Bizarre chase scene awakens Grace Hall; student nabs intruder

By MARK PANKOWSKI

A Fort Wayne man was placed in police custody after a Grace Hall resident chased a woman he believed to be a thief down 16 flights of stairs before apprehending her just 15 minutes later.

Although the suspect admitted to being in the hall, he was released later that day because Fort Wayne police neglected to read him his rights, said Glenn Terry, Notre Dame Security director.

While Grace Hall residents slept, the suspect was allegedly entering unlocked rooms and stealing items ranging from after-shave lotion to duffle bags and suitcases, said Terry.

A female acquaintance of the suspect, believed to be a "victim of circumstance," was standing in the hallway at the time of the thefts, he said.

After she was apprehended and questioned, the 19-year-old led investigators to the suspect who then had made his way to Fort Wayne, Terry said.

The acquaintance then was allowed to go. Terry said.

In the meantime, all possession allegations were found to be in the dorm's stairwell, and will be returned to the owners after being checked for fingerprints, he said.

The suspect and his acquaintance were believed to have gained access to the dorm through a propped-open door, said Father Gerald Lander, Grace Hall rector.

The bizarre incident, in which Vice President for Student Affairs Father David Tyson volunteered a pair of pants to the underwear-clad student, began when sophomore Joe Hills and by "some how, thousands of dollars, I'm blaming everything on my desk," Hills said.

"I guess he heard me because he asked if I was awake," recounted Hills. "He then said, 'I'm bored, let's party' and I'll come back later and we'll party.'"

Hills, a seventh-floor resident, then shouted "Wait!" and bolted to the stairwell in time to see the suspect running down the staircarrying bag.

"We saw Joe run but we didn't know what he was doing," said Hills.

roommate, Tom McGee. "He just took it upon himself to chase after him, just a guy in his underwear."

Hills pursued the alleged thief from one section of the dorm to the next, he said.

"All this time I was yelling at him, calling him things that you couldn't say in the newspaper," he said.

Still believing he was pursuing the suspect, Hills continued down all the way down to the basement, he said.

"I thought it was the guy in my room, but it turned out to be a big, fat black girl."

"I thought it was a street-wise criminal that knew some kind of fight­ing tactics so I grabbed her arm and let her walk in front of me," he said.

"He was scared so I was never mean to her."

"I led her upstairs into what I thought was Father Lander's room, the new rector," he said. "And all the Luther Father Tyson commented.

So here I am in my underwear and I told him this girl had been stealing. He was in his bathrobe," Hills said. "He told her to come in (his room) and he gave me some pants."

"But they were too big," Tyson then called Security, said Hills.

Investigators were sent to Fort Wayne with the woman, who pointed out where she lived to officials, he said.

The woman then let go, said Terry, because "we felt like she was a victim of circumstance. She didn't know what was going on."

The suspected thief was at the woman's home, but when searched, no stolen property was found, Terry said.

Terry blamed Fort Wayne police for allowing the suspect to go free:

"When the Fort Wayne police began to question him, he told them his rights," Terry said.

The student was pointing out what he was doing in a word edgewise. he said. "Now we can't use his admission."

Security is continuing its investiga­tion in the hope that new evidence can be found, said Terry.

"We're gathering all the information we can so we can get a warrant and get the person into the jail," Terry said.

Terry is not worried about the police, he and his acquaintance leaving town, he said.

"We know who both of them are," Hill said.

Holy Cross lese won't be renewed as plans for new dorm progress

Residents of Holy Cross Hall at Notre Dame will be moving in the future.

"Holy Cross Hall will be vacated as soon as funds can be raised for a new dormitory," Thomas Mason, vice president for business affairs said.

"We felt the money needed for the renovation would be better utilized in constructing new dormitories," Mason said.

A 1983 architectural study of all dormitories on the Notre Dame campus, Holy Cross Hall was found to be in need of major renovation.

The roof, walls, exterior skin, plumbing, electricity and life safety systems were all in need of renova­tion, Mason said.

"The lease for Holy Cross Hall is up in 1987 at which time Notre Dame will have 18 months to decide on renewal," Eby said.

Eby, however, expects a deci­sion within the next six months.

The major concern with this deci­sion will be availability of funds. The University fundraising committee is looking into possible donors for the proposed buildings.

Although there are no definite plans on the drawing board for the new buildings, a conceptual view already has been formulated.

"We are looking at two dorms similar to the Pasquerillas and Campus only slightly larger. Each would have a capacity of about 300 students and would be located between the Pasquerillas and the library," Dedrick said.

With the demise of the Nazz, late night studying fades away

Jane Kravcik
Assistant News Editor

The off-campus student is not offered either of these alternatives, and really is forced to go somewhere. There are those who claim that a student, with a bit of foresight, might avoid all nighters. With a bit of foresight, most wars could be avoided too, but life does not always work that way. Allnighters are pretty much a fact of life among college students, even if it is not the best of all possible worlds.

