New constitution approved by senate

By CHRIS BEDNARSKI
Senior Staff Reporter

A new constitution and its bylaws for Notre Dame student government were approved last night by the presidential commission four-hour-long meeting.

For the new constitution to take effect, it now must be approved by the Hall President's Council which meets tomorrow.

The senate spent most of the night debating changes to the proposed constitution and its bylaws. Senate members approved a change in the membership of the Student Senate under the new constitution. The change adds the faculty president and president of the Freshman Advisory Council to the senate and eliminates one of the senators from Grace and Flanner halls.

Under the original proposal, the membership would have consisted of single members from each dorm, with the exception of Grace and Flanner, which would have had two. There also would have been two off-campus senators, with the student body president and vice president as non-voting members.

"We're giving everybody one senator. Why should they (Grace and Flanner) get two? It's a little inconsistent," said Judith Windhorst, Badin Hall president.

Flanner Hall Co-President Mark Conors said the original proposal was done to give proportional representation. The proportional representation becomes important when distribution of student government funds are made, said cabinet member Mike Jaeger.

The Student Activities Board, Buckley, said the new constitution was given a place in the revised proposal. Student Activities Board manager Lee Broussard said he thought the SAB needed a place in the constitution because of its importance in the campus' social life.

Maher Mouaisher, member of the student government restructuring committee, agreed with Broussard. "The SAB is the major social organizer on campus. It needs to be recognized," he said.

"I don't think the SAB should have their own section in the constitution. We're trying to streamline things," said Windhorst, disagreeing with Broussard. "I think it should exist under the bylaws," she said.

In the new constitution, the SAB's purpose is defined to "promote services and social life in the most efficient way possible.

The new constitution gives the Hall Presidents' Council the power to propose but not adopt a change to the constitution. Under the proposed constitution, only three-quarters of the senate or two-thirds of the student government members will have to vote to adopt a change.

Hesburgh reaffirms stand against divestiture

By CHRIS SKORCZ
Senior Staff Reporter

Immediate divestment from South Africa is not necessarily the right thing for Notre Dame to do, University President Father Theodore Hesburgh said last night at a meeting of Howard Hall's chapel. The con­ tention is whether the only answer is an easy answer of "divest now." However, I am not sure it's the right thing to do, "said Hesburgh.

"It is a very popular thing to do - no big problem," said Hesburgh, addressing approximately 100 people.

"It could be done before midnight tonight. If the Board of Trustees would decide to divest, I would go along with it but I won't stay awake nights worried about my conscience.

"If you do, you wash your hands of the problem," said Hesburgh.

Hesburgh was heavily criticized by SAB leaders for his talk tonight. The students were unaware of objections which were raised against launching the shuttle in an interview with him.

"We're not going to divest, but we also won't sit back and let things go on as they are," said James Buckley, President of the Student Senate. "The SAB needs to be proactive in this situation."

A new campus computer store should be opening up in a few weeks, according to Assistant Vice President for Business Affairs James Laphotb. He said the store's operators as well as its location has yet to be determined. Laphotb added that he believed the University Computing Center would be chosen to replace the bankrupt General Micro as the store's operator. According to Dean of Engineering and Assistant Provost for Computing Roger Schmitz, administrators are leaning toward locating the new store in the basement of the Computing Center instead of the LaFortune Student Center. - The Observer

Almost all Hoosiers agree there should be laws restricting the distribution of pornography, but there is far less concern over its effects on a poll conducted by Indiana University. Of the 815 persons interviewed, 93 percent said there should be laws against the distribution of pornography, said John Macland, co-director of the Indiana University Center for Survey Research, which conducts the Indiana Poll twice a year. Fifty percent said such laws should apply only to people under 18 years of age; the other 43 percent said the laws should apply to everyone regardless of age. Only 6 percent said there should be no laws forbidding the distribution of pornography, and 1 percent said they did not know. However, when those interviewed were asked about the effects of pornography, there was not nearly as much certainty. -AP

While violent physical abuse occurs most frequently in lower income families, other forms of abuse, primarily sexual and emotional, are less connected with poverty. An estimated 44,700 cases of sexual abuse occur in the United States each year, many of these in the homes of college-educated professionals. Emotional abuse... This parental behavior which undermines a child's self-esteem is frequently reported in high- and middle-class homes. Parental indifference to their children is also being identified as potentially dangerous, causing a condition known as Failure To Thrive (FTT).

Comprising the tragedy of child abuse is the protection afforded to accused and convicted parents by the American legal system. If a parent kills a child, the final outcome is "not infrequently suspended sentence or a short jail term," reports Atlantic magazine.

But some encouraging signs that the urgency of the problem is being recognized and initiatives taken as a result of magazine reports that 16 states, in order to offset recent federal cutbacks in funding of family violence service agencies, have established Children's Trust Funds to further abuse prevention. In 1983, the Justice Department established a National Task Force on Family Violence to train law enforcement personnel in more effective responses to family crisis.

Most importantly, communities across the country are educating residents in identification and prevention. If such programs continue to penetrate the consciousness of all Americans, not just those immediately affected by the problem, all children might begin to expect the familial security that we at Notre Dame take for granted.

Saint Mary's Programming Board offers solutions to hall's 'problem'

By MARILYN BENCHIK

Staff Reporter

The Saint Mary's Programming Board offered a possible solution to LeMans Hall's apparent lack of student participation in hall sponsored activities at last night's meeting.

"Right now it is hard to have good participation due to the dorm being so large. Splitting the dorm into smaller wings might break down the communication problem," said Liz Meehan, LeMans and Hall vice president.

