Irish Extra - page 9

Nazz tries program changes; music contest date to change

By MICHAEL J. CHMIEL
Staff Reporter

The Nazz will undergo several changes in its program this spring as part of a rehabilitation effort by its management. Plans include moving its traditional music competition from early April to Feb. 1.

Junior Sarah Molinsky, marketing director for the Nazz, said, "We're trying to attract more attention to the Nazz. We want to highlight the way that it used to be in the 1970s when, on any given night, 150 people would pack into that little place."

The Nazz management is headed by sophomore Joe Fontana, musical entertainment commissioner for the student activities board. Fontana, responsible for the promotion of "student-sponsored" concerts on campus, hired Molinsky, a marketing student, to market and revitalize the Nazz, which is located in the basement of the Lawtonne Student Center.

Molinsky and Fontana said they worked the competition in order to attract attention to the Nazz and the groups performing. "Because it will be held so early, people will be exposed to the acts and return to the Nazz to hear them perform throughout the semester," Molinsky said.

Participants in the competition will be vying for prizes ranging from $200 for the winner to $25 for the fourth runner-up. Judging the talent will be a panel of five led by Father William Beauchamp. The five top acts will return the following night for the traditional "Winners Night."

Another proposed addition to the Nazz this spring is a "steady flow of entertainment" for at least three nights a week. Thursday thru Saturday, Molinsky said. Acts will include the Notre Dame Jazz Band, student players, poetry readings, and talent shows, in addition to regular groups, Economics, and solo musical acts.

The Nazz has provided singers, instrumentallists, comedians, poets, and other performers a forum for displaying their talents since it was built in the late 1960's. It has also provided members of the Notre Dame community with entertainment and an escape from the pressures of academic life without leaving the campus.

"The talent is always here and the people who want to hear the talent are always here," explained John Kennedy, Irish dancer, singer, and quartermaster of the Nazz. "There's no better environment to perform in. People come for one thing—to hear you sing. The environment is perfectly, the lighting couldn't be better. The stage is wonderful, and the sound system is first rate."

Within the last three years, however, the Nazz has experienced a steadily declining audience and a decrease in popularity. Groups and individuals still perform there on the weekends, but they perform in front of small or nonexistent audiences.

The people who attend the performances do so mainly because of their interest in a particular act or friendship with a particular performer, Kennedy said.

Kennedy, a graduate student in the Economics department, who performs regularly in the Nazz and is frequently present哪怕 that the Nazz deserves more notoriety and faults management for its current plight.

"When I was an undergraduate, we were more of the establishment social events on campus," said Ken­nedey. "Now, if I sing, I can draw my own audience exactly which comes in to see me. In the past, you came into the Nazz you didn't even bother to look at the posters to see who was sing­ing.

"The Nazz is dead. It doesn't exist. It's been grossly mismanaged for the last three years. The people who have been in charge of the Nazz have not been interested in it. They've been quality people, capable of doing the work, but they didn't care," Kennedy said.

Brademas talks on the separation of religion and politics

By KELLY O'NEIL
News Staff

"I have never understood the doctrine of separation of church and state to mean that religion does not affect politics," said John Brademas, president of New York University, last night as he spoke on the relationship between religion and politics in today's society.

Brademas began by discussing how his own religious background affected his political career. At one point during his college career Brademas thought seriously about becoming a Methodist minister or a politician but he joked that "it would be politics either way."

He emphasized the importance of applying limitations to the place of faith in public life. Brademas stressed that religious faith must touch every part of human existence throughout his hour long speech.

The first guideline stressed the importance of the level of religious faith to politics not whether it affects politics," he said.

"We must live peacefully with people who we con­sider, by our own standards of right and wrong, sinners. But it is essential for us to get them to believe that we are religious people."

Within the last three years, however, the Nazz has experienced a steadily declining audience and a decrease in popularity. Groups and individuals still perform there on the weekends, but they perform in front of small or nonexistent audiences.

The people who attend the perfor­mances do so mainly because of their interest in a particular act or friendship with a particular per­former, Kennedy said.

Kennedy, a graduate student in the Economics department, who performs regularly in the Nazz and is frequently present哪怕 that the Nazz deserves more notoriety and faults management for its current plight.

"When I was an undergraduate, we were more of the establishment social events on campus," said Ken­nedey. "Now, if I sing, I can draw my own audience exactly which comes in to see me. In the past, you came into the Nazz you didn't even bother to look at the posters to see who was sing­ing.

"The Nazz is dead. It doesn't exist. It's been grossly mismanaged for the last three years. The people who have been in charge of the Nazz have not been interested in it. They've been quality people, capable of doing the work, but they didn't care," Kennedy said.

Brademas has received degrees from Harvard and Oxford University. He has served as a congressman for twenty-two years before becoming president of New York University and currently a member of the Board of Trustees of Notre Dame. His speech was part of an annual lecture series sponsored by an endowment to the Theology Department by Burt Lass.

Electronic bulletin board available for students' computer messages

By MIKE SZYMANSKI
News Staff

Most students consider the leprechaun the mascot of the Fighting Irish, but, to computer users, the Leprechaun is an electronic bulletin board provided by the office of the Assistant Provost for Computing.

"The bulletin board is free to all members of the university community and to the South Bend community at large," said Suzanne Wheeler, Automated Office Systems Specialist.

A communications software package and a modem are needed to use the Leprechaun. By calling the Leprechaun telephone number (259-5875), the "newuser logon sequence" is initiated to offer a "help" command to new users.

The user can read one of three bulletin boards, leave a message, or directly send or respond to electronic mail. Mail is addressed by name and can be read only by the individual to whom it is addressed.

On the Leprechaun are a Macintosh board especially for Macintosh users, a main bulletin board, and a campus board.

"Practically anything is posted on these boards, including discussions of campus news and items for sale or purchase," said Wheeler. "The system is used largely for communication between students, townpeople, and computerbacked townspeople, Robert Wheeler, said.

By calling the Leprechaun telephone number (259-5875), the "newuser logon sequence" is initiated to offer a "help" command to new users.

The user can read one of three bulletin boards, leave a message, or directly send or respond to electronic mail. Mail is addressed by name and can be read only by the individual to whom it is addressed.

On the Leprechaun are a Macintosh board especially for Macintosh users, a main bulletin board, and a campus board.

"Practically anything is posted on these boards, including discussions of campus news and items for sale or purchase," said Wheeler. "The system is used largely for communication between students, townpeople, and computerbacked townspeople, Robert Wheeler, said.

Brademas has received degrees from Harvard and Oxford University. He has served as a congressman for twenty-two years before becoming president of New York University and currently a member of the Board of Trustees of Notre Dame. His speech was part of an annual lecture series sponsored by an endowment to the Theology Department by Burt Lass.

Electronic bulletin board available for students' computer messages

By MIKE SZYMANSKI
News Staff

Most students consider the leprechaun the mascot of the Fighting Irish, but, to computer users, the Leprechaun is an electronic bulletin board provided by the office of the Assistant Provost for Computing.

"The bulletin board is free to all members of the university community and to the South Bend community at large," said Suzanne Wheeler, Automated Office Systems Specialist.

A communications software package and a modem are needed to use the Leprechaun. By calling the Leprechaun telephone number (259-5875), the "newuser logon sequence" is initiated to offer a "help" command to new users.

The user can read one of three bulletin boards, leave a message, or directly send or respond to electronic mail. Mail is addressed by name and can be read only by the individual to whom it is addressed.

On the Leprechaun are a Macintosh board especially for Macintosh users, a main bulletin board, and a campus board.

"Practically anything is posted on these boards, including discussions of campus news and items for sale or purchase," said Wheeler. "The system is used largely for communication between students, townpeople, and computerbacked townspeople, Robert Wheeler, said.
In Brief

Freshman Brad Pattelli, a Honner Hall, recently received the Italian American Chamber of Commerce Award. While accepting the award, Pattelli said he was proud to be a representative of the Italian population at Notre Dame. - The Observer

The Notre Dame United Way goal of $162,000 has been surpassed by $3,000. The amount is the greatest amount collected in the history of the United Way at Notre Dame. - The Observer

Mister Rogers' Neighborhood's theme song will no longer be heard in Ohio. Each morning for three months, Larry Nudelmann tapped into the public address system at the Perry Moss North Parking Garage for three minutes to sing the theme song. But plant officials decided he went too far when he played the song during an emergency drill, so they ordered security guards to bust him down. Last week Nudelmann was fired by an electrical contractor at the unfinished building. The tune caught on so well that it became an unofficial theme for plant employees. Nudelmann said it boosted morale, and workers began greeting each other by saying, "Hi, neighbor." - AP

Of Interest

* Cars staying on campus over the holiday may be parked in the D-2 lot beginning Dec. 19, the last day of finals. Security will patrol the parking area throughout break. - The Observer

The Center for Social Concerns will sponsor a bake and gift sale tomorrow afternoon from 3 until 5. Handmade gifts from the women of Latin America will be served. All proceeds will benefit the homes of the women. - The Observer

Auditions for both the Saint Mary's Women's Choir and the Saint Mary's Notre Dame Collegiate Choir will be held on the following dates Monday, Dec. 17 from 1 - 4 p.m., Tuesday, Dec. 18 from 1 - 3 p.m., Monday, Jan. 14 from 12 - 4 p.m. and Tuesday, Jan. 15 from 12 - 4 p.m. All auditions will be held in Room 508, Moreau Hall, Saint Mary's. No preparation is necessary. Women's Choir rehearse Mondays through Thursday from 3 to 6 p.m., and Collegiate Choir Monday, Tuesday and Thursday from 6 to 7 p.m. - The Observer

The 1985 Nazz Entertainment Competition, to be held Feb. 1 and 2, will offer a $200 first prize. Entry forms are now available in the student activities office on the second floor of Leflore. There is a $4 entry fee. - The Observer

Weather

A 40 percent chance of rain mixed with snow today with temperatures falling into the mid 30s. Tonight, partly cloudy with lows in the mid 20s. - The Observer

The Observer

American Express is one of the benefits of a college diploma

Kevin Williams
Systems Manager

Inside Wednesday

debates of this nature, but let me say this: Notre Dame charged . . .

This column is my farewell to Notre Dame. I'm graduating at the end of this semester, and this is probably the last chance I will have to use The Observer as my personal soapbox.

Because I'm a math major, I don't believe that it's my responsibility to fill this page with deathless prose. The natural tendency of these columns in the past has been to ramble on, thanking everyone, reminiscing about their years "under the Dome" and waxing philosophically about the future. I think it most fitting, however, to recognize those who have done the most to bring home, at least to me, the reality of my graduation.

Thank you, American Express.

Firstly, after three and a half years, I can fulfill a long-term dream. I have accepted "future career-oriented employment at $10,000 or more" and am eligible to fill out an application for an American Express card.

You may think it rather crass of me to think about money (or rather, credit), but I'm just being practical. After living under the benevolent dictatorship of the administration and having all my needs met (including some I wasn't even aware of), I thought it would be nice to have someone else looking out for me at least face the hard, cruel world.

American Express has promised a world of convenience. Their card is accepted at hotels and restaurants around the world. I'm also assured that their card will help me live within my means (something I've had trouble with those past few years). And if that wasn't enough, I find that I'm not out of luck when I'm out of cash. Just flash the card and businesses will be falling all over themselves just for the honor of cashing my checks ("often up to $1,000."). As if that weren't enough, there are more than 500 American Express Travel Service offices ready to help me with virtually every travel problem.

And there is much, much more: such as their emergency medical treatment payment service and a special toll-free number for quick, expert customer assistance. And I have an even more exclusive American Express Travellers' Cheques. (Why is it that Karl Malden is always around when somebody loses theirs?) All this for only $35 a year. And to think what Notre Dame charged.

