Federal jury finds Time magazine did not libel Ariel Sharon in article

Associated Press

NEW YORK — A federal jury decided yesterday that Time magazine did not libel the former Israeli Defense Minister Ariel Sharon when it alleged he was a mass murderer of Palestinians, but is said some Time employees were careless in putting together the story.

In a person jury decided that Time did not show "actual malice" in publishing a disputed paragraph, which is the term found to be both defamatory and false. For "actual malice," it would have had to prove that Time published the paragraph knowing it was false or with "reckless disregard" of whether it was true or false.

Sharon claimed victory, told the council each dorm's commissioner would be responsible for Ombudsman will also manning the ballot boxes during the Feb. 12 election will be to elect the student government president, vice-president, and senate. The March election will elect class of- ficers and an off-campus commis- sioner.

Stressing an election free of mistakes and fraud, Mouasher discussed ways of preventing such infractio ns as ballot-box stuffing and campaigning by the candidates on election day.

According to Mouasher, such methods for preventing fraud would include the use of student ID's, procedure sheets, computer listing SF students, and at least two people watching the ballot boxes at all times. Ombudsman will also have spot checks with "people walking around pozos as potential witnesses" if needed, to have their ID's.

Voter fraud has not been a pro- blem in recent elections but Mouasher doesn't want to take any chances.

"I want to want to sense that we have no objections from anyone," said Mouasher (who has the right to be a Ferrington as possible."

Tim McDowell, presiding over the first council meeting of the spring semester, told the council members a future meeting might be called to close the public door due to the sensitivity of the issues to be discussed.

The proposed ban to the public, which will include reporters from the Observer and St. Mary's, is to en- sure that council members will be able to discuss the issues freely.

"I'm not criticizing The Observer," said McDowell, "I want council members to be able to discuss the key issues intelligent­ly and openly without having to worry about their statements being taken the wrong way.

"McDowell is not sure whether or not a future Judicial Council meeting will have to be closed.

"I haven't had a definite deci­sion about whether to close it or not," he said. "A reporter may be able to stay and report it, but we can't look over what the reporter had written to make sure nothing is written or taken out of context.

Information theft named as motive for break-in

A weekend intruder in the Student Government offices apparently was "looking for some kind of information," according to Student Body Vice President Cathy David.

Bertino, however, does not "want to speculate" about the kind of information which was stolen or the motive for its theft. He did say there were no leads or suspects in the case.

"There doesn't seem to be anything more," he said. "A reporter may be able to stay and report it, but we can't look over what the reporter had written to make sure nothing is written or taken out of context.

In Brief

President Reagan and his 6-year-old grand-son "really had a ball" building a snowman on the White House lawn over the weekend, Michael Reagan says. Michael was a guest in the White House for Reagan's inaugural celebrations, along with his wife Colleen, daughter Ashley, 20 months, and Cameron. Michael, who had complained of not being invited to the White House, was pleased at how well things went between his father and his son. Cameron, the New York Daily News reported yesterday. "Dad called me in my room and asked if he could take Cameron into the garden. They spent about half an hour building the snowman," Michael said. "They really had a ball." - AP

Three professional basketball players announced plans yesterday in New York to raise money for starving Ethiopians. "We do feel we can make a difference," Bernard King of the New York Knicks said at a news conference with fellow Knick Ernie Grunfeld, Quinn Buckner of the Boston Celtics, National Basketball Association Commissioner David Stern, and Mayor of New York City Ed Koch. They said players on the Feb. 10 NBA All-Star game in Indianapolis would contribute their pay, totaling about $50,000, and the league would match their contribution, raising the total to $100,000. - AP

EPA penalizes waste

Associated Press

CHICAGO - The Environmental Protection Agency announced yesterday it is seeking the largest toxic waste penalty in its history, $6.8 million, against Chemical Waste Management Inc. of suburban Oak Brook, Ill.

The agency filed a civil administrative complaint with EPA's regional hearing clerk yesterday, alleging the toxic waste-handler violated federal regulations governing the "use, record-keeping and marking of PCBs between 1980 and 1983" in storing the material. Company officials could not be reached immediately for comment. The penalty is the largest ever sought by the federal government under the Toxic Substances Control Act, said EPA spokeswoman Virginia Donohua.