At a University of this size, there should be some way to compromise between the students, who simply want a place to study, and the University, which is worried not only about the security of the buildings in which the students study but also about the safety of the stu­dents themselves.

With appropriate security, there does not seem to be any objection to late night study, at least not from Neal or Donald Dedrick, director of the physical plant. "Personally, I support 24-hour study if it is adequately protected from outsiders," Dedrick said.

Dedrick suggested the use of closed circuit television to patrol an area. "All of this is just a matter of imagina­tion," he said.

"If people are looking for a late night study area, maybe student government should look into it," Neal said.

There are many possibilities for late-night study on campus. A few years ago, for example, there was some consideration of a 24-hour study lounge in the base­ment of the library. The study lounge never materialized, but it is an example of what a little in­agination and student support could bring forth.

It could be that a few years from now it won't be the case that people who seem to live in the Nazz are who are on campus. The Nazz, or an area like the Nazz, or an area with a similar use, was made without reason, however. Neal cited a example of a student trimester eliminates mixed groups.

Check tomorrow's paper for answer.

It's after midnight and you realize that you have eight hours of reading ahead of you before you can possibly lead the discussion in class tomorrow morning on St. Augustine.

Knowing your chances of staying awake all night are slim in the same area as your sleeping roommate, you head for the Nazz. The company might be just the thing you need, except for another cup of coffee.

There may be no one there to keep you awake when you do stumble over to the Nazz, mainly because it does not exist anymore. The 24-hour study lounge in the stu­dent center has entered the history books.

According to Neal, director of student activities, none of the renovated student center will be open 24 hours. "The building is not being built as a giant study hall," she said.

Although late-night study was discussed while the renovation plans were being made, it was decided not to include an area for this activity in the building. "This is not an academic building. It is designed to enhance sociability," she said.

The conditions were not made without reason, however. Neal cited a liability problem as one of the reasons the Nazz, or an area with a similar use, was eliminated from renovation plans. Anything that occurs in the student center, regardless of the time of day, is the responsibility of the University. "A lot could happen there; there is potential," she said.

Neal also cited examples of robbery or theft in such places. He occurred in LaFortune, rang­ing from furniture to posters.

Glen Terry, director of Notre Dame security, said there are also security issues involved in a late-night study area. "Non-campus people tend to prowl around and cause problems," he contended. He said the manpower needed to patrol an area where late-night study occurs is just not present at the University. "We have three groups of people, most of the time two, to patrol the grounds," he said.

"There are so much people congregating, there are going to be risks," Terry said.

All of this leaves the student of St. Augustine, or any student for that matter, with a bit of a problem. With the elimination of the Nazz, there really is no other place to study all night. Dorm rooms often are not conducive to study because of roommates and inviting beds. If you plan on using dorm study lounges, you had better make sure that your study group in single-sex, because par­ties eliminates mixed groups.
Saint Mary's plans fall activities

By THERESE GUARINO
Saint Mary's Executive Editor

College activities for the first half of the fall semester were outlined at last night's Programming Board meeting.

Traditional Events Commissioner Susan O'Dell described some of the events presented in conjunction with the College's annual Oktoberfest and Founder's Day.

Oktoberfest, Oct. 9 and 10, will include the traditional beer garden for those 21 and older, and the root beer tent. A day trip will entertain students at both tents. Also on the agenda for Oktoberfest is a bonfire, a tentatively planned pig roast, and a German dinner, served outdoors this year. "The Sound of Music" will give way to a double feature of "Raiders of the Lost Ark" and "Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom."

Founder's Day, October 15, is the day traditionally celebrated as the birthday of the College. A 'walk through time' picture show, a special dinner catered by SAGA and birthday cakes will be part of the festivities. New this year is a writing contest with a Founder's Day theme, which carries a $40 prize for the winner.

Trovide Landfield, entertainment commissioner, described the new "That's Entertainment" series of programs this semester. "It's a monthly program to utilize the Haggar Center," she said. "We'll use local and professional talent. It will be a type of coffeehouse."

The series will begin September 25 with John Kennedy, an Irish singer.

Three crosses stolen from St. Ed's

By MARK PANKOWSKI

Notre Dame Security is continuing its investigation into the Monday night theft of three "irreplaceable" stations of the cross at St. Edward's Hall chapel.

The hand-carved wooden stations, fixtures of the chapel for over 60 years, were on opposite sides of the chapel, said Father Mario Pedl, rector of St. Edward's.

Because one of the stations taken was located away from the entrance, said Pedl, "they had to walk across the chapel to steal it."

Security has no suspect in the case, said Glenn Terry, director of Notre Dame Security.

