Hospital declares Rivers' condition 'good' following auto accident

By DENNIS CORRIGAN

Rivers was pronounced in good condition and moved out of intensive care yesterday, according to a statement released by his doctor at Elkhart General Hospital.

According to Dr. Kathy Gnaus, who performed surgery on Rivers, he remains in good spirits and is in good condition.

Barbara Barret, a hospital spokeswoman, said Rivers, who was involved in an automobile accident along with former teammate Ken Barlow, was not scheduled for more surgery, and doctors were still monitoring him for infection.

Rivers sustained a 12-15 inch gash across his abdomen after being hurled through the window of a van driven by Barlow last Sunday morning at approximately 1 a.m. on Elkhart County Road 1. The two had been working and living in Elkhart during the summer. Barlow said that he swerved to avoid an incoming vehicle which had veered into his lane and lost control of the van. The van then went off the road and rolled over, picking Rivers through the windshield.

According to Notre Dame sports information director Roger Valdiserri, Barlow said that the driver of the other car stopped, and he asked the other driver to go for help.

Notre Dame's chemical engineering department has been ranked fourth in the nation in the number of doctoral degrees awarded per faculty member, according to a recent survey by the American Chemical Society. Inflation cited as cause of ND tuition increase

By MIRIAM HILL
Senior Staff Reporter

Once again, Notre Dame students and their parents will have to dig deeper into their pockets to pay for increases in tuition and room and board charges.

In a letter sent to parents in June, the administration announced that its $175,422,180 budget depends on a $780 hike in undergraduate tuition and a $180 increase in room, board and laundry charges. The cost of undergraduate tuition and room, board and laundry will increase by about twice the rate of inflation.

Inflation is projected at 3.7 percent by the end of 1986, but undergraduate tuition will increase by 9.9 percent, to $8,625. Room and board charges will jump by 7.1 percent to $2,725.

Last year, tuition increased by 10.8 percent and room, board and laundry charges by 7.65 percent. Undergraduates are not the only students who will feel the bite of the tuition increases, however. Tuition for both graduate school and M.B.A. school will rise by $855 to $8,305 and $8,605, respectively. Law school tuition will jump by $955 to $9,215.

Increases in salaries and benefits for faculty and staff account for a large portion of the tuition increases, however. Tuition increases will cover the cost of lost revenue from the dining halls and dorms, Mason said.

Mason said the tuition increase will help the University maintain a high quality of education. "We have to have something that is unique," he said. "We have to have a product that people are willing to pay something extra for." The University will try to ease the financial burden on students by raising about $70 million for financial aid over the next five years, Mason said.

ND Board of Trustees modifies investment policy at May meeting

By JOE MURPHY
Observer Staff

In its May 9 meeting, the Notre Dame Board of Trustees modified its stand on investments in companies doing business in South Africa.

The Board also elected Donald Keough, president and chief operating officer of Coca-Cola Company, as its new chairman. Keough succeeds Thomas Carney.

In other action the Board approved a $20 increase in student activity fees, raising it from $35 per academic year to $55 this year.

The full Board has taken no action since the May meeting. The trustees will meet again at their regular fall meeting Nov. 14.

In addition, the Board directed its executive committee and its investment committee to review the South African policy at each meeting and report to the full Board.

The Board also mandated these committees to continue to use every tool of their influence with companies in which the University has investments to support and promote dismantling the system of apartheid and to monitor carefully the performance of such companies. The University has investments of approximately $31.5 million in approximately 90 companies doing business in South Africa.

The change in the Board's position comes after months of debate on the issue of divestment.

University President Farber Theodore Hesburgh has stated publicly his opposition to divestment at this time. The Notre Dame undergraduate student body supported divestment in a referendum held last March, and the Faculty Senate voted for divestment in April.

Last fall, the Board strengthened its policy of selective divestment, a policy it has supported since 1978. The Board declined to endorse total divestment by any particular date, however.

At that time, the Board also adopted provisions which require companies to promote the elimination of apartheid in the whole of South African society.

The University has divested from 11 companies which refused to sign the Sullivan Principles, which are designed only to eliminate apartheid in the workplace.

In addition to naming Keough as its new chairman, the Board also created the position of vice chairman. Andrew McKenna was selected to hold this position.

