TJ Miles didn't expect much last week when he went to meet Tommy Shaw at the singer's Niles, Mich., farm. But the meeting sure changed the Dillon freshman's tune.

"He's straightforward rock 'n' roll with nothing out of the ordinary," Miles, who finished third in Notre Dame's Rock Alike contest as Bryan Adams' "Dame student life.

One of a series of articles examining the policy and its effect on Notre Dame's Rock Alike contest as Bryan Adams' "not Bruce Springsteen and it's not Bryan Adams. It's unique, but it's dressed up."

Shaw, who will give a free concert April 27 in the ACC, returned to Niles to help publicize Notre Dame's vociferous in the "Million Against Mis" inter-collegiate campaign.

When Miles first learned that MTV selected the former Stry guitarrist, he said he was disappointed, "like everyone else."

"But after meeting him and his band, they've got the biggest positive play that I've ever heard."

Miles said the group's first tour was "truly a blast."

"Bassist told me that Tommy Shaw could take Bryan Adams on any day in a live performance."

Approximately 600 tickets for Shaw's concert were distributed last night, and tickets will be available from 7 to 9 p.m. today and tomorrow in the Chanute Blue Room at Notre Dame and the Nauvoo College Center at Saint Mary's. Tickets are free.

"The band accompanied Rock Alike winner Kevin Herbert and campus co-chairman Alie Goddard and Willis to meet Shaw before the band left to begin a two-week Southern tour."

"Tommy Shaw is an excellent stage performer, and he promises to be entertaining," said Herbert, who will impersonate Bruce Springsteen in the Rock Alike competition before the concert. Herbert is responsible for thePASSING RECEIPTS FOR SHAW, one of the judges of the Rock Alike contest, because he stands to lose an summer internship with MTV."

Jerry Kramer, Shaw's agent, promotes the concert.

Last year, the party ended. Some said it would just move off-campus. In fact, according to T. Norval Wil­liams, director of Notre Dame's Campus Life Council, the off-campus scene has changed significantly since the alcohol policy was announced one year ago today.

"There has been no noticed in­crease in off-campus activity this year," said Williams.

One of the greatest fears of stu­dents and administrators when the alcohol policy came out was that more students would go off-campus to party. This has been proven wrong by local bar owners.

Hulk-o-mania infests TV sets across nation

Dan McCullough
News Editor

Popular culture can get pretty strange sometimes. Take the case of Hulk Hogan. He's this huge blood­ayered professional wrestler who has suddenly become a full-fledged American hero. But the question many Americans are asking themselves is, "Who is Hulk Hogan and why does he have a mania named after him?"

Hogan's success didn't just come overnight. It took several years of hard work for Hogan to become a household name. It was his dedication and hard work that eventually led to the rise of Hulk-o-mania.

In his early days, Hogan was just another wrestler on the circuit. But as he gained experience and honed his skills, he began to stand out from the crowd. His unique look and style, combined with his incredible strength, made him a force to be reckoned with.

In 1983, Hogan was signed by the World Wrestling Federation (WWF) and his career took off. With the WWF, Hogan became a mainstay of the wrestling landscape, captivating audiences with his commanding presence and seamless in-ring skills.

Hogan's success didn't stop there. He went on to appear in several films, including the iconic "Rocky III," where his character, Ivan Drago, becomes an overnight sensation. Hogan's portrayal of Drago was so impressive that it became the cornerstone of Hogan's Hulk-o-mania.

But Hogan's success wasn't limited to the ring. He also became a media sensation, appearing on talk shows, late night shows, and even hosting his own TV show. His infectious personality and likable nature made him a fan favorite, and his popularity only continued to grow.

Hogan's success has been nothing short of remarkable. From humble beginnings to being one of the most recognizable faces in professional wrestling, Hogan's rise to fame is a testament to hard work, dedication, and the power of perseverance.

