Students' awareness of rights tops Judicial Council agenda

By BUD LUEPKE

The Judicial Council is working toward greater student awareness of their rights and options regarding University violations, according to the council's second meeting of the year held last night.

Judicial Coordinator Maria Cintron said the council was called to hear the various committee reports. "We wanted to check to see how everything is going, to touch base. Most of the work is going on in the committees," Cintron said.

A letter requesting legal aid at cut rates with alcohol violations or intimidators will be sent to over a hundred lawyers. The Legal Services Committee which is preparing the letter, said a similar letter prepared last year received only two responses, so that this year's letter would be reworded.

The Judicial Council also voted unanimously for the publication of a pamphlet explaining students' rights and penalties concerning rooms, possession of cars and academic dishonesty. Cintron reported that the cost of publication would be $800.

The Committee on Rector Relations discussed plans for a meeting for new rector candidates. Experienced rector candidates would offer the new rector ideas for fitting a judicial board to the campus, Cintron said.

The Publicity Committee said it is planning ads to let students know more about their judicial board's activities as well as Judicial Council business. Cintron said she will send a letter to all student representatives. The letter, said Cintron, will encourage them to refer students who are in trouble with the University to her. Cintron said she can advise students on the best course of action and prepare them before they meet with the Office of Student Affairs.

The Judicial Council is composed of the Judicial board chairmen from each hall and one off-campus member.

South African miners threaten to curtail purchases of U.S. grain

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The South African foreign minister warned two U.S. farm state senators his country would immediately end purchases of U.S. grain if the Senate overrides President Reagan's veto of economic sanctions against South Africa. Sen. Richard Lugar said Wednesday night South Africa had "made it abundantly clear" it would not purchase U.S. grain.

Lugar, R-Ind., called the action by Foreign Minister Pik Botha "despicable" and an unacceptable intrusion into Senate business that amounts to "frilly and intimidation."

Lugar, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the two senators - Edward Zorinsky, D-Neb., and Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, - were called to the telephone in the Senate Republican cloakroom by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., who was a strong opponent of the sanctions.

According to Lugar, Zorinsky said the South African foreign ministry told him that the moment you override the veto on wheat shipments bound for South Africa, "the whites will immediately ban U.S. grain imports."

Lugar said Botha also declared that South Africa would react to the override of the veto by barring its ports to U.S. grain shipments bound for the so-called frontline black African nations, some of which are landlocked and all of which are largely dependent on South Africa for transportation facilities.

"I believe that all Americans, and especially American farmers, will condemn foreign bribery and intimidation to change the votes of the U.S. Senate," Lugar said.

He said South Africa has turned to the American grain market and increased purchases of U.S. grain in the aftermath of sanctions imposed by Canada and Australia, which also are major grain exporters.

"We are being bribed because others have had moral courage and done what they should have done," Lugar said.

Lugar said he believes the White House lacks the votes to override the veto and said, "I feel confident the veto is a U.S. abstract dovked exclusively to students' rights and penalties concerning rooms, possession of cars and academic dishonesty. Cintron reported that the cost of publication would be $800.

The Committee on Rector Relations discussed plans for a meeting for new rector candidates. Experienced rector candidates would offer the new rector ideas for fitting a judicial board to the campus, Cintron said.

The Publicity Committee said it is planning ads to let students know more about their judicial board's activities as well as Judicial Council business. Cintron said she will send a letter to all student representatives. The letter, said Cintron, will encourage them to refer students who are in trouble with the University to her. Cintron said she can advise students on the best course of action and prepare them before they meet with the Office of Student Affairs.

The Judicial Council is composed of the Judicial board chairmen from each hall and one off-campus member.

South African miners threaten to curtail purchases of U.S. grain

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The South African foreign minister warned two U.S. farm state senators his country would immediately end purchases of U.S. grain if the Senate overrides President Reagan's veto of economic sanctions against South Africa. Sen. Richard Lugar said Wednesday night South Africa had "made it abundantly clear" it would not purchase U.S. grain.

Lugar, R-Ind., called the action by Foreign Minister Pik Botha "despicable" and an unacceptable intrusion into Senate business that amounts to "frilly and intimidation."

Lugar, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the two senators - Edward Zorinsky, D-Neb., and Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, - were called to the telephone in the Senate Republican cloakroom by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., who was a strong opponent of the sanctions.

According to Lugar, Zorinsky said the South African foreign ministry told him that the moment you override the veto on wheat shipments bound for South Africa, "the whites will immediately ban U.S. grain imports."

Lugar said Botha also declared that South Africa would react to the override of the veto by barring its ports to U.S. grain shipments bound for the so-called frontline black African nations, some of which are landlocked and all of which are largely dependent on South Africa for transportation facilities.

"I believe that all Americans, and especially American farmers, will condemn foreign bribery and intimidation to change the votes of the U.S. Senate," Lugar said.

He said South Africa has turned to the American grain market and increased purchases of U.S. grain in the aftermath of sanctions imposed by Canada and Australia, which also are major grain exporters.

"We are being bribed because others have had moral courage and done what they should have done," Lugar said.

Lugar said he believes the White House lacks the votes to override the veto and said, "I feel confident the veto is a U.S. abstract dovked exclusively to students' rights and penalties concerning rooms, possession of cars and academic dishonesty. Cintron reported that the cost of publication would be $800.

The Committee on Rector Relations discussed plans for a meeting for new rector candidates. Experienced rector candidates would offer the new rector ideas for fitting a judicial board to the campus, Cintron said.

The Publicity Committee said it is planning ads to let students know more about their judicial board's activities as well as Judicial Council business. Cintron said she will send a letter to all student representatives. The letter, said Cintron, will encourage them to refer students who are in trouble with the University to her. Cintron said she can advise students on the best course of action and prepare them before they meet with the Office of Student Affairs.

The Judicial Council is composed of the Judicial board chairmen from each hall and one off-campus member.

South African miners threaten to curtail purchases of U.S. grain

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The South African foreign minister warned two U.S. farm state senators his country would immediately end purchases of U.S. grain if the Senate overrides President Reagan's veto of economic sanctions against South Africa. Sen. Richard Lugar said Wednesday night South Africa had "made it abundantly clear" it would not purchase U.S. grain.

