George G. Meade, Maryland 20703.
Kremlin attacks U.S. arms control proposals

Associated Press

MOSCOW - The official Soviet news agency Tass yesterday rejected President Reagan's assurances of a U.S. desire for arms cuts as "absolutely groundless," and the top Kremlin leader charged the White House has no real desire for better ties with Moscow.

The president tried to present in a somewhat modified form the selfsame policy aimed at further aggravating international tension, achieving military superiority and interfering in the internal affairs of other states," the news agency Tass said.

The Tass report and a speech by Soviet President Konstantin U. Chernenko made clear the Soviets are not retreating on major East-West disputes, despite milder U.S. rhetoric and Reagan's scheduled meeting Friday with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

In a speech to the Jubilee meeting of the 50-year-old Winters Union, Chernenko renewed charges that the Reagan administration is responsible for what the Kremlin calls an "increased nuclear war threat."

Chernenko, in his first major speech since last spring, also charged that Washington is conducting "psychological warfare" against the Soviet Union. And he attacked Soviet writers to join the "ideological struggle" and issued new warnings that those who "blacken" the image of the state won't be tolerated.

Chernenko's speech was shown on the main Soviet evening news program. The tape ran 22 minutes and the 75-year-old leader displayed the breathing difficulties he usually has while speaking in public.

O-C events continued from page 1

 isn't clear enough concerning offcampus events, and that some memorandum should have been published long ago detailing such information.

"It was really unfair," Pellegrino said. "We lost a lot of money on the tickets, D.J., buses, and the down payment on the boat. I guess they saw what they didn't like, namely a house cruise, and ended it."

Although Pellegrino believes his dorm was a victim of an afterthe fact decision, Cafarelli sees the guidelines as beneficial to the students.

"We are actually trying to protect the students. For instance, in the Dillon Hall SBY case, Bernie and Kevin (O'Brien, co-president of Dillon), could have been named co-defendants if anything had happened. In fact, anyone who attended the house cruise could have been held liable if another person had been injured."

Goldrick and Cafarelli both expressed concern that the incidents could extend beyond the civil level of the law and include the criminal realm. "After the lawsuits are settled, there's a family out a kid. That's a situation that can't be solved," said Goldrick.

Both administrators believe that the alcohol policy is a reflection of the times, and is concurrent with many state laws concerning alcohol consumption in the U.S. The same discrepancies that arise within the state laws surrounding alcohol have arisen on campus, according to Cafarelli.

"It is so typical of the law that someone wants a further explanation; that's the law," Cafarelli concluded.

MACINTOSH USERS!

-MacClub Meeting-

Students & Faculty Welcome!

6:00p.m. THURS, 9/27
LaFortune Little Theatre

For the latest election news get!

THE NEW YORK TIMES
DELIVERED ANYWHERE ON CAMPUS
for 35¢ a day

Contact George Devenny 283-2094
145 Stanford

The Knights of the Castle

Men's Hair Styling at its finest minutes from campus

$5

HaIRCUTS

Hair must be Shampooed day of cut.
We are only minutes from campus.
Presenting the hard facts on abortion

"We are not won by arguments that we can achieve victory by zone and among the manner which is the main man." - Samuel Butler

After birth, life is only for food, care, and housing. I abortions, which end the child's existence. It is formed. The outer-layer of skin hour systems are functional. It breathes, swallows, and moves. By 63 days, it can grasp an object in the palm complete, in cartilage, not bone. Here, the mouth, kidney, liver, and umbilical cord. At conception, the fetus has different chromosomal makeup from either of its parents. At 18 weeks, birth is birth. The fetus further differentiates itself from its mother. It can have a different blood type, be of a different gender, and can replace its placental cells.

By 25 days from conception, the unborn child's heart begins to beat. By 30 days, its quarter-inch long body has a brain, eyes, ears, and limbs. By 45 days, the unborn child's skeleton is completely developed. But, not born. Here, movement begins, although another 12 weeks will pass before its mother notices any. By 63 days, it can grasp an object in the palm. By 75 days and by 10 weeks its feet are fully formed.

At eight weeks, it can swim freely in the amniotic fluid and has a natural swimmers stroke. At 11 weeks, all of the unborn child's organ systems are functional. It breathes, swallows, digests, and urinates. It is very sensitive to pain and will respond to noise. If its amniotic fluid is sweetened, it will turn to sugars.

In short, it sleeps and wakes. It will be alive at birth, at which point 41 of the 45 generations of cell division have taken place. The remaining four are left to childhood and adolescence.

It is dependent on its mother before and after birth only for food, care, and housing. I suggest therefore birth is a change in environment and not the birth of the unborn child's "it," you can decide if it's a human being.