"There was no indication of breaking in," said Terry. "It was a case of someone seeing something they wanted and taking it."

The stations, numbers one, two and eight, were discovered missing at approximately 10 p.m. Monday, said Pedl. The hall's mail and janitorial staff were notified of the theft, he added.

"Every problem is it's replaceable because when one goes through the devotion, one stops at each station. All 14 of them," said Terry. "You can't pick and choose them."

"They're like the rosary. You don't pick and choose which beads you'll say."

Pedl said he believed students may have stolen them as a prank, but Pedl had no idea who took the stations.

Pedl will not purchase a new set of stations.

"What one has to have for each station is a small wooden cross, the rest is decoration," he said. "We'll do is get three small wooden crosses on the wall which will allow us to make the stations."

"But," said Pedl, "it'll be a pretty stark reminder."

World Hunger Coalition continues Wednesday fast

By DAVID T. LEE
News Staff

Many students will feel a few hunger pains once a week during lunch this semester.

No, it is not a protest boycott of the dining halls. Instead, it is Notre Dame's version of USA for Africa - the World Hunger Coalition. The campaign, which sponsors the Wednesday lunch fast each year, and this year is no exception.

The project involves a voluntary fast by students during lunch each Wednesday, according to senior Kevin Moser, president of the WHC. In return, University Food Services has agreed to pledge $1 for every meal that a student skips.

A day worth of fasting totals between $13 and $14 per person. This money goes entirely into efforts of students.

Although last year boasted 850 students who sacrificed their lunch for the WHC, Moser hopes that over 1000 students will sign up this year.

Students can sign up for the fast today and tomorrow during lunch at both dining halls. Sign ups will also be held during mass in the halls on Sunday. Students interested in joining the WHC can attend the next meeting which will take place Monday night at 9:15 in the Center for Social Concerns.

Police believe suspect in custody to be California’s ‘night stalker’

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Calif. - Fingerprints found in the apartment of an elderly woman killed 15 months ago match those of Richard Ramirez, the man accused of being the “Night Stalker” linked to at least 14 slayings this year, police said yesterday.

Police Chief Daryl Gates said police are reviewing all unsolved homicides, burglaries, kidnappings and molestations since 1981 to determine any link to the recent six-month spate of serial killings that have terrorized California.

Investigators are “looking back on all of California’s ‘strange circumstances,’” Gates said.

Religious groups criticize Reagan

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Prominent religious groups, while praising President Reagan for trying to revise the tax system, are complaining his plan would still do too little for the poor and too much for the rich.

In broadsides issued as members of Congress began returning from summer recess, five Protestant and Jewish groups and the Roman Catholic bishops' national organization addressed details of the president's proposal.

The bishops' U.S. Catholic Conference, addressed rhetorically: "Should we allow a large windfall for the rich at a time when the gap between rich and poor is widening, at a time when millions lack even the most basic necessities required for human dignity?"

And the Protestant-Jewish coalitions, Interfaith Action for Economic Justice, called Reagan's plan "an assault on the progressivity of the tax system," referring to the skewing of the system so wealthy people pay a higher percentage of income in taxes.

A specific complaints concern a Reagan recommendation that the top tax rate for the richest Americans be lowered to 35 percent from 50 percent. The top rate was 70 percent until Congress passed another Reagan tax bill in 1981.

Bob groups also said further help for the poor should not come at the expense of middle-income Americans.

The administration bill also aims to provide tax relief for the poorest Americans, and the interfaith group said "the president's proposal is on the right track" in that regard.

Death row prisoner gets stay of execution

Associated Press

STARKE, Fla. - Convicted murderer Willie Darden, spared by the U.S. Supreme Court hours before his scheduled execution yesterday, resumed his life on Florida death row, where he has lived longer than any inmate except one.

Just before midnight Tuesday, a sharply divided U.S. Supreme Court granted him an automatic stay, blocking the execution in the electric chair set for 7 a.m. at Florida State Prison near Starke.

Darden, convicted of ganging down a lakeland furniture store owner in a robbery that netted $15, was with his girlfriend, stepmother and brother-tower when word of the stay was received.

He had stated what he was to be his last meal of scallops, oysters, shrimp and lobster and his belongings had been bundled up and labeled for disposal.

"They said he was immensely relieved," said Vernon Bradfield, spokesman for the Department of Corrections. "He's got to be relieved, but the suffering will go on because he knows it (an execution date) is coming back.

Darden has survived three death warrants, a record that officials said previously was held by convicted police killer Carl Ray Sogler, who remains on death row.

When Gov. Bob Graham signed his first two death warrants, the names were those of Darden and John Spinkelkin, executed in May 1979 for the murder of a traveling companion.

