Hickey cherishes mission of Saint Mary’s

BY MARGIE KERSTEN

William Hickey, who will be inaugurated Sunday as the ninth president of Saint Mary’s, said he would like to be remembered for enhancing and enriching the values in Saint Mary’s students.

Hickey has more than 25 years with the College in administrative and teaching positions. Hickey was named president in February of last year.

Upon his appointment, Hickey said, "To be asked to lead the institution that not only stands as one of the nation’s best undergraduate colleges for women, but which has also provided me with so many personal challenges and rewards, is both an honor and a privilege."

Hickey said he thinks the upcoming inaugural weekend is something that goes beyond the office of president -- a new beginning for the College. "I've tried to remain emotionally detached. But I am not really going more personally involved and excited."

Hickey said $40,000 has been spent on the various festivities surrounding the inauguration and Hickey said the majority of the money was spent on food and the printing of invitations, tickets and signs. The College has a separate budget for the inauguration, Hickey said.

He said because every student, faculty member, administrator, staff member and alumnus of Saint Mary's received an invitation, the College expects a full house in O'Laughlin auditorium for the inauguration. The auditorium holds approximately 1,300.

When plans were started for the weekend, Hickey said the inaugural committee asked how many people would attend.

SMC students receive obscene phone calls

BY RACHEL JAROSH

Several students at Saint Mary's College have received obscene phone calls from a man claiming to be conducting a survey, according to Richard Chlebeck, director of Saint Mary's Security.

The caller has pretended to be a representative of Parenting for the National Educational Association, Chlebeck said, adding that the calls were similar to those received by Saint Mary's students last year.

"It's likely that the same person is behind Saint Mary's students," said Chlebeck.

One harassed student, who requested anonymity, said the caller began with questions regarding her age, hometown, and number of brothers and sisters.

According to the student, the caller then began asking sexual questions.

"She said the caller asked how she felt about pre-natal sex and and informed if a man had ever seen her in the natural state, which she assumed to mean penis," said Chlebeck.

"When I answered, it's none of your business, he simply said, 'Okay and went on. I should have hung up,'" said Chlebeck.

The Notre Dame Security has not received complaints of similar calls, according to security investigators Anne Schellinger.

"I think that last year an individual conducted a false survey over the phone," said Schellinger.

"The male individual would call and say he was conducting a survey on grade school sex education," said Schellinger.

"The male individual who would call and say he was conducting a survey on grade school sex education," said Schellinger.

"One individual had no business, he simply said, 'Okay and went on. I should have hung up,'" said Chlebeck.

The caller rarely harassed the same student twice.

Chlebeck recently sent a letter to Saint Mary's students describing the nature of the obscene calls and recommending steps to take against such calls.

South Bend Mayor Roger Parent has proclaimed "Saint Mary’s College Weekend in South Bend" in conjunction with the activities surrounding the inauguration of William Hickey as the ninth president of Saint Mary's on Sunday.

Sister Madonna Murphy, Chair of the College's Board of Regents, will install Hickey as President at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in O'Laughlin Auditorium. The public is invited to attend the event. A reception will follow the inaugural ceremony at 4 p.m. in the LeMans Courtyard.

The weekend’s events will begin at 5 tonight with student dinner in the Dining Hall, where Hickey will speak momentarily at 7. Also during the dinner, Hickey will present a sculpture designed by Saint Mary's student Michele Chlebeck, said Student Body President Joanne Heller.

Following the dinner, Heller said 1400 blue and white balloons will be released outside. Those who postcard returns from the farthest distance by Oct. 1 will win a brunch for two at Tippicanoe Place Restaurant with Hickey and his wife.

A 412-pound Polish sausage that its stuffers claim will feed 2,000 people is reprising this weekend over the 13th annual World Kielbasa Festival in Chichester, Mass. The four-day ethnic festival with non-stop polka music annually attracts more than 50,000 people to this most Polish of the state's cities. It began yesterday. Undoubtedly this has got to be the biggest, said Jerry Patyka, vice president of the Chichester Provi- sion Co., which prepared the festival's King Sausage. Well, maybe. This year's King Kielbasa, which stretches 26 feet 3 inches, tops last year's 307-pound Chichester effort by a considerable margin. But a Milwaukee company last year claimed the record with a 425-pound sausage for a Polish Festival there. - AF

Awareness of student rights is goal of Judicial Council

By MARK MELLET
Staff Reporter

"Students are not properly aware of their rights or of the function of the Judicial Council," said Coordinator Maria Cintron, speaking last night at the first meeting of the council this year.

The student body lacks a source that clearly explains what punishments are possible when a violation occurs and what can be done, said Cintron.

Cintron said she thinks one of the major problems is that students don't know their rights.

Cintron added that she wanted to publicize what students can do when they have a problem.

"Using a $2,450 budget, the council plans to inform students of their rights by publishing a Student Rights Manual," said Cintron.

