Domagalski, Switek to battle in run-off election

By LYNN R. STRAND
Staff Reporter

Jim Domagalski and Mike Switek will face each other in a run-off for Notre Dame student body president tomorrow after neither received enough votes to win yesterday's election.

Domagalski and Laurie Bink received 2,095 votes, 47.8 percent of the votes cast. Switek and Don Montanaro tallied 875 votes, or 18.5 percent.

A candidate needs to receive more than 50 percent of the vote to win the election, according to Tom Brennan, Ombudsmen election officer.

Domagalski missed winning last night's ballot by 95 votes.

Close behind Switek was the ticket of Bruce Lohman and Jim Crandall with 810 votes, or 18.5 percent.

With 60.3 percent of Notre Dame undergraduates voting, this year's turnout was significantly higher than last year's total of 44 percent.

"I'm very pleased with the turnout," said Brennan. "I think the constitution, anti-apartheid, and presidential guys all brought in the vote.

In a distant fourth place was Mike Millen and Sheila O'Connor, who gathered 312 votes, or 7.1 percent of the vote cast. Mike Torkelson and John Kromer took 130 votes, or 3 percent. Tom Grier and Steve Guenther received 88 votes, 2 percent, while John Walsh and Pat Walsh received 70 votes, 1.6 percent.

There were 106 write-ins and abstentions.

All 24 dorms were won by either Domagalski, Switek or Lohman.

Domagalski was supported by 15 dorms and off campus while splitting the Howard Hall vote with Switek. Both Switek and Lohman won four dorms.

Flanner and Brem-Phillips Halls supported their home candidates Domagalski and Bink, while Switek and Montanaro carried the vote in Cavanaugh, their home dorm, as well as Fisher, Keenan, and Sorin. Lohman and Crandall also won their home dorms, Carroll and Stanford respectively, and also took Dillon and Pasquerilla East.

"We're really excited by the turn­out received; however, we realize it's fickle yet," said Domagalski after the election returns were announced last night by Ombudsmen.

"We're taking it (the run-off election) very seriously. It's very impor­tant to get everyone who voted for us on the first round to vote for us.

---

Voters want Notre Dame to divest

By ELLYN MASTAKO
Staff Senior Reporter

Notre Dame should divest from companies which have operations in South Africa, according to most students who voted in yesterday's referendum.

Of the students who voted, 48 percent were in favor of divestment, 33 percent were against divestment and 19 percent voted "no opinion/not adequately in­formed."

Fifty-eight percent of all Notre Dame undergraduates voted in the divestment referendum.

"Everyone on campus has the right to express their opinion and I'm glad that they did," said University President Father Theodore Hesburgh when inform­ed of the results of the divestment referendum.

"I'm glad that so many people took an interest in the divestment issue," said senior John Deftling, a member of the Board of Trustees Ad Hoc Committee on South African Investments. "I'm also kind of surprised that it passed because I thought a lot of students would be swayed by Father Hesburgh's stand on the issue.

"The results show that there is a substantial interest and understanding of the issue on cam­pus. Our voices will now be heard by the Board of Trustees."

Deftling also said the next logical step is for more students to actively support the Anti-Apartheid Net­work in the network's weekly rallies.

"It's also logical that Student Body President Bill Healy, as a representative of the student body, should advocate the position of divestment to the Board of Trustees," he added.

Healy, however, said he was not convi­sioned that most students sup­port divestment.

"Only 48 percent of the students who voted at all chose divestment," said Healy. "The student body does not overwhelmingly support divest­ment.

Thus, the Anti-Apartheid Network cannot claim to be representative of the students as a whole.

"I will bring the statistics from the referendum to the Board of Trustees."

---

New constitution comes up short

By CHRIS BEDNARSKI
Staff Senior Reporter

The student body rejected a pro­posal for a new constitution yester­day, leaving student government restructuring in a state of confu­sion.

Although more than half the students voted for the constitution, it failed to obtain the two-thirds majority needed for adoption.

Now, another constitution proposal will be presented to the Hall Presidents' Council tomorrow night. Whether or not the HPC has the power to adopt this proposal, however, is the focus of some debate.

Nevertheless, proponents of the original proposal said they were upset by the proposal's defeat.

"I didn't expect it to pass, not with the circulating petition misrepresenting what was going to happen," said Student Senator Jim Hagan.

Brain Holst, chairman of the Committee on Restructuring, agreed with Hagan. "I'm disappointed because I think the issue got confused by the other propos­al," he said.

Opponents of the proposed con­stitution said they were glad the proposal was rejected. "I'm glad it didn't go through," said Carroll Hall President Steve Keny. "I don't think the senate would be effective in a 28 to 30 person body."

Many said the latest constitution proposal presented to the Student Senate Monday night, confused the students and helped defeat the pro­posed constitution.

Student leaders disagree as to whether the HPC has the power to adopt the latest constitution proposal.

"If the HPC passes it, it is adopted," said Healy.

According to the present con­stitution, an amendment proposed by the senate may be adopted by a two-thirds vote of the HPC.

Although the senate did not vote to propose the amendment, "It is in effect a proposal by the student senate," Healy said. "The student senate had no say on it because the student body (by presenting the petition) forced the hand of the student senate." Healy said no one opposed his interpretation at the senate meeting.

Maher Mousacher, chairman of Ombudsmen, disagreed with Healy's interpretation. "It is not a proposal by the senate, it is a pro­posal by the student body," said Mousacher. He said because it is a proposal by the student body, the present constitution does not allow the HPC to adopt it.

---

 Election results

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>SBP and SBVP</th>
<th>number</th>
<th>percent</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Jim Domagalski</td>
<td>2,095</td>
<td>47.8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Laurie Bink</td>
<td>875</td>
<td>20</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mike Switek</td>
<td>810</td>
<td>18.5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Don Montanaro</td>
<td>312</td>
<td>7.1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bruce Lohman</td>
<td>130</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jim Crandall</td>
<td>88</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mike Millen</td>
<td>2,082</td>
<td>48</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sheila O'Connor</td>
<td>1,417</td>
<td>33</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mike Torkelson</td>
<td>807</td>
<td>19</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>John Kromer</td>
<td>1,957</td>
<td>53</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tom Grier</td>
<td>1,770</td>
<td>47</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Divestment

| Yes | 2,082 | 48 |
| No | 1,417 | 33 |
| Undecided | 807 | 19 |

New constitution

| Yes | 1,957 | 53 |
| No | 1,770 | 47 |
Some words for the losers: Lombardi was a psychopath

Dan McCullough
News Editor

I rad for student body president once. It was in grammar school and there were several other candidates running, but people considered me among the favorites. And for an eleven-year-old politician it's not easy to keep these kind of things in perspective. It's not easy for a 58-year-old politician.

Swollen with the encouragement of my friends, I convinced myself I had it made. My campaign slogan was, "He'll keep us out of war." I made my best friend campaign manager and together we made these campaign buttons and hung them with yarn around the necks of just about everybody in the school.

I gave a speech in front of the entire school assembly and paraphrased John F. Kennedy: "Ask not what your school can do for you, but what you can do for your school." All the other candidates used the same line in their speeches.

Well, I lost. I was so sure I was going to win and I lost. One of the lads told the losing candidates that if we wanted to see how many votes we got we could come see her after school. All the other candidates went, but I didn't. I walked home alone-hurt and angry.

"How could I lose?" I demanded from the gods. Maybe I should have campaigned among the second- and third-graders more. Tough luck.

I vowed not to return to school the next day. How could I go back and face all the people whom I assured I was a shoe-in after I lost? This may sound like a "Brady Bunch" episode, but I swear it's true.