Everyone is talking about Hulk Hogan and his Hulk-o-mania. Whether you love him or hate him, there's no denying that he's become a cultural phenomenon. So, the question remains: who is Hulk Hogan and why is his Hulk-o-mania so popular? Could it be his larger-than-life personality, or his incredible physical abilities? Only time will tell.

For now, one thing is certain: Hulk Hogan and his Hulk-o-mania are here to stay. So be prepared to buckle up and ride the wave of Hulk-o-mania, because it's not going anywhere anytime soon.

The news department of The Observer has announced the following promotions effective immediately:

Joe Healy, a senior American Studies major from Arlington, Va., has been named an assistant news editor. Healy had been a copy editor with the newspaper since last January, and is also a Viewpoint copy editor.

Bob Musselman, a junior American Studies/AAPA major from Kettering, Ohio, has been promoted to an assistant news editor. Musselman had been a staff reporter.

Mary Heilman, a sophomore from Poughkeepsie, N.Y., has also been named an assistant news editor. Heilman, an English major, was most recently a copy editor for the newspaper.

Also named as an assistant news editor is Jane Krawczk, Krawczk, a government major, from Western Springs, Ill., has been an Observer copy editor and staff reporter.

Scott Borety is another assistant news editor. Borety, from Hamilton, Ind., is a student in the Freshman Year of Studies. He has most recently been a staff reporter.

Miriam Hill, a Notre Dame sophomore from Spring Lake, N.J., has been promoted to news copy editor. She is from Cleveland, Ohio, and has worked at The Observer since spring 1984. She has worked as a day editor and a senior staff reporter.

John Hines, a junior American studies/AAPA major, was promoted to news copy editor. He is from Portland, Ore., and has worked at The Observer since fall 1983, most recently as a staff reporter.

Maggie Kersten, a sophomore majoring in communications, was promoted to news copy editor. She is from Naperville, Ill., and has worked as a photography and on the Observer since last semester and as the assistant saint Mary's editor for the 1985-86 school year.

The FCEs are similar in form to the Teacher/Course Evaluations that students complete in class. The FCEs, however, are completed on the student's own time and the results of the program are published. "We'll be publishing the books in the fall, so students will be able to use them in selecting their courses for next spring," Rober says.

The FCEs are distributed only once a year, and Rober said there are several reasons for this.

"Time plays a big part in it. All the FCEs are hand-tabulated," he said. "But I think once a year is enough. A lot of the courses are repeated both semesters, and the FCEs may not be appreciated as much by the students if it appeared every semester."

In other news, Peter Waldie, director of African Studies, and Motoimbo Mpyapaa, Kellogg Fellow, will be part of a panel on U.S. and Notre Dame investments in South Africa tonight, said Pat Baccanari of the Notre Dame South African Network.

The HPC also selected their representatives to the Student Senate last night. Joining HPC Chairman Kevin Howard on the Senate will be Bill Boyle, Keenan president; Judith WInsor, Batch president, and Steven Keren, Carroll's president.

"Bill (Healy) student body presi­dent didn't want the new senate to decide on any senate reconstruc­tions," Howard said. "The senate is an 18-member body and there are four of them from HPC, so we'll have a pretty good say in any new plans for the senate."

The following have been promoted to the position of staff reporter: Marc Alexander, from Meriden, Conn., Amy Baker, from Lighthouse Point, Fla., Lisa Boykin, from Sumter, S.C., Kathy Cepericher, from Mishawaka, Ind., Beth Corrado, from Marcellus, N.Y., Matthew Dolan, from Mount Royal, N.J., Matthew Fink, from Bend, Dale Golden, from Columbus, Ohio, Carolyn Gillegatte, from Glen Ellyn, Ill., Fran Gisch, from Westchester, Ill.