People constantly ask, "Can one place a value on a Catholic education?" I usually don't like to take sides in ND to participate in college computer link

By MARY CAROL CREADON
Senior Staff Reporter

The Student Senate recently passed a resolution calling for the University to become a member of the American Association of University Students. The AUS, said Student Body President Robert Bertino, is "a computer network of universities across the nation.'

Through a computer system the 65 universities involved in the AUS exchange with each other information concerning education, student government, and student life. In addition to providing a comparative analysis of a university area, the system can be used as a guide to successfully implement programs from one campus to another.

Student Government will have to pay a $200 membership fee and buy a telephone modem for $1000 that can be hooked up to the existing computer system of Student Government in order to join the AUS system. The benefits of being a member of AUS include day to day communication conducted by electronic mail, a newsletter, a news service, a research service, and National Student Organization Directory.

Bertino said the information that will be entered into the network concerning Notre Dame will be such things as the constitution, student government services, the student general store, and Student Activities Board projects. The program will be under the jurisdiction of ORUD, Bertino said, since it is basically an informational service.

For the first three years, Student Government will receive the computer time on the network for free, but after that, Student Government will be charged for the computer time. Bertino said that is the only possible drawback of joining the AUS. The Student Government will do an annual analysis of the cost of the computer time to determine whether it will want to continue its membership.

ND junior found dead

By DAN MCCULLOUGH
News Editor

Todd Michael Patton, 20, a Notre Dame junior from Woodstock, Ill., was found dead in his off-campus apartment early Sunday morning.

The death was caused by asphyxiation by hanging, an apparent suicide, according to St. Joseph County Deputy Coroner Dr. James McMeel. Patton was found by his two roommates.

He lived at 2011 Coventry Trail, New London Lake Condominiums, South Bend. Patton was a history major in the College of Arts and Letters.

McMeel said that Patton left a suicide note in which he said he "had been very depressed and had many problems." McMeel added that there was no evidence of foul play.

Detectives from the St. Joseph County Sheriff Department could not be reached for comment.

McGann's Funeral Home is in charge of local arrangements and additional plans are pending in his home town.

Homesick for... hot cookies, pine trees and the fire glow?

COOKIE BAKE and WASSAIL

Thursday, December 13
3-5

CENTER FOR SOCIAL CONCERNS HOLIDAY OPEN HOUSE

MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ALL!

Buy Observer Classifieds

In a continuing effort to bring you the music and fun you want...

L.S. Holmes, M.E.C. Productions, and Special Events Commission presents...

The Welcome Back Week Party featuring

The Suburbs

January 18th - 8:00 p.m.

Ticket on sale Monday, January 13th at S.A.B. Record Store

Tickets: $4.50 pre-party $5.00 night of party
SARG plans side trips for students in Florida during spring vacation

The Alumni Association and the Student-Alumni Relations Group (SARG) are organizing three side trips for students who will be in Florida over Spring Break.

Jeanine Goddecki, chairman of SARG, announced that Alumni Board Member, Dr. Kathleen Sullivan ('78), is coordinating the trips with the help of SARG and the Alumni Association.

For those interested in a short respite from the hectic Lauderdale scene, a one-day overnight snorkeling trip in John Pennekamp Coral Reef State Park, near Key Largo is scheduled.

Last year several students participated on a one-day trip, and, according to Sullivan, many expressed their desire to stay another day. This year, students will be offered a boat trip to the only living coral reef on the continental United States. They may also spend time at Park Headquarters where sailboat, canoe, and windsurfing rentals are available.

The trip is tentatively scheduled for Thursday of the week of Spring Break. Deposits of $25 are needed by January 20 in the Alumni Office. The deposit will cover the cost of the trip, including snorkeling equipment, transportation, and fees for overnight camping.

A trip to the Florida Everglades is also being planned. A one-day trip last year was cancelled because of students who pulled out at the last minute, according to Goddecki.

However, this year, Sullivan is tentatively scheduling a three-day camping trip to the Everglades. The deposit for the Everglades trip is also $25 and is planned for Wednesday through Friday evening of break. The cost covers transportation, and food, and only, and students should bring their camping gear. Deposits are due in the Alumni Association office Jan­uary 20.

The major trip being organized is what Sullivan calls a "once in a lifetime opportunity" to dive in the coral reefs northwest of Key West in the Dry Tortugas. This is for students who are experienced snorkelers or scuba divers.

The students would work with marine scientists surveying the area, which is now being considered for oil development. The trip would be spent on a 95 foot boat which is currently part of the "Save Our Reef" project. Concerned environmentalists are monitoring the activity of oil companies in the area.

The cost of this two- and half day trip will be $415, for a full five days it will be $351. A deposit is necessary by January 20, of $50 made payable to the Alumni Association. Deposits are needed in January because "camping spots are virtually impossible to come by during the spring months and reservations need to be arranged early," said Sullivan.

For students who are interested, Sullivan, who is a marine biologist, will be on campus in January.
Shultz calls for attack on terrorists

Associated Press

GATWICK, ENGLAND - U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz said yesterday that attacking terrorists before they attack Americans would be an act of self-defense that should have broad public support.

"We are talking about defending ourselves through defensive measures, through pre-emptive action of one kind or another that can be identified clearly," Shultz told reporters during a flight from Washington.

He said the United States should not hesitate to retaliate for terrorist strikes although "we haven't talked in terms of retaliation with a sense of revenge." He said retaliation should be seen as action to prevent future strikes, adding, "The object is to defend ourselves."

The secretary dismissed the idea that the United States might be risking more terrorism if it attacked terrorists and accidentally killed some innocent people. He said previous attacks by the lives of innocent civilians and U.S. combat forces might have to be risked if the United States retaliates against terrorists.

"They (the terrorists) don't seem to need additional excuses to try to hit us," he said. "They seem anxious to do what damage they can."

Consent waived in abortion case

Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS - The Indiana Supreme Court ruled yesterday that Marion Superior Court Judge Michael Dugan has jurisdiction to waive parental consent so an Indianapolis teen-ager can get an abortion without her parents' permission or doesn't want to ask for it.

The justices dissolved a temporary writ issued last Friday that mandated Dugan to void his or her consent to hear the petition, argued that it was his case and that Dugan couldn't take it away from him.

The girl's lawyer, William Rosenbaum, filed a notice of dismissal in meeting of NATO foreign ministers.

During the flight from Washington, Shultz made several comments suggesting the Reagan administration is ready to strike at terrorists when it has conclusive evidence they are ready to strike at American interests.

The court's waiver of the idea that the United States might be risking more terrorism if it attacked terrorists and accidentally killed some innocent people. He said previous attacks by the lives of innocent civilians and U.S. combat forces might have to be risked if the United States retaliates against terrorists.

"They (the terrorists) don't seem to need additional excuses to try to hit us," he said. "They seem anxious to do what damage they can."

Consent waived in abortion case

Associated Press

The Supreme Court was asked to modify the new of war between two judges over which of them had legal jurisdiction to hear the abortion consent petition.

Under Indiana law, it is a crime for a doctor to perform an abortion on a single girl under the age of 18 without the consent of her parent or guardian. A girl who can't get her parents' permission or doesn't want to ask for it can go to juvenile court to get a judicial waiver of the consent requirement.

Eric Miller, a lawyer appointed as the special judge in the juvenile division to hear the petition, argued that it was his case and that Dugan couldn't take it away from him.

The girl's lawyer, William Rosenbaum, filed a notice of dismissal in Miller's court and refilled the petition in Dugan's court. Miller, a lobbyist who represents conservative fundamentalist groups, refused to acknowledge the dismissal and attempted to prevent Dugan from acting.

Nevertheless, Dugan held a hearing last week and granted the waiver allowing the girl to get an abortion without her parents' consent. That order was put on hold last week pending the outcome of yesterday's hearing before the Supreme Court.

Miller's lawyer, Frank Spencer, insisted that only the juvenile division had jurisdiction to hear juvenile cases. But the Supreme Court disagreed.

Take a Study Break at

Chris' Ice Cream

Free coffee and 30% off all ice cream from 10 p.m. to 2 a.m. Friday through Thursday.

1723 South Bend Avenue
(next to Turtle Creek)

RIDE UNITED LIMO & GO SHOPPING IN CHICAGO!

Special Holiday Offer $20

Round Trip
Same Day Return

Now you can catch a flight or enjoy the day shopping with United Limo's dependable downtown Chicago service.

Ride United Limo to Midway Airport and Downtown Chicago

CALL YOUR TRAVEL AGENT OR UNITED LIMO

574-6993

10844 U.S. 30 (one and one-half miles east of Bittersweet)
Osceola, Indiana 46561
Administration is neither parental nor moral

Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students, faculty, and alumni can provide excellent contributions to the bishops. As the administration wants to be the controlling group, they have used paternalistic language and actions to make it harder for students to be active in social life. We do not seek to be placed on the margins but rather to be active and productive. We also want to be heard and included in decision making.

Father Don McNeill is the director of the Center for Social Concerns. Kathleen Weigert is the assistant director for social analysis at the Center for Social Concerns.

Why not explore questions raised by the bishops?

All of us have been invited to contribute to the second draft of the Pastoral Letter on Catholic Social Teaching and the U.S. Economy by mid-February 1985. Why? The reason is to participate in the examination of the economy in response to the bishops’ fundamental questions as stated in their introduction: “What does the economy do for people? What does it do to people? Is it consistent with the Gospel?” Our lives are saved from the perils of marginalization by the social teachings of the Church. We are invited to participate in the question of how the economy affects people. We are asked to make suggestions for how the Church can participate in the public arena.

Father Don McNeill
Kathleen Mass Weigert

guest column

“Notre Dame family’s” alcohol policy is by his own family’s alcohol policy. And, in my family, there is a firm and sound relationship between my parents and I as their responsibility to inculcate those in the second draft of the proposed policy. We are being invited by the bishops to provide space for many of us to read the letter comprising the bishops’ questions and consider the questions presented in the meeting with the bishops. If you have a topic for an article about an Andy Rooney type article. ‘Justice, Power, International Priorities.’ You might also consider writing an article about a Christmas story or a Christmas song. ‘Who needs a topic for an article about Christmas?’. ‘The moral message of the Daytime Emmy Awards. It took best actor, actress, director, producer, and writer.’

Vernon Marchal

We believe that Christmas vacation might bring back other points of view and prepare our questions and consider the questions presented in the letter. ‘Must we engage in political action for the benefit of the Church?’

Why not explore questions raised by the bishops?

All of us have been invited to contribute to the second draft of the Pastoral Letter on Catholic Social Teaching and the U.S. Economy by mid-February 1985. Why? The reason is to participate in the examination of the economy in response to the bishops’ fundamental questions as stated in their introduction: “What does the economy do for people? What does it do to people? Is it consistent with the Gospel?” Our lives are saved from the perils of marginalization by the social teachings of the Church. We are invited to participate in the question of how the economy affects people. We are asked to make suggestions for how the Church can participate in the public arena.

Father Don McNeill is the director of the Center for Social Concerns. Kathleen Weigert is the assistant director for social analysis at the Center for Social Concerns.

Why not explore questions raised by the bishops?

All of us have been invited to contribute to the second draft of the Pastoral Letter on Catholic Social Teaching and the U.S. Economy by mid-February 1985. Why? The reason is to participate in the examination of the economy in response to the bishops’ fundamental questions as stated in their introduction: “What does the economy do for people? What does it do to people? Is it consistent with the Gospel?” Our lives are saved from the perils of marginalization by the social teachings of the Church. We are invited to participate in the question of how the economy affects people. We are asked to make suggestions for how the Church can participate in the public arena.

Father Don McNeill is the director of the Center for Social Concerns. Kathleen Weigert is the assistant director for social analysis at the Center for Social Concerns.

Why not explore questions raised by the bishops?