Keough has served as a trustee since 1978. He was awarded an honorary doctorate of laws degree from the University last year and recently finished serving as chairman of the Sorin Society, an organization which seeks unrestricted giving to Notre Dame.

McKenna, a 1951 Notre Dame graduate, has served as a trustee since 1981. He is director of both the Chicago Bears of the National Football League and the Chicago Cubs major baseball team.

Both Keough and McKenna have two-year terms.

Corby's set for possible reopening

By TRIPP BALTZ

Corby Tavern may reopen if its prospective buyer can get approval from the Board of Zoning Appeals at a hearing at 5:45 today.

Two brothers, Thomas and Robert Przybylinski, plan to set up a restaurant-tavern business at the building located at 1026 Corby Blvd., according to John Gourley, their lawyer.

Gourley said the prospective buyers will need a variance to continue legal non-conforming use of the building.

The tavern has been closed since April 1985. A city ordinance dictates no more than two alcohol-serving establishments may operate within 1,000 feet of one another.

Currently The Commerce and Bridget McGuigan's Filling Station operate nearby. Where Corby, South Bend Avenue, and Eddy intersect.

Corby tavern was allowed to operate for years under a grandfather clause that exempted it from the city ordinance. The Board of Zoning Appeals must approve continued non-conforming use before the tavern can be reopened.

According to Gourley, the prospective owners plan to act as full-time managers of the once-popular student bar.

Much work still needs to be done on the basement area, he said.

Administration fears new Libyan terrorism

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES - President Reagan's top spokesman said yesterday the administration is worried about new terrorist plots by Libya's Moammar Gadhafi, but refused to say whether there is evidence to back up that concern.

Larry Speakes said Libya still has the capability to commit terror acts, and warns them to be fully aware that our policy is unchanged. He sought to discount speculation that the United States is waging a war of nerves with the Libyan strongman.

Our goal is to prevent Gadhafi from doing things, not to provoke him into doing things, the spokesman told reporters covering Reagan's three-day visit here in the midst of the president's West Coast summer vacation.

But Speakes also refused to spell out any intelligence-source evidence of new plots, saying only that the United States is dealing with realities in this situation.

A senior administration official had said there is hard evidence that the Libyan government has been planning and seeking to execute terror acts ... since the U.S. bombing of Libya on April 15.

But other officials at the White House and State Department, who also were speaking only when granted anonymity, insisted that there was no such compelling evidence.

"We don't have evidence, not of any recent attack directed at us or that we are about to confront with real urgency," "said the State Department official. "There is a lot of information of targeting, but it is not unequivocal, which is the standard we have set for ourselves."

H-Bomb 'accidentally' dropped 29 years ago

Associated Press

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. - A 42,000-pound hydrogen bomb accidentally fell from an Air Force plane 29 years ago, it was disclosed yesterday, but officials said there never was any chance of a nuclear explosion.

No one was injured when the bomb hit an uninhabited area south of Kirtland Air Force Base's control tower on May 22, 1957, the Albuquerque Journal reported in a copyright story.

The bomb crashed a crater about 12 feet deep and 25 feet in diameter, and minor radioactive contamination was detected there, government documents obtained by the Journal said.

Non-nuclear explosives must be used to create a nuclear explosion, said Rich Caferelli, associate rector of Sacred Heart University in 1973. He also holds a master's degree in theology from the Catholic University of America.

"The government first reported the accident in 1981 in a brief release saying only that a nuclear weapon of some kind had been dropped. The documents obtained by the Journal through the Freedom of Information Act contain the first public description of the type of weapon involved and other details of the accident."

Cafarelli resigns post over summer

Father Francis Cafarelli resigned his post as assistant vice president for student services during the summer. He will pursue studies at St. John's College, Annapolis, Maryland.

Vice President Father David Tyson chose Father Peter Rocca, a 1970 graduate of Notre Dame, to succeed Cafarelli. Rocca received a master's degree in theology from the University in 1973. He also holds degrees in liturgical music and studies from the Catholic University of America.

Ordained in 1974, Rocca has served as assistant pastor of Saint Ignatius Church in Austin, Texas, associate rector of Sacred Heart Church at Notre Dame, and staff member at Morau Seminary. He is a member of the Provincial Council of the United States Province of the Congregation of the Holy Cross.
LAS VEGAS - USX Corp.'s chief contract negotiator told 22,000 steelworkers their fellow union members are working under terms not as good as our last offer.