Dublin student heads new ‘Irish Link’ club

By GERRY GOLDNER

Staff Reporter

Ireland will soon mean more than leprechauns and St. Patrick if sophomore Sean Evers has his way.

Evers, a Dublin native, recently organized a club called the Irish Link with the primary goal of "educating the members to the Ireland of 1985."

Many students’ knowledge of Ireland is limited to "the IRA, leprechauns and green fields," Evers said.

To combat these misconceptions, Irish Link members will explore many facets of Irish life, including politics, economy and culture.

As soon as the Irish Link is firmly established, the group will begin to sponsor guest speakers, discussion groups and films. A monthly social event will be held, including a possible event with members’ parents over parents' football weekend.

Although Evers has many plans for the future of the club, his immediate objective is organizing the club. Meetings will be held twice a month beginning tomorrow at 7 p.m. in the International Students’ Lounge on the second floor of Lafferty.

Chemical leaks threaten Midwest

Associated Press

Fumes at a Kentucky plant sickened at least 72 people yesterday, and an estimated 2,000 people in Ohio evacuated after an acid leak, and crews in Illinois righted a tank car of a potentially hazardous chemical after a train derailment.

In New Jersey, 71 construction workers at a nuclear power plant site required treatment and 21 were hospitalized after an automatic fire extinguishing system accidentally released a cloud of carbon dioxide.

State inspectors were sent to a textile plant at Mount Sterling, Ky., after unidentified fumes forced evacuation of 260 workers from the Cowden Manufacturing Co. bluejeans plant, said Gordon Nichol, a spokesman for the state division of Disaster and Emergency Services.

Workers were treated for neck pains, chills and nausea, said Kevin Samuel, public relations director for Mary Chiles Hospital in Mount Sterling. None of the 72 people sent there were admitted.

The state Occupational Safety and Health Program had received two complaints about employees becoming ill and passing out at the plant before yesterday's incident, said Michael Salyers, director of compliance.

The agency tried to investigate, but the firm refused to allow inspectors inside, Salyers said. A search warrant was obtained and an inspection began Tuesday, but the cause of the problem was not found, he said.

Cowden officials at the company's offices in Lexington declined comment.

Hydrochloric acid leaking from a ruptured tank at a galvanizing plant in Canton, Ohio, formed a dangerous cloud and forced a three-hour evacuation of about 2,000 people. The leak also forced cancellation of classes at three elementary schools and one junior high.

Police Maj. James Fetterman said no injuries were reported, other than eye, throat and skin irritation, after the leak at the Gregory Galvanizing and Metal Processing Inc. plant.

Jim Irwin, an emergency response worker with the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency, said about 5,000 gallons of the acid leaked from a crack in a 5,000-gallon fiberglass tank outside the plant.

The agency tried to investigate, but the firm refused to allow inspectors inside, Salyers said. A search warrant was obtained and an inspection began Tuesday, but the cause of the problem was not found, he said.
2 killed, 6 injured during Sikh attack

Associated Press

NEW DELHI, India - Three suspected Sikh extremists firing machine guns burst into a city council office yesterday and killed a prominent politician who was a close friend of the prime minister. A bodyguard also was slain and six people were reported wounded.

Slain Councilman Arjun Das, 46, was a Hindu and a member of the Congress Party. Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi, Gandhi called an emergency meeting to review security in New Delhi.

In the state of Punjab, which has been beset by Sikh violence for more than a year, two terrorists riding a motor scooter opened fire in an industrial area of Jalandhar city. Police in the northern state said two people were injured, but gave no further details.

A series of coordinated attacks Tuesday by Sikh extremists in Punjab village took the lives of four Hindus and injured 12 others. Hindus are a religious minority in all of India except the Punjab.

Authorities believed the spate of violence was intended to sabotage Punjab's Sept. 17 elections, which are being boycotted by Sikh militants.

Officials responded by ordering a dusk-to-dawn curfew on a section of Punjab's border with Pakistan. An official announcement said the curfew would remain in force until Sept. 30.

Das, a member of the Delhi Metropolitan Council, was named by civil liberties groups as one of 16 Congress Party leaders who allegedly instigated anti-Sikh riots following the assassination last Oct. 31 of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

At least 2700 people died in the four-day riots, including almost 2300 Sikhs in New Delhi alone.

Another Congress Party politician linked to the riots, an independent lawmaker Lalit Maken, was assassinated at his home July 31.

No arrests have been made. Police said they did not know whether Das was slain because of his alleged role in the riots or as part of attempts to undermine the elections for a new 117-member Punjab legislature and 13 seats in the national parliament.

Police last night released photographs of four men, three bearded and turbaned and one clean-shaven. A television announcer said the four, who were not named, were believed involved in a number of crimes, but he did not say they were suspects in Das's murder.

