Student attacked by policeman's dog considers lawsuit

By BUD LUEPKE and MARK PANKOWSKI
Staff Reporters

A Notre Dame student, saying he was the victim of an unprovoked police dog attack, is considering taking legal action against the South Bend Police Department after officers broke up a party at 401 Chest Street Thursday night.

Police raided a much smaller party at the house on Saturday night, "harassing" into the house, grabbing students off the porch, and striking a student in the back with a flashlight, according to senior John Scanlon, a resident of the house.

Sophomore Jeff Morgan, who was hit by his housemate's dog disorderly conduct, public intoxication and resisting law enforcement, said he was hospitalized and treated for multiple wounds infected by a police dog.

Morgan said the dog had jumped him from behind, knocking him down and biting him a total of 22 times on his arm and leg. He said he received a majority of the wounds on his right arm, including five or six deep bites.

Morgan also said he received one fairly deep wound on his right leg and minor wounds and scratches on his left arm and leg. Morgan said he was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital and treated before being processed for arrest.

Captain Patrick Correll, head of the South Bend Police Department's East Sector, said Morgan struck the officer handling the dog. "He assaulted the handler," Correll said. "I think it was clear in my head at the time that I am not the victim of an unprovoked animal assault as far as I can tell when I tried to push the dog off me," he said.

Chris Prebys, who gave the party, said Morgan was not a good student that he would not say where the students moved after the raid. "He's the type of person who once was safety an unprovoked" the Libyan, who had also been moving to be more at ease.

"The Libyan" was saying absurd things, and what he said was upsetting the Australians as well as the Americans," Charles said. "He was making himself obvious in the dormitory."

According to Charles, the Libyan student never threatened nor attacked any of the students. "Never was safety an issue," Charles said. "(The students) were moved to be more at ease."

"It was not a matter of danger ever, it was a matter of discomfort," she said.

Prof. David Schindler, the on-site director of the program, said the atmosphere was not available for comment. Repeated attempts to reach him failed.

Charles said the students have been moved to different places. She would not say where the students are now located.

The dorm from which the students were moved is inhabited by different students, including Americans, Charles said.

There are approximately 35 Notre Dame students participating in the program, according to Charles. The students are scheduled to come home at the end of the month.

Charles said she has not been told of problems in the other residences in which program members live. "There have been no other reports coming in from the European programs," she said.

Hesburgh berates U.S. civil rights commission in address

Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS: Father Theodore Hesburgh, president of the University of Notre Dame and a former chairman of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, says the commission today is a mere shadow of its powerful self in the 60's.

Hesburgh, 68, was appointed to the commission in 1957 and removed in 1972. During those years, Congress passed landmark civil rights legislation that the commission recommended.

"We changed the face of America with those bills," Hesburgh said Monday. "I disagree with what the present commission has accomplished, which is nil. We used to study things and report our findings and conclusions. Now they're making findings and conclusions without studying anything."

Hesburgh was in New Orleans to appear before the Notre Dame Club and to speak at Holy Cross School and St. Augustine High School.

He said that the civil rights commission should be dismantled until a study can be made of procedures that might further civil rights. "I don't expect that during the Reagan administration," he said. "The commission has been gutted. There's no leadership or the kind of integrity it should have."

Hesburgh told his audience at the predominantly black St. Augustine High School that they must continue the drive that was begun during the civil rights movement, when leaders such as the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. "walked-in and prayed-in and say-in and swing-in and got laws passed."

"It is the fulfillment of their work," he said. "The number of black elected officials in this country has gone from six to more than 6,000. . . . People 10 years ago would have said this isn't happening. It is happening and the country is moving forward," he said.

Education is vital to that progress, Hesburgh said.

"When you get a good education and you're willing to work, he said, "you're bound to get a good job and some money to manage with. Then you'll be able to move up to a better home and better education for your children."

Hesburgh, Notre Dame's president since 1952, is retiring next year. New Orleans was his last stop on his final presidential swing around the country to the University's alumni clubs.
In Brief

More money was raised by Notre Dame in 1984-85 than by any other university in Indiana, according to a survey conducted by the Council for Financial Aid to Education, which showed Notre Dame received more than $31.8 million from alumni, corporations and other individuals. Indiana University received about $31.9 million; Purdue, $18.1 million; Valparaiso, $5.9 million; and DePauw, $5.6 million. The survey showed Harvard University received the most financial donations of any university in the country with more than $145.6 million. — AP