All of us have been invited to contribute to the second draft of the Pastoral Letter on Catholic Social Teaching and the U.S. Economy by mid-February 1985. Why? The reason is to participate in the examination of the economy in response to the bishops’ fundamental questions as stated in their introduction: “What does the economy do for people? What does it do to people? Is it consistent with the Gospel?” Our lives are saved from the perils of marginalization by the social teachings of the Church. We are invited to participate in the question of how the economy affects people. We are asked to make suggestions for how the Church can participate in the public arena.

Father Don McNeill is the director of the Center for Social Concerns. Kathleen Weigert is the assistant director for social analysis at the Center for Social Concerns.
God leads people out of bondage into freedom

Wednesday, December 12, 1984 — page 7

South Africa has had two winners of the Nobel Peace Prize: Albert Lutuli and Bishop Desmond Tutu. President of the African National Congress, Lutuli led Congress through the 1950s with a commitment to non-violent resistance in an unsuccessful attempt to check the tightening grip of the apartheid state. Lutuli's violent efforts led to the banning of the move- ment and its political leaders in 1952. Since then, Lutuli has worked from the underground and embarked on a guerrilla struggle. Bishop Desmond Tutu is the second South African to be recognized as a model for the world community: another courageous and prophetic voice calling for justice so that the people of his land may live in peace. Desmond Tutu will receive the Peace Prize this week in Oslo. He represents more than a century of extraordinary black restraint; he also represents the hope for a new South Africa.

A great deal has happened in South Africa since the last Peace Prize. The first black leaders of Bishop Tutu's calibre: state representation by the police and the army, as well as by the white minority government, has ended dramatically. Pretoria's model is now the national security state of Latin America (which have enjoyed support from the United States for far too long). Society is homogenized. The same thing happens: the same time, black labor working for the white- owned economy has been exploited with per- sonal satisifaction. Over the last twenty-five years, as successive United States administra- tions set out to “dialogue” with white South Africa, the system has been adapted and fine-tuned.

The African majority of South Africa is now being persuaded to accept a new dispensation. Africans are supposed to enjoy the benefits of a homeland filled with the amenities of the “cosmopolitan” world. The black community has been removed from their “homelands” for twenty-four million whites, the “bantustans” for the black land and built a modern industrialized economy on the basis of black labor. In the pursuit of this apartheid dream, the white regime has uprooted families, separated husbands, wives and children, and forced them to move into three million “enemies’ superpowers,” “apartheid appendages,” to the “homelands.” Another three million are to fol- low.

Those African “labor units” remaining in the “white area” do so to serve wage inter- ests. Women, children, the aged, infirm and the unemployed, those who do not serve these wage interests, are being displaced and dumped in the mini-states (“homelands”) that Pretoria has created. When the process is completed there will be migrant black labor for the white-owned economy, but there will be no African citizens of South Africa. Africans are being made aliens in their own country. A displaced and dispossessed people of all this to maintain white power and privilege. The fruits of this in- dustrial development are anger and counterinsurgency of a new gen- eration of “black Albino” SCRIPTS: the beginnings of civil war.

In the last two decades, church protests against apartheid have multiplied. The Roman Catholic Bishops have con- demned the injustices of the regime, and the idealizing of the white nation. Protestant Churches (with the exception of the white Dutch Reformed Churches which back the present system) have been outspoken in their opposition to the South African Council of Churches playing a central role.

The African majority of South Africa is now being persuaded to accept a new dispensation. Africans are supposed to enjoy the benefits of the “new dispensation.” But there is no sign that the experiment in the black community has been successful. The experience is rooted in the black com- munities of South Africa, particularly in the present Communist Government, people of the same color as “white” Johannesburg. He has tried to com- municate with the families of children killed by the secur- ity forces in 1976 - over three hundred in a few weeks in Soweto alone. The children had been blessed with a sense of divine discretion; they had marched to protest their segregated and inferior “Bantu education.” Desmond Tutu has supported the black consciousness movement which arose under the leadership of Steve Biko. Biko was killed as a South African prison in 1977 (political prisoner number 565 to die in these circumstances). Several years ago, Bishop Tutu had the moral courage to meet with the South African Prime Minister and President. Tutu approached him as “Grandfather to the poor,” as “inchoate,” concerned about the future of his grandchildren. As with President Reagan in Washington last week, the Bishop got around the same ground: Tutu is nothing. As Bishop Tutu receives the Nobel Peace Prize this week, we can only hope that he will see that the world is listening when he speaks.

May joy and peace be with all of Notre Dame

P.O. Box O

Smoking is more than a bad example to others

Dear Editor:

The<NAME> here at Notre Dame from California. I have long hair, like to wear old clothes, and yes, have sometimes been made to feel out of place by the more conservative elements of the student body. I don’t follow the mood of the Notre Dame Notre Dame, I have long hair, like to wear old clothes, and yes, have sometimes been made to feel out of place by the more conservative elements of the student body. I don’t follow the mood of the Notre Dame student body in this way, it affects me personally. My point is that at least with smoking, isn’t the existing attitude of disapproving appropriate?

I don’t think McCloskey should charge a student dislike of smoking on the social ap- proach. I think, it will be better for you to talk about the social situation. I think, in fact, it makes things a little more interesting.

The issue is very important in this country. People who smoke, and others who don’t, can contribute to the political process in a way that affects all of us.

Pervoe. Jacobson Notre Dame graduate student

P.O. Box 0

International Affairs

G. Wills gives benefit of doubt to despot

Dear Editor:

Having been a conservative socialist, Richard Pipes, claims that the Soviet Union is on the verge of popular revolution. President Reagan claimed some time ago divine knowledge as to where the Devil’s capital is. After all, Wills knows what is going on in Gen- eral Jaruzelski’s heart. He, unlike Weinberger, finds the Polish General a tragic figure sin- ce he has been a lifelong believer in the virtues of freedom and justice.

But let me say to you, there is no doubt that we are dealing with a system that is not at all the unfortunate Polish people. The other side of the barricade also. Wills did not have only Jaruzelski and menacing hardliners. In Wills’ presentation of the Jaruzelski thesis, the reader will have, not only Jaruzelski and menacing hardliners, but also Jaruzelski’s heart. He, unlike Weinberger, realizes that the Polish system is not a failed experiment in the sense of a failed experiment in the sense of a failed experiment in the sense of a failed experiment in the sense of a failed experiment. Wills has not made that mistake.

Wills’ thesis is that the Jaruzelski system is not a failed experiment in the sense of a failed experiment in the sense of a failed experiment in the sense of a failed experiment in the sense of a failed experiment. Wills has not made that mistake.

The Polish opposition knows quite well that it cannot substitute Jaruzelski’s govern- ment, a power that is no longer of the world. They also see that the Polish opposition is a power that is no longer of the world. They also see that the Polish opposition is a power that is no longer of the world. They also see that the Polish opposition is a power that is no longer of the world. They also see that the Polish opposition is a power that is no longer of the world.

Wills’ thesis is that the Jaruzelski system is not a failed experiment in the sense of a failed experiment in the sense of a failed experiment in the sense of a failed experiment in the sense of a failed experiment. Wills has not made that mistake.

But let me say to you, there is no doubt that we are dealing with a system that is not at all the unfortunate Polish people.
Famine blamed on donor nations

Associated Press

ADDIS ABABA, ETHIOPIA - Ethiopia yesterday blamed rich donor nations for the magnitude of starvation in the devastating drought and urged support for its controversial program to relocate famine victims.

Berhanu Bayoh, among the Marxist regime's five top leaders and head of the ruling party's Relief Co-ordinating Committee, said Ethiopia ranks among the lowest in terms of per capita food received since its 1974 revolution.

"It is because necessary funds have not been available for development efforts and for increasing food production in drought-prone areas of the country that we are now witnessing the current tragedy of death and starvation," Berhanu told a meeting of donor nations and organizations.

Resenting drought victims, Berhanu said, is "the only alternative to ensure the continued survival of those people" in Wollo and Tigré provinces - hardest hit by both drought and deforestation.

Most major Western donor countries have expressed reservations about the program. Some questioned whether people are being relocated against their will and have speculated whether the plan is a backdoor approach to communal-style collectivization.

But officials maintain that the resettlement scheme is being undertaken for purely humanitarian reasons.

Berhanu's remarks were made at the start of a meeting at which donors were asked to make up an 800,000-ton shortfall in relief food supplies said to be required over the next year.

A government report, distributed at the meeting, also contained a list of other Ethiopian needs, ranging from 30 aircraft to draft oxen.

The donors also were sharply attacked by Armin Maj, Dawn Wolde Giorgis, head of the Relief and Rehabilitation Commission. He charged that if donors had not ignored his organization's drought predictions early this year the present crisis could have been averted.

The commission estimates that 7.7 million people are facing drought-related food shortages with 600,000 severely affected. To feed them, 211 emergency distribution centers have been set up in famine areas.

Salvadorans announce truce over the Christmas season

Associated Press

MEXICO CITY - Salvadoran leftist rebels yesterday announced a truce for the Christmas and New Year holidays and said they would limit the conflict by way of dialogue and organizations.

A communiqué from the rebel leadership said the decision was taken "in a sign of the disposition to avoid the creation of conditions that might favor the solution of the conflict by way of dialogue and negotiation."

It said the truce would be in effect from midnight Dec. 23 until midnight Jan. 2. The announcement was made in a joint communiqué from the general command of the Farabundo Martí National Liberation Front, the umbrella group for guerrilla factions fighting the U.S.-supported Salvadoran government, and the executive committee of the Democratic Revolutionary Front, the guerrillas' political ally.

It said the truce would be in effect from midnight Dec. 23 until midnight Jan. 2. The announcement was made in a joint communiqué from the general command of the Farabundo Martí National Liberation Front, the umbrella group for guerrilla factions fighting the U.S.-supported Salvadoran government, and the executive committee of the Democratic Revolutionary Front, the guerrillas' political ally.

Save $1.00
on purchase of
Nacho BellGrande®
and a Medium Soft Drink

NOW WITH GREEN ONIONS

NACHOS
BELLGRANDE™

A different taste bite after bite. Take a crisp tortilla chip and scoop up some tangy cheese sauce and cool, crisp lettuce. Eat it. And do it again. Just keep going. Now take a spicy chip and dip it into seasoned ground beef and red ripe tomato salsa. Eat it. And do it again. Just keep going. Now try both chips covered with beans and jalapeños or cheese and ground beef or, well, you get the idea. And like everything else at Taco Bell, our Nachos BellGrande® is just made for you.

Save $1.00
on purchase of
Nacho BellGrande®
and a Medium Soft Drink

NOW WITH GREEN ONIONS

NACHOS
BELLGRANDE™

A different taste bite after bite. Take a crisp tortilla chip and scoop up some tangy cheese sauce and cool, crisp lettuce. Eat it. And do it again. Just keep going. Now take a spicy chip and dip it into seasoned ground beef and red ripe tomato salsa. Eat it. And do it again. Just keep going. Now try both chips covered with beans and jalapeños or cheese and ground beef or, well, you get the idea. And like everything else at Taco Bell, our Nachos BellGrande® is just made for you.

Applications now available for:

- assistant manager
- manager
- part-time employees

Applications NOW in Student Government Offices, 2nd floor LaFortune

 APPLICATIONS DUE TODAY BY 4pm.

INTERESTED IN WORKING AT THE

STUDENT GENERAL STORE

NEXT SEMESTER?

APPLICATIONS NOW AVAILABLE FOR:

- manager
- assistant manager
- part-time employees

Pick up applications NOW in Student Government Offices, 2nd floor LaFortune

APPLY TODAY BY 4pm.

COUPON

Guitars and accessories

20% off with this ad

COLLINS MUSIC
919 S.Michigan St. S.B.
234-7548

Aloha Bowl Trip

December 23-31
Leave from Dallas
Westin Hotel Waikiki Beach
$925 - quad - hotel & air
$699 - air only

Call Mary Anthony
283-3611 for more info

TACO BELL

$2 OFF ANY MEDIUM OR LARGE PIZZA
NO DELIVERY CHARGE!