Of course, the next day I went back and it was kind of bad. But the day after that it wasn't so bad, and the day after that was a little harder, but I was through with the person who beat me.

There really isn't any moral to this story. Stories that come ready-made with a moral are obnoxious. Rather, the important thing is that this experience threw into question all my conceptions about the importance of winning, of being number one.

In our society, we are always under some heavy pressure to be winners, especially young people. Look how often Vince Lombardi is quoted: "Winning isn't everything. It's meaningless. The experience is infinitely more important. And that's the truth.

In school athletics, whether it's on the peewee or the college level, coaches are constantly urging their athletes to be number one. Students are encouraged to study hard so they can get into the school that is their number one choice. Socially, boys and girls are pressured by their peers to hang out with the best crowd.

Get into the job market and people have to hustle for the top slots-whether they're stock brokers or doormen. There are always winners and there are always losers.

Too much emphasis is put on winning and not enough is put on doing. No matter how far a person goes, no matter how many things he or she accomplishes, there's always going to be a new, bigger challenge. I've seen number one and number one is overrated. Pretty depressing.

Whether or not yesterday's presidential election turned into a run-off or somebody earned enough votes to win, the fact is sooner or later there will be only one winner and six losers.

The winner deserves to be congratulated for going for an effective job. Being voted student body president of a school of the caliber of Notre Dame is quite an accomplishment. The winner deserves to be very proud. But here's to the losers.

---

To Mr. Bill Hickey

CONGRATULATIONS!

We tip our hats to you on your Silver Plated Achievement.

---

The Observer

The Observer is continuing to experience typesetting difficulties in the daily operation of the newspaper. The staff apologizes for any delays or production errors. The situation will be amended as soon as possible.
Student radio stations announce new managers amid controversy

By MARK PANKOWSKI
Assistant New Editor

The new student managers for WVFI-AM and WSND-FM were elected last night, but the students who served as managers this year did not assist in the selection of their successors.

Station managers Eileen Ridley of WSND-FM and Reginald Daniel of WVFI-AM resigned last week and withdrew from their station duties after the administration ordered WSND-FM to stop airing a public service announcement from a homosexual group.

Jesse Petia was named as station manager of WSND-FM, and Sheila McDaniel as station manager of WVFI-AM.

Ridley said she asked Assistant Vice President for Student Services Father Francis Cafarelli last week to allow WSND-FM to continue running the homosexual group's announcements with a disclaimer.

The disclaimer would have said something similar to "these views do not necessarily reflect the views" of the station, Cafarelli said.

When Cafarelli declined the request, Ridley submitted her resignation officially, she said.

According to Cafarelli, running the disclaimers along with the announcement would have created controversy just by their presence. The disclaimers also would have drawn additional attention to the announcement, he said.

Although Ridley and Daniel's resignations became effective Friday, the station managers had stopped performing their duties two weeks ago after Cafarelli informed Ridley of the ban of the announcements from the Gay and Lesbian at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's.

"I resigned because I felt that not airing the PSA (public service announcement) was a form of censorship," said Ridley.

Cafarelli, however, said the issue of censorship "is not a valid point in this particular matter."

He said University administrators banned the group's announcements because "there has to be some concern for the interests of the institution relative to what goes out as part of our programming."

According to Ridley, "(the announcement's ban) was contrary to what I think a public station is supposed to do, that is serve the public."

"In other words, WSND considers itself, professors and defines itself as a public service station, and as such, has an obligation to the public," she said.

Public service announcements, which are aired free of charge, partially fulfill that obligation, she said.

Although administrators originallly banned the announcements only on WSND-FM, Cafarelli said he later told Daniel not to air the announcement on WVFI-AM.

Cafarelli said he would like to meet with the new executive board soon to discuss such matters as the stations' finances and WVFI-AM's transmitting systems but not the announcement's ban.

Student radio stations announce new managers amid controversy

By MARK PANKOWSKI
Assistant New Editor

Although Ridley and Daniel's resignations became effective Friday, the station managers had stopped performing their duty two weeks ago after Cafarelli informed Ridley of the ban of the announcements from the Gay and Lesbian at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's.

"I resigned because I felt that not airing the PSA (public service announcement) was a form of censorship," said Ridley.

Cafarelli, however, said the issue of censorship "is not a valid point in this particular matter."

"There has to be some concern for the interests of the institution relative to what goes out as part of our programming."

According to Ridley, "(the announcement's ban) was contrary to what I think a public station is supposed to do, that is serve the public."

"In other words, WSND considers itself, professors and defines itself as a public service station, and as such, has an obligation to the public," she said.

Public service announcements, which are aired free of charge, partially fulfill that obligation, she said.

Although administrators originally banned the announcements only on WSND-FM, Cafarelli said he later told Daniel not to air the announcement on WVFI-AM.

Cafarelli said he would like to meet with the new executive board soon to discuss such matters as the stations' finances and WVFI-AM's transmitting systems but not the announcement's ban.

Counseling follows LeMans baby incident

By MARYLIN BENCHIK
Staff Reporter

Saint Mary's College officials are working to counsel students and answer their questions concerning the stillborn baby found last Saturday in LeMans Hall, according to Pat Rismeyer, director of Residence Life and Housing.

"Administrators at Saint Mary's College are respecting the privacy of the mother and her child while responding to the general student population," said Rismeyer.

She said all Saint Mary's residents have had sessions to answer questions individually.

"Off Campus Advisors are also trying to talk to people individually, according to Rismeyer. "In this way we are able to reach the entire student body," she said.

"Some of the main concerns that students have are questions that deal with how the girl is doing, was the baby stillborn, and was the child baptized. The answer to that last question is yes," Rismeyer said.

"Our very initial concern was to work with the students who lived in sections where the girl lived and the incident occurred. There was a prayer service for the mother and child Sunday night for students living in the section," he said.

She added that many people had had reactions to a death in the community.

"We are trying to provide an opportunity for students to talk about the incident. Students are free to talk to counselors at Career and Counseling and at Campus Ministry."

"The entire community must remember not to judge people. The job of a Christian community is to offer support to those who need it," she said.

Mary Feeley, director of Campus Ministry, said, "The needs of the student body have certainly changed because some students are realizing their own vulnerabilities concerning this issue."
The Student Activities Board Presents...

Authors are holding workshops at the following times and dates:

Lore Segal, Wednesday March 5 12:15pm
Ronald Sukenick, Thursday March 6 12:15pm
Clayton Eshleman, Friday March 7 12:15pm
Robert Cormley, Saturday March 8 11:00 am

All workshops will be in the Library Lounge

Lee’s Ribs
(The Boss with the Sauce)
proudly presents

The GRATEFUL DEAD Party with Jerry Garcia (maybe)

Thurs., March 6 9 - close
$1 Molsens $1 Molsens $1 Molsens

Alumni-Senior Club Manager Applications

Positions available:
★ General Manager
★ Assistant Manager
★ Food and Beverages
★ Assistant Manager
Promotions and Rentals

Deadline for applications is Friday, March 14. Interviews will be March 17 through March 19. Pick up applications in the Student Activities Office, 1st floor LaFortune.
Student leads parade with luck of Irish

By CLIFF STEVENS

The luck of the Irish must be with Erin Brennan. Brennan, a Saint Mary's sophomore, will be the queen in Chicago's St. Patrick's Day parade this year. She was chosen last Friday night.

Her duties began this morning with a bagpipe procession into Chicago City Hall for a photo session with the mayor. "I was shocked because it was such a big contest and I got that far," she said.