"The manual will list violations, possible punishments and persons to contact if there is a problem," she said. Cintron added that the council plans to distribute the manual to each dorm room.

"The purpose of last night's meeting was to orientate members to the functions of the council," said Cintron. She indicated that most of the 24 members who represent the dorms are new.

In addition to better informing students of their rights, Holy Cross council member Paul O'Connell said the image of the council has to be improved.

O'Connell said students see council members setting punishments and don't see them as there to help.

To inform students of his rights and to improve the image of the council, O'Connell suggested that the council change students' perception that members work only behind closed doors.

O'Connell added that he plans to increase student awareness in Holy Cross by meeting with freshmen on a one-on-one basis.

invited by Hickey include Sister Francis Bernard, the superior general of the Sisters of the Holy Cross, Sister Roseanne Schultze, Chair of the Board of Regents, who will give the benediction, and George Craig, the Clark professor of Biology at Notre Dame, who Hickey worked under for his doctorate.

Hickey first came to the College in 1960 as a biology instructor. In 1969, he was the recipient of the College's Spes Unica Award, presented annually to honor a faculty member for excellence in teaching and dedicated service. After his promotion to professor in 1970, he became Biology Department chairman in 1971, which he held until his appointment to vice president for academic affairs in May of 1972.

After serving as acting president in 1974-75, he was named vice president and dean of faculty. After the resignation of President John Duggan, Hickey again was named acting president.

Hickey grew up in Stroudsburg, Penn., and received his bachelor's degree from King's College, Wilkes-Barre, Penn. He earned master's and doctoral degrees from Notre Dame.

Investigators seek suspect in cyanide-laced soup death

Associated Press

RUNNEMEDE, N.J. - A man who died from cyanide-laced Lipton Cup-A-Soup his mother brought to soothe his upset stomach could have been a random victim, but investigators also looked yesterday for someone out to get him or the store.

Everybody at this point is a suspect, the county prosecutor said.

The death was the sixth from product tampering this year, but the first related to a food product since the wave of tamperings began with cyanide-filled Tylenol capsules in 1982.

Camden County Prosecutor Samuel Asbell said there was enough cyanide in the body of Louis Denber to kill a horse and the case is being investigated as a homicide. He said no possibility has been ruled out, however.

It all points to a product tampering, said Larry Hics, a spokesman for the soup's maker, Thomas J. Lipton Inc., based in Englewood Cliffs. He and the prosecutor said the tampering appeared to be localized and, while it did not appear to have occurred during the manufacturing or company's storage.

The box, purchased at the Shop'n Bag store in this southern New Jersey suburb about 10 miles southeast of Philadelphia, had been punctured and the envelope still intact, authorities said.

No poison was detected in approximately 100 Cup-A-Soup boxes with the same code number, 6C-13-GGF-8, pulled from the shelves of the store where the food was purchased.

Mr. Denber, 27, worked as an electronics technician for RCA Corp. in Camden. He had no problems with his neighbors or his employer as far as we can tell," the prosecutor said.

There have been no calls claiming responsibility or making threats, nor indication of any retribution against the store or the individual, said Dennis Wieted, the first assistant county prosecutor.

Cyanide was found in the empty foil packet the victim's mother picked from a garbage can and brought to the prosecutor's office and in a second unopened packet in the box, Asbell said.

Non-aligned movement is ‘farce,’ says Gadhafi

Associated Press

HARRARE, Zimbabwe - Libyan leader Moammar Gadhafi yester­day denounced fellow members of the non-aligned movement as puppets and vowed to undertake all types of terrorist acts to defeat the United States.

Delegations to the non-aligned summit sat in stunned silence as Gadhafi described their organi­zation as useless and an interna­tional farce.

Gadhafi paused twice during his 75-minute speech to allow four young Libyan women in bat­tle fatigues to chant down­town U.S.A.

Gadhafi between Prime Minister Robert Mugabe, who will head the movement for the next three years, delivered a careful response, saying not all of us would agree with Gadhafi.

Delegations from the Ivory Coast, Cameroon and Zaïre issued protests after Gadhafi called their countries puppets because they have ties with Libya’s arch-enemy, Israel.

Gadhafi said the movement did not do enough to support Libya after the United States bombed two Libyan cities April 15. President Reagan has said the attack was in retaliation for Libya’s alleged support of interna­tional terrorism.

Gadhafi threatened to withdraw from the movement unless all of its members severed diplomatic ties with the United States and Britain which allowed U.S. warplanes to use its bases for the attack.

I want to say goodbye, farewell to this funny movement, to this failure farewell to this utter fali­sehood, Gadhafi said. Asked after the speech whether that meant Libya had left the move­ment, Gadhafi said: “not yet.” Gadhafi vowed to defeat the United States.

I shall counter it with an interna­tional army. I shall undertake then all types of terrorist acts … I shall not leave any stone un­turned in the war to defeat this American empire, said Gadhafi.

He claimed Libya was under siege by 50 U.S. warships off its coast and tens of thousands of U.S. troops.