272-4935
DELIVERY ONLY

CLIP AND SAVE FOR EXAM WEEK

THE OBSERVER

Wednesday, December 12, 1984 — page 8
Streaking Irish meet No. 10 SMU in Hawaii
ND looks for second-straight bowl win when it takes on run-oriented Mustangs

By LARRY BURKE
Sports Writer

Notre Dame will make its second consecutive venture into post-season play on Saturday, December 29, as the 17th-ranked Irish take on the 10th-ranked Mustangs of Southern Methodist University in the third annual Aloha Bowl. A capacity crowd of 51,000 is expected for the game in Honolulu's Aloha Stadium. The contest also will be televised live to Hawaii and the U.S. mainland by MetroSports and ESPN at 8 p.m. EST (3 p.m. Hawaii time).

For the Irish and head Coach Gerry Faust, the Aloha Bowl is the culmination of an up-and-down season. After losing four of its first seven games in 1984, Notre Dame bounded to win its final four contests, with three of those victories coming over top 20 teams.

The Aloha Bowl was an especially pleasing sight for Irish fans who had seen their team drop its final three games in the two previous seasons.

Notre Dame averted the recurring trend of a late-season letdown as it snapped a midseason three-game losing streak by downing then-No. 6 LSU in Baton Rouge, 30-22. Following a last-second 18-17 win over Navy, the Irish began attracting some bowl scouts' attention by knocking Penn State out of the No. 20 spot with a 44-7 win in Notre Dame Stadium.

And, on the final week of the season, the Irish climbed back into the Top Twenty, and were ranked No. 19 in the Aloha Bowl bid, with a 19-7 win over USC in the rain-soaked Los Angeles Coliseum.

"I'm happy for the players, happy to see them finish out the season on a positive note, especially after we didn't do the last two years," says Faust. "This team deserves an awful lot of credit. When we had lost three straight home games in October, a lot of people thought we were finished. I didn't see many people who would have had much confidence in the team's ability to come back and turn it around.

"Right in scoring position in each of the last three games, we were finished. I didn't see many people who would have had much confidence in the team's ability to come back and turn it around.

"Right in scoring position in each of the last three games, we were finished. I didn't see many people who would have had much confidence in the team's ability to come back and turn it around."

The Mustangs, under third-year head coach Bobby Collins, posted a 9-2 record (6-2 in Southwest Conference games) this season, losing only one midseason misadventure with SWC rivals Houston (29-20) and Texas (13-7). Since the loss to Texas, SMU has won five straight games to finish as co-champion in the conference (Houston, also 6-2 in the SWC, was awarded the other half of the conference title and the Cotton Bowl bid by virtue of its victory over SMU.)

This is the fifth consecutive season that the Ponies have finished in the Top Twenty, and also the fifth straight year that they have earned a bowl bid. Two years ago, SMU was champion of the SWC and the Cotton Bowl, as well as the only undefeated team in major college football at 11-0-1, but finished second in both the AP and UPI polls to Penn State. The Mustangs finished at 10-1 last season, and have lost only four games in the past four years.

Notre Dame and SMU have met ten times in the history of the schools with the Irish coming out on top in eight of those games. The last meeting of the two teams was in 1976, when Notre Dame edged the Ponies and quarterback Don Meredith in Dallas by a 14-6 score.

SMU's offense vs. Notre Dame's defense:
All-America running backs Dickerson and Craig James started a new tradition for SMU in the 1980's -- a tradition of outstanding running backs. Carrying on that tradition for the Mustangs through the past two seasons have been running backs Reggie Dupard and Jeff Atikins, both of whom thrive in SMU's option-oriented attack. Dupard has already become a legend on his own with his blazing speed and impressive cutting ability. The 6-0, 205-pound sophomore has already rushed for 150 yards a game and will be a key component of SMU's backfield.

But the Mustangs' ground attack is aided by the superb passing of sophomore quarterback Tom Clements. Theismann- Tom Gatewood passing duo could not overcome the fighting Irish with its powerful rushing attack. Even the Joe Montana- Tom Clements duo could not overcome the Longhorns. Notre Dame held an early 10-0 lead, but Texas countered with two touchdowns, then added its final points with 1:08 left for the winning margin. With the victory, Texas was the unanimous choice as national champions.

Not to be discouraged by their first bowl loss, the Irish had a chance for a rematch against the Longhorns in the 1971 Cotton Bowl. Texas was once again the top-ranked team in the nation, riding the crest of a 30-game winning streak. But Notre Dame's defense caused nine Texas fumbles, three of them setting up Irish scores, and ND won the game 24-11.

The game turned out to be a defensive battle in the second half of a unique defensive alignment by Notre Dame stifled the potent Longhorn ground game, while Notre Dame's offense turned conservative. The Irish victory kept the Longhorns from being the national champion two years in a row and moved Notre Dame up to No. 2 in the Associated Press final poll.

An 8-2 record did not keep the Irish out of the bowl picture two years later, as they headed south to Miami to play in the Orange Bowl. The opponent was ninth-ranked Nebraska, complete with the talents of Heisman Trophy winner Johnny Rodgers and talented quarterback David Humm. Rodgers ran for three touchdowns, caught a 50-yard pass for another and threw for a fifth in the Cornhuskers' 46-20 rout of the Irish. Nebraska dominated Notre Dame in just about every statistical category, including total offense, in which the Cornhuskers had a 560-207 margin. The defeat was the worst for the Irish since Ara Parseghian took over as head coach in 1964.

The Sugar Bowl, played on December 31, 1973, was a dream game featuring two undefeated, highly ranked teams with deeply rooted football traditions. The game was just as exciting as many had thought, as Notre Dame emerged a 24-23 winner over Alabama.

The lead in the game changed hands six times, with Bob Thomsett's 19-yard field goal with 4:26 remaining proving to be the game-winner. A controversial decision by Alabama coach Bear Bryant in which the Crimson Tide refused a touchdown and kicked a field goal was the only break in the game that year. Coach Knute Rockne and his Irish were 9-0 and contending for a national championship.

Coach Pop Warner's Stanford team came out ahead in nearly every statistical category, but Notre Dame capitalized on eight Stanford turnovers to win the game, 27-10.

Money was the major reason that Notre Dame got back into the bowl fray after a 45-year absence to play Texas in the 1970 Cotton Bowl. Not that the University had a financial crisis, but money was needed for the newly formed ethnic studies program. "The crucial consideration was the urgent need of the University to finance minority student academic programs and scholarships," Joyce took a news conference after Notre Dame accepted a bid the week before the final game of the season against Air Force. "Notre Dame's share of the bowl proceeds will be dedicated to this pressing University need."

The Cotton Bowl. Not that the University had a financial crisis, but money was needed for the newly formed ethnic studies program. "The crucial consideration was the urgent need of the University to finance minority student academic programs and scholarships," Joyce took a news conference after Notre Dame accepted a bid the week before the final game of the season against Air Force. "Notre Dame's share of the bowl proceeds will be dedicated to this pressing University need."

Texas, the No. 1 team in the nation, was too much for the Irish with its powerful rushing attack. Even the Joe Theismann-Tom Clements duo could not overcome the Longhorns. Notre Dame held an early 10-0 lead, but Texas countered with two touchdowns, then added its final points with 1:08 left for the winning margin. With the victory, Texas was the unanimous choice as national champions.

Not to be discouraged by their first bowl loss, the Irish had a chance for a rematch against the Longhorns in the 1971 Cotton Bowl. Texas was once again the top-ranked team in the nation, riding the crest of a 30-game winning streak. But Notre Dame's defense caused nine Texas fumbles, three of them setting up Irish scores, and ND won the game 24-11.

The game turned out to be a defensive battle in the second half of a unique defensive alignment by Notre Dame stifled the potent Longhorn ground game, while Notre Dame's offense turned conservative. The Irish victory kept the Longhorns from being the national champion two years in a row and moved Notre Dame up to No. 2 in the Associated Press final poll.

An 8-2 record did not keep the Irish out of the bowl

By THERON ROBERTS
Sports Writer

During the 1980's, the question that was often asked at the end of each football season was whether or not Notre Dame would be making a post-season bowl appearance. In the 1970's, the attitude of the administration shifted from if the Fighting Irish would go to a bowl game to which bowl it would be.

Now, coupled with the less-than-enviable record Notre Dame has posted during the four years Gerry Faust has been the head coach, and the increasing purrs offered to the participated University President Father Edmund Joyce and his Faculty Board of Control in Athletics have taken the position that, if someone wants Notre Dame, and, if the University wont get embarrassed too much by accepting the bid, the team will go.

Last season, despite a 22-21 loss to Air Force and a 6-5 record, the Irish accepted an invitation to play in the Liberty Bowl. The reasoning at the time was that participating in a bowl game would be a springboard for the 1984 season. Well, it wasn't.

On January 1, 1925, with the famed Four Horsemen making their final appearance together, Notre Dame ventured west to play in the Rose Bowl, its first bowl game. There was a little more justification to be found in the bowl game that year. Coach Knute Rockne and his Irish were 9-0 and contending for a national championship.

Coach Pop Warner's Stanford team came out ahead in nearly every statistical category, but Notre Dame capitalized on eight Stanford turnovers to win the game, 27-10.

Money was the major reason that Notre Dame got back into the bowl fray after a 45-year absence to play Texas in the 1970 Cotton Bowl. Not that the University had a financial crisis, but money was needed for the newly formed ethnic studies program. "The crucial consideration was the urgent need of the University to finance minority student academic programs and scholarships," Joyce told a news conference after Notre Dame accepted a bid the week before the final game of the season against Air Force. "Notre Dame's share of the bowl proceeds will be dedicated to this pressing University need."

Texas, the No. 1 team in the nation, was too much for the Irish with its powerful rushing attack. Even the Joe Theismann-Tom Clements duo could not overcome the Longhorns. Notre Dame held an early 10-0 lead, but Texas countered with two touchdowns, then added its final points with 1:08 left for the winning margin. With the victory, Texas was the unanimous choice as national champions.

Not to be discouraged by their first bowl loss, the Irish had a chance for a rematch against the Longhorns in the 1971 Cotton Bowl. Texas was once again the top-ranked team in the nation, riding the crest of a 30-game winning streak. But Notre Dame's defense caused nine Texas fumbles, three of them setting up Irish scores, and ND won the game 24-11.

The game turned out to be a defensive battle in the second half of a unique defensive alignment by Notre Dame stifled the potent Longhorn ground game, while Notre Dame's offense turned conservative. The Irish victory kept the Longhorns from being the national champion two years in a row and moved Notre Dame up to No. 2 in the Associated Press final poll.

An 8-2 record did not keep the Irish out of the bowl...
Allen Pinkett
ND tailback
The Record Breaker
As tailback Allen Pinkett goes to the Irish

By MIKE SULLIVAN
Sports Editor

Allen Pinkett sits in his chair talking, he keeps fiddling with the watch on his hand, a watch that obviously has been through some tough times. It is a Liberty Bowl watch, a gift that was given to all the Irish football players when they played in last year's Liberty Bowl game in frozen Memphis. Finally, Pinkett looks down at the watch and shakes his head. "Everybody's watch is falling apart now," he says. "It's time to go to the bowl game."

It is indeed time for Pinkett and his teammates to make the long trip out to Honolulu for the third annual Aloha Bowl against SMU, and, as the condition of the Liberty Bowl watch indicates, it has not been an easy path that the football team has taken to Hawaii. However, riding a four-game win streak and playing their most consistent football in a number of years, the Irish can forget about the 5-4 record, the losses to Purdue and Air Force, and the booing from the home fans. The future only holds palm trees, sunshine and Southern Methodism.

