Corrigan advocates morality and fairness in college sports

By MARK DILLON

Last night Notre Dame Athletic Director Gene Corrigan spoke on "Morality in Athletics" at the Knights of Columbus Hall. Corrigan spoke briefly on a variety of topics and then opened the floor to questions from a small crowd.

Violations of NCAA regulations are decreasing, Corrigan said. When asked about NCAA Executive Director Walter Byers' figure that 50 percent of all NCAA teams violate regulations, Corrigan replied: "If this is so then twenty years ago it was 60 percent."

Corrigan attributed this decrease to the conscientiousness of university presidents and leaders. Corrigan said conscience is the only effective way to halt the violations. "Look at jails, they don't stop thieves, the only thing that stops breaking of rules is a conscience," he said.

Corrigan said there is an increasing conscience on the national level in the area of intercollegiate athletics. As an example he used the recent firing of Florida football coach Charlie Bell by the University's president in the face of 108 NCAA violations.

Despite being adamantly opposed to cheating in any form, Corrigan said he understood the reasons for some of it. "The violations are most apparent in the state universities because of the intense pressure. If Oklahoma loses to Nebraska for five years running it becomes a matter of state pride. Pressure is put on the university and especially the coach to do whatever possible to regain their lost pride. It is this pressure that almost forces a program to cheat," Corrigan said.

"However," said Corrigan, "that kind of pressure does not exist here. As proof he cited an interview with University President Father Theodore Hesburgh. Corrigan said, "Hesburgh told me in our first meeting that he would put up with a few losing seasons and would stand behind the coach if I ever cheated I would be gone by midnight."

Corrigan said he uses the same philosophy with his coaches and so far it has worked. Notre Dame has never been cited for any violation of NCAA regulations. Corrigan said conscience is the only effective way to halt the violations. "Look at jails, they don't stop thieves, the only thing that stops breaking of rules is a conscience," he said.

Corrigan spoke on the recent intensifying of the women's volleyball program. "In the government's eyes there was a lack of parity with respect to grant-aid in-aid's between male and female. Rather than throwing the money around into different scholarships, it was decided to build the volleyball team into a contender for a national championship," he said.

Corrigan said the main impetus for volleyball being the choice. "First you need an excellent coach and we have one. Second, in coming against volleyball experts, it was discovered that the second best volleyball area in the country is Chicago area Catholic schools. For these reasons Corrigan et the national contender within four years."

Reaganomics subject of last night's debate

By SUE FOLEY

Reaganomics was defended by Economics Professor James Rakowski and criticized by Economics Professor Thomas Swartz last night in a debate sponsored by the Election Task Force at the Center for Social Concerns.

Fairness and overall effectiveness were the two key issues explored in the debate. Swartz blasted Reagan's supply-side economic policy. "We are seeing a recovery led by massive deficits. We simply do not know what the ramifications of these deficits will be," he said.

Rakowski defended Reagan's cutbacks in social programs, saying they are neither unjustified nor excessive. Noting that his reputation for being unsympathetic to lower-income individuals is well-deserved. In closing, Swartz said, "I find it unconscionable for a public official."

Neal encouraged by good attitude of students planning social events

Notre Dame Student Activities Office Director Joni Neal said she is "encouraged by the positive attitude Root Beer Co in scheduling campus events, at last night's Hall Presidents' Council meeting.

Neal said the opportunities that are available to halls and organizations. She said Lafayette Student Center, Washington Hall, and the Senior- Alumni Club are currently available for rental by campus groups.

Neal listed upcoming movies scheduled to be shown in the engineering auditorium this year. These include "Kramer vs. Kramer", "Star Wars", "The Big Chill", "Romancing the Stone", and "Purple Rain." On a trial basis the Student Activities Office will offer groups the opportunity to travel to Chicago and Indianapolis for various activities. Neal said. These trips would take place on Saturdays and would be partly subsidized by Student Activities in order to alleviate student costs.

In other business the Council discussed the current United Way Drive and the upcoming World Food Day which will take place Oct. 16.

