Helligwig inaugurates Center for Spirituality with theological speech

By ELLYN MASTAKO
News Staff

One of America's foremost wom­an theologians, Monika Helligwig, inaugurated Saint Mary's Center for Spirituality last night.

Helligwig's talk was the first in the annual Madeleva Lecture series. She said, "The series here initiated is dedicated to a great woman, Madeleva of the Congregation of the Holy Cross, and it is the intent of all that is done in her name that other Christian women should come to know and to realize their own po­tential for greatness."

One of the most important foundations for a true personal spirituality is an unhurried, calm non-violent, but fearelessly radical critique of the sex role definitions of one's own society in the light of the Christian vocation," said Helligwig.

Helligwig spoke of four important points with regard to spirituality: prayer, compassion, solidarity, and creative imagination.

"Christian life has at all times been marred as a life of prayer," said Hel­ligwig. "But for long centuries of our history, prayer was seen primarily as a way of withdrawing from engage­ment in human affairs and the dilem­ma and tragedies and responsibilities of human society."

"That is certainly not the kind of prayer called for in our times. Clearly, our prayer should be such that it does not evade the ultimate Christian demand which is to love charity. This is a dynamic function of prayer to give rise to a more com­pletely and exclusively as a lovingly selective loving world," said Hel­ligwig.

She said, "But it is the function of prayer to enable us to see prophethically, to be prophetic and to act like the blind feeding the blind.

Judicial Council picks coordinator

By MARK S. PANKOWSKI
News Staff

Karen Ingwersen, former assistant coordinator of the Judicial Council, was elected the new judicial coor­dinators at last night's meeting.

Ingwersen succeeds Tim McDowell in her new position.

Ingwersen's first and foremost goal is to establish a more cohesive judicial board system, believing this step could be begun through a series of workshops.

Her other goals include reviewing the by-laws of the council, improv­ing the student Judicial Council handbook, enhancing the relations between the council and the admin­istration, and expanding the current Legal Service Commission.

Besides outlining her goals for the future, Ingwersen described one of the problems the council presently faces, and suggested a way to solve it.

A lot of council members don't realize when they take the job as judicial board commissioner in their dorms, what is entailed by a seat on the council, so they don't realize what their responsibilities are," she said.

That problem can be solved by making council members aware of their responsibilities and by being more organized at the beginning of the semester," she said.

Ingwersen, who praised the work of McDowell, cited another problem the previous council faced. "This year's Judicial Council had three co­ordinators which created a problem because, except for Tim (McDowell), they didn't have the time, or really the interest, to make the council grow as a council," she said.

McDowell, who plans to remain associated with the council in the future, expressed his confidence in Ingwersen.

In addition to her experience as assistant coordinator, Ingwersen has served as Walsh Hall's judicial com­missioner the past two years.

East Race Waterway hosts U.S. kayak team tryouts

By BYRIM HILL
Copy Editor

Kayakers competing for a spot on the 1985 U.S. Whitewater Team will be padding to South Bend's East Race Waterway for team trials on April 27 and 28.

Those kayakers chosen for the team will represent the United States at the World Games in Augsburg, Germany.

Mikki Dobski, director of South Bend's Office of Community Affairs, said the East Race offers the U.S. kayakers "the opportunity to train on a waterway similar to what they'll be competing on in Augsburg, and that gives them a leg up other canoe teams."

"It's the only artificial whitewater course in North America. In fact, there are only three like ours in the entire world," Dobski said.

Because the East Race is unique, it will continue to be a center for whitewater competitions in the United States, Dobski said. The raceway will be used as a site for the 1987 Pan Am Games held in Los Angeles, but whitewater kayaking is at event, she said.

Dobski said the East Race was originally constructed as part of a

Like the blind feeding the blind

As part of the Notre Dame Engineering Olympics, freshman Anne Spock feeds classmate Greg Barron in the doughnut eating contest. The week comes to close tonight with an ice cream social in the Pittockmann Hall. Half of the proceeds of the social will go to the Millions Against MS Drive.

ND graduate named Miss Illinois, moves on to Miss USA pageant

By JEFF NIEKELSKI
News Staff

There will be more than Bob Barker's singing to look forward to in the Miss USA pageant this year. Laura Bach, a 1984 graduate of Notre Dame, will compete in the pageant at Miss Illinois.

Chosen among 125 wom­en in the Illinois contest, Bach won the right to compete at the national level and was named one of the finalists.

At Notre Dame, Bach majored in marketing and was a member of the cheerleading squad. She is now a marketing representative for IBM in a Chicago suburb.

Bach said she is busy trying to juggle her many responsibilities as Miss Illinois, which include many interviews and modeling sessions.

Laura Bach

"My weekends are spent rehearsing with my manager for the Miss USA Pageant. I work on being in shape, as well as com­ing across clearly in interviews," she said.

Bach recently appeared on "PM Magazine" and did an interview for the Cablevision network of Chicago. She will be on the guest panel of the Easter Seals Telethon on Sunday, March 31.

Bach said competing in a beauty contest has always been a desire. "It's something I've always wanted to do since I was a child. I would have regretted it the rest of my life if I didn't try," she said.

"I kept my entry a secret from my friends and never dreamed of winning, but suddenly I was alone on the stage with a crown on my head," Bach said.

Bach will be leaving on April 17 for a two week promotional stint in New York, and will then travel to the Miss USA Pageant.

"If I get to the final, I'm sure that Bob Barker will mention something about my attending Notre Dame. A lot of exciting things, like cheerleading and ap­pearing with Bob Hope last year, happened to me during my four years there."

That gives them a leg up on other canoe teams."

"It's the only artificial whitewater course in North America. In fact, there are only three like ours in the entire world," Dobski said.

Because the East Race is unique, it will continue to be a center for whitewater competitions in the United States, Dobski said. The raceway will be used as a site for the 1987 Pan Am Games held in Los Angeles, but whitewater kayaking is at event, she said.

Dobski said the East Race was originally constructed as part of a

see KAYAK, page 4
In Brief

Marc Chagall, one of the leading painters of the 20th century, died at his home in the French Riviera village of Vence last night. He was 87. His wife said he collapsed approximately 8 p.m. and died almost immediately. The exact cause of death was not immediately known. “I want to say something to you, pictures a psychic shock . . . a fourth dimension,” he once said. “Therefore, let people cease talking about fairy tales, of the fantastic, of Chagall the flying painter, when they speak of me.”

“I don’t understand Chagall at all,” he told an interviewer shortly before his 80th birthday. “All I know is that one understands only what one loves.” - AP

Of Interest

The South Bend Symphony Orchestra will present a concert tomorrow night at 8 in South Bend’s Morris Civic Center. Orchestra director Kentner will conduct the program, which will include “Fanfare” from La Peri by Dukas and Prelude a l’apres midi d’un faune by Debussy.

A general meeting of CILA will be held Sunday night in the Center for Social Concerns. All are invited by the Community for the Lay Apostolate. - The Observer

Students who left their bicycles in storage for the winter can pick them up at Gate 14 of the stadium this Sunday. Students are reminded to bring their receipts. - The Observer

The French Club is sponsoring a creperie tonight from 9 to 1 a.m. in Bubbins Hall. All are welcome. - The Observer

Carl Anderson, special assistant to the U.S. president for family policy, will deliver a lecture titled “The Legislative and Judicial Decline of the Family Unit: A Short Path to Poverty.” Monday at noon in Room 101 of the Notre Dame Law School. Anderson, a lawyer, served on the staff of the undersecretary of the Department of Health and Human Services before joining the White House staff in 1983. The talk is sponsored by the Notre Dame Law School’s J. White Center on Law and Government. - The Observer

The Loras College Concert Choir of Dubuque, Iowa, will be appear in concert tomorrow night at 8 in the Annenberg Auditorium of the Snite Museum of Art. The 45 member ensemble, directed by John Bromm, is on a spring tour. Their appearance at the state convention of the Iowa Music Educators Association earlier this year was taped for an early April airing on public radio. The concert is free of charge to the public and is sponsored by the Notre Dame department of music. - The Observer

A mandatory meeting for anyone interested in running for hall president or vice president at the University of Notre Dame College at 8 p.m. on both Sunday and Monday. Students can attend either meeting. - The Observer

Jose Napoleon Duarte, Notre Dame’s 1985 commencement speaker, will be featured on “60 Minutes” Sunday at 7 p.m. on Channel 22. - The Observer

Weather

It’s almost April? Yes there is a chance of snow tonight. Enjoy. A 50 percent chance of showers today with highs in the upper 40s. A 40 percent chance of rain or light snow tonight and tomorrow, with lows in the mid 30s and highs near 40. - AP

The Observer

Friday, March 29, 1985 — page 2

Sorry, if you’ve got Infonet you’ve got the wrong number

At the beginning of January, I received a Max long-distance calling card promising to reduce my phone bills and provide dependable and efficient service. After opening the envelope and hastily examining the contents, I threw it into my desk drawer, where it has rested in an oblivion of useless papers and old letters ever since.

Not that I was particularly enamored with our Infonet phone system. On the contrary, I had spent innumerable hours throughout the year calling with a number which decided to fail when I absolutely needed it to call home (a situation which still arises at least twice a week), and with bills that contained calls to such exotic cities as Puebla and Toledo.

After I overcame my initial indignation at even being associated with such cities, I settled back into my accustomed athenic state, paid the incorrect bills, and promised myself that some day I would clean out my drawer and use the Max card.

Several recent events, however, have accentuated my patience with Infonet to such an extent that I might start rummaging.

Now I know it is useless to try to comprehend any problems with the Infonet system. Even I, in my naivete, once believed the new numbers would correct all the abuses of the Indiana Bell calling cards. And besides, the push button phones were so pretty. I thought they would provide the type of competent service that Indiana Bell never seemed to be able to produce.

I soon discovered my error. It was the first time I used the new system. Dialing the phone number, I waited for the mandatory clicks. With fingers crossed, I was excited, I punched in my number. A click. Then . . . nothing.

That was just the first of my problems with Infonet. We were told the system was experiencing the usual kinks associated with its inception. We were told to be patient; we were told things would improve with time.

Of course, they didn’t.

New developments complicated old problems. Once the numbers actually worked, the connection became unclear and static marred all calls. Still, I did not complain. After all, I thought, it might be asking a little too much to have a normal conversation not punctuated by “What was that?” From the phone. But I can’t bear you.” Infonet was, after all, a phone service. I had no right to expect to actually be able to hear my conversations. Just to be connected should have been enough. And I so waited.

