Reagan administration orders expulsion of 25 UN Soviet diplomats

Associated Press

Washington - The Reagan administration yesterday ordered the expulsion of 25 UN-based Soviet diplomats, but said the action was unrelated to the spy charges Moscow has filed against American journalist Nicholas Daniloff.

State Department spokesman Bernard Kalb said the expulsion was a follow-up to a U.S. decision announced six months ago, to force cutbacks in the Soviets's diplomatic staff. The administration has maintained that the Soviet staff at the U.N. is disproportionately large and engages in spy activities.

For its part, the Soviets have insisted that the required reductions violate the obligations the United States has undertaken as host country.

The names of the personnel affected by the order were reported over to Soviet officials by the U.S. ambassador to the U.N., Vernon Walters. The 25 were given until Oct. 1 to leave the country.

The Soviets U.N. mission immediately assumed that it will resist the order.

"I think there will be a protest," Valentyn G. Karymov, a senior counselor at the Soviet mission, told a reporter by telephone. the diplomats, however, said the U.S. note would first be studied by Moscow before a formal response is made.

While the administration has promised retaliation in the Daniloff case, Kalb was categorical in stating that the expulsion order "is not related" to that issue.

Secretary of State George Shultz had said Tuesday night that the United States has a "plan of action" for dealing with the Daniloff case but declined to give details. He said the issue is "possibly clearest Soviet-American relations.

Last March, the Reagan administration announced that the Soviets would be required to reduce their U.N. staff by from 275 to 170 over a two-year period in increments of roughly 25 every six months.

The 105 to be sent home, a small number would be attached to the staff of two Soviet republics, Ukraine and Byelorussia, both of which have U.N. seats. All 25 affected by yesterday's announcement, however, represent Moscow's delegation.

Kalb refused to say whether any had engaged in spying.

The Soviets have 243 diplomats attached to the U.N. while the two Soviet republics have a combined total of 32.

A U.S. official who asked not to be identified said the Soviet total has dropped below 243, but added that the Soviets have never indicated that any of those who departed did so as a result of the expulsion order of last March.

In any case, he said, the Soviets will be operating under a ceiling of 218 until the United States orders the withdrawal of an additional group of diplomats, presumably next March.

South African tragedy kills at least 177 miners

Associated Press

Evander, South Africa - Weary rescue crews collected the bodies of miners sprawled along a mile-deep shaft that collected the bodies of smoke and of their desperation as a fire was accidentally started by a hose washed just from the hoist by BUD.

The accident occurred just days after the Tuesday edition of the paper reported its best safety auditorium.

A statement said, "It's a clear indictment of the industry."

Two of South Africa's miners called the accident a "very serious matter," said Guanousky said students who "are asked for an invitation to a wall of smoke and must have thought their friends fall dead. "Only about seven of us made it to the surface," said Komiti Meneko, a black driller with one of many lives before the industry may not win," said Guanousky. But "even if you are right, it's worse it isn't worth the face." Their decision, Dedrick said. Bikes can also go on the ACC. Students who use that road to make a detour on their way to campus. The obstruction is expected to last six weeks, Dedrick said.

Dedrick said safety lights will be set up around the construction site to warn students who walk to school. Dedrick said those students should use the road south of Carter Field that runs by gates 7 and 8 of the ACC. Students driving or riding bikes should detour to Bulls Rd., Dedrick said. Bikes can also go on the road south of Carter Field, he said.

Dedrick said he apologized for any inconvenience the construction added.

Students learn of party raid rights

By BUD LUEPKE

Police will continue tooust student rights until citations are contested and precedents set. This was the message Legal Aid brought to a group of frustrated students last night in the Library auditorium.

Mario Zepponi and Glen Guanousky, co-directors of Legal Aid and third year Notre Dame law students, discussed the rights and options students have when caught in a party raid and facing a citation.

Zepponi and Guanousky said they wanted to emphasize that this is a "very serious matter." Guanousky students said thought their rights had been violated should see a lawyer. "But even if you are right, it's going to take time, it's going to take money and even then you may not win," Guanousky said.

Zepponi said if an individual student approaches an attorney with this case, he will probably be advised that it isn't worth the time or the money. "But if a group of students get together chances are it will be more appealing to an attorney. The attorney might handle it for free or at a discount," he said.

María Cíntora, Judicial coordinator for the University, offers legal advice to off-campus party-goers last night in the Library auditorium. See story below.

Judge accepts woman's plea in the case of Kevin Hurley

By MARK DICKINSON

Mary Beth Gallivan, the alleged driver of the car that struck Kevin Copley, 17, yesterday and pleaded guilty to leaving the scene of an accident involving a serious bodily injury.