Kevin McGovern, director of the Student Activities Board, discussed upcoming events, including the Nov. 16 concert by The Fixx at the ACC. Tickets are scheduled to go on sale one week from today. There will be no lottery due to lack of time. Tickets will be approximately $12 with a probable limit of six tickets per person. McGovern said.

McGovern also said the campus T-shirt shop is now open for business and is taking orders.

The Student Activities Board will also be working to compile a list of locations which will not sign agreements to take responsibility for off campus events, McGovern said. Due to a recent directive by the Office of Student Affairs, this agreement must be signed in order for a group to hold an off campus activity.

The Council will announce the August-September Sowder Award for outstanding hall spirit in the coming weeks.

Solidarity leader Lech Walesa called on Poland's Communist authorities to restore trade union freedoms in a statement issued Monday for the second anniversary of the outlawing of the Solidarity movement. Walesa said in a telephone interview that he had no special plans to mark the anniversary of the Oct. 8, 1980, decision by Poland's Parliament to ban the 9.5 million-member independent trade union. The 41-year-old shipyard electrician, who won the 1983 Nobel Peace Prize, said in a statement read to The Associated Press by a Polish artist earlier in the day, "Solidarity...still exists, we cannot officially act. We didn't cease to be Solidarity members. We are still together and that's what constitutes our 70s." AP.

The change in this open forum included audience members who actually cared. Most students today really don't cope with reality. Police have better test against drunks

Associated Press

GARY, Ind. - Jerky eye movements and poor concentration are telltale signs of drinking that may help police in northwest Indiana to snag more drunken drivers.

Police in four communities have learned three new field sobriety tests that check involuntary eye movement and the ability to think and balance at the same time.

"The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration is trying to make these tests standardized throughout the United States," Highland Sgt. Jerry Toler told the Gary Post-Tribune in a recent interview.

One test looks for a condition called gaze nystagmus - the involuntary, rapid movement of the eyeball. The other tests require the motorist to walk and then turn, and to stand on one leg, while following an officer's instructions.

State law defines a blood-alcohol level of 0.10 percent as legally drunk. Police officers using the old sobriety tests generally can't detect levels of drunkenness ranging from 0.01 to 0.13 percent blood-alcohol, Schererville Patrolman Michael Keese said.

Police say that means many legally drunken drivers go free because the officer can't establish probable cause for the more conclusive blood analysis test.

"Officers will be able to bring in more drivers who are at .10 than ever before," Hammond Cpl. Jay Govert said.

In the eye movement test, the officer holds up a pen and asks the motorist to focus on the tip as the officer moves the pen around.

A drunken motorist cannot smoothly track a moving object, and the drunker the motorist, the more difficult the task, police say. The test has long been used by doctors looking for eye abnormalities.

A Gary lawyer who defends motorists charged with driving while intoxicated says the medical principle that undergirds the eye test could make his job more difficult.

"A lot of our attacks on the current field sobriety tests would be nullified with this test," attorney John D. Breslaw said.

Still, jerky eye movements could be caused by the use of legal or illegal drugs or by a medical condition, he said.

Police officers trained in the eye test will also administer the other new field tests - walking and turning, and the one-leg stand. Both require the motorist to follow a series of in-suctions while maintaining balance.

A manual published by federal safety officials says drunken drivers have difficulty performing such "divided attention" tests.

Lifted restrictions allow students to park in lot during home games

By MARY HUFFMAN

Saint Mary's students who have cars will now be able to park in the LeMans parking lot on football weekends. Previously, the lot was reserved for families, friends, and visitors of Saint Mary's on football weekends.

The previous restriction on parking in the LeMans lot was not enforced until this year's first home game on September 22.

when a large number of tickets were issued to student cars parked in the lot.

Students complained to Saint Mary's about the tick-e because they were unaware of the restriction, Anne Marie Kollman, Vice President of Student Affairs, said. Bob Foldesi, Director of Personnel, also said he had "gotten a lot of back about it.'

Student Government and Foldesi met on October 1 to discuss the problem.

Foldesi and Director of Security Richard Gebek, after examining the amount of space left in the lot during the October 6 football game, dropped the parking restriction.

"We wanted to be pro-active rather than re-active," said Foldesi in response to the decision.