And then came the bills, those masterpieces of mathematical genius that accuse one of owing millions in back payments. I enjoyed the last hatch, which I thought I was going to clean out that drawer.

I was wrong, however, at the result of one small little note offering a choice: pay within 10 days or suffer a terrible fate — the invalidation of your Infonet number. This was a potent threat. I laughed, but still couldn’t shake my lethargy long enough to act.

The final straw, however, was the fact that one cannot make overseas calls using our wonderful little system.

After trying in vain for a half hour to contact Ireland, I was told by a bored voice “Sorry. Can’t be done.” And since we no longer have access to Indiana’s AT&T system, and the University forbids outgoing collect phone calls we’re stuck.

Recently, my number was inactivated . . . again. I called the campus Infonet office and was told that the number was in use within a three-day busy signal (caused, no doubt, by the tremendous influx of student complaint calls). The Infonet office then told me to call the main office. That would have been fine, except I can’t make the call. It’s long-distance and my number doesn’t work.

After talking to other students, I realize I am rather late with this diatribe on Infonet. Most students have already cancelled their numbers, and are now enjoying hassle-free phone service. It is a little too late in with incompetence for so long. So, if you excuse me, I think I’m going to clean out that drawer.

The Observer publishes its official opinion in the form of an unsigned, large-print, wide-column article on the Viewpoint page. These columns represent the opinion of a majority of The Observer editorial board. All other columns, on the Viewpoint page or other supportive literature, are necessarily the views of the editorial board or The Observer staff.

Communication & Theatre Films at the Slate
Indy, admission $2.50

Mon., Apr. 1 Robert Ebert's "One True Sonota" 9:40 pm
Wed., Apr. 3 "A Morning in the Country" 7:30 pm
Fri., Apr. 5 "0 Verne" 7:30 pm
Sat., Apr. 6 "In the Night" 7:30 pm
Sun., Apr. 7 "The Wiz of Oz" 1:00 pm

COLUMBUS ARTISTS presents

"Vivid proof of the high level of Czech musical culture"
THE NEW YORK TIMES

Miroslav Matyas ARTISTIC DIRECTOR

SAIN'T MARY’S COLLEGE PERFORMING ARTS SERIES
MARCH 29 8:00 PM O’LAUGHLIN AUDITORIUM
Vietnamese student found guilty

Associated Press

SANTA ANA, Calif. - A judge found a Vietnamese student guilty of involuntary manslaughter yesterday in the shooting death of a university professor who worked with refugees from Vietnam.

Minh Van Lam was convicted of killing Edward Lee Cooperman, a California State University-Fullerton physics professor who was one of the first Americans to visit Hanoi after the Vietnam War.

Orange County Superior Court Judge Richard Beacom returned the verdict in Lam's non-jury retrial, which followed a mistrial last month. Beacom scheduled sentencing for May 17.

The first trial of the 21-year-old Lam ended with a deadlocked jury. Lam, who agreed to let the judge decide the case without a jury, insisted Cooperman was shot accidentally in his office on the university campus last Oct. 13.

Beacom, who presided over Lam's first trial, reviewed the transcripts of the first trial yesterday morning. During the afternoon, he heard testimony from a defense witness who did not testify during the first trial and arguments from opposing attorneys before he reached his verdict.

NEW YORK - The first reliable test for the most common kind of muscular dystrophy can diagnose the disease as early as the eighth week of pregnancy and identify fetuses who are carriers, a new study says.

The disease, Duchenne muscular dystrophy, affects 50,000 to 100,000 American boys and young men who will not survive beyond their 20s, according to the Muscular Dystrophy Association in New York.

The test is not foolproof, and estimates of its accuracy vary. The most optimistic of the test's developers, Egepr Bakker, puts its accuracy at 95 percent and says it can be used in 95 percent of families in which the illness has appeared.

Bakker, of the Department of Human Genetics in Leiden, The Netherlands, is one of 16 doctors and scientists from five countries who are reporting the development of the test in the current issue of The Lancet, a leading British medical journal.

Another of the researchers, Kay Davies of the John Radcliffe Hospital in Oxford, England, is more conservative. She estimates the test is 96 percent accurate and is used in 70 percent of families known to be at risk.

Nevertheless, she and other researchers interviewed by The Associated Press expect that within six months to a year the test will be 100 percent accurate in nearly all families.

Prenatal diagnosis of the illness, which has previously been impossible, "clearly is possible now," said Donald Wood, associate director for research at the Muscular Dystrophy Association, in a telephone interview yesterday.

Hellwig

continued from page 1

women. Even where such initiatives do not originate from Christian spirituality, we need to recognize their value for what they are - in their own ways redemptive, in their own ways allies to the Christian task," she said.

With regard to women's roles in the history of the Catholic Church, Hellwig told of the "fatherhood" of those who thought it important to open Christian scholarship to women in the name of a truly Christian spirituality.

There was a certain tension between the continuous theological discourse of the scholars from which women were almost systematically excluded, and the lively and colorful devotional traditions and strands of spiritual theology in which women such as the German nuns, the Flemish and English nuns and the Italian Catherines played very active roles.

"These women are no more admirable than inattentive, precisely because we, as contemporary women, are not excluded from the mainstreams of theology and there is therefore no reason to build a spirituality without explicit theological foundations. Yet the inspiration of outstanding medieval women remains as fresh in our own time as it has been ever since their time," she said.

In summation up the difference that Christian women can make in the troubled world, Hellwig referred to a new respect for freedom that women enjoy in the public sphere. "Obviously, it offers more opportunity for more effective action and wider influence. But it also carries with it the temptation to look on the new openings simply as career opportunities, as reconstituting the systems of society which impoverished and marginalized the powerless, and of sowing seeds of rivalry and alienation for the whole human race."

The independent student newspaper of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's is accepting applications for the following positions:

- Assistant Features Editor
- Features Copy Editor

Questions should be directed to Mary Healy at the Observer office (239-5313). Resumes and personal statements are due Tuesday, April 2 at 5 p.m.
Reagan tries to get budget support during speech at N.Y. stock market

Associated Press

NEW YORK - President Reagan opened trading on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday in a campaign-style trip to launch a rescue effort for his embattled budget. Adopting the jaunty of Wall Street, where a bear market declines and a bull market rises, Reagan said if Congress allows the tax overhaul and budget rescues he wants, "our economy will be free to expand to its full potential, driving the bears back into permanent hibernation." "That’s our economic program for the next four years," Reagan said. "We’re going to lose the Arms Race." And with that, at three seconds before 10 a.m., he pushed a button to ring the bell that traditionally opens frantic stock trading on the floor of the exchange. Traders jammed the floor below chanting, "Reeve! Reeve! Reeve!"

In a later speech at St. John’s University, the president reiterated his willingness to compromise with Congress in "non-critical areas" of defense spending. But he gave no ground on proposals to slash domestic spending, saying he wants to limit student financial aid to those "who couldn’t get an education without it." In his remarks on Wall Street, Reagan featured America’s trading partners for failing to keep up with U.S. economic growth, saying other nations should "cut their own tax rates, spending and over-regulation and join us in opening up their markets to foreign competition." He compared the American economy to "a race horse that’s begun to gallop in front of the field." "Other nations, hobbled by high tax rates and weighed down by oversized government spending, have been slow to catch up," he said. Acknowledging that "this has caused some painful dislocations, especially for America’s exporting industries," Reagan argued that is no reason "to hamstring the American economy to make it drop back with the others." Dismissing suggestions that the strength of the U.S. dollar is hurting U.S. industry and America’s allies, the president said, "The solution is for our trading partners to throw off the dead weight of government so that they can catch up with us in our race to the future." At St. John’s, the Roman Catholic university in nearby Queens, Reagan responded with measured conciliaion to congressional critics who have rejected his budget and called for trimming his defense build-up rather than making wholesale cuts in domestic programs, as the president wants. "At this point, it is a simple necessity to continue to bring our armed forces up to 106%.

Correction

Because of a reporting error in The Observer earlier this month from Carroll College, Helena, Mont., and the College of Mount Saint Joseph, Mount Saint Joseph, Ohio, he also received Dr. Churchman letters from Holy Family College, Philadelphia.

More degrees conferred on Hesburgh

Special to The Observer

Three additional honorary degrees have been presented to Father Theodore Hesburgh, University president. Three forthcoming degrees will bring his record total to 89.

Hesburgh received doctor of laws degrees earlier this month from Carroll College, Helena, Mont., and the College of Mount Saint Joseph, Mount Saint Joseph, Ohio. He also received Doctor of Humane Letters from Holy Family College, Philadelphia.

In May, he will be honored by three schools: Duke University, Durham, N.C., Doctor of Humane Letters; Christian Brothers College, Memphis, Doctor of Humanities; and St. Thomas University, Fredericton, New Brunswick, Canada, Doctor of Laws.

In 1982 Hesburgh broke the Guinness Book of World Records mark for honorary degrees held by Herbert Hoover, who received 89. Last May Notre Dame surprised him with his 100th honorary doctorate, a Doctor of Laws degree.

Kayak

continued from page 1

riverside cleanup program. By continuing to develop the riverside, said the city hopes to accomplish two main goals.

The first goal is to improve the area by developing new businesses, offices, and retail shops. Secondly, the city will promote whitewater sports by encouraging spectators at the waterway.

City planners also hope the raceway will increase tourism in South Bend by drawing conventions and vacationers to the area.

In addition to hosting whitewater events, the raceway is open for public use from June 8 to Sept. 2. The Fast Race charges $1 for a 1900 foot long ride down the waterway.

The waterway is open from 7:30 to 7:30 on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2 to 5 p.m. on Saturday, and from 1 to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

Launch hour. Throttles are at full power as a supersonic row ships across the flight deck. And you’re the pilot. With adequate fires and G forces slam you back into your seat. Seconds later, you’re punching a hole in the clouds and looking good.

Nothing beats the excitement of Navy flying. And no other job can match the kind of management responsibility you get so quickly in the Navy.

You’re there, too. Around-the-world travel opportunities with a great starting salary of $18,200. As much as $32,500 after four years with promotions and pay increases.