Also, Gerald Goldner, from Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Elke Huffman, from Potomac Md., Greshen Holland, from Indianapolis, Ind., Mary Huffman, from Crosc Gerry, Mass., Laci Kaufman, from Olmsted Falls, Ohio, Mike Kaldenberg, from Chicago, Ill., Michelle Marchand, from Maplewood, Minn., Eylln Mantako, from Akron, Ohio, Anita Martin, from Princeton Junction, N.J., Hear­ald Mattera, from Culver, Ind., Ray Mulera, from Upper Marboro, Md., Jeff Nickelski, from Downers Grove, Ill., Shannon Oakes, from Chesterfield, Miss.

president until a permanent one is chosen.

"The person we want for the job is making his decision and will be let­ting us know in a few days," said Duggan. "It will probably be Dr. Hickey.

Hickey, the College's vice presi­dent, and dean of faculty took the role of acting president in the months before Duggan was chosen.

Kollman, who represents the stu­dent body, is disappointed that stu­dents are having input in this decision. "We are not a Duggan clone but a candidate who is a good administrator and perceptve of people. Also, I think that a can­didate's dedication to a liberal arts education for the students is very important in choosing our next presi­dent," she said.

The bulk of the work will be done over the summer, according to Feigel. "After a large number of desired applica­tions are returned to the Com­mittee we will begin reviewing them and narrowing down the choices," she said.

The committee will hold its next meeting May 4.
Former CIA chief assails Reagan support of Nicaraguan ‘Contras’

WASHINGTON - Former CIA Director William J. Casey urged Congress yesterday to reject President Reagan’s proposal to release $14 million in aid to the ‘Contras’ in Nicaragua, calling it“a dead-end policy” in Central America.

“The Nicaraguan communists are not an immediate threat to the United States and its interests in Central America,” Turner said. Turner, who headed the agency under former President Carter, testified before a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee which also heard Ray Cline, a former deputy director of the CIA who firmly supports Reagan’s policy.

“If the United States turns its back on this group (the Contras) there will be moves to accommodate with communist regimes throughout the world and in Nicaragua,” Cline said.

Meanwhile, Reagan, speaking to a group of religious leaders at the White House, kept up his criticism of the leftist Nicaraguan government, again accusing it of religious persecution. The president said he had also received a message from the pope urging us to continue our efforts in Central America.

Republican and Democratic sources in the House predicted that the Contra aid plan would lose by 30 votes, despite an intensive lobbying campaign by Reagan and his allies. A close vote in the Senate was predicted.

Under the proposal to be voted on next week, the $14 million would go as humanitarian assistance to the Contras seeking overthrow of the Sandinista government in Managua.

But if negotiations between the Sandinistas and the Contras failed, the money would then be spent for weapons for the refugees released by the president.

Reagan met for an hour yesterday with House Minority Leader Robert Michel, R-Ill., and Assistant Senate Majority Leader Alan Simpson.

My Dear Colleagues and Students,

I would like to share with you a letter that I recently received from Notre Dame Junior - Daniey Herrmann. I want to share this letter because it really concerns us all.

Reverend Theodore M. Hebshug, C.S.C.
President
Administration Building
University of Notre Dame

Dear Father Hebshug:

The Notre Dame/Saint Mary’s response to the crisis in Ethiopia began as a small token of solidarity shared by a group of Notre Dame/Saint Mary’s students. They had been thinking for some time about what they, as students, could do to help relieve the hunger and societal problems in different oppressed sections of our world. When the immediate problem of Ethiopia became apparent, they began to think in terms of some sort of benefit - a variety show, perhaps a social concerns festival.

With this in mind, they approached friends and assistance with the help of Dave Porterfield, C.S.C. and concerned friends, we devised the concept of a benefit show.

As in any family crisis, the family bonds together in celebration of its unique link, the ND/SK response is that of a unified effort to respond to the crisis of our brothers and sisters in Ethiopia.

The date has been set for April 20, 1985, in Stepan Center, on the Notre Dame campus, from 9:00 p.m. to 2:00 a.m., and the committees are geared and ready. The ND/SK response promises to be the entire Notre Dame/Saint Mary’s family will be involved - underclassmen, graduates, staff, faculty, Emeritus, and Administration.