Saint Mary's is awarded large grant

BY MARY FRAN GESCH

News Staff

The National Endowment for the Humanities has awarded Saint Mary's College a $375,000 challenge grant which will be used for faculty development in the humanities. The grant will fund the College's first chair, for Professor Bruno Schlesinger, the chairman of the Humanistic Studies Department.

"Because of its uniqueness, the Humanistic Studies Program helped obtain the grant for Saint Mary's," said Anne Fed, assistant vice president for college relations.

Schlesinger developed the Humanistic Studies Program in 1956. Previously, he taught history and originally wanted to start the program within the history department. The Christian Culture Program is based on ideas of the late English scholar Christopher Holston, then chairman of the history department.

"Each year prizes are given to students for the best essays on topics in the humanities, but the Humanistic Studies Program in 1956 was unique in that the money was not given to students but rather to faculty," Schlesinger said.

Schlesinger points out the money will be used for all the humanities, not just the English department. "The award will enable me to do more work in my field," he said. "I also have research underway on F. Scott Fitzgerald, the writer, and not the public figure, and we will use the grant to support that research."

FEBRUARY MEANS "MISCHIEF" FOR MOVIEGOERS
Doug McKeon is burning up—by getting dangerously close to college without hitting a "homing run" with any girl, much less Kelly Preston, the cutest one in the class. But when he is faced with the truth, he and Doug will settle for "a single." That is, until big city buddie and screen new-timer Chris Evans arrives at school and bets that he can help Doug hit a grand slam.

A winning cast
The cast of "Mischief" is particularly hip. Doug McKeon is "the guy in the "Turf" game, the Snowman," and Hutton has followed his Oscar-winning debut in "Ordinary People." Sigourney Weaver is a charismatic screen presence in films such as "Taps," "Daniel" and "Iceman." Joining Hutton in this exciting urban adventure are Robert Urich, Kim Cattrall, Robert Carr, Darren McGavin and Peter Boyle.

Interhall basketball races heat up
By FRANK HUEMMER
Sports Writer

At the frigid temperatures of South Bend begin to rise, the men's interhall basketball "A" league action is starting to heat up. The nine races in the three leagues are unfolding into tight battles in which the remaining games are certain to be packed with excitement as the teams fight for the top of the playoffs.

"The first division will go down to the wire and right now anything can happen," said Flanner captain Pete Vrdolyak.

His analysis appears to be correct, as the ACC league shows Flanner, Dillon, Giff Campus and South tied at 1-0.

Women

Maryland is not a two-man show, though. Keith Gastlin, a 6-5 sophomore, is developing into one of the better rebounding centers in the country, while 6-5 senior guard Jeff O'Brien (6.9 ppg.) and 6-10 freshman center Tom Jones (7.5 ppg) and Terry Matvey's current standard of 745, are coming out of the box.

The Terps will be relying on their young players to help out Bias and Branch. Freshman Derick Lewis has shown flashes of brilliance while scoring 18 points and pulling down 6.6 rebounds per game. Junior transfer Tom Jones (7.5 ppg) and Terry Matvey's current standard of 745, are coming out of the box.

The Irish are the favorite in the ACC, as they hold a 3-1 record.

The Big Ten has three teams in contention. Dillon (3-1) knocked off Holy Cross (1-3), 84-40, and Grace remained unbeaten with a 72-56 triumph over Off Campus (2-2). Also Alumni (2-2), but the upset in the division occurred when Kenen edged Morrisey, 30-35. A tip-in by Jim Reed with 10 seconds left propelled Kenen to its first victory of the season over previously undefeated Morrisey.

"It's about time we finally won a close game," said Kenen captain Mychal Schulz, whose team has lost three games by a total of 12 points.

With Morrisey's first loss, Grace takes over the division lead at 4-0, followed by Dillon and Morrisey at 3-1. Finally, in a showdown between the divisional leaders of the Pac Ten, Soris quedaded by St. Ed's, 37-36, giving it sole possession of first place.