Lugar, R-Ind., called the action by Foreign Minister Pik Botha "despicable" and an unacceptable intrusion into Senate business that amounts to "frilly and intimidation."

Lugar, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the two senators - Edward Zorinsky, D-Neb., and Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, - were called to the telephone in the Senate Republican cloakroom by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., who was a strong opponent of the sanctions.

According to Lugar, Zorinsky said the South African foreign ministry told him that the moment you override the veto on wheat shipments bound for South Africa, "the whites will immediately ban U.S. grain imports."

Lugar said Botha also declared that South Africa would react to the override of the veto by barring its ports to U.S. grain shipments bound for the so-called frontline black African nations, some of which are landlocked and all of which are largely dependent on South Africa for transportation facilities.

"I believe that all Americans, and especially American farmers, will condemn foreign bribery and intimidation to change the votes of the U.S. Senate," Lugar said.

He said South Africa has turned to the American grain market and increased purchases of U.S. grain in the aftermath of sanctions imposed by Canada and Australia, which also are major grain exporters.

"We are being bribed because others have had moral courage and done what they should have done," Lugar said.

Lugar said he believes the White House lacks the votes to override the veto and said, "I feel confident the veto is a U.S. abstract dovked exclusively to students' rights and penalties concerning rooms, possession of cars and academic dishonesty. Cintron reported that the cost of publication would be $800.

The Committee on Rector Relations discussed plans for a meeting for new rector candidates. Experienced rector candidates would offer the new rector ideas for fitting a judicial board to the campus, Cintron said.

The Publicity Committee said it is planning ads to let students know more about their judicial board's activities as well as Judicial Council business. Cintron said she will send a letter to all student representatives. The letter, said Cintron, will encourage them to refer students who are in trouble with the University to her. Cintron said she can advise students on the best course of action and prepare them before they meet with the Office of Student Affairs.

The Judicial Council is composed of the Judicial board chairmen from each hall and one off-campus member.

South African miners threaten to curtail purchases of U.S. grain
Crime, not student parties, tops neighborhood problems

The South Bend Tribune printed an editorial Tuesday concerning underage Notre Dame students and Indiana's 21 drinking law which I feel was rather specious. I won't even get into arguments against the current naive and inflexible conservative American attitude which is the root of such impractical laws limiting the rights of adults age 18 to 20 to consume alcohol. The law's poor is consistent with the attitude above and con- sumption among people under 21 speaks for itself.

No, what really bothers me about the editorial titled "P.D. and drinking" is its argument that off-campus problems are in no way a genuine nuisance to residents of the northeast neighborhood. That is undoubtedly true. I'm not trying to persuade anyone that noise until dawn and beer cans litter- ing his yard the following morning is desirable.

No, what bothers me is specifically this para- graph: The South Bend Police Department and state police are following a much sterner policy (about cracking down on student parties in the northeast neighborhood) this year. Students should try to understand that this approach is a response to citizen complaints. Police are paid to protect those citizens. That protection includes doing something about unacceptable noise, unruly behavior, littering and even public urination. Few of those complaining would wish this problem visited on their own families.

Yeah, and I'd bet few of those students com- plain about others families who rob their neigh- bors.

I'm so glad the South Bend Tribune is worried about protecting those citizens of the northeast neighborhood from us destructively students. I mean, if those citizens weren't able to get their eight hours sleep, they might not be alert enough to steal our stereos, jewelry and kitchen appliances from our rented houses. Remember, the Tribune says: "Police are paid to protect those citizens. Paid from what? The gains of illegally acquired goods?"

I realize it's not fair to generalize. Not every resident of the northeast neighborhood is a thief. Just some of them.

South Bend residents might be more upset over student parties than about the rampant crime in the area because students are transient. Maybe students don't pay city property taxes (although those who hold jobs may income taxes), but the large economic support base the University pro- vides South Bend more than compensates for that point. I doubt anyone would argue that students should be denied police protection because they are not permanent residents of the area, but I do believe the South Bend Tribune believes this is not as serious a problem as student parties. Otherwise they would have printed an editorial that might have said something like this:

The Observer (USPS 192-2000) is published Monday through Friday except during exam and other periods. The Observer is published by the students of the University of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College. Subscriptions may be purchased for $60 per year ($25 per semester) by writing The Observer, P.O. Box Q, Notre Dame, Indiana 46556.

The Observer is a member of The Associated Press. All reproduction rights are reserved.
Daniloff cites Reagan's concern as key to release and homecoming

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Nicholas Daniloff told President Reagan Wednesday that if it hadn't been for Reagan's "very deep and personal interest" in his case, he probably would have been kept in the Soviet Union for years.

Reporter Daniloff, spending his first full day in the United States, met briefly with Reagan at the White House before the two made a joint appearance in the Rose Garden. They were joined there by Nancy Reagan, who stood next to the reporter, and Daniloff's wife, Ruth, and Daniloff's children, Miranda, 23, and Caleb, 16.

Reagan defended the arrangement with the Soviets that led to Daniloff's freedom, saying: "I don't think there's a crying in at all." Daniloff had been arrested Aug. 30 by the KGB and charged with spying in the Soviet Union.

Asked whether U.S. Soviet relations are back on track with Daniloff's release, the president said, "We'll find out in about 10 days." That was a reference to the planned meeting in Iceland Oct. 11-12 between Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

The meeting, described as preliminary discussions to a formal summit, was part of the deal ending in Daniloff's release.

Daniloff, 51, praised Reagan for his involvement in the case. "This is a very complex situation, and if it hadn't been for President Reagan taking a very deep and personal interest in my case I would probably be some years before I could stand in front of you and say, 'Thank you, Mr. President.'"

Earlier, Daniloff was given a warm welcome by co-workers in the lobby atrium at U.S. News & World Report. He said he was pleased with the welcome from colleagues who clapped, cheered and extended their hands. "I didn't know so many people worked here," Daniloff said. He would thank Reagan and the American officials "who, I think, turned themselves inside out to get me my freedom."