Ann Marie Khan, Regina Hall vice president, offered some additional advice on addressing the problem.

"I think what we need is to have one president of the dorm in order to keep the unity of the hall, and then add a second vice president," Khan said.

These vice presidents could work on the communication problem.

"We could add a second athletic director or a double class position that need two people in order to do a job well," she said.

According to Jeanne Heller, student body vice president, the final suggestion, which will be submitted by the Programming Board on the LeMans Hall problem, will be to initiate a second vice president position or to institute a communication commissioner as an added option.

St. Patrick's Day events were also discussed at the meeting last night.

"I would rather have people putting safe rides," said Heller, "than try to do something on campus that wouldn't be successful.

Heller said that three possible options are being discussed: letting students from the bars back to the campus. One alternative would be to hire a driver service, she said. Memorial Hospitality's Pathways Center coordinators this service through a local cab company at Christmas and New Years.

"Other alternatives include working with the alumni to help out or to have Transpo pick people up. The alumni may get a kick out of it," added Heller.

Sophomore Class Vice President Colleen Dowd said "a bus would be a better choice because people will be able to see it since they tend to be more eye-catching than a cab."

Also discussed by the board last night was The Little Steer president, planned for March 7 and 8.

Heller said people should be encouraged to sign up for the weekend, adding that registrations are due by March 5.

Heller also announced two meccanics seminars to be offered on April 9 from 4:30-5:30 p.m. and 5:30-6:30 p.m.

"I have no idea of how long each seminar will take. These sessions will take place outside on the LeMans side of the dining hall," she said. "Topics such as the basics of car care and how to change a tire will be discussed," she added.

Heller also said several chairman positions were open for An Tostal events. These include chairmen for the Regal Ball and the Mr. Campus event. She added that all open positions will be offered for April 23, Thirsty Thursday at Saint Mary's.

College set to offer art scholarships

By CINDY HAU

Staff Writer

Two scholarships will be offered to art majors at Saint Mary's next fall. According to Sister Cecilia Ann Casey, head of the Art department, the awards are valued at $1,000 each.

The two awards, The Theresa Ann McCaughlin Art Award and The Saint Mary's College Art Talent Award, are distributed "based upon the outstanding credentials and demonstrated financial need of the applicants," she said.

According to Kelly, The Theresa Ann McCaughlin Art Award will be offered for the first time next fall. It is valued at $1,000 and is available to incoming freshmen only, she said. Funds for this award are a gift of Mrs. Robert McCaughlin in honor of their daughter, a Saint Mary's graduate.

"Recipients are selected upon satisfactory portfolio and any other specific interests she may have," Kelly said.

The Saint Mary's College Art Talent Award has been offered to students at all four levels of study for the past two years, Kelly said.

These renewable awards are valued at $1,000 each. No specific number of these awards are given each year. They are distributed "as they are available on the basis of the amount of money funded by the school and the number of qualified applicants," Kelly said.

"Any other scholarships based on academic and financial aid, the student must display the need for the award," Director of Financial Aid Judith Casey said.

"Because a freshman is eligible for both awards, she can receive a significant change in the make-up of her financial package. These awards, she said. Went on to say, however, that since the awards are of monetary value, they are also very beneficial to art majors at all other class levels."

In addition to submitting a financial aid form, the student must submit a portfolio. Kelly said that the portfolio must be comprised of 15 or more works which show an ability in drawing, color and design, painting, printmaking, three-dimensional form and any other specific interests she may have.

The priority date deadline to apply for these scholarships is March 1.

Students will be notified of acceptance for an award during the spring semester.

Any questions regarding these awards can be addressed to the art department at Saint Mary's.

Corrections

Because of an editing error, the title of the CCL was incorrect in yesterday's front page story. The correct title of the organization is the Campus Life Council. Also, Tuesday's article on senior Carl Gebo gave an incorrect spelling for the location of an tiny junior summer camp. The correct spelling was Fort Lewis, Wash.

Also, the authors of Saint Mary's new Christian Life Commission proposal were incorrectly stated in a Board of Governance article yesterday. The CCL proposal will be jointly drawn up by Campus Ministry and the Board of Governance.

GO FROM COLLEGE TO THE ARMY WITHOUT MISSING A BEAT.

The hardest thing about breaking into professional music is--well, breaking into professional music. So if you're looking for an opportunity to turn your musical talent into a full-time performing career, take a good look at the Army. There's not all parades and John Philip Sousa. Army bands rock, waltz and boogie as well as march, and they perform before concert audiences as well as spectators.

With an average of 40 performances a month, there's also the opportunity for travel--not only across America, but possibly abroad.

Most important, you can expect a first-rate professional environment from your instructors, facilities and fellow musicians. The Army has educational programs that can help you pay for off-duty instruction, and if you qualify, even help you repay your federally-insured student loans. If you can sight-read music, performing in the Army could be your big break.

such a solution is better than a revolution in which millions of people could be killed, Hesburgh said.

Hesburgh also answered a question about the value of symbolic gestures, which although they may not be effective in changing the condition of the oppressed blacks, at least demonstrate a sense of concern for the problem. "Symbolic gestures are over five minutes after they happen and the symbolism doesn't last very long," he said. "While I do believe in symbolism, especially religious symbolism, I prefer to stay in the battle cry of 'divest now,'" Hesburgh concluded.

"Our country practiced apartheid for the first 300 years after the arrival of slaves. And we didn't get rid of it 200, or 100, or even 50 years ago," Hesburgh said. "The effect of apartheid on the American black was the same as the effect on the South African black today."