Kollman said she has not heard any complaints yet. She and Foldesi both said the new policy will remain as long as no complaints or problems arise.

Program in Ireland exposes students to different cultures

By MICHELE MARCHAND
News Staff

Each September twenty-five students from Notre Dame and Saint Mary's go to County Kildare, Ireland. For a year they study at Saint Patrick's College at Maynooth, fifteen miles west of Dublin. The Saint Mary's foreign studies program in Ireland is an excellent opportunity for students with strong academic ability and motivation to "immerse themselves in another culture," said Ellen Pugh, director of the program.

Sophomores, and occasionally juniors, make up the Kildare program. The program is geared towards the liberal arts, but Pugh said she strives for a balanced program. A group that's not predominantly anything provides a better cultural experience because it gives them a chance to learn about their own culture and a chance to learn about other cultures.

The program is currently on hold because of financial reasons. There is no strict academic requirement and it is a program that's flexible. The Irish culture is very different than in the United States; "people are more laid back," she said. The appreciation of time was stressed over three-hour tests.

Corrigan attributed the decision to have ND play in last year's Liberty Bowl in part to the fact that the Liberty Bowl Chairman was a Notre Dame Alumnus. He said that going into the Penn State game at 6-3 they expected Notre Dame to beat the Nittany Lions and face Ohio State in the Fiesta Bowl. When ND lost they assumed that the Irish would not attend a bowl game. However, the chairman of the Liberty Bowl, an alumnum of Notre Dame, said that the loss to Penn State was a dream come true for him because the Irish would then be available for the Liberty Bowl. Corrigan said the decision to go was put before the faculty committee and it was debated. ND would beat Air Force and finish 7-4 and therefore should play in the Liberty Bowl. When Air Force upset Notre Dame, Corrigan said, "it became a real mess.

Corrigan said that many of the players felt the bowl was a good experience because it gave them a chance to regain lost confidence and end the season on an up note.

to throw the economy into a recession while simultaneously cutting back the aid for those who would be affected by it.

Rakowski concluded by emphasizing the technical side of Reagionomics. He stressed that the figures must be evaluated rather than relying on a generalized impression and blanket statements.

The debate, which consisted of a fifteen minute opening address, a rebuttal, a question and answer period, and a closing statement, was extremely intense. The audience consisted of approximately 75 students and a few faculty members.

Mike Lachlech, co-coordinator of the debate, said, "I was pleased with the debate and I think the debate itself went very well."

The next debates in the series sponsored by the Election Task Force will be held Monday, Oct. 15 and Monday, Oct. 29. The first will focus on life issues and the Oct. 29 debate will deal with the nuclear arms issue.
Iraq breaks lull in Gulf war, attacks Liberian ship, 6 dead

Associated Press

Iraq - Iraqi warplanes broke a 22-day lull in attacks on Persian Gulf shipping Monday by hitting a super-tanker with an Exocet missile, setting the vessel afire and killing six crewmen, shipping sources reported.

Six other seamen were badly burned in the attack on the 254,000-ton Liberian-registered World Knight, marine shipping and salvage sources said in Baltimore.

An Iraqi military communiqué said "two large naval targets" were attacked southwest of Iran's Kharg Island oil shipping terminal. Iraq commonly refers to ships as "naval targets" in communiques about its four-year-old war with Iran.

Marine shipping and salvage executives in Baltimore said only one ship was hit. They said radio operators picked up a distress signal, "We are under attack; we are on fire," from the World Knight at 11:30 a.m. (4:30 p.m. EDT).

The same sources, speaking only on condition of anonymity, said it was not clear if the tanker was loaded or empty when it was hit. They said the missile rocked the ship's entire section, wrecking the engine room and setting fire to the crew's quarters. They reported at least one life raft was lowered.

Iranian navy helicopters flew to the crippled ship to aid the rescue effort, and at least one salvage company tugboat took aboard survivors and stayed on the scene to fight the fire, sources said.

The nationality of the victims was not known. The marine shipping sources said the crew was made up of five British officers and 35 seamen from Hong Kong.

The World Knight is owned by the Greek company Niarhos and operated by Hong Kong shipping magnate Sir Y.K. Pao's World Wide Shipping Group, sources said.