Judge Joni Frese accepted the plea and now must determine Gallivan's sentence for the Class D felony which carries a maximum prison term of up to 4 years and a $5,000 fine. He is expected to announce his decision on October 27 at 9 a.m. in St. Joseph County Special Court.

Gallivan testified that she was driving north on U.S. 31 at approximately 2:30 A.M. on September 7th and hit something that caused her to lose control of the car. She said she kept on going and later realized the car had hit a person.

That same evening, Kevin Hurley, a Howard Hall freshman, was critically injured after being struck by a car which failed to stop.

When asked if Judge Frese if she had been drinking before her accident, Gallivan replied she had a beer and a half but that she was sober.

By pleading guilty, Gallivan relinquished her right to a trial by jury and left the sentencing to Judge Frese. For sentencing purposes, Judge Frese said he can reduce the felony charge to a Class A misdemeanor in which he would be advised that it isn't worth the face. Their decision, Dedrick said. Bikes can also go on the road south of Carter Field, he said.

Dedrick said safety lights will be set up around the construction site to warn students who walk to school. The recent rash of bombings in Paris hasn't caused too much concern among the students in Notre Dame's Angers program, according to Provost Isabel Charles, director of the University foreign study programs. Angers is more than two hours from Paris, she said, and the students are not traveling at this time.

Charles said Professor Michael Palo, the on-site director of the Angers group, will probably suggest the students don't go into the French capital until things calm down. "It wouldn't be sensible to go into central Paris right now," she added. - The Observer

Terrorists strike fifth bombing site in Paris clothing store demolition

Associated Press

Paris - Terrorists struck the French capital yesterday for the fifth time in 10 days, demolishing a clothing store with a bomb thrown from a car. Five people were killed and 56 injured, authorities said. Three people were killed and more than 100 injured in the previous bombings, which prompted the government to adopt tough anti-terrorist measures. Two groups seeking to free three imprisoned Middle Easterners have issued conflicting claims of responsibility for those attacks.

One woman passer-by was blown apart by yesterday's blast in central Paris, and a witness said another victim was lifted several yards into the air. "It is an incredible sight, many women, children, blood everywhere," said a witness who refused to give his name.

The bomb was tossed from a black BMW carrying two mustached men, one of whom rolled down the window and tossed the bomb at the Tati clothing and textile store in the Montparnasse district, said Laurent Davens, an assistant state prosecutor.

Windows were blown out at several businesses. The sidewalk in front of the Tati store was covered with glass, debris and bleeding victims, many crying out for help. Police cleared a plaza, the Place du 18 Juin, and used it as a helicopter landing pad to evacuate those with the gravest injuries.

"It was terrible," said another witness. "A young woman, her leg cut, had half of her face torn off. You all could see was bleeding bodies."

Premier Jacques Chirac called an emergency meeting of his top security ministers immediately after the attack.

In Beirut, an Arabic statement signed by the Committee for Solidarity threatened to launch attacks in the United States.

A spokesman for the public hospital authority said 19 of those injured in the 5:25 p.m. bombing were in serious condition.

"The most seriously wounded were treated on the sidewalk in front of Tati," said one witness. "I saw people dying."

"It was horrible," said another witness. "A young woman, her legs cut, had half of her face torn off. You could see was bleeding bodies."

In the air."

So far, 44 have been killed and 348 injured in the bombings, about a quarter of whom are French citizens.

JUST ASK ANYONE!
Off-Campus CRIME: was that the lease too?

CAROLINE GILLESPIE features copy editor

It's a weekend. Any weekend. You're out at a party. So are your roommates. Your house is empty. You didn't leave on many lights. You stumble in at 3 a.m. Your back door is missing. Is so your stereo, your television, your bike.....

Crime is a problem of every off-campus student. Life on campus seems so sterile after they had broken into the house. Approximately 10 percent of jewelry and stereo equipment was stolen.

"It was really disgusting to walk in and see it," said one resident speaking of the break-in. "A lot of things were thrown around. I guess they (the burglars) were pretty mad because they didn't get any cash," she said.

According to the residents, the burglars took three tape decks, three Walkman personal stereos and several pieces of jewelry. They broke into a door that was secured only with a chain lock.

"We're upset," said a resident. "We're trying to keep the doors locked.

"I think they tried to break in through a window of that same house. The students living there still do not know whether it was an attempted break-in or not."

The strain of living in a high-crime area was too much for the students.

"We moved out because that kid was still hanging around our house. He would just walk in the front door when we were there and hang out. We didn't feel safe," she said. "We feel that it (the security system in the house) was inadequate and negligent of the landlord."

The residents lost their security deposit when they broke their lease. They are still facing legal counseling in the situation.