The clean-shaven man was Lal Singh, a Sikh terrorist wanted by the FBI for allegedly plotting to kill Rajiv Gandhi during the Indian leader's visit to the United States in June. Indian police also were seeking Lal Singh in connection with Maken's death.

Carnage in Lebanon continues to mount

Associated Press

BERUIT, Lebanon - A car bomb exploded yesterday at a market in Zahle, a Christian enclave in the Syrian-controlled Bekaa Valley. A Christian radio station said at least 13 people were killed and 50 wounded.

Israeli airplanes attacked a Palestinian guerrilla base about six miles southwest of Zahle three hours later, in their 11th raid inside Lebanon this year. The Tel Aviv military command said the base at Qabb Elias was a key post of the Palestinian Arab Revolutionary Committee, a Libyan-backed group.

In Beirut, Shiite Muslim militants and Palestinian guerrillas battled around a refugee camp in the southern suburbs. Police said five civilians were killed, including two Shite children, and 27 were wounded.

The Zahle car bomb was the sixth in Lebanon since Aug. 14. At least 140 people were killed and 250 wounded by the five earlier explosions in Christian and Moslem areas.

Yesterday's bombing, at Zahle's vegetable market, occurred at 3:20 p.m. The Christian radio Voice of Lebanon said the bomb also set a fuel depot afire in the Christian city of 330 pounds of TNT, was rigged in a foot-deep hole in the street.

Women smokers may lessen chances of uterine cancer

Associated Press

BOSTON, Mass. - Older women who smoke heavily may actually lower their risk of cancer of the uterus, possibly because cigarettes reduce their estrogen secretions, a new study suggests. But the researchers caution that the dangers of smoking far outweigh any potential benefits.

"The significance of this is the lead it provides for potentially understanding the cause of endometrial cancer," said Dr. Harvey Fliesberg, dean of the Harvard School of Public Health.

"To consider smoking in order to decrease your risk of uterine cancer is like looking for a gas leak with a lighted match. It would be foolish," he added in an interview.

The study found that the risk of cancer of the lining of the uterus, or endometrium, is lower than usual among heavy smokers who have passed menopause, the researchers wrote in today's New England Journal of Medicine.

The researchers speculated the reason could have something to do with lowering estrogen secretions.

In general, the risk of endometrial cancer was 30 percent lower among smokers than non-smokers. However, virtually all the difference was seen among postmenopausal heavy smokers, whose risk was cut in half. There was no significant protective effect for light smokers or premenopausal women who smoked.

Dr. Noel Weiss of the University of Washington, in an accompanying editorial, noted that about 100 of every 100,000 women past menopause in the United States get cancer of the endometrium yearly, and about 20 percent of them die of the disease.

Last night I saw "Weird Al" Yankovic in concert at the Stepan Center. Let me revise that. Last night I went to Stepan Center and listened in horror as a squirrel died a horrible death in a blender.

OK, OK, I'll be honest. I DID go to Stepan and I DID see Weird Al. He was really great. What I have to say more/Alright, alright, these are the parts I remember.

Weird Al and his Stupid Band hit the stage at exactly 8:30 p.m. He was a half hour late and Stepan Center was only half full but there was tension in the air. The kind of tension one feels on a sinking ship. Things were about to get ugly. The first song was "I Lost on Jeopardy" and the audience loved it even though it was too loud to make out any of the lyrics. Oh well.

Things got better when Al began to dance and the host of "Jeopardy," Art Fleming suddenly appeared on the giant video screen that was set up behind the stage. The Stupid Band instantly asserted itself as Al's backing band, and the audience loved it even more.

Weird Al performed his anthem "Dare to be Stupid" last night at Stepan Center.

‘Brothers in Arms’ is something for money

Brothers in Arms
by Dire Straits

With its first studio LP in three years, entitled Brothers in Arms, the British rock group Dire Straits has catapulted itself to the top of the album charts, and it looks likely that the second single from the album, "Money for Nothing," will capture the spotlight on its respective chart, too.

Part of their success is due to Mark Knopfler's ability to whip off enjoyably fresh songs like "Walk of Life," the first single from the new album, and "So Far Away." Both tunes have been receiving considerable airplay because they are catchy and palatable.

"Walk of Life" is a lively countrified number, complete with baseball park keyboards and twang guitar. It's really a fun song, detailing the struggles of a would-be rocker. The latter, a mellow, dreamlike call to a separated lover, succeeds not only because of its loopy but tight arrangement and dreamy playing, but also because of the crisp production of Knopfler and Neil Doofman.

Another reason for the band's success is MTV. Whether MTV executives comprehend the song "Money for Nothing" or not, they've been playing the heck out of it on their network. Utilizing the narrative viewpoint of an appliance salesman, Knopfler comments on what it takes to be a star on MTV - playing guitar and looking "pretty." Knopfler hides behind this sales­man's words, not revealing whether or not he himself believes that making videos "ain't working."