Take off for tomorrow in the Navy, with top-level training to help you build technical and interpersonal skills you’ll use for a lifetime. Don’t just settle into a job, launch a career. See your nearest Navy recruiter or CALL 800-327-NAVY.
GE suspended from further USAF contracts

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Air Force announced yesterday it has temporarily suspended the General Electric Co. "from obtaining any new contracts with the Department of Defense." The suspension is based on the indictment returned by a federal grand jury in the U.S. District Court for the eastern district of Pennsylvania on Tuesday," Air Force Secretary Vernon Orr announced.

Orr was referring to an indictment which alleges the nation's fourth largest defense contractor defrauded the government of approximately $400,000 on a nuclear warhead system. This indictment constitutes grounds for suspension in that it provides adequate evidence of the commission of fraud and criminal offenses in connection with the performance of public contracts ... and adequate evidence of the making of false statements," Orr wrote in a letter to the chairman and chief executive of GE.

"Alternatively, the indictment provides adequate evidence of the commission of offenses indicating a business' gross disregard of or total indifference to honesty that seriously and directly threatens the national defense," Orr said in a statement.

"I believe the Air Force will be willing to consider the extent that the activity giving rise to the indictment occurred within the corporate structure, steps which General Electric may take to safeguard against the possibility that such conduct might occur in the future, and the impact of the suspension upon the national defense." In his letter, Orr said the suspension will remain in effect "pending completion of the legal proceedings initiated by the indictment ... unless sooner terminated by me in whole or in part."

He added GE will have up to 30 days to submit "information and argument in opposition to the suspension."

According to a Pentagon press statement, the Air Force will be willing to "consider the extent that the activity giving rise to the indictment occurred within the corporate structure, steps which General Electric may take to safeguard against the possibility that such conduct might occur in the future, and the impact of the suspension upon the national defense."

Bill Caldwell, a Pentagon spokesman, said GE's letter had been sent by certified mail yesterday but the receiver also had telephoned Welch directly before announcing his action.

Orr's letter made it clear that the suspension would not affect existing contracts. Orr told the firm that the suspension would apply only to new contracts but also to extensions or renewals of existing contracts.

GE and its subsidiaries received more than $45 billion in military contracts in fiscal 1985, fourth among defense contractors, according to the most recent statistics available from the Pentagon. Preliminary figures indicate the firm did at least as much business with the Defense Department in fiscal 1984.

"The most recent softening was GM's announcing an 8.8 percent interest rate, which is de facto a price decrease," Jouppi said.

GM announced last week that it was offering 8.8 percent financing on GM's smallest models. GM said it would not press the Japanese to continue voluntary limits on imports.

"The most recent softening was GM's announcing an 8.8 percent interest rate, which is de facto a price decrease," Jouppi said.

GM announced last week that it was offering 8.8 percent financing on GM's smallest models. GM said it would not press the Japanese to continue voluntary limits on imports.

"The most recent softening was GM's announcing an 8.8 percent interest rate, which is de facto a price decrease," Jouppi said.
The value of life is not cherished by the world.

After "asking" him to stop his "target practice," I must say I wasn't too polite about it. I thought -- this kid has no respect for life. He has no understanding of the sanctity and immeasurable value of life. And that scares me.

The whole scenario caused me to wonder: Is this our attitude towards life? Do we care so little about preserving life? Sadly, the answer is yes. We, as a people, do not cherish life at least not very much. We hear of killings everywhere -- murders, suicides, car wrecks, abortions, the list goes on. By the time a person has reached college age in our society he or she has viewed about 17,000 killings on TV. We are so inundated with violence and disregard for life that we become essentially numb to it.

We must shake ourselves out of this stupor and ask ourselves who is responsible for this needless waste of life? Ironically, we are we who live in the most medically advanced society in the world -- who spend millions upon millions of dollars into our health and well-being, we are destroying ourselves.

How can we continue on this path? How can we be so concerned about maintaining such a standard of living, yet so unconcerned about violence and the waste of life? From where does this attitude stem? Well, if we think about the boy and the BB gun the answer becomes clear. After all, who gave the boy the gun in the first place? And who, in giving the gun, not only associated killing with fun, but also taught that killing was acceptable? That life wasn't all that valuable? His parents, his family, Society.

We as a society have made ourselves callous to killing. We hear about it constantly. We accept it. We pay to see it. We are not bothered by it. If we do not talk about it, enough to do anything about it. Why are we so apathetic? I do not know. We can speculate on a seemingly endless string of theories. However, I do know that we must change.

We must stop teaching our children to carry weapons and emulate war heroes. We are goading them that power stems from the barrel of a gun. Instead, we must teach respect for life. We must teach them how to live and show them how to love fully and with the utmost happiness.

I am not writing this column to lecture, but to comment upon the society of which we are all a part.

Garry Trudeul

Policy

Viewpoint would like to hear from you. If you would like to respond to something you've read in The Observer, why not write a letter to the editor. Letters should be submitted to the Viewpoint column. Letters which are not signed by the author will not be published.

The Observer reserves the right to edit all letters submitted to Viewpoint.

Garry Trudeul

what happens to Ethiopia after the music stops

Dave Kroeber

Wednesday's child

had nothing to do with all the girls that they had loved before. It had to do with Ethiopia. Now, in 1985, the United States, always quick to cash in on these European things, has decided to adopt the Band Aid format. Forty-six count them: forty-six singers have joined to produce a single which is estimated to bring in over $120 million dollars for the starving Ethiopians. The chorus of stars which sings "We are the World" has enough combined assets to embarrass half of the world's governments. Yet, they all gathered together -- very far -- in a small studio. Moanda Lagen also, rather rarely, to be honest, perfectly complementing Willie Nels- on and Donyosha. To be honest, we can only check their "ego" at the door.

Do not misunderstand. USA for Africa represents one of the greatest cooperative ventures of its kind. Yet, there is something which seems inherently lacking in the mara- thon single. Every one of the forty-six artists is heard, yet they all somehow manage to sound the same. One gets a rather empty feeling rather than a lump in the throat. One sees a myriad of factors that are involved with a plethora of ex- tertainment giants rather than a starving Eth-iopian child who will be able to survive because of the efforts of "you and me." The pomp which accompanies "We are the World" with a certain charm. We all will set everything aside and become one family. We will solve all of our problems by cooperation. Again, though, the media bias concerning curriculum and major require- ments, etc. will be whole. Ethiopians will dance in the streets. Let's start giving... Perhaps all of the entertainment giants will be satisfied and the movie for Ethiopia. Bashian Roberts can name their new florescence with huge African na- tion. What happens, though, when the enthus- iastic wears off? Ethiopia is still there. It always will be. Miltion will be allotted to the new film, and the stylus returns to its resting position.

We have seen some very strange things in our lifetime. Men have gone to the moon. Babies have been born in test tubes. Notre Dame football teams have lost games. We have even been informed by scientists that the ma- terials in our body have a market price of only a few dollars. Let us all be in the way in which life was valued in terms of a small vinyl disc with a hole at the center.

David Kroeber is a sophomore in the Col- lege of Arts and Letters Honors Program and is a regular Viewpoint columnist.

carol brown

that's life

"after asking" him to stop his "target practice," I must say I wasn't too polite about it. I thought -- this kid has no respect for life. He has no understanding of the sanctity and immeasurable value of life. And that scares me.

the whole scenario caused me to wonder: Is this our attitude towards life? Do we care so little about preserving life? Sadly, the answer is yes. We, as a people, do not cherish life at least not very much. We hear of killings everywhere -- murders, suicides, car wrecks, abortions, the list goes on. By the time a person has reached college age in our society he or she has viewed about 17,000 killings on TV. We are so inundated with violence and disregard for life that we become essentially numb to it.

we must shake ourselves out of this stupor and ask ourselves who is responsible for this needless waste of life? Ironically, we are we who live in the most medically advanced society in the world -- who spend millions upon millions of dollars into our health and well-being, we are destroying ourselves.

how can we continue on this path? How can we be so concerned about maintaining such a standard of living, yet so unconcerned about violence and the waste of life? From where does this attitude stem? Well, if we think about the boy and the BB gun the answer becomes clear. After all, who gave the boy the gun in the first place? And who, in giving the gun, not only associated killing with fun, but also taught that killing was acceptable? That life wasn't all that valuable? His parents, his family, Society.

we as a society have made ourselves callous to killing. We hear about it constantly. We accept it. We pay to see it. We are not bothered by it. If we do not talk about it, enough to do anything about it. Why are we so apathetic? I do not know. We can speculate on a seemingly endless string of theories. However, I do know that we must change.

we must stop teaching our children to carry weapons and emulate war heroes. We are goading them that power stems from the barrel of a gun. Instead, we must teach respect for life. We must teach them how to live and show them how to love fully and with the utmost happiness.

I am not writing this column to lecture, but to comment upon the society of which we are all a part.

Garry Trudeul

Policy

Viewpoint would like to hear from you. If you would like to respond to something you've read in The Observer, why not write a letter to the editor. Letters should be submitted to the Viewpoint column. Letters which are not signed by the author will not be published.

The Observer reserves the right to edit all letters submitted to Viewpoint.

Garry Trudeul

what happens to Ethiopia after the music stops

Dave Kroeber

Wednesday's child

had nothing to do with all the girls that they had loved before. It had to do with Ethiopia. Now, in 1985, the United States, always quick to cash in on these European things, has decided to adopt the Band Aid format. Forty-six count them: forty-six singers have joined to produce a single which is estimated to bring in over $120 million dollars for the starving Ethiopians. The chorus of stars which sings "We are the World" has enough combined assets to embarrass half of the world's governments. Yet, they all gathered together -- very far -- in a small studio. Moanda Lagen also, rather rarely, to be honest, perfectly complementing Willie Nels- on and Donyosha. To be honest, we can only check their "ego" at the door.

Do not misunderstand. USA for Africa represents one of the greatest cooperative ventures of its kind. Yet, there is something which seems inherently lacking in the mara- thon single. Every one of the forty-six artists is heard, yet they all somehow manage to sound the same. One gets a rather empty feeling rather than a lump in the throat. One sees a myriad of factors that are involved with a plethora of ex- tertainment giants rather than a starving Eth- iopian child who will be able to survive because of the efforts of "you and me." The pomp which accompanies "We are the World" with a certain charm. We all will set everything aside and become one family. We will solve all of our problems by cooperation. Again, though, the media bias concerning curriculum and major require- ments, etc. will be whole. Ethiopians will dance in the streets. Let's start giving... Perhaps all of the entertainment giants will be satisfied and the movie for Ethiopia. Bashian Roberts can name their new florescence with huge African na- tion. What happens, though, when the enthus- iastic wears off? Ethiopia is still there. It always will be. Miltion will be allotted to the new film, and the stylus returns to its resting position.