He was arrested in Moscow Aug. 30 for espionage charges, which the administration said were phony.

The principal lesson Daniloff said he learned from his experience was that the American system emphasizes the importance of and the dignity of a single individual.

The journalist arrived in the United States Tuesday, a day after Washington and Moscow worked out a multi-part deal that included a Reagan-Gorbachev meeting in Iceland Oct. 11-12.

The arrangement also called for the release of accused spy Gary A. Hartman, to the Soviets. Zakharyot, a Soviet employee at the United Nations, flew back to Moscow after he pleaded no contest to espionage charges.

Clarification

A quote by Lisa Lawler in yesterday's Saint Mary's Programing Board resolution was unclear. She said that under the proposed revision of parietals at Saint Mary's, it would be the student's responsibility, based on an honor system, to see that men are out of the dorms. It would not be the resident assistant's responsibility, Lawler said, "(the parietals honor system) works at Notre Dame, why couldn't it work here?"

SMU SCHOOL OF LAW
Dallas, Texas

Professor Regis W. Campbell, BBA, Notre Dame; L.L.B., University of Virginia; Chairman of the Notre Dame Estate Planning Institute, will be on campus TUESDAY, OCTOBER 7 from 7 to 9 pm in Rooms 104 and 104A of O'Shaughnessy Hall to talk with students about admission and financial assistance. All interested students are welcome to meet with Professor Campbell during this time.

Researchers develop new AIDS drugs

Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS - Two new approaches to fighting the AIDS virus, including a drug ordinarily given to arthritis victims, have provided encouraging but preliminary results, researchers said Wednesday.

D-penicillamine, a medicine used against severe rheumatoid arthritis, blocked the AIDS virus from reproducing when given to infected but outwardly healthy men.

"We are approaching this as a way to protect people who are currently infected," but have not yet developed the disease, said Dr. Richard Schiffrin of the George Washington University.

The doctors gave the drug for six weeks to five homosexual men who had swollen lymph glands and other signs of the disease. Three of them remained free of the virus six weeks after they stopped taking the drug.

A major drawback of the therapy, however, was suppression of the men's T-cells, the same variety of white blood cells that are attacked by the AIDS virus. T-cells are key components of the body's immune system.

"This is a very preliminary study, but it clearly showed antiviral activity," said Schiffrin. "We are trying to look for a drug that is more tolerable on a long-term basis."

The study was presented at a meeting of the American Society for Microbiology, along with a report on another new AIDS drug that has not yet been tested on people.

This medicine, called CS-85, appears to work similarly to AZT, the first drug found to change the course of AIDS. Dr. Peter Schinazi, who developed CS-85 at Emory University, said it appears to be less toxic than AZT. Although it doesn't cure the disease, it prolongs the patient's life and reduces the overwhelming infections that result from the destruction of their immune systems.

However, AZT also suppresses bone marrow cells that produce blood cells. Schinazi said that in the test tube, CS-85 is as effective as AZT at halting the AIDS virus. And it appears to be 10 to 100 times less toxic.
$556 billion package kept intact by Senate

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Senate wrestled Wednesday with the major spending bill of the new fiscal year, but the coming U.S.-Soviet summit was damping prospects for speedy enactment.

Trying to finish work by next week to head for the campaign trail, the Senate was keeping its $556 billion spending package clean of amendments. In a series of votes, it turned down proposals to add a sweeping new farm program, seniority protection for airline employees and new rules for tenant-management of public housing.

Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., said he wanted to pass the bill by the weekend, so compromise talks with the House could begin Wednesday, under a stop-gap spending measure signed into law by President Reagan.

However, it appeared a House-Senate detente would be difficult and an extension of the temporary measure would be necessary. House Democrats were stalling Wednesday, under a stop-gap spending measure signed into law by President Reagan.

In a series of votes, it turned down proposals to add a sweeping new farm program, seniority protection for airline employees and new rules for tenant-management of public housing.

Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., said he wanted to pass the bill by the weekend, so compromise talks with the House could be completed early next week. Congress has given itself until Oct. 8 to approve the spending program for fiscal 1987, which began Wednesday, under a stop-gap spending measure signed into law by President Reagan.

The House approved a House-Senate detente would be difficult and an extension of the temporary measure would be necessary. House Democrats were stalling Wednesday, under a stop-gap spending measure signed into law by President Reagan.
Illinois Governor James Thompson wades through high water as he inspects areas ravaged by heavy flooding. Northern Chicago suburbs have suffered extensive damage during the past week. Details of the flooding are covered in story at right.

THE THOMAS L. WHITE CENTER FOR LAW AND GOVERNMENT

 Presents a lecture by Professor Edward M. Gaffney Loyola Law School, Los Angeles on

 "The Religion Clauses: Disentangling Entanglement and Relieving the Tension"

Friday, October 3 at NOON

 Room 101 Law School

---

Wygant Floral CO. Inc.

 "Flowers for all occasions"

 Come in and Browse

 327 Lincolnway

 232-3354

---

HAIRCUT SPECIAL!!

 Ken's Den

 Guys and Gals $10

 Monday - Thursday

 with Beth and Leslee

 ND/SMC students only

 703 Lincolnway West, Mishawaka

 (across from Hacienda)

 265-6500

---

Over 3,500 homeless in Midwest flooding

 Associated Press

 More rain fell Wednesday across the Midwest and Plains, where flooding has left more than 3,500 people homeless, and Oklahoma's National Guard was asked to help in one county where "some people are cut off and trapped."

 A partially ruptured dam in Wisconsin remained standing, but leaking, and hundreds were believed still away from their homes in flooded northeastern Montana, but the water was receding in some communities.

 One man died Wednesday when he was swept from his stalled pickup on a bridge in Oklahoma, and another was missing and presumed dead in Illinois. One person died last week in Montana.

 One Kansas man spent the night in a tree after his car was washed away.

 Flood-ravaged northeastern Illinois got gentle rain Wednesday, but 2 to 3 inches fell during the morning in hard-hit Oklahoma, and southern Missouri got 5 inches. Heavy rain also fell in Indiana and Ohio. The National Weather Service reported Tuesday totals of up to 15 inches in parts of northeastern Oklahoma, nearly half the usual annual precipitation.