"It's been a weird year," says Pinkett, Notre Dame's star tailback. "I've been playing football for 12 years now and this is probably the weirdest year I've been through. Right now, though, the immediate future is our concern. We get to go to a great spot — Hawaii — and we get to play one of the better teams in the country. And, although we intend to go there and enjoy ourselves and have a nice vacation, we still have one thing in mind and that's winning a football game."

If there is anything that 1984 showed, it is that winning football games comes much easier to the Irish when Pinkett is running well. Hold the list of his statistics next to the schedule, however, and you will see that, in Notre Dame's 5-2 start, Pinkett gained 100 yards just once. You will also see that, in the four-game season-closing winning streak, he gained 100 yards in all but one of the games — and in that one he picked up 98 yards in the mud. It is a small wonder that he was voted Most Valuable Player by the Irish players for the second straight year.

As he usually does, Pinkett quickly plays down his performance. "I am the model team player, the guy who constantly says good things about his coaches, the guy who gives all the credit for his success to his teammates. "My performance is the least I can do for my team and to earn my letter in football team."

They put in a lot of hours playing football. I'm just part of a group that's trying to accomplish a common goal — to win a game."

Still, when Pinkett was struggling early in the season, the team was unable to do what it does best — run the ball straight at the defense. The Irish took a 13-0 advantage and the held off an Oklahoma Sooners' surge to take the game. "It was a struggle for us that whole season," says Pinkett, "a lot of guys on the team who had experienced winless Novembers, as well as those factors was that I wasn't running as hard as I should have been. I fault myself for that."

"I knew that there were a lot of factors that went into my not gaining the yards that I would have liked to. Too much instead of running on gut instincts, that's when I make the bad decisions. My ankle (which he sprained in the spring) also hurt, hell, don't want to use that as an excuse."

Whatever the reasons for his lack of success, there is no doubt that the Irish, especially on offense, were struggling. Suddenly, though, the offense began to come to life during the 36-32 victory over South Carolina. "It would have been easy for us to quit after the Air Force game," says 5-9 junior tight end and tight end Paul Nixson, "but we never did. All the adversity seemed to have a unifying effect for us, though. We decided that we would just go out and play for each other. In the South Carolina game, it was the first time that we played close to our potential."

"That game was the true turning point. It developed our confidence and is about 90 percent of the preparation for each game. The team attitude really came out, too. We really believe in ourselves and in our coaches, and we believe in each other a lot more relaxed. The confidence that we had in ourselves and in each other was there."

The renewed confidence began to show itself on the field in both Notre Dame's and Pinkett's performances. The Irish upset Louisiana State in the tailback picked up 162 yards in 40 carries. That game showed that a performance with a 37-carry, 105-yard game against Navy, and a season high 189 yards against Penn State. Finally, he strolled for 98 more yards in Notre Dame's 19-7 win over Southern Cal. In the course of the season, he broke many of the Irish scoring and rushing records, both for a season and a career. The team also reversed a trend of folding at the end of the season.

"America loves a strong finisher," explains Pinkett. "There are a lot of guys on the team who had experienced winless Novembers, so we were determined not to let that happen again. There was definitely a pride factor involved when you think that we did what we did during what was supposed to be the hardest part of the schedule. Part of maturity is taking your lumps, so we were more mature, and that helped us."

The strong closing has shut up most of the critics around the country, at least temporarily, and has put the Irish in a position where they can show the country that they finally have emerged to play as genuine threats for the national title. "I think the Aloha Bowl means a lot to our program, because we could move up to the top 10 or 15 if we won this game. That's a heck of an accomplishment when you think we were 5-7 last year."

For Pinkett himself, the Aloha Bowl represents the beginning of his chance to fulfill one of his dreams — to win the Heisman Trophy, which is awarded to the best collegiate football player each year. He was mentioned for the award at the beginning of the season, but his early-season performance eliminated him from contention. He is not taking any chances next year, though. "The Heisman begins next year," declares Pinkett. "That is definitely one of my goals, and I'm very confident in myself that I can accomplish it with all these guys like Bo Jackson, Keith Byars and Bernie Kosar. That's a challenge and I love challenges. My main concern is to win football games, but I'd like to bring the Heisman back where it belongs. And I'm going to do everything in my power to do it."

Pinkett once again puts a qualifier on his goal, though. "I love to win the Heisman, but my main concern is to win the national championship, and I'm lucky that I still have one more year. I honestly believe we can do it. The Heisman is going to be given to the secondary to winning football games and the national championship. Because we have to bring that title back where it belongs."

And you can bet that national championship rings are more than just another bowl game watching.
continued from page 9

Dupard at tailback, has carried 144 times for 717 yards (5.0 yards per carry) and six touchdowns this season for 299 yards and six touchdowns. At the fullback spot, the Ponies have 5-11, 195-pound junior Gary Goodwin along with 6-1, 200-pound fullback Ron Morris who leads the Mustangs with 123 catches for 554 yards (20.5 yards per reception) and four touchdowns. He is joined by 6-2, 230-pound tight end Bo Brown and 5-10, 175-pound tight end Larry Hackett. dupard has carried 15 times for 188 yards (12.1 yards per carry) and six touchdowns this season for 6-2, 280-pound fullback Mike Eddens. The tackles are 6-1, 205-pound junior Roy Dunn on the left and 6-1, 215-pound senior left guard Andrew Campbell. At the other guard position, SMU has 6-1, 280-pound junior Mike Kelley. The tackles are 6-1, 265-pound junior Ray Do nerve on the left and 6-0, 255-pound senior left guard Ranchell Bell. The Mustangs' left guard, 6-2, 265-pound sophomore left tackle Sam Graf, is on the injury list and is most likely to return at the inside linebacker spot. In the nickel defense, the Mustangs have 6-2, 250-pound senior end Bobby Banks (68 stops) and 6-3, 260-pound senior end Mike Larkins who start at the other inside linebacker spot. Larkins will back up Tony Faraj, who has been plagued by injuries all season long, should he have to leave the field for the SMU vs. Notre Dame game in the Aloha Bowl on December 14.
NOTRE DAME VS. SOUTHERN METHODIST

THE GAME

Fighting Irish vs. Southern Methodist Mustangs

The following post-season bowl games will feature Notre Dame seniors:

Hula Bowl
Mark Bavaro
Larry Williams
Mike Gann

East-West Shrine Game
Mike Kelley

Japan Bowl
Larry Williams
Mike Kelley

THE SCHEDULE

NOTRE DAME
SEPT. 8 lost to Purdue, 23-21
SEPT. 15 def. Mich. St., 24-20
SEPT. 22 def. Colorado, 55-14
SEPT. 29 def. Missouri, 16-14
OCT. 6 lost to Miami, 31-13
OCT. 13 lost to Air Force, 21-7
OCT. 20 lost to S. Caro, 36-32
OCT. 27 def. L.S.U., 30-22
NOV. 3 def Army, 18-17
NOV. 17 def Penn State, 44-7
NOV. 24 def. USC, 19-7

SOUTHERN METHODIST
SEPT. 15 def. Louisville, 41-7
SEPT. 22 def. N. Texas, 24-6
SEPT. 29 def. TCU, 26-17
OCT. 13 def. Baylor, 24-20
OCT. 20 lost to Houston, 29-20
OCT. 27 lost to Texas, 15-7
NOV. 3 def Texas A&M, 28-20
NOV. 10 def. Rice, 31-17
NOV. 17 def. Texas Tech, 31-0
NOV. 24 def. Arkansas, 31-28
DEC. 1 def. UNLV, 38-21

PEERLESS PROGNOSTICATORS (?)

Bowl picks

Records are compiled as to how each person does against the spread. In other words, it isn't enough to pick the winner of a given game. The person must pick the winner and give the underdog points.

December 21
HOLIDAY BOWL — Brigham Young over Michigan by 6.5

December 27
LIBERTY BOWL — Auburn over Arkansas by 3

December 28
GATOR BOWL — Oklahoma St. over South Carolina by 2.5

December 31
PEACH BOWL — Virginia over Purdue by 2.5

January 3
COTTON BOWL — Boston College over Houston by 6

PIEST BOWL — Miami over UCLA by 5.5

ROSE BOWL — Ohio St. over Southern Cal by 4

ORANGE BOWL — Oklahoma over Washington by 6

SUGAR BOWL — Nebraska over Louisiana St. by 7.5

December 29
ALOHA BOWL — Notre Dame over Southern Methodist by 2

Larry Burke
Ed Domenacky
Mike Sullivan
Jeff Blumberg
Theron Roberts

Sports Writer
Sports Writer
Sports Editor
Assistant Sports Editor
Sports Writer

61-40-2
56-62-3
35-66-2
34-67-2
53-62-2

.908
.479
.54
.41
.48

Wolverines
Cougars
Cougars
Cougars
Wolverines

Eagles
Hawks
Eagles
Eagles
Eagles

Hawks
Gamecocks
Gamecocks
Gamecocks
Hawks

Boilermakers
Buckeyes
Buckeyes
Hawks
Hawks

Cornhuskers
Tigers
Tigers
Hawks
Hawks

Irish
Irish
Irish
Irish
Irish

Aloha Stadium (50,000)
8 p.m. EST; Saturday, Dec. 29, 1984
TCS/Metrosports/ESPn Live National Telecast
Harry Karn, Jack Snow, George Conner
TCS/Metrosports-coordinated radio broadcast
Tony Roberts and Pat Sheridan

SERIES:
Notre Dame 8, Southern Methodist 2
LAST MEETING:
October 4, 1958

RANKINGS:
(AP) Notre Dame 17th, Southern Methodist 10th
Game is expected to be sold out.
Dear Santa, All I want for Christmas is . . .

by Lisa Visingardi
features staff writer

Sun — to have it hot for an extended period of time.
Liz Durkin

A new car — Trans-Am.
Vince Romano

A girlfriend.
Bob Dempsey

A Lancet.
Pieter Del Bono

My own golf course.
Jeff Chiesa

A trip to Italy.
Miriam Hill

Peace on earth.
Greg Doyle

A trip to Europe.
Ken Patasky

A musical talent.
Tom Walker

The official chemical engineer's handbook (the revised edition), with a calculus.
John "the Geek" LaChapelle

The opportunity to teach Memritization 420 (otherwise known as Biochemistry 420).
Joe Maugert

A crystal ball to figure out Brother Mike.
D-Balls

For Liverpool to win the League and England the next World Cup.
Winston Griffin

A positive GPA.
John Mennell

To have my family together for Christmas.
Louisa Demello

A purple crushed velvet sweater.
John Cox

To grow, at least to five feet two inches.
Kim Congrove

A 50-hour day.
Dave Guste

Grace Knight does not sing all of the songs here. Songwriter Bernie Lynch, who penned all the collection's songs, bundles lead on four of the twelve songs, but only one to great effect. "Nothing to Say" is a haunting song about a woman who has nothing left of herself. The band manages much better when Ms. Knight is in control.

This Island will probably receive little airplay here in the U.S. except on the few progressive stations, like WYFI, that haunt the airways, which is a shame because this is a fresh, intelligent collection. This is an impressive debut, and the Eurogliders are definitely a band to watch.

Don Seymour
features staff writer

Records

Don't be fooled by the name Eurogliders. The band has little to do with Europe except for recording their latest album in Britain. The band hails from Perth, Australia - that's right, the same land down under that brought us Air Supply and Men at Work. But this band plays a brand of high-tech progressive pop that makes up in freshness that it lacks in sugar-coating. This Island, the band's second album but the first released here in the U.S., impressively demonstrates the band's commitment to quality musicianship and intelligent songwriting.