We have seen some very strange things in our lifetime. Men have gone to the moon. Babies have been born in test tubes. Notre Dame football teams have lost games. We have even been informed by scientists that the ma- terials in our body have a market price of only a few dollars. Let us all be in the way in which life was valued in terms of a small vinyl disc with a hole at the center.

David Kroeber is a sophomore in the Col- lege of Arts and Letters Honors Program and is a regular Viewpoint columnist.
No one is immune from the terror of the IRA

Dear Editor:

I would like to correct an inaccuracy on the part of Peter Manzo in his Viewpoint article of Jan. 6, "Is Reagan fighting terrorism with terrorism?"

The Provisional IRA have claimed responsibility for all recent murders of members of the British police force. The last murder occurred in the bombing at Newry where two police officers were killed in an explosion caused by a car bomb placed in a car parking area in the town. The IRA's identity is sought by the Provisional IRA to maintain a degree of legitimacy and to ensure that their actions are taken seriously. The IRA believes that their actions are necessary for the defense of the Irish people.

The IRA does not represent the opinion of the Catholic minority in Northern Ireland. Their violence has been indiscriminate and has resulted in the deaths of people from all walks of life. The IRA is not immune to democracy and seeks to establish a democratic government in all of Ireland.

I have always thought ironic that the IRA organization receives substantial support from Irish Americans. The IRA's tactics are those of a short and a brutal. I agree these murders are futile and will result in no progress towards a settlement in Ireland.

Hugh McManus
Notre Dame

Voluntary sterilization is against Catholicism

Dear Editor:

An article appearing March 27 concerning the woman who sued her doctor for the cost of raising her child after undergoing sterilization procedure presented me with a laugh. The Court of Appeals of New York correctly rejected Mrs. O'Toole's claim for damages, though it is not my point. The O'Tool's attorney stated that Mrs. O'Toole was Catholic and rejected abortion as an option. I think this statement is ironic due to the whole nature of the law suit. If Mrs. O'Toole is married and behind the Church as a defense, she should be aware that contraception, other than sterilization, is also against the Church's teaching. If Mrs. O'Toole was a true Catholic she would not have undergone the procedure of sterilization. I guess she is a pick and choose Catholic.

Matthew Goldmann
Notre Dame student

P.O. Box Q

Dear Editor:

I would like to correct an inaccuracy on the part of Peter Manzo in his Viewpoint article of Jan. 6, "Is Reagan fighting terrorism with terrorism?"

The Provisional IRA have claimed responsibility for all recent murders of members of the British police force. The last murder occurred in the bombing at Newry where two police officers were killed in an explosion caused by a car bomb placed in a car parking area in the town. The IRA's identity is sought by the Provisional IRA to maintain a degree of legitimacy and to ensure that their actions are taken seriously. The IRA believes that their actions are necessary for the defense of the Irish people.

The IRA does not represent the opinion of the Catholic minority in Northern Ireland. Their violence has been indiscriminate and has resulted in the deaths of people from all walks of life. The IRA is not immune to democracy and seeks to establish a democratic government in all of Ireland.

I have always thought ironic that the IRA organization receives substantial support from Irish Americans. The IRA's tactics are those of a short and a brutal. I agree these murders are futile and will result in no progress towards a settlement in Ireland.

Hugh McManus
Notre Dame

Voluntary sterilization is against Catholicism

Dear Editor:

An article appearing March 27 concerning the woman who sued her doctor for the cost of raising her child after undergoing sterilization procedure presented me with a laugh. The Court of Appeals of New York correctly rejected Mrs. O'Toole's claim for damages, though it is not my point. The O'Tool's attorney stated that Mrs. O'Toole was Catholic and rejected abortion as an option. I think this statement is ironic due to the whole nature of the law suit. If Mrs. O'Toole is married and behind the Church as a defense, she should be aware that contraception, other than sterilization, is also against the Church's teaching. If Mrs. O'Toole was a true Catholic she would not have undergone the procedure of sterilization. I guess she is a pick and choose Catholic.

Matthew Goldmann
Notre Dame student

P.O. Box Q

Dear Editor:

I would like to correct an inaccuracy on the part of Peter Manzo in his Viewpoint article of Jan. 6, "Is Reagan fighting terrorism with terrorism?"

The Provisional IRA have claimed responsibility for all recent murders of members of the British police force. The last murder occurred in the bombing at Newry where two police officers were killed in an explosion caused by a car bomb placed in a car parking area in the town. The IRA's identity is sought by the Provisional IRA to maintain a degree of legitimacy and to ensure that their actions are taken seriously. The IRA believes that their actions are necessary for the defense of the Irish people.

The IRA does not represent the opinion of the Catholic minority in Northern Ireland. Their violence has been indiscriminate and has resulted in the deaths of people from all walks of life. The IRA is not immune to democracy and seeks to establish a democratic government in all of Ireland.

I have always thought ironic that the IRA organization receives substantial support from Irish Americans. The IRA's tactics are those of a short and a brutal. I agree these murders are futile and will result in no progress towards a settlement in Ireland.

Hugh McManus
Notre Dame

Voluntary sterilization is against Catholicism

Dear Editor:

An article appearing March 27 concerning the woman who sued her doctor for the cost of raising her child after undergoing sterilization procedure presented me with a laugh. The Court of Appeals of New York correctly rejected Mrs. O'Toole's claim for damages, though it is not my point. The O'Tool's attorney stated that Mrs. O'Toole was Catholic and rejected abortion as an option. I think this statement is ironic due to the whole nature of the law suit. If Mrs. O'Toole is married and behind the Church as a defense, she should be aware that contraception, other than sterilization, is also against the Church's teaching. If Mrs. O'Toole was a true Catholic she would not have undergone the procedure of sterilization. I guess she is a pick and choose Catholic.

Matthew Goldmann
Notre Dame student

P.O. Box Q
The honeymoon is over in Simon’s wacky ‘Barefoot in the Park’

Margaret McCabe
Theater review

A simple setting, a casual atmosphere and a Neil Simon play… the three simply go together.

And they went together perfectly last night as Cavanaugh Hall presented its first performance of Simon’s “Barefoot in the Park” in the Chautauqua Ballroom.

“Barefoot” is the hilarious comedy about a newlywed couple: Paul (Joseph Nickerson), a young, conservative lawyer and his bride, Corie (Kathleen Loftus), a bouncy free-spirit. The two are starting off their life together in a less than glamorous apartment on East 48th Street, New York City.

The new abode is a source of many comical situations throughout the story, as is Curie’s mother, Ethel (M.T. Broughton), who not too subtly hints that her loneliness may be the cause for several visits. With this, Corie decides to introduce her mother to her neighbor, Victor Velasco (Steve Starinovic). This middle-aged, Swedish “Don Juan” eventually sweeps Ethel off her feet but not before some hysterical situations arise.

Meanwhile, trouble arises in paradise for Corie and Paul and… well, enough said. Neil Simon writes great comedies. But a comedy depends on more than scripts. Fortunately, this particular production requires no elaborate scenery or complicated props. Even though Chautauqua is not equipped for sophisticated theatrics, the stage designers and construction crew were able to set up a clever and appropriate set.

The costumes were simple, but it’s the simplicity and familiarity of “Barefoot” that contributes to the success. The most obvious contributors to the success of a production, however, are the performers themselves. Despite any first-night jitters they may have had, the six cast members of Cavanaugh’s production displayed the result of hard work and dedication that began before Christmas break.

The dialogues ran smoothly and the staging was well-coordinated. By the end of the first act, it was obvious that the characters were well-liked by the audience. Even Ethel, the epitome of a dejected and forlorn mother-in-law, became loveable.

One of the more impressive elements in the performance was Starinovic’s Swedish accent; it was as convincing as it was consistent. Also noteworthy were the comical contributions made by the telephone man (Mark McLaughlin) and delivery man (Bob Walsh). The two may not be necessary to the story, but add invaluable color and laughs.

Loftus and Nickerson are to be commended for their convincing performances as typical newlyweds. They’re nauseating when they love each other and frightening when they “hate” each other. In fact, the climax of the play is definitely found in a noisy, knock ‘em down, drag ‘em out fight. A “first fight,” mind you, that ends in a decision to get a divorce… oh, never mind.

All that matters is that “Barefoot in the Park” is a fun and funny story and Cavanaugh’s production does it justice, and plus. It may just be worth a trip to Chautauqua this weekend to find this out for yourself.

Cavanaugh’s production of “Barefoot in the Park” is the hall’s third annual play. Any donations collected at the end of the performances are contributed to the Andy Sowder Scholarship Fund.
Musings on when we reveal our true selves

Rev. Robert Griffin
Letters to a Lonely God

I've been a member of the Catholic faith for over 40 years. I've always hated to go to confession. For me it is like making the Sacrament with great regularity. As a seminarian until the end of 1965, I lived part of my lifestyle to go to confession once a week. In 1965, new words of doctrine began blowing through the Church, affecting not only me, but also my confessor. Neither of us thought I needed all those graces of reconciliation. I shouldn't have played loosey-goosy with the rules. I've gone for years without prayerfully making time to myself in prayer, feeling the need to seek a priest. The last time it happened, it was the confessor's idea. He could not understand why I wanted to make sure of my peace of conscience.

The most dreadful part of confession is the most dreadful part of the practice birth control have a child. After a while, however, they get used to the guilt. After several sessions of being scolded by the priests, they decide it is none of the Church's business. They then re-think the theology of so-and-so matter, and give up the teaching which leaves them feeling guilty as second-class citizens. I suspect that some of them wouldn't be so quick to join Planned Parenthood, which practices abortion, if they didn't feel driven to the wall by the ritual of forgiveness, which brings them to weep, blushing, before an insensitive servant of the bureaucracy. Only a wild and crazy pope would urge them to come. Protestants tell confessing their sins to the Church: "You have to tell your sins to a priest." Confession is the sacrament of the Church, I was told. But it's as Catholic as the altar at which the Mass is offered.