Having described the unborn child's life in the womb, let me now detail the methods which end it. At least 75 percent of all abortions are performed by dilation and curettage. Like the suction method, used for first trimester abortions, D & C acts as a vacuum to remove the child from the womb. Another method is saline injection where the unborn infant's outer-layer of skin is burned and he dies an hour later from poisoning and he no longer breathes.

Since 1973, there has been a 150-fold increase in abortions only a 15-fold reduction in the number of illegal abortions. Before 1973, 80 to 90 percent of all abortions were performed by doctors. So to eliminate one illegal abortion, over 18 legal abortions have been performed.

The number of deaths resulting from illegal abortions in 1973 according to U.S. Public Health figures was 56. A study of 5,500 rape cases in Memphis Tennessee hospitals showed that one case resulting in pregnancy. And a U.S. government report in 1981 showed that the federal government paid funds for 15 abortions due to rape or incest. In short, pregnancy rarely results from rape.

A University of Southern California study showed no positive correlation between child abuse and unwanted pregnancies (91 percent of the abused children were the result of unplanned pregnancies.) To replace U.S. population, there must be 2.1 births per family. Today each family reproduces 1.8 births per family. Further, people do not exist for the benefit of the ecosystem. The economy exists for them. The problem in the world is not a lack of resources, but a mislocation of those resources.

In a recent year, the number of applicants willing to adopt an infant exceeded the number available by eight to one. Seven percent of women had abortions had one in the last 12 months. Clearly, adoption and education can replace abortion.

Abortion sets a precedent which leads to further. By allowing abortion, America has begun to recognize that the quality of life ethic. Once human life is no longer sacred, where do we draw the line? Where do we stop recognizing human life, while abortion is the cessation of life. A difference Cuomo does not claim they do not have a right to life as Lamm and C does not recognize.

According to the latest Newswatch poll, 41 percent of those questioned support President Reagan's position on abortion, while only 35 percent favor Walter Mondale's. Governor Cuomo said we should have a consensus before acting. Historically, before the 1973 decision to legalize abortion, there was no majority favoring abortion. If there had been, the abortionists would not have used the courts and the political system to further their wishes. They would have used the Congress.

The right movement used the courts to change the laws. After the law had been changed, opinion changed. Attitudes followed authority. So why should pro-lifers not use the same means to change the law and further the right-to-life ethic? History repeats itself, although Mario Cuomo would like to make pro-lifers think they are somehow imposing their values on society in a different way than the abortionists of the Roe vs. Wade era.

Finally, I am an active democrat, but I am proudly a pro-lifer. I believe not only in women's rights, but in the rights of all. To me, liberty and life are all one and the same. You cannot have one without the other. To quote Martin Luther King, whose life and death helped bring liberty to an oppressed people: "Here I stand. Will you stand with me?"

Joseph Murphy is a sophomore in the College of Arts & Letters and is the assistant Viewpoint editor of The Observer.
People must believe abortion is wrong

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to Terry Donovan's guest column on Caumo's speech. I think that she has missed one of the main points of Mr. Caumo's speech. She has failed to touch on the reality of abortion. I think we can all agree that no one who has an abortion likes or wants to kill their child. That is not the case for most abortions. The reason is that the mother and father simply don't have the means to care for the child and believe (rightly or wrongly) that the abortion is in everyone's best interest. Caumo varies the way to stop abortion to provide alternatives. In other words, provide money for the care of the child and the continued education and job training of the mother and father if necessary so the mother and father believe that the child has a chance at a decent life in the world. When these opportunities are available to everyone, then serious debate on the legislation concerning abortion can truly begin.

If we ban abortion before alternatives are available, the abortions will not stop, they will simply become more dangerous because of lack of safety and qualified doctors to perform the operation. Because it is not the abortio of people who can afford it that we can realistically prevent, but those of the least fortune. Until the rest of the community is willing to lend a helping hand to those in need, legislation against abortion could just be counterproductive.

I would like to point out for the benefit of the readers that slavery did not end because Lincoln or anyone else with power believed in the personhood of blacks (which is a major emphasis in Caumo's speech), they thought slavery was wrong. Lincoln himself believed blacks were inferior people and that they didn't even deserve to vote.

Michael Frongia
Dillion Hall

Forgotten freshmen of Pasquerella West

Dear Editor:

This letter is written from room 200 Pasquerella West. You may never have heard of room 200 Pasquerella West because it technically does not exist, but it is a mere fragment of the administration's imagination. Perhaps the room does exist (as a "study lounge") yet its occupants doubt their own physical presence at Notre Dame. If you don't believe me, look around you. Their temporary housing situation was the easy part of our predicament. However, we are now left to deal with the repercussions.

While freshmen accepted at an earlier date received all the necessary information (order form for football tickets, and more importantly, the application and submission ofphoto for the dogbook), we "secondary citizens" only received the bill for tuition, room, and board (which was the same, despite the situation). Although we realize the dogbook is an artificial means of meeting people, at least it is a way (now that parties are all but obsolete).