Heaven . . . must be there
It's just got to be there
I've never seen even
I don't want to live in this place
Lead singer Grace Knight's smooth, controlled vocals evoke a sadness at the lost line that chess the listener. "Another Day in the Big World," the song that seems to be going over best on progressive radio stations, is the most joyful on the album with its steel drums and horns. Still, despite its energetic melody, the lyrics deal with getting pushed around. The chorus of "Another day in the big world" seems resigned to a quiet acceptance of mistreatment in life. This melancholy, depressed world view creeps its way through all the material on the album. The songs contain feelings but never really become joyous, like the pop of Bananarama or Wham! Titles such as "Cold Comfort" and "Maybe Only I Dream" give this away immediately. "Keep It Quiet" makes evident an observation that entered the back of my mind as soon as the needle hit the vinyl. The dark, somber song with its smooth, controlled vocals reminds me of Eurythmics. (I think the similarity in name is a coincidence.) It is a day harrowing synth pop with a female handling lead vocals and vocal differences do exist. First of all, Grace Knight has a fuller, richer voice than Annie Lennox that is impressive: an impressive collection. This is an intelligent line-up. The songs here. Songwriter Bernie Lynch, who penned all the collection's songs, bundles lead on four of the twelve songs, but only one to great effect. "Nothing to Say" is a haunting song about a woman who has nothing left of herself. The band manages much better when Ms. Knight is in control.

This Island, the band's second album but the first released here in the U.S., impressively demonstrates the band's commitment to quality musicianship and intelligent songwriting.

Eurogliders soar with progressive—pop sound

Don Seymour
features staff writer

This Island will probably receive little airplay here in the U.S. except on the few progressive stations, like WYFI, that haunt the airwaves, which is a shame because this is a fresh, intelligent collection. This is an impressive debut, and the Eurogliders are definitely a band to watch.
A chill wind pierced the very heart of the Saint Mary's campus. At approximately 11 p.m., the shelter opened its door. It was 10 p.m. and people began to slowly trickle into the basement of the Mary's campus.

An orderly and routine has set in on the place, although the shelter opened only a month ago. Rev. Bert Hartman and his wife were the team captains that night, assisted by four student volunteers, of which I was one. We had a great deal to do before the shelter closed at 7:30 a.m. the following morning.

We first handed out cups of coffee to all who wanted it. The people reclined at the tables and chairs set up in the church basement. There was a feeling of relief in the atmosphere.

The place was warm and soothing, with the sounds of the night. Freshman Ed Gomez said later, "I think I was afraid of embarrassing myself."

“After everyone had their coffee, we went out and talked to the 21 student volunteers, of which I was one. We had a great deal to do before the shelter closed at 7:30 a.m. the following morning."

The men and women helped, each person clean up where he slept, but they were in no hurry. An impending feeling of depression filled the bright morning. We were tired and so was everyone else.

When asked why he volunteered, Gomez stated, "I wanted to know. I knew I grew up sheltered - I've never been exposed to deprivation. Similarly Berry said, "I used to work at a soup kitchen and I wanted to see what this shelter was like."

Another volunteer, Vivian Ostrowski, said she volunteered because, "I get tired of the myopic, classtrophobic vision of the college campus."

Each volunteer had his personal reasons for assisting at the shelter, and each came back with his own impression, left by the different personalities of the people who stayed in the shelter.

Berry said, "A lot of people there were at a bad point of life." Gomez noted, "The people there are just like you and me. It's just that they don't have a roof over their heads."

Both students said they would gladly volunteer again and Gomez said he would love to make it a weekly thing. This would be difficult because the shelter is now enjoying overwhelming support from the Notre Dame/Saint Mary's community, and there are an abundance of volunteers.

We cleaned the basement that morning and waited until the final person left. The people were slow to leave, and as the last ones finally collected their belongings and walked out into the street, the basement was locked.

The four of us climbed into the front-covered car to go back to our sheltered life of books, grades, and school. As we drove down Highway 31, we saw three of the people walking along with their belongings.

The men slept in a separate room, partitioned by a sliding-door. Each person collected a blanket and foam rubber mat encased in plastic to use for his night's sleep. Some stacked out their place for the night and went right to sleep. Others took longer, cleaning up before turning in. Most wore their clothes to bed. A late arrival, Ron, was a little drunk and had to be helped with his bedding. Some of the people knew him and told him to shut up and go to sleep.

Finally the lights went out. We sat in the church kitchen, feeling like parents after their children had gone to bed. Most of the people fell asleep right away. The place was filled with gentle snoring, like a nursery. A lone voice talked in his sleep, breaking the silence, holding imaginary conversations with his girlfriend.

We stayed up the rest of the night, watching over the place, and sleeping in three hour shifts. At 6:30 the next morning we were up to make more coffee and wake people up. All of the blankets had to be sprawled and the Red Cross cleaned.

The men and women helped, each person clean up where he slept, but they were in no hurry. An impending feeling of depression filled the bright morning. We were tired and so was everyone else.

When asked why he volunteered, Gomez stated, "I wanted to know. I knew I grew up sheltered - I've never been exposed to deprivation. Similarly Berry said, "I used to work at a soup kitchen and I wanted to see what this shelter was like."

Another volunteer, Vivian Ostrowski, said she volunteered because, "I get tired of the myopic, classtrophobic vision of the college campus."

Each volunteer had his personal reasons for assisting at the shelter, and each came back with his own impression, left by the different personalities of the people who stayed in the shelter.

Berry said, "A lot of people there were at a bad point of life." Gomez noted, "The people there are just like you and me. It's just that they don't have a roof over their heads."

Both students said they would gladly volunteer again and Gomez said he would love to make it a weekly thing. This would be difficult because the shelter is now enjoying overwhelming support from the Notre Dame/Saint Mary's community, and there are an abundance of volunteers.

We cleaned the basement that morning and waited until the final person left. The people were slow to leave, and as the last ones finally collected their belongings and walked out into the street, the basement was locked.

The four of us climbed into the front-covered car to go back to our sheltered life of books, grades, and school. As we drove down Highway 31, we saw three of the people walking along with their belongings. We had just served coffee to them 15 minutes ago, and already we were worlds apart.

Berry said of that night, "I think the hardest part about going was seeing those people, meeting them and not seeing them again. I just wonder what happened to them..." Gomez added by saying, "It was a verification of what I have always known but never seen..." And with that we sped back to campus to begin our day.

Are you depressed and dreary? Are you sick of the lack of sunshine? Does the winter weather get you down? For those of you who have never experienced a South Bend winter, the best is yet to come! Complainting about South Bend weather is one of the most common sources of small talk around. Students moving from the South have quite a bit to say about the winter weather. Kevin Lanier, a sophomore transfer student from Texas A&M has always lived in the south, but he doesn't mind the cold climate. He says, "It's a new and exciting change of pace."

Saint Mary's sophomore Gina Hazell, a native of Ft. Lauderdale, Florida, agrees that winter is a "nice change of season." Natives from the South find their wardrobes inadequate to face the brisk and frigid South Bend weather. For some, entire new wardrobes have to be purchased. Most go to shops to buy their wool coats, pants, sweaters, mittens, hats, and scarfs.

The biggest problem with winter is that we have no control over its cycle. The sun shines rarely, approx. 66 days of the winter season. According to both Lanier and Hazell, "I would take a beach any day!" But experiencing the snow and bitter cold for the first time can be intriguing, although, after a while it can become miserable.

Snow allows one to release anxiety from anticipated exams. And, the annual North and South Quad snowball fight is a prime example of this pressure release.

For some, the winter weather builds tension because of the confinement that the cold climate imposes. Confinement may help those who are forced to stay in and study or it may hinder those who want to play in the snow most of the day. Restlessness and depression set in and most are happy when spring arrives. After enduring three months of harsh weather, the arrival of warmth and sunshine is appreciated all the more.

For those of you who have not experienced South Bend weather, the worse is yet to come! So, break out the hot chocolate, long johns, and boots. It won't be that bad though because there are only 93 days until spring breaks!

Lace up for a South Bend winter by Heather Miller features staff writer

Art

Peter Pokorny

features staff writer

Art

Tara's new work expresses her individuality further, she does not glue his work but instead leaves the pot raw. Further more, she does not glaze his work but instead leaves the pot raw and the colors come through the clay. She has used unique colors and glazes to give her work a sense of movement. Her work is unique to her and her work is highly appreciated. She has created a new and exciting change of pace. She has used a new and exciting change of pace. She has used a new and exciting change of pace.

In his drawings he relates his imagery to animals. He draws them in his own unique way. He is known for his unique and creative work. He is well known for his unique and creative work. He is well known for his unique and creative work.

In his drawings he relates his imagery to animals. He draws them in his own unique way. He is known for his unique and creative work. He is well known for his unique and creative work. He is well known for his unique and creative work.
HORSE DIES NEED MY MITTENS ETC. the horse died. we need the mittens, etc. we need to know where to send them. someone please call me at 233-1000 mon-Mon, now.

LOST: Cathleen Murray, 1050 đất st. a white and black cat. no collar. she is missing. any info please call Cathleen at 233-1000.

WANTED: going out tomorrow to o'hare? need a ride. call me at 468-3400. thanks.

WANTED: anti-wrinkle cream. any info please contact me at 684-8793. thanks.

WANTED: MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ALL OF YOU. Wishing you a wonderful holiday season. Dragonfly

WANTED: new hair dye. please call 227-2158.

THINGS TO DO TODAY:

1. Finish Christmas shopping.
2. Write holiday cards.
3. Cook a special meal.
4. Take a walk in the park.
5. Read a good book.

Happy Holidays!
Gary Carter and Mets reach final agreement

Associated Press

NEW YORK - Gary Carter already had the champagne on ice at his home in West Palm Beach, Fla., when New York Mets General Manager Frank Cashen and associates arrived to talk about a contract.

"I went down there knowing I would have to negotiate, but in my mind, he already had the uniform on." The deal that sent four Mets, including shortstop Hubie Brooks and catcher Mike Fitzgerald, to the Montreal Expos for Carter was made during baseball's winter meetings last week. It was completed Monday when the Mets agreed to assume Carter's contract and include a no-trade clause.

In return for the no-trade clause, Carter agreed not to exercise his right to demand a trade during the remaining five years on his contract, believed to be worth about $1.87 million per year.

Carter was not taking calls yesterday, but he had a 2 p.m. news conference scheduled for today at Shea Stadium. Yesterday, Cashen described the high-level negotiations to a small gathering of reporters at the ballpark.

"We had to change some of the conditions in his contract," Cashen said, "so we had to find a typewriter. He (Carter) found an old one he used in college. The ribbon was dried up a little bit, but Al (Harrarin, Mets vice president) pushed it out with one finger."

The trade that sent four Mets, including shortstop Hubie Brooks and catcher Mike Fitzgerald, to the Montreal Expos for Carter was made during baseball's winter meetings last week. It was completed Monday when the Mets agreed to assume Carter's contract and include a no-trade clause.

In return for the no-trade clause, Carter agreed not to exercise his right to demand a trade during the remaining five years on his contract, believed to be worth about $1.87 million per year.

Carter was not taking calls yesterday, but he had a 2 p.m. news conference scheduled for today at Shea Stadium. Yesterday, Cashen described the high-level negotiations to a small gathering of reporters at the ballpark.

"We had to change some of the conditions in his contract," Cashen said, "so we had to find a typewriter. He (Carter) found an old one he used in college. The ribbon was dried up a little bit, but Al (Harrarin, Mets vice president) pushed it out with one finger."

The team finally will return to Notre Dame on Jan. 14 to take on the Flames of Illinois-Chicago. The team played last season, and the Irish were 19-1 in Chicago. The game begins at 7 p.m. in the ACC.

TYPING

Term Papers
Resumes
Letters
Manuscripts
Word Processing
Call Chris at:
234-8997

The NROTC College Program offers you two years of expense money that's worth up to $2,000 plus the challenge of becoming a Navy officer with early responsibilities and decision-making authority.

During your last two years in college the Navy pays for uniforms, NROTC textbooks, and an allowance of $100 a month for up to 20 months. Upon graduation and completion of requirements, you become a Navy officer, with important decision-making responsibilities.

Call your Navy representative for more information on this challenging program.