Priests hearing confessions know how ordinary and human they are. They turn their turn in the lines of penitents. Priests get scolded as hypocrites for having sins. Hypocrisy is, I think, when you pretend to believe in something in order to manipulate others into doing what you want them to do, like giving money. Hypocrisy, if you're ordained, is one of the occupational hazards. Priests are sinners in need of salvation; because sullihood is in the cloth out of which human nature is made.

The Church ordains priests to be ministers of the signs of salvation. Sinner helps out, as on the desert island where the inhabitants depend on each other to stay alive, and that is a bigger sin. The signs are sacra­mental offering of ordinary elements like wine and water; as though Christ were active through the ordinary means. The confessor uses words as a sign: "May Our Lord Jesus Christ absorb you, and with His absolution, I absolve you from your sins." The advantage of sacra­mentalism is the ordinariness of the sacrament: the priest doesn't need a confessional or a special building; he can minister to any ordinary location. The priest who visits you doesn't impose on your privacy.

The holy one of the Church, Jesus Christ, lays on hands the priest, with the blessing, and the priest, with the blessing, and the priest is blessing. So the priest is a vessel of grace. I'll pray for your Easter, and you hope I'll pray for you. The break should be memorable for something besides music. I hope to meet a priest who will be performing a senior piano recital at 4 p.m. today. The Loras College Choir will fill the Cathedral, and the Loras College Choir will fill the Cathedral, and the Notre Dame University Depos­ite Board is presenting this movie at 7, 9:15, and 11:45 today. The Bend Symphony will be performing concert will be held at 8 p.m. at O’Laughlin Auditorium. Admission for this fine performance is $6, $5, $50, and $6.50. The Saint Mary’s Choir & Wade Men’s Glee Club will harmoniously display their abilities at the Little Theatre of Montreat Hall at 8 p.m. today. Another promising performance will be held at Camden Center by the South Bend Symphony. This concert will feature Stephen Burum on the trumpet. The enter­tainment concert will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday night. For more information call 209-4950.

The well-known comedy Barefoot in the Park by Neil Simon will be shown tonight and tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Chaussaqua Ballroom in LaFortune. All are encouraged to see this play, which is being presented by Cassway Hall to aid the Andy Swoder Fund.

The University of Notre Dame Depart­ment of Music will present several fine talents this weekend. Dennis Arechiga will be performing a senior piano recital at 4 p.m. today. The Loras College Choir will fill the Newman Auditorium with the sweet sound of music at 8 p.m. Saturday night. Karen Buranskas will be entertaining the audience at a faculty recital at 4 p.m. Sunday.

The Saint Mary’s Performing Art Series will present the Czech Chamber Soloists at 8 p.m. at O’Laughlin Auditorium. Admission for this fine performance is $6, $5, $50, and $6.50. The Saint Mary’s Choir & Wade Men’s Glee Club will harmoniously display their abilities at the Little Theatre of Montreat Hall at 8 p.m. today. Another promising performance will be held at Camden Center by the South Bend Symphony. This concert will feature Stephen Burum on the trumpet. The enter­tainment concert will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday night. For more information call 209-4950.

The very first time I went to confession, I went to the church at 3 a. m., a half hour before the priest entered the box. I stayed frozen on my knees for the rest of the afternoon, trying to memorize the courage to go in and confess my sins. Finally, at eight of cock, I made a general confession of my life. I don’t remember how long it took. The priest was patient and gentle; he didn’t seem to find me out of the ordinary. I asked myself why I had made such a big deal out of something so simple. The answer is easy: I had never done it before; I was terrified of doing it until I talked to the priest.

Now, once again, I’ve gotten into acting like a scared teenagers­­­­, postponing the moment of confes­sion as though I were afraid of the priest. Now that I am there, I am anxious to be on best terms with the Church. Confessing to ararian Catholic tradition. The green earth of my soul has patches of deadness like a lawn that needs the help of a gardener.

Over break, I went to the Glee Club where the Glee Club will fill the Church. I’m asking for your Easter confession, and hope you’ll pray for me. The break should be memorable for something besides music. I hope to meet a priest who will be performing a senior piano recital at 4 p.m. today. The Bend Symphony will be performing concert will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday night. For more information call 209-4950.

Karen Buranskas will be entertaining the audience at a faculty recital at 4 p.m. Sunday.

The Saint Mary’s Performing Art Series will present the Czech Chamber Soloists at 8 p.m. at O’Laughlin Auditorium. Admission for this fine performance is $6, $5, $50, and $6.50. The Saint Mary’s Choir & Wade Men’s Glee Club will harmoniously display their abilities at the Little Theatre of Montreat Hall at 8 p.m. today. Another promising performance will be held at Camden Center by the South Bend Symphony. This concert will feature Stephen Burum on the trumpet. The enter­tainment concert will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday night. For more information call 209-4950.

The well-known comedy Barefoot in the Park by Neil Simon will be shown tonight and tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Chaussaqua Ballroom in LaFortune. All are encouraged to see this play, which is being presented by Cassway Hall to aid the Andy Swoder Fund.

The University of Notre Dame Depart­ment of Music will present several fine talents this weekend. Dennis Arechiga will be performing a senior piano recital at 4 p.m. today. The Loras College Choir will fill the Newman Auditorium with the sweet sound of music at 8 p.m. Saturday night.

Karen Buranskas will be entertaining the audience at a faculty recital at 4 p.m. Sunday.

The Saint Mary’s Performing Art Series will present the Czech Chamber Soloists at 8 p.m. at O’Laughlin Auditorium. Admission for this fine performance is $6, $5, $50, and $6.50. The Saint Mary’s Choir & Wade Men’s Glee Club will harmoniously display their abilities at the Little Theatre of Montreat Hall at 8 p.m. today. Another promising performance will be held at Camden Center by the South Bend Symphony. This concert will feature Stephen Burum on the trumpet. The enter­tainment concert will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday night. For more information call 209-4950.

The well-known comedy Barefoot in the Park by Neil Simon will be shown tonight and tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Chaussaqua Ballroom in LaFortune. All are encouraged to see this play, which is being presented by Cassway Hall to aid the Andy Swoder Fund.

The University of Notre Dame Depart­ment of Music will present several fine talents this weekend. Dennis Arechiga will be performing a senior piano recital at 4 p.m. today. The Loras College Choir will fill the Newman Auditorium with the sweet sound of music at 8 p.m. Saturday night.

Karen Buranskas will be entertaining the audience at a faculty recital at 4 p.m. Sunday.

The Saint Mary’s Performing Art Series will present the Czech Chamber Soloists at 8 p.m. at O’Laughlin Auditorium. Admission for this fine performance is $6, $5, $50, and $6.50. The Saint Mary’s Choir & Wade Men’s Glee Club will harmoniously display their abilities at the Little Theatre of Montreat Hall at 8 p.m. today. Another promising performance will be held at Camden Center by the South Bend Symphony. This concert will feature Stephen Burum on the trumpet. The enter­tainment concert will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday night. For more information call 209-4950.

The well-known comedy Barefoot in the Park by Neil Simon will be shown tonight and tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Chaussaqua Ballroom in LaFortune. All are encouraged to see this play, which is being presented by Cassway Hall to aid the Andy Swoder Fund.

The University of Notre Dame Depart­ment of Music will present several fine talents this weekend. Dennis Arechiga will be performing a senior piano recital at 4 p.m. today. The Loras College Choir will fill the Newman Auditorium with the sweet sound of music at 8 p.m. Saturday night.

Karen Buranskas will be entertaining the audience at a faculty recital at 4 p.m. Sunday.

The Saint Mary’s Performing Art Series will present the Czech Chamber Soloists at 8 p.m. at O’Laughlin Auditorium. Admission for this fine performance is $6, $5, $50, and $6.50. The Saint Mary’s Choir & Wade Men’s Glee Club will harmoniously display their abilities at the Little Theatre of Montreat Hall at 8 p.m. today. Another promising performance will be held at Camden Center by the South Bend Symphony. This concert will feature Stephen Burum on the trumpet. The enter­tainment concert will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday night. For more information call 209-4950.

The well-known comedy Barefoot in the Park by Neil Simon will be shown tonight and tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Chaussaqua Ballroom in LaFortune. All are encouraged to see this play, which is being presented by Cassway Hall to aid the Andy Swoder Fund.
Friday, March 29, 1985 — page 10

Sports Briefs

The ND Women's Soccer Club will be meeting for practice today at 4 p.m. on Stepan Field. - The Observer

The ND/SMC Sailing Club will hold practice for this weekend's freshman interlake regatta today from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. All major-yacht sailors, especially crew, are invited to attend. — The Observer

Flanner Hall won the NVA interlakw wrestling tournament, which was hosted by Zumbrota. Flanner was second with 20 points, and Carroll was third with 20. The off-campus squad finished with 23 points, and Holy Cross had 22. Flanner was led by Brian Schell, who won the 167-pound division. Other individual winners include Carroll's Douglass Green at 152 pounds and Michael Rommey at 160. Dillon's Giovanni Kostoro won the 125-pound class. Scottie Edward, below, took the 150-pounders and Tom Hayman of Alumni won the 157-pound division. John Hargreaves was a winner for off-campus at 145 pounds. Peter Ferrie took the Holy Cross at 177 and Mark Antoninetti of Zumbrota won the unlimited class. - The Observer

The ND Water Polo Club will play host to a tournament this weekend. The Irish will play tonight at 7 p.m. and tomorrow at 2 p.m. Participating teams will be Dayton, Purdue and Northeastern. — The Observer

Applications are being taken for the position of president of the Saint Mary's College Athletic Council for the 1985-86 school year. Applications can be picked up now at the Angelini Administration Building and must be submitted by Thursday, April 4. All interested athletes are encouraged to apply. — The Observer

Bookstore Basketball team captains will meet a mandatory meeting on Sunday from 11:15 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. in the Library Auditorium. This is the only time schedules will be distributed. Tournament action kicks off on April 9 with the Hall of Fame game. — The Observer

Women's Bookstore Basketball signups will be held Sunday from 2 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the OBUD desk on the first floor of LaFortune. - The Observer

Professional wrestling is coming to Stepen Ceneter. The MS Drive presents World Wrestling Federation's "Wrestlemania," a closed-circuit broadcast live from Madison Square Garden on Sunday at 1 p.m. Tickets are on sale now at the Gate 10 ticket office at the ACC and at Rock da Lec. All proceeds go to Multiple Sclerosis - The Observer