The response will be the Christian mission and set a precedent which will be followed hopefully in years to come.

The Charity Bell 1985 promises to be an extravaganza in response - not a mere material extravaganza, but a responsive extravaganza of people, joined together in human concern.

A formal invitation to this event will follow. I ask your support as our campus leader who has established himself as a champion against injustice and suffering everywhere.

Sincerely,

Daniey Haffgan, Chairman
325 Grace Hall

I knew many of you also received this letter. The famine in Ethiopia represents an immediate need. I believe that we are challenged to act, to rush assistance to our brothers and sisters in Ethiopia.

Our Holy Father, John Paul II, Catholic Bishops and Religious and Civil Leaders around the world have called grass-roots everywhere to generously respond to the plight of the people of Ethiopia.

I ask and encourage all of you to support the student sponsored Charity Bell. Our response to the crisis is a small way we can bond together in the true spirit of Our Lady University.

Sincerely,

The late President Theodore M. Heubshug, C.S.C.
President

Boeing jet loses engine over Arizona

SAN DIEGO, Calif. - American Airlines Boeing 727 jet with 90 people aboard landed safely here yesterday after one of its three engines fell off during a flight from Dallas.

The pilot and crew of Flight 199 immediately knew the engine had failed but they were unaware it had fallen off the plane, said American Airlines spokesman Joe Steppe.

"We don’t know why this happened," Steppe said. "We're just trying to find out." Steppe said, "We’re conducting a full investigation.

The non-stop flight from Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport to San Diego’s Miramar Field landed safely at about noon yesterday. The jet was flying under Alert 1 status, meaning it was having minor difficulty, said Buck Jones, assistant manager at Linwood.

About 45 minutes out (of Dallas), the captain radioed ground control that he had lost a jet engine and that indicators in the cockpit showed that one of the engines had seized," or stopped, Steppe said. The airline’s headquarters in Grapevine, Texas, turned the engine data interface apparently disengaged in western Arizona, somewhere near Tucson, Steppe said. He didn’t know what the weight of the engine but said it was “pretty big.”

The engine was not discovered to be missing until minutes after the console indicated the engine had failed, he said.

Steelmaker blames union for bankruptcy

Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Pa. - Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel Corp., one of the nation's largest steelmakers, filed for protection under bankruptcy laws yesterday blaming union officials for failing to accept an agreement designed to help it out of its half-billion-dollar debt.

But David Scalise, the United Steelworkers Union's chief negotiator, called for a boycott of today's classes in sympathy for fellow steelworkers and their families. "The tragedy ... has happened. It didn't have to happen," Scalise said.

The crux of the dispute was Wheeling-Pittsburgh's willingness to grant its 24 major creditors a lien against inventories and other current assets in exchange for loan deferments and additional credits.

The deal left so little breathing room that steel stocks dipped slightly or a modest economic recession could hold the company's promoters would have had left would be the unemployment line.

Such a scenario is likely because of continued pressure from imports and expectations that American auto makers will demand price reductions over the next few years, Scalise said. General Motors Corp., the nation's biggest carmaker, is the largest single customer of Wheeling-Pittsburgh, a producer of flat-rolled steels, he said.

"The banks would then come in and snap up the current assets, the insurance companies would take the policies and the only thing my members would have had left would be the unemployment line."

The council has worked well over the years due to good attendance and campus-wide representation, said Bertino.

If he was given the chance to change the CIC, Bertino would try to have the council initiate more ideas to be brought to the council.

Recent examples of CIC action include the approval of the Student Saver/General Store and the action required to gain use of the second floor of the South Dining Hall for study rooms.

Police arrest 150 students at Berkeley

Associated Press

BERKELEY, Calif. - Helmeted police moved in as dozens yesterday arrested about 150 chanting protesters who took part in a week-long demonstration against the University of California's investments in South Africa.

The arrests of the demonstrators, some wrapped in blankets and others carrying protest signs, were made after several hundred students left the campus to protest financial support for the South African government.