This shall never make Libya stop from the continuation of the bat­tle of freedom and liberation, Gadhafi said.

Gadhafi has overshadowed the non-aligned meeting since he ar­rived Monday with hundreds of bodyguards who were disarmed by Zimbabwean officials and later took to staging anti­American demonstrations out­side the conference center.

The Libyan leader was widely seen as having distracted delegations from the issue of South Africa, which he hopes will dominate the rest of the summit and its final declara­tions.

After his speech, Gadhafi, fol­lowed by photographers, strode through corridors at the confer­ence center to meet with Presi­dent Afrikaners of South Africa, Presi­dent Fidel Castro of Cuba and Prime Minister Daniel Ortega of Nicaragua.

Regan blocks Nicaraguan relief

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Reagan administration is blocking a private relief agency from send­ing farm tools and other sup­plies to leftist-ruled Nicaragua, a decision denounced by one critic as the politics of hunger.

The administration refused an application from Oxfam America, a London-based relief agency, to ship to Nicaragua $41,000 worth of donated and purchased supplies, including plows, seeds, shovels, agricult­ural books, wrenches, chainsaws, hammers and water pipes.

Oxfam officials said John Hammock, Oxfam exec­utive director, said the shipment to two non-governmental agencies in Nicaragua was intended to al­leviate food shortages in the war­torn Central American country which has been the target of a U.S. trade embargo for more than a year.

We are dealing with the politics of hunger, Hammock said in an inter­view Wednesday. This is a clear example of the government playing politics with the poor overseas.

Hammock added that in recent trips to Nicaragua, he had seen the beginning of severe mal­nutrition among children. ... The denial coincides with con­gressional approval of $100 mil­lion in mostly military aid to Nicaraguan Contra rebels who are fighting to overthrow the Sandinista government.

Air controller predicts collisions

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES - Another collision like the one between an Aeromexico DC-9 and a small plane could happen any day of the week because of a dangerous mix of airliners and a small sportscar laying to rest against the stairs and the single-engine Piper that fired a shotgun blast while the DC-9 was visible on radar over Southern California, said an air traffic controller yesterday.

We shouldn’t have blood sacrifices to change safety in the air space, said Anthony Skirlick, a controller trying to organize a union to replace the one dis­solved by President Reagan when he fired 14,000 controllers in a 1981 strike.

Sixty-seven people in the DC-9 and the single-engine Piper Ar­cher died in Sunday’s crash over suburban Central Coast of California, and esti­mates of those dead on the ground have gone as high as 24.

Controllers spokesman Bill Gold said yesterday there was still no confirmed death toll on the ground.

John Lauber, chief inves­tigator for the National Transpor­tation Safety Board, said Wed­nesday the air traffic controller handling Aeromexico Flight 459 doesn’t remember seeing a small blip from the plane that collided with the DC-9, although the small aircraft was visible on radar screens for several minutes.

Lauber said the controller could fall to see the small plane, because he failed to see the aircraft was visible on radar.

It was gross mismanagement of the system. It could happen any day of the week, because they have too many high-speed airplanes with too many small planes flying around, said Skir­lick. They are using admirably laws for planes that go 100 times faster than a boat.

The FAA said there were more than 400 reports of near collisions between aircraft during the first half of 1986, with 114 reported in California.

Lauber, in discussing the ap­parent failure to see the Piper, said the controller also was working a hand-off position in the coastal control radar facility. In the hand-off position, the radar controller transfers incom­ing flights to controllers at the airport tower.

It is not unusual for one con­troller to be working both posi­tions, and the controller consid­ered air traffic to be flight at the time, Lauber said.

Lauber said the Piper had been tracked for about two minutes after entering restricted airspace surrounding Los Angeles Inter­national Airport, and if the Piper pilot had seen the jetliner, two minutes would have been plenty of time to avoid a collision.

Billionaire pledged $4.2 million in effort to get P.O.W. videotape

The Observer

Two members of the restaurant. After the officers stormed the approach a drive-in window in a recent police tactical team found the robbers dead of gunshot wounds. Perot refused to identify who in the government asked him to pursue the matter. Martin Fitzwater, spokesman for Bush, said Wednesday that the vice president discussed the tape with Perot and asked him to take a look at the issues there and see if he thought they were legitimate. But Fitzwater added that I'm sure he (Bush) didn't ask him to make payments. Also involved in the effort was Rep. Bill Hordson, R.R.C., who said Wednesday that he discussed the videotape matter with Bush and that later, the vice president called me and, based on our discussion, I tried to in­struct Mr. Perot in any way I could.

According to a former Army major who first told the story of the tape, the money was on deposit in the Bank of America in Singapore last April when he attempted to obtain photogra­phic evidence that Americans were still being held prisoner. Retired Maj. Maj Smith told the Senate Veterans Affairs Com­mittee last June that he and Hendo­don went to Singapore with in­structions from the Defense Intelligence Agency to offer $4.2 million to Robin Greigton, a British citizen who claimed to have possession of the videotape.