The most significant response to racial injustice in this country, said Hesburgh, was the civil disobedience demonstrated in the 13 southern states most seriously affected by the racial discrimination. Such acts of civil disobedience included bus-boycotts, sit-ins and prayer-ins.

Hesburgh called for a similar response to apartheid in South Africa in lieu of foreign divestment.

"If all the blacks and coloreds in South Africa would say, 'We aren't going to work tomorrow' and would boycott stores, this procedure would probably work in a few weeks. Doing that is one thing, but pulling out a few companies won't have much effect," he said.

Hesburgh predicted that in the wake of large-scale divestment by American companies and universities the business of departing American companies would be bought up by other foreign countries such as Japan and Korea. Countries which he said have little regard for the existence of apartheid.

"Is that a victory?" he asked.

Answering his own question, Hesburgh said he doubted that there would be much of a victory over apartheid. Rather, he said, the importance of "staying in and making the struggle with what little leverage we have. The process we're engaged in hasn't really affected the status quo, but divestment would actually have a bad effect.""

"The only answer I could come up with would be quixotic," Hesburgh said. "If I could play God, I would put a map (of South Africa) on the wall, take a red pencil, put on a blindfold, and make a northsouth slash down the middle.

"I would hope to cut it into two parts, one twice as big as the other. I would give the larger part and give whites the smaller part," he said.

Continuing this hypothetical division of land, Hesburgh emphasized the need of residents of both areas to work in concert to eliminate injustice. He said that both parts separately would be worthless until the respective residents worked together and exercised true equality.

of the voting student body can adopt an amendment to the constitution.

During the discussion of the bylaws, the question arose as to whether or not student government should go on the University's unit budget system. In the proposed bylaws, the restructuring committee suggested that student government go on the system.

The senate eventually delayed action on the issue by removing the use of the University budget system from the proposed bylaws.

Committee on Restructuring Chairman Brian Holst said during the debate that "the reason we put it in was because it was a positive thing."

"We didn't understand the issue or the ramifications. We just put it in as a suggestion," Holst said.

Broussard said he thought student government should go on the system. "With the system, you would have the same system every year instead of a new system every year," he said.

Although the senate removed the use of the University budget system from the proposed bylaws, it will study the system in their near future and will be able to amend the bylaws at any time.

A snag in the approval of the constitution occurred as the vote was about to be taken during the debate that "the reason we put it in was because it was a positive thing."

Senators Chris Abhood and John Ginty were not present at the meeting but had left proxies in their place that allowed them to vote for approval of the amendments to the proposed constitution.

As the vote was about to be taken, Student Body President Bill Healy pointed out that under the rules of the senate, proxy votes don't count.

Many senate members became upset at Healy for delaying the vote.

Eventually, Ginty was summoned from his bed where he was recovering from the flu and Abhood from the fourth floor of the library and the new constitution was approved.

Newspaper executive assassinated

Associated Press

GLENDALE, Calif. - An executive of the Philippine News, a newspaper opposed to the regime of Ferdinand Marcos, was shot to death at home yesterday after receiving a threatening note, authorities said.

Several shots were fired in Oscar Salvatierra's bedroom at his single-story home in the foothills north of downtown Los Angeles, said police Sgt. Randy Tampa.

"The preliminary report indicated that the man (assassin) went through the window, that he shot Salvatierra in the head and then he locked the door (to the bedroom). That was the mark of a professional killer," said Philippine News editor-publisher Alex Esclamado.

An unexploded bomb was discovered July 8 at the newspaper's Los Angeles office, said police officer Willie Wilson. Larry Zabala, press attaché to the Philippine Consulate in Los Angeles, said, "We are terribly distressed over this. We have known Salvatierra for a long while and have had friendly relations with him" despite his anti-Marcos position.

"We urge local authorities to find those responsible for his death and bring them to justice," Zabala said. Aides to Sen. Alan Cranston, a longtime friend of Philippine News publisher Alex Esclamado, said the FBI has been asked to protect Esclamado and other News executives who had received similar threats.

Cranston said he was taking seriously suspicions that agents of the Marcos government were involved in the death.

"What Marcos has done to his country is criminal. He must not be permitted to export his criminal activities to this country," the senator said.

The newspaper published a 1982 story that said Marcos wore fake medals and that $9 million had been offered to Esclamado to cease publication, said Ben Aniceto, Los Angeles editor for the News.

Salvatierra's elderly mother, who speaks no English, was in the house, about 10 miles north of downtown Los Angeles, and called police after she heard gunshots, Tamra said.

morning launch, would cause synthetic rubber safety seals between segments of the booster rocket to shrink and become ineffective.

Such a failure has been cited as a likely cause of the accident.

Morton Thiokol, through spokesman Thomas Russell in Chicago, conceded that its engineers were against the launch initially on Jan. 27, the day before the ill-fated launch.

But Russell said that "at a subsequent time in the early evening, after considering some additional information, Morton Thiokol was in a position to recommend a launch."

He declined to say what the information was or whether the decision was made over the objections of some Morton Thiokol engineers.

The commission's statement made it clear, however, that there was considerable dissent from the decision. It said.

"At the session on Feb. 14 at Kenney Space Center, in very active questioning of NASA officials and Thiokol representatives, the commission learned that although a Telefax was later received from Thiokol indicating approval of the launch, a member of engineers at Thiokol still strongly urged against the launch.

"It was further learned that at least three key NASA officials had not been notified and did not know of the recommendation of Thiokol not to launch or the events leading up to Thiokol's change of mind as reflected in the Telefax of Monday evening."