The arrests were made because of "disorderly conduct," police said. No injuries were reported and attempts to contact campus police were unsuccessful. The University of California is a major investor in South Africa.

As many at Notre Dame know, Law School Professor Charles E. Rice is participating in the defense of four youths who have been accused of bombing abortion clinics in Pensacola, Florida. Rice offered to make available to those interested copies of the brief submitted.

Vernon Marchal

Afterwords

Rice's application of the abortion-holocaust analogy could be taken as somewhat schizoid. A clarification of some pertinent facts is in order.

Nazi Germany was a totalitarian state in which the military and the secret police in order to transport millions of Jews to concentration camps where they were to die, the United States is a democratic state in which the role of government, has determined pregnant women have the constitutional right to procure an abortion, if they so desire.

With these facts clarified, it becomes clear that the Holocaust analogies are "just like Auschwitz." Rice has discovered that the Supreme Court has overthrown the gov­ernment and is in total control of the United States. Similarly, he must also have proof that the Supreme Court has, in a comparable way, convinced millions of women to get themselves pregnant just so they can transport their unborn children to abortionists where hundreds of doctors, who are also involved in the complicity, can tell them...”

As many at Notre Dame know, Law School Professor Charles E. Rice is participating in the defense of four youths who have been accused of bombing abortion clinics in Pensacola, Florida. Rice offered to make available to those interested copies of the brief submitted. I took advantage of his offer and have since read both documents. His "The Bomber as Victim" could be the most absurd treatment of the abortion issue I have ever read. I found it reflected an irrational and destructive role of government and law in the United States - a view which also shows up in the brief submitted by his defense team.

"The Bomber as Victim" article primarily asserts abortion is just like the Holocaust. Rice states, abortuaries "have no moral right to exist. They are murder factories, just like Auschwitz." The very next sentence, however, states there are "moral limits" on what might be done to abort them...”

It was gratifying to note the relatively large turnout for Professor Charles E. Rice's presentation on "Catholic Medical Ethics" last Thursday evening. Nearly, every department of the University was represented, and it was obvious that those present appreciated Pellegrino's impressive manner of speaking as well as his ability to outline a sizeable amount of material from the expanding discipline of medical ethics.

As a deeply committed Catholic and as a personal friend, I joined in the dialogue last Thursday evening to join in the presentation of medical ethics and, by a short extension, sexual ethics. I would like to offer a basic objection to Pellegrino's presentation.

It should be obvious, even with a cursory reading of major articles, that there is no uniform Catholic consensus on many specific issues within the ethical disciplines. Unquestionably, Rice Pellegrino gave the impression that there were certain invariable baselines underlying any "Catholic" discussion. Medical ethics and, by an extension, sexual ethics are only two of the realms where uniformity is an important point, for they are a testing ground for the relevance of the Church in our age. A simple appeal to magisterial teaching of authority and basic principles is inadequate to the demands of the discipline. If future and present Catholic "helping professionals" are to be up to their commitment to Catholicism and the created world, they must face the fact that there are not uniform Catholic opinions on many specific questions. Because there is not current uniformity of opinion on many of the issues, it is in this deeper level that the dialogue must be joined. The only other option is to face the world with simple appeals to Church authority and a theological anthropology, which is not simply a "better than" or "more than" relationship to Pellegrino seemed to imply in his presentation.

St. Ed's play set for run

Special to The Observer

St. Edward's Hall will produce "Moonchildren," a comic play in two acts, on April 18 and 19 at 8 p.m. at Washington Hall. Admission for the annual St. Ed's event will be $1.

The 15 member cast features 12 men from St. Ed's and three women from various halls across campus.

The play takes place in the mid 1960s in the apartment of six college students (four male, two female). It could be described as a "Big Chill" type of show. The story is about some great times learning a lot about themselves and each other during the course of the play. The producers of the play note that some people may find some language to be offensive.

Just how did we pull off this MS campaign?