Smith told the committee that Greigton, who also uses the name John Ockay, rejected the offer. "Smith testified that Greigton told him, I didn't ask you for $4.2 million to Robin Greigton, a British citizen who claimed to have possession of the videotape."

The people in Laos were rebel forces fighting the communist government.

The major also told the com­mittee he had seen the tape and that it showed Cagauazians being held prisoner and forced to work in timber and mining operations in northern Laos.

The Defense Department lists 2,441 Americans who did not return from the conflict in South­east Asia. In its monthly tally of reports pertaining to possible POWs, the Defense Intelligence Agency lists 811 cases of alleged sightings of live Americans being held prisoners since the fall of Saigon in 1975.

The latest DIA tally lists 136 of these cases as un­resolved. The agency said the list of POWs is not all-inclusive.

"Perot said of the videotape, Like everything else around the POW-MIA thing, it's a will-o'the­wisp."

The Dallas computer magnate first became involved in the POW issue in 1960 when he attempted to fly to Hanoi to deliver medical supplies and Christmas dinners to American POWs. He also financed a successful 1979 rescue mission to Iran to free two of his employees from a Tehran prison.

BIG news sparks questions to meditate

Father Robert Griffin
Letters to a Lonely God

This is the year of the Big news, and everyone is curious about what is in store for everyone's minds.

In the month of November, it is perhaps in a month when we least expect it, the new leader of Notre Dame will take office. Father Hesburgh will become the President of the University, and we will find that the country is paying close attention to our changing of the guard.

The school year is beginning quietly, and we're excited by the upcoming debut of the new foot­ball coach. Lou Holtz, winning or losing, will not be the all-time big news story coming out of South Bend this fall. With differing levels of excitement, we are waiting for the really Big news. and I'm wondering if the people of the campus, won­dering what's on our minds.

I meet Father Hesburgh on his way to the Grotto, and I'm wonder­ing what he is thinking about playing for? What has he heard, and why is he waiting? Is he in the middle of the workday? Is he here because he's worried, or here because he's curious?

Does he know who will succeed him at President? Does he wish he had a little more time to finish his work, or is he anxious to call it a day as Notre Dame's president, so that he can devote his energies to working for peace?

As you can see, intensity has my imagination working over­time. Father Hesburgh im­presses me as a happy­going, open­minded individual. I find myself waiting for the really Big news, and I'm wondering what's on our minds.

The experiment is to discover how bees use the Earth's mag­netic field to navigate to food sources.

Part of the experiment is a one and a half foot tall wooden plat­form with a glass bottle on the top located between Badin Hall and the South Dining Hall. A sign on the platform asks that the ex­periment not be disturbed.

The bottle is filled with a table sugar and water solution that takes the place of nectar.

The bees use a hierarchy of methods to navigate which in­clude the sun, polarized blue light and landmarks, explained Schmitt.

The pioneer work on bees using the magnetic field to navigate was done by Dr. Karl Von Frisch of Germany. He noted that the bee's figure eight dance to point to a food source was a method related to the Earth's magnetic field, explained Schmitt.

Some people complained that the experiment had been going on too long, that anyone could stung, explained Schmitt.

They're very gentle bees, he said.

Perhaps they would answer: God will build the church to bear the burden. He will bless the work of the one responsible for saying: The buck stops here.

Among the Senators, there must be students to brush enough to say: What makes the differ­ence who the new president is? Nothing will change. Nothing ever changes at Notre Dame. Even if it does, it's too late for us, because we're already out of here.

Sooner or later, when they feel the tremblng of the earth under their feet, they'll know they are wrong. Nothing ever stays the same. The sky above Venice is different than it used to be: pol­tion has diluted the brilliancy of the sunrise. Not even the might­er power of the Roman Catholic Church could hold back the titles signifying the death of empires, the births of nations.

Nowhere is it written that Notre Dame is changeless or deathless. No newly­appointed president of Notre Dame would ever be given as his mandate: hang on to the throne of our university, and we will not accept, or for the office?
The next President may make the Notre Dame degree of such value that it's only wasted. They will be the first to tell us what they're thinking these days. He would be the first to tell us what our mission is, to handle with love and compas­sion.

What are the hopes and reservations of the lay faculty? Our leaders, watching and waiting like the proverbial butterfly, will give us as the new charis­matic leader: What do all the women and men, working in side and outside of the buildings of the campus, think? Who, from the community, do they trust with the mission to the future that the University has?
Research should not interfere with teaching

Campus quote

"While I'm here in school, let me say that more important than any books and exams and tests that I make, the friends I'll come to love and cherish and always remember."

Quoted in Day by Day
Homosexuality rooted in sociological factors

A common assumption floats daily through the halls of Notre Dame's student newspaper, The Observer and it is surprising that no one ever challenges it. This is the universal offhand separation of people into two categories; homosexuals and heterosexuals. As such, a classification is so self-evident as to need no justification.