"That's the shocker, that they (the launch team) did not have the information you would normally expect them to have," the commission member said.

“The Politics of Experience”
Dear Editor:

In my opinion, Notre Dame would not be lowering its standards if it admitted Tony Rice. What is wrong with it is that the University is not being straightforward. For instance, it appears that the University is not being truthful about its academic standards. It should be aware that there are many other attributes that would be to the benefit of the Notre Dame community and she should be given the opportunity to show some of those attributes.

It is ironic to find this sort of academic prejudice while Notre Dame is in the midst of fighting against prejudices of other sorts. It is this intellectual snobbery rather than the academic record that we are concerned with.

As residents of South Bend's northeast neighborhood, we have enjoyed a full semester of off-campus living and all the associated excitement that goes along with it. In the past, we have found these freedoms have often been the cause of many problems. As residents of a campus crime situation has been totally ignored by The Observer, the principle medium through which students could be alerted to this disturbing problem. It is with the intention of warning those who plan to party off campus that this letter is written.

The scope of this problem is easy to depict. Burglaries of houses and apartments, as well as car thefts, should be a serious issue for Notre Dame. As always, the students of the College have been the ones most likely to commit these crimes.

I am appalled at the docility with which Notre Dame students accepted Edgar Chamorro's story and reasons quitting the Directorate of the Nicaraguan Democratic Front (FDN). Not all of Chamorro did not quit the FDN; he was dismissed by the directorate to his lack of competence. Before that, he was expelled from Honduras by the Honduran Government as a "liability to their foreign policy." I think we should be able to change any major election including the Presidential of the United Nations. Maybe he can find his campaign manager among the library assistant last Sunday night. Not to question this man and to swallow so easily what he said is incomprehensible. It is true that grades do not always reflect knowledge.

I must return to finance, but it was just too much for me to stay quiet about what I saw last Sunday. I will not take any time to write about this again though I plan to pay a price for being so silent. Other students do not like sincere politicians, Chamorro should be able to clean up any major election including the Presidental of the United Nations. Maybe he can find his campaign manager among the library assistant last Sunday night. Not to question this man and to swallow so easily what he said is incomprehensible. It is true that grades do not always reflect knowledge.
Volunteers Reach out and help somebody

MARY REYNOLDS

Pregnancy is not an issue that most Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students give much thought to. However, for students who volunteer at the Women's Care Center in South Bend it is a very real problem. “Sometimes you get locked up in a box at school and you don’t realize that so many people are having crises with one specific problem: pregnancy,” said Jeanne Noce.

“We don’t give them answers. We try to help people to look into their relationships and and see how they should go about getting their lives in order.”

Jeanne Noce

Noce, a Notre Dame student who volunteers as a counselor at the center.

The purpose of the center is to offer help for women. The majority of the women who visit the center come initially for pregnancy testing. “It’s not a pregnancy test factory, though,” emphasized Noce. “We take a lot of time to explore the problems of the women to come into the center.”

According to Noce, even if the pregnancy test is negative, the fact that the women came to the center at all often signifies that there is some sort of problem. For women who are pregnant, the center helps them to work through the problems involved with a pregnancy.

“There are a wide range of human problems involved in pregnancy,” said Tim Thelen, another Notre Dame student who is also a volunteer counselor at the center.

We deal with the total person—the relationship with the guy, what it will mean at school, and the relationship with the parents,” said Deborah Rogers, executive director of the center.

“Sometimes when the pregnancy test is positive a brick wall goes up and the person can’t see beyond the pregnancy. We help them break down this wall,” said Noce.

As the center is run on a pro-life philosophy, one of its major objectives is to dissuade pregnant women from having abortions. We’re arguing that the loving choice for the woman is to have the child,” said Thelen. “It is one of the most difficult things a woman may ever do, but if she can work through the problems she can grow from the experience. It’s a positive choice. Abortion is a negative choice.”

The center doesn’t tell women what to do. “We don’t give them answers,” said Thelen. “We try to help people to look into their relationships and see how they should go about getting their lives in order.”

Not all of the women who come in to the center are seeking help in dealing with a pregnancy. “A lot of people who come in here have already had an abortion and they come here for help in working through it,” said Thelen. “It isn’t the easy answer they thought it was going to be.”

People treat abortion like it’s just another medical procedure,” said Noce, “but it’s not. For many women there’s a lot of psychological anxiety and pain.”

Thelen and Noce agreed that the most rewarding aspect of their work at the center is being able to reach out to a woman who is in trouble and to help her work through her problems.

“I feel that we sort of have an obligation to help those who can’t see past their own problems. They need someone whom they can trust to help them find peace and happiness again,” said Noce.

The Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s community has played a large part in supporting the center. The center is run totally on donations. The center’s phoneathon which runs this week and next week is a major fundraiser for the center. Last year’s phoneathon raised nearly $32,000. The calling is done by members of the Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s Right to Life Group.

“The center is always in need of good volunteers,” said Rogers. In addition to volunteering as counselors and callers for the phoneathon, students can work as counselors for the center’s 24-hour hotline.

“The training for counselors is very intense, but the students gain a lot from the experience,” said Rogers.

Noce summed up the attitude surrounding the center, saying, “It’s a positive thing that people who believe in life can offer to other people who are in trouble.”

There are a wide range of human problems involved in pregnancy.

Soundtrack in the pink

The new movie written by John Hughes and starring Molly Ringwald, the pair who have hooked up in "Sixteen Candles" and "The Breakfast Club" in the past, will be released Monday. It is to be called "Pretty in Pink," which is also the title of the soundtrack album, just released this past week.