In conclusion, we would like to wish you all a good time at all your SYR's, semi-formals, and formals - if you've ever been in the area, feel free to stop in, we'll always be here.

Detlev Ryen
Kim R. Keggiele
-Michele U. Martin

Religion is not an alien to politics

Dear Editor:

Having left graduate work at Notre Dame for one semester in order to teach history at a seminary in the placid hills of southern Indiana, I feel a familiar mingling of musing and dismay as I read student articles and letters in the Observer on the stormy subject of religion and politics. Chris Caumo juxtaposes Governor Caumo with those pious Germans who refused to speak out against Hitler. Michael Quinlan charges the New Yorker with not standing for "the profound moral success for a Catholic requires the surrender of one's values at least those values which are not indefensible." No serious Christian will contend that America is not an essentially religious persuasion and will refrain from taking stands on public questions. Moreover, few will contend that distinctly Christian positions never enter into reference to matters that demand an essentially moral response. One thinks of slavery and fascism. Caumo and Quinlan are correct in contending that the world of religion is not wholly alien to the world of politics. There is a sense in which reality must always be experienced as a seamless web; hence, one's morality will in one sense always suffice one's thinking on everything else. Still, there are no ineluctably "Christian" answers to most of the great public problems of our time (or of any era). The Judeo-Christian heritage, to paraphrase Tocqueville's description of an abstraction, is like a box with a false bottom. One can put into the heritage whatever one pleases and then take it out again without anyone having noticed. One can easily quote St. Thomas Aquinas, for instance, to consecrate freedom of choice regarding abortion as to justify a legal ban on the same. People who struggle to make sense of the world must select a religion as a sub-branch of moral theology usually turn out to be cenobitic, self-righteous and one-dimensional, not so much as religious thinking. They forget that politics is essentially an obscure and intricate scramble between competing interests, rather than a sub-branch of moral theology usually turn out to be cenobitic, self-righteous and one-dimensional, and as such a very important issue.

We left something out of the Constitution

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to Governor Caumo's speech on defending his abortion public policy disagreement with him. Caumo: "Catholic public officials take an oath to preserve the Constitution...not because they love what others do with freedom, but because they realize that in guaranteeing freedom for all, they guarantee our rights to be Catholics."

In our constitution many rights are stated in a very ambiguous way that is not the issue of nuclear disarmament? We have enough power in the nuclear weapons to destroy the world, we need to stop this. This is a very important issue. Although we realize the situation, we will contend that the child and believe (rightly or wrongly) that the abortion is a very important issue.

Michele U. Martin

Appalled by the juvenile behavior

Dear Editor:

We were appalled by the juvenile behavior displayed by some unruly individuals as expressed through the defacement of several buildings on the campus this weekend. We realize that many may feel that a void has been created by the alteration of the social life, but we don't feel that it is necessary to stoop to such a low level of behavior to fill idle time.

Up until this point, with few exceptions, we have been relatively impressed by the quality and calibre of students at this university, however, this "prank" has led us to believe that perhaps there are still a few people around that have not mastered past the grade school level mentality required to perpetrate such a want. All, they guarantee our rights to be Catholics."

We can only hope that in the revealing light of dawn these "artists" were as distressed as we to see the havoc that they wrecked.

Signed by 26 South Quad Residents

Religion is not an alien to politics

Dear Editor:

I am writing to respond to Governor Caumo's speech on defending his abortion public policy disagreement with him. Caumo: "Catholic public officials take an oath to preserve the Constitution...not because they love what others do with freedom, but because they realize that in guaranteeing freedom for all, they guarantee our rights to be Catholics."

In our constitution many rights are stated in a very ambiguous way that is not the issue of nuclear disarmament? We have enough power in the nuclear weapons to destroy the world, we need to stop this. This is a very important issue.

Michele U. Martin

Appalled by the juvenile behavior

Dear Editor:

We were appalled by the juvenile behavior displayed by some unruly individuals as expressed through the defacement of several buildings on the campus this weekend. We realize that many may feel that a void has been created by the alteration of the social life, but we don't feel that it is necessary to stoop to such a low level of behavior to fill idle time.

Up until this point, with few exceptions, we have been relatively impressed by the quality and calibre of students at this university, however, this "prank" has led us to believe that perhaps there are still a few people around that have not mastered past the grade school level mentality required to perpetrate such a want. All, they guarantee our rights to be Catholics."

We can only hope that in the revealing light of dawn these "artists" were as distressed as we to see the havoc that they wrecked.

Signed by 26 South Quad Residents

Many issues need to be considered

Dear Editor:

Since I have been on campus, many of the political and social issues have centered around the single issue of abortion. I think it's time to add a little variety to your column. I think that we all should consider that the campaign this fall is not a single issue campaign! There are many other important issues to consider and discuss rather than always discussing abortion.