 A hole in the earthen portion of a dam on Lawrence Lake near Westfield, Wis., expanded Wednesday, then stopped growing as the lake level dropped after flood gates were opened.

 Nearly 200 residents of Westfield, a town of about 1,000 people, allowed to return home Wednesday, were ordered out again in the afternoon, then let back home again after the hole stopped growing. They were first ordered out Tuesday out of fear that the concrete slab forming the lake side of the dam would not hold.

 Water coming through cracks in the concrete had eroded a hole estimated at 65 feet by 25 feet in the earth piled against the face of the dam.

 Asbestos to be removed from schools

 Associated Press

 WASHINGTON - Congressional negotiators agreed Wednesday on legislation ordering the safe but costly removal of cancer-causing asbestos from up to 30,000 public schools around the country.

 "This is landmark legislation," said Sen. Robert Stafford, R-Vt., chairman of the Environment Committee. "This will be a big victory for the country."

 "This is the sleepier environmental legislation of the year," said Rep. James Florio, D-N.J., the chief House negotiator on the bill. "We've been able to get it with bipartisan support and cooperation."

 Within hours, the House en­

dered the legislation, a compromise version of separate plans passed by the House and Senate to strengthen efforts to end health threats to as many as 15 million children and 1.5 million school employees.

 Stafford, speaking at a news conference, predicted easy Senate approval within a week, but the bill's future with the Reagan administration was another matter.

 The Environmental Protection Agency issued a statement supporting the bill's goals but listing its reservations about its "many regulatory requirements." EPA said it would decide in the next few days whether to recommend a veto to President Reagan.

 EPA currently only requires that public schools be inspected for the presence of crumbling and unstable asbestos, which can release airborne fibers that over a length of time cause a variety of lung ailments, including cancer.

Dear Editor:

I write with a sense of unease. The students swarming towards a despicable, hallmarks of the establishment are equally important than having a good job and doing a good job at it.

It's easy to lose your perspective when you're on the job market or even after you're on the job. The world becomes fuzzy when they're pushed beyond the desire to excel and the struggle to the top. Sometimes it's hard to remember just what exactly you're doing. Clients become job numbers and co-workers become obstacles to success.

I have a recent experience that really put the perspective back into what I was doing this summer. I was clerking at a law firm in my hometown and was assigned a fairly broad range of cases. I almost always spoke of my cases according to the legal theory involved in each. The client, who was the real reason I was doing all this work to begin with, was essentially only as far as he gave a title to the case I was working on. I knew the names of all my clients and had met or spoken to most of them well. But to some degree they weren't really people, they were just legal theories.

One of my cases involved a client who had been ripped off in a contract for the sale of some animals. I had met with the client a couple of times and had spoken to him over the phone. Yet, he never spoke of his case as "Mr. X's case," but always as "the negligent misrepresented case." The client was just the guy to whom the theory applied.

One day toward the end of summer, this client's 15-year-old son was killed in a freak automobile accident. The attorney who was handling the case was out of town, so I had to go to the funeral home to represent the firm. It was, without question, the worst thing I have had to do. I faced a summer, but I taught me more about being a lawyer than probably anything I could ever do in the office or in the library. The funeral home wasn't filled with documents and exhibits and depositions. It wasn't even filled with the defendant, the opposing counsel or the witnesses. It was filled with people - real people, my people, my client included. He was no longer just a legal theory, he was a real man, a man with a family he loved, a man with regular everyday problems just like myself. For some strange reason; I never thought of him as just a regular client, a man who goes home and sits down at the dinner table with his family each night or sits up wondering what time his kids will be in. I saw him as one of the other members of his family. I remembered that all summer I had been representing a man, not just a legal theory.

I got back a lot of my perspective on my future career there in that funeral home, perspective that had once been firmly implanted in my idealistic mind but had been lost in the day-to-day workings of my law firm before I had even gotten out of school. I re-discovered that helping the client really is what being a lawyer is all about, no matter how distant the client seems from behind the desk.

Now, today, as I sit down to plan for more interviews, that perspective begins to sneak away again. The temptation of the big dollar sometimes makes me turn to sections of the firm resumes rather than to the section that describes the atmosphere of the firm or the kind of work it does. The temptation of a prestigious firm pulls me away from the simplicity of my Hoosier roots and toward the hidden traps of the big city.

I don't want to make my career decision based on how much money I'm going to be making or how famous my new firm is. I'm not crazy, either - I'd be lying if I said salary won't be a factor in my final choice. I just don't want it to be the factor that determines how I finally decide. Still, the temptation to go for the big money haunts me, and I can't figure out why.

Maybe if I took off this damn red tie...

That's more like it.

Mike Wilkins is a seventh year law student and is a regular Viewpoint columnist.

---

P.O. Box 0

Ridiculously large lines make eating difficult

Dear Editor:

I would like to use this opportunity and public forum to extend a heartfelt thanks to the anonymous administrative whiz who, thinking only of the students in the finest Judeo-Christian tradition of selflessness, designed Pole Dame's dining hall system. When I and countless thousands of other equally glutinous students swarm towards a disposable, or gluttonic feeding frenzy after 12:05, we are saved from our own base, self-destructive cravings by a system which forces us to recognize the emptiness and bankruptcy of our own self-indulgence. A huge crowd daily gathers at the dining hall clamoring for entrance and hedonistic consumption. The system, however, resists the pressure of these masses and admits only a trickle of students. The food crazed youths, who otherwise faced a 1:15 class, become discouraged by the size of the crowd and abandon their vile, contaminated mission.

Some leftists may claim that enforced good behavior strips the individual of free will and cheats the free market system. In my case, I scoff at these ill-plied secularists who would sell our futures for a vat of veal marangos. The furtherance of moderate living is a noble achievement, regardless of the means.

Thanks again to that far-sighted administrator and the system he created.

Eoghan McGill
Howard Hall

Doonesbury

Quote of the day

"Winners are just losers who gave it one more try."