Chris Julka

This we hear of homosexuals coming out of the closet, as if homosexuality were the natural disposition of these people against which they can do nothing, and this is to go beyond the mere polymegy perversity to which Freuds refers. What is more, homosexuality is a part of our culture, as are the streets in San Francisco, established themselves in a number of universities and will exist in the schools. This is an attempt to spread the cause of gay rights.

By this, what is assumed is that the homosexual's very identity is inseparable from his act of homosexuality, as though homosexuality is the same thing as being a man or woman. Thus at the Dem­ocratic National Convention at San Fran­cisco, Jesse Jackson included the homosexuals into his Rainbow Coalition as an integral part of the movement, and he discovers that he or she is gay, in much the same way that one would discover that he or she was left-handed or had a heart murmur.

But is this really the case? Is there such a thing as being a gay being liberaded and allowed to come out of the closet as the media would have us believe, or are beings who are at bottom simply or­dinary people, being considered that they were born to perform homo­sexual acts? Is it the case that technology of the homophobia of the latter view arc un­doubtedly by the popular media as being heavily more progressive than the actual evidence points in their direction. Con­sequently, the former view resulted. As of yet, there is no valid evidence that sexual aberrations running through generations or among blood relations are not the result of living in similar or identical environments. Thus, despite all of the claims about being born homosexual and hopefully and forever unable to change; absolutely no one has demonstrated that homosexuality results from a genet­ical origin, as do mongolism and myopia, for instance.

In any event, we have no more genes that make one an immoral person, than as a social group? Why not just simply make a law that will not live up to my expectations of it. It did not live up to my expectations of discovering some magical elixir in C. When I was quarter, I was all the wind, over whelmed by a tremendous amount of in­tegral equations, molecular structures, and thermodynamics. It was difficult for me to see the correlation between detailed and complex mathematics and giving a child a booster shot.

in thru the out door

Originally, I came to Notre Dame with intentions of pursuing a career in medicine. Like most freshmen, I found the curriculum to be much more demanding than I had expected. Over the course of the year, I began to realize that the courses were not only my dream, but my family's as well. Would I be giving in to the pressure or making a major decision about my own afflicted future? I felt as if I were caught between a rock and a hard place.

That morning, I ran around frantically dropping off classes and scheduling ones. I held the last drop slip in my hand. I was scared and left a big lump in my throat as I scurried away from the registrar's office. I prayed for type of guidance and listened in the hallway waiting for divine inspiration. Somebody, anybody walk by and tell me not to do it.

To be blunt. I always try to pick it up again next semester if I don't like it. I thought, I'm not giving up my position in my class. I couldn't wait for her to disappear. I had been waiting the entire semester and was slowly growing tired. I had achieved my goal. I had arrived at my current major. Gov­ernment/Philosophy. I am finally comfort­able and acclimated with my decision. By no means had I conquered all of the doubts and fears that I was experiencing. In fact, sometimes I even wonder about what I am doing. When I hear my roommate talk of M.C.A.T's and medical school. Yet this proves in pan that I am capable of dealing with the parenthood of the experimental, but I wouldn't know how to do it.

To all of those who are feeling unsure and dissatisfied with their major, I have no magikal words that will render confirmation. The process of changing or selecting a major is always getting an experience, as it was for me, but it requires a tremendous amount of sacrifice and effort to get a good education. Don't be afraid to follow those gut in­stincts that you feel. In the end, you may find that the degree you choose is a result of your own personal reflection.

Homosexuality involves an active par­ticipation or intentions, after all, and thus cannot be a result of anything else. We are all the free will in becoming or not be­coming homosexual.

Choosing a major relies on personal insight

Discovering what course of curriculum suits you best can be a very difficult task. At 18 or 19, most college students find it very stressful to make career decisions that will affect the rest of their lives. In fact, a large percentage do not decide upon a definite major until their junior year; meanwhile, sampling various majors allows them to find the academic niche which is most appropriate for them.

P.O. Box Q

Gay groups deserve campus representation

Dear Editor:
Rather Tyson insists that "formal recognition of GLYNSOC (Gay and Les­bians at Notre Dame) and other college carries with it an implicit sanction for a homossexual lifestyle which is not in keeping with the values of the University or the teachings of the Church." Why not therefore recognize GLYNSOC as a polit­ical and educational organization rather than as a social group? Why not simulta­neously make it clear that official recogni­tion of GLYNSOC in no way commits Uni­versity approval of a homossexual lifestyle?

The homophobia on this campus is pervasive and deeply rooted. It comes not only from students, but also from profes­sors, priests and administrators. As an aggrieved minority, gays and lesbians have every right, perhaps even a moral obligation, to organize and to act in order to combat the discrimination which turns up with such tragic frequency on this campus.