An Toast innertube water polo signups have been extended until Monday. For more information, contact the An Toast office in LaFortune. — The Observer

Dancin' Irish tryouts are coming up. An organizational meeting for anyone interested in trying out will be held on Monday in the Chautauqua Ballroom. For more information, call Debbie at 283-5552 or Lois at 283-2697. — The Observer

Anyone interested in scorekeeping for the Bookstore Basketball tournament should attend a meeting on Tuesday from 7 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. in the Lafayette Little Theatre. Those unable to attend must call Susan LeCroix at 283-1365 or Marc Ramirez at 283-2504 before the meeting. - The Observer

An Toast mud volleyball signups will be held everyday through Thursday, April 4, from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. in the An Toast office in LaFortune. Each team must consist of six players, two of whom must be women. For more information, call Janet Tabit at 277-9637 or Mar Corrigan at 283-2465. — The Observer

Several top amateur wrestlers from the United States will participate in an international tournament match on Thursday, April 4, at 7 p.m. in the ACC. Some Olympians and NCAA champions will compete, including Irish assistant coach John Anziano. All first-year sailors, especially crew, are invited to attend. — The Observer

Bookstore Basketball team captains will meet a mandatory meeting on Sunday from 11:15 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. in the Library Auditorium. This is the only time schedules will be distributed. Tournament action kicks off on April 9 with the Hall of Fame game. — The Observer

The Observer Notice Office, located on the third floor of Lafayette Student Center, is open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. The Observer Saint Mary's College, located on the third floor of Haggie Center, accepts classifications from 12:30 p.m. until 1 p.m. Monday through Friday. Deadline for next week's classifieds must be prepared, either in person or by mail. Charge is 10 cents per character, plus $1 per page.
SECRETARY
ATHLETIC:
TECHNICAL:
VOLUNTEER

SATURDAY
The Best in Aged Steaks
120 N. Main Street
Downtown, Mishawaka
255-7737

Table: Students and Staff must present this Coupon or ID for 10 percent Off Offer Good Through March 31, 1985

Students and Staff must present this Coupon or ID for 10 percent Off Offer Good Through March 31, 1985

Lunch 11:00 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.
Dinner 5:00 p.m.
Closed Sundays & Holidays

Doc Pierce’s

Notre Dame and St. Marys

Starving Student
Discount Coupon 10% OFF

14th Italian Gold and Sterling Silver Chains, Charms, Bracelets & Rings

Any questions? Call Beaver: 2225

SENIORS

Remember to make
GRADUATION PLANS

with parents for
Commencement Weekend
May 17-19th

FRI, MAY 17 - Senior Class Cocktail Dance - ACC North Dome

SAT, MAY 18 - Dinner/ACC North Dome

SUN, MAY 19 - Brunch

No./So. Dining Halls

Order form has been sent to parents. Must be returned to CCE by April 23rd

GO HAWAIIAN
VIDEO PARTY

FRI., MARCH 29, 9:50 P.M.

GRACE HALL PARTY ROOM

REFRESHMENTS

DOOR PRIZES THROUGHOUT

FRUIT BASKETS

PRIMA GALADAS

MAI-TAIS

MUNCHENS

SOFT DRINKS

PIZZAS

All in Grace’s beautiful Party Room with wider screens.

Tickets on sale at Grace Hall Lobby desk, 8-11 p.m.

DRESS HAWAIIAN II

HISTORIC EVENING OF EXCITEMENT

ENTERTAINING • INFORMATIVE • FUN

Applications for Off Campus Coordinators available in Student Government Offices

Openings in the following commissions:
- Liturgical
- Social
- Athletic
- Social Concerns/Community Affairs
- Treasurer

Must be living Off Campus next year

Deadline: Monday, April 1
Any questions? Call Beaver: 2225

Probably no 3-point line

Shot clock probable for NCAA

LEXINGTON, Ky. - College basketball is almost certain to have a 35-second shot clock next season, but it likely will take longer to accept the three-point field goal or deal with the problem of late-game fouling. NCAA official Edward Steitz said yesterday.

Steitz, athletic director at Springfield College and long-time editor of the NCAA's rules committee, told a news conference that 62 percent of the National Association of Basketball Coaches surveyed called for the NCAA to put into place the shot clock for all games next season.

The clock, similar to the 24-second clock used by the pros, was used experimentally by 23 conferences during the 1984-85 season. It is not, however, part of the national championship tournament which continues tomorrow with the Final Four at Minneapolis and St. John's vs. defending champion Georgetown.

The NCAA will meet next week to vote formally on the shot clock. A two-thirds majority of the rules committee is needed for passage.

The likelihood of it falling is almost nil," Steitz said. A year ago it fell just short of a two-thirds vote.

"But considering the results of the questionnaire, considering the data we've received from the conferences that have researched and experimented with the clock - 10 Division I, three in Division II and three in Division III it appears there is a very strong mandate to adopt it," Steitz said.

The support wasn't as strong for two possible solutions to late-game fouling: one or two shots and retaining possession (44 percent approval by responding coaches) or giving the team fouled the right to waive the shots and inbound the ball again, as is done in Olympic play (50 percent).

Fifty-five percent urged stricter enforcement of rim-hanging violations. But only 28 percent supported widening the three-second lane to reduce rough play. Coaches also reversed their opinion on the coaching box inaugurated for 1984-85. A year ago, 61 percent opposed it. Now, Steitz said, 63 percent approved - along with 92 percent of the officials who responded.

Close to 4,000 questionnaires were sent out to NCAA, NAIA and junior college coaches, college administration, referees and media. There was a 55 percent response, or 2,188.

Steitz said the NCAA also will be looking at installing the three-point field goal, which the professional association (not adopted it, and of all the conference proposals, the Olympic Games in 1998 will be played with a three-point line. But six or seven feet beyond the arc, as we have experimented with for the past two or three years," he said.

Golf

continued from page 16

year's team since only three of the team's six golfers have earned letters previously.

Freshman Rich Connelly begins this spring season as the only freshman on the gold team (starting six). Having missed all-conference honors by a single stroke last fall, Connelly is expected to be a major contributor this spring.

Another newcomer to the gold team, junior John Anthony, earned a spot in the starting six this year and wasted no time in making his contribution. Anthony finished third for Notre Dame and 12th overall in the team's recent match in Florida.

Steve Fuehrer is the third member of the team who has not previously earned a letter. According to O'Sullivan, Fuehrer has the skill to contribute right away. He was the winner of the 1984 Notre Dame Open and a All-conference golfer last fall. "His credentials speak for themselves," said O'Sullivan.

Sophomore Chris Bona and junior Lon Huffman both entered last year as freshmen and their experience will be needed if the Notre Dame golf team is to reach its potential. Both have impressive fall seasons and can be counted on to be equally as impressive this spring.

For the first time this year, the team will be junior captain John O'connor, last year's most valuable player. O'connor is not only the number one golfer and captain of the golf team, but he is the number one skier and captain of the ski team.

"God made a machine in John O'connor," said O'Sullivan. "I think he is the best athlete on this campus pound for pound."

Coach O'Sullivan's confidence in this year's team may best be illustrated by the team photographs in his office. Only four team pictures have earned their way onto his office walls. When asked about this year's team, O'Sullivan replied, "There is definitely a place for them on this wall."

Bookstore

women's div. signups Sun.

The time has arrived for all Notre Dame and Saint Mary's women to sign up for women's Bookstore Basketball. Registration is this Sunday, March 31, from 2 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. by the Ombudsmen bar on the first floor of LaFortune. As with men's Bookstore, the fee is $5. Eligibility for the tournament extends to all graduate and undergraduates, as well as Saint Mary's women, and is in good standing with the Student Government. The turn-around date is March 29, 1985. For contact information, contact the Bookstore Office.
An interhall lacrosse league is being formed by NVA. The deadline for entries is Monday, April 8. For more information, call the NVA office at 239-6100. - The Observer

Interhall baseball umpires are being sought by NVA. Anyone who is interested may fill out an application at the NVA office. - The Observer

Six-mile and three-mile runs will be held by NVA on Saturday, April 20. T-shirts will be awarded to all finishers, and a trophy will be awarded to the top finisher in each of the five divisions: men's undergraduate, women's undergraduate, men's graduate, women's graduate, and faculty and staff. An entry fee of $4 is due by Friday, April 12, to the NVA office. - The Observer

An interhall tennis tournament will be held by NVA on Saturday, April 20. Each hall may enter two singles players and two doubles teams; no player may play both singles and doubles. Team rosters for the single-elimination tournament are due by Friday, April 12, to the NVA office. - The Observer

Think you’re a better ref than those in the Big Ten? Perhaps you would like to refer for Non-Varsity Athletics and the Booksore Basketball tournament. If so, call Mike Duro at the NVA office (239-6100). Previous experience is preferred but not necessarily required. - The Observer

A Knute Rockne memorial Mass and breakfast will be held on Sunday by the Notre Dame Club of St. Joseph Valley at 9 a.m. in the West side of the South Dining Hall. For more information or to make reservations, call Pat Novitzki at 257-5592. - The Observer

The Athletic and Convocation Center will now close daily at 11 p.m. The ACC opens at 8 a.m. - The Observer

WVFI Sports has announced some recent appointments, effective Monday. Kevin Herbert and Joe Malvezzi were named assistant sports directors. Pete Petrie will continue as sports director and Chuck Freeby will remain associate sports director. The station still has several openings for anyone interested in covering interhall, club and varsity sports. No experience is required. For more information, call Pranica at 239-5379 or 285-1938. - The Observer

Observer Sports Briefs are accepted Sunday through Thursday until 4 p.m. at the Observer office on the third floor of LaFortune. Briefs must be clearly written. - The Observer

Loyola University of Chicago

The SUMMER SESSIONS

Day or evening classes • Wide array of courses in Business, Arts and Sciences, Education, Nursing • All summer courses applicable to regular Loyola undergraduate degrees • Classes at Lake Shore, Water Tower, and Medical Center Campuses. Special this summer: Art and Archaeology in Mexico.

FIRST SESSION

(6 weeks beginning May 20)

Registration by mail or in person: MAY 13, 9:00-12:00 NOON 2:00-6:00 PM

All in-person registrations in the Georgetown Room of the Marquette Center, 829 North Rush Street, Chicago.

Telephone 312/670-3011 or complete the coupon below to receive a copy of the 1985 Bulletin of The Summer Sessions. The Bulletin includes complete course listings as well as information on how to register by mail.