Karen McCloskey

We're proud, except for the fact that we wanted to blow the pants off Notre Dame," said Robyn Sosnowski, chairperson of the ND fundraising, in a story published in The Marquette Tribune on April 2. "Sorry Robyn.

The Big ND raised $22,676, nearly $10 more than archrival Marquette, even though Notre Dame has a smaller student body. Not to boast, but...Downing's good job. Not only did they bring in the most bucks per capita, but they also raised more money than any other school in the competition. More than the (10) giants of Ohio State, Michigan, and Wisconsin. More than Notre Dame football rivals MI and Purdue.

A job well done deserves recognition and the ND Millions Against MS fundraiser is no exception. Those individuals and organizations both at Notre Dame and in the greater Detroit community contributed to the success of the campaign. Below is a list of several of those who donated their time, money, and services to the ND Millions Against MS campaign.

Lopes looking to help Irish squad out as his career comes to a close

By SEAN MURPHY
Sports Writer

Senior pitcher Buster Lopes has developed into one of the best pitchers in the country during his Notre Dame career, and may well be faced with a tough decision concerning another career very soon, a career in professional baseball.

For most college athletes the decision would not be hard to make if it was presented to them. If given the opportunity, they would play professional baseball.

But most college athletes aren't in Lopes' positions. Besides being a fine pitcher, Lopes is also a fine student. A management information systems major, he has already been offered a professional job.

Lopes has excelled in the classroom since his high school days, when he served as president of the National Honor Society as well as captain of the baseball team. He arrived at Notre Dame as an engineer and a Notre Dame scholar.

Competition is fierce for student-athletes of Lopes' caliber, and Lopes decided on Notre Dame after visiting a number of colleges.

"I was recruited by most of the Ivy League baseball schools, and a lot of schools in the south," says Lopes. "I narrowed it down to Notre Dame and I finally decided on Notre Dame because of Coach Gallo."

Lopes was one of the first pitchers recruited by Irish head coach Larry Gallo. Gallo had an opportunity to see just how effective Lopes was as a pitcher because, in the offseason, Gallo was also coaching the Cotuit Kettlelers, Lopes summer team.

Last summer Lopes posted a 3-5 ERA for the Kettlelers, who are members of the prestigious Cape Cod league - a league in which the majority of players get drafted by professional teams. Used primarily as a relief pitcher, Lopes was second in the league in saves and helped his team to the league title.

"I learned a lot in the Cape league last summer," says the New Bedford, Massachusetts native. "I came back to Notre Dame with lots of confidence."

So far this season, Notre Dame hasn't been able to combine effective pitching with timely hitting, and Lopes 2-4 record reflects it.

"We've had trouble putting things together so far this year," says Lopes. "We're just not clicking yet, but it's just a matter of time before we get in the rhythm and in the win column."

The Irish are 1-3 in the Big East Conference, but have more confidence games left to try and turn things around. This season will be counting on Lopes to supply much of the firepower needed to get to postseason play.

but, as the Crusaders notched three runs in the top of the third to take a 3-2 lead.

Starting pitcher Dan Sacchini was relieved on the top of the third, left after giving up six hits and four runs.

Sophomore Gleeson relieved Sacchini in the third. Gleeson proceeded to pitch a masterful game, yielding no runs in three and two-thirds innings of work.

In the bottom of the third, the Irish rallied for two big runs to take 4-3 lead. The Irish would add an insurance run in the fifth if not to bring the final tally to 6-4.

Offensively for Notre Dame, Rich Van Trouwens was outstanding, going three-for-four with a triple. Freshman Steve Entwistle also went two for three.

In the top of the seventh, Gleeson gave up a one-out single up the middle. Head Coach Larry Gallo wasted no time in implementing Bob Lee in relief of Gleeson. Lee got the first batter he faced to ground into a doubleplay, ending the game with a 4-3 Irish win. Lee picked up the save.

Irish he finally decided on Notre Dame because of Coach Gallo's.