As a university which has long pre­sented itself to the world as Catholic, pro­gressive and respectful of minorities, Notre Dame has its own obligation to fight the homophobia which infects this campus. If we ever hope the campus to be gay friendly, the case of an adolescent who has no magical words that will render consent in the media, it has been shown that despite the apparent sympathy of the free will in becoming or not be­coming homosexual.

SMC soccer on road to battle Marquette

By ANDREA LATRENIERE
Saint Mary's Sports Editor

The 1986 Saint Mary's varsity soccer team opens its season today in Milwaukee against the Marquette women's soccer club, one of the finest women's soccer club teams in the Midwest.

Nine returning team members will lead the Belles in the game, including senior team captains Ann Nora, Theresa Soyk, Tracy Snyder and Mary Anne Peet; juniors R.C. Chandler, Laniyay Clement and Patty Fall; and seniors Ellen Boyle and Bridget Convey.

New members joining the team effort include seniors Marilie Driscoll and sophomores Anne Swierc, along with freshmen Celeste Aquino, Colleen Bierman, Nancy Haskie, Colleen Neco, Caroline Revoll, Melissa Meek, Kathy Revare and Liz Toole.

John Akers returns as Head Coach for the Belles. Assisting him is Notre Dame senior Eric Evans.

Akers concedes that Marquette, who beat Saint Mary's last season by a score of 6-2, will be a challenge for the Belles. He is optimistic, nonetheless, about the competition.

"It's going to be a tough game, and we're going into it without any prior scrimmages, but I think we've got the girls in shape and that we're starting our season against a good opponent," Akers said.

The Belles, whose schedule is filled with tough opponents, have their work cut out for them this season. Last year the first-year varsity team played a lot of club teams. This season, however, the majority of the Belles' opponents are varsity teams.

"We were playing more varsity teams so that we will be eligible for post-season play," Akers said. "In addition, this way we find out right away what varsity soccer is all about."

The Belles hope to improve two aspects of their play when taking on these teams, according to Akers.

"We have two goals," he said. "The first is to be more consistent in our play, and the second is to improve upon our 5-9 record from last year."

The Belles' home opener is on Saturday at Angela Field, where they will face Oberlin. Game time is 2:30 p.m.

Chris Evert Lloyd will try to advance to yet another appearance in the finals of the U.S. Open Tennis Tournament today in her semifinal match against Helena Sukova. See story below for yesterday's results and more match-ups.

Becker cruises into Open semifinal

NEW YORK - West Germany's Boris Becker easily advanced into the semifinals of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships last night, crushing Czechoslovakia's Milan Srejber 6-3, 6-2, 3-6, 6-1.

Becker, the reigning Wimbledon champion, will take on another Czechoslovak, 16th-seeded Miloslav Mecir, in tomorrow's semifinals. The other semifinal will pit yet another Czechoslovak, defending champion and top-seeded Ivan Lendl, against fourth-seeded Stefan Edberg of Sweden.

Earlier yesterday, Mecir eliminated No. 7 Joakim Nyström of Sweden 6-4, 6-2, 3-6, 6-2. The women's singles semifinals on Friday will send top-seeded Martina Navratilova, seeking her third U.S. Open title in four years, against No. 3 Steffi Graf of West Germany, and No. 2 Chris Evert Lloyd, a six-time winner of America's premier tennis event, against No. 7 Helena Sukova of Czechoslovakia.

Becker, seeded third in the 128-player men's singles field, had no problems with his 6-foot-8 opponent, who was booted repeatedly for his uninspired effort. Srejber, the tallest player in professional tennis, repeatedly let Becker's passing shots sail by without even lifting his racket or attempting to try for the ball. One of only two unseeded players to reach the quarterfinals, Srejber spent the entire match hitting his volleys long or into the net - when he did make an effort to go for the ball.

Just color the U.S. Open red, white and blue - the colors of the Czechoslovakian flag. For only the fourth time in the history of the United States Tennis Championships, there are no Americans among the final four in the men's singles. And, for the first time, the semifinal field consists entirely of Europeans.

The last time there were no Americans in the men's semifinals was in 1966 when Samuel Santana of Spain and three Australians - John Newcombe, Fred Stolle and Roy Emerson - advanced to the final four.

The women's semifinals field is only a little bit better, Lloyd being the only native American. Navratilova was born in Czechoslovakia but became a naturalized American citizen in 1981. Just color the U.S. open red, white and blue - the colors of the Czechoslovakian flag.

On Thursday, Navratilova reached the final of both the women's doubles and the mixed doubles.
Bo gives Notre Dame advantage

Associated Press

ANN ARBOR, Mich. - Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler sees Notre Dame will have the advantage when the two teams open their football season Sept. 13, despite the fact that the Wolverines are ranked No. 2 in the nation.

"The problem, as Schembechler sees it, is that Notre Dame has not one, but two new coaches. It's well-known that former Minnesota Coach Lou Holtz has taken over for Gerry Faust. What is less well-known is that former Pittsburgh Coach Foge Fazio has signed on as defensive coordinator for the Fighting Irish.