"It was a big victory for us, and it will be a good win for the last time we see St. Ed's," noted Sorin captain Pat Collins.

In this game, which was close throughout, Steve Beuerlein's 14 points led Soris while Brian Behrens' 11 points paced St. Ed's.

"It was real war out there," said St. Ed's Finger about the Sorin game.

With the loss, St. Ed's slipped to a second-place tie with Grace at 3-1. Grace remained in the playoff picture by defeating Stanford, 60-50, while the Flanner (2-2) trounced Giff Campus (8-4), 67-40.

It appears certain that the second half of the men's interhall "A" league basketball season should be filled with plenty of excitement as the three divisional races begin to take shape.

Irish take to road to continue classic series with Terrapins

By MIKE SULLIVAN
Sports Editor

January 27, 1979

With Maryland trailing No. 1 Notre Dame, 65-64 and one final seconds ticking down, Terp center Larry Gibson gets a pass under the basket and banks it in with one second left. Bruce Flowers is whistled for a fouling foul. Gibson sinks the foul shot and Maryland pulls off the upset, 67-66.

January 26, 1980 - Maryland erases a seven-point Notre Dame lead, finally taking a 63-62 lead with 15 seconds left when Alpine King snags an inbound pass and scores on a layup. However, Irish guard Tracy Jackson takes the game in for a three-point play and the Irish go on to win, 52-47.

The Maryland Terrapins and Notre Dame began playing each other in 1974. Other in 1974. At the time, both teams were among the best in the nation, so it appeared that the series had the potential to become one of college basketball's greatest rivalries. 11 games, of which Notre Dame has won six, is obvious that the Terps, which wisely has been everything anyone could have expected. The last three games in the series have been decided by one point, while each of the last six has been decided by five points or less. It does not get much tighter than this.

As usual, both teams enter the game with a lot to gain. Charles "Lefty" Derril's Terrapins have flirted with the Top 20 all year and Notre Dame would love to keep them within breathing distance of the list. More importantly, however, Maryland needs to pile up as many wins as possible outside of the brutal Atlantic Coast Conference, because ACC wins are always tough to pick up.

Notre Dame has even more to gain. The Terps will have to prove to their fans that they can beat one of the best teams in the nation on the road. The Irish have a very easy place for visitors to play, so it will take a solid effort by the Irish to come out of Maryland with their 10th win.

"Maryland is probably as good, if not better, than anyone we face all year," says Digger Phelps about his hosts. "Last year they won the ACC title, and at one of Lefty's best teams as far as personnel who complement each other."

Notre Dame is 2-0 against Maryland teams from last year's squad, which finished 24-8, losing to Illinois, 72-70, in the second round of the NCAAA Tournament. Center Ben Coleman and forward Herman Veal both graduated, and their loss has been felt in the middle as the Terrapins have occasionally had trouble on the boards.

The two-scorecoring punch of forward Len Bias and guard Adrian Branch has made Maryland fans forget about the losses. Bias, a 6-8 junior, and Branch, a 6-4 senior, have contributed 19.4 and 19.5 points per game, respectively. They are the only players scoring in double digits on a team that averages 74 points per game.

In the last game, the Notre Dame men's and women's fencing teams entered the ACC Championships together. The teams will be participating in a 10-team men's event and a 9-team women's event as well.

The Notre Dame men's fencing team is 10-2 in ACC play and 15-2 overall, with losses only to Princeton and Ohio State. The Irish have compiled a 7-2 record in dual meets against ACC competition, including Ohio State, Virginia, and Duke.

The Notre Dame women's fencing team is ranked 11th in the nation and 7-1 in ACC play. The Irish have compiled a 7-2 record in dual meets against ACC competition, including Ohio State, Virginia, and Duke.

The Notre Dame women's fencers are also participating in a national tournament at San Francisco State College. The women's fencers will compete in the national championship meet to be held at the NCAAA tournament bracket to be played at Santa Cruz. The women's fencers will compete in the national championship meet to be held at the NCAAA tournament bracket to be played at Santa Cruz.