John Hughes has made a habit of using soundtrack music as an integral part of his films, and this one is no exception. In his soundtracks, he has also liked to highlight some of his favorite, yet relatively obscure bands, in order for them to receive the exposure to make it big in America. He did it for Simple Minds with "Don't You (Forget About Me)", and promises to do it again for Orchestral Manoeuvres in the Dark with the theme song from this film, "If You Leave.

"If You Leave" is a brilliant song, slow and melancholy, with a synthesizer melody reminiscent of some of OMD's older work, and "Hold You" on their latest album, Crash. The song's lyrics hauntingly describe the breakdown of a relationship. The song specifically details the pain suffered by a man as the woman walks away, and how he comes to accept his loss:

If you leave, I won't cry
I won't waste one single tear
But if you leave, I won't look back
I'll be running the other way

"Pretty in Pink," the Psychedelic Furs' song from which the title of the film was taken, is also included on this album, but it is a new version of the 1981 class. This new rendition is sparser, less psychedelic, than their older hard-edged, "wall-of-sound," style. It de-emphasizes the saxophone and guitar, and is underscored with keyboards and Richard Butler's soaring vocals. This version is more accessible than the first, but does not carry the same power.

There is also a new INXS song, "Do What You Do," on the album. It has INXS's typical exotic and heavy rhythms, with a searing saxophone solo, but, strangely enough, the melody seems to be almost borrowed from Elvis Costello's "Senior Service." This single is far better than anything on the latest INXS album.
The album also contains a new song by New Order, called "Shell Shock," which has a jerky disco beat, but, unfortunately, has a synthesizer line which should almost wimpy compared to their most recent work.

Also included is a brand new song by Suzanne Vega, the darling of the new folk-establishment, which features some fine piano work by Andy Johnson and weak songs by Belouis Some and the Danny Hutton Hitters (doing a remake of a Nik Kershaw song). Two excellent, but relatively old songs, by Echo and the Bunnymen and The Smiths are also included on the album.

All in all, this soundtrack album is one of the best to come out in some time, which reflects John Hughes' continued commitment to making music an important part of his films.

Film lampoons southern California lifestyle

While Disney Pictures has made a habit of turning out movies that are likeable and intelligent film, and very same as if it were a picture on its own, the Touchstone label, the same division responsible for "Splash," is hardly the latest work from writer/director Paul Mazursky whose last film "Moscow on the Hudson" was well received by viewers and critics.

"Down and Out in Beverly Hills," the story of Jerry Baskin, a bum who decides to commit suicide after being deserted by his dog, his only faithful companion. He does so by filling his pockets with rocks and jumping into the pool of Dave Whitman, the quintessential nouveau-riche Beverly couple. Much to Baskin's disappointment, Dave Whitman saves him and invites him to stay until he gets back on his feet. What follows, of course, is a series of comic-culture clashes that sends Baskin forever to the world of the Whitman family and Jerry Baskin.

Nick Nolte, as Jerry Baskin, is humane, intelligent, and wise. Ever the method actor, Nick Nolte probably went weeks without a shave or a bath judging from his grimy appearance at the film's opening. His performance helps destroy the idea that all street people are illiterate, crude, drunken, and mentally-untaliable.

Seeing (Bette Midler) strut around her house talking of her yoga is a delight

However, at the same time, his character is almost too intelligent, too mannered, and too wise to be believed. John Hughes, as Dave Whitman, convincingly plays an inacure man who has made his fortune manufacturing hangiers, even though his neurotic ravings remind me more than a little of his character in "The Goodbye Girl." Bette Midler plays the spoiled and bored housewife, Barbara Whitman, better than even Bar­bara Streisand could have. Seeing her strut around her house talking of her yoga is a delight, especially for those who wondered if she would ever equal her performance in "The Rose."

Like "Moscow on the Hudson," "Down and Out in Beverly Hills" will not have you rolling in the aisles holding your aching sides. It's a much subtler film that makes you grin and chuckle as it looks at the lives of America's rich.

More so than "Beverly Hills Cop," which was more a vehicle for Eddie Murphy, this is a film that lampoons, often gently, sometimes savagely, the culture of the southern California wonderland.

From the gurus and the hair transplants to the dog psychiatrists and the anaerobic or transvestite children, "Beverly Hills" hits the mark.

One thing that does wear thin in the movie is the use of dogs. People know really do use animal phallics, but the episode here is downright silly, and the Whitman's dog itself is much too intelligent making an otherwise clever picture look silly.

Mazursky and his writing partner Leon Chatetan based the story on the play "Boudu Sauve Les Ours" by Rene Fauchois and the original movie adaptation by Jean Renoir in the 1930s.

Andy Sunnemair, Lassoue of Police Force, composed the score, and the use of the "Talking Heads' song "Once in a Lifetime" seems particularly apt.

Paul Mazursky, with the help of solid performances, has succeeded in providing audiences with solid and intelligent entertainment.

Men's swimming heads to NSC meet today

By KEVIN HERBERT
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame men's swimming team will try to averge their 1984–85 second-place finish in the Big Ten Conference finish when they compete in the conference championship today.

A year ago, the Irish defeated the Irish by 204 points, as Notre Dame finished second in a field of seven.

"We must figure out a way to pick up 205 points on St. Ed's," explained Notre Dame head swimming coach Tim Welsh. "Except for diving and the 100-yard backstroke, all of our times are better than last year, having this improvement in 16-out-of-18 events means a lot."

For Notre Dame's sake, defending champion and host Evansville will not be able to boast of the same improvement.