"The Notre Dame team is a talented ballclub, Schembechler said at a luncheon yesterday. "I know the personnel there. I tried to recruit most of those players. They're all fundamentally sound. They'll be a good team."

"That will be a big plus, knowing their players, because we don't know exactly what Lou will do. We know hes sound, though."

"More important, we don't know what defense they'll use with Fazio. He may put in the Pitt defense or they may use the Minnesota concept."

Schembechler said his coaches watched Notre Dame in spring drills, but said that wasn't very telling.

"They played a 7-2 defense, the Michigan coach said. My word, you might as well have come and watched us in spring drills. With a new defensive guy, you're really getting it on both sides. Well be sparring out there for a while. probably. We'll go in with a plan and go. But, if we see that isn't working, we're going to change it fast and go with something else. So, it's important in this situation that we have versatile players."

Schembechler said the task would be somewhat easier if the game in South Bend, Ind., weren't the opener. That means nobody gets a chance to see what changes Holtz might make with his players.

"I know Lou and I know how he thinks, Schembechler said. But his personnel may force him to do some things he normally doesn't like to do. We are by no means ruling out the option. He may switch quarterbacks and go from Steve Beuerlein (a passer) to Terry Andrysiak (a better running quarterback)."

On the flip side of the coin, Schembechler worries that Holtz knows all there is to know about the Michigan team because he coached against the Wolverines the past few years when he was at Minnesota.

"Lou knows our football. He knows our players," Schembechler said. "He's played them for two years."

"There's no doubt that from a scouting standpoint, the advantage is to Notre Dame."

1-9 record last year. But the third-year coach of the Irish is not taking any chances on a letdown.

"It concerns me a great deal, he said. It would be a sin if didn't play our best this weekend."

"Minnesota is somewhat of a mystery to Notre Dame. The Golden Gophers compiled a 15-4-1 record last year, but were never ranked in the Great Lakes region. This is the first soccer contest ever between the two schools."

IRISH ITEMS: Irish co-captain Jim Flynn is out of the lineup for four to six weeks due to a separated shoulder. The stopper was injured when he got tangled with a Wisconsin-Milwaukee player and fell on the right shoulder. He joins sophomore midfielder Sean Toomey on the sidelines, who must sit out the entire season after undergoing knee surgery during the summer.

Alabama quarterback Mike Shula tries to get away from Ohio State’s Chris Spielman in the Crimson Tide’s victory over Ohio State last week. The Tide takes on Vanderbilt in one of a number of big college football games tomorrow. Story at right.

Top grid games on tap

Associated Press

The calendar says summer is still here but from the looks of Saturday’s attractive college football schedule it could be Jan. 1 just as easily as Sept. 6. Any bowl would be delighted with such matchups as No. 1 Oklahoma vs. No. 4 UCLA, No. 3 Miami vs. No. 13 Florida and No. 8 Nebraska vs. No. 11 Florida State.

In addition, Alabama tries to continue its winning ways in a battle with Vanderbilt. The Tide downed Ohio State in the Kick-Off Classic by a 16-10 score.

Whatever happened to the days when teams would open against what prize fighters call an opponent — someone who might give you a workout for a while but turns out to be a guaranteed victory?

UCLA is the highest ranked team the Sooners have faced in an opener since 1968 when they lost to No. 3 Notre Dame 45-21.

"What day does it feel like summer will be over?" asks Coach Barry Switzer, who was Oklahoma’s offensive coordinator back then.

And for the second year in a row UCLA opens on the road against the defending national champion (the Bruins defeated Brigham Young 27-24 last season).

"The Oklahoma game is a big game nationally," says Coach Terry Donahue, who was the defensive line coach at Kansas from 1967-70 (Oklahoma beat the Jayhawks in each of those four years but three of them were 4-point games). "It’s an exciting event. The players want to play Oklahoma. I don’t think we’re any different than anybody else. "But it’s not going to be a national championship shootout for me. It might be for other people; it’s not for me. I’d rather win a (Pac-10) conference game than a non-conference game."

ND vs. USC Game
After big victory in season opener, ND soccer team is home for two

By PETE GEGEN Sports Writer

The Notre Dame soccer team will open its home schedule this weekend with two games on Alumni Field.

The Irish will first host the Buckeyes of Ohio State on Saturday before taking on the Golden Bears of California on Sunday. Both games start at 1 p.m.

The team enters this weekend’s action fresh off its victory over the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. Because the Panther Slate was canceled this weekend in the Great Lakes region, the Irish now have the opportunity to build on the momentum of a successful season.

“We have the potential to be very good,” said Head Coach Denis Grace. “The chemistry of the team is good right now. That will help us out.”

The team is playing well together at this point early in the season.

“The team is working well together,” noted Grace. “They played really hard, played hard, and hung in tough in this win.”

One player who has noticed the difference is goalkeeper Hugh Breslin. Breslin faced 15 shots on goal, saving six in registering his third shutout of the season.