Instead, why don't we consider where each candidate stands on other issues? Such as the control of military spending and its importance to national security? We have enough power in the nuclear weapons to destroy the world, we need to stop this. This is a very important issue.

Let's also consider the troubles that are going on in Central America. Do those countries need our help in the form of guns, bombs and such? Or do they need our help in the form of food for their starving and homes for those that have been displaced? Is not the world concerned about being "tough" on the Soviets and Communists? So much so, that we have lost our perspective in the arena of international relations.

Second, is it always the deficit to fall back on. Should it really be this large? It's terrible to turn our back on such an encouraging issue. Is no important to the economic health and stability of our nation. Can our economy survive for a while? Don't we need to concern exactly what has been done about it?

How can we expect students to do programs? We as Catholics should consider such subjects as civil rights, social security, prorata for the aged, the disabled, and to feed the children of economically deprived children? We should be giving these issues the concern they deserve!

Finally, don't we talk about the environment for a while? Don't we need to consider our environment for our enjoyment and the enjoyment of our children? We have been using it for our enjoyment and the enjoyment of our children. Shouldn't we be doing something more about pollution control, acid rain and toxic wastes that threaten our health and our lives? I haven't seen much done in the past few years. What about these very important concerns, have you?

I think that we, as somewhat educated people, should consider the importance of the campaign and not focus our attention on any single issue of abortion. We have an important presidential election, that we are Democrats or Republicans. We are all Americans, and we should vote for the candidate that is most concerned for the equality of all people, no matter where they are or who they are.

Mary LaSata
Regina Hall

PUBLIC
OPINION
POLLS

PHOTO
BY MIKE
NAUGL

Save a tree, don't write a rebuttal

Dear Sirs:

In reply to Tim O'Brien's letter regarding Frank Theby and Nancy John's letter regarding Marie Ramirez's article regarding freemasons, I would like to say (that now I can't remember) Oh yeah, what we believe in is truth. My God! It is important, that is right really important, you bet it's important, it's as important as your being on a diet. It is something as important as this important issue? Yes sir, it important all right. As we have to have a solution to this important issue. Take the entire freshman class and break it into two teams, the captains of one team will be Marie Ramirez and the captain of the other will be Chris Skrroz. Each team will be armed with a collection of no bareless insults, five cheap shots, and limited supplies of letters to the editor. The game will be terminated when team with fewest knowledge are taking themselves too seriously or when members die of old age, whichever comes first.

I openly acknowledge that this letter is heresy, stop and the result of brain rot. Therefore...SAVE A TREE, DO NOT WRITE A REBUTTAL.

Mike Naughton
Piano Fund
The school year ends. Crews of workmen roll huge tarps over the halls of Notre Dame. The Administration Building is encased in plastic, to guard against nails and scratches. The students, dressed in summer clothes, are returned to their cages. The campus waits, silent and empty, gathering cobwebs until next September.

Well, maybe not. Try this scenario instead.

The students, bussed from late night studying for finals, stagger out of their dorm rooms, and vanish softly and silently away. The campus breathes a sigh of relief and buckles down for the real action.

Summer school is, of course, a main part of this action.

Professors, instead of looking seats on the next flight to the French Riviera or dusting off their inner sabers, polish up their notes and sharpen their chalk.

Summer school at Notre Dame is a curious blend of very basic courses and graduate level studies. The student body for the summer consists of high school and graduate students, with a scattering of undergrads who either desperately need credits or just want to keep their hands in.

The hours are longer, and the pace a little faster. The classes are smaller, and involve more discussion than most. But while these students swelter in classrooms, even more goes on outside.

The major event, hailed with much fanfare and hoopla, is the week the Wally Byam trailer people come to campus. Hundreds of silver trailers (antique and modern) come to the campus to reduce air resistance, stream onto campus and proceed to set up housekeeping.

I’ve been told that the Airstream trailers are the creme de la creme of trailer people. I’ve never seen one yet. After a while, you get longing for more expensive. Their proud occupants set off flag next to their campers. Almost every trailer has three: an American flag, one showing their state of origin, and another with the traditionally Wally Byam emblem. Wally Byam is, I gather, the man who started the whole thing.

I don’t know where they go after they depart. Perhaps they wander to some other campus, or else cruise the highways of America in an endless search for some unimaginitive Wally Byam Truth. If the goes on in the mind of someone who drives thousands of miles of sit in a parking lot in the middle of South Bend, Indiana! Do they show surface of their vacation here? Do they display their souvenirs of Notre Dame on their mural? Where are they when they’re not here? The only time of year I glimpse one of those silver shapes is while they’re crossing over on campus.

Perhaps Notre Dame is sacrosanct to them. Like the fabled Elephants’ Graveyard, the Golden Dome may be regarded as the sacred meeting place of the Airstream travelers.