"The truth is that the wage and benefit proposal we made is beyond the reach of most industrial workers in our own country, much less abroad," USX executive vice president J. Bruce Johnston said in a letter released by the company yesterday in Pittsburgh.

United Steelworkers members have been off the job since their contract expired July 31, and except for rallies in the press, the two sides have not communicated since then.

"The USX letter ignores the problems the company created by willfully violating the agreement during the past three years," said USW treasurer James McGonigle.

The union's chief bargainer with the nation's largest steelmaker.

"Thousands of our members have lost their jobs as a direct result of contracting out and the unnecessary use of overtime by the company," he said in Las Vegas at the USX's biennial constitutional convention.

The use of non-union contractors to work in USX plants has emerged as the biggest stumbling block to a settlement.

"If money were the only issue, we'd be back on the job already," one top union official said privately in Las Vegas.

Johnston cited wage and benefit concessions the USW granted to LTV Steel Co., Bethlehem Steel Corp., and Inland Steel Corp., the second-, third- and fourth-largest largest producers, and to sixth-ranked National Steel Corp.

"Those competitors are now taking our jobs as aggressively as they can," Johnston said in his first letter to employees since Aug. 1.

"Our biggest competitor (LTV) now has your work in his mills under a direct assault," he said.

Union leaders point out that the four recent settlements contain strong new language curtailing the use of non-union contractors. They say USX is making a direct assault on the union's existence by demanding unbilled authority to farm out USW positions.

Johnston said the company offered an hourly wage scale from $9.50 to $14.20, plus incentive pay, premiums for Sunday work, shift work, overtime and holidays and 30 other benefits items.

"No one likes to take less — its only human to want more — but in the steel business where losses and bankruptcies keep mounting, the package we presented was the very best which conditions permit, one few employers can match," Johnston said.

"The biggest competitor (LTV) now has your work in his mills under a direct assault," he said.

Dear Notre Dame Men and Women:

Welcome back. I can tell from the look on so many faces here that you all had a wonderful summer and are glad to be back, even though that means missing the books again. The summer will be over fairly quickly when the first classes begin and then there will be excitement of another kind in the air.

Governor John Gilligan and his wife and Father Bill Beauchamp and I travelled around the world this summer by way of Moscow and Beijing in connection with our new institution for International Peace Studies. We had great meetings in Moscow and Beijing and secured the cooperation of the Russian and Chinese Academies of Science in our project to bring young Russians and Chinese, as well as British, French, Japanese, and Americans, here for a year as Peace Fellows. We also secured the acceptance of two of the top scientists in each academy to serve on our International Advisory Board for the Institute.

I would like to add to the welcome above a special word to seniors who will become very nostalgic as their final year at Notre Dame progresses. To the juniors, you are only halfway to graduation, so you're not so many faces here that you all had a wonderful summer and are glad to be back, even though that means missing the books again. The summer will be over fairly quickly when the first classes begin and then there will be excitement of another kind in the air.

To all of you, including our graduate students as well, may I say that you are in my Man daily for all blessings during this next school year which will be my final one as President. It is a sobering thought that I will be 70 years old next May and will have spent exactly half of my life in this exciting post. Much of the joy has come from long generations of students who seem to get on better as the years pass. They always were great.

Again, welcome back and have a great year.

Ever dedeovally in Notre Dame,
Benjamin H. Easby, C.S.C.

Hesburgh welcomes students’ return to ND

An effective Viewpoint dependent on its readers

In drawing up a list of the top ten phrases used by Notre Dame students, leading the list is "they are all alike." It is said in terms of dorm appearance and dress, background and opinion, the average student is thinking, but rather what each individual feels about a particular view.

In writing a viewpoint, it is necessary to allow the organization's name to be used in the article. This is necessary, but not sufficient. It should be noted that the name is not the only number to the times an individual appears in print. The only number that counts is the number of times an individual appears in print. The number is the number of times an individual appears in print. The only number that counts is the number of times an individual appears in print. The number is the number of times an individual appears in print. The number is the number of times an individual appears in print. The number is the number of times an individual appears in print.