Brennan, a Bridgeport, Illinois resident, said photographs and names were the criteria for selection of the 188 finalists from the pool of approximately 1,200 Chicago area applicants.

"If you're Irish, they could pick you," she said. "If you're not Irish, you're out." Brennan, whose father is Irish, said the final selection was based on appearance. She said 30 Chicago businessmen, politicians, and lawyers judged the final contest.

Her prizes included a paid vacation for two to Ireland and $5,000 worth of other prizes. This was Brennan's third year entering the contest. Last year, she was on the queen's court.

"My dad has always entered me because his nieces have been in it before," she said. "My mom and my dad are just extremely proud." She added.

"A lot of people that I just know vaguely are all saying congratulations, but my close friends are giving me guff about the whole thing and teasing me to every end," she said.

Love, praise of nature abound in Oliver's poetry at literary festival

By J. C. MURPHY

A love and praise of nature dominated the poetry of Mary Oliver last night in her presentation at the Sophomore Literary Festival. "Nature's catastrophe is never the opposite of love," said Oliver in her poem "Shadows."

Her presentation concentrated on works from her American Award and Pulitzer Prize winning book "American Primitive" and her new book "Dreamwork," which will be released in May.

Oliver often became excited while reciting her poetry. Her purpose as a poet is to spark the listener to ask how and why nature is taken for granted and often destroyed, she said.

She gave short backgrounds of the poems before reading them, explaining their relevance to the audience. Much of her work came as a result of actual experiences in nature. Her trips through Asia and Indonesia were the subjects of much of her poetry, she said. Her topics included the Lewis and Clark expedition, fishing trips and the Holocaust.

"Shadows" was written while Oliver was in Malaysia, she said. After saying that the word "amok" was the only literary contribution of the country of Malaysia, Oliver said she used this word to describe the confusion and awe associated with natural disasters.

Although man may be able to name these forces, he has no control over them, she said. Man may condemn catastrophes, but natural forces should never be seen as evil, she said.

Oliver then asked the audience to experience other countries of the world in her poem "Fort Dixon." Upon her departure from many foreign countries, Oliver said, she found herself saying "soon we will be home, someday we will come again."

She said she wants to return to continue traveling because it is a necessary part of life. At the same time, however, Oliver said we also must look in our own backyards to see all the world has to offer.
We are Opus. Our friends have been asking us why we have been flailing tests and complaints of small leaves for their morning practice just to write "From the Viewpoint: The Perspective of the Notre Dame elections." Yes, why. For fun.

Joanie Cahill & Karen Ingwersen

a visit from the penguin

(what we'd like to say isn't printable but we think you've got the idea.) We both know how serious and intense things get around here during election time. We just hoped to lighten the mood and bring some fun to election time. Hopefully we succeeded in making people laugh and in making the candidates take themselves a little less seriously. We certainly decided at the beginning that much. Tell us please, do elections really have to be like this?

The last time I visited St. Peter's, Rome, it was in the company of a professor of anthropology who had along someone who could cast a professional eye over the place and also cut through the complex reactions of awe and discomfort that St. Peter's elicits in Catholics like me. My guide and my companion proceeded to place the building, as artifact, in a cultural context. St. Peter's, he said, is about power; the efforts have produced handsome enlightenment and bring some fun to election

dowments; under his leadership Notre Dame

did not vary much from his ethological studies, he said, too, that a mysterious exit. John D. Rockefeller III, Burtchaell's book

The interview with Healy was very

Distinguished teacher from the government

Professor, a distinguished teacher from the government, likened the University of Chicago to a colonial territory where the subjects (natives) were disenfranchised. The year was 1974.

Things have not changed much.

Antipeterson

guest column

A few days after, clutching privileged pink tickets procured by our student friends the tickets entitled us to front-row seats and a handshaker from the Pope, we attended the Wednesday morning audience. The crowd was huge; as the Pope proceeded slowly down the aisle, the atmosphere was palpably different. Assisi provoked those complex reactions of awe and discomfort it is designed to intimidate.

For example, contrary to what Healy in­ shown not to question the

The Viewpoint Department

P. O. Box Q

Notre Dame, IN 46556

Dear Editor:

I was also pleased to see that "We The People had already determined the outcome of the student referendum before the students went through the pains of voting themselves. In addition, the poll in this publication that determines that students favor investment in South Africa should sufficiently sway the 18.8 percent No-Opinion votes to the "right" choice. I hope Healy remembered to mail a copy of "We The People" to each of the trustees so that they can learn from the misguided and ill-informed developments of the divestment issue.

I won't bother to continue. A publication concerned with the year in review is a good idea. The Year According To Bill Healy is a waste of the paper it was printed on.

Lisa Dold
Notre Dame student

Healy uses publication

to attack his enemies

Dear Editor:

Bill Healy obviously felt it was time to put himself on the back when he came up with the idea for the latest student government publication, "The Viewpoint." I can only assume Healy, knowing himself above all to be the only person qualified to conduct the interview. Healy uses this interview, as well as the entire publication, to attack certain groups and organizations that have caused him problems throughout the year. For example, contrary to what Healy insults the recall was an independent effort, by several students, not a product of the Anti-Apartheid Network. Doesn't he even know the people who wanted him thrown out of office? I guess there were too many to know them all personally. He also uses this interview to be harsh on his personal feelings about The Observer's financial the entire publication, to attack certain groups and organizations that have caused him problems throughout the year. For example, contrary to what Healy insults the recall was an independent ef­

cameral bureaucrat could soon dissipate its

ty. I have always admired his Christology.

The Viewpoint Department

P. O. Box Q

Notre Dame, IN 46556

Garry Trudeau

Quote of the day

“Always behave like a duck keep calm and unruffled on the surface but paddle like the devil underneath.”

Jacob Braude

Wednesday, March 5, 1986 - page 6

The Viewpoint

‘Opus’ tries to put the fun back into ND elections

We are Opus. Our friends have been asking us why we have been flailing tests and complaints of small leaves for their morning practice just to write "From the Viewpoint: The Perspective of the Notre Dame elections." Yes, why. For fun.

Joanie Cahill & Karen Ingwersen

a visit from the penguin

(what we'd like to say isn't printable but we think you've got the idea.) We both know how serious and intense things get around here during election time. We just hoped to lighten the mood and bring some fun to election
dowments; under his leadership Notre Dame
did not vary much from his ethological studies, he said, too, that a mysterious exit. John D. Rockefeller III, Burtchaell's book
Concept of the Tao expresses truths about Christ

"In the beginning was the Tao, and the Tao was with God, and the Tao was God." And so opens the Gospel according to St. John, as it has appeared in Bibles prepared for the Chinese. In your English translation it reads: "In the beginning was the Word, . . . . " The original Greek term, Logos, translates most simply as "Word" but, in fact, conveys a number of truths: that Jesus Christ is "Meaning," "Understanding," "Cause," "Reason," "Principle." Good theology. Yet, the word-concept Tao expresses closely-related truths about Christ and His gospel that we, as well as the Chinese, might do well to know and respond to.