On the title track, the message is more obvious, and also more interesting. It addresses the basic fact of human nature that people gravitate together and become "brothers in arms." This same fact also accounts for why we have wars people tend to group together, resulting in factionism. Knopfler performs a neat play on words here. "Arms" could be taken to mean the part of our body with which we hold each other, or it could mean the buildup of weapons that could cause the end of the world, which is what happens in this song. The final message: "We're fools to make war on our brothers in arms." This is also one of the best anti-nuclear songs written recently.

Brothers in Arms, then, is a very accessible amalgamation of tunes, some ultra-serious, some not. It's great for both partying and philosophizing, and it sure beats almost all of the mainstream competition around today. So take a break from your Wham! and Madonna, and get tuned on to Dire Straits.

Scarecrow
by John Cougar Mellencamp

"Another reason of the Springfield clown" could be the name of a low-budget horror flick or it may be the best way to describe the billboard Top 10 chart with this week. With Bryan Adams and John Cafferty raking up big sales by doing cheap imitations of that guy from New Jersey fans of the realistic, and in some cases, exh­cused for suspiciously eying Scarecrow, the new album by John Cougar Mellencamp.

Their fears are unfounded. Musically there are few surprises on Scarecrow. Mellencamp sings solid, no synthesizers-please. After an LP that he does it well. Most of the songs bear familiar character­istics: a tight, changing rhythm section, understated guitar work and growling, throaty vocals. "Justice and Independence '85," "Rumbleseat" and the hit single "Lonely Ol' Night," all have the same sound that put "Authority Song" at the top of the charts last year, Tins of "Jack and Diane" are not for­got­ten, however. Rickie Lee Jones joins Mellencamp for the slower-paced "Between a Laugh and a Tear." The big surprises on Scarecrow, though, are lyrical. Picking up where "Pink Houses" left off, Mellen­camp has become rock's Mid­western spokesman. He makes some strong statements about life in a part of the country where Reaganomics has yet to bring prosperity.

In "Rain on the Sca­rcrow," for example, Mellencamp muses about a dark, brooding guitar.

Well there's 97 crosses planted in the courthouse yard.

Ninety-seven families who lost 97 names.

And some nights I feel like dyin', like that scarecrow in the rain.

Sort of frustration and courage in the face of adversity weave throughout Scarecrow, appearing in five of the album's 10 songs. What makes the words effective, however, is that Mellencamp makes his point by singing about regular people in everyday situations, rather than preaching self-righteously.

He comes up glaringly short, however, on the album's last two songs. Lyrics such as "I've seen a lot of things/But I have not seen a lot of other things," and "B.O.C.K. in the U.S.A." nearly undermine an other­wise invigorating album.

On the whole, however, Mellencamp has constructed a collection of strong, no-frills rock songs. He may never rival the Boss musically.

but Scarecrow's lyrics place him well in front of the pack of Springsteen clones.

Arrive Without Travelling
by The Three O'Clock

Psychedelic

The word conjures up many things to many people. Some people picture hallucinations caused by mind-altering drugs. Some people think of the music of the late 60's. Psychedelic music ranges from the well-known experiments by the Beatles, in songs like "Lucy in the Sky With Diamonds," to the lesser-known Chocolate Watchband and the Strawberry Alarm Clock.

The Three O'Clock have two albums, The Three O'Clock has come up with their first major release, Arrive Without Travelling. The album establishes The Three O'Clock as an unabashedly psychedelic group. Practically every song on the album has something unusual to boast. Of the common, unusual thread is Queenie's voice, which has a high, breathy quality not usually found in a male voice. In fact, after dropping the needle on the first track, you may think you have the needle set too fast. It sounds like the Chippewas would after breath­ingBelow.

the least unique. Buried deep in the second side is "The Girl with the Guitar (Says 'Oh Yeah')" which for the first two verses uses only some space streamlining courtesy sounding acoustic guitar and an under­stated accordion. If Simon and Garfunkel had taken LSD, this is what they might have sounded like.

"Arrive Without Travelling" is definitively "Half The Way There," a classic winding, upbeat pop song, that sounds a lot like the Monkees in their heyday. "Half The Way" has no stand-out instrument, preferring to use the old guitar bass-drums configuration, with a little current, beer-ball piano added to flesh things out. The lyrics are a bit blandly optimistic, yet the chorus goes on just on the right side of sappy.

The highlight of the album is definitely "Baby You're a Star," a classic wailing, upbeat pop song, that sounds a lot like the Doobie Brothers in their heyday. "Baby You're a Star" has no stand-out instrument, preferring to use the old guitar bass-drums configuration, with a little current, beer-ball piano added to flesh things out. The lyrics are a bit blandly optimistic, yet the chorus goes on just on the right side of sappy.