Dennis DeYoung

Garry Trudeau

America's most watched cartoon strip

The Observer

P.O. Box 0, Notre Dame, IN 46556 (219) 239-5303

The Observer is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame and its students. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration of either institution. The news is reported as accurately and objectively as possible. Unsigned editorials represent the opinion of the majority of the Editorial Board. Commentaries, letters and the inside front page present the views of their authors. Column space is available to all members of the community and the free expression of varying opinions on campus, through letters, is encouraged.

November 3, 1986

Editor-in-Chief: Joe Murphsy
Managing Editor: Kevin Becker
Sports Editor: Dennis Corrigan
Faculty Advisor: Mary Culligan
Business Manager: Eric Scheuermann
Controller: Alex VonderHaar
Production Manager: Chris Bower
Photography Manager: James Carroll
Art Director: Antonia Horsley
WebMaster: Mark Pankowski
Classified Editor: Howard Hall
Copy Editor: Margie Karsens
News Editor: Tripp Baltz
News Editor: Mary Jacoby
Graphic Arts Manager: Donna Weimholt
GCM Manager: Mark Weimholt

Founded November 3, 1986
Kevin D. Walsh

Features writer

Most of my albums tend to gradate toward a certain point in the week or time of the year where they just seem to naturally belong. R.E.M. is a Sunday afternoon band. I only listen to the Bongos in the fall and Prettab Sprout loses something if played in the middle of the summer. I would never listen to the Ramones on a Wednesday. It just wouldn't seem right.

Positively Dumptruck, the Boston band’s second album, is another of these albums. Right now it seems to be pretty much the daily news of the day. Pomposity and too much pretension. Even though a few band a while ago, but after too long Morrissey and too much... I mean I have a thing for those guys. So it’s been a good two year rest and I can handle hearing them again.

The Smiths really aren’t that bad. Despite lead singer and main lyricist Morrissey’s delicate... I mean he’s a pretty enjoyable pop album. Though he can’t handle... Where the hell were you... I think of anyplace you’ve been or... It’s pretty resentful.

Tim Adams

Features writer

Tim Adams

After listening to The Queen Is Dead, the latest album from England’s mega-popular band the Smiths, I have to admit that these guys aren’t as pathetically cliché as they think they are. I really enjoyed this band a while ago, but after too long Morrissey and too much... I mean I have a thing for those guys. So it’s been a good two year rest and I can handle hearing them again. The Smiths really aren’t that bad. Despite lead singer and main lyricist Morrissey’s delicate... I mean he’s a pretty enjoyable pop album. Though he can’t handle... Where the hell were you... I think of anyplace you’ve been or... It’s pretty resentful.

Kevin D. Walsh

Features writer

Most of my albums tend to gradate toward a certain point in the week or time of the year where they just seem to naturally belong. R.E.M. is a Sunday afternoon band. I only listen to the Bongos in the fall and Prettab Sprout loses something if played in the middle of the summer. I would never listen to the Ramones on a Wednesday. It just wouldn’t seem right.

Positively Dumptruck, the Boston band’s second album, is another of these albums. Right now it seems to be pretty much the daily news of the day. Pomposity and too much pretension. Even though a few band a while ago, but after too long Morrissey and too much... I mean I have a thing for those guys. So it’s been a good two year rest and I can handle hearing them again. The Smiths really aren’t that bad. Despite lead singer and main lyricist Morrissey’s delicate... I mean he’s a pretty enjoyable pop album. Though he can’t handle... Where the hell were you... I think of anyplace you’ve been or... It’s pretty resentful.

Tim Adams

Features writer

Tim Adams

After listening to The Queen Is Dead, the latest album from England’s mega-popular band the Smiths, I have to admit that these guys aren’t as pathetically cliché as they think they are. I really enjoyed this band a while ago, but after too long Morrissey and too much... I mean I have a thing for those guys. So it’s been a good two year rest and I can handle hearing them again. The Smiths really aren’t that bad. Despite lead singer and main lyricist Morrissey’s delicate... I mean he’s a pretty enjoyable pop album. Though he can’t handle... Where the hell were you... I think of anyplace you’ve been or... It’s pretty resentful.

Tim Adams

Features writer

Here’s a pretty enjoyable pop album. Though he can’t handle... Where the hell were you... I think of anyplace you’ve been or... It’s pretty resentful.

Kevin D. Walsh

Features writer

Most of my albums tend to gradate toward a certain point in the week or time of the year where they just seem to naturally belong. R.E.M. is a Sunday afternoon band. I only listen to the Bongos in the fall and Prettab Sprout loses something if played in the middle of the summer. I would never listen to the Ramones on a Wednesday. It just wouldn’t seem right.

Positively Dumptruck, the Boston band’s second album, is another of these albums. Right now it seems to be pretty much the daily news of the day. Pomposity and too much pretension. Even though a few band a while ago, but after too long Morrissey and too much... I mean I have a thing for those guys. So it’s been a good two year rest and I can handle hearing them again. The Smiths really aren’t that bad. Despite lead singer and main lyricist Morrissey’s delicate... I mean he’s a pretty enjoyable pop album. Though he can’t handle... Where the hell were you... I think of anyplace you’ve been or... It’s pretty resentful.

Tim Adams

Features writer

Tim Adams

After listening to The Queen Is Dead, the latest album from England’s mega-popular band the Smiths, I have to admit that these guys aren’t as pathetically cliché as they think they are. I really enjoyed this band a while ago, but after too long Morrissey and too much... I mean I have a thing for those guys. So it’s been a good two year rest and I can handle hearing them again. The Smiths really aren’t that bad. Despite lead singer and main lyricist Morrissey’s delicate... I mean he’s a pretty enjoyable pop album. Though he can’t handle... Where the hell were you... I think of anyplace you’ve been or... It’s pretty resentful.

Kevin D. Walsh

Features writer

Most of my albums tend to gradate toward a certain point in the week or time of the year where they just seem to naturally belong. R.E.M. is a Sunday afternoon band. I only listen to the Bongos in the fall and Prettab Sprout loses something if played in the middle of the summer. I would never listen to the Ramones on a Wednesday. It just wouldn’t seem right.