Soon after they tangle out, however, another incredible phenomenon takes their place. American Youth On Parade. It boggles the mind. What does this name mean? Why are they on parade? Why do they parade at Notre Dame?

For whatever reason, they do arrive. And for yet another week the campus is infested, but with a totally different breed. Children who do not go to Arkansas for fall break will work about eight hours a day, beginning around six or eight in the morning. Their chores will include working with the animals, painting and carpentry work.

Non-working hours can be spent learning more about the economics of the project or hiking through the farm’s beautiful 1,200 acre expanse. The farm is about a 1 1/2 hour drive from Notre Dame, just north of Little Rock. The farm for the week will be less than $40, with the participa­tion buying and preparing their own food, while staying at a large house on the farm.

Although HPI is founded upon Christian beliefs, the project is interdenominational. Generally the Protestant churches and different interdenominational church organizations that partici­pate have their members fulfill a mandatory week of service for a week at the farm.

The actual results can be seen in the successful areas of Ecuador, South Korea and Japan. People who may be interested in learning more about this alternative for fall break, there will be a meeting this Wednesday night at 8 in the Center for Social Con­cerns. If you want to go, bring less of enthusiasm and ... your overalls!

Wednesday, September 26, 1984 — page 8

Showcase

ND summer — where the real action is copy editor

by Cat Francis

Heifer Project International is not a foreign study program for cows, as its name might suggest, but an Arkansas-based volunteer orga­nization which raises various types of livestock, poultry and bees to be shipped to third world countries. The healthy animals are then bred to increase herds in developing countries. The measure is seen as a hand-up, not a hand-out.

Last Tuesday the group held a meeting to inform students of the organization through discussion and a film strip on HPI’s history, and to encourage Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s students to spend their Fall break down on the farm, on the group’s trip to Arkansas. The group also outlined the different geo­graphical areas to be assisted by the project.

HPI was conceived, incredible as it may seem, by a Hoosier named Daniel West. He was working in Spain during the Spanish Civil War in 1940. He felt sad giving out the meager supplies of milk to children, as it was quickly gone, while always needed the next day. So the thought occurred to him, “why not just give them a heifer? Then the children can have milk all of the time.”

Unfortunately World War II started soon after this idea was put into action, and only one shipment of donated midwestern animals ever made it to Spain. However, the dream of the movement continued, and after the war Heifer Project International turned its attention to war-ravaged Europe and Asia. Japan received so many Project. HPI’s philosophy brings to mind that age old adage, “Give a man a fish, and he will eat for a day,” under HPI “teach a man a fish...” and he will develop a fleet of boats which will employ countless countrymen and increase his income and prestige. The Biblical similarities are apparent.

The actual results can be seen in the successful areas of Ecuador, South Korea and Japan.

Feature briefs

HPI features staff writer

DALLAS — Been looking high and low for a desk in the shape of a longhorn steer? Or maybe you’ve been prowling the stores looking for a nice chair in the shape of a spotted dog?

Look no further. The Neiman-Marcus Co. has mailed out its Christmas catalog, a traditional source of imaginative, unusual and high-priced goodies.

For the cost-conscious, the cata­log mailed out Monday features eight pages of their usual $25 and under, and four pages of presents at $10 or less. But for those with money, this year’s “his & hers” gift is a lifetime creation of a longhorn, or a horse, available for a mere $65,000. It’s made of eight exotic woods, and a fold-down desk or vanity, with shelves and drawers, is built into its side.

The spotted dog armchair, hand­carved and painted, sells for $450, while a canvas cat floor mat goes for $125.

NEW YORK — A woman on a flight from London to New York forgot that she had concealed $4,000 in her pantyhose and dropped the whole bundle down the plumbing when she visited the lavatory.

“She was somewhere beside her­self,” said a TWA spokesman who spoke on condition he not be iden­tified.

TWA report on Friday’s acci­dent said simply: “When nature called, the money went down the tube.”

After TWA’s Flight 701 landed at Kennedy Airport, the woman ex­plained her plight and two TWA ramp service­men volunteered to check at the taxiway and recovered the money.

The 40 bulls will possibly be used for beef, and returned to her, the spokesman said. The airline did not release the names of the woman or the helpful ground crew.

Phil

It’s like I keep telling Betty, Bill, one of these days something big is going to happen.”

As they conversed, they began to feel more at ease with their defects.