David K. Seid

guest column

Tao means something like "Natural Law" or "The Way." Better yet, "The Way of Harmony." The first Christians, before they were ever called by that name, were identified as "Followers of the Way" (Acts 9:24:14). As we shall see, the principles of the Kingdom preached by the Prince of Peace are the principles of "The Way of Harmony." One great truth conveyed by the Tao of Christ is that (s)he who would discover the one good thing and does not strive. "The Way," as we read:

"The Whole is greater than the sum of its parts." In Western Romantic Christianese: "The reconciliation of opposites." (In Theistic Existentialism, this is the end of alienation and the restoration of the fragmented shards of our broken lives. When the Whole is experienced, and not merely vaguely conjectured cognitively, momentary transcendence is attained. }

Connectedness of all things and the unity of All/Itself becomes known in the totality of life. The Taoist needs to be aware of the Tao in himself. One does not transform the Tao, but makes himself nothing, taking the very nature of a servant, being made in human likeness, and being found in appearance as a man, he humbled himself and became obedient to death — even death on a cross! Therefore God exalted him above every name, that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, . . . and every tongue confess that Jesus Christ is Lord! (Phil. 2:5-11). There are certain worldly philosophers and secular-minded humanists who would vehemently reject the Way of Harmony as demeaning to the human spirit. And, indeed, they are profound thinkers — in their own unpopular way. In truth, as Taoism illuminates, all realities exist in (6)-polarity and how they exist in natural tension but also how it is imbalance — not a polarity in itself — that results in evil. The truth that sin is disharmony is not alien to the Catholic mind as the Church has always regarded harsely by taking one part of a truth and exaggerating and exaggerating that one part as if it were and to near exclusion of the whole. Hence, one can best appreciate a philosopher like Nietzsche like Nietzsche is psychologically incapable of recognizing anything but goodness, but as he looks only in one direction with only one eye, and thus lacking depth perception, merely caught on as to how relativity Christianity really is. He never saw the other half (the Yin aspect of Christianity isolated from its harmonized context) he cared to see. Any Christian who has walked with the Lord can hear without a great deal. Because He is the Great Lover — God is the Great Iconoclast, the Despoiler of Illusions, the One who for the sake of the disciple of the unregenerate soul. You see, as a disciple is actually conscious or rigidly Yang-conscious, we encounter our lives with stupidity. Milton's Lucifer ("Better to reign in hell than to serve in heaven") comes to mind as an example of a creation that (s)he only think in "dominate or be dominated." The psychopathology of the chaotic/imbalance mind precludes insight into how submission to the will of the Other is necessary and existentially validating to the authentic love relationship. To give in fully to submission, the Yang-mind identifies humility with humiliation and self-denigration, and it confines dignity with pride and achievement. Yet, the sage, the Chinese archetype of the Christian saint, is a humble being who knows no hatred against self or anyone else, and who, despising vain striving, possesses an unimpeachable aura of dignity.

To speak of saints and sages brings us to a discussion of what Gestalt psychologists refer to as "field theory." In Taoist psychology, "The Whole is greater than the sum of its parts." In Western Romantic Christianese: "The reconciliation of opposites." (In Theistic Existentialism, this is the end of alienation and the restoration of the fragmented shards of our broken lives. When the Whole is experienced, and not merely vaguely conjectured cognitively, momentary transcendence is attained. ) The one good thing is the will to power goodness must acquiesce to the way of striving. It is the world). The one good thing is the will to power goodness must acquiesce to the way of striving. It is the solution? Harmonized opposites end up being lonely Deists or befuddled Pantheists. But perhaps most to be pitied are nominal "Christians" and certain types of theological liberals (often ascetic, I might add) who strive to synthesize the two polarities but fail miserably. They say God is both transcendent and imminent. In practice, however, they are functional atheists whose decision-making processes omit serious prayer and acts of faith who serve as un-

Wednesday, March 5, 1986 - page 7

Tribune's insensitivity was extremely tactless

Students are still talking about the dead baby recently found in a LeMans trash can last Friday. There exists a number of questions about this incident. What kind of baby recently found in a LeMans trash can this particular incident occurred at Saint Mary's. Still, I feel compelled to discuss the question of good professional journalism.

Brian Owlsley

guest column

First, I would like to congratulate The Observer on a tactful, well done story. Their article was helpful in bringing to the public's attention the flood of rumors going around. Plus I feel a story like this one is apparent in The Observer's students. The article is a bold step for a paper that tends to shy away from stories of rumors going around.

At the opposite end of the spectrum, I found myself in dismay and disgust at the reaction of the students of the University of the two administrations, regardless of the fact that this particular incident occurred at Saint Mary's. Still, I feel compelled to discuss the question of good professional journalism.

Brian Owlsley is a sophomore in the College of Arts and Letters.

Tribune's insensitivity was extremely tactless

Students are still talking about the dead baby recently found in a LeMans trash can last Friday. There exists a number of questions about this incident. What kind of baby recently found in a LeMans trash can this 9:24:14). As we shall see, the principles of the Kingdom preached by the Prince of Peace are the principles of "The Way of Harmony." One great truth conveyed by the Tao of Christ is that (s)he who would discover the one good thing and does not strive. "The Way," as we read:

"The Whole is greater than the sum of its parts." In Western Romantic Christianese: "The reconciliation of opposites." (In Theistic Existentialism, this is the end of alienation and the restoration of the fragmented shards of our broken lives. When the Whole is experienced, and not merely vaguely conjectured cognitively, momentary transcendence is attained. ) The one good thing is the will to power goodness must acquiesce to the way of striving. It is the world). The one good thing is the will to power goodness must acquiesce to the way of striving. It is the solution? Harmonized opposites end up being lonely Deists or befuddled Pantheists. But perhaps most to be pitied are nominal "Christians" and certain types of theological liberals (often ascetic, I might add) who strive to synthesize the two polarities but fail miserably. They say God is both transcendent and imminent. In practice, however, they are functional atheists whose decision-making processes omit serious prayer and acts of faith who serve as un-
Accent
Non-Catholics at ND/SMU

Protestants

MARY JACOBY
assistant features editor

What's it like being part of an American university? You only have to enter college and have the situation turned completely around?

Ask any Protestant at Notre Dame or Saint Mary's, he or she will know.

"Sometimes I feel like I'm the only Protestant on campus," said sophomore Rod Brown, a Baptist. Brown, who is black and Baptist, said he feels somewhat out of place among the Catholic majority at the University because many of Notre Dame's specifically Catholic customs are foreign to him.

"I have yet to find what Notre Dame defines as a Catholic education. . . . I don't really know what people mean by that," Brown said, explaining that whereas Catholics have parochial schools and universities for their religion, Baptists do not, unless it's a 'bible college.'

"I can hear that phrase, 'Catholic education,' all the time," Brown said. "And to me, I think of the same sentiment that the Catholic Church and its customs appear union, whose religion does not pression, it might be good to try to gain something, but I think the study of the catechism and all.'

Rod Brown
Heidi Bowman, a Saint Mary's junior and Methodist, said she feels the same sentiment that the Catholic Church and its customs appear foreign to her. "As a student at Saint Mary's, I think of the study of the catechism and all.'

Moslems

CHARLES LORDELL
features writer

Mention the word "Islam" to your hypothetical man on the street and the word terrorism may pop into his mind. Media coverage sometimes gives the impression that terrorism is an essential part of the Islamic faith.

Wrong.

Abdelkader Abdelkader and Shadid Abdelkader report the Islamic faith as it is practiced in Notre Dame and Saint Mary's. Although neither the Registrar's Office or University Ministry has any specific figures concerning the number of Moslems on campus, Protestant students are keenly aware that they are now in a new minority.

"If you're Protestant, it's cool," said Brown. "But if you're Catholic, it's great," Brown said, explaining how Catholics seem to treat other students with respect and religion. And unless all Catholic Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students are planning on joining the seminary or convent after graduation, they might be good to try to gain understanding now of how it feels to be in the majority.

The third belief is in the Day of Judgment. He will give the true believers their due reward in the Paradise and He will punish the disbelievers in Hell," said Tareq. "Because many oppressors die before they get their punishment and many oppressed people die before they get their just right, the hereafter, for the Moslems, is the period during which each will get his just reward."