Positively Dumptruck, the Boston band’s second album, is another of these albums. Right now it seems to be pretty much the daily news of the day. Pomposity and too much pretension. Even though a few band a while ago, but after too long Morrissey and too much... I mean I have a thing for those guys. So it’s been a good two year rest and I can handle hearing them again. The Smiths really aren’t that bad. Despite lead singer and main lyricist Morrissey’s delicate... I mean he’s a pretty enjoyable pop album. Though he can’t handle... Where the hell were you... I think of anyplace you’ve been or... It’s pretty resentful.

Tim Adams

Features writer

Tim Adams

After listening to The Queen Is Dead, the latest album from England’s mega-popular band the Smiths, I have to admit that these guys aren’t as pathetically cliché as they think they are. I really enjoyed this band a while ago, but after too long Morrissey and too much... I mean I have a thing for those guys. So it’s been a good two year rest and I can handle hearing them again. The Smiths really aren’t that bad. Despite lead singer and main lyricist Morrissey’s delicate... I mean he’s a pretty enjoyable pop album. Though he can’t handle... Where the hell were you... I think of anyplace you’ve been or... It’s pretty resentful.

Kevin D. Walsh

Features writer

Most of my albums tend to gradate toward a certain point in the week or time of the year where they just seem to naturally belong. R.E.M. is a Sunday afternoon band. I only listen to the Bongos in the fall and Prettab Sprout loses something if played in the middle of the summer. I would never listen to the Ramones on a Wednesday. It just wouldn’t seem right.

Positively Dumptruck, the Boston band’s second album, is another of these albums. Right now it seems to be pretty much the daily news of the day. Pomposity and too much pretension. Even though a few band a while ago, but after too long Morrissey and too much... I mean I have a thing for those guys. So it’s been a good two year rest and I can handle hearing them again. The Smiths really aren’t that bad. Despite lead singer and main lyricist Morrissey’s delicate... I mean he’s a pretty enjoyable pop album. Though he can’t handle... Where the hell were you... I think of anyplace you’ve been or... It’s pretty resentful.
Sports Briefs

The Observer

The NDM-SCMC Book Club will hold its first organizational meeting tonight at 7:30 in Room 218 Rockefeller Memorial. All interested students are invited to attend. For more information call Jeff Sayre at 272-2216.

The Observer

Two hydrobatics classes are being sponsored by NVA this semester. Monday and Wednesday evenings, participants meet at 6:45 for an hour of acrobatics in the water. Tuesday and Thursday at 12:15 p.m. there's a half-hour class. Call 239-6100 to sign up by one of the classes for more details.

SMC soccer drops pair

By JANE SHEA

The Saint Mary's soccer team suffered two more losses at home last weekend, bringing its record to 4-0-1.

On Saturday the Billikens showed no mercy against DePaul in a 4-1 defeat.

The sole Saint Mary's goal was scored in the first half by freshman Molly Peetan. At halftime, the score was 1-0, but the Billikens were playing well.

"They've got two good players," said coach John Akers, "but dominated 45 minutes of playing time."

The Billikens simply were unable to score the necessary goals.

"We could not get the ball into the net," Akers said.

On Sunday, Saint Mary's took on Nena Heights and lost 3-0. (They [Siena Heights is a lot of pressure on us early and were holding us to the ball," said Akers.

The Observer

Notice

NOTICE

TYPING-WRITING

283-1483

Professional service and typing.

802 Whitehead St.

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

FOR THE SECOND YEAR A

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.

David Bloomfield

272-2216

WE TAKE CHARGE OF THE GIFTS.
Bobb continued from page 12

"Strong safety is just like an extra linebacker - he’s closer to the line," says Bobb, comparing to the free-safety spot. "But I wasn’t the physical type. I possessed finesse. I always seemed to be able to make the play."

Change was in the air when spring drills began. The other side of the line of scrimmage was off-limits to Bobb. "We were friends," he says. "I had alot of doubt, I weighed only 185 pounds, but they wanted to try me as a corner back."

The fullback position presented two problems for Bobb. One problem was he had not played the position since high school, and was slightly rusty on technique. The other was the competition against Pernell Taylor, who was just coming off knee surgery. "We were friends," he says. "It seemed like we were battling each other for the third fullback spot."

Bobb saw action in the Purdue and Michigan State games on defense. He also is on the punt and punt-return teams.

"Sometimes I feel uncomfortable. It seemed like it was coming between Pernell and I being friends. "I tried to keep his confidence up," he continued. "But then Pernell really came out of his shell, and the coaches decided to move me back."

He did not see any action his junior year while he improved his academic standing. But he continued to work out with the team, this time as a corner back.

"My name is Bobb," he says with a slight hint of a British accent. "James Bobb. Agent double-O 19. Licensed to stick."

"I seemed like we were battling each other for the third fullback spot."

"Sometimes it is comforting to know he is on Notre Dame’s side."

Toledo pummels SMC

BY MARISA KOSLA

Sports writer

The Saint Mary’s tennis team fell to the University of Toledo on Tuesday, 9-0.

Toledo, a heavily-favored NCAA team, played strong tennis according to Saint Mary’s coach Deb Laverie.

"Toledo played an aggressive match," she said. "We could have played better."

The Belles, 5-4 for the season, still have their goals set for a flawless MIAA season. Despite the loss to Toledo, several players showed consistency. In her match against Lisa Donnelly, Saint Mary’s freshman Jennifer Block lost a tight first set, 7-5, and fell in the second set, 6-0.

"Although they lost, Kate and Jennifer played tough," said Laverie. The Belles are preparing for this weekend’s Saint Mary’s College Invitational, where they will play host to Butler, DePauw, St. Francis, Valparaiso and the University of Chicago.

"We are confident for the invitational," Laverie said. "We look forward to playing hard tennis."
NEW YORK - After five straight 100 RBI seasons, outfielder Dave Winfield of the New York Yankees isn't looking for accolades, only peace and quiet.

"I really would like next year and any successive year to play the game without it," Winfield said of his constant verbal battle with Yankees' owner George Steinbrenner. "You don't have to praise me and pat me on the back, just leave me alone in a supportive atmosphere.