Dinosaur extinction occurred gradually over millions of years, says Notre Dame geologist Keith Rigby Jr. Based on fossils found last year in Montana, his theory will be published in the May 2 issue of Science, the weekly journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. According to Rigby, the dinosaur and pollen fossils indicate that the dinosaurs started to die off about 72 million years ago, some seven million years before an asteroid shower supposedly struck Earth and wiped out the dinosaur population. — The Observer

Dry Rush is the word for next September at the University of Pittsburgh. The Intrafraternity Council opposed the imposition of the alcohol-free rush, but the school's administration held firm. The administration presented statistics showing that, over the last five years, more people were attending fraternity parties, but fewer were signing up to join. Thus, they argued, the wet rushes don't work. — The Observer

Northwestern U.S. states prepare for Soviet fallout’s weekend arrival

Associated Press

OLYMPIA, Wash. — Gov. Booth Gardner met with health officials and radiation monitoring was stepped up yesterday as Washington state prepared for the weekend arrival of fallout from the Soviet nuclear accident.

Experts said radioactivity from the power plant disaster, expected to appear over the northwestern United States as early as Saturday, would probably pose no health threat in the continental United States, nor to the Soviet Union outside the immediate area of the power plant disaster.

"In time it will get here, there's no question about that," said John Wallace, chairman of the University of Washington Department of Atmospheric Science. "It could be any time, probably three or four days would be the minimum, and in any event it probably wouldn't take more than a week." Wallace said that by then, the radiation would be widely dispersed and "the differences between what we get here and what they'd experience in New York a day or so later wouldn't be that great."

"There is no question there will be a sizable dilution, there's tremendous mixing in the atmosphere," said Kenneth Mossman, who directs Georgetown University Medical Center's program in radiation science in Washington, D.C.

Charlie Porter, director of the Eastern Environmental Radiation Facility in Montgomery, Ala., said fallout detection stations in all 50 states will deliver data to his agency, an arm of the federal Environmental Protection Agency.

"We're calling all the station operators and instructing them to begin taking daily samples," Porter said. Normally, readings are taken every three days.

Porter said the EPA does not believe the cloud would be dangerous. But he said there is no way to be sure without knowing the scope of the Soviet accident.

Gardner met with officials from the state's health, environment and emergency agencies to review steps the state could take in the event of normally high radiation levels reach the Northwest.

"There is nothing to be worried about in the Northwest at this point, but we will maintain continuous monitoring of the situation," said Gardner aide Jim Knoland.

Filters on radiation monitors at the capital in Olympia, at Spokane and at the Hanford nuclear reservation in eastern Washington were ordered changed daily instead of the usual once a week, officials said.

Mossman said the type of radiation detected in the United States and elsewhere could provide clues as to the nature and scope of the Soviet reaction.

The Soviet Union said the accident at its nuclear reactor on the Chernobyl power plant in the Ukraine. Radiation as much as 10 times above normal was recorded north of Stockholm, Sweden, and this included iodine and cesium compounds — both products of nuclear fission which would be produced in uranium reactor fuel.

Mossman and another expert, Richard Reba, who heads the division of nuclear medicine at George Washington University Medical Center, said the health risks to Soviet citizens might not be great even in a nearby population center such as Kiev, about 100 miles from the accident site.

Dave Flanagan, top, voted the ugliest man on campus last week, looks down on second-ugliest Chris "Wally" Wohlmann. Flanagan raised 19,002 one-cent votes and Wohlmans garnered 29,437. All money from the voting goes to the Teenage Runaway Shelter in South Bend.

obstructing anything," he said. The police showed up. There was no reason for the dogs, "he added. Prebys, who said he received a $50 noise ordinance citation, estimated there were 10 to 15 people at approximately 180 people. He said at least two dogs were used. Cotrell, however, said that only one dog was used. He said the dog was used because there was "not enough man-power" to control the large crowd. Cotrell said the police broke up the party in answer to a complaint and because the party was in violation of the city noise or­dinance. He said pictures were taken to show the large crowd outside the litter and the blocked walls and streets.

Morgan said he is considering taking legal action against the police department but is waiting to consult more with his lawyer.

At least one other student, sophomore Andy Cron, was arrested on charges of public intoxication and resisting law enforce­ment at the Thursday night party. Prebys and Scanton complained that police again broke up a party of theirs Saturday night. However, only 30 people were in attendance at that party, Scanton said.

According to Scanton, approximately 12 police arrived at his house at 11:15 p.m. Saturday. "We had moved the party in taking pictures," he said. Everyone was on the porch or inside when the police came, then everyone ran," he said.

"They barged into the house and searched the basement and the upstairs," Scanton added. He said that one officer struck a student in the back with a flashlight and some students were "grabbed off the porch, no questions asked."