Unlike stereo equipment, jewelry does not have a serial number that makes it easily identifiable. Whether or not the residents ever recover their stolen items is up to the South Bend police department. And the residents don't feel that they are getting much cooperation.

Perhaps the University should interact. But in the meantime, it's up to the off-campus students to protect themselves. Simple things like locking the doors and leaving lights on could deter burglars trying to enter.

Many landlords are installing bars on the bottom-floor windows of their houses. They may not look too pretty but if they prevent a burglar from smuggling a stereo out of the house, they're worth their jail-like appearance.

Last week the residents checked back at the station to see if a bag of jewelry that had been recovered was theirs. As it turned out, they were.

They asked the police why there had been no search warrant put out on the boy and the alleged burglar. The officer they talked to did not even know about the incidents of that week.

The strain of living in a high-crime area was too much for the students.

New York downs Cubs to clinch NL East title

Associated Press

New York - The New York Mets, led by Dwight Gooden and rookie Dave Magadan, brought the National League East title home last night with a 4-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Coming off a disappointing 1-4 road trip during which they had b. - - expected to clinch their third division title and first since 1973, Gooden pitched a six-hitter for his third shutout of the season. Magadan, who replace the ailing Keith Hernandez in the lineup, had three hits and two RBI, both times driving in Lenny Dykstra.

Gooden, 15-6, struck out eight and walked five. He lost his shutout bid when Rafael "almiero hit a tw-run homer in the eighth.

On the road, the Mets went 25 consecutive scoreless innings until getting three runs in the third inning of a 4-2 victory in St. Louis on Tuesday night as they reduced their magic number to one. That victory broke a four-game losing streak and was only their second in eight games.

Against Cubs right-hander Dennis Eckersley, 6-10, the Mets broke through in the third inning with four singles. With one out, Dykstra singled to right field, and Wally Backman followed with a single to center that sent Dykstra to second.

Magadan drove in Dykstra as Backman went to third, and, after Gary Carter struck out, Darryl Strawberry hit a single to left, scoring Backman.

The Mets got their third run in the fifth. Dykstra led off with a double and went to third on a sacrifice bunt by Backman.

The Daily Crossword

The puzzle itself, including the clues and answers, appears on the page. The clues are varied, and the answers range from general knowledge to specific definitions. The puzzle is a typical crossword puzzle with a grid of squares, each containing a letter that spells out the name of a word or phrase. The puzzle is designed to challenge the solver's ability to think creatively and logically, using the provided clues to fill in the blanks with the correct words.

The puzzle is not a particularly difficult one, with most of the clues being straightforward and the answers being common words. However, there are a few more challenging clues that require some lateral thinking, such as the clue for "singer" which is "pop, rock, or country." The answer, of course, is the singer's name, but the clue is phrased in a way that requires the solver to think beyond the obvious answer.

Overall, the puzzle is a fun and engaging way to exercise the mind and improve vocabulary skills. It's a great way to pass the time and challenge oneself, and the answers are provided in the solution section at the end of the page.
McCourt drives home three goals as Irish soccer team earns 4-1 win

By PETE SKIKO
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame football team isn't the only fall squad exhibiting an aggressive new look. Yesterday, the men's soccer team, led by junior Bruce McCourt's three goals, exploded past Northwestern-1-1), at Alumni Field.

McCourt, who leads all Irish scorers with 14 points in only five games, spearheaded a devastating offensive attack. Throughout the game, play remained in outmanned Northwestern's end, pleasing Head Coach Dennis Grace.

"We just put on a clinic today," beamed Grace, in his third year guiding the Irish.

With 10 minutes left in the first half, McCourt broke the ice by taking a feed from sophomore Randy Morris and firing low to beat goalie Jeff Carlisle. The first half ended with Irish scoring opportunities eluding the Irish.

Scotty Friedman brought the Wildcats even on a header, Northwestern's only shot on goal, from Dirk Klemm at the 10-minute mark of the second half. But the Irish answered just 30 seconds later with freshman Rolfe Behrje tallying after Morris chanced down a pass from midfield, juked a defender, and centered perfectly to put the Irish up 2-1.

Senior Pat Sanuto, Notre Dame's sixth all-time leading scorer, fired an unmarked McCourt right in front of goalie John Breitweiser. McCourt's shot hit the second bar, and forward tapped in for a 3-1 lead. Junior Steve Lowrey found McCourt in a crowded penalty box with seven minutes remaining. McCourt got his third hat trick, drilling a shot past a diving Carlisle.

"We're playing pretty well right now," said McCourt, "but we've got a long road ahead of us, starting with Michigan State in East Lansing on Friday. I just hope we can keep playing with intensity."