This season has not been a very positive one for Notre Dame baseball. The team's record going into today's contest is 11-19-1. The Irish have held leads in many of the games, but have not been able to close the deal. Right now we are a game out from behind team. To be better, we have to have the killer instinct," commented Moran.

As Jack Moran of today as those of Jack Moran of years ago. He has not faced with both a corporate and professional job.

Lopes doesn't want to squander any of his potential, however, saying, "I also don't want to wonder my whole life if I could have made it in the pros or not."

Lopes is content to continue playing college baseball every year as long as he wants to. He's not a glory life until you make it to the big leagues."

"People should realize that it's not an easy life in the minor leagues," Lopes said. "They are tough. You don't get out until you make it to the big leagues.""So faced with both a corporate and a professional job, Lopes has to decide which will be best for me," he says. "It's something I'm going to have to give a lot of thought to."

Lopes couldn't be more correct. In his position, he has nothing to lose and everything to gain.

I was very pleased with some of the performances from the other Notre Dame players. Gleeson, Lee and Huson all did very well," commented Gallo.

The Notre Dame baseball team will square off against Purdue in a doubleheader this afternoon at 1:30 on Jake Kline field. The Boiler-gaters hold a winning record of 10 lead with a conference record of 4-0. "They are a very good hitting team. I hope our pitching can hold up," said Gallo.

Moran's playing days, like those of most any other athlete, are filled with memories. Two such 'baseball moments' stand out in Moran's mind.

Women’s tennis team loses a close one to Northwestern by a 6-3 score

By MARC RAMIREZ
Sports Writer

The Wildcats passed the Irish in last year’s meeting, 9-0, and everyone followed by default. But the Irish women’s tennis team fell to no. 5 Northwestern in a match that was held at the Northwestern University. "For one, instead of winning a few sets, we got two matches (the first scheduled doubles match also was won by the Irish by default)." said senior Cathy Scnell, who along with Laura Lee, Lisa LaFratta and Lisa Glessan was playing her last match on Notre Dame’s home court. "We went for broke. We didn’t have anything to lose."

The Irish were playing very well before the decision to play worked against them. Both Askin with an injured knee and Fern with a hurt thumb. "They’re working margin he needed to lift weights," says Selmer. "I won’t be able to do any hopeful."

"Underwood is making great progress at the position," says Selmer. "And he’s working very hard. But Doerger will be back in the fall, and we’re counting on him."

Selmer feels the line has done a good job this spring despite the injuries, and looks toward the fall with optimism. "The injuries in spring practice have hurt us," says Selmer. "They’ll be very difficult to replace. It’s very much like a three-hour marathon, 4-6, 6-4, 7-6. 1-6."

"But I don’t think that missing this much playing time will hurt us at all," added Beuerlein. "But it’s tough because I was looking forward to spring practice as a great time to learn. Last year I learned a lot about the offense by playing in the spring, but this year I haven’t been able to work on any passing plays. I have been working with the offense on some parts of the passing game and on receiving defenses, though." Beuerlein had originally planned to have the Irish in action by mid-July, but said that because doctors told him that he’d be allowed to lift weights lightly in about six weeks, said Beuerlein.

"We went for broke. We didn’t have anything to lose."

Second round of Bookstore XIV begins with action-packed games

By NICK SCHRANTZ
Sports Writer

The second round of Bookstore XIV matches three teams in a race against the clock for the win. The victors will move on to the next round, with the losers facing a new challenge.

Irish second baseman Jack Moran, shun born battling in last weekend's game against Xavier, has been one of the biggest bright spots for the Notre Dame baseball team. For more on Moran, and for details of yesterday's doubleheader split with Valparaiso, see Kevin Herbert's story below:

Improved play?
Irish baseball team splits twinbill with Valparaiso

By KEVIN HERBERT
Sports Writer

John Gleason (1.00) pitched three and two-thirds innings of scoreless baseball, and then was moved to the first baseman position as Notre Dame bounced back from an opening game defeat to split a twinbill with Valparaiso on Jake Kline Field yesterday.