Scott Flora

"It’s "I" and "E" at the end of the alphabet..."
Rouse continued from page 12
lege level or at any other level of coaching.
"The athletic department says that there has never been money in the budget for a bus driver. I have always had one and they have always paid for it," stated Rouse. "I think that it is a joke, an embarrassment, that a national college cannot provide a bus driver."
His complaint is not about local games such as Beloit College, but rather concerning the trips of 150 or 200 miles one-way, or even a 700 mile round trip to Iowa.
As for recruiting, Rouse claims that the Belles probably could not even field a team without it. To back his claims he cites last year as an example. Without recruits they would have had only five or six players try for college level or at any other level of sports, but I cannot even try to convince and persuading people, they like
We sell technical products to technical people.
the freedom and mobility, they like the idea of Although Rouse says that he sent out letters, made over
al-Catholic Basketball
"I am disappointed in that I feels that one full week is a "minimal amount of preparation" for such a tournament, especially since the team will not have practiced since December 9. The present budget accounts for only five days which Rouse considers totally unacceptable.
"They could not possibly get back into shape physically and mentally in such a short time after being out that long. Even a full week is pushing it," he said.
"I am not asking for anything more, but just for the same things that I have had the past two years," Rouse adds. "The point is that if Saint Mary's wants to have a team and wants to be able to compete, they are going to have to spend little money."
Although Nester was unavailable for comment, Rouse feels that he understands his point of view, but might have her hands tied by the administration.
"I am only disappointed in that I feel she is not even going to try to evaluate this problem," commented Rouse, "and I think they are going to lose more in the long run than what little that they might gain now."
Representing the players' interest, senior captain Elaine Suess set up a meeting between her teammates and Nester which was to have taken place the next day to determine the future of a team that was scheduled to begin practice Monday.
Sues denied comment on the topic until after the adjournment of the meeting.
It appears that the ball is in the athletic department's court, because Rouse would like to continue as coach and would be willing to live with all of the lesser problems if these three main areas could be worked out. Under the present conditions, however, he stands firm in his decision to resign, and will live by it.
It only remains to be seen if Saint
Mary's can do the same.

Get the scoop
on The Observer's news department. If you've signed up for news at Activities Night, or if you're interested in joining the news staff, come to an organizational meeting, Thursday at 7 p.m. in Room 118 Nieuwland Hall. If you've got a nose for news, check it out.

NOTRE DAME GETS THIRD AT GOLF CHAMPIONSHIPS

The Notre Dame golf team placed third out of 17 teams at the Indiana Intercollegiate Golf Championships held last weekend. The Irish, with a 36-hole score of 623, finished behind Purdue and Ball State, with scores of 606 and 613, respectively.
The championships were held at the Golf Club of Indiana in Lebanon, which was rated one of the top four courses in the Hoosier state.
In the individual category, the Notre Dame finisher was freshman Rich Connelly. Connelly, who had a two-day total of 150 with scores of 74 and 76, finished fourth overall out of 65 golfers.
"I'm overjoyed with Rich's performance," says Notre Dame coach Noel O'Sullivan, "but not totally surprised. I recruited him as a young freshman recruit."
Dan Palm of Valparaiso was the medalist of the championships with a total score of 145. His 18-hole scores of par 72 and 73 were beaten by Connelly in pre-scores.
Junior captain John O'Donovan, as the second-highest Irish golfer in the individual standings, captured the tournament by his performance," comments O'Sullivan. "There's no doubt about it."
Notre Dame's Chris Bona took tenth place with a score of 154 (76," 78), giving the Irish three of the top 10 finishers.
"When you can get three players in the top 10," says O'Sullivan, "that's really saying something. I'm really proud of our guys.
"Junior John Anthony was the fourth Notre Dame finisher with a 36-hole 166. Lou Huffman rounded out the five Irish golfers with a 171.
"The putting part of Lou's game proved to be his," O'Sullivan says. "He just didn't have it last year. He'll probably never have another off day like this again in golf, you just can't afford to have right putts on greens like he did."

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, the Irish golfing contingent travels to the Midwest Regional Confederation Championships at the French Lick Golf Resort in French Lick, Ind. Notre Dame finished third at this tournament last year behind Oral Roberts and Oklahoma City, both of which have full-scholarship golf programs.

The Irish will play 54 holes during the three-day tournament and compare against the eight other schools in the conference. Junior Steve Pah-ner, winner of the Notre Dame Open, will be the sixth Notre Dame golfer at the conference championship, tying the Irish four first-time golfers at the MCCC.
By next week at this time, O'Sullivan should have a better idea of just how talented his team really is.