Koch back; Rams wait on Dickerson

Associated Press

Another National Football League holdout has a reason to return. Offensive tackle Greg Koch resumed practice with the Green Bay Packers but with just days remaining on the strike when NFL owners, Dickerson decided to leave a large contingent of key players still away from their teams.

Miami Dolphins quarterback Dan Marino, who shuttered the single-season mark for pass completions and toucheddowns last season, reported back last week to grind out a move aimed at speeding up the renegotiation of his contract. A couple of other holdouts, Philadelphia Eagles wide receiver Mike Quick and Houston Oilers fullback Larry Morty also showed up in the past few days.

Dickerson, however, remained home in Seattle, Texas, where he has been since the beginning of August. The man who set a new NFL rushing record last season wants to renegotiate a contract he signed with the Los Angeles Rams just before the salary cap was lifted in a bidding war with the United States Football League.

McEnroe, Navratilova advance, Graf shocks fourth-seeded Shriver

Associated Press

NEW YORK - Defending champion John McEnroe, his dazzling and devastating display of tennis halted momentarily by a controversial call, advanced to the semifinals of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships last night with a 6-1, 6-0, 7-5 victory over Sweden's Joakim Nystrom. He will meet third-seeded Mats Wilander, who advanced to the semis earlier in the day when yet another seeded Swede, Anders Jarryd, retired in the third set with an upset stomach.

The women's semifinal pairings were completed when young Steffi Graf of West Germany surprised fourth-seeded Pam Shriver and Geneva Navratilova crushed Zina Garrison.

The women's semifinals will pit top-seeded Chris Evert Lloyd, going after her seventh U.S. open singles crown, against No. 3 Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia.

The men's semifinals will be completed Thursday when No. 2 Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia plays seventh-seeded Yannick Noah of France and No. 4 Jimmy Connors takes on unseeded Heinz Gunthardt of Switzerland.

"It was playing about as well as I can play for a couple of sets," McEnroe said.

After McEnroe, the No. 10 seed, fought off a break point to hold serve in the second game of the match, McEnroe went on a 13-game tear, completely overwhelming his outmatched opponent. By then, McEnroe had wrapped up the first two sets and had a 2-0 lead in the third.

And Nystrom, who beats Boris Becker in a fourth-round match, had been able to win three consecutive points only once in his career. That was in the sixth game of the opening set to take a 40-love lead before McEnroe came back to break the Swede's service yet again.

But in the third game of the third set, McEnroe hit what he thought was the final shot to break Nystrom's serve. The talented but tempestuous left-hander from New York walked off the court and sat in his chair ready for the change-over.

Defensive units in the game of football are often referred to in animal-like terms. The linebackers are the heart and mind of the beast, while the defensive line are the allies upon to be the “teeth” of the unit, chewing up ballcarriers and trying to get them out of the game back.

Throughout summer workouts, the defensive line of the Notre Dame football team was successful in shoring up and polishing. Then two weeks ago, the unit lost a tooth.

ND alumus Younger on National crew team

By GREG ANDRES
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame crew club is a team which does not often gain much recognition. The accomplishments of Notre Dame alumnus John Younger, however, a member of the graduating class of 1985, have brought unheard of attention to the program. Younger, a member of the ND crew club for four years, has become a recognized figure in the rowing world by earning a spot on the national U.S. National Crew team.

Physical considerations of the national crew team boat are usually reserved for oarsmen from established varsity programs in the East and West coasts, such as Harvard, Yale and Washington. The fact that Younger comes from a Midwest school which does not even have crew as a varsity sport, and thus has an access to limited funding, is simply amazing. Mike Songer, president of the ND crew club, believes Younger’s accomplishments “shocked the world rowing community.”

Younger is now competing for the U.S. team in Belgium, one of the team’s stops on their European tour. Younger’s selection to the team comes after a year when he barely missed making the U.S. Olympic team’s first boat. The team of which Younger is presently a member is equivalent to an Olympic team, however, since this is an non-Olympic year and the team competes in Europe.

Younger is one of the top members of the U.S. boat in the lightweight division. He was able to gain a position on the team despite a broken rib sustained while participating in the sport. Younger’s accomplishments, despite his limited access to the best atmosphere possible for a rower, has classified him as “simply the most astonishing oarsmen in ND history,” according to Songer.

Senior Greg Dingens, at 6'5, 254 pounds will provide some needed versatility to the line by coming in to spell his teammates. Dingens’ role will be, in the eyes of Lantz, much more than that of merely a reserve player.

“Consider Greg Dingens a starter,” says the second-year Irish assistant. “He can play left or right tackle, and he wants Irish people to like the game, because fresh people make a difference. In fact, right now, we plan to play six defensive linemen throughout the course of the game.”