SECOND SESSION

(6 weeks beginning July 2)

Registration by mail or in person: JUNE 17, 9:00-12:00 NOON 2:00-6:00 PM

Pizza Hut Delivers

Free Delivery! Call: 232-2499

$2 OFF any Large Pizza or $1 OFF any Medium

Please mention coupon when ordering. One coupon per party per delivery address. Not valid with any other Pizza Hut "Special Delivery" units. Not valid with any other carry-out, in combination with any other Pizza Hut offer. Limited Delivery Area. Offer good only on regular menu pizzas through April 17, 1985.

Offer limited to one offer per order. Order must be at least $10, excluding tip. Offer limited to areas delivered by Pizza Hut. Pizza Hut reserves the right to limit the number of deliveries and offers per delivery address. One coupon per delivery address. Not valid with any other Pizza Hut offer or delivery. Expires 4/17/85. Pizza Hut, Inc.
NEW ORLEANS - Two Tulane University basketball players testified before a grand jury yesterday, and afterward another student was arrested on bribery charges in the point-shaving scandal involving the Green Wave team.

Mark Olensky, 21, a senior from Fair Lawn, N.J., who is not on the team, surrendered to District Attorney Harry Connick and was booked on two counts of bribery of sports participants. Connick's office said he was the fifth student arrested in the case.

Olensky, who also was booked on charges of conspiracy to bribe and conspire to distribute cocaine, was freed on $9,000 bond.

Connick said the investigation by the Orleans Parish grand jury would continue next week and no indictments were reported.

The only testimony yesterday came from two players who reportedly have immunity from prosecution.

Asst. Sports Editor

By PHIL WOLF

Tulane basketball coach Dick Phelps appeared last night on ABC News Nightline to field questions regarding gambling in college basketball.

The show's host, Ted Koppel, posed his questions to Phelps and gambling expert Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder.

Koppel quoted figures that show that gambling on college athletics is widespread. He said that approximately $7.6 billion is bet legally on college basketball and football every year, and illegal gambling is said to account for another $7.8 billion.

Phelps' comments come in the wake of a story about the Tulane incident appear at left.

Digger Phelps comments on ABC Nightline

Chief of Digger Phelps' basketball program at Notre Dame, was booked on two counts of bribery of sports participants and was charged with conspiracy to bribe and conspiracy to distribute cocaine. Phelps also voiced his opinion that the NCAA should attach stronger penalties to all violations of rules, especially drug abuse. He felt that players should become ineligible as a punishment for any major offense.

Finally, Phelps stressed that colleges can help curb these problems by carefully selecting their student/athletes and making sure the players can make the grade in the classroom.

Point-shaving scandal discussed on news show

Two Tulane players testify; student arrested

Associated Press

Tulane basketball coach Ned Fowler and eight other players were at the courthouse yesterday, but they did not testify. The eight teammates, under subpoena, were told to return next Wednesday. Fowler's lawyer said the coach was told he will be rescheduled for a later appearance.

The only members of the team not at the courthouse yesterday were the three players booked on gambling law violations earlier this week.

Green Wave star John Williams, 23, a 6-foot-10 All-America center, was arrested Tuesday night at his home. He later denied any wrongdoing on Wednesday, sophomore swingman David Dominique of New Iberia, La., and senior guard Bobby Thompson of New Orleans surrendered to officers.

Williams, Thompson and Dominique are accused of shaving points — either winning by a lower margin or losing by a greater margin than the established "line" on the game. All three were freed without bail.

Also arrested Tuesday was Gary Kranz, 21, of New Rochelle, N.Y., a Tulane student booked on cocaine dealing as well as gambling law violations. He was released on $10,000 surety bond.

The maximum penalty for violation of Louisiana's sports bribery law is five years in jail and a $10,000 fine.

Connick said the investigation still centers on two Metro Conference games - Feb. 20 with Memphis State and Feb. 2 with Southern Mississippi in the Tulane arena.

Connick said the National Collegiate Athletic Association had been alerted and was conducting its own investigation.

Clyde Eads, 22, a starting senior from Tampa, Fla., one of the two players reportedly granted immunity, was in the grand jury room more than two hours. Jon Johnson, 22, a starting senior from Columbus, Ga., testified after Eads.

Tulane finished the season 15-13 overall and 6-8 in conference play.
Mary Colligan sets example for women's tennis

By MARY SIEGEL
Sports Writer

It takes more than just talent to win. Making the NCAA Division II National Championship requires hard work, long hours and dedication.

This afternoon, the Notre Dame women's tennis team begins a five-hour journey to battle Bradley University and Drake University tomorrow morning. On Sunday, the Irish return home to play host to the Indiana Hoosiers at 10 a.m.

Throughout this grueling three-month period, the Irish rely heavily on the determination and faith in their team. "I've been playing at number two singles and doubles," Colligan has said. "I've been perfecting my serve and developing an all-around smarter game."

Colligan and junior doubles partner Lisa LaFratta are a balanced unit on the court. Where Colligan easily puts the ball away at the net, LaFratta scrambles to complement Colligan's play.

"Sometimes we really look like Matty and Jeff out there because she's so tall," explains LaFratta. "She's a big ball machine and hits everything back, and that frustrates the opponent too."

"We make a good combination," says Colligan. "She's fast on the court and I'm more comfortable at the net."

After hearing colorful stories about the University while she was growing up, the idea of coming to Notre Dame after high school was a dream. "All four of my uncles are Notre Dame graduates and their brother and younger sister are currently attending the University, so Notre Dame has become a household word in the Colligan family," says Colligan.

"We're still changing players around and trying to get a feel for who can do well at each position," says Christoff.

According to Frojusci, however, whoever will be starting for the defensive unit will be up to the standard of the players who have graduated and will definitely miss them, but the people coming in, in those positions, will be able to complement our defense well."

"Comparison for the left tackle spot will also see junior Greg Din- gley, sophomore Steve Petro, and junior Jeff Linn running, while sophomore Griffin will continue to plug up the middle and sophomore Troy Wilson continue to contain from the right side of the line.

At the linebacker position, senior co-captain Mike Kovaleski will be back and will continue to lead a talented and experienced backfield with sophomore Robert Banks and junior Tony DiBernardo.

Junior co-captain Tony DiBernardo, however, will be out of action for the spring season. Kovaleski will be recovering from a broken collarbone while DiBernardo will be missing spring.

In the defensive backfield, Ballage and Wells will be joined by sophomore Griffin and junior Steve Petro. "I'll be quite comfortable at Deuce," says Colligan.

For additio

Irish can experiment at Notre Dame Invitational

The Notre Dame men's track team will have an opportunity to experiment and discover its strengths tomorrow when the Irish play host to the Notre Dame Invitational. Field events will begin at 1 p.m. and the running events will start at 2 p.m.

The event will also provide Mid American Conference power Western Michigan, Ball State and Loyola.

According to head coach Joe Plan, the non-scoring meet gives him flexibility to test athletes in different events. Field events personnel, such as James Patterson who will run the 100, are given the chance to try new events to compete in the NCAA restriction of three people per event does not apply. In addition, plane can rest athletes who will have to participate in two or three events at next week's triangular meet with Indiana and Michigan State.

Defense

continued from page 16

be the people that will be coming in behind them and take up the reins. It's a very good job. We're not going to be as experienced as we were last year," says Christoff.

With the loss of four seniors next year, she's learned to take on an expanded leadership role next year. "We feel that we believe that the people that will be boring the other team in their own territory basically rests on the foot of the punt," says Christoff.

In May, the Irish will lose senior Mike Vrascic to graduation. In 1984, Vrascic provided the Irish with strong consistency as both the starting quarterback and the holder for extra-point kicks. "We're looking for someone with good fielding ability and is quicker on the court and I'm more comfortable at the net."

With the loss of the punting position this spring will be junior Hal Vondel and sophomore Dave Sorensen. "As far as we're concerned, we're looking for someone with good fielding ability and is quicker on the court and I'm more comfortable at the net."

While Colligan admits she still needs to work on her footwork and improve her quickness on the court, her 5'11" frame and aggressive net play provides a formidable challenge to unsuspecting opponents. "I've always tried to be my own player and do the most with my ability and not let my Talbot tell me the Fort Wayne native. "I've learned to take advantage of good serves and develop an all-around smarter game."

Colligan and senior doubles partner Lisa LaFratta are a balanced unit on the court. Where Colligan easily puts the ball away at the net, LaFratta scrambles to complement Colligan's play.

"Sometimes we really look like Matty and Jeff out there because she's so tall," explains LaFratta. "She's a big ball machine and hits everything back, and that frustrates the opponent too."

"We make a good combination," says Colligan. "She's fast on the court and I'm more comfortable at the net."

After hearing colorful stories about the University while she was growing up, the idea of coming to Notre Dame after high school was a dream. "All four of my uncles are Notre Dame graduates and their brother and younger sister are currently attending the University, so Notre Dame has become a household word in the Colligan family," says Colligan.

"We're still changing players around and trying to get a feel for who can do well at each position," says Christoff.

According to Frojusci, however, whoever will be starting for the defensive unit will be up to the standard of the players who have graduated and will definitely miss them, but the people coming in, in those positions, will be able to complement our defense well.

"Comparison for the left tackle spot will also see junior Greg Dingley, sophomore Steve Petro, and junior Jeff Linn running, while sophomore Griffin will continue to plug up the middle and sophomore Troy Wilson continue to contain from the right side of the line.

At the linebacker position, senior co-captain Mike Kovaleski will be back and will continue to lead a talented and experienced backfield with sophomore Robert Banks and junior Tony DiBernardo.

Junior co-captain Tony DiBernardo, however, will be out of action for the spring season. Kovaleski will be recovering from a broken collarbone while DiBernardo will be missing spring.

In the defensive backfield, Ballage and Wells will be joined by sophomore Griffin and junior Steve Petro. "I'll be quite comfortable at Deuce," says Colligan.

For additional information, see page 17.

The Observer
Today
Bloom County

Tuesday, March 29, 1985

Baseball, 1 p.m.
Mathematical Colloquium, Baseball, ND vs. Northwestern, Jake Lacrosse, ND vs. Kenyon, Cartier Golf, Zeto Bloom County

IlL

7:00, 14
19
16
10
17 Cubs and Tigers
23
33
31
44
41
40 Still
49
46
43
7 Highway

~4CJt4:1lC3L~----------------------------------------F-r-id_a_y_,M_a_r_c_h_2_9_,1_9_8_5

Showing tonight and tomorrow night, March 28 at the Engineering Auditorium.