W
DJ
QUARTER BEERS

26

ITALIAN SUBS GO GREAT WITH QUARTER BEERS

TH
DJ
IMPORTED BEER $1

27

FIRST 20 PEOPLE - FREE NACHOS

S

HAPPY HOUR

6-8

WITH BURGERS, BRATS & DOGS

F

HOT NEW BAND

SPUNK

playing live from 10-2

UNDERGRADS

FRESHMAN NIGHT

2 VALID ID's REQUIRED
Today

Bloom County

- 4:30 p.m. - Computer
- 1 p.m. - Presentation/Reception
- Organizational Orientation
- 203 Stark
- Disclosed
- 6 Large bundle
- 24 Win the support
- 64 Kimono sashes
- 8 Large bundle
- 20
- 18 Nimbus
- 49 Md. town
- 3
- 14 Novice
- 41 Endowed with
- 35 Metric measure
- 6 Rhyme scheme
- 39 Bondage
- 71 Harness parts
- 46 Path
- 58 Rose's man
- 1 Rose's man
- 48 Farthest from
- 45 Slurring over a
- 40 Place of bliss
- 38 Place of bliss
- 27 Singer Guthrie
- 26 Soundly
- 25 Erie
- 24 Win the support of
- 23 Angsty
- 22 Stark
- 20 Discuss
- 19 Western
- 18 Nimbo
- 17 Bring down
- 16 Mythological post
- 15 Nell
- 14 Endowed with
- 13 Decorative garment part
- 12 Sty looks
- 11 City on the
- 10 Ambiguous language
- 9 Mountain
- 8 Large bundle
- 7 Long bundle
- 6 Large bundle
- 5 Eves, O'Shaughnessy Hall Loby
- 4 Greenish-blue
- 3 Soundly
- 2 Mythological post
- 1 Path

---

Campus

- 12 - 1 p.m. - Organizational Meeting, O-C Hockey, ACC Ice Rink.
- 9:30 - 10:30 a.m. - Computer Minicourse, Macintosh, Second Session, Room 104 CCMB. Available to Public, Free.
- 4 p.m. - Mathematical Colloquium, "How's the Conceptive and Some Topologically Locally Flat Surfaces in the Complex Projective Plane," Prof. Lee Rudolph, Mathematical Sciences Research, Room 226 CCMB.
- 4:15 p.m. - Philosophy Lecture, "How are Philosophical Arguments Possible?" L. J. Cohen, Queens College, Oxford, England, Room 122 Hayes Healy.
- 6:15 p.m. - Meeting, Circle K, Center for Social Concerns.
- 7 p.m. - Wednesday Night Film Series, "The Lady Eve," O'Shaughnessy Hall Loby.
- 7, 9 & 11 p.m. - SAB Film, "The Enforcer," Engineering Auditorium, Sponsored by Student Activities Board.
- 7 p.m. - Organizational Meeting, ND Student's for Reagan-Bush, 215 O'Shaughnessy, All Interested Students Are Welcome.
- 7 p.m. - Meeting, Organization of Camping Trip, Flanner Penthouse, Sponsored by Environmental Concerns Organization.
- 7 p.m. - Orientation Meeting, Volunteers Needed to Help Preschoolers, Haggag College Center, SMC, Sponsored by Head Start.
- 7:30 p.m. - German Club Meeting, LaFortune Main Floor, Sponsored by German Club.
- 7:30 p.m. - Thomas More Society of ND Lecture, "Why John Paul II's insistence on the Return to Confession," Bishop Joseph Crowley of South Bend, Little Theatre, LaFortune, Sponsored by Pope John Paul II Lecture Series.
- 8 p.m. - Organizational Meeting, Hiede Project International, Center for Social Concerns, Sponsored by Center for Social Concerns, 410 Depot for Fall Trip.
- 8 p.m. - Presentation/Reception, Accountancy Services, Main Hangman, Notre Dame Room, Morris Inn, Sponsored by Career and Placement Services, Free.

The Daily Crossword

Across

1. Show division
2. Rhyme scheme
3. Sakura
4. Wisteria
5. Bell
6. Mythological post
7. Bring down
8. Nimbo
9. Western
10. Indian
11. Discussed
12. Stark
13. Angsty
14. Win the support of
15. Family member
16. Carnival show
17. Tract

18. Actor Ron and family
19. Main measure
20. Bondage
21. Endowed with
22. Realtor's sign
23. Unlisted
24. Path
25. Experiment
26. Md. town
27. Land of Plenty
28. Support
29. Literary one
30. Disclosed
31. Good idea
32. disked
33. Kimono sashes
34. 2-year-old
35. Landmark
36. 5-year-old doares
37. Harness parts
38. 203 Stark
39. Disclosed
40. Profile
41. 51. Land of Plenty
42. 52. Tanker
43. 53. Gaze rudely
44. 54. Tanker
45. 55. Tanker
46. 56. Tanker
47. 57. Disclosed
48. 59. Tanker
49. 60. Tanker
50. 61. Playwright
51. 62. Tanker
52. 63. Gaze rudely
53. 64. Kimono sashes
54. 65. Not a soul
55. 66. Antibiotics
56. 67. Basin

Down

1. Sty looks
2. Decorative garment part
3. Intrigued
4. Erythema
5. Swinflde
6. Loathe
7. Prowess
8. Large bundle
9. Ridder
10. Ambiguous language
11. Mongolian mountain
12. Sty looks
13. Decorative garment part
14. Intrigued
15. Erythema
16. Swinflde
17. Loathe
18. Prowess
19. Large bundle
20. Ridder
21. Ambiguous language
22. Mongolian mountain
23. Sty looks
24. Decorative garment part
25. Intrigued
26. Erythema
27. Swinflde
28. Loathe
29. Prowess
30. Large bundle
31. Ridder
32. Ambiguous language
33. Mongolian mountain

54. Supposition
55. James
56. Inch
57. Theory
58. Panhandle
59. Hunter
60. Orange
61. Salem
62. Office furniture

The Daily Crossword

Tuesday's Solution

---

DIRTY HARRY WEEK continues tonight

Student Activities Board RECORD STORE

---

In LaFortune

Stop by and check it out!!