The other pair of linemen who will be called upon to help out in the trenches are sophomores Matt Dingens and Jeff Kune. The 6'6, 230-pound Dingens, brother of fellow lineman Greg, moved over this summer from right end and has progressed rapidly. Although this has impressed observers, Dingens still has no game experience at his new position. Kune, meanwhile, has felt his feet wet last season in preparation for his more contributory role this year.

The injury to Griffin meant that these six players would be called upon to work a bit harder, Lantz feels that their development this summer and their past experience will have prepared them sufficiently to face their opponent’s challenges.

“We’re experienced and talented,” says Lantz. “And we have not made many changes in our coaching staff or scheme this year. But we have to prove ourselves. Right now, we’re not ready to play Michigan, but we’re not supposed to be ready yet. We’re simply coming along and moving on whole.”

If the teeth of the Irish line can align themselves properly, it will be Notre Dame football fan who will be wearing the beautiful smiles.

“Our idea is that we want to get as good as we could be as fast as we could be,” said Grace. “and we’re not going to do that by playing a lot of the teams that used to be on the schedule. The Observer
By JOHN COYLE
Sports Writer

There are many new faces on the Courtenay Courts as the Notre Dame women's tennis team prepares for the fall season. Many of these newcomers were introduced to Saturday matches with Evansville and Marquette. Not only did several players from last year graduate, but the team also lost the guidance and expertise of seven-year head coach Sharon Peterson, who has moved on to become an assistant athletic director.

If all the players are as enthusiastic and as excited as the new head coach, Michelle Gelfman, however, the rebuilding process should be a quick one. Gelfman, who had been the head coach of both the women's and men's tennis teams at Western Illinois University the last two years, is extremely excited about the upcoming season.

Gelfman considers herself a hard worker, a trait she's very dedicated to her team. The young coach also prides herself on being fair and always available for her players. In return for her efforts, the lively coach expects a lot from her players.

"I give 150 percent and I work my girls very, very, very hard. I just want them to work for all until they prove otherwise. Everyone gets a fair shot," says Gelfman.

So far, the team appears to be responding very well to Gelfman's hard-work and enthusiasm in spreading among her players.

"We're all very happy with our new coach," says captain Sue Panther. "She works us really hard but we need it. We're looking forward to a really good season.

Several key players from last year are back and Gelfman will be depending heavily on them for the first few matches. The Irish have moved up to the Division I level after making it to the Division II finals last season, so their schedule will be more difficult than it was in the past.

The Irish appear to have a very strong team this year. Besides Panther, Mary Colligan and Lizzy O'Brien along with juniors Johnelle Buhler and Tammy Schmidt and sophomore Michelle Daftis are all year-round kids.

The squad will gain some added depth with newcomers such as Natalie Ting, junior transfer, Carol Rader and freshman walk-on, Julie Williams.

While the Irish will be vying for the North Star Conference championship in October, the fall season is mainly a preparation for the spring season and the NCAA Championship.

The Evansville match starts at 9 a.m., with the Marquette match slated for 1 p.m.

"You always want to score more goals," explained Grace. "I thought that we were a little too quick, but we had a very few and we were very successful as a team."

"The second half was good and we will continue to improve as "a team," Grace said. "Defensively, Grace believes that his team is very tough and that they will continue to improve in "as a team." Offensively, Grace believes that his team has the potential to be very good. Grace also believes that they already possess the ability to score against anybody. The team has performed as evidenced in the Irish game against Marquette.

"Virginia's an awesome team," said Grace. "They spanked us, and they gave us some lessons. But as long as we learned from those lessons and showed some improvement in that game, I would have been happy.

"The game was against Virginia to meet the highly-ranked Georgia Mason Patriots in Fairfax. According to Grace, they were able to take many things from the game that they learned in the Virginia game and use them to their advantage.

"George Mason was as high as eighth in the country last year, with most of their team back," recalled Grace. "We gave them all they wanted."

Against the Pat's, the Irish did much better offensively as they took 10 shots to the Irish's 2. The Patriots took a 2-0 lead in the first half and put it out of reach in the second half. Grace scored the Irish's first goal of the 1985 campaign at 55:51 when his classmate Joe Sternberg closed the gap to one again at the 73:15 mark with a assist from an senior Dave Siew. With the Irish pressing for a game-tying goal, the Pat's were able to catch them off guard and were able on goal to win the contest by a 2-1 margin.

According to Grace, the Irish have benefited from their first two games because of the intense competition they have met, and they will continue to improve in a similar fashion as their opponents jam-packed with outstanding and highly-ranked opponents.

"The first two games, we knew that we weren't going to win 16 or 18 goals this year, but we knew that we were going to be as good as we could be because of the competition," Grace said.