Navy Officers Get Responsibility Fast.

STUDENT SPECIAL ALOHA BOWL

December 24-31, 1984

$899 per person triple occupancy

TRAVEL WITH THE TEAM
CHARTER FLIGHT FROM CHICAGO
6 NIGHTS WAIIKII Accommodations
TRAVANES IN HAWAII WITH TICKET TO THE ALOHA BOWL

Call downtown office only 236-2656 ask for the Aloha Bowl
Master Card or Visa accepted student ID required

Box 1602 South Bend, Indiana 46634 (219)236-2656
Irish remain absent

Georgetown, DePaul still top poll

Associated Press

College basketball's top two teams-No. 1 Georgetown, winner of 16 straight games over two seasons and the defending NCAA champion, and runner-up DePaul-are heading for a showdown Saturday.

Georgetown, which raised its record this season to 5-0 with an 82-46 throttling of Nevada-Las Vegas last Sunday, is the only unbeaten team in the nation. The Hoyas received 63 of 64 first-place votes and 1,059 points from a national panel of sports writers and broadcasters in retaining the top spot.

DePaul, also 5-0, and which travels to Landover to face the Hoyas in another nationally televised contest Saturday, collected the other first-place vote and 1,188 points to hold second place.

Men continued from page 20

on people. We have to be careful that they don't sneak up on us."

For Notre Dame, the break will be a chance to get everyone healthy and work on a few things in practice Gillen says the Notre Dame coaches will try to sharpen execution and work on the little things in the additional practice time they have with the players after finals.

"We also want to improve our press," the Irish assistant adds. "But the key for us the rest of the year is to improve our inside scoring. We need to get points out of our inside people consistently because you win with the big guys against quality teams."

Conceivably, Notre Dame could win its four games during break, come home and beat Holy Cross at home on Jan. 16, and be 10-1 when DePaul comes to the ACC on the 20th for a rematch of last Saturday's loss at the Rosemont Horizon. But that is a long way off.

"Those are really going to be tough four games," says Gillen. "Three out of four would be great. It's certainly going to be easy. The key to the rest of the season will be these four games and to stay healthy."

Just as important to the season, though, is the other game which will take place from Friday until next Wednesday-final exams.

---

THE S.A.B. ANNOUNCES THE OPENING OF:

THE NOTRE DAME STUDENT SAVER

THE STUDENT GENERAL STORE FOR STUDENT NEEDS IN SCHOOL SUPPLIES & BEAUTY AIDS

opening: TUESDAY, JANUARY 15, 1985

hours: 4 - 8 pm MON - FRI

---

Irish remain absent

Georgetown, DePaul still top poll

Associated Press

College basketball's top two teams-No. 1 Georgetown, winner of 16 straight games over two seasons and the defending NCAA champion, and runner-up DePaul-are heading for a showdown Saturday.

Georgetown, which raised its record this season to 5-0 with an 82-46 throttling of Nevada-Las Vegas last Sunday, is the only unbeaten team in the nation. The Hoyas received 63 of 64 first-place votes and 1,059 points from a national panel of sports writers and broadcasters in retaining the top spot.

DePaul, also 5-0, and which travels to Landover to face the Hoyas in another nationally televised contest Saturday, collected the other first-place vote and 1,188 points to hold second place.

---

THE S.A.B. ANNOUNCES THE OPENING OF:

THE NOTRE DAME STUDENT SAVER

THE STUDENT GENERAL STORE FOR STUDENT NEEDS IN SCHOOL SUPPLIES & BEAUTY AIDS

opening: TUESDAY, JANUARY 15, 1985

hours: 4 - 8 pm MON - FRI

---

Irish remain absent

Georgetown, DePaul still top poll

Associated Press

College basketball's top two teams-No. 1 Georgetown, winner of 16 straight games over two seasons and the defending NCAA champion, and runner-up DePaul-are heading for a showdown Saturday.

Georgetown, which raised its record this season to 5-0 with an 82-46 throttling of Nevada-Las Vegas last Sunday, is the only unbeaten team in the nation. The Hoyas received 63 of 64 first-place votes and 1,059 points from a national panel of sports writers and broadcasters in retaining the top spot.

DePaul, also 5-0, and which travels to Landover to face the Hoyas in another nationally televised contest Saturday, collected the other first-place vote and 1,188 points to hold second place.

---

THE S.A.B. ANNOUNCES THE OPENING OF:

THE NOTRE DAME STUDENT SAVER

THE STUDENT GENERAL STORE FOR STUDENT NEEDS IN SCHOOL SUPPLIES & BEAUTY AIDS

opening: TUESDAY, JANUARY 15, 1985

hours: 4 - 8 pm MON - FRI

---
Valparaiso tonight
Wrestlers take on first good foes

By JOE BRUNETTI
Sports Writer

Fran McCann's Irish wrestling squad plays host to a comparatively weaker squad from Valparaiso tonight in the ACC while trying to improve its dual meet record to 4-0 and prepare for its upcoming stiff competition.

Last year Notre Dame annihilated Valpo, 54-0, and McCann's much-improved squad should be able to increase that margin this year. The only way the Irish will drop this one is if McCann's entire squad comes down with a severe case of mono; otherwise, the Irish will head into Christmas break with an unblemished record.

The few days off before the Irish travel to Deland, Fla., for the Sunshine Open will provide the Irish with some much-needed time to heal some injuries.

"Christmas break will give them the chance to get away," comments the Notre Dame mentor. "It will give our guys a good chance to heal up.

Among the Irish casualties are Guy Locksmith (back), Matt Stassen (knee), and Eric Crown (ankle). Crown has had his ankle in a cast since he was injured in the season opener at the Michigan State Invitational. The Irish also will get back the services of sophomore George Logsdon, who has been academically ineligible for the first semester.

"We will really be able to establish our team (during break)," said McCann. "We haven't been able to really establish our team because we have had some guys out. We're going to get all our guys back (from injuries) during Christmas."

So far the Irish have yet to encounter any tough teams in their dual-meet schedule, and the tournament competition has been fairly mild, but things will change when McCann takes his squad south for Christmas.

At the Sunshine Open on Dec. 28 and 29, the Irish will encounter the likes of Syracuse and last year's tournament champion, Navy. They also may encounter North Carolina State, whose heavyweight weighs in at close to 350 pounds.

The Irish then will travel north to Clemson, S.C., to take on the Clemson Tigers and Southwestern Missouri State in a tri-meet on Jan. 11 before competing in the Tiger 8 Tournament the next day.

"We're going to come against some real quality teams," says McCann. "That's what I want. I want some tougher competition."

After the Irish return from break they will be taking on teams such as Purdue and Nebraska.

"We're finishing the first half (of the season)," said McCann. "Now the competition will get better. Our guys will have a chance to relax, and we can get a lot more accomplished in the practice room."

With the Cornhuskers and the Boilermakers on tap for next semester the Irish will need to accomplish a lot in practice.

---

Observer Sports Briefs are accepted Sunday through Thursday until 4 p.m. at The Observer office on the third floor of LaFortune. Briefs must be clearly written. - The Observer

---

Saturday, December 12, 1984 - page 18

---

SAVE WITH PIZZA HUT®
SPECIAL DELIVERY
IN SOUTH BEND AND MISHAWAKA

"And delivery is FREE!"
Get the great taste of Pizza Hut® pizza delivered right to your door! Call the number shown above for Pizza Hut® Special Delivery to your area.
FRESH! HOT! FAST!

Hours:
M-F: 9 - 9; Sat. - Sun.:

Limited Delivery Area:
Our drivers carry no more than $20.

CALL: 232-2499
Cash only 1985

$3 OFF any Large Pizza or $2 OFF any Medium Pizza!

Special Delivery
Pizza Hut®

CALL 232-6350 M-F 9 - 9 Sat 8 - 5
call for delivery or carry-out
Welcome

Merry Christmas
from the hairumm staff

Stop by and let us help you look your best for the holidays

Good Luck on Finals!
Take an hour off to let your brain rest and your body soak up some warm rays
Exam Week Special
Buy 2 sessions for $10 and get a third one FREE
Good through 12/24/84

The Saint Tropez Tan
is here
8 Sessions Free
By 2 packages at $35.00 and get an additional package FREE. Share this special with a friend(s).

Jan's Hair-Um
for men & women

Student cuts always with id.

Merry Christmas
from the hairumm staff

Good Luck on Finals!
Take an hour off to let your brain rest and your body soak up some warm rays
Exam Week Special
Buy 2 sessions for $10 and get a third one FREE
Good through 12/24/84

The Saint Tropez Tan
is here
8 Sessions Free
By 2 packages at $35.00 and get an additional package FREE. Share this special with a friend(s).

Call 234-6350
483 Dunne Way South
Roseland-South Bend

Walk-ins welcome
Call for delivery or carry-out

Welcome

The Saint Tropez Tan
is here
8 Sessions Free
By 2 packages at $35.00 and get an additional package FREE. Share this special with a friend(s).

Call 234-6350
483 Dunne Way South
Roseland-South Bend

Walk-ins welcome
Call for delivery or carry-out
The Daily Crossword

ACROSS
1. Moet
5. A captor of Dionysus
10. Cupid
14. Arrow poison
15. Puree
16. Number of Hydra’s heads
17. Fly high
18. Tribal symbols
20. Medical symbol
22. Having the greatest age
23. Mortimer or Felix
25. Affirmative
26. Examine
29. Pair
31. Afr. village
34. Quince nuts

34. Aviators
31. Afr. village
29. Pair
26. Examine
25. Affirmative
23. Mortimer or Felix
22. Having the greatest age
20. Medical symbol
18. Tribal symbols
16. Number of Hydra’s heads
15. Puree
14. Arrow poison
10. Cupid
5. A captor of Dionysus
1. Moet

36. Adam’s grandson
38. Dionysus’ mother
46. Dionysus’ mother
1. Record
2. Calibos on
3. Honeyed drink
4. Macho Pichu
5. Played a part
6. Ought to
7. Quasimodo’s gem
8. Employ
9. Strewed in herony
10. Battery parts
11. Pericles’ cousin
12. Styles
13. Relax
19. Work at a trade
21. Mid resort
24. Resounded
26. Decision
27. Symbol of plenty
28. “...longs, vita brevis”
30. Bottoms
32. White poplar
33. Foreboding
34. Aviators
35. Pipe part
37. Appeared to be.
40. Bench
42. Flightless bird
45. Science of fertilization
46. Goat antelopes
48. Goat antelopes
50. Yarn used in fancywork
53. Be successful
55. Pest or future
56. Begone!
58. Naval VIPs
60. Country
61. Stravinsky or Shosty
62. Space agency
63. Increased
65. Acquired

48. Goat antelopes
46. Goat antelopes
45. Science of fertilization
42. Flightless bird
37. Appeared to be.
34. Aviators
33. Foreboding
35. Pipe part
30. Bottoms
32. White poplar
28. “...longs, vita brevis”
26. Decision
24. Resounded
21. Mid resort
19. Work at a trade
12. Styles
13. Relax
7. Quasimodo’s gem
8. Employ
9. Strewed in herony
10. Battery parts
11. Pericles’ cousin
16. Number of Hydra’s heads
15. Puree
14. Arrow poison
10. Cupid
5. A captor of Dionysus
1. Moet

DOWN
22. Manhattan
23. Affirmative
24. Resounded
26. Decision
27. Symbol of plenty
28. “...longs, vita brevis”
30. Bottoms
32. White poplar
33. Foreboding
34. Aviators
35. Pipe part
37. Appeared to be.
40. Bench
42. Flightless bird
45. Science of fertilization
46. Goat antelopes
48. Goat antelopes
50. Yarn used in fancywork
53. Be successful
55. Pest or future
56. Begone!
58. Naval VIPs
60. Country
61. Stravinsky or Shosty
62. Space agency
63. Increased
65. Acquired

The Far Side
Gary Larson

"Here, Filii C'monl... Runner, Felt!"