“It was really a good one,” said Grace. “It was the first time we had hung in tough.”

Senior right tackle Wally Kleine and the Notre Dame defense held off some pressure on opposing quarterbacks this season. Eric Schuemann takes a look at the men in the trenches in his story at right.

Irish look to defensive linemen for improved pass rush in 1986 season

By ERIC SCHUEMANN Special to the Tribune

Perhaps the most vivid memory Notre Dame football fans have of last season is of a ringside seat standing in the pocket with an unlimited pass rush against the Irish secondary.

Defensive Line Coach Joe Yonto, who has led the Irish line from 1960 to 1980, hopes this year’s scenario will be different.

The pass rush is one of the most important tools we’ve been working on,” said Yonto. “To help our coverage we’ve got to put some pressure on opposing quarterbacks.”

Senior Wally Kleine will again occupy the right tackle spot. At 6-9 and 274 pounds, he gives the Irish an imposing look on that side.

“Weekend Wally works extremely hard,” he said. “He’s got a great attitude just like the other guys.”

“Yonto” told some very good things for us - we just have to use our ability.

Sophomore John Guignon and the Irish soccer team open the 1986 home season with games against Purdue and Minnesota this weekend. Pete Gegen has details at left.

New building, facilities in works to benefit students

It won’t be long until yet another construction project begins on the Notre Dame campus. Land has already been cleared north of the Courtney Tennis Courts in order to begin construction on an indoor practice facility for Irish teams.

This new facility will include a new weight room for all varsity athletes, an artificial-turf baseball practice field, a track, batting cages, conference rooms and storage areas, according to Athletic Director Gene Corrigan. Corrigan also mentioned the possibility of adding nets to create driving ranges for the golf team. There will be conference rooms in the new building but no offices other than a building manager’s office.

“Will free up the whole area (in the ACC’s north dome) for student use during the afternoon and evening hours,” said Corrigan. “It will free up the present weight room for student use, and will have a weight student room at each end of the campus.”

Corrigan said that an important factor during the planning stages of the facility was that the building be functional without being extravagant.

“Is not going to be an attractive building,” he said.

For those who might think this is being built solely because of the arrival of Lou Holtz (who has an existing practice facility built when he assumed the head slot at Minnesota), Corrigan said this building has been under consideration for the past five years, and it is only now that the plans have been finalized.

The funding for the new tennis building also has been laid out. Corrigan said that when the two new buildings are completed, a new track has been laid and stands have been added to it through Special Olym-pics’work, and the school has already raised $6.5 million.

Corrigan’s stewardship. During his nine years as Virginia's athletic director, a new baseball stadium, a ta-scan-surface track and an intramural recreation facility were built, the tennis facilities were expanded and 14,000 seats were added to the football stadium.

The new athletic facilities at Notre Dame should be a great benefit to varsity athletes but more so to students who will now have more recreational space that is more convenient to use.

On the other side of sports, this week’s James Walt shoot-yourself-in-the-foot award goes to Sports Illustrated and the NCAA for the report that Notre Dame was under investigation because former Irish football players Allen Pinkett and Greg Dingens appeared in television ads promoting the Army. It’s turned out that some people are embarrassed people at both organizations. The NCAA has since called Notre Dame to apologize for the comment, saying that whoever said that shouldn’t have said it.

Corrigan, the ads were cleared with the NCAA before they aired.

The NCAA and Sports Illustrated have their feet in their mouths. Said Corrigan it was a mistake on both sides. Sports Illustrated got wrong information, and it reflects bad on them.

Sometime, you have to wonder.

In the believe-it-or-not category, just when you think that the NCAA is starting to really take serious action against major violators, 53 - coast 'em - 53 members of the Nebraska football team face one-game suspensions and seven others face two-game suspensions because they gave away their game tickets to people other than family members or students. Nebraska faces the possibility of forfeiting a game somehow along the line this season, pending an appeal. When players at other schools are convicted of stealing stereos, drunk driving and drug posses- sion and are still allowed to play, this NCAA ruling seems not only harsh but absurd.

In the kudos category, congratulations to Ticket Manager Mike Bodenski and his staff at running a much smoother ticket distribution this year than in previous years. Sales were forced to move to gate 10 rather than gate three because of another event in the ACC Field House. This move turned out to be a God’s send because it allowed safe lines from five windows rather than three. Ombudsman’s idea of distributing tickets to those in line at 1 p.m. to avoid a mad rush to the doors when they opened also deserves congratulations. Everyone who stood through the long, slow lines in previous years had to appreciate the ease of this year’s distribution.

And finally in the good luck category, former Notre Dame head coach Gerry Faust takes to the field to- morrow in his first game as head coach of the Akron Zips. Akron has shattered its record for season-ticket holders enthusiasm is running high. This week there was to be a continuous football toss on campus, a traffic sound-a-like contest where are you from? and a salute to the Pioneers for running a much smoother ticket distribution this year than in previous years.