---

TV Tonight

8:00 p.m. - Movie of the Week
8:30 p.m. - New Movie
9:00 p.m. - TV Tonight

---

DIRTY HARRY WEEK continues tonight

Student Activities Board RECORD STORE

---

In LaFortune

Stop by and check it out!!

---

TV Tonight

8:00 p.m. - Movie of the Week
8:30 p.m. - New Movie
9:00 p.m. - TV Tonight
Saint Mary’s basketball coach resigns amidst budget controversy

By MARK B. JOHNSON

Amidst confusion and controversy concerning the budget allotted to his program this season, third-year coach Ray Rouse resigned yesterday as mentor of Saint Mary’s up-and-coming basketball team just days before practice was scheduled to begin.

“This was a difficult decision for me to make,” explained Rouse, “but after talking to a top national college not being able to run a basketball program.”

According to Rouse, the athletic director informed him and the other Saint Mary’s coaches of this year’s budget division last week. The budget had been approved by this prior to this week by Erin Lorenz, director of Athletics and Recreation, and is now being solely upheld by Ray Ann Nester, Lorenz’s replacement.

Problems arise in three major areas for Rouse, including the exclusion of the budget from funds for a bus driver, for recruiting, and for the full week of practice before the National Catholic Basketball Tournament after Christmas vacation.

Analyzing these three areas separately, Rouse finds the same problems at their mutual cause: the unwillingness of Saint Mary’s to spend the money that is necessary to field a varsity basketball team let alone a competitive one.

Over the past three years, the coaches have had the opportunity to drive to away contests, an option that Rouse has never taken. By stating that he feels strongly that it is not a part of his job and that it is definitely not called for at the current level.

The last three-plus years of Notre Dame football have been a real test for all involved with the program, including the players and fans. As far as grades go, nobody has done very well.

The football team’s grades have ranged from poor to mediocre for the most part. The coaches have scored even lower, and the players have not used their vast supply of talent very well.

The media coverage, so important in maintaining the Notre Dame mystique, does not deserve a very high score, either. There has been some wild speculation about people like Howard Schleisenger (who doesn’t have a prayer of coaching at ND). Some of the national media, especially the Chicago papers, have been brutal and unfair at times. And, finally, there has been a steady girlfriend, holding on and never letting go. Notre Dame coaches have known the game is not too hot.

Meanwhile, the national media and alumni were going crazy.

The last three years have been a year of confidence rolled through. In his column on this page, Chuck Frebye describes the team’s situation as it prepares for Saturday’s game at Missouri.

Student fans make the grade

Mike Sullivan
Sports Editor

Our reason for being the he American is not to report the latest hot gossipy item by eighty players. As the Saturday afternoon's rout of Colorado seemed to be just what the doctor ordered for Gerry Faust’s Fighting Irish and their fan, an “aha” of confidence rolled through Notre Dame Stadium. The Irish, who had been looking very ill in recent weeks, snapped out of it in convincing style. The team now appears to be capable of doing so.

The question is why are the Irish looking so much better in their last six quarters of play than in their first six? Part of the reason stems from the fact that Colorado just was not as good a football team as Purdue or Michigan State, but that was not the whole explanation. It seems as though the good doctor has really taken into his black bag just a few new tricks for the Irish, and some of them appear to be working. For instance:

1. A take-a-pass on first and down and call me in the end zone. - Steve Beuerlein has been under fire, but the use of this play for his success stems from a new-found unpredictability in the Irish offense. Purdue didn’t know Beuerlein’s options until he was in the game, and the Irish were going to run on first down, but that has changed in recent weeks.

On 10 occasions over the last two weeks, Beuerlein has passed on first down. Four times when Notre Dame showed on first down, the Irish scored. The last two games, they have taken advantage of being able to pick up a keying on Allen Pinkett, and that’s one of the reasons Beuerlein has been so effective.

Avoid hazardous turnovers. - This is the simplest of the reasons for the resurgence of the Irish. In the first six quarters of 1984, the Irish turned the ball over 17 times against Purdue and Missouri. Since that last game, they have not turned the ball over nine times. Now the Irish offense is treating the football like it was a steady girlfriend, holding on and never letting go. Notre Dame coaches have known the game is not too hot.

Mike Sullivan