The Islamic definition of faith is composed of three elements, according to Abdelkader. "It is a creed in the heart, it is a word said by the tongue, and it is a practice in the behavior."}

"Faith means the sincerity of Allah in the worship. A believer does something in the cause of Allah because he loves it, because he is satisfied by it, and not because he wants to show off or gain any personal benefits.""It is your tongue that expresses your beliefs and thoughts to others. You may know the truth, but this truth will stay unknown to the others until you tell them about it by your tongue." Abdelkader further stated, "You need to practice what you believe in your heart and what you say to others by the tongue. The practice is the true test of your faith." There are over 20 Moslem students on campus and over 60 families in the area. Moslem services are held every Friday at Bulla Shed on Bolla Street (between the d-2 and c-2 parking lots) at 12:30 p.m., with a discussion session that evening at 5. Arabic lessons are held every week at the community center on Crapo street. And once a month the families get together for a social gathering and prayer.
Other faiths bring diversity to religious life on campus

Hindus, Buddhists and Druze

CAROLINE M. GILLESPIE

Hindus, Buddhists and Druze here at Notre Dame?

On a campus where about 96 percent of the students are Catholic, there are many different faiths that make up the four percent religious minority.

Manju Malik and her twin sister Madhu are two juniors from Japan. The Maliks were born in India and although they don't practice their religion, they are Hindus.

"I'm a Hindu but I don't believe in any god," Manju said. "I believe in the one force, I believe that there is something up there but I can't point to one supreme being."

Basically, Hinduism is polytheistic but with a monistic trend. There is one force called Brahman with three main gods: the Creator, the Preserver and the Destroyer. Besides these three, Hindus have gods for just about everything. There is a sun god and a moon god, for example.

According to Sam Shapiro, associate professor of history, there have been several years ago a students' discussion group, but Shapiro said he, like other members of the group, "just lost interest."

Nordwind said that in the past he has attended services in the South Quad area.

"I've never really felt at a disadvantage because of my religion. I've attended Catholic schools since seventh grade, so I was not so shocked culturally as some might expect," he said.

"I've never felt religious discrimination here. I don't judge my friends on the basis of their religion, and I expect the same from them."

The Cohens agreed. "There is no real discrimination here. The situation could be described as a general lack of information about our faith."

Manju and Madhu Malik

Although there are other Lebanese students at Notre Dame, Bualuan is the only Druze on campus.

"Although people might find it strange that I'm at a Catholic university, I'm proud of it," said Bualuan.

Students take part in a Baptist Student Union prayer meeting in the Bulla Shed.

Jews

ANDY BARLOW

In a large group, what percentage is considered a minority?

Twenty percent? Five percent?

Here at Notre Dame, there is a minority group whose numbers rank below even the one percent figure.

The Notre Dame Jewish student population is currently estimated at eight to 18 percent, but 18 students.

Why are there so few Jews? According to David Cohn, associate professor of engineering, "There are so few Jews here simply because there are so few Jews here."

In other words, the small number of Jewish students discourages many devout Jews from attending the University.

Will Nordwind, a Jewish freshman from St. Edward's Hall, says he chose Notre Dame for the reasons any person should choose a school.

"I did not consider my religion a key factor in my choice of a school. I've always like Notre Dame and I've long held the Catholic Church and its emphasis on a quality education in the highest regard."

Nordwind said he has not met any other Jews on campus. With the odds of "just running into" another Jewish student around 550 to 1, that's not too surprising.

Faculty members enjoy a better ratio as there are, according to Cohn, "somewhere around three dozen Jewish faculty members."

Cohn's wife, Naida, said part of the isolation of new Jewish students could be resolved by starting a program to put them in touch with Jewish faculty. This would ease the adjustment to their new Catholic surroundings, she said.

With their small demographic representation, one might assume the existence of a Jewish fellowship group. But there isn't one, according to Cohn, who cited the difficulties inherent in forming any student group, such as scheduling.

According to Sam Shapiro, associate professor of history, "There is something up there but I can't point to one supreme being."

Basically, Hinduism is polytheistic but with a monistic trend. There is one force called Brahman with three main gods: the Creator, the Preserver and the Destroyer. Besides these three, Hindus have gods for just about everything. There is a sun god and a moon god, for example.

Assistant Professor David Cohn

Students take part in a Baptist Student Union prayer meeting in the Bulla Shed.

According to Sam Shapiro, associate professor of history, "There is something up there but I can't point to one supreme being."

Basically, Hinduism is polytheistic but with a monistic trend. There is one force called Brahman with three main gods: the Creator, the Preserver and the Destroyer. Besides these three, Hindus have gods for just about everything. There is a sun god and a moon god, for example.

While with small demographic representation, one might assume the existence of a Jewish fellowship group. But there isn't one, according to Cohn, who cited the difficulties inherent in forming any student group, such as scheduling.

According to Sam Shapiro, associate professor of history, "There is something up there but I can't point to one supreme being."

Basically, Hinduism is polytheistic but with a monistic trend. There is one force called Brahman with three main gods: the Creator, the Preserver and the Destroyer. Besides these three, Hindus have gods for just about everything. There is a sun god and a moon god, for example.

While with small demographic representation, one might assume the existence of a Jewish fellowship group. But there isn't one, according to Cohn, who cited the difficulties inherent in forming any student group, such as scheduling.

According to Sam Shapiro, associate professor of history, "There is something up there but I can't point to one supreme being."

Basically, Hinduism is polytheistic but with a monistic trend. There is one force called Brahman with three main gods: the Creator, the Preserver and the Destroyer. Besides these three, Hindus have gods for just about everything. There is a sun god and a moon god, for example.

While with small demographic representation, one might assume the existence of a Jewish fellowship group. But there isn't one, according to Cohn, who cited the difficulties inherent in forming any student group, such as scheduling.

According to Sam Shapiro, associate professor of history, "There is something up there but I can't point to one supreme being."

Basically, Hinduism is polytheistic but with a monistic trend. There is one force called Brahman with three main gods: the Creator, the Preserver and the Destroyer. Besides these three, Hindus have gods for just about everything. There is a sun god and a moon god, for example.

While with small demographic representation, one might assume the existence of a Jewish fellowship group. But there isn't one, according to Cohn, who cited the difficulties inherent in forming any student group, such as scheduling.

According to Sam Shapiro, associate professor of history, "There is something up there but I can't point to one supreme being."

Basically, Hinduism is polytheistic but with a monistic trend. There is one force called Brahman with three main gods: the Creator, the Preserver and the Destroyer. Besides these three, Hindus have gods for just about everything. There is a sun god and a moon god, for example.

While with small demographic representation, one might assume the existence of a Jewish fellowship group. But there isn't one, according to Cohn, who cited the difficulties inherent in forming any student group, such as scheduling.

According to Sam Shapiro, associate professor of history, "There is something up there but I can't point to one supreme being."

Basically, Hinduism is polytheistic but with a monistic trend. There is one force called Brahman with three main gods: the Creator, the Preserver and the Destroyer. Besides these three, Hindus have gods for just about everything. There is a sun god and a moon god, for example.

While with small demographic representation, one might assume the existence of a Jewish fellowship group. But there isn't one, according to Cohn, who cited the difficulties inherent in forming any student group, such as scheduling.
Sports Briefs

Men's and women's soccer tournaments are being organized by NVA. Interested teams should sign up at the NVA office in the ACC by Wednesday, March 12. The women's division will be an interhall competition and a $25 team entry fee is required. The men's division will be an open tournament but the field is limited to the first 32 teams that enter. Entry fee for the men is $10 per team. For more information call NVA. - The Observer

A squash clinic will be held for beginning and novice players tonight at 7 p.m. in advance at NVA. - The Observer

An interhall baseball tournament is being organized by NVA. Interested teams should sign up at the NVA office in the ACC by Wednesday, March 12. Rosters must include at least 14 players and should be turned in with a $15 team entry fee. For more information call NVA. - The Observer

ND baseball team opens spring travel to face Hoosiers on Sunday.