The Iraqi military statement said the raid was an "implementation of previous warnings to all ships against sailing to Kharg or other Iranian ports."

Five teenagers taken from liquor store lot

Associated Press

CHICAGO - Five teen-age women looking for someone over 21 to buy liquor for them were abducted at gunpoint from a liquor store parking lot and three of them later were raped, police said.

The women, all from the South Chicago suburb of Calumet City, drove in a van to a local liquor store late Saturday, police said.

As one woman left the van to find someone to buy alcohol, a man with a hogtied forced her back into the vehicle, said Calumet City Police Officer John Starke.

A second man carrying a sawed-off shotgun joined the abductor, who drove the van to Indiana.

During the two-hour ordeal, two of the women escaped by jumping from the van as it stopped at a railroad crossing. "They told me they were lucky and picked the right moments," Starke said.

Police said the three other women were not close enough to the back of the van to escape and later were raped.

Police said the abductors freed the three women on the Indiana Toll Road near Gary, Ind., where authorities believe a third man driving a getaway car picked up the two women.

Cpl. Richard Broughton said Illinois State Police officers found the abandoned van and the three women about 1 a.m. Sunday.

The women were treated at St. Margaret Hospital in Hammond, Ind., and released, police said.

No arrests have been made.

Off-campus events are tougher than thought

Sure, they said it would be tough. It would take a lot of time and require organization. But they didn’t tell us that being a social committee would be almost impossible. Now, thanks to the latest “Special Bulletin,” the possibility of off-campus social events is fading fast.

On Sept. 14, our dorm, Walsh Hall, held a Luau at Erskine Country Club. The two of us, besides having the event approved by the administration in advance, even scheduled a special meeting with Dr. Goldrick the week of the event. We told him all of our plans, even allowing the example previously set by the Rector for his quick action. Dr. Goldrick was aware of the situation, was able to defend us. He set up an appointment to meet with Dr. Goldrick.

We heard this story later through the halls. In this phone call, this Rector scribbled our Luau as out-of-control. Since we got around the rules, we thought differently, but kept silent. Instead, we listened for almost an hour as Dr. Goldrick discussed liability, in full force, with newspaper clipping in document lawsuits. He gazed at one picture, one of automobiles wrecks and blood on the tongue. The emotion was high, but a nine-letter word was higher. LIABILITY! It is now the name of the game at Notre Dame.

And last night, when we phoned Erskine to receive a reply to the phony of the “Special Bulletin” we dropped off last Thursday, we received an answer that didn’t last on his. We thought we’d better let everyone know, because we’re betting it’s a definite pattern of things to come. Yes, although Erskine will comply to every rule on the “Bulletin,” they have been advised by security not to sign any thing. We, in turn, advised Erskine to cancel our dances.

We realize we are not using strong words, and we’d be more happy to discuss our situa- tion and listen to suggestions. We’re not giving up on a dorm social life off campus, especially since off-campus is where the administration’s alcohol policy is encouraging us to give up on a dorm social life. So for now, it’s Welcome to Notre Dame. Kids! Where the Big Brother policy knows absolutely NO bounds.

Pamela Fox and Neil Boland are Walsh Hall Social commissioners.

Notre Dame will always remain a special place

In thinking about reactions to the recent football game, the disappointment, the dis- gust, and especially the diminished spirit among my fellow Domers, I pondered the question: What is Notre Dame all about? Does Notre Dame stand for “Our Football Team”? I think not. Notre Dame means “Our Lady.” This simple meaning is easily forgotten in the midst of a “dreaded” football loss, the much-criticized alcohol policy, and the tremendous academic pressures faced by all, yet, this meaning is the very essence of the University. The core and character of Notre Dame, the specialness of Notre Dame, is found in those two simple words—“Our Lady.”

I am writing this article in tribute to Notre Dame. She is where the spirit of the University stems from, not from a “sack” or a touchdown. Although, I have only claimed the title of “Domer” for a few short weeks, Her presence has already found a special place in my life. Just to catch a glimpse of the glorious Golden Dome is enough to make me realize how very lucky I am to be here—here to be part of Her. The word “inspirational” comes to mind.