Scanton said he was fined $500 for exceeding the legal noise limit by 11:15 p.m.

The office of South Bend Mayor Roger Parent announced that the mayor, a police department representative and the city attorney had scheduled a press conference in front of the Curby Street house this morning. The press conference was called to discuss the large parties held by students in the northeast neighborhood last weekend. Several students were arrested at the parties, mostly on charges of public intoxication. The names could not be confirmed last night.

The Saint Mary's softball team, now 15-14, split its final two games against Notre Dame. The Belles fell 5-4 in the first game but bounced back in the second game to win five innings by a score of 11-1.

The Belles led off the scoring in the third inning when Diane Weldon singled and Barb Mooney added a single to drive in Boyle. Weldon walked. Tammy Goodwin singled, and Barb Mooney added a single in the bottom of the fourth. Notre Dame's lone run came in the top of the fifth when Mooney singled and scored on a sacrifice fly by Faust.

The Belles were able to close the same early when they scored their ninth, 10th and 11th runs. Boldt led off the hitting with a single. Lorri White got to first on a fielders choice. Julie McNish tripped to bring in Boldt and White. Next, Jeannet O'Neill reached first on an error which also allowing McNish to score.

Laura Danch and Cuti were driven home on a triple by Mary Malina. She was able to score on a Notre Dame error. These runs put the Belles in the lead, 7-0.

Teeny reached base on an error and Malina sent her home on a single in the bottom of the fourth. Notre Dame's lone run came in the top of the fifth when Mooney singled and scored on a sacrifice fly by Faust.

The winning pitcher for the Irish was Bart Mooney.

The bats were cracking early for the Belles in the second game, as Boldt led off the hitting with a single. Lorri White got to first on a fielders choice. Julie McNish tripped to bring in Boldt and White. Next, Jeannet O'Neill reached first on an error which also allowing McNish to score.

These runs enabled the Belles to hand a loss to Notre Dame. The winning pitcher for Saint Mary's was Tammy Scheler.

Dorsay, who joins the Giants Thursday, will be reunited with former Notre Dame tight end Mark Pinkett, who joins the Giants what he can do on the field.

"I'm not going to try and emulate any of their players," said Dorsey. "I've got my own style of football. I'm going to just try and fit in. I'm happy about joining Mark. We were close when he was here." But while Dorsey's first reaction was one of surprise, Pinkett's initial reaction was one of relief.

"I wasn't disappointed at all," said Pinkett about being selected in the third round. "It was a big relief. I just thank Houston for giving me the opportunity to play professional football."

But there was also an element of surprise for the native of Sterling, Va. The Oilers were unable to reach Pinkett before they made their announcement official on cable television.

"I found out on ESPN just like everyone else," he said. "I guess Houston didn't have my phone number so they weren't able to get in touch with me first."

Pinkett is a three-time all-America selection who finished eighth in the Heisman Trophy voting as a senior in 1985 and 1960 as a sophomore in 1983. He surprised Vegas Farguson's record for all-time rushing yardage at Notre Dame, finishing with a total of 4,331 yards in his four-year career. He is also the all-time leading scorer in Irish history with 220 points.

While some still question the impact Pinkett can make in the NFL with his 5-9, 181-pound frame, the senior looks forward to proving his critics wrong on a young Houston team.

"I'm ready to take the next challenge," he says. "I look forward to making the next step in my football career. Their youth may help me. I don't know much about the team but I'm ready to get familiar with them. I know they have a young, strong offensive line and I look forward to running behind them." Pinkett will join former Notre Dame teammates Mike Kelley and Larry Moriarty, who are currently with the Oilers.

"I'm happy about joining Mark. We were close when he was here," said Dorsey. "I've got my own style of football. I'm going to just try and fit in."

The winning pitcher for the Irish was Bart Mooney.

Irish Items

Hello again, everybody. Don King calls it an "extraordinary." David Letterman says it is a "festival." Story from across the campus have turned out in droves for the 3rd... and the final... Chuckie awards.

Dorsey goes in third! And the winner is... The Notre Dame fencing teams. The nominees, in alphabetical order are.

John McNelis, Rob Nobles, Jim Tyler, and Jeff Van Wie, track- This quartet finished third in the NCAA Amateur Wrestling News' all-freshman squad. He set an Irish record for most wins by a freshman and tied the Chuckie awards.

Chuckie extravaganza. Another exciting year for the Notre Dame fencing teams. Matt Cavanaugh to Philadelphia for a third-round pick this year and the annual Chuckie decide who will be named to the first team of the Midwestern Collegiate Conference this spring. He needs only three wins to put Jake Kline and become the winningest coach in Notre Dame history.