The Irish, in splitting the doubleheader, brought their season ledger to 11-19-1.

In the first game, Notre Dame and Valparaiso were deadlocked at three after three innings of play. Valparaiso proceeded to score one run in the fourth and one more in the sixth to outdistance the Irish, 5-3.

Notre Dame captain Jack Moran did his leadoff job, going two for three with a walk. Dave Clark and Mike Trzeciak each picked up an RBI in the losing effort.

On the pitching front, sophomore John Bowen started and hurled five and two-thirds innings before being relieved in the sixth. Bowen struck out five, walked four and yielded six hits and four earned runs.

First-year hurler Jim Spruell was pleased with Bowen's performance, "I think he pitched well. We had a couple of fielding errors which, in my opinion, cost us the game." Pat Gallo continued.

The Squid Twines and 3 Bearded Clams got created 2-1 at the hands of The Creamers, another seeded team. Keith Veselik, Brian Golden and John Verfurth each scored six points to lead The Creamers. Warren Christie could only contribute one basket in 15 attempts as the losers shot a very poor 9-for-40.

Five Hoosiers and six Suits displayed the enthusiasm that once again made them one of the most entertaining teams on campus. "I didn't know if I could take the place of a couple of the seniors who were lost to Four Delinquents and Our Lawyers by a 22-13 score. Frank Keefe hit on five of eleven shots for the winners, while Doug Acknowledged led the winners with eight baskets. Jack Moran contributed six points on only nine shots.

Private Club, a team composed of four seniors and two freshmen, shot much better than the previous game. In fine performance in defeating Just 4 Udders, 21-11, Sunday afternoon, Brian Selmer and Aaron Giles each scored seven baskets for the winners.

The weather for the first day of the second round did not cooperate, as the conditions were windy and cold. These conditions made scoring more difficult and created several close games.

The Big Men rubbed out Car

niversity player Laura Dougherty guided the Irish to a 71-61 victory over Tennessee's shooting star, Laura Dougherty, as the Irish outscored the Lady Vols, 71-46, in the first-round game.

The Irish have decided to move the practice to next week.

The 6-4, 271-pound Plantz started during the Twinbills, but his teammates could only manage to shoot 8-for-65. Matt Barner in the best offer, a tough and unrelenting performance of the day. He layed in 11 baskets in only 12 attempts to lead the Irish.

The Uncoaches continued to struggle, as they were not very well coached, as they rolled over King Umpa and the Naugatuck Gang by a 21-9 score. The Uncoaches needed only 31 shots to win, as Jack Donaldson led the way with 11 baskets in 23 attempts to pace the Irish.

Kevin Kaneuras utilized superior height and decent shooting to defeat 5 Seymourians. Who Will be as the Irish outfielder Mark Antonietti, a former defensive import, scored three runs, each of which, in my opinion, cost us the game.

Nonetheless, the Irish have decided to move the practice to next week.

"I'm pleased with the effort everyone has given this year," said Selmer. "We're trying to do a lot of things with the time they've respounced well.

With the loss of Kelley at center, the Irish have decided to move junior Ron Selmer to forward. The 6-4, 271-pound Plantz started three games at quick tackle last fall while being hampered by a knee injury.

Plantz has been performing well in practice, but injured a knee in the team's scrimmage before Easter. Nonetheless, according to Coach Larkin, he looks to Plantz to solidify the line at center when he is fully recovered from his injury.

"Plantz has played center before," says Selmer, "and we're confident he'll do the job." Chuck Lanza, a 6-3 sophomore, has replaced Plantz until he, too, went out with an ankle sprain.

The Squid Twines and 3 Bearded Clams got created 2-1 at the hands of The Creamers, another seeded team. Keith Veselik, Brian Golden and John Verfurth each scored six points to lead The Creamers. Warren Christie could only contribute one basket in 15 attempts as the losers shot a very poor 9-for-40.