By Terry Lynch

Spokes Writer

It may not look too much like Florida right now in Indiana, but if you pay close enough attention, baseball is just around the corner.

The Notre Dame baseball team opens its 1986 season Sunday against the Indiana Hoosiers, as the two Midwestern teams prepare to battle the elements and maybe send a message to the major leaguers in the warmer climates, telling them where real men play baseball.

"We're just itching to go outside," said Irish head coach Larry Gallo, now beginning his sixth year at the team's helm. "We're going battry inside.

Batty or not, the Irish skipper holds an attitude of "cautious optimism" when it comes to this year's squad. Shifting his team's chances for a successful season, Gallo will be hoping to improve on last year's 26-27-2 overall mark and an innings in the fall. The 1986 schedule features five teams from the Big Ten, a spring break road trip to the California-Riverside Invitational Tournament and games against Oral Roberts and Houston.

Notre Dame will play Sunday without a starting pitcher and starting shortstop Tom Shidom and starting catcher Mike McNeill. Shidom, whose 2.33 ERA, average, 40 RBI, 125 assists and 13 stolen bases last season got drafted by the Pittsburgh Pirates just before last season, will miss the season opener because of a combination of the flu and a shoulder injury.

Shields, a senior from Devon, Penn., should be a key player in the Irish offense this season. A co-captain and co-captain Rich Vanhornout are hoped to fill in for last year's 26-27-2 overall mark and an innings in the fall. The 1986 schedule features five teams from the Big Ten, a spring break road trip to the California-Riverside Invitational Tournament and games against Oral Roberts and Houston.

Notre Dame will play Sunday without a starting pitcher and starting shortstop Tom Shidom and starting catcher Mike McNeill. Shidom, whose 2.33 ERA, average, 40 RBI, 125 assists and 13 stolen bases last season got drafted by the Pittsburgh Pirates just before last season, will miss the season opener because of a combination of the flu and a shoulder injury.

Shields, a senior from Devon, Penn., should be a key player in the Irish offense this season. A co-captain and co-captain Rich Vanhornout are hoped to fill in for last year's 26-27-2 overall mark and an innings in the fall. The 1986 schedule features five teams from the Big Ten, a spring break road trip to the California-Riverside Invitational Tournament and games against Oral Roberts and Houston.

Notre Dame will play Sunday without a starting pitcher and starting shortstop Tom Shidom and starting catcher Mike McNeill. Shidom, whose 2.33 ERA, average, 40 RBI, 125 assists and 13 stolen bases last season got drafted by the Pittsburgh Pirates just before last season, will miss the season opener because of a combination of the flu and a shoulder injury.

Shields, a senior from Devon, Penn., should be a key player in the Irish offense this season. A co-captain and co-captain Rich Vanhornout are hoped to fill in for last year's 26-27-2 overall mark and an innings in the fall. The 1986 schedule features five teams from the Big Ten, a spring break road trip to the California-Riverside Invitational Tournament and games against Oral Roberts and Houston.

Notre Dame will play Sunday without a starting pitcher and starting shortstop Tom Shidom and starting catcher Mike McNeill. Shidom, whose 2.33 ERA, average, 40 RBI, 125 assists and 13 stolen bases last season got drafted by the Pittsburgh Pirates just before last season, will miss the season opener because of a combination of the flu and a shoulder injury.

Shields, a senior from Devon, Penn., should be a key player in the Irish offense this season. A co-captain and co-captain Rich Vanhornout are hoped to fill in for last year's 26-27-2 overall mark and an innings in the fall. The 1986 schedule features five teams from the Big Ten, a spring break road trip to the California-Riverside Invitational Tournament and games against Oral Roberts and Houston.

Notre Dame will play Sunday without a starting pitcher and starting shortstop Tom Shidom and starting catcher Mike McNeill. Shidom, whose 2.33 ERA, average, 40 RBI, 125 assists and 13 stolen bases last season got drafted by the Pittsburgh Pirates just before last season, will miss the season opener because of a combination of the flu and a shoulder injury.

Shields, a senior from Devon, Penn., should be a key player in the Irish offense this season. A co-captain and co-captain Rich Vanhornout are hoped to fill in for last year's 26-27-2 overall mark and an innings in the fall. The 1986 schedule features five teams from the Big Ten, a spring break road trip to the California-Riverside Invitational Tournament and games against Oral Roberts and Houston.

Notre Dame will play Sunday without a starting pitcher and starting shortstop Tom Shidom and starting catcher Mike McNeill. Shidom, whose 2.33 ERA, average, 40 RBI, 125 assists and 13 stolen bases last season got drafted by the Pittsburgh Pirates just before last season, will miss the season opener because of a combination of the flu and a shoulder injury.

Shields, a senior from Devon, Penn., should be a key player in the Irish offense this season. A co-captain and co-captain Rich Vanhornout are hoped to fill in for last year's 26-27-2 overall mark and an innings in the fall. The 1986 schedule features five teams from the Big Ten, a spring break road trip to the California-Riverside Invitational Tournament and games against Oral Roberts and Houston.

Notre Dame will play Sunday without a starting pitcher and starting shortstop Tom Shidom and starting catcher Mike McNeill. Shidom, whose 2.33 ERA, average, 40 RBI, 125 assists and 13 stolen bases last season got drafted by the Pittsburgh Pirates just before last season, will miss the season opener because of a combination of the flu and a shoulder injury.

Shields, a senior from Devon, Penn., should be a key player in the Irish offense this season. A co-captain and co-captain Rich Vanhornout are hoped to fill in for last year's 26-27-2 overall mark and an innings in the fall. The 1986 schedule features five teams from the Big Ten, a spring break road trip to the California-Riverside Invitational Tournament and games against Oral Roberts and Houston.
We did our homework.
Now do yours.

You want a computer for college. You don’t know which one to get, you’re confused, you get depressed. Don’t be.

Because the answer to all your computer problems is at your campus computer center. Where you’ll find Macintosh® personal computers and a selection of Macintosh® products specifically suited for students.

The Macintosh® personal computer lets you work faster, smarter, and more creatively. The Apple® External Desk Drive gives you the power to store and access information faster. And the ImageWriter® printer lets you print crisp copies of your work. Lastly, there’s the Macintosh® carrying case. Which lets you take your Macintosh® system wherever your work takes you.

So go to the campus computer center and pick up a Macintosh® brochure. And remember: When you bring a Macintosh® home, there’s a good chance you’ll be bringing home something else. Better grades.

University Of Notre Dame faculty, staff and students can buy Macintosh® computers at discounted prices from the Notre Dame computer store.

For further information, inquire at
The Computing Center
Room 25 9:00 - 5:00 Monday - Friday
Phone 239-7477
Schmitz leads Notre Dame swim team in his first year

By BOB KEMPER
Sports Writer

Bill Schmitz is certainly a different breed of cat. Dubbed "Bill the Cat" by a fellow member of the Notre Dame swimming team, the freshman from Zahm Hall displays qualities uncommon for an athlete.

"I grew up hearing about Notre Dame," he said, "and it's difficult to avoid getting caught up in the tradition. In addition, I knew that they were building the new pool and could sense that the swimming program would change for the better.

"Coach Welsh has really intensified this program. We have improved so much over the course of this year. It's amazing."