Tank McNamara

There's always the way to get one of the many students in the room of doom, to drum. I know NO WHAT don't have SO YOU HAHAHAAA! Doonesbury

5. A captor of Dionysus
10. Cupid
14. Arrow poison
15. Puree
16. Number of Hydra’s heads
17. Fly high
18. Tribal symbols
20. Medical symbol
22. Having the greatest age
23. Mortimer or Felix
25. Affirmative
26. Examine
29. Pair
31. Afr. village
34. Quince nuts

Bloom County
Berke Breathed

The Daily Crossword

5. A captor of Dionysus
10. Cupid
14. Arrow poison
15. Puree
16. Number of Hydra’s heads
17. Fly high
18. Tribal symbols
20. Medical symbol
22. Having the greatest age
23. Mortimer or Felix
25. Affirmative
26. Examine
29. Pair
31. Afr. village
34. Quince nuts

Bloom County
Berke Breathed

The Far Side
Gary Larson

"Here, Filii C'monl... Runner, Felt!"

Tank McNamara

There's always the way to get one of the many students in the room of doom, to drum. I know NO WHAT don't have SO YOU HAHAHAAA! Doonesbury

5. A captor of Dionysus
10. Cupid
14. Arrow poison
15. Puree
16. Number of Hydra’s heads
17. Fly high
18. Tribal symbols
20. Medical symbol
22. Having the greatest age
23. Mortimer or Felix
25. Affirmative
26. Examine
29. Pair
31. Afr. village
34. Quince nuts

Bloom County
Berke Breathed

The Far Side
Gary Larson

"Here, Filii C'monl... Runner, Felt!"

Tank McNamara

There's always the way to get one of the many students in the room of doom, to drum. I know NO WHAT don't have SO YOU HAHAHAAA! Doonesbury

5. A captor of Dionysus
10. Cupid
14. Arrow poison
15. Puree
16. Number of Hydra’s heads
17. Fly high
18. Tribal symbols
20. Medical symbol
22. Having the greatest age
23. Mortimer or Felix
25. Affirmative
26. Examine
29. Pair
31. Afr. village
34. Quince nuts

Bloom County
Berke Breathed

The Far Side
Gary Larson

"Here, Filii C'monl... Runner, Felt!"

Tank McNamara

There's always the way to get one of the many students in the room of doom, to drum. I know NO WHAT don't have SO YOU HAHAHAAA! Doonesbury

5. A captor of Dionysus
10. Cupid
14. Arrow poison
15. Puree
16. Number of Hydra’s heads
17. Fly high
18. Tribal symbols
20. Medical symbol
22. Having the greatest age
23. Mortimer or Felix
25. Affirmative
26. Examine
29. Pair
31. Afr. village
34. Quince nuts

Bloom County
Berke Breathed

The Far Side
Gary Larson

"Here, Filii C'monl... Runner, Felt!"

Tank McNamara

There's always the way to get one of the many students in the room of doom, to drum. I know NO WHAT don't have SO YOU HAHAHAAA! Doonesbury

5. A captor of Dionysus
10. Cupid
14. Arrow poison
15. Puree
16. Number of Hydra’s heads
17. Fly high
18. Tribal symbols
20. Medical symbol
22. Having the greatest age
23. Mortimer or Felix
25. Affirmative
26. Examine
29. Pair
31. Afr. village
34. Quince nuts

Bloom County
Berke Breathed

The Far Side
Gary Larson

"Here, Filii C'monl... Runner, Felt!"

Tank McNamara

There's always the way to get one of the many students in the room of doom, to drum. I know NO WHAT don't have SO YOU HAHAHAAA! Doonesbury

5. A captor of Dionysus
10. Cupid
14. Arrow poison
15. Puree
16. Number of Hydra’s heads
17. Fly high
18. Tribal symbols
20. Medical symbol
22. Having the greatest age
23. Mortimer or Felix
25. Affirmative
26. Examine
29. Pair
31. Afr. village
34. Quince nuts

Bloom County
Berke Breathed

The Far Side
Gary Larson

"Here, Filii C'monl... Runner, Felt!"

Tank McNamara

There's always the way to get one of the many students in the room of doom, to drum. I know NO WHAT don't have SO YOU HAHAHAAA! Doonesbury

5. A captor of Dionysus
10. Cupid
14. Arrow poison
15. Puree
16. Number of Hydra’s heads
17. Fly high
18. Tribal symbols
20. Medical symbol
22. Having the greatest age
23. Mortimer or Felix
25. Affirmative
26. Examine
29. Pair
31. Afr. village
34. Quince nuts

Bloom County
Berke Breathed

The Far Side
Gary Larson

"Here, Filii C'monl... Runner, Felt!"

Tank McNamara

There's always the way to get one of the many students in the room of doom, to drum. I know NO WHAT don't have SO YOU HAHAHAAA! Doonesbury

5. A captor of Dionysus
10. Cupid
14. Arrow poison
15. Puree
16. Number of Hydra’s heads
17. Fly high
18. Tribal symbols
20. Medical symbol
22. Having the greatest age
23. Mortimer or Felix
25. Affirmative
26. Examine
29. Pair
31. Afr. village
34. Quince nuts

Bloom County
Berke Breathed

The Far Side
Gary Larson

"Here, Filii C'monl... Runner, Felt!"
Irish to play tough contests over break

By JEFF BLUMB
Assistant Sports Editor

The Notre Dame men's basketball team plays five games over Christmas break - one at home and four on the road. The Irish will have to do it with less than 5.5 irish even pack their bags, though, they must first contend with that home game-final exams.

In recent years, Notre Dame coach Digger Phelps has had a whole lot of luck in keeping his players eligible through the holidays. Last year, Dan Duff and Barry Spencer fell for the wayside in December. Right now, however, it appears that Phelps will have everyone eligible for second semester.

"Everyone looks okay going into their finals," said Irish assistant coach Pete Gillen. "The real tests of their character are going to begin when they win their exams.

A big goal for Notre Dame after finals will be to break into the Associated Press Top Twenty, which the Irish failed to do this week despite their 74-63 upset victory over then-11th-ranked Indiana last Tuesday.

In the West Coast Conference, the Notre Dame hockey team readies for road trip

By ED DOMANSKY

The Notre Dame hockey team may not play a game again until Jan. 2, but preparations already are underway for what should be a very challenging four-game road trip to the East Coast over Christmas break.

On the second day of the new year, the 5-7 Irish will take on the Tigers of Princeton. Then on Friday and Saturday, Jan. 4 and 5, Notre Dame, along with Yale, Northern Michigan and Colgate, will participate in the second annual Phoenix Mutual Hockey Classic in Hartford, Conn.

The Irish will take a day off to travel then, on Monday, Jan. 7, they will round out the road swing in Worcester, Mass., where they will meet Holy Cross.

When Notre Dame arrives in Princeton, it will take on a Tiger squad that finished last season with a dismal 6-1-18 mark. But after eight games, the Irish are 5-4-0.

Irish to play tough contests over break

The Notre Dame men's basketball team will play five games over Christmas break - one at home and four on the road. The Irish will have to do it with less than 5.5 irish even pack their bags, though, they must first contend with that home game-final exams.

In recent years, Notre Dame coach Digger Phelps has had a whole lot of luck in keeping his players eligible through the holidays. Last year, Dan Duff and Barry Spencer fell for the wayside in December. Right now, however, it appears that Phelps will have everyone eligible for second semester.

"Everyone looks okay going into their finals," said Irish assistant coach Pete Gillen. "The real tests of their character are going to begin when they win their exams.

A big goal for Notre Dame after finals will be to break into the Associated Press Top Twenty, which the Irish failed to do this week despite their 74-63 upset victory over then-11th-ranked Indiana last Tuesday.

In the West Coast Conference, the Notre Dame hockey team readies for road trip

By ED DOMANSKY

The Notre Dame hockey team may not play a game again until Jan. 2, but preparations already are underway for what should be a very challenging four-game road trip to the East Coast over Christmas break.

On the second day of the new year, the 5-7 Irish will take on the Tigers of Princeton. Then on Friday and Saturday, Jan. 4 and 5, Notre Dame, along with Yale, Northern Michigan and Colgate, will participate in the second annual Phoenix Mutual Hockey Classic in Hartford, Conn.

The Irish will take a day off to travel then, on Monday, Jan. 7, they will round out the road swing in Worcester, Mass., where they will meet Holy Cross.

When Notre Dame arrives in Princeton, it will take on a Tiger squad that finished last season with a dismal 6-1-18 mark. But after eight games, the Irish are 5-4-0.

Irish to play tough contests over break

The Notre Dame men's basketball team will play five games over Christmas break - one at home and four on the road. The Irish will have to do it with less than 5.5 irish even pack their bags, though, they must first contend with that home game-final exams.

In recent years, Notre Dame coach Digger Phelps has had a whole lot of luck in keeping his players eligible through the holidays. Last year, Dan Duff and Barry Spencer fell for the wayside in December. Right now, however, it appears that Phelps will have everyone eligible for second semester.

"Everyone looks okay going into their finals," said Irish assistant coach Pete Gillen. "The real tests of their character are going to begin when they win their exams.

A big goal for Notre Dame after finals will be to break into the Associated Press Top Twenty, which the Irish failed to do this week despite their 74-63 upset victory over then-11th-ranked Indiana last Tuesday.

In the West Coast Conference, the Notre Dame hockey team readies for road trip

By ED DOMANSKY

The Notre Dame hockey team may not play a game again until Jan. 2, but preparations already are underway for what should be a very challenging four-game road trip to the East Coast over Christmas break.

On the second day of the new year, the 5-7 Irish will take on the Tigers of Princeton. Then on Friday and Saturday, Jan. 4 and 5, Notre Dame, along with Yale, Northern Michigan and Colgate, will participate in the second annual Phoenix Mutual Hockey Classic in Hartford, Conn.

The Irish will take a day off to travel then, on Monday, Jan. 7, they will round out the road swing in Worcester, Mass., where they will meet Holy Cross.

When Notre Dame arrives in Princeton, it will take on a Tiger squad that finished last season with a dismal 6-1-18 mark. But after eight games, the Irish are 5-4-0.

Irish to play tough contests over break

The Notre Dame men's basketball team will play five games over Christmas break - one at home and four on the road. The Irish will have to do it with less than 5.5 irish even pack their bags, though, they must first contend with that home game-final exams.

In recent years, Notre Dame coach Digger Phelps has had a whole lot of luck in keeping his players eligible through the holidays. Last year, Dan Duff and Barry Spencer fell for the wayside in December. Right now, however, it appears that Phelps will have everyone eligible for second semester.

"Everyone looks okay going into their finals," said Irish assistant coach Pete Gillen. "The real tests of their character are going to begin when they win their exams.

A big goal for Notre Dame after finals will be to break into the Associated Press Top Twenty, which the Irish failed to do this week despite their 74-63 upset victory over then-11th-ranked Indiana last Tuesday.

In the West Coast Conference, the Notre Dame hockey team readies for road trip

By ED DOMANSKY

The Notre Dame hockey team may not play a game again until Jan. 2, but preparations already are underway for what should be a very challenging four-game road trip to the East Coast over Christmas break.

On the second day of the new year, the 5-7 Irish will take on the Tigers of Princeton. Then on Friday and Saturday, Jan. 4 and 5, Notre Dame, along with Yale, Northern Michigan and Colgate, will participate in the second annual Phoenix Mutual Hockey Classic in Hartford, Conn.

The Irish will take a day off to travel then, on Monday, Jan. 7, they will round out the road swing in Worcester, Mass., where they will meet Holy Cross.

When Notre Dame arrives in Princeton, it will take on a Tiger squad that finished last season with a dismal 6-1-18 mark. But after eight games, the Irish are 5-4-0.