One dreary Monday afternoon this usually quite cheerful freshman was struck by the pangs of homesickness and emptiness. It seemed the only possible way to pull myself out of this pool of gloom was to somehow clear my mind—to take time out to put my life into perspective. So thanks to the suggestion of a thoughtful friend I ventured to the Grotto.

If the presence of Our Lady is to be felt anywhere, it is here. The feeling of peace is overwhelming. Although I left that night still tear-drenched, I also left with a feeling of relief and warmth. I left knowing that things were not that bad. I realized that finishing (or for that matter start- ing) that “important” paper or reading those infinite number of pages meant nothing in the scheme of life. What mattered was that I was here— at Notre Dame— and I was being guided by a gentle, loving, and strong hand. Our Lady had alleviated my uncertainties and I could now see my life more clearly; I was able to unburden my boggled up mind. This sort of specialization is what sets Notre Dame apart from other universities and colleges. Regardless of how bad the football team plays, how restricting the alcohol policy is, or how daunting classes can be—the aura of Notre Dame shadows over these minor difficulties and makes them trivial.

Granted, it is O.K. to experience feelings of disappointment after the loss of a football game or the failure of an exam, but those feelings must be put aside so that the higher meaning of Notre Dame must always prevail. She is among us always, guiding us, protecting us, and directing our sometimes confusing lives down a path of enrichment, growth, and true happiness. We are N.D. and the outcome of a football game cannot change this.

In cloning, I will say that this article was written in the spirit of gratitude to Our Lady. Thank you, Notre Dame. You have helped this student “survive” her first encounters with Notre Dame. You have made her feel privileged to be a part of Your greatness, and You have made her want to stay here for the next four years.

Carole Brown is a freshman at Notre Dame.

Detroit wins Game One

SAN DIEGO - The Detroit Tigers won a battle of baseball's old and new last night, using a two-run homer from Larry Herndon and clutch pitching from Jack Morris to beat the San Diego Padres, 3-2 in the first game of the 1984 World Series.

The tense game that went beyond three hours was marked by questionable base running and managerial decisions by the Padres, who were playing in the World Series for the first time in their 16-year history.

The Tigers, who appeared in their first World Series in 1957, trailed 2-1 when Herndon hit a two-run homer in the fifth inning off Mark Thurmond.

Thurmond threw 117 pitches in five innings before being relieved by Hawkins, who pitched two and two-thirds innings of one-hit, shutdown relief and Dravecky, who went the rest of the way without giving up a hit.

Texas stays on top of football poll

Associated Press

Texas and Oklahoma missed by just 11 points having a rare squareoff in the second-place spot of the nation's two top-ranked college football teams.

Texas held onto its No. 1 ranking yesterday in The Associated Press poll, while Oklahoma, the Longhorns' opponent next Saturday, climbed from fifth place to third.

Washington took advantage of Ohio State's 28-23 loss to Purdue and replaced the Buckeyes as No. 2, while Purdue, South Carolina and Kentucky made the Top Twenty after absences of several years.

Texas, a 53-17 winner over Rice, received 55 of 59 first-place votes and 1,170 of a possible 1,180 points from a nationwide panel of sportswriters and sportscasters.

While Ohio State dropped from second to eighth, Washington, No. 3 a week ago, moved up one spot with one first-place ballot and 1,049 points after a 19-7 triumph over Oregon State.

Oklahoma was idle last weekend but jumped from fifth to third with one first-place vote and 1,038 points. The other two first-place ballots went to Boston College, which was idle for the second week in a row and received 1,026 points to remain at fourth.

Last week, it was Penn State, Georgia Tech, Michigan, LSU, Notre Dame, UCLA, Auburn, Vanderbilt and Georgia Tech.

76, and Rich Connolly shot a 72 for a total of 342.

The second-place Notre Dame team scored a 388. The team featured Brian Majors, Tom Hannon, Tom Ryan, Joe Hils and Mike Culver.

Last year's winner, Central College of Iowa, finished the best among the remaining twelve teams but could only shoot a 390 for third place.