Regular columnists and members of the editorial board are also required to have their columns appear in the Viewpoint section as the editor. The status of such individuals is determined by the editorial board. House editorials appear in the Viewpoint section as the editor. Scott Barber but wait, there’s more

On the surface, the stereotype probably has some merit. Take a walk down the quad and you will see a lot of similarity. However, in two years at Notre Dame, I have learned that not everyone thinks alike and fortunately, these differing opinions are heard verbally in classrooms, dressing rooms, and dorm rooms. One of the best examples in seeing the different interests and concerns at Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s is the very section you are reading, Viewpoint. This is a viewpoint on viewpoint.

The Viewpoint pages do not reflect what the average student is thinking, but rather what each individual feels about a particular issue. The goal of the editorial department this year is to have more individuals contribute their views to our newspaper so that the pages will be more representative of the student body. Our goal is to get as many students as possible involved in various areas as there are on the campus.

Last year over 500 letters and 300 columns from students, faculty, administrators, and concerned individuals appeared in Viewpoint. In these 900 comments there were many thoughts from students, faculty, administrators, and concerned individuals. These individuals decided that their opinions made a difference. Viewpoints would like to continue the quality of well-written, accurate, interesting columns and letters. Quality translates into credibility, which is our main objective. The department is more than willing to work with any interested individual who has a statement to make.

The 800 commentaries printed last year are a significant number, however, the Viewpoint has a circulation of 12000 individual daily. If the Viewpoint pages are really to reflect the opinions of Notre Dame/Saint Mary’s community, more input must be received. Viewpoints must achieve a greater quantity of letters and columns in order to be an open forum which shows how diverse the student body is.

A Blistering Commitment: to nuclear disarmament takes its toll on the feet

features editor

Will world peace be achieved if 600 people torture their feet for nine months? Not likely, members of the Great Peace March for Global Nuclear Disarmament admitted during a two-night stopover on the outskirts of the Notre Dame campus. The march, which has gained nationwide publicity since its beginning March 1 in Los Angeles, made camp last Saturday on White Field, adding a surprising splash of color to the normally nondescript area.

"I think if (the march) is going to do anything, it's going to serve to raise consciousness," Chris Haygeman, a member of the march, said.

The nine-month walking tour of the United States will end Nov. 15 in Washington, D.C. Although most marchers are realistic about the movement's ability to achieve global nuclear disarmament, John Stephens, another member of the march, put the chance most succinctly: it's one way or the other, man. There's no right or wrong way to get blown up.

The routine for the marchers is set but tiresome. After walking all day, the group usually sets up camp in the next town, eats dinner and then goes to bed. The reaction of the people in the towns is what makes the round worthwhile, Haygeman said. "People are already inclined to be for us. Overall the reactions have been incredible. People will come out and thank us for what we're doing," she said.

"The power of this movement is we're not legislators, we're not big power people, we're human beings just like everybody else. And that's what it's going to take, individual telling people to come out and say 'No, this has to stop. We can't put up with this threat,'" Stephens said. Although there are currently between 600 and 700 people participating in the march, the original plan called for 5,000 participants — including celebrities — in an effort to raise $20 million in donations. "We didn't quite get the corporate support we had hoped for," Stephens said. "Right now it really is a grass-roots thing."

"We have 600 marchers, but probably ten times that many people who are really actively involved with the march as far as raising money and publicity are concerned," Kent Johnson, a friend of Stephens', said.

The project has survived many other problems since its beginning, the most adverse being the bankruptcy of its funding corporation, Peacepeak, three weeks after the march began. Peacepeak's bankruptcy left the marchers stranded in the middle of the Mojave Desert.

"We just watched everything go away as we were sitting in the middle of the desert," Haygeman said. "And it was so cold outside you couldn't leave your tent after 6:30 in the evening."

Fortunately the legal questions were straightened out and other corporate donations were collected, enabling the march to continue on its way. Since then the march has caught up with its schedule, averaging 15 to 25 miles a day.

"Except for a few punks with spiked pink hair and even some 'normal' looking people, entering the Peace March compound was like going through a time-warp back to the '60s. The Notre Dame students who ventured into the camp found a thriving — albeit fringe — culture that many may believe had died out with the passing of flair jeans.