3/29/85

Friday, March 29

• Last Day For Course Discontinuance

• 11:30 a.m. - 2 p.m. - Ice Cream Social, 1st Floor Hepatick Hall, 1/2 Proceeds Go To MS Campaign, Sponsored by Tau Beta Pi, Engineering Week. $5 Band led!

• 12 p.m. - Debate, "The Transmission of Values in Education," Prof. John Coons, U. of California, Berkeleyley and Dr. Amy Guzmam, Princeton, Room 101 Law School.

• 12:15 - 1 p.m. - Faculty Forum, "International Perspectives on the Bishops Pastoral Letter on the U.S. Economy," Rev. Ernest Bartell, C.S.C., ND, Center for Social Concerns, Brown Bag or Soup and Bread, 4:30 p.m. - Calculatoor War: HP vs. TI, In Front of Cooking Hall, Sponsored by Engineering Week.

• 4 p.m. - Graduate Seminar, "Transient FTIR Studies of Multiplicity and Oscillatory Behavior in CO Oxidation on Pt/SiO2 and Pd/SiO2 Catalysts," David Kael, ND Graduate Chemical Engineering Student, Room 356 Fitzpatrick.

• 4:30 p.m. - Mathematical Colloquium, "Unifying Cosmogneous Classes and Local Systems," Prof. George Laszio, MIT, Room 226 CCB.

• 7 - 9:15 & 11:30 p.m. - Film, "Indiana Jones: Temple of Doom," Engineering Auditorium, Sponsored by Student Activities Board.

• 7:30 & 9:40 p.m. - Friday Night Film Series, "The Shining," Annexberg Auditorium.

• 8 p.m. - SMC Perforasing Arts Series, Czech Chimmer Solosolo, O'Laughlin Auditorium.

• 8:30 & 9:45 p.m. - "Play, "Barfoot in the Park," Chanaqua Ballroom, LaFortune, Donations Go To Sowder Scholarship Fund, Sponsored by Cavanagh Hall Productions, Free.

• 9:30 p.m. - Go Hawaiian Party, Grace Hall Party Room, Door Prizes, All Invited, FI.

Campus

Friday, March 29

• Outdoor Track ND InvitationaL, ND Track (Behind MCC).

• 12 p.m. - Golf, ND vs. Tri State, Burke Memorial Golf Course.

• 1 p.m. - Baseball, ND vs. Indiana, Jake Kline Field.

• 1:30 p.m. - Lacrosse, ND vs. Kenyon, Carter Field.

• 7 - 9:15 & 11:30 p.m. - Film, "Indiana Jones: Temple of Doom," Engineering Auditorium, Sponsored by Student Activities Board.

• 8 p.m. - Play, "Barfoot in the Park," Chanaqua Ballroom, LaFortune, Donations Go To Sowder Scholarship Fund, Sponsored by Cavanagh Hall Productions, Free.

• 7 p.m. - Concert, Loras College Choir Tour Concert, Annexberg Auditorium, Sponsored by Department of Music.

• 8 p.m. - Concert, SMC Women's Choir and Walsh College Men's Glee Club, Little Theatre (SMC).

Saturday, March 30

• 10 a.m. - Tennis, ND Women vs. Indiana, Courtney Courts.

• 11 a.m. - Nationally Televised Mass (NBC), Sacred Heart Church, Admission by Ticket Only.

• 12 p.m. - Golf, ND vs. Xavier, Burke Memorial Golf Course.

• 1 p.m. - Professional Wrestling Match, Closed Telecast From Madison Square Garden, Sponsored by MS Campaign, Student Tickets $8.

• 1 p.m. - Baseball, ND vs. Northwestern, Jake Kline Field.

• 4 p.m. - Concert, Karen Buranskas, Faculty Cello Recital, Annexberg Auditorium.

• 7 & 9:15 p.m. - Film, "Brother Sun, Sister Moon," Engineering Auditorium, Sponsored by Social Concerns Spring Film Series, FI.

• 7:15 p.m. - An Tostal General Meeting, Heaves Healy Auditorium.

• 8 p.m. - Organizational Meeting, Chicago Club, Little Theater, LaFortune.

Your Student Activities Board
(The leader in entertainment)

is still working...

Yet to come:

More Movies...
"The Cotton Club"
"Gone With The Wind"
"Footloose"
"Bachelor Party"

AnTostal Festivities
The Collegiate Jazz Festival

Disaster details Professor Schnobel's cleaning lady when she mistakes his time machine for a new dryer.

HARRISON FORD in INDIANA JONES: TEMPLE OF DOOM (c'mon girls - we know you love him)!

Showing tonight and tomorrow night, March 28 & 29 at the Engineering Auditorium.

7:00, 9:15, 11:30
$1.50

Your Student Activities Board
(The leader in entertainment)

is still working...

Yet to come:

More Movies...
"The Cotton Club"
"Gone With The Wind"
"Footloose"
"Bachelor Party"

AnTostal Festivities
The Collegiate Jazz Festival
By MICHAEL J. CHMIEL
Sports Writer

In football, defense is the key to the game. If the opposition can't score, the game can't be lost. This spring, the Irish will be concentrating on, among other things, the continuation of a defensive unit that came on strong at the end of the 1984 campaign.

In his second year, defensive co-coordinator Andy O'Sullivan believes his line has developed into the strongest unit of the team. "We're going to try to be better at what we did last year," explains O'Sullivan. "It was a new year for the players, last year, in the system. And, as one could see, there was an improvement toward the end of the year when they got used to doing what they're supposed to be doing.

This spring, the Irish will be looking to strengthen the defensive unit against the offensive weapons that plagued them throughout last season.

"We need to do a better job of containment, pursuit, and run support from the secondary," says O'Sullivan. "We feel that we can improve in those areas dramatically and really get good at playing the option.

In the spring, the Irish also will be looking to replace three standouts from the defensive side of the ball who will graduate this May. In addition, the defense must play with much more confidence and still have the ability to do what we did last year.

"We've got a couple of guys back who didn't play last year for whatever reasons, and that's helped them out a lot.

The Irish have never had too much trouble with running a defense, as they have had to answer two of the four options of the two schools, but O'Sullivan knows that his team must improve on its first five performances if it is going to win any more games this year. The defense, with its new coaches, is expected to show progress as the year goes on.

"This is a real important game for us," says the fifth-year coach, "especially after not playing as well as we wanted to against Lake Forest. I'm hoping that we'll be able to play our best and then they have to carry it over to the rest of the season.

We have some good games next week (against Radford on W

The Notre Dame baseball team will be returning to the Notre Dame diamond for the first time since their first victory in the Big East last season, will be looking to replace three standouts from the defensive side of the ball who will graduate this May.

By KEVIN HERBERT
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame baseball team will open its home season tomorrow, weather permitting, with a doubleheader against Indiana at 1 p.m. The Irish then will play host to Northwestern in a two-game series on Sunday at 1 p.m. Both doubleheaders will be played on Lake Kline Field.

The Irish will be returning to the field for the first time since their first victory in the Big East last season, will be looking to replace three standouts from the defensive side of the ball who will graduate this May.

The Notre Dame lacrosse team will play host to two matches this weekend at Burke Memorial Golf Course. Tomorrow The Irish will take on Tri-State, and Sunday a triangular match with Xavier and Wayne State will be played.

Irish head coach Noel O'Donovan says this year's team is one of his best ever. In fact, O'Sullivan has so much confidence in his team's ability that he says they won't just want a victory, but a course record this weekend.

"My first team at Notre Dame once shot a 359 at Burke, a record that still stands," says O'Sullivan. "I think this year's team has the best chance of any I've coached to break that record."

The record O'Donovan speaks of was set by the Irish golf team against Tri-State on April 6, 1974. Coach O'Donovan is an optimist, but not a dreamer, and he is quick to point out why he expects so much from this year's team.

"We have had excellent fall and spring performances this year," he says, "and our recent showing in Florida was very encouraging."

"The Irish will be returning to the field for the first time since their first victory in the Big East last season, will be looking to replace three standouts from the defensive side of the ball who will graduate this May.

By MIKE SULLIVAN
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame lacrosse team will be playing to win its second straight Midwest Lacrosse Association game and raise its overall record to .500 when it meets Tri-State at Kenyon College tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. on Carrier Field.

The 2-3 Irish, who, after Wednesday's win over Lake Forest, now have seven conference games in a row beginning last season, will be looking to improve on their inconsistent performance so far this year. However, Kenyon is an imposing new defensive system, and a tougher challenge for Notre Dame this year than it did last year when the Irish won easily, 17-7.

"Kenyon beat Western Maryland, 9-4, in their first game which has got them pretty excited," says Irish head coach Rich O'Sullivan. "Western Maryland has always had a good team and the win was a real big boost for them."

"We've got a couple of guys back who didn't play last year for whatever reasons, and that's helped them out a lot."

The Irish have never had too much trouble with running a defense, as they have had to answer two of the four options of the two schools, but O'Sullivan knows that his team must improve on its first five performances if it is going to win any more games this year. The defense, with its new coaches, is expected to show progress as the year goes on.

"This is a real important game for us," says the fifth-year coach, "especially after not playing as well as we wanted to against Lake Forest. I'm hoping that we'll be able to play our best and then they have to carry it over to the rest of the season.

We have some good games next week (against Radford on W

The Notre Dame baseball team will open its home season tomorrow, weather permitting, with a doubleheader against Indiana at 1 p.m. The Irish then will play host to Northwestern in a two-game series on Sunday at 1 p.m. Both doubleheaders will be played on Lake Kline Field.

The Irish will be returning to the field for the first time since their first victory in the Big East last season, will be looking to replace three standouts from the defensive side of the ball who will graduate this May.

By KEVIN HERBERT
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame baseball team will open its home season tomorrow, weather permitting, with a doubleheader against Indiana at 1 p.m. The Irish then will play host to Northwestern in a two-game series on Sunday at 1 p.m. Both doubleheaders will be played on Lake Kline Field.

The Irish will be returning to the field for the first time since their first victory in the Big East last season, will be looking to replace three standouts from the defensive side of the ball who will graduate this May.