"The training is a lot different from what I did in high school. It involves much more distance work. If my high school coach would have said we were going to have a 5,000-yard sprint for time, I would have told him he was crazy. But here it seems normal. Coach Welsh really knows what he is doing."

When asked about his expectations for upcoming seasons, his response is paradoxical.

"I believe that my times will improve but I'm not sure if I will place as high next year," he said. "This is our last year in the MCC. We hope to get in a conference with St. Bonaventure, Cleveland State, Villanova, Syracuse, and a few other teams. That would be much better than the one that we are in now."

With the times that Schmitz posted in the conference championship meet, the Northfield, Minn., native qualified for the 500-yard, 1,650, and possibly the 200-yard freestyle events in tomorrow's meet. The ever-humble Schmitz was reluctant to admit that he hopes to set a University record in the 1,650-yard event.

"I wasn't born with much natural talent," he said. "I have to work pretty hard and hit the six twice Coach Welsh really helps."

In addition, Schmitz sees the value of intra-team competition. "I can't slack off at all or Roland Hartzwell and Dave Newman would run right over me."
Tennis team grabs 2nd in tournament in Iowa

By PETE SKIKO
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame men’s tennis team invaded Iowa this weekend and captured second place in a four-team quadrangular at Iowa City.

The Irish started slowly, losing 7-2 to the Huskies of Northern Illinois in the opening round of play, but rebounded strongly by dominating Iowa State, 7-2, and Iowa, 6-3.

The team was led by freshmen Brian Kalthas and Tim Carr who played second and third singles, respectively. Each went undefeated on the weekend, and each won matches against Northern Illinois in dramatic fashion. Carr was down a match point in the third set of his match before rallying to take the set in a tiebreak. Kalthas trailed 5-2 in the third set against his opponent before taking the next five games to route to a 6-2, 6-3, 7-5 victory.

“I thought everyone played well throughout the whole meet,” said Carr. “I felt we really should have knocked Northern Illinois – almost every match went to three sets.” Six of the nine Irish matches went to three sets against the Huskies, the eventual winners of the meet. “If we could have had them (Northern Illinois) last, things might have been different.” Carr continued. “Everyone played better as the weekend went on, and we rolled past a good Iowa State team to finish the meet. I thought everyone played solid, especially (freshman) Tony Cahill, who was sick on Thursday (against Indiana).” Cahill was 2-1 on the weekend, and this was his first singles action of the year.

Sophomore Dan Walsh, who played number-one singles for the Irish in the meet, was also happy with the results. Walsh went 1-2 for the quadrangular, but lost two tough three-setters to Northern Illinois and Iowa.

“Kalthas and Carr had just super weekends,” said Walsh. “We have a young team, and I’d say we’re coming along really well. We got some tough breaks with the three-setters over the weekend, but overall it was a good meet.”

The top six singles spots consisted of two sophomores and four freshmen. Senior Joe Nelligan, who was the lone Irish singles player, ended up double-bogeyed over the weekend because of a midweek trip.

This weekend, the Irish host Ohio University, Wisconsin-Oshkosh and Chicago-Illinois. The quadrangular will be played at the ACC on Saturday and Sunday.

THANKS TO YOU... it works... for ALL OF US.

Hats Off to the Irish

Well, every Irish painter's cap to the game On sale at the Dining Hall. Today $1

BILLY JOE ALABAMA

Wear your Irish painter's cap to the game On sale at the Dining Hall. Today $1

Wear your Irish painter's cap to the game On sale at the Dining Hall. Today $1

Wear your Irish painter's cap to the game On sale at the Dining Hall. Today $1

---

ST. JUDE

O Holy St. Jude, accept and may grant in answer and in rich and to the nations of the Lord your love and in the name of Me, your servant, an unknown and unknown prayer of all who invoke your sacred name in time of need. May the Lord grant to the soul of your servant, an unknown and unknown peace and every other grace, so that we may give glory to your name. Amen.

---

Summer STORAGE RESERVATION

CALL NOW 683-1959

• VERY CLOSE TO CAMPUS
• APPROX 2 1/2 MILES NORTH US 31-33
• GATES OPEN ALL DAY SUNDAY

Master Mini Warehouses
P.O. BOX 100, MICHIGAN 49120
“BEST LITTLE STORE-HOUSE IN MICHIGAN”

---

The Nazz Competition is coming...

A chance for student bands and musicians to compete for fame and recognition.

On Friday, April 6th you will compete for:

* CASH PRIZES!
* A position in the Saturday showcase performance (April 5th)
* A chance to play with MAX WEINBERGER, BRUCE SPRINGSTEEN’S DRUMMER!

Registration is at the front desk of the Student Government Offices from March 11 to March 16.

QUESTIONS? Call Liz 283-2985

---

SPECIAL

TRAVEL SPECIAL

to Chicago's O'Hare & Midway Airport

One Way $20.00 Round Trip $30.00

Available February 15th through March 31st.

Tickets purchased usable through 1986

United Limo

INSIDE INDIANA(800) 332-7323 LOCAL (219) 674-6993
Or call your travel agent

---

SPRING

SPACE RESERVATION

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---
Irish will face Xavier in first of two in Ohio

By MIKE SZYMANSKI
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame women’s basketball team enters the final stretch toward its season-long goal of winning the North Star Conference tomorrow night, needing victories against both the Lady Musketeers and at Dayton Saturday to clinch the title.

"Xavier is a lot better team this year than last year with talented players who play hard," said Irish head coach Mary DiStanislao. "We cannot afford to let down. Since every game in a conference situation counts the same, none are expendable."

Xavier brings a 2-25 record into its meeting with Notre Dame, which enters the game with a 19-7 overall mark and an 11-1 NSC record. Notre Dame defeated Xavier 104-57 earlier this season at the ACC.

"We will take whatever they give us," said DiStanislao. "Since we do not have the height advantage, we will try to get good shots in the paint. We had success against them defensively with the 1-2-2."

"They have gotten good play out of Maureen Fredrick, Deborah Long and Terry Cavanaugh, who had 14 rebounds against us."

The Irish currently sport a five-game win streak, their longest of the season, and have won in 11 of their last 12 outings. Since returning from its holiday road trip, Notre Dame has won 13 of 15 contests.

"We’ve been playing with consistency," said DiStanislao. "We’ve been getting good solid production from the entire team, and heading into the final week of the season when so much is on the line that is an encouraging sign.

"We’ll have to play at our peak performance this week, and I think we will. Our kids have played under pressure and I think we’ll respond with a positive effort."

Irish sophomore center Sandy Botham has been a model of consistency during the months of January and February. Botham has scored in double figures in 16 straight games, a Notre Dame record, averaging 12.3 points and 8.4 rebounds a game during that stretch. Botham also ranks 14th nationally in field goal percentage at 61.1 percent.

The winner of the NSC will be looking toward an at-large bid to the NCAA Tournament.

"Right now we are fence-sitter for a bid," said DiStanislao. "Our odds go down as the conference tournament playoff and automatic bids and the strong teams get the at-large bids."

This already has occurred in the March of Dimes Big East tournament, where underdog Villanova had a mediocre season but won the tournament and the bid.

Sophomore guard Mary Gavin brings the ball upcourt against Tennessee's Dawn Marsh in a game earlier this season. Gavin and the Irish are on the road to play Xavier tomorrow night. Mike Szymanski previews the game in his story at left.

March of Dimes
Fight Birth Defects

MANAGER APPLICATIONS
are now available for the NEW Undergraduate Club in LaFortune for the 1986-87 academic year!