"He's going to take a total defensive effort to contain him," said Irish linebacker Mike Kovaleski, who led last Saturday's fine defensive performance which held Michigan backfield Jamie Morris in check.

Notre Dame senior Tom Rehder lined up in the unfamiliar offensive-guard position Saturday against Michigan, after playing most of his college football at tight end. Terry Lynch features the versatile athlete in his story at right.

When Tom Rehder stepped onto the field last Saturday, he found himself in a much different position than the tight end spot he had been used to in the last two seasons. Instead of lining up to catch passes, the 6-7, 250-pounder from Santa Maria, Calif., was deep in the trenches at left offensive guard.

And while the change wasn't exactly the most radical switch on the Irish football team, the fact that Rehder was lining up against one of the most noted players in the country didn't make anything easy.

"I think I did all right," said Rehder, "but I was a confidence builder for me. I didn't have to worry about starting, but it was a lot more physical at the new position.

"I was happy with the way I played, but at the same time I know I still have a lot of work to do."

"Dedication to hard work is nothing new for Rehder, and the techniques that frequency are used to describe him include "consistent and unselfish." His smooth transition and inspired play in spring practices earned him the Hering Award, given to players who best exhibit unselfish team attitudes.

However, notoriety might be a little harder to find at left tackle as opposed to right end, where Rehder recorded 13 receptions for 182 yards and a touchdown in the '85 season. He also played more minutes than any other Irish receiver, starting in nine of the 11 games.

So when Rehder opened spring practice last year with Lou Holtz, putting big numbers on the board for the Irish offense, Holtz in his senior campaign and perhaps following in the footsteps of Mark Bavaro had to look somewhere in the back of his mind.

"Well, I did watch Bavaro a lot," he said.

"I was a hard-nosed tight end. But my selling point as a tight end had more to do with the fact that I'm big and easy to block, and also that I can block."

"Coach Holtz talked to me a few times during the spring, and decid-ed I'd help the team more at left tackle. There were three things I had to work on. One, I had to put on 30 pounds. Two, I had to be close to 400 pounds as I could (Rehder says he's up to 370 now). And the third thing was that I had to keep my feet moving."

"He said that if I could achieve a good combination of weight and speed, I'd be a fine left tackle," Rehder continued. "At tight end I was known for size, not speed. If there's a chance for me to move on, it'll be at this position. It's working out, but I've got a lot of work ahead."

ND must face Lorenzo and possible letdown

The Big 10 is coming, and the Notre Dame football team is more than a bit concerned.

"There's really no way to stop him," said Irish head coach Lou Holtz of L, number one.

"I'm anxious to see how well he responds to it," said Holtz of L, number two.

Who are the 'L's, and why have they been the elusive team or any team that can reproduce his style of runn­ing. Practices, therefore, are of little real benefit."

It's difficult finding a guy on the prep team to give you the type of look White gives you," said Holtz.

Perhaps the only thing tougher than White to practice against has been the natural letdown in intensity that ac­curs after a team plays a highly emotional game. That the Irish were fired up for their contest with Michigan was evident to everyone in attendance, and after a tough loss it would be natural to drop a few notches on the in­tensity meter.

"After a tough loss it's more difficult to get up for another tough game," said Holtz. "We know we have to play that schedule and get up for every game. And on the first time, you don't know how a team is going to react on the road.

"But I think this team is going to react very positively and play very well," said Holtz.

"After the Michigan game," noted Kovaleski, "some of the fans and students told us that we had played a great game. But it doesn't satisfy us. We want to win. The Arizona State defense really did a good job against Michigan State and Lorenzo White (the Sun Devil held White to 61 yards in last Saturday's 20-17 victory), and for us to do the same it will take that same team effort."

The Irish have practiced on the astroturf field behind the ACC all week in an effort to prepare for the condi­tions they will face Saturday on the artificial turf of Spar­tan Stadium.

Of particular concern to Holtz is that his defenders learn to read the cuts of ballcarriers and receivers. Holtz feels this is especially crucial in containing White, who uses the harder surface to make sharper cuts.

"An average back will make a sharper cut on astroturf," said Holtz. "People make cuts on it that you just don't see on grass fields. You can have Lorenzo in your grasp and then lose him. You must pursue well and then tackle him when you get there."

EXTRA POINTS

Kovaleski's great performance against Michigan, in which he make 17 tackles despite suffering a swollen ankle in the first quarter, earned him AP Midwest Defense­ive Player of the Week. Kovaleski is listed as probable for Saturday's game...Less fortunate is senior safety Mike Haywood, whose calf muscle strain will probably force him to miss the game with the Spartans. The Fran­cisco brother, tailbacks Hiawatha and D'Juan, should be able to suit up on Saturday, as也比较...