Evansville, Oral Roberts, St. Louis, Butler, Xavier AND Loyola (Chicago) will round out the competition against Notre Dame in the championship meet.

"Oral Roberts, who finished third last year and who we defeated a year ago, is a much better championship team than dual meet squad," said Welsh. "Nevertheless we should be stronger and deeper than they."

"Butler and Xavier were hot for the Notre Dame Relays this past fall. I expect them to be strong periodically but not consistently.

"Evansville figures to be the strongest of the teams in the field," said Welsh. "Loyola only scored 37 points last year and does not look to be a threat this season."

Welsh also commented on what it would take for his squad to come out on top.

"We are really strong in the short distance freestyle races," said Welsh. "However, we are vulnerable in the 100 and 200 dash ... and butterfly. If we handle these spots well, then we will be a powerful force."

Duke blows out 'Canes, 104-82

Associated Press

DURHAM, N.C. - Mark Alarie scored 18 points to lead five Duke players in double figures as the second-ranked Blue Devils pulled away from pesky Miami of Florida for a 104-82 college basketball victory last night. The Hurricanes forced the action with their running game and were within 26-22 before Duke began its pullaway.

The Blue Devils raised their record to 26-2 and won their 13th home game without a loss. David Henderson and Johnny Dawkins added 16 points each, while Jay Bilas had 12 and (John Snyder) 10.

Georgia Tech 59, Wake Forest 49

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. - Duane Ferrell scored 14 points and Mark Price hit 12, including the first eight of the second half, to lead No. 5 Georgia Tech to a 59-49 victory over Wake Forest in Atlantic Coast Conference basketball last night.

Georgia Tech, 20-4 and 8-3, held the Demon Deacons to two points in the first half, erupted from outside to give the Yellow Jackets a 46-25 halftime lead before Price, held to two points in the first half, erupted from outside to give the Yellow Jackets a 46-25 halftime lead before Price, a 5-9 shooter, exploded for 15 points.

Wake Forest, which never led, relied 6 of 7 from the free-throw line over the last five minutes of the game.

College roundup

Winston-Salem, N.C. - Associated Press

LEXINGTON, Ky. - Forward Richard Walker scored 23 points and eight-legged Kentucky clinched a tie for its 36th Southeastern Conference title last night with an 80-69 victory over Florida.

Kentucky raised its record to 23-3 overall and 14-1 in the SEC while Florida fell to 14-10 and 8-7. Walker gave the Wildcats a 55-39 lead on an inside power basket with 15:27 left in the game. Bus Florida, with guard Andrew Moten scoring right points, rallied to within 65-56 with 7:27 to go.

Reserve center Rob Lock then banked in a 10-footer at 7:10 and followed that with two free throws at 6:30 to give Kentucky a 67-56 margin.

Florida could get no closer than seven points the rest of the way.

Guard Vernon Maxwell tallied 22 points to pace Florida.

DePaul 48, Indiana St. 44

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. - Dallas Cowboys' Steve Arra scored 14 points, including two 10-foot jumpers with four seconds left, to give Nebraska a 66-64 victory over No. 10 Nebraska in Big Eight college basketball Wednesday night.

Oklahoma had a chance to tie the game when Marty McSorley missed a 14-foot jumper with 1.0 seconds left, but he could not get a shot off before the buzzer.

Bernard Day and Anthony Bailous each added points for the Cornhuskers (14-12, 6-8) and helped prevent Nebraska's 10-14, 6-8 victory from running up 16-8 overall and 6-5 in the Big Eight Conference.

Darryl Kennedy led Oklahoma with 22 points Tim MeAler added 17 and David John 15 for the Sooners, who fell to 23-4 overall and 8-4 in the conference.

Fluke goal gives Habs 4-4 tie

Associated Press

MONTREAL - Bobby Smith's second goal of the game on a pass that deflected off a Capital's headman gave the Montreal Canadiens a 4-4 tie with the Washington Capitals in a fast-skating NHL game last night.

Smith was 35 feet from the Capital's net when he shot the puck towards Matt Niskanen, but instead it ended up behind Washington goaltender Pete Peeters at 4:59 of the third period.

Washington had two excellent scoring chances in the last six minutes of play of the third period but Montreal goaltender Patrick Roy was equal to the challenge. He stopped Bengt Gustadon with a breakaway at 5:50 to go before Alan Haworth was frustrated by Roy's blocker about a minute later.

Pee ters was 4:30, followed with an outstanding save in the 17th minute on Bob Gainey's shore-boarded breakaway to preserve the tie.

The Canadiens had a 3-1 lead halfway through the game but started the final 20 minutes losing 4-3.

Dave Christian started the three-goal second period scoring spree with his second goal of the night. Scott Stevens and Larry Murphy followed with goals to give the Capitols the lead for the first time.

Smith, however, dampened their spirits with his 25th goal of the season to tie the game and force the overtime.

Kjell Dahlblin and Gaston Gingras also scored for Montreal, who, with 71 points, moved one point ahead of the second-place Quebec Nordiques in the Adams Division standings.

However, Comegys hit both ends of a one-and-one at the 2:05 mark to extend the Blue Demon lead to five, 42-37. The Sycamores pulled to within two, 42-40, on a layup by Antonio Guccione with 33 seconds left, but DePaul then reeled off four points following a foul and a technical on Gillespie.

The technical was called when Gillespie followed through on a dunk after being called for a foul with 32 seconds left. Strickland hit both free throws for the foul, but missed the technical shot and DePaul got the ball.

Comegys hit his final to free throws in the final seconds to give the final tally.