When The Void, a local South Bend band, set up its equipment and began playing a selection of rock 'n' roll classics, the camp became a real spectacle as many of the marchers gathered around to dance. The costume of the evening consisted mainly of tie-dyed shirts and worn jeans, leather sandals and long hair — one man even wore his blood hair in dreadlocks.

Some of the younger men swang little kids around in circles by their hands and feet while the rest of the crowd either danced, ate in salad dinner or just watched. Having the band was a special event for the group, which usually doesn't have entertainment at campsites.

To South Bend observers then it might seem that the marchers do nothing but party. But for many, committing themselves to the march required a major upheaval in their lives. "I just graduated from college, so it's really easy for me," Johnson said. "But a lot of people had to give up good jobs and sell their houses. Some have even brought their entire families along."

One marcher who relinquished her job for the march is Peggy Leggett, a waitress from southern California who is making the march accompanied by her 7-year-old son. Although Leggett has managed to get her old job back at the end of the march, she is sacrificing nine months of salary for her commitment. "It's worth the trouble if we can educate even a few people about the tremendous dangers of nuclear weapons," Leggett said.

Having her child along has not been much of an inconvenience, Leggett said. "I've had trouble (with my son) only because we're on the move so much. It's hard to keep a routine going. But overall he loves it here," she said.

Although on their rest days most marchers don't do too much walking, many found time to tour the campus. "The campus is wonderful," Leggett said. "And you have those cafeterias. I don't really miss beds, but chairs — having a place to sit where there's no bugs or anything like that is great."

Rollin and Martha Rothaar have three children and seven grandchildren. Despite their ages (Rollin is 41 and Martha is 69), the Rothaars are making the march for the sake of their grandchildren and all the young people in the world who are inheriting the problem of nuclear destruction.

"We've been active in the peace movement for years, which is an education program that tries to press the idea that war is obsolete and that we have to find a better way to solve disputes between countries," Martha said. "We felt the Peace March was an important first step."

For the Rothaars, however, the march is not all work and no play. After the South Bend stop they took a short vacation to visit their family in Indiana. The Rothaars are originally from the area, and Martha spent a year in Warsaw visiting the church were she graduated from high school. Visiting family is one simple privilege of life that the Rothaars feel they are preserving in an age they view as being increasingly distant and destructive.

Boilermaker quarterback situation is decided now
Associated Press

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. - Freshman quarterback Jeff George will start for Purdue in the Boilermakers' season opener Sept. 13 against Ball State, Coach Leon Burnett said yesterday.

We felt we had to make the decision quickly so that Jeff could get the required number of snaps with the No. 1 unit prior to the opener, Burnett said. Not taking anything away from the other two, but he's the best ... outstanding. He can make the big plays for us.

George was rated the No. 1 high school player in the country last year after he led Indianapolis Warren Central to the state 5A football championship.

He edged out four-year juniors Doug Downing and Jeff Huber, who already have played under the shadow of Jim Everett during their college careers.

They took it real well, Burnett said of Downing and Huber. And both said they will continue to compete with Jeff for the starting job, as well as do everything they can to make this a better football team.

George set national prep passing records for completions and attempts in leading Warren to a 5-2 record over three years. For his career, he threw for 94 touchdowns and more than 8,000 yards.

The driver said he would and left the scene. The identity of the other driver has yet to be determined. The Elkhart County Sheriff's office yesterday said that the case was still under investigation.

Barlow, who received minor lacerations and was released the same morning, was able to go to a nearby house and call for an ambulance which responded to the scene approximately 20 minutes later.

As far as I'm concerned, Ken Barlow avoided what could have been a major catastrophe," said Irish head basketball coach Digger Phelps. First, he managed to avoid what could have been a head-on collision. Second, he did what needed to be done to get help for David Rivers once the accident had taken place. He handled the situation, and that's all you can ask for when something like that occurs."

Rivers was taken to Elkhart General and was in surgery for three hours to remove gravel, dirt, grass and other debris from the wound.

X-rays showed that there was no damage to vital organs. Graves big- gest fear was that infection would set in.

Doctors said they believe Rivers will be able to play this season but not before late November. The problem for Rivers, who averaged 16.7 points per game and handed out 138 assists for the Irish last year, is maintaining his eligibility. According to Notre Dame associate sports information director John Heisler, Rivers has a number of options open to him.