"I don't know if I would consider this extending a palm leaf, but it would be interesting to be supportive and see what kind of productivity I could get."

Winfield, who signed a $23.3 million, 10-year contact with the Yankees before the 1981 season, is closing out another productive season and one of the stormiest years with Steinbrenner in the pair's often turbulent relationship.

When Winfield knocked in two runs in Monday night's 8-1 victory over Toronto, he became the first Yankees' player to drive in 100 runs five consecutive seasons since Joe DiMaggio had a seven-year streak between 1936-1942.

His .263 average, 24 homers and 102 RBI going into Wednesday night's game have kept Steinbrenner quiet on Winfield lately. But when Winfield was the last Yankees' player to report to spring training this season, Steinbrenner was upset.

"It tells me something about the man," he said.

A .222 average at midseason had the right-handed hitting Winfield benched against right-handed pitchers, at Steinbrenner's insistence, although the .34-year-old outfielder was named to the starting lineup for the American League in the All-Star Game.

The All-Star selection gave Winfield a chance to fire back, wondering aloud how an all-star player could be sitting on the bench.

"I still try to treat baseball as a game and try to have fun," he said. "But sometimes it becomes so much of a business that it isn't fun. I don't want to have to deal with defending myself. I think I do pretty well every day."
Today

Bloom County

Famous Last Words
From Friends To Friends

"Are you OK to drive?
What's a few beers?
Did you have too much to drink?
I'm perfectly fine.
If you're gonna drink and boat,
just park it at the bottom of Lake Michigan."
Kevin 'Captain Nemo' says:

"If you're gonna drink and boat,
just park it at the bottom of Lake Michigan.
DRINKING AND DRIVING CAN KILL A FRIENDSHIP

Focus on America's Future
Help Prevent Birth Defects

March of Dimes

SAB presents

48 HRS.
Wed. Oct 1st & Thurs. Oct 2nd
7:00, 9:00, 11:00
Engineering Auditorium $1.50
No Food or Drink Permitted

SAB Presents:

EDDIE MURPHY IN
BEVERLY HILLS

Far Side
Gary Larson

Just a word of warning, Myron — if you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."

The Daily Crossword

ACROSS
1. Singer Johnny
5. Stop
10. Hyde Park vehicle
time: 15:00
14. — boys!
15. Fortified
16. Jacob's son
17. Look to be
18. Domain
19. Soon
20. All
22. Assigning
24. Lascivious look
26. Invited state
27. Capital of Britain
Cable
28. Hibernian
35. Maecenas
36. Young haddock
38. Bewitch
39 — Fen
40. Ancient astronomer
41. "La Boheme": heroine
42. Superlative ending
43. Song
44. Nuncupative
45. Navigation system
47. Treat a different way
50. Okla. city
52. Boss. abbr.
53. Element in light bulb
57. Mock
59. Siberian range
61. Ham.
62. Bread spreads
64. Blue pencil
65. Mountain lake
66. Board game
67. — meter
68. Singer Paul
69. Nobel chemist
70. — we forgot
71. "Hot corner"
DOWN
1. Crate
2. Egyptian
der. deity
3. Galley mark
4. "Born again, all hope
5. Enter here."
6. "Come, My Lord, all hope
7. Ye enter here.
8. At the lawyer.
9. What you've
10. Invited.
11. Meaning: "Bonnie and Clyde",
"Color Purple"
12. "Are you
13. "What's a few beers?"
14. "I'm perfectly fine."
15. "Help Prevent Birth Defects
16. "March of Dimes
17. "What you've
gonna drink and boat?
18. "Just a word of warning, Myron —
19. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
20. "If you're gonna drink and boat,
21. "If you're gonna drink and boat,
22. "Just a word of warning, Myron —
23. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
24. "If you're gonna drink and boat,
25. "Just a word of warning, Myron —
26. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
27. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
28. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
29. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
30. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
31. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
32. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
33. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
34. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
35. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
36. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
37. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
38. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
39. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
40. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
41. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
42. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
43. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
44. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
45. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
46. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
47. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
48. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
49. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
50. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
51. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
52. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
53. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
54. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
55. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
56. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
57. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
58. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
59. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
60. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
61. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
62. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
63. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
64. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
65. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
66. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
67. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
68. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
69. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
70. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
71. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
72. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
73. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
74. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
75. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
76. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
77. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
78. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
79. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
80. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
81. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
82. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
83. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
84. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
85. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
86. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
87. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
88. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
89. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
90. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
91. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
92. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
93. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
94. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
95. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
96. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
97. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
98. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
99. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."
100. "If you miss, I'm comin' after your big hazel."

SAB presents

48 HRS.
Wed. Oct 1st & Thurs. Oct 2nd
7:00, 9:00, 11:00
Engineering Auditorium $1.50
No Food or Drink Permitted

SAB Presents:

EDDIE MURPHY IN
BEVERLY HILLS

Cisco

Friday Oct. 3rd
Saturday Oct 4
7:00, 9:00, 11:00
Engineering Auditorium
$1.50
Sports

ND volleyball earns four-game win despite 'trash' from Lady Saints

By RICK RIEBROCK / Sports Writer

Notre Dame head coach Art Lambert was angry about trash last night. He thought the kind that gets hauled away in a truck.

Instead, it was the St. Francis Lady Saints that got a win over the Irish in their first meeting since the NCAA came back to sweep the last three games.

"It was trash, but if it works it’s smart," said, referring to the St. Francis attack. "They knew where we were vulnerable, but I think we adjusted to it fairly well the rest of the way.

St. Francis came flying out of the gates in game one and scored first, but the Irish came back to steal the match. The Irish were caught off-guard and found themselves a half-step too late on most shots as they dropped a 15-13 decision.

The second game, a 15-5 Irish victory, featured the combination of freshmen setter Taryn Collins and sophomore Taryn Ray Walter and a lot of sloppy play. Walter finished with eight kills to go along with a bunch of blocks, but Lambert could not forget the sloppiness.

"Different referees call different types of games, but that second game just got away," he said. "I thought that one hit was a forward pass.