Indiana State was led in scoring by John Sherman Williams with 16.
Wrestlers travel for pair of meets

By RICK RIETBROCK
Sports Writer

After winning twice last weekend, the Notre Dame wrestling team faced a pair of stiff challenges this weekend as it takes on Nebraska and Brigham Young in Lincoln, Neb.

According to Irish head coach Fran McCann, a very important quality that these teams possess is tradition.

"These teams have histories of solid programs," McCann says. "They traditionally put together strong teams.

"I really don't know a lot about their teams this year," he says. "They have always dominated the [Western Athletic Conference], and they have a history of being in great shape physically."

Despite having to face these impressive traditions, McCann expresses enthusiasm about his own squad as it enters the last regular season meet of the year.

"We're in good shape physically, and our spirits are really high," says McCann. "This physically demanding sport like wrestling, we have to be careful to avoid burnout as we get down to the end of the season, especially with a young team." McCann says the Irish must contend with.

"We're really working hard and I think we're peaking mentally just about the right time.

Magic, Lakers down Pacers, 90-81

Associated Press

INDIANAPOULIS - Magic Johnson scored 13 third-quarter points, in- cluding six in a decisive 16-2 spurt, and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar made three consecutive sky hooks in the final 3:11 as Los Angeles Lakers downed the Indiana Pacers 90-81 yesterday.

Abdul-Jabbar and Johnson each finished with 21 points and helped limit Indiana to only one shot most of the night. The Pacers had only four offensive rebounds through the first three quarters and finished the game with only 10.

A capacity crowd of 16,904 saw a one-sided game with only 10. Turner's only shot in the third period. Two regulation free throws and a Johnson basket gave the Lakers a 50-45 lead. Indiana's Herb Williams, who led Indiana with 23 points, scored Indiana's last point to trim the lead to 10.

In the fourth quarter, the Lakers made 16 of 21 shots, including seven consecutive points, opening an 18-3 lead with 4:30 to go in the third quarter. Johnson made a layup to put Los Angeles up by 17, 70-53, with 9:33 left in the game.

Kurt Rambis dunk put the Lakers ahead to stay, 44-43, with 9:33 left in the game. The Lakers then countered two free throws by Williams, 7-20 0-1 12 11-15 27 2-3 9 1-2 0 0 o 4 FG Pet. Halftime - 47-47.

Notre Dame 46, Manhattan 29

Notre Dame, ranking 11th in the majority of the polls, survived a late Manhattan rally to win.

Notre Dame, led by the 17 points of senior forward Mike McGlinchey, built a 19-point lead, 39-20, with 11:47 remaining in the game. Manhattan, led in scoring by Matt Zadelek, with 14 points, and Mark Hanley with 17, tried repeatedly to cut into the lead.

"We have beaten some really good schools, and they traditionally have a strong squad. It will be a very tough meet."

Against Brigham Young, tradition is once again a major factor that McCann says the Irish must contend with.

"We're in good shape physically, and our spirits are really high," says McCann. "This physically demanding sport like wrestling, we have to be careful to avoid burnout as we get down to the end of the season, especially with a young team." McCann says the Irish must contend with.

"We're really working hard and I think we're peaking mentally just about the right time.

Alumni, Sorin win; hoops playoffs start

By SHAWN BUSHWAY
Sports Writer

The men's interhall basketball playoffs got off to a rousing start last Monday night with convincing wins by Alumni and Sorin.

In the first game, Alumni downed Grace, 66-74. The Digos were led in scoring by Bill Zadel, with 14 points, and Mark Hanley with 17. Grace's Dan Gamache and Tim Hickey led their team with 14 points each.

Alumni's captain, Ken Schuerman, felt that the game, although closer then the score indicated, showed the players what they could do when working together. For this reason, he feels that tonight's game against Morrissey, the team that handed them their only season defeat, might have a different outcome.

In the second game, a skilled Sorin squad crushed an under- manned, outclassed Flanner team. Sorin spread their points around with Steve Bresler scoring a team-high 13 points. Flanner's Joel Rump led his team with 18 points. Flanner's captain, Eric Grauberger, expressed admiration of the skill, depth and size that Sorin displayed. Sorin's ability to run was given as a main factor in the win.

The next round in this double-elimination tournament begins tonight at 8 with undefeated Morrissey taking on Alumni, followed by Sorin versus Dillon at 9. This last game figures to be a real battle, as Sorin seeks to average their unexpected defeat at the hands of the hard working Big Red. The B-league playoffs continue with Sorin versus Stanford followed by Morrissey and Cavanaugh. Grace and Flanner battle it out at 6 in the loser's bracket of the tournament. I this action takes place in Gym 4 of the ACC.

Irish prove to be too much for Jaspers, 102-47

By DAVE DZIEDZIC
Observer Special Writer

NEW YORK - The Notre Dame basketball team could have been forgiven for "easing up" heading into last night's game against Manhattan College at Madison Square Garden.

After all, the Irish were coming off an emotional, hard fought loss to Duke on Sunday. They face a tough two weeks in the final stretch toward the NCAA tournament, with DePaul, Marquette and Dayton ahead. And they were facing a Manhattan team that many consider to be the worst in the NCAA division IA.

But the Irish took nothing for granted as they thrashed the Jaspers, 102-47.

Consider that Notre Dame scored the first six points and never looked back, outscored Manhattan 75-27, over the last 28 minutes of the game, outrebounded Manhattan 47-18, consecutive scoring streaks of 12, 10 (twice), nine and eight pleased the crowd of 8,905 with eight slam dunks, including five by Ken Barlow shot a season high 65 percent form the field.