First, he could try and keep up while he's out of class and be able to play as soon as he was physically capable.

Second, if he were unable to take classes, Rivers would be ineligible to play basketball this season. He would regain his eligibility as soon as this semester ended.

Finally, in a worst-case scenario, if Rivers was unable to play this season, Heisler indicated that Rivers would be eligible to red-shirt.

While Notre Dame athletes must take at least 12 credit hours to be able to play, Heisler said that there is a chance that Rivers could be given a waiver to take fewer class hours and still maintain eligibility.

Tim Simon, a former Notre Dame football player from 1973-75, was granted such a waiver after suffering a severe eye injury.

According to Heisler, Notre Dame academic advisor Mike DeCicco was to meet with Rivers and Phelps some time this week to discuss the situation.

David is registered for 15 hours this semester," said Phelps. "We just have to wait and see when the doctors give us permission to do anything with him in terms of academics. In some ways, it could be a blessing because he'll have plenty of time for his school work once he gets the OK."

"As far as basketball, I'm not concerned about that right now."

Christie wins first gold for U.K. in track meet

Associated Press

STUTTGART, West Germany - Linlith Christie, a 26-year-old youth worker from Jamaica, won the men’s 100-meter dash yesterday, giving Britain its first gold medal in the European Track and Field Championships.

Christie overcame a slow start in scoring an impressive victory in 10.15 seconds. Steffen Bringmann of East Germany was second in 10.20 and Bruno Marie-Rose of France third in 10.21.

East Germany’s Marlies Gohr won the women’s 100-meter dash in 11.91, for the first of two East German golds on the day.

Gohr marched the fastest time of the year which Evelyn Ashtin of the United States and East German Heike Drechsler had set at Moscow in July.

Anelia Niestova of Bulgaria was a surprising second in 11.05 and Nelli Cooman of the Netherlands third in 11.08.

Drechsler, the world record holder in the women’s long jump, gave the East Germans their second gold, leaping 25 feet, 10 ½ inches. Drechsler is expected to win three golds during the championships, adding the 200 and the women’s 100-meter relay to the long jump.

Galina Chistyakova of the Soviet Union won second at 23-7 ¼ and Helga Rude of East Germany third at 23-7.

The other golds on the second day of competition went to Klaus Tafelmeier of West Germany in the men’s javelin at 278-1 and Jozef Pribilince of Czechoslovakia in the men’s 20-kilometer walk in 1:21:15.

Tafelmeier set a European best with a new javelin, approved this season. His mark was second in the world only to the 280-1 by Tom Pernolot of the United States.

Zealous Becker defeats Canadian, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2

Associated Press

NEW YORK - Wimbledon champion Boris Becker brushed back a surprisingly strong challenge from Canada's Glenn Michibata on Monday, advancing into the second round of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

Unlike Tuesday's opening day, when four-time champion John McEnroe was ousted, there were no major upsets in yesterday's early matches.

Also posting first-round victories in the men's singles on the hard courts at the National Tennis Center were second-seeded Mats Wilander, No. 4 Stefan Edberg and No. 11 Mikael Pernfors, all from Sweden.

In women's singles, advancing into the second round in early matches were second-seeded Chris Evert Lloyd, a six-time U.S. Open champion; No. 3 Steffi Graf of West Germany; No. 5 Pam Shriver; No. 7 Helena Sukova of Czechoslovakia, and No. 13 Stephanie Rehe.

Playing under leaden skies with a threat of rain, Becker, the 18-year old West German redhead, defeated Michibata 6-2, 5-7, 6-4, 6-2 as the Canadian Davis Cup player put up a courageous battle on the Stadium Court. But Becker had just too many weapons, especially his big serve.

Becker broke Michibata, a former Pepperdine University student, in the third game of the opening set, then broke him again in the seventh game. Both times, Michibata had battled to deuce on his own serve.

But the Canadian right-hander, ranked 95th in the world, found the passing lanes in the second set as the two traded groundstrokes from the baseline.

Michibata earned the first service break in the second set, in the eighth game. Becker broke right back, but Michibata, leading 6-5, closed out the set when he broke Becker's serve at love.