Bona and Huffman finished in a tie for third in the individual medal standings, just four off the pace of medalist Scott Hodovan, who shot a 71 for Hillsdale College. Bengal Gordonworth from Central College of Iowa came in second with a 73.

The golf season will resume in the spring, and if the Notre Dame golfers can maintain their winning ways they could be looking at a possible berth in the NCAA Tournament.

Back-up quarterback Scott Grooms will assume a starting role in Notre Dame's offense against Air Force. Grooms will replace injured signal-caller Steve Beuerlein in the Irish lineup.

Chuck Freeby discusses the football team's situation in his column below:

ND golf team grabs victory in annual fall tournament

By MARK STADTMUELLER

On a wet and dreary Monday afternoon the Notre Dame golf team won its 12th annual fall invitational tournament in a driving rainstorm to see Keenan become the first team to beat Dillon in the school's history. The team even scored a point on the Dillon defense in three years.

Although the field conditions were not as bad as might have been expected, the ball was wet, and the offenses for both teams had trouble starting up. However, in the second quarter Keenan managed to penetrate deep into Dillon territory, and Jamie Burke dove over from two yards out. Keenan then kicked off the point-after for the 7-0 lead.

Dillon refused to go down without a fight as they began the second half with the ball. Dillon's own Tight end Dan McMahon caught a touchdown pass from Brennan Doughlin to cut the lead.

The Big Red decided to go for the two-point conversion to grab the lead, but Keenan's defense held. The rest of the team also fared as a total team effort as two Irish teams were fielded.

The Notre Dame volleyball team, coming off a strong week of play, is ready to try to shock the country tonight when they face a very strong Loyola team in the NCAA Campus vs Office 20-Q. Quarterback Tim Arnold scored two touchdowns and running backs Joe Arnold and Larry Diedrick consistently gained big yards behind the Flanner offensive line.

The Irish have perfect records in the conference, so the game tonight is an important one for the conference championship.

The Irish stand at 7-7, and they are looking for upset tonight when they face a very strong Loyola team.

The game tonight is an important one for the conference championship.

The Irish offense has had a lot of success this year, but the defense has not been as strong. The Irish have allowed an average of 319 yards per game, while Loyola has allowed only 208 yards per game.

The Irish are looking for their third straight victory, while Loyola is trying to win their first game of the year.

Hello again, everybody!

If you are either a Cub fan or an Irish fan by some tenuous connection of both teams, you have first-hand knowledge of what disappointment feels like. You had your expectations raised, only to get your heart broken. You have raised your fork to your mouth expecting T-bone steak and you wound up with a awful coincidence a fan of both teams, you have first-hand knowledge of what disappointment feels like. You had your expectations raised, only to get your heart broken. You have raised your fork to your mouth expecting T-bone steak and you wound up with a awful coincidence a fan of both teams, you have first-hand knowledge of what disappointment feels like.

While there have been many unfortunate losses for the Cubs and the Irish this season, there is one thing that all fans can agree on. It never is after a loss.

Losing hurts, and don't believe anybody who says otherwise.

Instead, the Irish have to respond to the challenge. Scott Grooms will assume the controls of a quarter Irish offensive hope, finding a way to move the football effectively. This week, the task doesn't look any easier, as the Air Force ranks second in the nation in rushing, averaging 333 yards per game. The Falcons' two top rushers, Mark Farley and Paul Hafner, have combined for a total of 755 yards on the ground.

There is no question that the Irish will be in for a tough game, but they are confident that they can pull off the upset. The Irish have been playing well recently, and they believe that they can beat the Falcons.

The Irish have shown that they are capable of beating any team on their schedule, and they know that they will have to bring their A-game to secure the victory.

In the last two years, the Irish have had their problems, but they have also shown that they are capable of winning games. This year, the team has a chance to win the conference championship.

Even though their record stands at 5-4, the Irish can take a big step toward winning the conference tonight. The team's goal for this season has been to win the conference championship. An upset tonight against the Ramblers could put the Irish ahead in the race for first place.

The team is not taking anything for granted, but they know that they have a chance to win the conference. They are confident that they can pull off the upset, and they are ready to take on the Falcons.