Barlow's performance was especially impressive, as he hit on 11-of-15 from the floor and made both of his free throws for a total of 24 points. He jumped three notches to 14th on the alltime Notre Dame scoring list.

David Rivers added 15 points, Mark Stevenson had 12, and Tim Kempton added 11.

Brad Holmohld and Jamil Adams each had 14 points for the Jaspers (2-24). The Manhattan has to make a decision," said Phelps of the program which appears to be at a crossroads. "It comes down to giving (Sullivan) the tools with no interference from anyone else. It's time for commitment.

Manhattan is one of several New York schools with declining basketball programs. Last nights 10,000 in the crowd that New York basketball is not what it used to be. It seems to be sometimes.

American sports: out of control?

A discussion in my communication ethics class earlier this week touched on an attitude that is being taken by a lot of people lately - both the participants and supporters of national sports. Things have gotten simply out of hand. It's time for us, the fans to take a look at the national sports scene - where we are now and where we're going to wind up if there aren't some changes made.

One student in the class pointed to all the pressure put on today's college athletes pressure which has led to all the corruption going on in many university programs.

Another student questioned the way this society determines how much someone should be paid. Is it the responsibility of a team that goes along with a position that determines the person's salary, or does it matter if you're a well-known personality and you can perform well on the athletic field?

You mean that Joaquin Andujar doesn't deserve to get paid more than the President of the United States?

The problems on the collegiate scene are certainly widespread. Now let's be realistic. No one in the Chicago Tribune sports columnist Bill Gleason suggests calling the NCAA, the "National - Student Athlete Association." Gleason also thinks it's time for newspapers throughout the country to quit giving individual athletes special treatment to "student-athletes" in remedial classes. Now the University has to figure out how to pay the $2.5 million law suit which she recently won in court.

Says former Minnesota head basketball coach Jim Dutcher, "I gotta admit to you, based on what I thought my job was, my priorities were out of whack. I thought winning was very important."

Now he, along with acting head Coach Jimmy Williams, will be disciplined for their alleged role in efforts to raise funds for the defense of Gambler basketball player Mitchell Lee on a rape charge of which he was acquitted. Two weeks later, he, along with two other teammates, was arrested on sexual assault charges.

A Tennessee booster thought quarterback Tony Robinson, who has already been arrested on drug-related charges, might need to use his credit card sometime so he left it in the Robinson's car for him. The card was found a few days later - along with a gas receipt.

ALSI these stories filled a single day's sports page this week.

Think of past scandals, involving Tulane, Crimson, Kentucky and SMU. Not surprisingly, I think my classmates have a point.

Chicago Tribune sports columnist Bill Gleason suggests calling the NCAA, the "National - Student Athlete Association."

Gleason also thinks it's time for universities to stop providing free farm systems for the NBA and NFL.

Is this really the path college athletics are taking today? It sounds like it.

Grace remains unbeaten in hockey

By ORLANDO RUBIANO
Sports Writer

In interhall hockey action last Monday, Grace (5-0) defeated an understrength Holy Cross/St. Ed's squad by the score of 6-1. Grace remained unbeaten to secure a spot in the playoffs by using their five-line defense.

"We played good, sound fundamental hockey," said player-coach Jim Radaczak. "We had some good scoring opportunities, and we are just happy that we won."

Grace has overpowered teams with their wealth of individual talent all season long. In Friday Cross/St. Ed's was no exception.

"They only had nine or 10 players, while we had 20 on the bench," said left winger Sam Dempsey. "That says a lot about us coming out against an underdog team. We did not break out or get out of the zone well, but our talent had them on the run."

"This game showed our depth," said defender Mike Marino. "Even when individuals have a bad game, someone else picks up the slack, and we win."

Searing for Grace were Tom Eliot, John Kirk, Steve Bishop, Radaczak and Drew "Stabber" Speard, who scored his first goal of the season along with two slashing penalties.

Grace will prepare for its traditional war with Off-Campus Teutonic, a match up that has decided the last three championship games.

"O.C.'s chances of getting into the playoffs are slim, but they have shown all the last three years in a row," said Dempsey. "We are hungry. We can tame victory."

"Some interhall teams are out there to have fun, but we are out there to win because winning is fun. If I wanted to have their kind of fun, I would go to the bars instead of playing hockey."

"Our team has shown character all season," said center Tom McGee. "The team is jelling just at the right time for the playoffs. Our strength is definitely in our defense."

Grace plays an aggressive brand of hockey, and they take many shots on goal.

"We have come back in two games showing some heart," said Dempsey. "We work well together when we have to, and we have faith in our goalie, Phil Coghlan."

In Monday's other matchup, a crowd of about 250 showed up for the much anticipated game between Alumni and Pangborn. What they witnessed was a battle of a lifetime between these two unbeatens. Alumni, which had not been seriously threatened in previous games, had to make a tremendous rally in the final period to pull off a 6-5 victory. With the victory, Alumni (6-6) has clinched the Corrigan League Title, while Pangborn (5-1) has also earned a playoff spot by finishing second.

Pangborn looked good for the win, as it was able to gain a 1-lead part way through the last period. Pangborn, however, was unable to score on the power play, blowing a 3-1 lead late in the game. Pangborn, however, was unable to

My class wanted if the same treatment would have been afforded to a freshman walk-on who saw only minimal playing time, given the same situation.

Is anyone looking at high remedial classes at the University of Georgia? I hear there's an opening. Last week a professor got demoted and then there's the one that just refused to give special treatment to "student-athletes" in remedial classes. Now the University has to figure out how to pay the $2.5 million law suit which she recently won in court.