Although Becker controlled the match after that, he had to fight hard for every point. For example, in the final set, Becker launched himself to his left, looking for the airborne backhand volley that has become his trademark. But this time, Michibata's forehand passing shot down the line glanced off the end of Becker's racket.

I see these guys coming home from practice tired and I wonder how they make it through their classes. I'm going to study hard and get smarter so I'm ready next fall.

Until then, Foley and his two classmates keep their scholarships but are not allowed to practice, film sessions or any other team activities. And while the football and basketball teams will certainly miss their services, you won't get any arguments from Notre Dame coaches about the importance of academics at the college level.

"They're fine young men and very intelligent," explained Holtz. "I'm sure they'll vindicate themselves in the classroom."

Stone scores as Phils beat Dodgers

Associated Press

Phils 2, Dodgers 1

LOS ANGELES - Jeff Stone scored from second base in a collision at home plate on Von Hayes' two-out single in the ninth inning as the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 2-1 yesterday.

Rookie left-hander Bruce Ruf- fin, 7-3, allowed five hits over eight innings for his fourth consecutive victory. Steve Bedosnik pinch hit the ninth inning to earn his 19th save.

Stone, who reached first on a one-out fielding error by Dodger shortstop Dave Anderson, stole second on a 3-4 pitch to Milt Thompson, who eventually struck out. Hayes then lined a single to left field and Stone scored when he knocked the throw from outfielder Bill Russell out of catcher Alex Trevino's glove.

Los Angeles starter Bob Welch, 6-10, allowed nine hits while walking three and striking out 10.

Carda 2, Braves 1

ST. LOUIS - Rick Mahler walked Terry Pendleton with the bases loaded in the eighth inning; last night to force in the run that gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 2-1 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Vince Coleman singled to lead off and scored on a wild pitch. Mahler, 11-14, who has lost nine of 10 decisions since June 30, intentionally walked Willie McGee, Tom Herr grounded out and Andy Van Slyke was intentionally walked to load the bases. Mahler walked Pendleton on a 3-2 pitch.

Todd Worrell, 8-9, got the final seven outs in relief of John Tudor, who left with a stiff left shoulder. Tudor allowed eight hits, walked four and struck out four.

Blue Jays 3, Indians 2

CLEVELAND - Ernie Whitt's leadoff home run in the 12th inning gave the Toronto Blue Jays a 3-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians in the first game of a doubleheader last night.

Whitt hit the homer on a 2-2 pitch from Byron Oelker, giving the victory to Mark Eichhorn. Eichhorn, 11-4, allowed only one hit, striking out three and walking one in 4 2-3 innings. Tom Henke finished up for his 19th save.

Oelker, 2-3, gave up the one run on three hits in three innings.

Reds 9, Pirates 5

PITTSBURGH - Eric Davis hit the first grand slam of his major league career with two outs in the ninth inning to break a 5-5 tie and give Cincinnati a 9-5 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates. It was the Reds' fifth straight win and ninth in 10 games.

Don Robinson, 2-3, opened the ninth by allowing a single to Ron Oester and walking pinch hitter Max Venable. After Cal Daniels sacrificed, Buddy Bell walked to load the bases. Dave Parker struck out and Davis followed by hitting Robinson's first pitch deep into left- field. Sarns for his 22nd home run.

Rob Murphy, 2-0, pitched three shutout innings of two-hit relief.

White Sox 3, K.C. 1

CHICAGO - Ron Karkovice, playing in only his ninth game in the majors, hit a three-run home run to power Floyd Bannister and the Chicago White Sox to a 1-1 victory last night over the Kansas City Royals.

Bannister, 8-10, allowed six hits in working his fourth complete game and helping the White Sox snap a five-game losing streak. Ban­ nister struck out five. Danny Jack­ son, 9-9, was the loser.

Karkovice's second-inning blast was his first in the major leagues after hitting 20 this season with Class AA Birmingham. Russ More­ man and Ozzie Guillen had singled to start the inning.

Giants 3, Expos 2

SAN FRANCISCO - Bobby Thompson need not have the winning run on third base when his hit and walk and two-out single scored 5 runs in relief of the San Francisco Giants to a 3-2 victory over the Montreal Expos.

Pinch-hitter Don Gadden opened the eighth with a walk and a one-out single. After Gadden was out, Nellie Fox walked and Terry Harmon was intentionally walked to load the bases. Stan English followed with an RBI single.