In the third game, the Lady Saints started to self-destruct and Notre Dame continued to get stronger. An all-around better effort featured some good blocking from Janette Bennett and Green Street, and the solid passing of Collins paved the way to a 15-7 Notre Dame win.

Game four had "out" written all over it as the Irish jumped out to an 8-3 lead behind good work from Kathy Morin, Sheen and Bennett. But poor passes, missed serves and a final surge by St. Francis tied it at eight.

Bennett then went on a binge with four aces and the Irish cruised to a 15-8 win.

Lambert said this match showed them what needs to be done to move up one notch in its performance.

"A good team has got to make adjustments to the style of the opponent and the referees," he said. "Once we learn to do that, we’re going to be a fine team.

The Irish will put their 1-0 North Star Conference record on the line against two tough conference opponents this weekend with Marquette visiting on Friday. Both Kathy Cunningham and Whitney Shewman, who sat out last night’s game because of tendinitis in their knees, should be ready to play this weekend.

The matches are at the ACC Pit beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Licensed to stick

Bobb gaining fame in starting role

By PETE GEGEN / Sports Writer

Though he only started in his first game last week, the James Bobb Fan Club is already forming.

Bobb, a senior free safety for the Boilermakers, played his first game in a starting alignment in the 41-9 Notre Dame victory. He recorded three tackles and broke up a pass on fourth-and-goal play against the Boilermakers.

But the group that watches Bobb’s every move on the field also knows him away from the football field. The group is made up of Bobb’s friends and family. Bobb worked at Logan Center.

It’s hard to imagine not hearing about Logan Center as a freshman, and I was curious to see how my son would adjust to The Observer

The kids got hooked on Bobb earlier this season. They made a giant banner for the home games which read, “James Bobb – 19 Go Irish.” And the entire group will be in attendance color at the Penn State game to cheer on the Irish and Bobb.

The children from Logan are not the only ones to recognize Bobb on the field.

"Free safety is his natural position," noted Irish secondary school Terry Forbes. "He helps to have a man of the character like Jim Bobb has. He gives his best effort, has good skills and good speed for a free safety, and he has the ability to hit."

After stifling the safety, fullback, and cornerback positions, Bobb is back at his original position.

"It’s nice for the secondaries to be two-deep, for the second teams to play just as well as the first teams," said Bobb on sharing the position. "I really don’t mind."

Irish sweeper Pat Szanto cut the lead to 2-1 with a goal at the 73:08 mark off a set play run by forward Bill Gross.

Notre Dame, however, hurt itself when it deflected a punt from Loescher past keeper Hugh Breslin into its own net with only two minutes left to play. Loescher was credited with his second assist of the afternoon on that goal.

Bowling Green tops Irish in physical contest, 3-1

Special to The Observer

In a physical contest, the Notre Dame soccer team lost to Bowling Green, 3-1, yesterday in Ohio. A total of 59 fouls and seven yellow cards were called against both teams.

After taking a 1-0 halftime lead, Bowling Green’s Tomkad scored a goal at the 67:27 mark after taking a punt from his keeper, Mickey Loe- scher.

Irish sweeper Pat Szanto cut the lead to 2-1 with a goal at the 73:08 mark off a set play run by forward Bill Gross.

Notre Dame, however, hurt itself when it deflected a punt from Loescher past keeper Hugh Breslin into its own net with only two minutes left to play. Loescher was credited with his second assist of the afternoon on that goal.

CFA thriving on strong relationship with TV networks

By PETE SKINO / Sports Writer

(Editors note - Today The Observer continues its three-part series on the College Football Association and its impact on college football. Today’s second part takes a look at the CFA and television.)

The College Football Association has burst onto the scene in the last three years and has put itself on the map as a bidding war for network television con-

The CFA

CFA is thriving, and one of the main crops spurring it on to increasing popularity has been and will continue to be its excellent relationship with the television networks.

"The CFA today," said Notre Dame Athletic Director Gene Corrigan, "is known more than anything else as being a television entity. It essentially negotiates television contracts for 63 schools.”

In 1981, several CFA schools tried to strike out on their own and organize a separate television package with NBC.

Corker

When the NCAA threatened these schools with sanctions such as probationary status in other major sports if the NBC deal went through, the CFA launched and won an antitrust lawsuit.

From that time on, the CFA has held good standing with the networks.

Up until this year, ABC and ESPN have covered CFA contests. However, the CFA is now in the process of wrapping up a four-year deal with CBS and ESPN.

With the new deal, their contracts with ABC and ESPN have covered CFA contests. However, the CFA is now in the process of wrapping up a four-year deal with CBS and ESPN.

Corrigan agrees and understands that the deal of this magnitude is a step in the right direction for the CFA and college football in general.

"We are extremely satisfied with the new contract," said a spokesperson for Chuck Pelliss, executive director of the CFA. "Although the deal hasn’t been finalized yet, we’re confident that the present terms will be settled upon without a hitch, and that both parties will benefit substantially.

The CFA

The CFA

Jim Bobb

Free safety

"What we see is we put together," said Corrigan, "is financially good for our 63 schools because of the great national exposure they’ll receive. I’d really like to see moving in the same direction for the benefit of college athletics. We’re disappoint ed in the Pac 10 and the Big 10, but overall, I’m very pleased.

Since the formation of the CFA, the Pac 10 and Big 10 conferences have refused to join the group, and next year ABC plans to televise games involving those conferences. This side-kicks Corrigan, not because of the competition, but because of the implications of the move within the sport itself.

"The last thing we need," said Corrigan, "is their conferences against the CFA in a bidding war for network television con-contrists. If their try with a major network flops because there are fewer teams (20 against the CFA's 63) and no eastern teams involved, it’s not good for the sport and it’s not good for the CFA.

The CFA

But with more cable television possibilities yet to be explored and the uprising of a new four-year deal in the offing, there is plenty of promise in the CFA camp. This year Notre Dame/Michigan game attracted the largest television audience for a regular-season college football game in three years.

"I wonder they’re optimistic," "No," said Corrigan, "I don’t foresee the CFA’s downfall for quite a while. (tomorrow: The CFA and its impact on colleges, including Notre Dame)"