Positions available:
- General Manager
- Rentals Manager
- Food/Beverage Manager
- Promotions Manager
- Programming Manager

Deadline for applications is Wednesday, March 12.
Interviews will be March 17-19.
Pick up applications in the Student Activities Office, 1st floor of LaFortune.

FOR CLUB RENTALS CALL:
BRYAN DEDRICK 283-1069 239-7521
The Daily Crossword

*12:15 p.m. - Workshop, Love Segal, Sophomore Literary Festival, Library Lounge, Sponsored by the SAB
*4 p.m. - Lecture, "Development and Environment," Jean Labasse, Paris Institute for Studies in Politics, Room 202 Architecture School, Sponsored by the Kellogg Institute and the O'Neill Chair
*7 p.m. - Movie, "Killing Us Softly," Grace Hall Pit, Social Concerns Film Series

*7, 9 & 11 p.m. - Movie, "Volunteers," Engineering Auditorium, Sponsored by the SAB, $1.50
*7 p.m. - Meeting, Christian Fellowship Meeting, Kernan-Stanford Chapel
*7:30 p.m. - Meeting, Arts & Letters Business Society, Room 121 O'Shaughnessy
*10 p.m. - Campus Perspectives, Bill Healy and Duane Lawrence will be interviewed by Lynne Strand on WYFI-AM 6400

Campus

Dinner Menus

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Notre Dame</th>
<th>Saint Mary's</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Oven Fried Chicken</td>
<td>Baked Ham</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Deep Fried Provolone Cutlets</td>
<td>Lasagna</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spaghetti with Italian Meat Sauce</td>
<td>Potato Pancakes</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bologna and Swiss Grilled Sandwiches</td>
<td>Beef Burgundy</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

File Now!

Help IRS process more quickly.

Splash

Volunteers

Sponsored By: The Student Activities Board

Volunteers $1.50

Wednesday, March 5th and Thursday, March 6th
7:00, 9:00, 11:00 p.m.

Please, no food or drinks in Auditorium

Splash

Sponsored by: THE STUDENT ACTIVITIES BOARD

$1.50

Friday, March 7th,
Saturday, March 8th
7:00, 9:15, 11:30 p.m.

Please, no food or drinks in Auditorium
Sorin utilizes fast-break offense, captures IIT title with 63-54 victory

By FRANK HUEMMER

The 1986 A-league interhall basketball crown belongs to Sorin Hall. Sorin used a devastating fast-break offense to upset an inspired Grace team, 63-54, and end Grace's Cinderella season before a full house in the ACC's pit.

Grace coach Paul Derwent was pleased with his team's effort despite the loss. "They came out there knowing that we would be outdistanced and played quite hard," said Derwent. "We just didn't have the opportunity to get the breaks on the court that we're used to getting on the court." Sorin coach Pat Collins also gave Grace credit for its play in the contest.

Trena Keys will be remembered as the season's MVP and as the best women's basketball player in Notre Dame's academic history. She had a quick mind to it.

"When the game is going, I just have a feeling that things are going to go our way," Keys said.

The second half saw Grace take its first lead of the game at 29-28 on a basket by Takach, but that was the only time that Grace really turned up its fast-break offense and got it rolling in high gear. A couple of nasty passes from Collins to Gatzi put things on track and soon the lead was back in their favor.

"Climbing the ladder to the top by scoring the final four points, Sorin, however, wanted to win the game in the final period and built a 13-point advantage at 47-34. With 2:47 remaining, they still held a 10 point lead."

Sophomore forward leads Irish

Senior forward leads Irish

Keys has no time to think about personal achievements

By MARTY STRASEN

Senior forward

When it's all said and done, Trena Keys will be remembered as the best women's basketball player ever to play at Notre Dame. But, for the time being, Keys has her mind on more important things.

The 6-1 senior forward has earned her place in the Notre Dame record books. The career records speak for themselves: first in career scoring (1,496 points), scoring average (14 points per game), field goals attempted (1,317), field goals made (561), 10-point games (75) and 20-point games (28). What's left for Keys to accomplish?

"Winning.

Now when the records really don't count, I'm not sure if I've won them. I haven't had the chance to think about them. My main concern now is winning basketball games. I want to go to the (NCAA) Tournament. That's my dream." The Irish are currently 19-7 on the season, 11-1 in the North Star Conference. They play at Xavier tomorrow night and visit Dayton on Saturday in their final games of the season, with a second consecutive conference championship awaiting if they are able to win both.

But win or lose, Keys has played a major role in putting Notre Dame women's basketball on the NCAA map.

"Trena is probably the first player with legitimate potential for All-American status," says Irish head coach Mary DiStanislao. "She has the potential to be a star. She has good size, tremendous shooting ability and has really sharpened her defensive skills."

"Her mere presence on the floor really has an impact on the team. Trena is an impact player. There's no question about it." Keys began playing organized basketball in eighth grade, and people who know her were aware of the fact that her basketball career would not stop there. The Marion, Ind., native was an all-state selection in each of her four years at Marion High School, and looked at Notre Dame as the next step up in her basketball career.

"I knew I had to get better and improve my game," Keys says. "It was so much more work than high school, but I was determined to show that I was capable of playing at this level."

"I'll be able to think about basketball when I'm done with basketball," Keys said. "I haven't thought about walking basketball in the future," says the marketing major. "I've got to think about a career first. I have some job offers and have to decide what I'm going to do." But Keys is not ready to say "goodbye" just yet. She still has at least two games left and wants nothing less than a pair of victories. There will be plenty of time later to think about basketball.

Bengal Bouts continue tonight with semifinals slated at Stepan

The semifinals of the 1986 Bengal Bouts are slated for tonight, as the winners of their respective matches will meet in a shot at division title matches in 29 bouts.

Some of the more notable bouts on the card include some of last year's champions.

Joseph "Smokin' Joe" Collins takes on Matt Couch in the 147-pound division while another defending champion, Donald "Transpo" Antrobus, faces Dennis Coleman in the 152-pound class.

The Heavyweight division has former champ Paul Collins facing off against Dan Quinn for the right to defend his title against Greg Hudson on Friday. Hudson was the only person to receive a bye in his weight class.

Action gets underway at 7:30 at Stepan Center. Tickets may be purchased at the door for $3.

By MARTY STRASEN

Sports Writer

The Irish are currently 19-7 on the season, 11-1 in the North Star Conference. They play at Xavier tomorrow night and visit Dayton on Saturday in their final games of the season, with a second consecutive conference championship awaiting if they are able to win both.

But win or lose, Keys has played a major role in putting Notre Dame women's basketball on the NCAA map.

"Trena is probably the first player with legitimate potential for All-American status," says Irish head coach Mary DiStanislao. "She has the potential to be a star. She has good size, tremendous shooting ability and has really sharpened her defensive skills."

"Her mere presence on the floor really has an impact on the team. Trena is an impact player. There's no question about it." Keys began playing organized basketball in eighth grade, and people who know her were aware of the fact that her basketball career would not stop there. The Marion, Ind., native was an all-state selection in each of her four years at Marion High School, and looked at Notre Dame as the next step up in her basketball career.

"I knew I had to get better and improve my game," Keys says. "It was so much more work than high school, but I was determined to show that I was capable of playing at this level."

"I'll be able to think about basketball when I'm done with basketball," Keys said. "I haven't thought about walking basketball in the future," says the marketing major. "I've got to think about a career first. I have some job offers and have to decide what I'm going to do." But Keys is not ready to say "goodbye" just yet. She still has at least two games left and wants nothing less than a pair of victories. There will be plenty of time later to think about basketball.

Bengal Bouts continue tonight with semifinals slated at Stepan