Kelly Downs pitched a scoreless inning of relief and Bill Campbell picked up the save.

McGaffigan is now 8-5.

Proposition 48 affects incoming Irish athletes

By MARTY STRASSEN
Associated Press

In an effort to make college football players students before athletics, the NCAA put into effect Proposition 48 on Aug. 1.

Now, less than a month later, the consequences of the new legislation are becoming evident through two university teams and their freshmen at the University of Notre Dame.

Irish football players Tony Rice and John Foley, as well as Keith Robinson of the Notre Dame basketball team, have been declared ineligible to participate in varsity athletics until August of 1997, because of their failure to achieve minimum scores on the SAT and ACT standardized tests.

"During recruiting we looked at academic standing, grades and course load, and we thought they would do well on the test," said Notre Dame head football coach Lou Holtz." Some people don't rest well, the tall semester Notre Dame head football coach Holtz. "I've been dedared freshmm through thmthall players students before Proposition -lH incoming Irish athletes Proposition 48 affects against Alabama Classic last night. "I considered taking the ACT in September or October before playing spring ball, he said. It bothered me at first and I was pretty mad, but I came around. My degree is important to come to Notre Dame since the second grade, and I'm here for an education first.

I never even considered junior college, I decided I'd come here this fall and meet the people I'll be dealing with. It's better this way."

Problem stemming from concerns in last fall's construction of the Rolf's Aquatic Center have forced the facility to temporarily close.

The closing, which took place on July 20, is only temporary, according to Director of Aquatics Dennis Stark, who hopes to reopen the pool in the near future.

Stark met today with a representative of Paddock Pool, the company responsible for the construction problems.

"I hope to reopen a day when we can re-open the facility," Stark said.

Stark and his staff directed errors in the pool's construction shortly after the Center was dedicated on Nov. 15.

"We noticed at the very beginning that there were problems with the swimming blocks," Stark said. "Other problems with the construction of the movable bulkheads evolved throughout the season."

"The movable bulkheads, two pieces of equipment designed for flexibility, allow Stark and his staff to divide the pool into one, two or three sections.

Horizontal compartments within these heads developed a leak, according to Stark, and quickly filled with water.

This complication, in addition to fulfill injuries on the bulk heads which suddenly leaked, caused great difficulty in moving the equipment.

The company could not begin working on the problems until July 21, because we were continually using the pool, Stark said.

Fifth-ranked Alabama defeats Ohio State, 16-10

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. - Mike Shula, mythical for most of the game by Ohio State's defense, flipped a three-yard touchdown pass to Albert Bell with 9:11 remaining to give fifth-ranked Al­abama a 16-10 victory over the No. 9 Buckeyes in the fourth annual kickoff Classic last night.

Ohio State had two chances to win the game after the second quarter, when consecutive pass interference penalties against Alabama linebacker Derrick Thomas. But two Alabama defenders double-teamed Ohio State's star receiver Craig Carter in the end zone, and a late gap 17-yard pass from Jim Kuroton was incomplete.

The winning 73-yard drive, which took 12 plays, ate up 5:16 on the clock and put Alabama ahead 11-10, came after Ohio State blew several opportunities to increase a 10-6 lead it had built on Slanker Jamie Holland's 26-yard touchdown run midway through the second period and freshman Pat O'Morrow's 37-yard field goal halfway through the third quarter.

George Cooper, the Buckeyes' fullback, fumbled at the Alabama 9-yard line with five minutes left in the third period and O'Morrow was short on a 27-yard field goal attempt 11 seconds into the final quarter.

Van Tiffin provided Alabama's final margin with his third field goal, a 26-yarder with 1:02 remaining. Tiffin also connected from 38 yards in the first period and 31 in the second quarter to give the Crimson Tide a 6-0 lead.

The opening game of the season attracted a crowd of 68,295 to Giants Stadium - about 8,500 short of capacity to see the second meeting ever between two of the nation's strongest schools in college football history.

For three periods they witnessed an expected defensive game, with both offenses struggling.

But Shula took the Crimson Tide on two long drives in the final quarter that kept the ball away from Ohio State, which had possession for only four scrimmage plays, a punt and a muffed field goal try in the first 11 minutes of the final period.
